W. H. KERR, Editor and Publisher.

Devoted to Teaching the New Discovery and Founding the Church of Humanity.

Vol. 1. Great Bend, Kansas, January, 1904. No. 2.

The Church of Humanity.

The Christian Educator and God's Defender will try to be true to its name. It will try to represent the noble purposes, objects, faith and hope of the Church of Humanity.

Those who graduate in the knowledge of God by affirming their belief that he is a myth and apply for membership in the Church constitute the Church of Humanity.

Until enough members can be collected to justify organization and the election and support of officers I will temporarily assume the duties and title of International Instructor for the Church of Humanity.

When enough members are secured to support a National Instructor without being a burden on them, one will be secured to do field work for the Church.

For the present our united energies will be directed to gathering the graduates in the knowledge of God into the Church. To this labor of love we will bend all our energies, and I hereby appoint each member of the Church of Humanity a committee of one in his or her locality to make diligent inquiry for those who are nearest ready to graduate in the knowledge of God and call their attention to this Church, what it stands for and represents, its objects and aims and place in their hands copies of this paper, which, for the present, will be the official organ of the Church of Humanity.

Ask them to unite with us and add their number and influence to this great undertaking for the cause of humanity, progress and civilization.

W. H. KERR.

Wanted.

Fifty financial pillars for the Christian Educator and God's Defender.

Will you be one of them?

This is not a big task I am asking you to do. We are not wanting money but subscribers. We must have more subscribers or suspend. As publishers we are shut out of the U. S. mails until we get more subscribers.

Help us in and save us for the good work we are doing.

You can do this by the following plan:

Date subscriptions to 10 of your relatives and friends one year $2.50. Take a bundle of 10 yourself for free distribution one year, $2.00. Total $4.50.

Do this and it will give us access to the mails as publishers and save this much needed EDUCATOR. Demonstrate to other churches that we too will work and sacrifice for the cause we love and they will stop taxing us.

Demonstrate to the politicians that we have the ability to organize and they will not treat us with contempt.

Demonstrate to our mothers, brothers and sisters that we too believe something strong enough to win support of our pocketbooks they will respect our belief.

Let us not fail in this good work for want of this much support.

Send in the orders for these papers before January 20th if possible.

A list of the financial pillars will be given in the February number.

The Christian Educator and God's Defender is the official representative of the Church of Humanity. It is read by preachers and members of all churches. It seeks to eliminate hatred and abuse in religion and anti-religious discussions. It's mission is to teach the people the truth about God and defend those who learn it. It seeks to build up the Church of Humanity for a refuge and church home for both preacher and lay members who out-grow in wisdom the creeds and teachings of other churches. It's usefulness is only limited by its circulation.

It in turn must depend on the Church of Humanity for its main support and circulation.

It will try to merit this support in the gallant, honorable defense of its members.

The International Lessons should be read by the people of every creed.

This paper should be taken in connection with religious and free-thought papers.

I donate the C. E. and G. D. to a number of relatives and friends. If after you read a few issues you do not wish it sent to you, please notify me and your name will be checked off the list.

CHICAGO'S GREAT HOLOCAUST.

Iroquois Theatre Burned—Out of 1300 Men, Women and Children, Dead 582; Missing 385; Injured 130.

In behalf of the church I sent the following expression of sympathy to Mayor Harrison:

The Church of Humanity extends through you its deep sympathy to all your people who are mourning the loss of loved ones in the great calamity that has befallen your city. W. H. KERR, Temporary International Instructor for the Church of Humanity.

The truth that God is a myth has been brought home to the people of Chicago with dreadful emphatic force. Had he been a real being how easily he could have prevented it, or had he not have done so what a wicked, heartless being he would have been. In view of this catastrophe he would not be worth to any one of our race, the paper his name is written on

Had God been a real being as the clergy describe him to be with foreknowledge of events and power to communicate with us he would have been an accessory before the fact and guilty of manslaughter in the first degree. In that case he should be condemned by mass meetings of the mourners as a public enemy and hanged in effigy.

Not one of the mourners should ever again worship or pretend to love him; they should never again give one penny to have him proclaimed their father, savior, protector or friend.

A God who could look with complacency upon this holocaust with power to have prevented it would be a fiend and the worst enemy our race could possibly have and be deserving of nothing but universal condemnation.

But thanks to our progression and civilization we now know God to be a myth and absolutely blameless for inaction in the rescue of humanity from such infernos.

We should all rejoice that God's true nature is discovered so we will not blame him for our misfortunes.

It would be an awful example to set the earthly fathers in disregard for their childrens' lives had not our heavenly father been discovered to be a myth. To deny that God is a myth and represent him as infinitely more kind, loving, sympathetic and watchful over us as his children than our earthly father is a libel on paternal love and a blasphemy on the name of father.

No matter what apologies and excuses other churches present in God's defense at the graves of these helpless victims of the flames, they are only the repetition of absurd nonsense handed down to us from an age of ignorance, idolatry and superstition and are as worthless as they are untrue.

The Church of Humanity proclaims the truth that God is a myth and that is ample and the only vindication possible to be given in God's defense that completely exhonorates him.

The Church of Humanity is getting in position to save children from idolatry.

Hundreds of christians are watching us to see if we have the ability to organize.

If we can organize the Church of Humanity, the value of that object lesson to the christians will be beyond computation.

If a child is taught that God is a myth it will grow up to be just as good a citizen as the child that has idolatry imposed on it.

The members of the Church of Humanity are not subjects for conversion to the worship of myths named God, Christ, Holy Ghost, etc.

Music lessons for your children costs you from 50c to $1.00 a lesson. I offer to give them 24 lessons in the knowledge of God for 25c, any one of which is worth more to them than all the music lessons they can take.

Unbounded Enthusiasm and Inspiration.

I wish I had a square yard of space in which to spread before you just a sample of the letters of cheer and encouragement that have reached us in the last few weeks from nearly every state in the union. It would do your heart good to read them. Why, even Alice, the baby of the office, not six years old has caught the inspiration from these letters and works like a little beaver at folding the papers preparatory for wrapping.

One of the most important keys to success is to so build the Church of Humanity as to provide work that our women and children can do. Then in a very few years we will have just as enthusiastic workers as are those of any other church.

understand the relation of these things to what she teaches? She surely does not or she would not be engaged in teaching that there is a real God who loves us, for these records flatly contradict it. I call the special attention of the christian mothers, if any there be who hate the Church of Humanity, to the two little girls, Katherine and Mildred, who were burned to death. A God who would not care for these poor little children would not care for yours or mine. It is impossible that a God could care for them in another world, if there was such place, who did not care for them in this world. It is utterly impossible that a God could care for their souls, if they had such things, whatever they are, who could not care for their bodies. It would be utterly impossible for these little girls to suffer more in hell, no matter what or where you think it is, than they did when burning to death. Dear mothers! there is not a member of the Church of Humanity who would not have saved those little girls had it been in their power to do so.

Why then should you hate those who have the will but not the power, and love God who you believe has the power but not the will? In the presence of these poor little charred bodies the glorification of God is only the rehearsal of meaningless fable, and altogether out of line with the intelligence of our age.

The Church of Humanity will not be deceived by an organized system of apologetics, hyperbole and sophistry to bolster up the idols of decaying mythologies.

The theory that the bodies of these little girls were not them and not worth saving or caring for is not tenable. They and their bodies are identical, the same as the horse or tree.

In the presence of these little bodies no excuses can save God from utter contempt and hatred, but the truth. And by the side of these little bodies the Church of Humanity proclaims the truth and offers the only explanation that exonerates and defends God against the accusation of being a living reality with ample powers to have saved these little children from their sad fate.

God is a myth like Santa Claus. If you believe this affirmation of the Church of Humanity you are ready to graduate in the knowledge of God and I urge you to apply at once for a certificate of graduation and membership in the Church of Humanity. Fill out the following blank application and return it to me. I will then record it in the Book of Life and send you a certificate of graduation in the knowledge of God and membership in the Church of Humanity.

Bible Lesson.

(By The International Instructor for the Church of Humanity.)

It is useless to read the bible for the purpose of judging of its truthfulness, unless one is mentally free to weigh its statements correctly and base his or her judgment thereon without fear of punishment or hope of reward.

A decision obtained under duress is not worthy the paper it is written on. A decision rendered under the influence of a bribe is equally worthless.

If you believe there is a real God who will torture you in a lake of fire if you fail to render a decision in accordance with some one else's, it is not necessary to read the bible at all since you know in advance what your decision must be and that what you read must have no effect on it.

Were you accused of stealing a horse and the plaintiff held the judge over a vat of boiling oil with the threat of dropping him in if he did not convict you, you would want to appeal from a conviction rendered against you under such circumstances.

Your decision that God is a real being and will send you to hell and every one else who fails to believe so, is worthless since you are coerced.

In the horse stealing case if the plaintiff offered the judge a fine house and lot for convicting you would you think your conviction fair and just?

If you believe God is a real being and that he will greatly reward you for thus believing, your belief is worthless since you are bribed. In the study of God both fear of punishment and hope of reward must be eliminated in order to arrive at a true decision free from bias.

In order to free ourselves from the fear of punishment and hope of reward from God in the study of his nature as portrayed in the bible it is very necessary to first understand what Gods are—their nature and power to harm or reward.

This preliminary preparation for the study of God's character must of necessity be presented by an instructor who understands the subject to be taught. Therefore our first lesson will be a preliminary one and consist of explaining what Gods are and why they are worshiped—the word Gods include the christian's God.

CATECHISM FOR BEGINNERS.

What are Gods?

Gods are real or imaginary objects to which have been attributed imaginary powers and attributes.

Why are Gods worshiped, feared or loved?

Because of those ficticious powers, man has attributed to them.

What real objects have been worshiped as Gods?

The sun, fire, crocodile, white elephant, sacred ox, man, trees, volcanoes and perhaps most every thing at some time has been worshiped by some people.

What imaginary objects have been worshiped?

God, Holy Ghost and the Gods that some of the days and planets are named for and many others.

Why are not all these Gods still worshiped?

Because the people have learned the true nature of some of them.

What have they learned that causes them to discontinue worshiping Gods?

They learned that these Gods did not possess the powers attributed to them.

When will the people cease worshiping God?

As soon as they learn he is not a real being, but that he and all powers attributed to him are fictitious.

Can God harm anyone?

No! He is a myth like Santa Claus and can harm no one.

Can God bless and help anyone?

No, a myth can do nothing for us.

Did not God create man in his image?

No, man created God in man's image.

In the image of what kind of a man was God created?

Man created God mostly in the image of a very bad man.

What are some of the qualities or nature of a bad man that were given to God?

Man endowed God with self-conceit, egotism, secrecy, sensuality, cruelty, wickedness, vindictiveness, pitylessness, madness, passionate, unrelenting, vanity.

How many Gods has man created?

Man has created hundreds of Gods.

How are Gods created?

Man creates Gods by attributing to real or imaginary objects powers and qualities they do not have.

Why were Gods created?

In man's ignorance of the causes of phenomena surrounded him he created gods to account for them.

Who are the principal creators of God?

The man who pretend or imagine they have communication with God and then report what God told them.

By what names do we know these men?

Saviors, prophets, saints, revelators, priests and preachers.

Name a few of the most famous ones with the Christians.

Abaham, Moses, Jesus, John the Revelator, Peter and Paul.

Who are the lesser but perhaps more efficient creators of God?

Parents, nurses, Sunday School teachers.

How do they create God?

They create God in the minds of children by describing him and telling what he wants them to do and what not to do and the rewards for obedience to his commands and punishment for disobedience.

Every one who tells anything about him that represents him as being a real being to that extent are helping to create him just as Santa Claus is created in the minds of children.

Is God made by man in the same way he makes Santa Claus?

God is made by man just as he makes Santa Claus, but God is a much older myth and some of the fables told about him by the ancients in oral traditions were in the course of time reduced to manuscript form with other legions and current history of the people mixed with it.

Later some of these manuscri were collected and put in one book which we know as the Bible.

[TO BE CONTINUED]

We are now prepared to begin the study of God as he is portrayed in the bible and measure him correctly without the least fear of him harming us or the possibility of him giving us a bribe.

W. H. KERR.

There are many states not yet represented in the church. Who will be the first to represent them?

The graduates in the knowledge of God have not the least desire to rob, murder and commit suicide as the clergy predicted the people would do if they ever learned that God is a myth.

An Introduction.

Introducing the Church of Humanity to the clergy:

I take great pleasure in introducing to the clergy the members of the Church of Humanity.

I know you will be pleased to make their acquaintance and surprised at their high moral character and ideals.

You have been greatly misinformed as to the desires, wishes, purposes, hopes and faith of these people.

Laboring under this erroneous impression, or misinformation, people of your profession have for ages unmercifully abused, slandered, vilified, persecuted, prosecuted and tortured people of this belief.

They in turn, driven to desperation, at to them, apparently wilful refusal to try to understand them, have retaliated to some extent in like manner.

We are all glad to know we live in a happier age and that we can now apply civilized humane, honorable methods of procedure on both sides.

If we cannot all see alike we recognize our limitations and envionments and inability to learn it all and look with benign toleration on those who are honestly striving to know the truth though they arrive at an opposite conclusion.

When you understand these people and the honest efforts they have made to learn the truth you will never again abuse them if you have done so in the past.

A very large part of the duties of this little messenger is to acquaint you with these people so you will understand the humane treatment they deserve at your hands.

Now listen while I read from The Book of Life the record of honorable occupations: Doctor, farmer, miner, scholar, housekeeping, magnetic healer, writer, real estate, carpenter, florist.

Are these the occupations of the "low" and the "vile"? Are these the occupations of the "totally depraved" of the "slums" and the "gutters" as those of your profession have generally represented them to be? I read again from The Book of Life the records of their previous church affiliations:

Roman Catholic, Lutheran, none, Baptist, German Lutheran, Methodist Episcopal, Presbyterian.

Are these the people from "benighted heathen lands who never heard the story of Christ and Him crucified" as those of your profession have claimed they are who disbelieved the story?

Let us read from the record their nationality: American, French, German, Norwegian, Belgian, Danish. This record shows they were well favored with opportunities for learning the stories christianity has to tell.

What then is the reason they do not believe all its stories? I will inform you.

They are representatives of that large class of intelligent citizens of these countries who wish to know the truth about God. Having found it they are not willing to hide it by putting it under a bushel and pretending they do not know where it is for fear of abuse from those who have not found it.

While on their knees praying for God to reveal himself to them and give them wisdom they hardly expected to have it fed to them with a spoon so they looked around some and investigated for themselves, thinking that was the only way to get their prayers answered.

In their search for truth they did not confine themselves to hearing the same story over and over, but read and listened to what others had to say who claimed the stories to be fabulous. From these they learned how geography, astronomy, geology and other sciences contradicted the christians stories rehearsed in the Bible and behind the pulpit.

They found the claims of these sciences could be demonstrated and proven to a great extent.

To this evidence they added to their own observations and experiences.

Like honorable judges, free from the fear of harm or hope of a bribe, they decided in accordance with the preponderance of evidence.

Is not this a just and praiseworthy course to pursue in seeking truth?

These people are not Atheists, infidels or Agnostics but graduates in the knowledge of God and where they graduate from christian churches, as a majority of these have done, they are christian graduates in the knowledge of God. By these designations you will know them. They are forming a union or society under the appropriate name, Church of Humanity, for the purpose of getting in position to hire instructors to teach what they have learned about God, that he is a myth like Santa Claus. This teaching is to be conducted on a high moral plane, free from abuse the same as the sciences are now taught. This church is designed when organized, to furnish society for their children, free from the worship of God, where they will be taught good morals and good manners.

You will recognize first, that they are in no manner responsible for God being a myth. Second, that they were within their rights and duties in learning that truth. Third, that it is perfectly legitimate to organize for the purpose of teaching it.

Now all I ask of you in behalf of these people is that you extend to them the same treatment, consideration and respect you ask for yourselves.

UNITE! UNITE!!

[PETITION TO THE EDITORS OF THE FREE-THOUGHT PRESS.]

We the undersigned members and friends of the Church of Humanity, readers of Freethought papers and desiring a union of the readers of all those papers under the name of the Church of Humanity, respectfully petition you to publish the monthly report of the Church of Humanity, the International Lesson and the subjoined blank application for membership in the Church of Humanity from the Christian Educator and God's Defender that your readers may know where and how they can unite in one society and that you encourage them to do so.

NAME	POSTOFFICE	STATE

I especially request all members and friends of the Church of Humanity to paste the above petition to a sheet of paper and get all the signers you possibly can to it. Then copy the names to eight petitions and mark them "Duplicate" and send one to the editor of each of the following papers: Truth Seeker, New York City; Boston Investigator, Boston, Mass.; The Liberal Review, 420 East 9th st., Kansas City, Mo.; Searchlight, Waco, Texas; Humanitarian Review, Los Angeles, California; Higher Science, Los Angeles, California; Peoples Press, Chicago, Ill.; Open Court, Chicago, Ill.

We want the Church of Humanity to grow and the readers of all these papers should stand up together and be counted in the Church.

The editors will surely heed the petition of many of their readers to aid them in organization. Organization will give us power, influence and respectability. Let us organize to teach truth the same as the christians do to teach errors. How can truth compete with error if not given the same advantages? How can converts to truth do as much for it if not given the same opportunities the converts to errors have of aiding the cause they believe in?

Without organization how can converts to truth hire Instructors to represent and defend them against unjust abuse and misrepresentation? There must be many thousands who have learned that God is a myth, but nobody knows how many, who or where they are for lack of organization.

Let us stand up and be counted, then organize and go to work in a systematic way to win converts and help the christians gain the victory over idolatry. Let us have union, organization and progression. Let our slogan be UNITE! UNITE!

THE CHRISTIAN EDUCATOR
AND GOD'S DEFENDER.

W. H. KERR, Editor and Publisher.

Devoted to Teaching the Discovery that God is a myth like Santa Claus and to Founding the Church of Humanity.

Vol. 1. Great Bend, Kansas, February, 1904. No. 3.

The Church of Humanity.

Fifty per cent increase in the first month. Nothing like it in the annals of church founding since the dawn of history. This is at the rate of six hundred per cent a year. No other church nor all of them combined can make a showing anything like it.

It is because the Church of Humanity is on the right road that leads our race out of the wilderness of mythology and into the bright clearing of universal truth and peace. Business men are joining the Church of Humanity. Educators are joining the Church of Humanity. Professional men are joining the Church of Humanity. Laborers are joining the Church of Humanity. Scientists are joining the Church of Humanity. Inventors are joining the Church of Humanity. Men with energy and enterprise, with push and pluck, who keep step with the scientists, inventors and discoverers in all branches of knowledge are joining the Church of Humanity.

Men who wish the world to progress, who wish the world to be civilized, who wish to save their loved ones from idolatry, are joining the Church of Humanity. Men from the ranks of all other churches and from no church are joining the Church of Humanity, and you, with all your family should join the Church of Humanity at once. I would be glad to welcome you and them to membership in the church.

W. H. KERR

The Plan for Founding the Church of Humanity Further Outlined.

As soon as there are a sufficient number of members, say 1,000, enrolled in the Book of Life to support a National Instructor, without it being a burden, one will be secured, from among the membership, for the United States to do the field work for the church. It will be his duty to organize and establish local church societies for the members wherever there are members enough in one locality to desire it and maintain it when established.

Whenever any one state has enough church members to maintain a State Instructor one will be provided in the same way and for the same purpose, for the state.

Cities and counties will be provided in like manner with city and county instructors as the demand for them shall arise.

There will be secured for these Instructors, if possible, the same advantages the clergy have as to railroad fare, performing marriage ceremonies and giving public instruction at public expense.

These Instructors will conduct suitable burial services for the church members. They will help the needy with advice and material aid. They will build up the local societies by planning and conducting lecture courses on the various sciences. They will plan and conduct singing, reading and class exercises for the local talent.

As soon as the number and interests of the church require it a National Convention of the church will be called to perfect organization by adopting a constitution and rules, electing officers and incorporating.

For the present our united energies will be devoted to missionary work.

We must get the discovery that God is a ficticious being, before the people in an acceptable manner and in a way they can understand and accept it.

The members and friends of the Church of Humanity will donate this little church paper and other literature to their christian relatives, friends and neighbors that they may learn the truth about God and know what the Church of Humanity stands for.

W. H. KERR.

It is no Sin nor Crime.

To believe the truth about God.

To teach the truth about God.

To cease worshiping God.

To save the children from being scared with God.

To organize those who have learned the truth about God.

To save the people from idolatry

To try to get our friends and relatives to cease idolatry.

To try to save our children from idolatry.

To try to get our father and mother to cease idolatry.

To try to persuade the clergy to cease teaching idolatry.

To join the Church of Humanity

To subscribe for the C. E. & G. D.

To ask others to join and subscribe.

To donate subscriptions to your neighbors and relatives.

To help civilize the world.

The Church of Humanity Will Demonstrate That--

A person can be a good citizen without worshiping a myth.

A man can be a good husband without bowing to a myth.

A child can be good without being scared with a myth.

A woman can be a good wife without loving a myth.

A father can be good to his family without following the example of a myth.

And that the world can progress without the services of a myth.

The Financial Pillars of the C. E. & G. D.

When future generations read the history of the Church of Humanity they will find the credit for the success of the church largely due to the financial pillars who give their money and time to securing subscribers for the church paper.

Foremost among these they will find:

Dr. H. J. Chapman, Speed, Kas. 53. Dr. T. B. Englehart, Mt Clemens, Mich., 20. E. C. Crane, Ray, Kas., 20. J. B. Wise, Oklahoma City, Okla., 5. Frank Weller, Mitchell, S. D., 3.

Many have sent in two subscriptions. Some have sent in big lists of names with the money to pay for sample copies to them.

I thank all these people for their aid given to the church and to the paper. I request one and all who are the least bit interested to try to get subscribers for the paper. All who can should subscribe for their christian relatives, neighbors and friends. You should not expect christians to subscribe. If they read the papers it is all we should ask or expect of them until they recognize the good work we are doing then they will be among our most enthusiastic workers. Crowd the good work along. Let us see how many financial pillars we will have the pleasure of reporting next month.

Subscribe for ten of your christian friends, $2.50, take a bundle yourself for free distribution, $2.00 total $4.50 or get twenty subscribers for the C. E. & G. D. and be enrolled as a financial pillar for our church paper.

*The report is made out on the 20th of each month.

†One did not fill out his application in full

IF YOU LOVE your mother do not hire the clergy to scare her with a savage myth named God.

IF YOU LOVE your children decline to hire evangelists to scare them with a ficticious hell.

IF YOU LOVE your wife refuse to worship a God who is accused of treating women so shamefully and does not deny it.

IF YOU LOVE God quit accusing him of committing the wicked crimes charged to him by the bible writers for he is as innocent as Santa Claus.

IF YOU LOVE the priests and preachers join the Church of Humanity and help to free them from the dreadful mythology into which Moses and other prophets led our race.

Men put woman and children on their knees to worshiping idols and men must raise them up.

Keep the per cent of monthly increase in church membership up to the standard set by the first month.

Everybody dies without a God. The Church of Humanity is the only church that recognizes that fact.

No women or children joined the Church last month. Don't leave them behind praying to idols, take them with you into the Church of Humanity.

BIBLE LESSON No. 2.

[By the International Instructor for the Church of Humanity.]

It has been said, the germs of death and final disolution are present at birth. Let that be as it may. The creators of God incorporated in his make-up the mistakes that caused his final rejection, dissolution and consignment to the cemetery of the perished Gods.

We should shed no tears of grief for him. We should ever remember the tombstones of the perished Gods are mile stones on the road to civilization.

All Gods are idols and we cannot be fully civilized until we cease idolatry.

We are now in a fair way of making a start to get off our knees through an organized effort.

We were put on our knees to idols through organization and we must arise through organization. In our first lesson we learned what Gods are, why and how they are made, and why they are worshiped.

We are now prepared to examine the nature and attributes God's creators gave him, more critically. Since we know he cannot harm us we can apply the same freedom of thought to him that we would to any other object under examination.

These lessons are primarily intended to contrast the character God's creators gave him with that of a good man according to our best modern standard of goodness but I shall in this lesson digress to note some of the inconsistencies in the fable of creation as measured by the facts as we all know them to be.

Many educated preachers no doubt understand that the story of creation as given in the Bible is fiction but they are slow to acknowledge it and, so far as I know no church calls to account those preachers who still teach their congregations that the story is literally true.

The phenomenal growth which, I hope the Church of Humanity will make will give the priests and preachers courage to tell and teach their true convictions if those convictions do contradict their earlier teaching and their church creeds. If they are too far advanced for their congregations or their church creeds and catechisms we will welcome them to the Church of Humanity. There will be no danger of them out growing that church.

We study the Bible to learn how man created God and to get familiar with the bases for the stories that re-create God in the minds of children from generation to generation just as the creation of Santa Claus is perpetuated orally.

The Bible I use is the English authorized version.

Gen. 1: 1. "In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth."

Christians teach that this creation was about 6,000 years ago and before that there was no time, space or matter. Chemists say matter can't be destroyed, it can only be changed to its original elements which always existed in some form.

There could have been no time when time was not, nor any place or time where space was not. Hence they always existed.

Verse 3. "And God said let there be light: and there was light.,'

Light is not a personality.

It has no ears to hear the voice of man. How then could it hear the voice of a myth.

Verse 4. "And God saw the light, that it was good: and God divided the light from the darkness."

It seems that God did not know just what he would get when he ordered light. It was some kind of a chance game. He was pleased with the prize he drew however.

One would think the light, when it came, would have banished the darkness, but it seems they just mixed up and God had to get a sieve or screen and divide them. Perhaps he put up a partition to keep them separated.

You will note that God worked in the dark while creating the heaven and the earth. The first time he ever had seen light was after he had ordered it in verse 3. "And God said let there be light: and there was light."

He seemed so well pleased with it that one is surprised he didn't think of ordering it the first thing he did, so he would not have to work in the dark so long. I think man's forethought has greatly improved since the time he created God, as any workman would now think of providing himself with light before he began his work. A novelist now would give his ficticious creation a light to begin with before he set him to work on such a big job as the creation of a heaven and earth.

You will note here that God's creators had not yet given him the peculiar nature of the fire-fly nor had they endowed him with phosphoresence that he might light his surroundings while at work. They gave him that nature long after he had all his work completed and did not really need it. But it was an inexcusable oversight in his creators to neglect giving him that quality at first.

Verse 5. "And God called the light, Day, and the darkness he called night."

Here you see the creators of God got ahead of their story and their fictitious workman. They have day and night, evening and morning before they had their workman create the sun, moon and stars.

We all know that the rotary motion of the earth causes day and night. Without the sun it would always be night but no human would be left alive every long to note the fact.

[CONCLUDED NEXT MONTH.]

Unite! Unite!!

Ten reasons why all editors of papers devoted wholly or in part to exposing the errors of the Christian religion should join the Church of Humanity and urge their readers to do so.

1. It is the only way in which the people can be rescued from idolatry.
2. It teaches the truth in a popular form
3. It saves all the gain made.
4. In union there is strength.
5. The power of numbers cannot be over estimated.
6. Membership in the church will prove to the christians that the editors believe themselves what they teach
7. They can then stop hacking the dead limbs of the tree of superstition and dig it up by the roots.
8. They can then stop haggling over minor points of differences and work in unison for the greater cause of pulling the people off their knees by their intellects.
9. In the Church of Humanity is the place for our women and children, but the men must lead the way.
10. The Church of Humanity is designed for saving the number, power and influence of the people you editors have freed from idolatry, will you not help to save your own harvest? If not, you have labored in vain and your good work is wasted in the death of the ones you saved. I ask all members and friends of the Church of Humanity to endorse these reasons, if they can, and mail them to an editor of the above class.

DAILY PROOF THAT THERE IS NO GOD.

LESSON III.

[By the International Instructor for the Church of Humanity.]

CONTINUED.

Above the graves of our perished loved ones the Church of Humanity proclaims God a myth.

This lesson will be devoted exclusively to a consideration of some of the phases and incidents of the burning of the Iroquois theatre in Chicago Dec. 30, in which about 600 lives were lost.

In behalf of the church I sent the following expression of sympathy to Mayor Harrison:

"The Church of Humanity extends through you its deep sympathy to all your people who are mourning the loss of loved ones in the great calamity that has befallen your city. W. H. KERR, Temporary International Instructor for the Church of Humanity."

In answer I received the following:

"W. H. Kerr,
Great Bend, Kan.

Dear sir:—Your letter of the 1st, extending on behalf of the Church of Humanity sympathy to our people in their great affliction, has been received. In the name of the city of Chicago, and of the families bereaved I thank you for your kindness.

Very truly yours,
CARTER H. HARRISON, Mayor."

These thanks from the bereaved families I extend to each member of the Church of Humanity who sympathize with them, and I know they all do.

When the Church of Humanity gets strong enough numerically it will give material aid in such cases. All we can do now is to learn lessons from this sad event that will guide us to a true knowledge of man and God. We must ever remember that people in death's grip will become panic stricken and most of them will try to save themselves even at the expense of weaker ones.

Therefore all public buildings where crowds are expected should be constructed in harmony with this knowledge and no "if-the people don't-get-in-a-panic" allowed a hearing, for they will under such circumstances.

My special duty in these lessons is to point out the proof these calamities give that God is a myth.

No stronger evidence can be given, nor could there be, that he is a myth.

But this evidence is conclusive, and it only remains for us to comprehend it. The Church of Humanity recognizes the truth so plainly brought out, and is guided thereby. No member of this church will ever worship God or ask or expect anything, either good or evil, from him. They know a myth has no power to help or harm.

They believe their own eyes and ears though the mythologies of the ancients contradict them.

They know that the idle tales and fables, handed down to us through ages of heathenism and barbarism, about a God being in the skies who knows us and cares anything about us is absurd, and in proof that they are absurd I offer these few extracts from the accounts of the Iroquois theatre fire.

Chicago, Dec. 39 —Through the burning of the Iroquois theatre yesterday afternoon over 600 people lost their lives. The catastrophe was, in its loss of life, not only the most dreadful event in the necrology of Chicago, but one of the worst in the history of the United States and ranks with the great catastrophes of world history.

Those in the van, unable to keep their footing, fell headlong; those behind fell over their prostrate forms.

The scene was quickly transformed into a horror beyond words.

Women and children formed the bulk of the writhing mass and their shrieks of agony mingled with the groans of the dying and supplicating prayers.

Mothers seized the little ones and clung to them frantically, beseeching deaf ears to save them from their fate. But each individual in the doomed mass was helpless. In the last desperate hope many in the balcony climbed to the railing and leaped to the parquet, many feet below. Their mangled bodies were found later afterward when the smoke had cleared away and the firemen could grope their way with lanterns. To many in the balcony the choking smoke was kind, for it brought soothing death quicker.

The fight for life in the main exit of the balcony, where over a hundred bodies were piled up, was the fiercest in the charnel house. Here were found the bodies of men, women, little boys and girls tangled indescribably. The clothes were torn completely away from some of the bodies. Here and there a jewelled hand protruded. All the faces were distorted. The charred bones of mothers and children were mingled.

In the balconies, scattered about the aisles and among the charred seats, were found many bodies. One mother, clasping her child, was found kneeling, as ild, was found kneeling,

in prayer, with her back to the stage, from which had come the death dealing sheet of flame. She had sought to protect her child, but the little one was dead in her charred arms. Many bodies were nearest the front edge of the balcony, where they had succumbed after dashing into the very face of the flames to vainly seek safety by jumping.

There were scores of women and children in the heaps of dead, their clothing torn from their bodies and their arms strtched pitably toward the haven they sought.

Among the shining deeds of heroism which marked the Iroquois fire horror, that of a 17-year-old girl, Mary Donahoe, who lost her life in rescuing little children from the flames, stands forth as a most supremely beautiful exhibition of self-sacrifice.

This noble girl had every chance to escape from the dreadful death which claimed her, yet she chose to forget self in saving the lives of helpless children.

Chicago, Dec. 31.—N. M. Stark and L. J. Tuttle, who came to chicago Tuesday from Des Moines with their brides on their honeymoon trip, spent today searching the morgues for the bodies of their brides.

Dr. Charles S. Owens, of Wheaton, the only survivor of of a family party of 12 that perished in the Iroquois fire, died at the Chicago Homeopathic hospital on the following Friday. Though seriously injured at the fire, Dr. Owens' friends and the attendant physicians say that he died from a broken heart. In the fire perished Dr. Owens' wife and only child, his two sisters and their four children, his brother-in-law, and a friend of the family who had grown up with them from childhood.

Managers Davis and Powers were arrested at the instance of Mr. H. A. Hull, whose wife and three children met death in the fire.

Clinton G. Meeker, a clerk in the registry division of the Post Office, living in the suberb of Irving Place, lost in the fire his entire family, consisting of his wife, two daughters and two sons.

A friend called Mr. Meeker up on the telephone at 4 o'clock in the afternoon and asked him if any of his family had gone to the theatre. He answered that so far as he knew none of them had left home. When he reached the house, however, he found only his mother-in-law there. "Where are Mabel and the children?"

"They have gone to the Iroquois theatre," was the reply.

"I dropped right down on my knees," said Mr. Meeker, "and prayed that God might spare them."

Later Mr. Meeker had partially identified the bodies of his wife and two daughters. He failed to find any trace of his two sons.

Most horrible were the details of the identification of the headless body of Boyer Alexander, 8 years old. The lad's father, W. D. Alexander sought his son all night long. In the grey of the morning the headless body of the boy was identified by a watch, a birthday present from his father, found on the remains.

A pathetic scene attended the identification of Majorie Edwards, 14-year-old of Clinton, Ia., by her father, who recognized her by a sample of the cloth of her skirt which he carried in his pocket.

Chicago, Dec. 31.—Bishop Samuel Fallows was among the hundreds of persons who rushed to the rescue when the cry of fire swept through the streets.

The bishop rushed through the dense smoke of the darkened auditorium of the theatre to the top gallery and assisted in carrying out the victims.

Bishop Fallows said last night:

"God forbid that I ever again see such a heartrending sight. I have been in wars and upon the bloody fields of battle, but never before have I witnessed anything half so grewsome."

When the Rev. F. O'Brien of the Holy Name Cathedral learned of the fire and heard that so many were dying, he rushed into the old Tremont House, which is now converted into the Northwestern University law school, into which many victims had been taken, to administer the last sacrament to members of the Catholic church.

During the brief moment that the two priests with uplifted hands besought God to pardon all the frailties of his dying servants, the poor, mangled men and women who lay in dozens on the floor seemed to realize that they were face to face with the last scene in their lives.

Both clergymen administered absolution, remaining till the dead were removed to the morgues and the injured to various hospitals.

These accounts show plainly that there is no unseen power named God who knows or cares for any human being in any manner whatever. This is positive proof that God is a myth. That being we were taught to love, fear, praise and worship on account of his love for us, and his protecting, watchful care over us, is a myth and has not the least foundation in fact.

Note the supplications and prayers of the dying women and children as they stretch their arms appealingly to heaven. We can excuse the people from going to their aid when it only meant death to the rescuers, but we never could excuse a real God who could not be moved to pity by such a scene, and who was able to save them but would not.

We know we never will be in greater need of the services of a God than were those poor people and as no God came to their rescue we know none could come to ours so we will never ask one too.

Note the mother found dead on her knees, as if in prayer, with her dead child clasped in her charred arms. To affirm that God cares more for us than our parents do is a libel on that poor mother that should be resented by all right minded people. But when they learn that God is a myth no such untrue assertions will be made. No doubt scores of parents lost their lives trying to save their children. Miss Donahoe gave her life to save a few children. If the Christians must worship something I suggest they worship her. It can now be proven she was a reality and that she gave her life to save children from a real fire, and that she did save some. That would be much more sensible than to continue worshiping the mythical son of a myth God called Christ. Jesus as God or the son of God, with the powers attributed to him, deserves no pity much less worship, since he only committed suicide to appease his own anger against his children and it could only have been a make believe death and suffering. Jesus as a poor deluded man, under the hallucination that he was the son of God, and was crucified because he tried to reform the existing religion of his locality, deserves our pity and our thorough investigation of his claims the same as all reformers do whether they are mistaken or not. But we should not worship them.

The two brides from Des Moines who were killed should prove to all that marriages are not made in heaven or that God has anything to do with them.

How could God care who a girl married, or if she ever married, who could not care for her life?

Why impose upon your children these mistakes and having your daughters praying to God to provide them with husbands? And then imagine any one who presents himself is God's choice and she has to accept him and endure mental and physical slavery perhaps all her life because she supposed God selected him and there is no appeal from his selection.

Dr. Owens died from a broken heart. He had received injuries and was trampled down several times in trying to save his eight year-old son.

It is affirmed by worshipers that every one has something to be thankful for. What had Mr. Owens to be thankful for? Because it was no worse? How could it have been worse?

Were christian myths realities Satan could take that entire family to hell for all God would care.

A God who does not care for us in this life could not care for us in any other. The truth has dawned on us at last that God is a myth. All we have to do now is to get up off our knees and help others up.

Mr. Hull is going to have revenge on the guilty parties if possible for causing the loss of his wife and childred through neglect of the means of safety as provided by law.

Will Mr. Hull go right on thanking God daily for the manifold blessings he bestows on him? Will Mr. Hull repeat the silly sentence "The Lord giveth and the Lord taketh away and blessed be the name of the Lord" over his silent loved ones? Does Mr. Hull reallly want to go to that fabulous place named heaven and live with a myth God who is supposed by the christians to have been at the fire, seen and heard his loved ones beg him to aid them but he would not do it though he could have saved them easily?

A man who would want to do that would love the murderer of his family and would want to reward him by being his slave in the lowest meaning of that relation.

To a man who loves his family the worst hell he could be consigned to would be the worship of any being who could have saved his dear ones but would not.

Mr. Meeker "dropped right down on his knees and prayed that God might spare them" when he learned his family had gone to the ill-fated theatre. He could not have done a more foolish thing. But people will continue doing foolish things as long as they are taught to. It is our duty to cease paying teachers for teaching people to do foolish things.

In answer his God gave him a dead family. Is that the kind of an answer your Heavenly Father gives his loving, trusting children? A fiend incardnate could have done no worse.

Were I a swearing man and believed in God being a real being as most swearing men do, I would swear by the eternal progress of the human race God would never refuse a request from me.

With the knowledge of Mr. Meeker's answer I would never make a request of any God. I have sense enough to know that although my family are dearer to me they could not be dearer to God than Mr. Meeker's family.

No priest could ever extort money under the false pretext of saving me from the wrath of God. I would have sense enough to know if a God is unable to help his friends he is equally unable to harm his enemies if he had any.

Mr. Alexander had a sad experience. Were God a real being he could not care how you treated his son since he has not the least idea or comprehension of paternal love. That is clearly proven by his utter indifference to Mr. Alexander's feelings as he searches long in vain and is at last rewarded by a headless boy. But how could he care for Mr. Alexander's son? He did not care for his own reputed son Jesus, whom he allowed to die on the cross exclaiming, "My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?"

A God who cared nothing for the dying appeal of his own son could not care for yours or mine and could not care how any one else treated his son. In short a God who has no more feeling than that is a myth and is fully excusable for having no feeling.

It only remains to note the actions of the priests. In so far as they helped to save the living and carry out the dead, as Bishop Fallows did, their services are highly commendable. But think of O'Brien and Muldoon who "with uplifted hands besought God to pardon all the frailties of his dying servants." That would be like a man begging the murderer of his children to forgive their frailties and take care of them.

The stupidity of these priests is only equalled by their prytotypes of thousands of years ago when they told the sun and moon worshipers that their gods were mad at their conduct during eclipses and hid their faces until the faithful "dig up" for the priests aud thus satisfy the wrath of the gods. The priests of the long ago looked at the shadow of the earth on the moon but could not comprehend its meaning. Today the priests run against piles of evidence they can't climb over that God is a myth, but they are unable or wilfully refuse to comyrehend its meaning.

In the interest of progress, civilization, truth and humanity the time has now come when these false teachers, who cannot or will not learn the truth and teach it to our children, must be waved aside and those who can and will learn brought forward as teachers of our children.

If you, dear reader, can recognize the truth that this Chicago lesson proclaims I urge you to join the Church of Humanity at once.

Your number, example and influence are greatly needed to help the world progress to higher planes of civilization. Fill out the following blank and return it to me and receive a certificate of graduation in the knowledge of God and membership in the Church of Humanity.

WANT COLUMN.

WANTED—One hundred thousand clergymen to learn that God is a myth like Santa Claus and then join the Church of Humanity and teach the people the truth.

WANTED—All the editors of papers devoted entirely or in part to freeing the people from superstition to join the Church of Humanity at once, and work together in a common cause for a definite object where results can be measured by numbers and saved for the cause of truth and progress.

WANTED—Orders for ten thousand copies of this little messenger for your christian neighbors and relatives.

WANTED—All the church members who have time to write letters, to write to editors whom you know do not indorse christianity and urge them to aid the Church of Humanity through the columns of their papers.

Break the News to Mother.

Break the good news to mother and father by donating the C. E. & G. D. to them. They should have a glimpse of the beautiful coming day. You should not let them fill idolator's graves if it can be avoided.

Prove to them that you love them as much as they do the Chinese or Africans. They give freely of their scanty means to save those people from idolatry as they believe. Now since we have learned that God is only an idol like those heathens worship, we should be home missionaries and save the ones we love most from idolatry first. Order a booklet, The most Marvelous discovery of this Age, sent to them as a news breaker.

We are no disgrace to our parents when we discard their out of date methods and adopt the latest improved in all branches of material progress. The farmers' sons who discard their father's old one-horse plows and methods surpass him in the production of corn and wheat, cattle and hogs. They are a credit to their father and he is proud of them. It is only the stupid or lazy who will not progress, but cling to the old methods. They are the ones who are a disgrace to their parents and are left in the rear as the progressive march triumphantly by. We can no longer kneel down by the side of our ancestors and worship with them the out-grown idols of mythologies.

We will join the procession that is bravely marching on to a better and happier day. Who have long since surpassed the man-made God in goodness, wisdom and power. We will use all honorable means to persuade our living ancestors to go with us as we ascend to a higher plane of civilization. This little messenger is a propaganda missionary for the purpose of breaking the news to father and mother, to grandpa and grandma. Then you who rejoice in your freedom from the fear of God and hell scatter it among them by the tens of thousands.

The Unkindest Cut of All.

When I handed the C. E. & G. D. to christian lady a few days ago she accused me of insincerity. She said down in my heart I believed in God's existence and would acknowledge him when I came to die, and would call on him for forgiveness.

Now I ought to know what I really believe to be true better than anyone else does. Some people profess to believe in and try to practice the "Golden Rule" which is stated in various ways by different people and is equally believed in and practiced by those of no religion. It was a rule of conduct applied, as it is today, with a limited meaning, before systems of mythologies were promulgated, and will be broadened and more generally practiced when all idolatry on this planet has ceased.

Here is the way it is stated by various religions and people.

"Therefore all things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them; for this is the law and the prophets.—Christianity.

The true rule in business is to guard and do by the things of others as they do by their own.—Hindoo.

He sought for others the good he desired for himself. Let him pass on.—Egygtian.

Do as you would be done by.—Persian.

One should seek for others the happiness one desires for oneself.—Buddhist.

What you would not wish done to yourself do not unto others.—Chinese.

Let none of you treat his brother in a way he himself would dislike to be treated.—Mohammedan."

Measured by the rule in any of its various forms, did this lady treat me right in charging me with insincerity? Would she like to have the charge of hypocrisy, deceit and dishonesty applied to her profession of belief in God's existence?

I am trying to do all I can for the Church of Humanity. I give my time and services free and what money I can spare. This ought to convince any one of my sincerity especially since I gave up farming where I was in a position to make from $3,000 to $5,000 a year with average crops and prices, to devote my time to teaching the discovery that God is a myth. I may not have the ability to do enough for the Church of Humanity to prove to worshipers that I thoroughly believe what I teach to be true, but I will do all I can to prove to them that I really and truly know that God is only a myth. With this object in view I subscribed to the following affirmation, "and this is all under the pains and penalties of perjury."

"I, W. H Kerr, being of sound mind and body, and having diligently sought for the truth concerning God's nature by reading and hearing all the evidence pro and con that came within my reach, and trying to weigh correctly my own observations and experiences in the balance of my best judgment, do declare under affirmation that God is a myth and not a a real living being.

Timely Warning.

I warn all worshipers to not allow the clergy to cause a panic among them, if they should attempt it, by telling them the Church of Humanity will drag them or any one else down to hell.

The best assurance you can be given that there is not the least danger of it is the fact that the members of the Church of Humanity teach their own children what they teach worshipers. They love their children and are more concerned about their welfare than any priest or preacher can possibly be about that of their congregations.

They know what they are teaching and know thoroughly and positively that no one is endangering himself to hell-fire by accepting the teachings of the Church of Humanity.

They are sure of their position, they know that all Gods, Devils and Holy Ghosts are fictitious beings; that heaven and hell are myths, and that the resurrection is a delusion. They have every particle of evidence the clergy have to the contrary, and they have considered it as thoroughly as they have.

They have also examined the evidence the clergy ruled out and would not examine.

Therein lies their advantages over the clergy for rendering a true decision.

If six jurymen would leave the courtroom after hearing one side of a case and the other six remained and heard the other side the latter six would be more competent to render a correct verdict than the former.

The Church of Humanity has heard and considered the evidence on both sides and does not hesitate to render the above decision.

The Church of Humanity is just as anxious as any other church that the people should be happy contented, prosperous and peaceful.

The Church of Humanity is as anxious as any church that the people should be sober, honest, truthful, industrious and progressive.

The only difference is that the Church of Humanity has learned a few more facts in nature than the other churches have.

The members, before they joined the Church of Humanity, and while most of them were members of other churches, learned that those churches were mistaken and were founded upon errors. Hence they are uniting in the Church of Humanity for the purpose of adding those new found truths to the teaching of the church and eliminating the errors of the other churches.

They seek to bring church teaching up-to-date and put it in accord with the progress the people have made in other branches of knowledge. They will retain every thing that is true and good in all the other churches and only discard the untrue.

They realize that these new found truths cannot be taught by any of the existing churches, since the people cannot all learn them at once. There must be a special church founded through which they can be taught and to which the people can come from all other churches as soon as they learn these truths.

Hence there is not the least danger of retrogression, chaos or disorder.

Instead it is progression, evolution and civilization. It will eliminate religious wars between the adherents of the various religions of the world and make for universal peace and unity of our race.

Therefore no one should allow himself to be frightened by any member of the clergy who may fear the loss of his occupation.

Neither should the clergy fear the loss of their occupation for it will not be abolished but only changed to suit new found facts.

Their profession is to teach the people the truth about God. There is a demand now in the Church of Humanity for a hundred thousand of them to become Instructors and teach the people the truth that God is a myth like Santa Claus.

Join the Church of Humanity.

In a very few illustrations you can demonstrate to a child that God is a myth like Santa Claus. Then that child knows more about God than do the presidents of republics, the kings of kingdoms or the emperors of empires.

The Church of Humanity.

TO THE MEMBERS:—There were six new members enrolled in the Book of Life last month. This showing is very gratifying indeed. As our members increase we should all help to push the propaganda work, and membership should increase in proportion. As a result of our united work our church paper will undoubtedly be admitted to the U. S. mails on equal terms with other church papers. Backed by the influence of even our small number my children have been excused from taking part in the religious exercises in our public schools. These are definite results to be proud of, and many times reward us for our labors so far. Singly I could have accomplished nothing, but backed by numbers in a church organization my protests are respected.

I urge all of you who have children attending school to have them join the Church of Humanity. That will put them on equal terms and respectability with other church members, and will compel school officers and teachers to be impartial. They will then be obliged to prohibit religious exercises in the schools or else allow our instructors to place their knowledge of God before the school children on equal terms with the teachers of idolatry.

We must take a back seat no longer, but push right to the front in active work. We have truth and right on our side and that should make us strong and brave.

The certificates will be printed and mailed to you next week I have placed the order for the best work of that kind that can be done in this town. It will be about eleven by nine inches, and suitable for framing. I have consulted the members in reach of me as to form and size of certificate. Perhaps when the church is formally organized an engraved certificate may be sustituted, but this will do for the present to let your neighbor know you have graduated in the knowledge of God and are members of the Church of Humanity.

Some of you perhaps are members of the American Secular Union and Free-thought Federation. That society expects to hold its annual convention at St. Louis sometime during the Fair. Every member of that society should also be a member of the Church of Humanity. Were we ready to organize it would be a good plan to call our convention to meet at the same place and time. I believe we should have at least 1,000 members before formal organization and incorporation. Can we get that number in time to call the organization convention before the Fair is over? I would like to have an expression of opinion from the members on these matters.

As we have reached one goal let us set stakes for two more. Let us see how soon we can get our membership up to 100, and the subscription of our paper to 1,000. Let us all pull together for these goals.

All the money I receive on subscriptions and membership fees will be used in the work for the church and paper as I do not need it to live on or as pay for my work. My books are open to inspection by any member of the church. I expect to turn the paper over to the church when I go back to the farm. Therefore do not hesitate to do your best to help the work along, as you are working for your own church and through it your own interests and not my living. When 100 members are enrolled I will publish the list. Let us all pull together for the goals—100 church members and 1,000 subscribers.

The Financial Pillars of The C. E. and G. D.

Those deserving special mention this month for aiding in placing the C. E. & G. D. in the hands of the people by soliciting and donating subscriptions are:

James E. Mills, Dickens, Iowa, 10; Frank Weller, Mitchell, S. D., 10; W. W. Walcott, Lyons, Kans., 11; Alfred Davis, Mineral City, Okla., 4.

Many sent in orders for less than four subscriptions and for the booklets, to all of which we are thankful for their aid in extending the circulation of this litte missionary. I feel confident that the paper will now be admitted to second class postal privileges, and that is the first goal to be reached. This could only be accomplished through the aid of the church members.

This illustrates the power of people united working in unison for a definite result.

Although the church is not formally organized yet all the members can work in unison to accomplish results just the same. The number of these Financial Pillars should be increased to dozens. Each subscriber who is interested in placing the truth about God in the hands of the people should donate this little missionary a year to each of his neighbors and relatives. In doing so you will be home missionaries and aiding in promulgating the truth about God and at the same time building up the Church or Humanity.

Let me have a few dozen names to put in this report next month.

War.

War is race suicide. It, like idolatry, is a relic of heathenism. Our race lacks a great deal of being civilized as long as it practices either.

In the Russia-Japan war hundreds of thousands of our race will be intentionally murdered. Hundreds of millions of dollars worth of property destroyed. Hundreds of millions debts made. Then the parties will arbitrate and settle all their troubles in a sensible way.

What fools they are not to do that at first. Do mothers raise sons only for targets for cannon and disease microbes on a battle field?

Who could blame them for organizing a strike?

Our race was dying at the rate of 67 a minute. Was not that fast enough? Must we employ artificial means to help us out of life faster? A man is a tool to voluntarily offer himself as a target to be shot at.

A man is a murderer to voluntarily try to kill any one.

Is not this life worth living that so many voluntarily abandon it by the war path?

They never before in all past eternity had a life. They never again through all eternity will have another life.

In view of these facts is our life too long that we should shorten it? Should we not stay as long in thts beautiful world as possible?

We ought to have as much sense while living as when we are dead.

A dead Russian and a dead Japanese can lie peacefully in the same grave for ages. Why can't they live peacefully together a few years?

An Outrage.

Evidently believing the children attending the public schools of this city cannot imbibe idolatry fast enough by bible reading, devotional songs and prayers by the teachers, a band of the Salvation Army two men and four women, have been allowed to open the schools with their brand of religious exercises, religious songs, exhortations, and prayers. Do all the patrons of the schools approve of it? There are Jews, Catholics and some professed unbelievers in the Christian dogmas. Why not protest? The teachers have sent the scholars direct from the school to the church to hear the religious services of these salvationists.

If that is not exceeding their authority, what would be? I am not sending my children to school to learn idolatry.

If the teachers are unable to teach them truth I protest against them teaching them errors. I am taxed for school purposes $61 68 in this county. Must I pay teachers for teaching my children errors that I do not want them taught?

While my children are excused from praying yet they are compelled to attend this idolatrous performance and as that time is taken out of the school time, I am compelled to pay for it.

What is the remedy for this injustice? I can see none but the organization of a powerful church that will teach the people the truth. Then let every one who reads this paper and who does not want idolatry forced upon their children join the Church of Humanity and get their children to join too. It is the only way to save them.

No Wonder.

Our ancestors burned heretics, scientists and philosophers at the stake. They were in a panic. The priests told them that these people were dragging themand their families down to a lake of fire called hell. They were told that this fire would never cease nor burn out.

They were told they would not be allowed to die nor to get out.

They were told by the priests, whom they thought knew what they were talking about, that to listen to, harbor, or even allow these people to run at large would be to consign their souls to hell.

We have a vivid example of what people will do when in a panic at the thought of roasting only a few moments in the Iroquois theatre fire. What must have been the terrible panic our ancestors were in at the thought of roasting in a much worse place throughout eternity? If strong men will, when in a fire panic, trample to death women and babes what would they not do to a man when in a greater panic at the idea of being caught in a fire trap of infinitely greater torment and suffering. No wonder they tortured, imprisoned and burned heretics and thinkers. No wonder they extinguished every intellectual light, turned the wheels of progress backward and retrograded into universal mental stupidity, since

International Lesson

DAILY PROOF THAT THERE IS NO GOD.

LESSON IV.

[By the International Instructor for the Church of Humanity.]

Above the graves of our perished loved ones the Church of Humanity proclaims God a myth.

God is an idol, a man-made deity. He is loved, feared and worshiped on the theory that he is not what he really is—a myth, but that he is a real being, wise enough to know us and our wants, and powerful enough to supply them.

These lessons will totally disprove that theory and demonstrate God's true nature by evidence all can understand and all have easy access to. When once God's true nature is demonstrated to the satisfaction of the people they will voluntary cease worshiping him. No one will knowingly worship a myth no matter how many may do so through ignorance of the fact that he is a myth. Nor will it make any difference how ferocious that myth is pictured to be, nor how liberal with bribes it is said to be.

When the people once learn God's nature they will know he is nothing but a man-made idol with which to scare people into doing wrong and they will then be neither scared nor bribed. It is all the same if the clergy say God will give me a warantee deed to the universe for doing so and so, or if they say he will boil me in a lake of fire for doing so and so. I know their promises and threats of God's favor or wrath are equally worthless Hence I am just as happy and contented whether I am to be boiled in a lake of fire by a myth, or am to me made ruler of a universe by a myth. I know a myth has no power to do either, nor has it the power to fill the promises or threats of the clergy. Hence I am absolutely indifferent to both. So is everyone who has graduated in the knowledge of God.

But we must not consider our duties done when we have graduated in the knowledge of God and freed ourselves from idolatry. Our duties and responsibilities have been greatly multiplied. We must help to free others. We must not be so contented and selfish with our freedom as to desire to retain a monopoly of it. We must do all we can to impart that knowledge and freedom to others. We can best do that through organization. Then all who are free from idolatry shouldjoin the Church of Humanity at once and help found that church through which organization alone can the truth be taught to the people. Let us not wait until the Japanese send missionaries to tell us our God is only an idol and that we are heathen idolaters.

Let those of our own people who have learned that fact be our missionaries and let them organize missions to free our people from idolatry. That can be done by building up the Church of Humanity and by collecting and distributing through it the evidence of God's non-existence to all our people. There is unlimited evidence all about us of God's non-existence, but it must be collected and put in form and shown to the people in a way they can recognize it as evidence. The best possible evidence for this purpose are the sad accidents that happen daily that blot out the lives of somebody's loved ones. We can easily recognize by this evidence that no God was caring for or protecting them in any manner whatever.

By the application of a little reason to this knowledge we know that no God is caring for or protecting us since we know that we cannot be more worthy of care and protection than were those who perished and that it is only a question of a little time when we will meet the same fate as our loved ones, and that no amount of praying to or flattery of an idol can avert it a moment.

The following condensed accounts of disasters clearly prove beyond the shadow of a doubt that there was no such God as the Christians tell us about in reach of these localities at the time of these accidents.

Bloemfontein, Orange river Colony, Jan. 18.—About thirty persons were drowned and three hotels and 176 houses destroyed as the result of the bursting of a reservoir here yesterday. Hundreds of persons have been rendered homeless and destitute.

Managua, Nicaragua, Feb. 9.—A passenger train on the Chinandiga Vieja railroad was derailed February 2 while passing over a high bridge and wrecked. Over twenty first-class passengers were killed and many others injured.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 9.—Fifty workmen were killed yesterday by the caving of an embankment on the Warsaw-Vienna railroad. In the course of their work the men dug into an old smelting works which had been buried beneath the line for thirty years. An explosion followed.

Berlin, Jan 26.—A landslide at Karrowitz, in Russian Silesia, today entombed thirty railway men. Ten corpses were recovered.

Licnoln, Neb, Jan. 29.—The total list of the dead and injured in the collision yesterday at Broken Bow, Neb., is four. Engineer McKinney, wh was pinioned under the engine, died this morning in agonizing pain. The rescuers were compelled to cut off the hand of the engineer in order to free the body.

Tuscaloosa, Ala, Jan. 22.—A disastrous tornado swept over Moundville, Ala., a town of 300 inhabitants fifteen miles south of Tuscaloosa, early today and a as result thirty-seven persons were killed and more than 100 injured Every business house, with the exception of a small drug store was completely destroyed.

St. Louis, Jan. 26.—The Hannibal accommodation on the Burlington road, due here at 8:30 o'clock last night, crashed into the rear end of the Denver express at Garden Creek tank, thirty-seven miles north of this city. In the wreck which followed four were killed, four seriously injured and seven badly injured.

Selina, O., Jan. 26.—Fire destroyed the farm house of Henry Frisinger last night and caused the loss of three lives Elnora, Georffe and Elva, children of the Frisinger family, perished, while Mr. and Mrs. Frisinger are in a critical condition from burns.

London, Feb., 5.—A dispatch to Dalzel's news agency from Amsterdam today stated a cable message was received from the island of Java reporting a fatal volcanic eruption. An entire town was swallowed up in the lava flow and hundreds of people were killed.

Victor, Colo., Jan 26.—One of the most frightful mining accidents in the history of the Cripple Creek district occurred this morning at the Stratton Independence mine, when fourteen men were instantly killed.

Ottowa, Ont., Feb. 9.—The Canadian Pacific Soo flyer, No. 7, from Montreal, is reported wrecked near here. Nineteen persons were killed and many were injured

Johnstown, Pa, Jan 21.—An immense steam pipe in No. 2 mill, Cambria Steel company, exploded about 1:30 this morning bringing down a large section of the roof. The woodwork at once took fire from the furnaces and burned fiercely. The number of dead is estimated at fourteen. The injured number twenty-five or more. Many are terribly scalded and cannot live.

Pittsburg, Pa, Jan. 26.—As a result of an explosion in the Harwick mine of the Allegheney Coal company at Cheswick yesterday between 180 and 190 men are lying dead in the headings and passageways.

Monmouth Springs, Ark., Feb. 9.—As the result of a tornado thirty miles west of here many farm buildings were destroyed and three persons were killed.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 25.—The head of a child, apparently about a year old, which was carried into the home of August Barth, in Clayton avenue, late Saturday night, has revealed either a most brutal case of child murder, or the work of a vicious dog.

Parts of the flesh on the face had been eaten away, and the fact that the head was covered with blood suggests that life was yet in the body when found by dogs.

Mrs. Patsy Elyan, living on a plantation near Walterboro, S. C., went to the bedroom of her 17-year-old daughter Anita at 4 o'clock in the morning, and without apparent cause choked her to death. The mother denies the killing of her daughter, but says she has killed the devil, and that she did so at the command of Christ.

Mrs. Arthur Ograwall, thirty-four years old, of Oakland, N. J., was taken to the Bergen county jail, at Hackensack, Wednesday, charged with having decapitated her son Charles, four years old.

She betrays no consciousness of the terrible affair and does not seem to realize her part in it. Between a constant moaning, she at times asks sharply, "What would you have me do?" During one lucid interval only did she seem to understand what had occurred. Then she said, "God made me do it. I had to; I could not help it."

Is it possible for any one to read these daily accounts of continuous disasters and see no connection between them and the teachings of the clergy? Cannot all see clearly that these facts contradict every statement of the clergy in regard to a heavenly father who loves us and has power to protect us from harm? Cannot all see that these facts effectually disprove the theory that God is a real being? Cannot all comprehend the fact that no amount of piety, idolatrous mummery or heathenish debasement sycophantic adulation of a heathen God can influence any being to save or protect us from harm? What object then can we have in perpetuating heathenism? What use then is it to hire the clergy to ask any favors for us from a God that does not exist? Most all of the victims of these disasters believed God to be a real being. Most all of them prayed to him for protection. Most all of them hired the clergy to intercede for them and win God's favor and protection for them. What did it all amount to? It did not prolong the life of any a moment. They would have been just as successful in obtaining supernatural aid had they prayed to the sun, moon or Santa Claus.

Now I want all you people who have the moral courage to cease worshiping a God you know does not exist, to come forward and join the Church of Humanity. That church will give you an opportunity to help to free others from idolatry, and will defend you and your family from the abuse of the clergy by informing them why you have ceased the worship of God. I see quite a crowd of men, women and children coming from all other churches to join the Church of Humanity. As I hand each of you a certificate of graduation in the knowledge of God and membership into the Church of Humanity please tell me briefly why you know God is a myth and your reason for longer refusing to worship him.

"I am a coal miner. I see in today's lesson that scores of my fellow miners have been killed in the explosion at Cheswick, Pa. I know of many such disasters I was personally acquainted with many of the victims. They were good honest Christians. Their wives and children prayed to God daily for his protecting, loving care to be extended over husband and father. They paid the clergy liberally for their prayers and supplications to God in their behalf. I know that those prayers and supplications were absolutely worthless and would have been just as effective for protection had they been addressed to a Chinese Joss. I know the clergy are mistaken when they tell us of a heavenly father who put the coal in the earth for our use, for if that was so he would not have put the deadly explosive elements with it, since he knew in advance the destruction of life and sorrow it would cause if he is a real being having foreknowledge of events as the clergy describe him to be. I would have been killed too, had I happened to have been in the mines at the time as I am no more worthy of the nonprotection of God than were the ones who were killed. I never again shall worship God, nor shall I ever pay one cent to the clergy for their services for they are receiving money under false pretense. I know that they have no power to influence God to save us from destruction in this life, hence I know they have no influence with God to persuade him to save us in any other life.

"The priest is powerless to persuade God to care for our bodies in this life, hence I know the priest has no power to persuade God to care for our souls in another world. Were there a God he would care for us without the intervention of a priest. As these disasters prove that no God cares anything about us, then God is a myth like Santa Claus and I want to be a member of the church that teaches the truth about God." I welcome you to the Church of Humanity. All the priests in the world cannot shake the force of your logic. Although a poor coal miner, you have graduated in the knowledge of God and know more about him than all the clergies of the world combined.

"I am a railroad man. I don't believe one word the preachers say when they tell us about a heavenly father who cares for a single human being. Thousands of my fellow workers are killed every year at their post of duty. Engineer McKinney, of the Broken Bow collision mentioned in today's lesson, is a victim that illustrates the dangers to which we are exposed. We have fog, washouts, fire, blizzards, and many other elements of danger to contend with that cannot always be provided against. What my friend, the miner, says about depending on God for aid has been tried by most all our people and found to be worthless. Like him we have come to the conclusion that the clergy are mistaken and no longer place any confidence in their teachings. We know that no God cares anything for a railroad man in this world. Hence we

You have made a wise decision and I welcome you to fellowship in the Church of Humanity. The safety of your occupation, as also that of the miner, lies not in praying to a myth-God for protection from harm, but in organizing into unions to compel your employers to furnish every device of safety, inspection, regulation, rules &c. that will reduce the dangers to your lives to the lowest possible point.

"I am a farmer. I was taught by the preachers to thank and praise God for giving us good crops. I was taught that he sends the rain and sunshine for our special benefit snd that those of my occupation are his pets and that we should be exceptionally loud in our praise of him. I know the preachers are mistaken and that no God cares any more for us than he does for the people of other occupations. Sometimes we have good crops but they are not due to the pleasure of any God else he would always give us good crops since we as a class are always the same. If God ordered the rain and sunshine to make our crops he would protect them when made from destruction by the elements and insects. This he does not do. We have floods, droughts, tornadoes, hail, insects, frosts and many other things to destroy our crops, all of which proves clearly that no God has anything to do with ordering the weather to suit the crops. We are isolated and lonesome on the farm and must have some place to go to for amusement and recreation. Our families require it and the Christian churches are the only organizations that will provide entertainment. I know that God is a fabulous being and that the whole christian religion is founded on ancient mythologies. I will join the Church of Humanity with the hope that it will some day displace the churches that are teaching idolatry, and give our families a society free from the teaching of heathenism."

I welcome you to church membership and hope we will all live to see the day when the Church of Humanity will fulfill your most sanguine hopes.

Now let this little girl tell why she wishes to join the church.

"I am only 8 years old but I know God do s not care for children like my Sunday school teacher says he does. I read in your lesson today about the dogs killing a little baby a year old and carrying the head into a house. Now I believe there is no God or he would have cared for that baby. As he did not care for it he does not care for me or any other child. So I will join the Church of Humanity as I know God is like Santa Claus and not a real being."

Take this certificate. You have graduated in the knowledge of God. Although so young you are able to give the president of the United States lessons in logic when christianity is the subject under discussion. I hope to see you one day supercede your Sunday school teacher and, as an instructor, give truthful lessons about God to Sunday school classes under the auspices of the Church of Humanity.

"I am a mother and want to join the Church of Humanity because it is the only church that teaches the truth about God. I know God is not a real being at all. I know that all the prophets, priests and preachers either lied about having heard the voice of the Lord or were crazy when they had that hallucination. That fact is clearly proven by today's lesson. One mother choked her daughter to death in obedience to the command of Christ. Another mother decapitated her four year-old son because God made her do it. Now if God and Christ are real beings they are meaner than the devil for he has not been around ordering poor mothers to murder their children. If they are real beings and did not order those murders they are just as mean as if they really had done so for not coming to the rescue of the victims and dispelling the delusion under which the mothers were deceived.

"But it will be affirmed that these mothers were insane and we should therefore not believe them. If that is the right position to take then we should not believe Jesus' claim of being the son of God for he was only insane. We should not believe any of the bible stories where men were represented as having communication with God for they were only insane.

"We should not believe the priests and preachers when they affirm they were called of God to preach the gospel for they were only insane.

"Now I have as much sympathy for insane men as I have for insane women, and I believe all parties who believe they have been commanded by God or Christ to do anything should be put under guard until their sanity is restored. Insane preaching is undoubtedly responsible for these insane murders. I know that Christ and God are myths else they would not allow murders to be committed under the belief that they ordered them. I want to be a member of the church that teaches that truth."

And we are all glad to welcome you into the Church of Humanity. Your remarks are rather severe on the clergy but in view of these sad cases of murder your reasonings and conclusions may be justifiable. If all mothers were members of the Church of Humanity surely no one would have such a thought as murdering her children under the impression that Christ or God desired her to do so. Now I ask all who read this lesson, who know that God is a myth and who want an organization established to teach that fact to fill out the following blank application and return it to me, and get a certificate of graduation in the knowledge of God and membership in the Church of Humanity.

Please don't fail to apply for membership now and give our members encouragement in this good work and encourage others to accept the truth and help to spread it.

Unite! Unite!!

The need of those who know God is a myth, and that the christian religion is founded on fables, is organized societies through which they can teach what they have learned about the fundamental claims on which the mythologies are based.

We must have more societies, more workers, more harmony more enthusiasm, more energy. We should join and help to build up all organizations whose object is to free the people from idolatry. we can't have too many such societies. The National Liberal Party and the American Secular Union and Free-thought Federation are national organizations for the purpose of checking as far as possible the enactment and enforcement of laws compelling the practice and support of idolatry.

These organizations have a laudable excuse for existence, and should be supported by membership and funds. There are a number of local societies with like objects. They are good as far as they go, and should be supported. They are not adapted to furnish society or entertainment for our women and children nor do they remove the cause that produce the effects they combat. The Church of Humanity is to fulfill both these objects, and therefore should be heartily supported by all the members of these other organizations and they should all join this church. This church is neither a christian church nor a religious church, but it is a church for all who have learned that the other churches are mistaken in their foundation teachings, and where the members can continue doing good with out being idolators or supporting idolatrous societies. The Humanitarian Sunday School suggested by Mrs. Eliza Mowry Bliven, of Brooklyn, Conn., and the Debating Societies, suggested by W. F. Jamieson, of Pentwater, Mich., should both be inaugurated and carried on under the auspices of the Church of Humanity. They both should help to found the Church of Humanity, and then under its patronage and support carry on their special lines of teaching. Both these people are outlining their plans in the Humanitarian Review published by Singleton W. Davis, at No. 852 east Lee street, Los Angeles, California. You would do well to send for the March No. of that magazine and see what these people propose doing. Let all editors, writers and speakers who are working in common to free the people from idolatry unite in a common society —the Church of Humanity—and then carry on their special lines of teaching in its name. We will then all draw support, influence and inspiration from our common protector, defender and patron.—the Church of Humanity. Unite! Unite!

Christians.

In your goodness of heart, and honesty of motives you have given freely of your money and time to teach the people to worship God. You have given away bibles, tracts and donated subscriptions of religious papers to non-christians and unbelievers in the hopes of converting them to a belief in christianity. You believe you are doing your duty, saving souls from a future state of misery, and aiding in civilizing the people. It is now positively known that God, Holy Ghost, Angels and Satan are fabulous beings; that heaven and hell are myths and the resurrection a delusion. Those who have learned these facts are joining the Church of Humanity. They cannot be christians longer and retain their self respect. They still retain their honesty, benevolence and desire to aid the people in learning the truth and promote civilization.

They will keep right on doing good. They found they were mistaken in what they had believed to be true of the teachings of christianity. These people are now donating their time and money to teach the people the truth as they did when christians. Therefore if you are a christian and are getting this little missionary without subscribing for it you will know that one of your friends or relatives who has retained his benovelence and desire to do good has donated it to you. I ask you to read it with that same thankfulness and interest you expect unbelievers to read the bibles, tracts &c. you donate to them

More Space.

I must throw much of my writing in the waste basket for want of space. I must return good articles sent me for want of space. I want to advertise all the papers and magazines that are helping to free the people from idolatry but can't for want of space. I want to advertise dozens of books, publish dozens of letters, give the church members a chance to be heard but must have more space. I want to double the size of the C. E. & G. D. but leave the price the same. I do not feel justified in doing this until I get at least 1000 subscribers. I will send some extra copies to the members and ask them to try to get subscribers. I will ask all the subscribers to donate a year's subscription to their neighbors and relatives no matter if they are christians. Christians love the truth and desire to know it as others do. We were all christians once. Push the sbscriptions to 1000.

BIBLE LESSON No. 2.

[By the International Instructor for the Church of Humanity.]

[CONCLUDED FROM LAST MONTH.]

V. 6. "And God said, Let there be a firmament in the midst of the waters, and let it divide the waters from the waters." Here God's creators would not let the elements obey the voice of their character as light had done so they put him to work to make what they wanted.

V. 7. "And God made the firmament and divided the waters which were under the firmament from the waters above the firmament, and it was so."

V. 8. "And God called the firmament Heaven, and the evening and the morning were the second day." Here God's creators are still ahead of their story, having evening, morning and day without the requirements for them being created.

V. 9. "And God said, Let the waters under the heaven be gathered together unto one place, and let the dry land appear; and it was so." Here God's creators allowed the elements to obey his voice again, and he didn't have to do any work at all. How kind in them.

V. 11. "And God said, Let the earth bring forth grass, the herb yielding seed, and the fruit tree yielding fruit after his kind, whose seed is in itself upon the earth; and it was so." Here again God's creators were kind and did not require him to work. We used to feel very sorry for God having to work so hard on his creation job, but since we understand the ease with which it was done we have more sympathy for a poor wash woman who does more hard work each day of the week than God did in the entire six. One can almost believe he didn't really need a rest when Sunday came.

V. 12. "And the earth brought forth grass and herb yielding seed after its kind, and the tree yielding fruit, whose seed was in itself, after his kind; and God saw that it was good." Here again God's creators got ahead of their story a few hundred millions of years. They have vegetation in all its luxurious perfection without the conditions which would permit of vegetable life. They have not yet had their workman create the sun. Every educated person knows that without the sun vegetation would be impossible.

V. 13. "And the evening and the mornig were the third day." No sun, moon or stars yet. What a botch job God's creators are making of him!

V. 14. "And God said, Let there be lights in the firmament of heaven to divide the day from the night; and let them be for sigus, and for seasons, and for days and years." Here again the creators of God would not let the commands of their creation be obeyed by nothing and they put him to work gathering up a lot of nothing and making it obey his orders as is shown in verse sixteen. But why should they put their workman to all that bother? They already had regular days and nights and a summer season at least. Was not that enough?

V. 16. "And God made two great lights; the greater light to rule the day and the lesser light to rule the night; he made the stars also." This work was entirely useless, as the creators of God were getting along all right without them and had everything necessary for engaging in business, and in fact, had raised a crop of grass and fruit without them. And this is the kind of a text book some would like to put in our schools along with geography, geology and astronomy! "He made the stars also" seems to have been an after thought stuck in that was not deemed worthy of mention at first.

Perhaps some other God makers claimed the stars as the product of their God, or some inquisitive listener asked the tale-teller the question: "Who made the stars?" Then they too, had to be attached somewhere to the story so as to claim everything in sight as the work of their God.

It is rather strange though that God's creators kept his attention engaged in the creation of the sun, moon and earth all week and only allowed him a spare moment to create the other planets and stars. It is also strange that they allowed him five days in which to create the earth and set it up in business, and only one, the fourth, in which to create all the rest of the heavenly bodies and "set them in the firmament of heaven, to give light upon the earth."

The only explanation is that these God creators did not know what they were talking about. But as we know better than they did the extent and comparative greatness of the heavenly bodies, and of the dependence of animal and vegetable life upon the sun, and their order of appearance upon the earth, we should no longer teach our children these idle tales as truth though they be found in the bible.

Here is a table showing the relative size of the sun and planets to the earth by comparison of diameters in miles, and relative distance of the planets from the sun.

Names of the Planets	Distances from the Sun in Miles.	Diameter in Miles
Sun		886,5000
Mercury	36,000,000	3,000
Venus	67,200,000	7,700
Earth	92,879,000	7,900
Mars	141,500,000	4,230
Jupiter	483,000,000	86,500
Saturn	886,000,000	32,000
Uranus	1,800,000,000	32,000
Neptune	2,800,000,000	35,000

The sun's bulk is about 1,300,000 times that of the earth.

Around the planets revolve satelites or moons. Jupiter has five. God's creators knew nothing of them or they would have said "he made the asteroids also." These bodies are all included in the solar system. You see their combined bulk is many millions of times greater than the earth. The entire solar system is as a drop of water to a bucket full when compared with the magnitude and number of stars in the known universe. And the known universe compared with the unknown may be as a drop of water compared to the ocean. Since space and time or duration must be without limitations, non-creatable and indestructible.

You will note here how inconsistant it was in God's creators to keep him five days making and ordering ready made things of earth and only allowed him one day in which to make the sun, moon and stars.

You people who can understand these lessons should join the Church of Humanity at once. That very action on your part will aid others to understand them.

The need of a church that will teach the people the truth about the bible and God is imperative. Why continue longer to impose these bible stories on our children as truth? What good can come of it? Here is a statement from Professor Delitzsch of Berlin, urging the teaching of the truth about the bible stories to the children in the schools.

Berlin, Feb. 22.—Professor Delitzsch of "Babel and Bible" fame has again come to the front with elaborate objections to the present methods of imparting religious instruction in the schools. He says:

"The findings in recent excavations in Mesopotamia should be put before school boys and girls They should not be brought up in ignorance of the results of late investigations into the history of religion.

"Children should be taught that in Genesis there are two different accounts of the creation, and that both are the outcome of Babylonian myths.

"About the flood they should be taught that the biblical narrative is also a vestige of ancient Babylonian folklore.

"These ancient ages should be dug out of the scripture books and given to the scholars at school or explained. If they are not, a day will come when the grown up man will throw them all over and more besides which he should retain.

"I am opposed to having school boys and girls taught that the narrative about the world being made in seven days is true, or that there is any veracity in the statements that man was made of clay, that life was breathed into his nose, and that woman was made of a man's rib. I object to the tales about the ten patriarchs, about the summits of the highest mountains being covered deep with deluge water, and about the ark of Noah.

"Only truth and the whole truth can make one free."

But how can we expect the truth about the Bible to be taught to the school children when the teachers themselves do not know it? When the School Board, Superintendent of Public Instruction, Principal of Schools and teachers all believe these silly Bible stories to be actually true, how in the name of reason can they be expected to teach the truth about them?

While nearly all the parents believe these stories to be the words of God and therefore true, they would not allow a teacher to teach their children the truth about the Bible if they did know it.

Yet the time will surely come when the teachers of our children will be required to teach the truth about God in the public schools. It will be a recognized branch of a common school education and teachers will be required to graduate in that branch of knowledge the same as in other branches they are required to teach.

They will not teach the Bible stories about a God creating the earth as true but will teach how God is created by man.

That is the work now for the Church of Humanity to do.

The truth about God must befirst taught by private and corporate enterprise before it can be taught in the public schools. A large proportion of the parents and teachers must be taught it before they will allow it to be taught in school to their children.

All these who do not wish their children taught idolatry in the public schools should join the Church of Humanity at once and make a united protest against it that will be heeded.

Christians would unite and fight to a finish any school board or teacher that taught their children to worship a Chinese Goss. Now a Chinese Goss is just as respectable and as worthy of worship as the Christian's God. We who have learned that God is only a man-made idol should unite in the Church of Humanity and protest as vigorously against the teaching of idolatry to our children in public schools where they are compelled to go as would the Christians were the worship of any other idol taught.

No Wonder.

to even think was to endanger them to the furies of hell or of the inquisition. No wonder the priests reaped a harvest of wealth and universal power while the peasantry reaped a harvest of suffering and death.

When our ancestors got thoroughly panic stricken by the priests' discription of hell they demanded of the priests protection from the teaching of those who they were told were endangering them to hell.

They willingly aided the priests in running down all reformers, singling out all scientists, philosophers and inventors, except inventors of instruments of torture for hereties.

They kept this up for a thousand years, which is known as the dark ages, until hell on earth became so much more terrible than any description of a future hell the priests could conjure up that the people through choice began to prefer the future hell to the one the churches were making on earth.

You will remember it is only a little more than three hundred years, February 16, 1600, Bruno was burned at Rome by the church for teaching that there are other worlds than this; that many of the ststrs are suns around which planets revolve and that this earth rotated. Today the churches could not execute their own members and clergy for such beliefs, for they nearly all believe as Bruno did on those matters.

Many Christians believe Satan a fabulous being, hell a myth and the bodily resurrection at a great judgment day a delusion. God and heaven are as fictitious as Satan and hell.

It only remains for the people to recognize that fact and change the teaching to agree with it to bring the churches up to date.

When we recognize what a marvelous advancement the people have made in the last hundred year in their efforts to free themselves from idolatry we contemplate with rapturous delight the beautiful dawn of the coming day when the love for the idols of mythology will be transferred to humanity.

Every Christian must be from Missouri for they have to be shown. It is the duty of the Church of Humanity to show them.

The Christians are unbelievers of the truth and infidels to facts. We must organize and send out instructors to convert them.

How nice it would be if we were numerous enough to establish Sunday Schools in reach of each of our members this spring. Let us all work with that object in view and be ready to begin such schools next spring.

The International Lessons are beginning to bear fruit. Some are sending in clippings of disasters showing they are learning where to look for evidence of God being a myth.

THE CHRISTIAN EDUCATOR
AND GOD'S DEFENDER.

W. H. KERR, Editor and Publisher.

Devoted to Teaching the Discovery that God is a myth like Santa Claus and to Founding the Church of Humanity.

Vol. 1. Great Bend, Kansas, April, 1904. No. 5.

The Church of Humanity.

The Church of Humanity is to be an international society of those who have learned that God is a myth like Santa Claus. The objects are to teach that fact in a systematic way and prove it to others that the world may be freed from idolatry. We wish to retain all the good, the true and the moral teachings of other churches and eliminate the errors of the ancients. We wish good society for our children, free from the worship of a poor, deluded Jew by the name of Jesus who died nearly two thousand years ago. We believe in treating the living Jews right, but not in worshiping dead ones. We want an up-to-date church that will not make idolaters of the seventy children born to our race every minute, but will teach them modern, known facts. One that will teach them that God, Satan and Holy Ghost are fabulous beings, that heaven and hell are myths, and the resurrection on a great judgment day a delusion. We want our children to know the truth as we know it. We want them to remain free from idolatry and to establish a church through which they can help free others. We are not organized yet, but are preparing to do so when we get enough members. We have twenty-seven members enrolled on the book of life. To them have been sent certificates of graduation in the knowledge of God. They are life members and founders of the Church of Humanity. If you do not worship an idol named God you are eligible to membership in this church and I invite you to fill out the application blank on third page and forward to me, on receipt of which I shall forward you a certificate. Be one of the founders of this modern church.

W. H. KERR.

Let us Teach The Christian Editors

While we are collecting the required number of church members necessary to organize the Church of Humanity let us keep at some kind of good work within our reach. I have a list of 1000 religious publications in the United States. These are published in the interest of the different religious sects and leading denominations. Ninety-eight of them have a subscription list of over 5000 each; 140 over 10,000 each; 51 over 25,000 each; 23 over 50,000 each; 10 over 100,000 each; 11 over 200,000 each, and one each of three, five and seven hundred thousand. These 238 publications have over 9,000,000 circulation. Allowing 4,000 for an average circulation of the remaining 762 publications they have a total circulation of over twelve million. Some editors estimate five readers to each subscriber. If that rate holds good these religious publications reach more than sixty million readers. Now my plan is to donate the C. E. & G. D. to these 1,000 editors for one year. It will cost $250 to do that. Can we raise that amount by donations? I will pledge $25 on this educational fund how much will you pledge?

We never can win against the powerful odds against us unless we donate time and money freely to our cause. While Christians donate hundreds of millions of dollars to make idolaters of the seventy children born each minute we should give a few dollars to save them from idolatry. Many of these editors will read our church paper. It will modify their views and help to liberalize their teaching. They will make comments on our paper and church. That will bring them to the attention of thousands and they will want to know more about us. Just send in a pledge for the amount you will give when the full amount is pledged.

Nearly all the Christians say those who do not worship God are stingy, selfish, miserly and ungenerous. Let us prove to them they are mistaken by doing kind and generous acts. Let us prove to them that we will open our hearts and our pocket books in aid of a good cause.

By teaching these 1,000 editors we can indirectly reach the sixty million of their readers. These editors will get a year's teaching for a donation of only 25c for each one. Let us pledge this amount at once and begin sending the papers to them at once. "Many hands make light work." Let us chip in and raise the funds. A long pull, a strong pull and a pull altogether and it will be a light task. Let us try to make the world better by having lived in it. Let us have some object to work and live for and life will be more pleasant. I will double the size of our church paper if you will be generous enough to donate it to these 1,000 editors.

Following Mother's Teachings.

In a letter from mother a few days ago is the following extract: "I don't understand you when you say 'God's Defender' for you say there is no God. If you thought that you had to believe that why did not you keep it to yourself? If you would edit a good paper I would want it, for I believe there is a God."

Now mother I shall answer you publicly, that others may see how they can follow their mother's teaching and at the same time teach the truth that God is a myth.

You forget that we belong to a progressive race; that some of the things believed in today are found to be mistakes tomorrow; what are only untruths today tomorrow may be lies; what are untruths for one generation may be unexcusable lies for the next generation. You will note the difference between an untruth and a lie. All lies are untruths, but untruths are not lies. Lies are untruths told knowingly. Untruths are lies told unknowingly.

You can teach that God is a real being without lying because you dont know any better; it would be an untruth though. If I taught that God was a real being I would be a deliberate liar, deceiver and hypocrite. Now I still think that teaching was good and have no desire to depart from it. Were I to teach my children that God is a real being I would be violating all your moral teachings. You taught us it was wrong to worship idols, but right to worship God. Of course you thought God was a real being. Now I have discovered that he is only an idol. I am following your own teachings in refusing to worship an idol. Had you have known that God was a fictitious being you would have taught us to not worship him. You do not understand how I can defend God when there is no God. Well, there is no God, yet the bible writers, prophets, priests, preachers and millions of writers accuse him of all the crimes in the category of crimes. Do not I defend him by proving him innocent of the crimes charged to him? When I prove him to be a myth, which he is, does not that exhonerate him? When a child gets hurt by a toy it thinks Santa Claus gave it and blames Santa for bringing such a bad toy would it not be defending Santa to teach the child that Santa is a myth, and therefore had nothing to do with bringing the toy? Well, just so in regard to God. Every calamity is laid to him. Now I prove him to be a myth, hence he is not guilty. Is not that a perfect defense to make for God? Who will accuse God of crime, or of bringing calamity upon them when they are once taught that he is a fabulous being?

You think if I would edit a good paper you would like it much better. Now, is not a paper in which the truths about God are taught a good paper? You seem to chide me for following your own teachings about always telling the truth. Or did you mean the truth about everything except God? Or did you mean that if any one found out that Christianity was mistaken in any of its teachings he should not let any one else know it and pretend that he did not either? Would not that be hypocracy and deceit? I did not understand that you taught us that such was right. I guess I will still follow your teaching as I understood it—that it is wrong to be a hypocrite and a deceiver.

Your question why I did not keep my discovery to myself is partly answered by the above—I could not and follow your teaching as I understood it. You taught us it was wrong to be idolaters, hypocrites, liars and deceivers, and that it is right to be truthful, honest and sincere, and to protect the weak, the widows and orphans from being imposed upon. You taught that it was right to help to free people from idolatry.

Of course you never suspected that God was only an idol and that Christians are only idolaters. But as I have learned that fact I cannot remain silent and yet follow your teaching.

Would you have me, after learning that God is a myth, play the hypocrite and lead my children in the worship of an idol? Or would you have me just remain silent like a numbskull, while others who will not or cannot learn the truth, make idolaters of them? Must I remain silent as a mummy while the clergy from behind a million pulpits pour forth their torrents of abuse, misrepresentations and epithets on me? Must I stare at panic-stricken evangelists likea sphynx while they recite in frenzy the horrors of hell-fire from which they are trying to save me? Must I in silence hear them teach my children that they care more for them than I do; that they are saving them from a life eternal in a lake of fire while I am trying to drag them into it? Have I no right to tell why I do not worship God, and thereby save myself from abuse by good people who misunderstood my reasons and thought I was actuated by wickedness? Must I stand silently by and see green goods and gold bricks in the shape of heavenly mansions, robes, harps and crowns unloaded on unsuspecting widows and orphans? It makes no difference if the venders know they are worthless or not. If I know they are worthless I am a self-condemned criminal if I let the fraud go unchallenged. I am a two-fold criminal if I aid and abet the deception. It would be a crime against our race against posterity, against science and civilization for me or any one else to aid in perpetuating the worship of a God whom we know to be a fictitious being.

When I had an opportunity to use a better plow than my father taught me to use did I disgrace him by adopting the latest improved plow? To discard the cradle and dropper for the header and selfbinders was not a discredit to father. He would have used those harvesters had they been invented in his day. If you knew what I do about God you would not worship him either, neither would you keep it to yourself. You would want to help free others. You know the Gods the Orients worship are idols and yet you will not keep it to yourself. You give money freely to hire missionaries to go there and tell them so. Should not missionary work, like charity, begin

DAILY PROOF THAT THERE IS NO GOD.

LESSON IV.

[By the International Instructor for the Church of Humanity.]

Above the graves of our perished loved ones the Church of Humanity proclaims God a myth.

As the Russia-Japanese war is formost in the minds of the reading public at present I shall devote this lesson to a consideration of some of the religious aspects of that war.

God is known to be a myth, therefore religion, worship and idolatry are synonymous terms.

War and worship are twin relics of heathenism. Where worship is practiced you will generally find war practiced or advocated, and preparations being made for it. The more devout the worshipers are the more intense is their desire to murder some one under the name of war; and as worshiping stimulates the war desire the practice of war intensifies the religious devotions. Then to some extent they act and react on each other until they are almost interchangable terms in many cases. To go to war in the interest of a God for the purpose of compelling others to worship him is considered by many to be the highest form of devotion one can bestow on his God.

God in turn is expected to aid his worshipers on the battlefield and give them the victory. War used to be a test of the relative merits of the various Gods, and a God who allowed his worshipers to be defeated was not so powerful as the God of the victors. Hence the worship of the God of the victors was required of the vanquished if any were left alive. Therefore the God worshiped by the most bloodthirsty warriors became as great as their conquered territory expanded. The various Gods became great and then small as the nations backing them rose and fell.

In this war the Czar of Russia is the head of the orthodox or Greek church, which is a branch of Christianity and numbers about 96,016,000 adherents, of which 73,310,000 are Russians. There are in Russia 9,600,000 Catholics, 3,400,000 Protestants, and 3,000,000 Mohammedans.

The Japanese believe in Shintoism and Buddahism, two of the religious sects of eastern Asia.

According to the World's Almanac Buddahism has 147,000,000 followers and Shintoism 14,000,000.

Webster's dictionary says Booda in eastern Asia is a general name for the divinity. Webster's dictionary says: "Boodahism, n. A system of religion in eastern Asia, embraced by more than one-third of the human race. It teaches that at distant intervals a Booda or divinity appears to restore the world from a state of ignorance and decay and then sinks into a state of entire non-existence—or rather, perhaps, of bare existence, without attributes, action or consciousness.

This state called Nervana, or Nicban, is regarded as the ultimate supreme good, and highest reward of virtue among men.

Four Boodas have thus appeared in the world and passed into Nervina, the last of whom, Gaudama, became incarnate about 500 years before Christ. From his death, 543 B. C., many thousand year, will elapse before the appearance of another; so that the system, in the meantime, is practically one of pure atheism. The objects of worship, until another Booda appears, are the relics and images of Gaudama."

However, they must believe in the ability of Booda to wake up long enough to help lick the Russians, as the following news clipping would indicate:

Tokio, March 21.—Many peculiar ceremonies have been performed in Japan within the past two weeks in view of the entering of the empire into a struggle for existence. It is the greatest crisis the nation has ever seen and, of course, with the peculiar religion and customs, ceremonies which seem very strange to the western mind are being performed on every side.

Tokio is a city of temples. There are thousands of shrines where the devotees of Shintoism and Buddhism pay their devotions to their god. Both these religious sects are very devout and the Japanese never think of entering into any serious undertaking without consulting the gods and offering to them prayers for success. The present great crisis has therefore made the temples and shrines all the more popular and they are crowded continually with devout worshipers, while every available place in them is covered with fluttering paper prayers.

Now this is what the Christians call heathen Japan. In the last few years this little oriental nation has been ransacking the entire world for the good things thereof. They imported and adopted most every thing in all the world they found to be better than what they already had. Machinery of all kinds, railroads, steam boats, electric lights, telegraph, telephones, big guns and battle ships, and things too numerous to mention. But they didn't import your Jesus. Can you explain why? I can, they had a better one. Their Gaudama who lived 500 years before Christ was born taught a better system of ethics; they had no use for an inferior teacher. Had your Jesus been superior to Gaudama you would not have had even the trouble of sending him there by missionaries. They would have taken him along home and set him up in business saving souls. The wisest of these Japanese know that it is not the Gods that protect a nation, but that it is the big guns and battle ships that protect a nation's Gods. So they took the guns and battle ships—not for the purpose of forcing their Gods upon Christian nations, but to prevent those nations from forcing their inferior Gods upon them. The following little clipping will indicate what Japan can expect if Russia wins:

Rome, Feb. 15.—Cardinal Merry del Val, the papal secretary of state, had a long interview with M. Gonbastoff, the Russian minister, today to ascertain what assistance the Vatican diplomats abroad can give to Russia in exchange for the protection and tolerance of the Catholic missions wherever the Russian supremacy is established in the far east.

We will return again to Christian Russia and see if her religious behavior is in any way superior to that of heathen Japan. The czar concludes his declaration of war of Feb. 10th, in this way:

"After receipt of this information we ordered our governor to reply with arms. We hereby make known our decision, in firm trust in the help of the Almighty and in assurance of the unanimous readiness of our true subjects to stand with us in defense of our fatherland.

"We call the blessing of the Lord upon our brave army and fleet."

(Signed.) NICHOLAS.

Christians generally ask God, sayin: "And lead us not into temptation," but when they want to murder some of God's children, as they suppose, they are heartless enough to ask God to help them in their devlish work.

What would you think of a family of children quarreling among themselves to the point of murder and then each party beg their father to aid them in murdering the others? And what would you think of a father who would aid either faction to murder the other when he could easily stop the fuss? But this Christian czar has no sympathy for a heavenly father's feelings, and urges him to assist this murderous mob. Why don't he invoke the aid of the devil? I thought it was his duty not God's, to aid people in such devlish wickedness. Is the devil to have nothing to do any more? Is God going to be made to do all the dirty work from now on? They used to give the devil a chance once in a while to lead the people into wickedness. Is murder any more respectable when done under God's leadership than under the devil's? The czar evidently thinks God is more able and willing to kill, so he invokes his aid. Before he would draw the sword he first went to the ancient monastery at Troitzko, near Moscow, to invoke the divine blessing of God on the murderous war he was about to engage in.

The accounts say an intensely religious spirit pervaded the entire assembly in the church of the winter palace where the czar with all his household and high officials assembled to beg heaven's blessings upon the enterprise of murdering their brothers to which the nation was committed.

With unprecedented fervor they implored God to give victory to the Russian arms. Then the court chaplain sprinkled the czar with holy water from the chalice and presented him with a crucifix which the czar fervently kissed.

Were you not afraid of the Russian God more than you are of the Japanese God you would clearly see that the Russians are as heathenish as the Japanese. That their religious ceremonies are just as ridiculous and worthless, so far as getting help from a myth named God is concerned.

Since these idolaters have so much confidence in the power of their God and in their ability to work him why did they not work him sooner and have him prevent hostilities? Isn't it a fact that all idolaters, including the Christians, implore God more fervently to help them murder somebody than they do to help them be peaceful? Some Heathens have no use for a God that won't murder some of his children at his request.

We will now hear what Paul Kruger has to say of his God from whom he expected ample aid in his scrap with the English:

Nice, March 5.—"I believe there is no longer justice in God or man," exclaimed Paul Kruger, formerly the president of the Transvaal, when he was told that Dr. Jameson had been appointed Premier of Cape Colony.

"This is too much. It is incredible," the aged man added, rising from his chair and extending his hands heavenward.

Mr. Kruger has never lost a grain of the bitterness stirred in him by the daring raid led by Dr. Jameson into the Transvaal during the early '90s. Among his close friends he has always maintained that he made a grave error in dealing too leniently with Jameson and John Hayes Hammond, the latter of whom also figured prominently in the raid. He thinks he should have hanged them both. Mr. Kruger has always regarded them as the archo-conspirators under Cecil Rhodes, and says that in any other country in the world they would have paid the penalty with their lives.

Here is this poor old Christian heathen charging God with injustice. He thinks God took the side of the strong against the weak, of the rich against the poor, of the wrong against the right, and so he has come to the conclusion there is no longer justice in God. The truth has never entered his thick skull that God is a myth like Santa Claus. If that fact ever dawns upon him he will withdraw his charge of injustice. No longer justice in God! He talks as if there had been sometime. Had he placed in the scales of justice the accounts of God's doings he read of in his bible he would have learned that long ago. But it makes a difference with some heathens whose ox is gored. Well he is much brighter than most idolaters or he would have seen God's justice in his defeat when the preachers explained to him that "God knows what is best" for him, that "he doeth all things well;" that "he will take care of the widows and the orphans." This untrue statement generally reconciles heathens to their idols and their confidence in them is not shaken by defeat. About the only way to kreak a heathen from worshiping his idol is to break his neck.

It is safe to predict that the defeated nation in this contest will continue to worship their same old idols unless forced to abandon it at the point of the bayonet by the conquerors.

Russians are sure God is more powerful than Booda and if they can, by excessive flattery, induce him to aid them in the combat they will win. Now, Christians, what kind of an opinion would you have of your God if he can be induced by Russian coaxing to murder the Japanese? Are they not his children too according to your belief?

Why should you insist on anyone worshiping or desiring to live with such a being? Can't you see clearly that this Russian God is just as much of a myth as is the Booda of the Japanese? If the worship of Booda constitutes idolatry the worship of God surely does also. If you can comprehend the fact that God is only the name of a myth it is your duty to join the Church of Humanity and thereby let others know that you recognize that truth. By so doing you will help to found a church that will teach the truth about God and save some of the children from idolatry. Let us begin now to build this church home for our children. It is the only way they can be saved from idolatry. They must be raised in this church or a very few of them will ever know the truth about God. If you wish to be one of the founders of a modern, up-to-date church, fill out the following blank and send it to me and get a certificate of life membership by return mail: (on following page).

UNITE! UNITE!

An Open Letter.

Great Bend, Kan., Mar. 24, '04.

Mr. L. K. Washburn,
Editor Boston Investigator:

Friend:—I have just received 2 numbers of the Investigator which I suppose you sent me. I have written you several times, sent money for advertising and asked you to exchange papers with me, but got no reply. So I began to think the old Investigator had suspended. I am glad it is still alive and doing business at the old stand. Many years ago when Mr. Mendum and Mr. Seaver were the editors, I got few sample copies of it. I think I have had a few copies of it since young Mendum and yourself took charge, but none for years

I know the reason you did not answer me is that you disapprove of the work I am trying to do. You do not want your readers and the readers of similar papers to unite in a society. You do not want any one, or any number of your readers to aid you in freeing our race from idolatry. That looks like you are afraid of it being done too soon and you would be thrown out of a job.

Now my editorial brother I beg of you to have no fears of that whatever. There will be a billion idolaters on their knees worshiping the idols of mythologies when you and I are forgotten dust. I beg of you to form a union, or rather help to, of the editorial brethren who are trying to free the people from idolatry by all uniting in the Church of Humanity. After that let us editors, from Boston to San-Francisco, have a special union of our own for the object of companionship and to plan a campaign of education wherein we can work to the best advantage and for the greatest possible results.

Let us work in unison for definite results. Let us pull together. Let us decide what we want done, how to do it, when and where. Let us have a common object in view, and all work in harmony to accomplish it. Why should we be actuated by supreme selfishness Why should we bring our cause into disrepute and nullify our good work by criticism of each other and trying to do each other harm, and then glory in the failure or suspension of a paper or magazine of our class?

Look at the Salvation Army, Mormons, Dowie, Catholics and most all the protestant sects, how they are increasing in numbers, wealth and influence.

Where, O where are our societies, our teachers, our schools and colleges that teach the people that God, Satan and Holy Ghost are fabulous beings; that heaven and hell are myths and that the resurrection on a great judgment day is a delusion?

I see that the Investigator is in its seventy-third year. Where, O where are its converts? Has it made any in all that long time? My Christian mother never heard of any one that dis-believes a word of the bible except Tom Payne, Ingersoll, and myself. My Christian brothers and sisters never heard of any either with the above exceptions. I want my relatives and friends to know that I am not the only person that knows that God is only a myth like Santa Claus.

If you have made any converts to truth, or saved any of the seventy children born every minute from idolatry please trot them out. I want to know their name and address so I can tell my folks of the good news.

On my desk are following papers and magazines and the number of years they have been fighting the Christian superstition and trying to free the people from idolatry;

Truth Seeker 31 years; Torch of Reason 7; Blue Grass Blade 13; Humanitarian Review 2; Liberal Review 1; Higher Science 4; The Examiner 4; The Search Light 4; Free Thought Magazine 21.

While some of these have not been long in the field, yet others that had been, have suspended.

There are many more engaged wholly or partially in this work and have been for years. Very few Christians know of the existence of these papers. They don't know of any converts made by these papers. They don't know of any children being saved from idolatry by these teachers. What a shame!

All other classes of teachers provide a society into which their converts, or scholars can go when they have learned their lesson or graduated. Where they can be counted, trained for teachers, allowed to work, allowed to pay for the work of others.

Every political teacher represents a party and works for its interest. Every priest or preacher represents some organization and works for its interest. They are all building up something. They have some object in view—something to work for. Will you remain the only class of teachers who never, never build? Will you be forever content to make a feeble effort at tearing down what others have builded and put no society in its place? If you tear down the society of falsehood should you not build up the society of truth at the same time? When a farmer's old house is no longer fit to live in he builds a better one before he destroys entirely the old one. You may content yourself with the idea that you are giving truth in the place of error. Truth is not society. It requires society organization through which to teach the truth. Do you imagine the other societies, organized to teach errors, are going to teach your truth? They are not organized for that purpose. As well expect the republican party to teach socialism through its press and lecture bureau. Can't you see the road to success is to build a society of your converts or graduates? That organization would go on growing by winning converts and by the natural increase of the members, thus breaking the endless chain of idolatry, as it is perpetuated by teaching from parent to child. That would form a counter endless chain that would be sure to win eventually. As it is, what few converts you make, if any, just drop out or stay out of the churches until they die. They are not missed. No one knows the true cause why they act so. There is no society for them that represents and defends them, or through which they can defend themselves or pay for their defense by able advocates.

The Salvation Army recruits right from the slums of our large cities, who never saw or heard of any of your papers, who never heard of Ingersoll or Paine, or of any objections to idolatry and sometimes hardly able to read, come around with drum and banjo and promptly gather the children of these, your converts, into the folds of idolatry. They become working and paying members right from the start. Money is given them by their father that should go to the cause you represent. You taught them to be a "Liberal." This money is given to some organization to hire an evangelist to tell these children that their father is an imp of Satan, hell bent and hell bound, that he never has a kind thought, and that he wants to see his children go to hell. How long will you continue to discourage your readers in organizing a society for themselves, but teach them to be liberal and give all their spare money to the support of idolatrous societies which curse them? Our wives and children must have society, some place to go to. If we do not provide it for them idolaters will, and that partly with our money, then sneer at us for not building anything to benefit society.

In the name of common sense let us build! Therefore unite! unite!

The Educational Fund.

The Christian Educator is in the field to educate the christians. With the exception of the clergy no class of Christians need educating in the truth about God more than the editors of religious papers, and nowhere can the teaching do more good according to numbers. The Church of Humanity can place their educational paper in the hands of 1000 of these religious editors one year for $250. That will give them twenty-four lessons for a fraction over one cent a lesson.

I am only asking for pledges now for the amount you will give if the full amount can be raised.

Please send in by return mail a pledge for the amount you will give for this fund, be it ever so small. Amount pledged to date:

W. H. Kerr, $25; Charles Long, Payson, Utah, $5; Emil Frederick, Mt. Sterling, Ky., $10; J. Bertaux, Rich Hill, Mo., $1; Moses White, Newhope, Ark., $10. Total $51.

Some Don'ts.

Don't worship a couple of dead Jews named Jesus and Mary.

Don't worship a bug-a-boo named Jehovah, with which Moses scared the Israelites into obeying him.

Don't send missionaries to the Chinese to tell them they are heathens for worshiping their ancestors until christians stop worshiping dead Jews.

Don't laugh at the Japanese for asking the advice of their dead ancestors on the war until you have stopped asking a dead Jew, named Jesus, to do things for you.

Don,t give a penny to christian churches unless you want to have idolatry perpetuated.

Don't send your children to christian Sunday schools unless you want them taught to worship idols.

Don't hesitate to join the Church of Humanity as soon as you comprehend the good work for humanity we are doing.

For the Educational Fund.

Extracts from letters bearing hope and cheer from the founders of the Church of Humanity:

Mount Sterling, Ky.

Brother W. H. Kerr * * * I will contribute $5 now and that amount after three months. I am in the best of hope that our philanthropic enterprise will be a success—it is in my judgment the best and noblest work we can bestow upon mankind. I hope and trust that later generations will bless us for the sacrifices we now offer for them. * * *

Yours in human confidence,
Emile Frederick.

Payson, Utah.

Brother Kerr:—I will pledge $5 for the fund. It looks to me as though our cause ought to gather strength fast. We have truth on our side and should win. * * *

W. H. Kerr, International Instructor, Church of Humanity, Sir:—In reply to yours of the 28th, ult., will say that I will pledge $10 as donation to send the Christian Educator and God's defender to the editors of those religious papers you speak of.

What I want is religious freedom, and I think it is the duty of every member of the Church of Humanity to contribute liberally for that purpose.

Hoping that you may succeed in raising the funds necessary to forward The Educator to the 1000 religious editors mentioned in your letter. I am as ever, a friend to justice,

BIBLE LESSON
No. 3.

[By the International Instructor for the Church of Humanity.]

Many Christians think the reason that others do not believe every statement in the bible to be true is that they never read it. Now the fact is that those who most seriously object to having the bible taught as a book containing nothing but truth, are the ones who do read the bible with the best understanding.

They know the primary assertions of the bible upon which the Christian religion, and some other religions, rest are untrue because they are self-evident falsehoods when compared with the facts in nature that we can all know and understand.

Christianity is based on the belief that Jesus was the son of a God and that story is based on the belief that there is a God and that the exploits of that God as recorded in the bible are true. If those stories are untrue then Christtanity has no excuse for existence. If God, the creator, is simply a character of fiction his son would be of like creation. Owing then to the importance of the creation story, as being the greatest exploit God's creators attribute to him, I shall devote more time to it than at first contemplated. I want all to know why the members of the Church of Humanity know the story of the creation is untrue. I want all to understand that it is their best judgment, based on a preponderance of evidence and sound conclusions, and not on a wicked nature as the clergy teach. Hence I am anxious for all Christians to study our methods of reasoning and the evidence on which our judgment is based, that they may not judge us erroneously and do both themslves and us a great injustice. No Christian should desire to accuse any one unjustly of having a wicked nature or of trying to drag to eternal torture their dearest friends and relatives. I want all to understand that we are just as afraid of fire as are the Christians and would run as fast and try as hard to keep out of it as any of them. We would do many times more to save ourselves and our children from being thrown into a lake of fire, or hell, than any Christian would do for us, since we would be the ones to suffer. The idea that the clergy or any number of Christians care more for the suffering of our bodies or our souls, if we had any, than we do is preposterous. The reasons then that we do not fear hell is that we have learned that there is no such place, no God to put us there and that wewill be dead, hence could not suffer or care where we were. These are three reasons that justify us in having that apparent carelessness or indifference about hell that astonishes the Christians and which they erroneously attribute to wickedness. We know that the story of the creation is a fable, but we must explain how we know it to be such in order to teach others how to arrive at the same conclusions and join our church. We want others to believe as we do so they will not abuse us for our acquired knowledge nor try to make our children idolaters. We want all to know that God is a myth and hence is not guilty of the wickedness attributed to him. We want none to regard him as an ideal of goodness to be emulated. We want none to condemn him as a criminal when they outgrow the wicked nature his creators gave him. I presume all my readers have bibles. If not they should get one and read the story of the creation again. Then read my comments and conclusions and judge for themselves if the deductions are justifiable.

Gen. 1, v. 17. "And God set them in the firmament of heaven to give light upon the earth.

V. 18 And to rule ever the day and over the night, and to divide the light from the darkness; and God saw that it was good.

V. 19 And the evening and the morning were the fourth day."

Now in the last six verses is recorded the work of the fourth day which included everything in the universe except the earth and its inhabitants. In the light of present knowledge this is by far the greatest day's work ever done by man or attributed to any of his fictitious characters. Here is a novel character named God, created in the likeness of the novelist, with the novelist's size, form, sex, passions, ignorance and all, doing this mighty day's work in twenty-four hours. We will give him credit for working the full twenty-four hours and then marvel at his ability to complete it in that time. No wonder ignorant slaves bow with reverence to such a mighty workman. No wonder that ignoramuses sit gapping with open mouth astonishment as they eagerly listen to the clergy reherse this wonderful day's work.

While verses 14 and 15 would indicate that God's creators had just intended to let their fictitious workman remain on earth and just order the heavenly bodies ready made and placed. Yet in verses 16 and 17 they had him make and place them. In this creation story there seems to be two methods of creation adopted by the novelist; one by simply ordering things and one by making them. Things are produced by both methods and sometimes the first method seems to fail then the other is used. The latter method had to be finally adopted to accomplish the desired result in the fourth day's work. Let us contemplate the magnitude of that day's work for a while. Remember God was still in the likeness of the novelist, same size and of similar substance. He stood upon the earth while he made up the suns, planets, satelites ond asteroids out of nothing and toted them off to their respective places.

In the last lesson we found the sun to be 886,500 miles in diameter and nearly 1,300,000 times larger than the earth. What do you think of that for a load for a God who was only in his infancy and no larger than an ordinary man, to pack on his shoulders so far? The wonder is that this little earth didn't break down under the weight. Then God had to throw the sun out to its place, or else just step off the earth and run out 92,897,000 miles in space to place it, and just think how fast he would have to run.

Now if he traveled with the velocity of light it would take 16 minutes and 36 seconds to make the round trip. That would require him to travel only 186,330 miles per second, or equal to seven and one half times around the earth per second. No wonder the poor idolaters are struck with amazement at the gait God can work and travel. Now this illustration does not do him justice as to his industry that day. That day "he made the stars also." There are many millions of stars many of them are millions of times larger than the sun and millions of times farther away. Some of the stars are larger than the entire solar system, and to them the sun is as a mustard seed to a wagon wheel.

We have found that light travels 186,330 miles per second and reaches us from the sun in eight minutes and eighteen seconds. Traveling at the same rate it requires the following time for light to reach us from the stars:

STARS	YEARS	STARS	YEARS
Centauri	36	Procyon	27
Cygni	68	Arcturus	28
Sirius	15	Pole Star	45
Cassiopeiæ	17	Pegasi	60
Vega	23	Capella	71
Draconis	26

You see by these few samples of God's energy on the fourth day that he had no time to fool along at light's gait. He would have to go a few billion times faster in order to get his day's work done. It begins to look like he would need a rest before Sunday came and he ought to have laid off on the fifth day. Now our pity is aroused for God's stupidity. He should have made the heavenly bodies very much smaller and then left them very much nearer the earth. They would then have had the same effect, since they were only made to give light upon earth, to rule over the day and night and to divide the light from the darkness." How much sympathy should a man get who wished to thread a needle and instead of lighting a lamp and hanging it close to his work would dig a thousand tons of coal and pack it off twenty miles from his place of business and set it on fire so he could see to work? He certainly should have all the sympathy that we owe the insane. Of course God wasn't to blame, the novelist made him do it. Neither is the novelist to blame; he had no idea of the magnitude of the task assigned his character for a day's work. We are the insane ones who need the sympathy if we believe the story to be literally true. I am aware of the fact that many of the brightest of the Christians and clergy have come to the rescue of this story teller and elongated the seven days, except Sunday, the rest day, into indefinite periods of time. That is the unwarranted device of infidels and unbelievers in the bible story to keep the wool pulled over the eyes of stupidity that began to take an occasional peep at geology and astronomy. No statement could have made the story plainer than it is to mean days as we know them of 24 hours each. My ancestors murdered such people as these, who wickedly tampered with the word of God by trying to change its plain meaning to suit the facts of science as they were discovered from century to century. Did not God himself dictate the story? Who else was there to take notes on those days? Ought not God to know better than anyone else what he did and how long it had taken him? The wicked though most intelligent of the clergy are to be found in nearly all sects, who imagine themselves capable of improving the bible by changing its meaning. Now to change its meaning amounts to unbelief and they are leading us all to perdition, except the Salvation army, Holy Rollers, Jumpers and some fossils in all Christian churches who have never heard of any of the sciences, higher critics or evolution, or else are unable to comprehend their meaning. Why, if this heresy about the days of the creation being long periods of time is allowed to be promulgated it is only a question of time when it will dawn on the idolaters that the seventh day was of lack duration and may be any length from one billion to a billion billion years. They will then claim that God is still in retirement resting and it is on that account that the Church of Humanity is unable to find Him.

The church members should have their certificates framed and hang them in a conspicuous place. Let your light shine.

The truth that God is a myth is easily taught and quickly learned by those who have not become panic stricken by the priest's cry of fire! fire!!

The children who are taught the truth about Santa Claus from the first are just as good children as are those who are deceived for a while. Just so they will be if taught that God is a myth from the first.

The Twentieth Century has got a little start of the Church of Humanity but by hard work and liberal donations we will catch up.

Through the International Lessons I hope to transfer the love worshipers have for idols to humanity.

Through the Bible Lessons I hope to win recognition for the superior goodness of man when compared with that attributed to God by his creators.

THE CHRISTIAN EDUCATOR
AND GOD'S DEFENDER.

W. H. KERR, Editor and Publisher.

Devoted to Teaching the Discovery that God is a myth like Santa Claus and to Founding the Church of Humanity.

Vol. 1. Great Bend, Kansas, May, 1904. No. 6.

The Church of Humanity.

The Church of Humanity is the only church in existence that teaches the truth about God. It is the only church that will free the people from idolatry and keep them free. It is the only church that can save the children from being made idolators. It is the only church that is founded on scientific facts, that believes in science, that will promote science and welcomes the scientists to membership. It is the only church that is in a consistent, logical position to act as a missionary to all the world in freeing it from idolatry. It is growing slowly but surely. Just as sure as we belong to a progressive race this church is bound to win in time.

Other churches make idolators of the seventy children born to our race every minute. That does not promote progress or civilization. Other churches send out missionaries to induce worshipers to give up the worship of one idol, or set of idols,for another set. That does not in the least promote progress or civilization. It is just as heathenish to worship the Christian's idols as it is to worship the idols of any other creed. No body is made any wiser by changing from the worship of one idol to that of another. When the Church of Humanity gets able it will establish missions in all countries to free the people from the worship of myths.

If you would like to see our race progress join this church. If you think it wrong to worship dead Jews, or Holy Ghosts, or almighty bug-a-boos join the Church of Humanity and help to sweep these cow-webs of superstition from the human brain.

The Educational Fund.

Amount pledged on a fund of $250.00 to send the Christian Educator and God's Defender to 1,000 religious editors one year:

W H Kerr, Great Bend, Kan.,	$25
Emil Fredrick, Mt Sterling, Ky.,	10
Moses White, Newhope, Ark.,	10
Charles Long, Payson, Utah,	5
E E Wallace, Great Bend, Kan	5
John Bertaux, Rich Hill, Mo.,	1
E C Reichwald, Chicago, Ill ,	1
Total to date,	58

We will accept a pledge of any amount from any one for this fund who desires the truth about God taught to the people by the religious press. Perhaps even greater than the power of the clergy is the influence of the religious press to mold the religious opinions of the people. The clergy and the religious press are the two great causes of the perpetuation of idolatry in this age. They are the two primary sources from which flow the false teaching of our ignorant and barbarous ancestors.

We must bravely attack this vice of idolatry in its stronghold. We must martial our forces in battle array and bombard the enemy of truth, progress and civilization all along the line. I do not know the address of many clergymen, but I am donating this paper to all I know. All the members of the Church of Humanity should donate this little missionary to all the priests and preachers they know the address of. And all the subscribers should do likewise. I may be able later on to get a list of the clergy of the various denominations, so we can donate it to all of them. We must remember the idolators love their idols so well that they never will give one cent towards freeing themselves from the vice of worshiping dead Jews and an old scare-crow named God hatched out of the brain of heathens. We that are free must donate the evidence that has freed us to those who are not free from idolatory. They will thank us for our labors when they are free and will in turn help to free others. That will be our reward. I have a list of 1,000 editors of religious papers in the United States; these papers have in the aggregate around 12,000,000 subscribers, and perhaps 60,000,000 readers.

They pour forth torrents of false reasoning and sophistry why the people should become idolators and remain so. We can bombard this regiment of false teachers for a whole year with facts and evidence that will go a long ways to convince them that they are wrong in their teaching for only $250. To save the people from idolatry we must win over their teachers to the side of truth.

We have nearly one-fourth the amount pledged now. So chip in, readers, with your pledge for this fund all you can spare, if that is only a quarter.

Members of the Church of Humanity.

These have graduated in the knowledge of God and are enrolled in the Book of Life as life members and founders of the Ghurch of Humanity:

Dr M W Wilcox, Oklahoma City, Ok.
S F Weaver, Spurgeon, Ind
Elias Molee, 1223 J street, Tacoma, Wash
Emile Frederich, Mt Sterling, Ky.
W W Wallace, 5702 Ashland avenue, Chicago, Ill.
John Bertaux, Rich Hill, Mo.
P C Hansen, Greenleaf, Kansas.
Mrs Etta Semple, Ottawa, Kansas.
A Lutterman, Ackley, Iowa.
Dr H J Chapman, Speed, Kansas.
Charles Long, Payson, Utah.
James Beeson, Hytop, Ala.
E E Wallace, Great Bend, Kansas.
H O Guston, Cerro Gordo, Ill.
James E Mizzles, Newhope, Ark.
J B Wise, 329 West Main street, Oklahoma City, Okla.
Joe R Miller, Morgantown, West Va.
Moses White, Newhope, Ark.
W W Walcott, Lyons, Kans.
J J Jones, Sailor Springs, Ill.
E Z Ernst, Olathe, Kansas.
I I Lynn, E 803 Baldwin avenue, Spokane, Wash.
Franklin H Heald, 219 Stimson block, Los Angeles Calif.
John S Holman, Pontiac, Ill.

These are the people who are on the highway of civilization. They have mentally outgrown idolatry. They will never desecrate the twentieth century by the worship of dead Jews. They will never disgrace themselves by bowing in abject fear of a Jewish bug-a-boo named God. They are happy in their freedom from superstition and will do all they can to free others from idolatry that they too can rejoice in the true knowledge of God.

There must be many more who are far enough advanced in the knowledge of God to be eligible to membership in the Church of Humanity. If you, reader, are one of them I shall be glad to welcome you to membership in the church. Fill out the blank application on another page and return it to me.

Superstition's Withering Blight.

Apparently intelligent men are still cringing cowards in the lowest depth of superstition. They dare not admit the noblest thoughts that knock on their brain for admission. They have a No. 8 brain, but it has been jammed into a No. 3 religious creed.

Sentinels have been put on guard to keep the brain from expanding, especially on matters pertaining to idolatry. These sentinels have guarded the religious ideas and idols with a devotion worthy of a nobler cause. These sentinels are, love for the idol, fear of the idol's punishment and hope of the idol's reward.

Here is an example how love, fear and hope zealously guards an idol enthroned in the brain of some men. I asked a man a few days ago for permission to send him my paper. He had heard of it and promptly replied: "No, I would be afraid God would strike me down for reading it."

Here was the sentinel "Fear" on guard and instantly did the duties the clergy put it there for when they enthroned an idol on this man's brain many years ago. Had he the mental power to place these sentinels in subjection to his will until he examined the evidence on which the clergy based their right to enthrone an arbitrary domineering idol on his intellect he would be making better use of that intellect. Now this man would be actually ashamed to say he was afraid of Santa Claus striking him down for listening to some one saying that Santa Claus is a myth. God being the name of a myth the same as is Santa Claus, therefore, he is no more dangerous or liable to strike any one down.

And how could this idol strike him down? With a sledge hammer? Who ever heard of a God being able to lift a sledge hammer?

With disease? Mercy! He can't prevent disease from striking down hundreds of his most devout worshipers every day. Therefore, he can't control diseases. Lightning? Why lightning often strikes his worshipers in the temples dedicated by loving devotion to his service. He can have no power over lightning. Fire? The dickens! Didn't you read of charred women and children on their knees with outstretched arms in snpplication to God for protection being found after the Iroquois theatre fire? Don't that and hundreds of other cases prove that no God can do anything with fire. Now, since we know that no God has any power to save his worshipers from destruction by the elements, he has no power to use those elements in "striking down" anybody. And again, if there was a God who made a business of "striking down" people for ruining his character, he would begin by "striking down" that man for accusing him of being mean enough to do such a thing.

Then he would turn his attention to the clergy and do a wholesale "striking down" business for accusing him of cursing snakes, cursing the ground, creating satan, establishing hell, deriding Adam, driving our ancestors away from the trees of knowledge and life, drowning a whole world, tormenting Job, helping to murder millions, giving wicked orders, hardening Pharaoh's heart, seducing a Jewish maiden, cursing a fig tree, stealing corn, stealing an ass and her colt. manufacturing wine, keeping company with magdalenes, overthrowing tables and choking other people's swine, etc. As no God is around "striking down" those who accuse him of all these crimes and vices; therefore, there is not the least danger of him "striking down" his defenders who declare him not guilty of the crimes charged. Any decent God would much rather be known as a myth like Santa Claus than to be thought guilty of those wicked crimes and vices.

Atraid God would strike him down! How ignorant he is of the true power of Gods. If he would tie a spider web to the smallest hair on his head and had all the Gods in the universe arrayed in one grand tug-of-war with the Christian's God as captain of the team, they could not break the web, much less be able to pull the hair out. Religious editors. preachers and priests cultivate, nourish and foster this idiotic fear of idols in order to keep them enthroned in the brain of man. Turn the electric light of the twentieth century intelligence on these Gods and Ghosts produced by heathen brains and they will vanish as does the spooks and goblins before the brilliant light of the rising sun.

Help along the campaign of education all you possibly can.

Don't forget to send in your pledge to the Educational Fund.

As soon as you are convinced that God is a myth join the Church of Humanity.

You can't have a local church society until a few of your neighbors learn that God is a myth.

Help to teach the facts about God to the Christian teachers by contributing to the educational fund.

Not many Jews allow their children to worship dead Jews named Jesus and Mary. Then why should the rest of us require ours to?

If you want a local church society for your children donate this church missionary to your neighbors so they too can learn that God is a myth and join with you.

Do not refuse to join with us simply on account of the name "church" being given to the society. You do not hate the names John and William because some bearing those names are criminals.

If you get a sample copy of this paper and wish to aid us in our campaign of education send us a quarter for a year's subscription for yourself and a quarter for each of your relatives and neighbors whom you would like to have the paper sent to.

Kansas Still Ahead---Hurry Up Sister States.

The C. E. & G. D. has subscribers in thirty states. All should be represented by membership in the Church of Humanity. Older states should try to rescue the place of honor at the head of the list from Kansas. Who will be the first to represent the other states? What state will be at the head of the list next month?

Send for Sample Copies.

Christians, here are some papers you would do well to read. The editors no doubt will be glad to send you a sample copy for examination. Pick out one or more of them and read them in connection with your religious paper and Bible. They will broaden your views of life, make you more tolerant, sympathetic and generous.

You may find in them the evidence that will prove to you that your religious ideas are wrong, that you have been taught mistakes. They may enable you to find the truth, and that is what you and I should desire.

UNITE! UNITE!

These Men Want an Organization.

GLEN RIDDLE, PA.

W. H. KERR,

Dear Sir:—The Christian Educator and other literature received.

After a perusal of the same I must say that the sublimity of your undertaking is positively astounding. Your idea comprehends both the negative and positive poles of Freethought, and embrases a movement that I have often hoped for, yearned for and imagined, but never expected to see realized even in embryo. Your project ought to have the support of all liberals if only as an experiment, and a recognition of the courage and intrepidity of its author.

I shall be glad to have you enroll me as a member of the Church of Humanity and will do what I can to assist.

Also enter my name as a subscriber to the Christian Educator and accept best wishes for your success from,

MILES KELLY.

MT. STERLING, KY.

Friend W. H. Kerr:—I pronounce you the champion religious inaugurator of modern times. You have done what I wanted to do for the last ten years, but circumstances prevented me from doing so. I therefore thank you from the bottom of my heart for your humane feelings and I feel confident that truth will triumph at last.

The certificate of membership you send out was a very wise step for you to take right at the outset. It commands respect from other organizations. I had mine framed and keep it exposed at my office, and you bet it creates curiosity and inquiry. There is not any day when people don't ask me about our principles and teachings, what authority we are governed by and so on. I tell them that in a short time we will have a Local Instructor in this town. * * * I am fifty-two years old and as I have been educated as a Roman priest for some length of time in France it gives me the advantage of knowing both sides of the Christian church if there be two sides.

I have declared the orthodox God of the Bible a myth for the last fifteen years, and argued with the clergy and have personally and through the Blue Grass Blade challenged them to open debate but without avail.

I can do no good in this line except by authority of the Church of Humanity, then I will begin having services regularly every Sunday morning. * * * Although I am a poor man I will do all I can for what I think is best for mankind, and you, friend Kerr, have come nearer to my ideas of right than any other human being. I have a wife and four children, all brought up with the principles of our church and, as I believe, there is not a happier family within a radius of ten thousand miles.

You may count them and some others as members of our church as soon as I can show authority. I believe that I am more anxious to have our church grow than brother Kerr himself. * * *

My family is as much respected as any priest or preacher in the land. I notice more and more that the people are gradually drifting towards rationalism. All that is necessary is authority from some organization to appear on the open field like other churches. * * *

The sooner we appoint Local Instructors the sooner we will be recognized and respected. * * * You are the very man we are looking to for advice. We must be brave, persevering and not afraid of the scorn of orthodox people. * * * Let us have one long, hard pull and we will get through the superstitious quagmire sooner than can reasonably be expected.

Yours for humanity's sake,

EMILE FREDRICH.

There are many men like these two in almost every county of the world who have learned the fact that God is a myth like Santa Claus. They are able and willing to organize into a society so that they could teach by that society's authority. This is just what the Church of Humanity is going to do. We must organize these people and put them to work teaching what they have learned about God to others. It is an absolute shame and disgrace that the ever increasing world of little children are allowed to be scared by the uninformed with fictitious Gods, devils and hells when so many educated people know these to be only phantoms of the mind handed down to us from a more ignorant age.

I invite all the Freethought editors of the United States to rally to the aid of this little band of their readers and converts who wish a universal organization of all those who are free from Idolatry. The readers of no one of these papers are numerous enough to form a strong organization. But the readers of all those papers organized into the Church of Humanity would at once command recognition and respect from politicians, legislators, judges and Christian societies. They would then be able to employ a full list of Instructors and keep them busy teaching the rising generation the truths about God that we have learned and thus save them from idolatry. EDITORS! why do you continue to refuse to help your readers to organize when you have their wishes so plainly expressed? Do you not want them to save their children from idolatry? The children can't read and understand your papers and books without teachers to explain to them any more than they could learn arithmetic by simply giving them a text book. We could teach our children to read and write at home but we all prefer to tax ourselves to employ teachers for that purpose. Just so in teaching the truths about God, satan, heaven, hell, etc. We would much rather tax ourselves to employ instructors to do that teaching. Singly we are not able to do that any more than we would be to employ teachers of the common school branches. United in a society we will be able to employ instructors to teach our children. One instructor can teach the children of a whole county, thereby making the expense very light to each. But when more people in a county want their children taught these truths than one instruotor can accommodate then local instructors would be supplied from the ranks of the local graduates. Many of these graduates would teach free of charge to Sunday School classes the same as the Christian Sunday School teachers do. We could then have regular society, uniform teaching and text books, and song books, and teachers trained especially for their duties of teaching. We never can have these without organization. Many of your readers want these; they are necessities for saving their children from idolatry. Then help them to UNITE! UNITE!

Locating the Guilty Parties.

Many deplore the perpetuation of idolatry in this wonderful age of progress and have tried to locate the blame for it.

Some say the clergy are to blame. Not so. They don't know any better. They never have learned that God is a myth. Others say the fault lies with the editors of religious publications. Wrong too. They do not know they are teaching errors.

It is also affirmed the parents are to blame. But how can they teach the truth to their children without having first learned it themselves?

Then the wise ones rise to explain that the desire to worship God or something is of pre-natal origin. Mistaken again. A child is no more born with the desire to worship God or any other myth than it is born with the desire and ability to read the Chinese alphabet without being taught. Do I know who the guilty parties are? Yes. You see there are very few who have really learned that God is a myth and—what! You have known it for twenty years! Have you spent all the time and money you possibly could in teaching that knowledge to others? Haven't done anything! You are the guilty man. You are the guilty woman. You are to blame for the perpetuation of idolatry.

I am the guilty man, and so is every man and woman who have learned that God is only a myth and are not doing all in their power to teach that truth to others. Those who know the truth are to blame for the perpetuation of errors and not those who do not know the truth.

To Authors.

It is not the intention to write a new literature, including text books and song books, for the Church of Humanity, but to adopt these from works now written. I invite authors of books, pamphlets, and leaflets suitable for text books and reading exercises for the church to submit a copy to me for inspection so I can make up a temporary list for church use. Some of the books may be suitable for adoption as they are, others may require revision to meet our needs.

International Lesson

DAILY PROOF THAT THERE IS NO GOD.

OBJECT LESSON V.

[By the International Instructor for the Church of Humanity.]

Above the graves of our perished loved ones the Church of Humanity proclaims God a myth.

Vivid evidence of the truth that God is a myth, as the Church of Humanity teaches, was given to the people of this city and vicinity last Saturday. This object lesson should remain indelibly impressed on the tablets of their memory so long as life shall last. About 1 o'clock on April 30, as I was walking in my garden, I saw a flash of lightning and heard the sharp report. In a few minutes came the announcement that a lady had been killed by that flash, only five blocks distant. She was sitting in a buggy with her eighteen year old daughter, having just driven in from the country to have a garment fitted that a lady in town was making for her. She was about fifty years of age and leaves a husband and five children, the oldest twenty and the youngest ten years of age, to mourn her sudden untimely death. None of the eleven Christian organizations of this city have the ability to interpret this phenomena of nature correctly. Neither has any branch or sect of Christianity the knowledge to do so. They have always taught that the lightning bolt was the special instrument with which a God struck down his enemies. By inculcating this idea they have succeeded in keeping themselves and everybody else they could influence in mortal fear of God. Influenced by their narrow creeds and wide ignorance they have thought their enemies and God's enemies to be one and the same identical parties. The clergy cannot comprehend the possibility of their God having enemies among their friends or of their enemies not being God's enemies also. They interpret God's enemies to be those who refuse to do what they say God requires of them.

And what each clergyman wants the people to do or not to do he says is God's wish, thus making his own wish and that of his God identical. Had the lightning struck down one of the seven joint keepers of this city or one of the twelve bad girls the preachers of this city had caused to be arrested near a neighboring town recently, the clergy could have seen clearly God's motives. They would have held this example up as a warning to others of God's way of dealing with violators of law and good morals. Had I been struck down the terrible example of God's wrath being visited on one who attempted to rescue him from charges of wickedness would have been heralded as a warning for others not to attempt it. And it might have scared people out of the undertaking for some time to come, as was David scared out of hauling God in an ox cart to his city, for three months, because God smote Uzzah for attempting to keep the cart from upsetting and spilling God out (See 2 Samuel 6). Nobody dared after Uzzah's experience to ever again try to keep an ox cart in which God was being transported, from upsetting. I digress here to warn the members that should I be struck down by lightning, or by any other cause, pay no attention to the clergy's declaration that it is a manifestation of the anger of a God, for they will be mistaken.

A myth can't get angry or molest anyone. Just elect one of your number International Instructor and go right on building up the Church of Humanity in which to teach coming generations the truth about God and thus save them from idolatry.

To continue: What excuse can the clergy give for their God striking down this woman with whose character and occupation they can find no fault? They can't see his reasons so clearly as they could have done in the other cases. They must be non-plussed. They may state that "God works in a mysterious way," "It is one of the mysteries of Godliness," "God's ways are not man's ways and are past finding out," "The Lord hath given and the Lord hath taken away," "He doeth all things well," and "He knows what is best." None of these statements are satisfactory to the thoughtful man or woman. The fact remains, were God a real being, as the Christians represent him to be, having power over the elements and directing them, he would be a cold, premeditating murderer, utterly devoid of love, sympathy or care for any human being. A being to shun, despise and abhor as we would a human fiend.

The same afternoon a widow in this city got a phone message that her son in an adjoining county had been killed by lightning. "Mr. Compton was in the field plowing with a riding plow," says the Great Bend Rustler, "When the bolt struck he fell from the seat, and the hired man who was near by ran to the body. Death was instantaneous. Deceased was a man about 30 years old, sober and industrious and an exemplary citizen, and this sudden taking off of a life full of vigor and of promise is a terrible blow to the bereaved wife and mother."

Christians, are these two victims the kind of people your God hates and despises? Does your God take a delight in "striking down" such citizens? If he had power to prevent it he is just as wicked as though he did the "striking down." No right minded man or woman should desire to live with a murderous being in heaven or any other place, for he would be infinitely more wicked than the joint keepers or bad girls some preachers condemn.

The Church of Humanity has come to God's rescue and redeemed him from the crimes of commission and of omission charged to him by the Christian churches. That church declares him to be a myth like Santa Claus and as innocent of "striking down" anyone as Mary's little lamb. If you, reader, wish to be one of God's defenders and redeemers please fill out the following blank and return it to me today. You will be enrolled in the Book of Life as a life member and one of the founders of the Church of Humanity and receive a certificate of graduation in the knowledge of God.

The Church of Humanity

God is a Myth like Santa Claus

Scientific Truth

The affirmation that "God is a myth like Santa Claus" is based on Scientific Truth. The Church of Humanity is based on that affirmation. All members of the church will be graduates in the knowledge of God and, up to a limited number, founders of the Church of Humanity. The organization of the members into a society will constitute the church proper. All power and authority will be vested in the members. From their ranks all instructors will be selected. When the church is well established applicants for the position of instructors will be required to take special courses of study and training to prepare themselves for the duties of the office they aspire to, and as far as possible the different classes of instructors will be selected by election or appointment from the class below—promotion on the merit system for special abilities and fitness. Instructors of all classes will be expected to observe the common moralities and proprieties required of teachers in our common schools. Those who have advocated and taught through the press and on the rostrum the principles of the Church of Humanity are eligible to the office of instructor. Upon application for commission, with evidence of ability, I shall grant an Instructor's Commission for Local, County or State Instructor. All instructors will make reports to and be under the supervision of the next higher Instructor for that territory. If there be none higher they will make monthly reports to me and be under my supervision. Instructors will use the text books and song books adopted by the church. This list will be selected by a committee of Instructors later on. A few of the members, like Mr. Fredrich, are able to act as Local or County Instructors and begin holding public Sunday services. Those members who desire to teach should apply for an Instructor's Commission to empower them to do so. By virtue of my temporary office as International Instructor I can grant this power. My assumed office is based on my discovery that God is a myth like Santa Claus which gives me a natural right to teach it and to help to establish an organization through which that teaching can be perpetuated.

How to Decide.

In making up your mind whether to join the Church of Humanity or not you only have to decide on a very few points among which are:

Do you want your children to be worshipers of idols?

Do you want our race to remain in heathenism?

Will you do all you can to prevent the truth being taught to the people?

Do you believe the teaching of the mistakes of the ancients to be of more importance than the facts of the modern?

Do you believe the people should be kept in ignorance about God's nature?

If you can truthfully answer all these questions in the negative then join the Church or Humanity at once.

Every Body Redeemed.

According to an ancient fable, man committed an "original sin" by eating a forbidden apple which placed him and his posterity under condemnation of a myth named God. This myth is represented as committing the most henious crimes and winding up by redeeming man from "original sin" 4004 years afterwards by committing a crime for which negroes are burned.

Now comes the Church of Humanity 1904 years afterwards and redeems God from all "original" and other sins and gives him a clear bill of moral character, proving him to be absolutely guiltless of all crimes and vices charged to him. Arise! Rejoice! Herald the glad tidings!

God is Redeemed!

BIBLE LESSON No. 4.

[By the International Instructor for the Church of Humanity.]

A majority of the people wish to know the truth about God. No one will worship him when they know he is a fictitious personage like Santa Claus. It is a fact that he is a fabulous being, a man-made character of the imagination.

It will require many schools, colleges and instructors devoted exclusively to teaching that fact before the people generally can be convinced of it. On account of previous false teaching people will be slow to accept the real truth about God.

All worshipers can easily learn that a large majority of themselves are mistaken in their ideas of God and that fact alone should make them suspicious of their own religious teaching. There are according to the New York World encyclopedia for 1904, nine different religious creeds as follows:

Creeds	No. of followers
Christianity	477,080,158
Confucianism	256,000,000
Hindooism	190,000,000
Mohamedanism	176,834,372
Buddhism	147,900,000
Polytheism	117,681,669
Taoism	43,000,000
Shintoism	14,000,000
Judiaism	7,186,000

Here is a total of 1,428,682,209 worshipers. I can prove by their own testimony, if you value that worth anything, that they are all mistaken and are only idolators.

The followers of any eight of these creeds will agree with me that the followers of the other creed are mistaken.

The followers of each creed are not agreed among themselves that they are right. Take, for instance, Christianity. According to the same authority it is sub-divided into eight churches as follows:

Churches	No. of followers
Catholic church	230,866,533
Protestant churches	143,237,625
Orthodox Greek church	98,016,000
Church of Abyssinia	3,000,000
Armenian church	1,690,000
Coptic church	120,000
Nestorians	80,000
Jacobites	70,000

Now I can call any seven of these churches as witnesses and prove by them that the other one is mistaken. And so I could prove by a majority of the christians, if their testimony on this subject was worth anything, that they are all on the broad road to hell.

The followers of each of these eight church disagree among themselves as to the true road to their fictitious heaven and are again subdivided into numerous sects aggregating hundreds. Ninety-nine hundredths of these religious sects will agree with me in the affirmation that they are all mistaken in some of their teachings. Each creed, church and sect thinks all the rest are wrong.

This should cause each to review the foundations of their own faith through fear that they also may be wrong. They have the assurance of all the other creeds that they are wrong.

It must forever remain an unalienable right for each church, sect, individual and generation to review the evidence on which its religion rests. This right carries with it the duty to reject one or all religions if the evidence is insufficient to establish beyond a reasonable doubt the truth of the alleged facts. We should be just as quick to condemn and reject our own beliefs if found to be wrong as we are those of others. We should also be just as impartial and critical in the examination of the foundations of our own religious creed as we are the creed of others.

To do this we must banish prejudice, fear of punishment and hope of reward. Then we are free to search for truth and to accept it wherever found. With this preparation and object in view we are ready to proceed with the study of our bible, and learn how primative man created a fictitious character named God and made him responsible for the phenomena of nature he could not understand. And finally how he bowed down and worshiped this creature of his own imagination.

God's creators over-worked him on the fourth day and so we are not surprised that he did a very light day's work, comparatively, on the next day.

He was only required to create the birds and fish on the fifth day. The heavist work was the creation of "great whales."—Gen. 1:

20. And God said, Let the waters bring forth abundantly the moving creature that hath life, and fowl that may fly above the earth in the open firmament of heaven.

21. And God created great whales, and every creature that moveth, which the waters brought forth abundantly, after their kind, and every winged fowl after its kind; and God saw that it was good.

22. And God blessed them, saying, Be fruitful and multiply, and fill the waters in the seas, and let fowl multiply in the earth.

23. And the evening and the morning were the fifth day.

It does seem that every adult able to read, would have the intelligence to know that this creation story is a work of fiction. To try to prove it to be such ought to be superfluous. It is certainly an indication of inferior intelligence or else unexcusable indifference to truth for any adult to teach this story as being true. When we critically examine this story and compare its assertions with known facts it proves itself untrue. People believe this story was told by a God. It is told in the third person, as "and God said," "and God created," "and God blessed." Had the one who is represented as doing the work told the story he would have said: "I said," "I created," "I blessed." God's creators represent him as talking and giving orders to all objects, animal, vegetable and mineral. They are represented as understanding him and in some cases obeying. As God is a myth he cannot talk. No one ever heard him talk.

We have the evidence of some crazy peoble to the contrary but we just feel sorry for them and promptly put them in an asylnm when they get a command from God to kill some one. A man must learn a language before he can understand it. In this creation story all things are represented as understanding the language of this myth named God.

Christians, read the above Bible quotations again. You see this story is told by the story teller. It makes no pretence or claim that God wrote it or dictated it. The claim that the story teller was inspired by a God was set up later by the priests to scare people into believing it. They attached a penalty for desbelieving the story to be true and a reward for believing it.

Those penalties and rewards to be received in another world are as fictitious as the God is and will be unceremoniously waved aside while we examine the story on its merits. As a work of fiction to amuse people who have nothing else to do but while away the time reading novels, this story of creation may be interesting. But as a story to be taught to our children as being true it is simply nonsense.

This creation story is claimed by the Christians to have been written by Moses whom they say was born 2433 years after the alleged creation

This story could not have been handed down by tradition because man was not created then according to it. No legiondary story can be relied on as being true when preserved just orally for only a small fraction of that time. Had the story of creation been true this creator would have put it all in a book at the time had he wished man to know it.

It makes no difference to us who wrote the story, when or where. We know it is untrue from its nature.

We know that seas are not living organisms. They have no ears to hear any command, hence they did not bring forth living creatures at a command, We know that fish and fowls could not understand commands to be "fruitful and multiply." If this story was found incorporated with the "Fables of Æsop" or "Grimes' Eairy Tales" all would recognize it as a fable. And were those books of fable incorporated in the bible most Christians would believe them to be true stories.

Now we should all understand that the truth of a story does not depend on the name of the book in which it is found.

No one will lose a moment of happiness if taught from early childhood that this creation story is only a fable. If you do not wish your children taught this creation story as being true it is your duty to join the Church of Humanity and help to found a society that will teach them the truth.

It is the only way to save them from being scared or bribed by the other churches into believing it.

Idolatry Warps Judicial Minds.

In a test case the supreme court of Kansas says: "A public school teacher who, for the purpose of quieting the pupils, and preparing them for their regular studies, repeats the Lord's prayer and the twenty-third psalm as a morning exercise, without comment or remark, in which none of the pupils are required to participate is not conducting a form of religious worship or teaching sectarian or religious doctrine."

A clause in the state constitution reads: "Nor shall any person be compelled to attend or support any form of worship." what is the use of having constitutions to protect our children from enforced idolatry, and their parents from being forced to pay for it, if they can be overruled by idolatrous judges? It might be reasonable be supposed that men intelligent enough to occupy the supreme bench would be a little in advance of the ignorant masses and would be able to lead and direct them in the right way. But here we have the fact brought home to us that these supposed brightest minds are not one fraction of a degree in advance of the lowest strata of ignoramuses in religious ideas.

Instead of deciding according to the constitution, truth and justice, and thereby aiding to check the perpetuation of idolatry through the public schools, they have rendered a decision in accordance with the desires of the most ignorant of their constituents. In matters idolatrous these judges tag around after the most ignorant under the belief that the majority must always be right and the majority will tag oround after these judges under the impression that they are wiser than they and should be followed. Hence they all go forward in a circle and make no intellectual progress. Were these judges not afraid of a myth named God striking them down and some ignoramus blowing them up so that they would be free to bring their judicial minds to bear on this question as on other questions, in which no idolatry was involved, they would not hand down such a decision—such a contradiction of facts. Now the facts are Christianity is a religion and the Christians, as a whole, are only a religious sect. The Christian religion consists in worshiping a particular God in special ways, praying to and praising him in song being the most common ways.

Hence repeating a prayer in reverential atitude supposed to be particularly pleasing to God by the Christians is the rankest kind of religious worship and sectarianism.

The twenty-third psalm is a Jewish sacred hymn of praise to God and also constitutes worship when so used.

These judges would undoubtedly reverse their decision were a parallel case taken to them wherein any other religion was taught in like manner in the schools "without comment or remark."

When the teachers request the children to arise and stand with bowed heads during the reciting of a prayer, as they do in this city, it constitutes enforced participation in practical religicus worship of a sectarian God. The only remedy I know of to cure this heathen practice is the truth about God taught to the people.

When a large portion of the people know that God is only the name of a myth like Santa Claus then, and not until then, will this idolatry in the schools cease. Ghosts, Satan and hell are not taught in our public schools even "without comment or remark" "for the purpose of quieting the pupils, and preparing them for their regular studies."

The school board, teachers and many of the parents have learned that they are fabulous things and don't want the children quieted with any such stuff. Well they must learn now that God and heaven are just as fictitious as the other fellows and place. They can, by a little thinking, select something more appropriate to use "for the purpose of quieting the pupils, and preparing them for their regular studies" than begging of a heathen idol, and reading a pack of lies to them.

THE CHRISTIAN EDUCATOR
AND GOD'S DEFENDER.

W. H. KERR, Editor and Publisher.

Devoted to Teaching the Discovery that God is a myth like Santa Claus and to Founding the Church of Humanity.

Vol. 1. Great Bend, Kansas, June, 1904, No. 7.

The Church of Humanity.

The Church of Humanity is the visible working manifestation of the evolution of the Christian churches. It anticipates the progress of even the most advanced denominations by at least a thousand years.

It is the ripened fruit of the scientific investigation of the foundation principles of Christianity and all religious creeds.

It brings to the common people these results, and teaches them to know and understand them.

It is organizing to teach the truths brought to light in a systematic way and give the people society free from idolatry.

It is the patron of the scientist, the leader of church evolution, the hope of our race, and truth is its guiding star.

It will dethrone the devil, quench the flames of hell and liberate all its prisoners.

It will reduce a tyrant in the skies to a harmless myth, free all his slaves, throw wide the doors of convents, monasteries, nunneries, and make of their inmates the builders of happy homes, and establish heaven on earth.

As the advance waves of the tide are beaten back by adverse winds, so, too, may the vanguards of the Church of Humanity struggle and fall by the wayside. But the gathering, oncoming, irresistable forces of civilization will crowd this church forward to that success where the vanquished will rejoice in its victory.

Then rally to the support of this heroic band who are so nobly holding aloft and defending the banner of science, progress and civilization. They are founding a church for the future mental home to which your posterity as well as theirs can anchor their faith and hope; where they can have personal teaching given them from text-books to prove to them that God, Devil and Holy Ghost are fabulous beings; that heaven and hell are myths and the resurrection a delusion. This will save them from the worship of dead Jews, the fear of a myth in the skies and the dread of hell.

If you value these conditions worth anything to your posterity join the Church of Humanity and thereby become one of its founders. Your posterity will be proud to point out your name and number in the Book of Life.

The Church of Humanity had one red-letter day this month by receiving two applicants for membership on one day. The enthusiasm at our office ebbs and flows with the tide of applications for membership and the orders for our church paper. Keep the high tide of enthusiasm up at the office by sending in applications for membership and orders for the little missionary. Give us more red-letter days. There are a number of subscribers that should send in their applications for membership in the church. They are free from the worship of dead Jews and Jewish idols. If they have children, they have no assurance that they will be free from idolatry. They have no teachers to give them lessons in a systematic orderly way. They have no society but what is contaminated with idolatry. Ninety-nine chances to one they will be made idolaters by the other churches. They will worship the God you know to be nothing but a fabulous being. They will worship a dead Jew, believing him to be a God or the son of one when you know he was only a poor deluded man. If you care enough about your children to save them from that idolatry, and I think you do, you will join with us an help to build up a society that will make them free and keep them free from such heathenism and provide them with good society free from idolatry. If you, reader, are one of these people who are ready to graduate in the knowledge of God, I urge you to join with us in the Church of Humanity, and that church will do all in its power to save your children from idolatry.

The Educational Fund.

Amount pledged on a fund of $250.00 to send the Christian Educator and God's Defender to 1,000 religious editors one year:

W. H. Kerr, Great Bend, Kan.	$25
Emil Fredrick, Mt. Sterling, Ky.	10
Moses White, Newhope, Ark.	10
Charles Long, Payson, Utah	5
E. E. Wallace, Great Bend, Kan.	5
John Bertaux, Rich Hill, Mo.	1
E. C. Reichwald, Chicago, Ill.	1
A. Lutterman, Ackley, Iowa	1
Elias Molee, Tacoma, Wash.	1
James E. Mizzles, Newhope, Ark.	5
Total to date	$64

This fund should be pledged by our members and friends to the full amount as soon as possible. I urge all who have not pledged something to this fund to do so if possible before the next issue.

There are several reasons for raising this fund that more than justifies it. First, by having 1,000 more copies paid for, I can send out 1,000 more sample copies, as the postal laws will allow me to send an equal number of sample copies that I have of paid for copies, but no more at second class rates of postage. Besides the $25 that I donate to the fund I will send out 1,000 sample copies of each issue. That would mean 12,000 sample copies sent out in a year to 12,000 different people. That would be calling the attention of lots of people to our church and the truths it represents. When I am willing to do so much for the Church of Humanity, can't you do your part manfully without so much urging?

Second, when the amount is raised I shall write special articles and comments to the editors of religious papers, mark them and stamp the paper "Marked copy" to call their attention to it. This will pave the way for the establishment of the Church of Humanity by letting the Christian teachers know in advance that we are not going to indorse or sanction crimes or vices, but that we will teach morality without idolatry; that we will retain all the good and true teaching of the other churches and only eliminate the untrue by proving it to be untrue.

Third, those who are free from idolatry should contribute to this fund so we can place the teaching of our church before the teachers of other churches and thus help them to see their mistakes by pointing them out. In this way we may win some of them over to our church and they would then be our best teachers, having had experience in teaching and familiarity with the subjects.

Our line of proceedure is to organize those who are free from idolatry and teach those who are not free. If you are in sympathy with this plan send in your pledge to the Educational Fund and let us begin teaching this large, influential class of 1,000 editors of religious papers.

A Word to the Octogenarian's.

A few men over eighty years of age have written to me saying they knew there was no God before I was born. These men should join the Church of Humanity at once and let the world know what they know, and not keep their light hid under a bushel until they die. Christians tell me they never heard of any one who did not believe there was a God. I want them to know there are lots of people who know it.

Send in your application for membership so I can tell them how many there are who have learned that God is a myth. You have put in many years of study and spent many dollars for books and papers in learning that truth. Now that you have learned it give it to the world that others may be influenced add put on the right road to the true knowledge of God by your example.

Life is very uncertain for all of us, but after one reaches the eigtieth mile post they cannot reasonably expect to stay with us many years longer. You are living without a God, just as all are doing, but, unlike millions of people who have been taught falsely, you know it, while they do not. You know that you came into life without the assistance of a God and will go out of life without a God to interfere in any way.

You have lived without a God and have demonstrated that fact to Christians who know you. You should also demonstrate to them that you can die without a God or a belief in the existence of one. You can do this more effectively by becoming a member of the Church of Humanity. Many Christians believe it to be possible for some to live without a God, but impossible to die without a belief in a God. It must be demonstrated to them by actual examples that people can die with the same knowledge they lived by.

People do not disbelieve their arithmetic, geography or algebra when they come to die. There is no reason why they should disbelieve what they learned about God while in the vigor of mental and physical life.

We want you to be numbered with the founders of the Church of Humanity—a church founded by those who have learned what you have learned about God; a church that will give practical examples and illustrations of how to live and how to die with the knowledge that God is a myth like Santa Claus.

You are not too old to do more good in the world. The greatest good you can possibly do is to help to free the people from idolatry. You can do this most effectively by helping to found the Church of Humanity through which the truth about God can be taught to the people when the founders are laid to rest. Let your light shine that others may be guided Never mind the critics.

Help the churches to evolute.

Join the Church of Humanity.

Contribute to the Educational Fund.

Donate the C. E. & G. D. to your neighbors.

Some people who can criticize the work of others can't do any themselves.

The Christian Educator cannot educate your Christian neighbors unless you donate it to them.

Take a bundle of the C. E. & G. D. at bundle rates to place in your letters and hand to friends. Ten to one address one year, $2.

If you want a local organization of the Church of Humanity, you must first win some of your neighbors to believe in it by donating C. E. to them.

You should love your Christian neighbors as much as they do the "heathen Chinese," and if you do you will donate your church missionary to them.

If you want me to teach your Christian neighbors the truths our church is based on, you must donate the church paper to them. It is the only way I can reach them.

Most people will not believe anything unless they know others believe it, hence the importance of joining the church when you have learned that it teaches truth.

People cannot join the Church of Humanity until they believe what that church teaches. Help the church to put that teaching in the hands of the people by donating to the Educational Fund.

Twenty-five cents for twenty-four lessons in the knowledge of God is the cheapest teaching you could wish for on such an important subject. See to it that you furnish this teaching to your neighbors. At least donate them a term of 24 lessons.

For every yearly subscription you donate to a Christian neighbor I can send out twelve sample copies, hence the importance of the donations on your part. Don't let the papers pile up here in the office when such a small outlay on your part will enable me to distribute them.

In making up your mind whether to aid the Church of Humanity or not, there is only one primary question to answer, viz: Do you want your children taught the truth about God? If you do, then you should join the church at once and give it all the aid you possibly can.

Three Cheers for Colorado.

Just received the application for membership in the Church of Humanity of a lady in Colorado, the first one to represent that state in our church. That is very encouraging. We want the ladies to help the men in founding this church. We want them to see to it that it started right.

All the great churches of the world have been founded by men and they are all wrong-founded on mistaken conceptions. They were based on visionary dreams of spooks in the skies by prophets and saviors.

We want the ladies to be equally represented with the men in founding this church. It needs their self-sacrificing devotion in its service just as other churches do. When it is well established, the women and children can take charge of it and do the most of the church work, as they do in other churches.

We give a hearty welcome to the women.

You can't have a local church society until you get some of your neighbors to join in with you. They can't do that until they learn the truths you have learned. They can't learn those truths without a teacher. Then it is your duty to supply them with that teaching. The best, cheapest and easiest way for you to furnish it to them is to send me their address and 25c, and the C. E. & G. D. will do the rest.

Stop Deceiving the Children.

A course of illustrated temperance lectures, given in a church here, represents the Christian's fictitious God and his supposed laws, given in the bible, as forbidding the use of intoxicating drinks. The practice of idolatry is urged on the children as being the only thing that can save them from becoming patrons of the saloons and from wrecking homes and filling drunkard's graves.

Both of these representations are absolutely false. We believe these idolatrous teachers know them to be so, but are deliberately misrepresenting facts in the interests of their idolatry.

Here is where their God and bible approves of, and even commands, the use of intoxicating drinks:

"He [God] causeth the grass to grow for the cattle. * * * And wine that maketh glad the heart of man." (Ps. 104: 14, 15.)

"Wine which cheereth God and man." (Jud. 9: 13.)

"They shall plant vineyards, and drink the wine thereof." (Amos 9: 14.)

"Go thy way, eat thy bread with joy, and drink thy wine with a merry heart; for God now accepteth thy works." (Eccles. 9: 7.)

"Drink no longer water, but use a little wine for thy stomach's sake." (1 Tim. 5: 23.)

"Thou shalt bestow that money for whatsoever thy soul lusteth after, for oxen, or for sheep, or for wine, or for strong drink." (Deut. 14: 26.)

"Give strong drink unto him that is ready to perish and wine unto those that be of heavy hearts. Let him drink and forget his poverty, and remember his misery no more." (Prov. 31: 6, 7.)

"In the holy place shalt thou cause the strong wine to be poured unto the Lord for a drink offering." (Num. 28: 7.)

"The Son of Man is come eating and drinking; and ye say, Behold a gluttonous man, and a winebibber." (Luke 7: 34.)

Many more quotations could be given from "God's word" showing that both he and his son were fond of intoxicating drinks; that he commands us to drink wine and "strong drink" and to give it to others. These commands are just as imperative as any in the bible. That some of us do not like to obey them makes no difference. Were the Christian's fables true we would be consigned to hell as quickly for disobeying these commands as for disobeying any others in the bible.

When children are taught that the only reasons for refusing to drink intoxicants are to please God and escape hell they find out later that those reasons are not well founded on truth. They find by reading the bible that God sanctions and commands the use of "strong drink." Then they will say, as I have often heard Christians say, that God will not punish anyone for doing what he himself does. And why should he, if he is a perfect example of goodness?

They will be taught also by the clergy and the bible that "Jesus paid it all," and is able to pay a lot more; hence, they are free to draw on Jesus, as on a bank account, for wild oats seed.

They will also observe later in life that the best informed Christians don't believe in the existence of hell, anyway. And even if there was a hell, they will be informed by the clergy that they can commit any and all crimes with impunity and at the eleventh hour and fifty-ninth minute they can swing right into the arms of Jesus, as did the Chicago barn bandits, Marx and Vandine, on April 22. From the pearly gates of glory these wretches can make faces at their eight victims writhing in hell, who, unlike themselves, were not given time for the services of priests to steer their souls for heaven.

The other representation, that none but non-Christians are drunkards and joint keepers, are equally false.

The Church of Humanity teaches total abstinence from intoxicants. Not because any myth, God or bible commands the use of it or condemns it, but because it is best for one's self, for home and state, for mother, sweetheart, wife and children.

W. H. KERR,
Temporary International Instructor for the Church of Humanity.
Great Bend, Kans., June 1, 1904.

A Modern Isabella of Spain.

The hundred dollars I donated to the Church of Humanity at first, being exhausted, I asked Mrs. Kerr, when she joined the church, if she thought I had better suspend church work when the $100.00 and all I had taken in on subscriptions and certificate fees were used up in the church work. Without hesitation, she replied: "Just put in a hundred dollars of my money."

It has often been observed that the women were the mainstays of the Christian churches. This begins to indicate they will be the main props of the Church of Humanity as soon as they understand the objects it is designed for and that its teachings are true. I am confident, though, that the men will have to found the church if it is ever done; then the women will come forward and perpetuate it by the loving devotion of free, self-sacrificing labor they bestow on other churches. And thus, as Queen Isabella came to the aid of Columbus and enabled him to make a discovery in the physical world, does a woman come forward to aid the Church of Humanity in promulgating a great discovery in the mental world.

Hurrah for Kentucky!

Hold the fort! Reinforcements are coming! Brothers and sisters, congratulate Mr. Emil Fredrich of Mt. Sterling, Kentucky. He is the first one to apply for and receive an Instructor's Commission from our church. He unfurls the banner of the Church of Humanity to the balmy breezes of Kentucky and enlists in its service. Long may that banner wave in triumph over the "land of the free and the home of the brave."

The Church of Humanity is to be congratulated on having such an able Instructor in its service. The seeds of truth will be sown in the Blue Grass state. In time they will germinate and ripen into an increased membership for the church. We hope success will crown his labors. He has enlisted to work in the front ranks of the forces making for the evolution of the churches and the highest form of civilization. I welcome Brother Fredrich as a colaborer in the service of the Church of Humanity.

For every false prophet we take out from under the churches we will put in their places ten true scientists.

thereby. Don't be ashamed that you have learned the truth about God or to let others know that you have learned it. Don't be ashamed to help what you can to free the world from idolatry. Add your name, your number, your influence and your example to the Church of Humanity. Be one of its founders and I shall be glad to welcome you to membership and forward to you a nice certificate of graduation in the knowledge of God and life membership in and one of the founders of the Church of Humanity.

Do not abuse the Christians but educate them.

Join the Church of Humanity today, tomorrow may be too late.

Four dollars pays for the C. E. and G. D. to 40 of your neighbors a year.

Every member should send me a class of 40 scholars. Don't neglect it. Send them today.

To save your own children from idolatry you must also save your neighbor's children from idolatry.

The people pay many millions of dollars annually to be taught the truth about God. When they learn that the Church of Humanity is the only church that knows what the truth is, then it will be employed to do the teaching.

The Right Kind of Missionary Work.

Like a teacher in an empty school house I can do nothing without the aid of those who wish me to teach in sending me scholars. The postal rules permits me to send only three sample copies a year to one person, but they permit parties to subscribe for papers for others. Under this rule any person can donate this little educational sheet to all their friends, relatives and neighbors. Unlike the teacher confined to a school room I can teach 10,000 scholars as easily as I can 50. So the size of my school is limited only by the number of scholars sent me by friends who wish them taught the principals of the church of Humanity. The members of the church do not wish to be isolated but wish others to learn what they have learned so they will help them to organize and maintain a local church organization. Here is a sample of their missionary work:

"Dear Sir—Inclosed please find money order for $9, for educational fund as pledged, $5, for subscription for 40 neighbors as per offer $4. Addresses inclosed. Yours for the good of the cause. CHAS. LONG,

Payson, Utah."

"Brother Kerr—Although but having very little money to spare at present I accept your offer and inclose 40 names and $4, besides $1 for the Educational Fund. Your earnest determination and straight convincing logic besides the much more than ordinary unselfish generosity of your noble wife, caused me to come to the conclusion that something had to be done, even if money is ever so scarce.

Yours truly,

P. C. HANSEN,

Greenleaf, Kans."

I hope all the members of the Church of Humanity will follow the noble example of these brothers and send in the address of 40 of their best neighbors so I can educate them in the principles of our church.

International Lesson

DAILY PROOF THAT THERE IS NO GOD.

OBJECT LESSON VIII.

[By the International Instructor for the Church of Humanity.]

Above the graves of our perished loved ones the Church of Humanity proclaims God a myth.

I had hoped there would be no more great disasters and I would devote this lesson to comments on additional sad details of the Slocum disaster. As horrible as that event was other disasters of equal power to prove God a myth continues to happen.

I have no help to point out to the people the inconsistency of these events with the popular belief in the existence of a loving heavenly father and his son Jesus who is believed to care for people and to have ample power to save them from harm.

A card from an ex-publisher of a religious paper explains the reason for the Slocum disaster. He says: "The Slocum disaster was a divine permission; for God needed those people in heaven." What a savage monster this man pictures God to be! Running a lot of innocent Sunday school children, women and babes into a trap and roasting them to death in order to get them to live with him in heaven. Revolting! Horrid!

Monstrous! What language could express the wickedness of God were that affirmation true? What rational parent would want his children to live with such a being? What sane person would want to love or be loved by such a savage? All the savage murders committed by men would be tame affairs compared with the brutality of God.

No wonder men who believed in such a God were once savages. The wonder is they are not all savages still. Well most of them are to a great extent and will remain so as long as they hold such a savage God up as a perfect model to be imitated by man. Here is an item that illustrates the brutality of those who love and worship this savage monster, and who think they are doing what is pleasing to him and earning a home with him in heaven:

"Constantinople, Aug. 8.—(S. M. T. Cable.)—The Armenian Patriarch has ordered Archbishop Saragian of the Armenian church in America to head a mission to the powers urging them to interfere in the name of humanity and put an end to the continual massacres of Armenians in Turkey.

The archbishop will present proofs that in the past four months 8,400 Armenians have been massacred, including 3,000 children. The mission will take a special petition to President Roosevelt.

The Armenians are Christians who have been taught that God loves and cares for them. Can you believe that such a God exists? Does not the above item prove clearly he is a myth? Or is he a real being aiding the Mohamedans to murder the Christians because he "needs those people in heaven?" Who then should try to thwart his plans?

"Manila, July 13.—(S. M. T. Cable)—Two hundred lives were lost and $2,000,000 worth of property was destroyed by a cloud-burst, which swept San Juan Del Monte. The cloud-burst came after a twenty-hours' heavy rain, which amounted to seventeen inches."

The clergy and religious papers teach that God makes it rain.

Did God drown those Filipinos because he "needed those people in heaven?" The United States paid $2.50 a head for those people. What right had God to them?

Will they be sent to the American colony in the New Jerusalen Flats, or to the Spanish colony, or will they be allowed to establish a colony of their own? To establish a precedent for the guidance of the United States in this matter Mr. W. S. Weller of Chicago, may please answer since he knows so much about God's business.

"A single vessel of the Spanish fleet sunk at Manila, when raised, presented the ghastly spectacle of 80 skeletons."

When people are civilized they will quit worshiping a God of war and then they will cease warring. The truth that God is a myth and that death ends all our life forever, taught to the people, will bring that happy result about. Then join the Church of Humanity and aid in teaching truth to the people.

Each of Dewey's battle-ships had on board a chaplain whose special duty it was to beg God's aid in murdering those Spanish soldiers. Some Christian savages believed God answered their prayers and sent those soldiers to the bottom of the sea and their souls to hell because Spain treated the Cubans so brutally. But according to Mr. Weller's knowledge of God's motives it "was a divine permission, for God needed those people in heaven." Or did he, Mr. Weller, need those people in hell? Please inform us which. Brutal God! Savage Christians! Ignorant Weller!

The bodies of thirty men who had perished in the Nevada desert from thirst and hunger were lately found by a party of surveyors.

The bodies were found in groups of fours or half a doven and in some instances were torn and half eaten by coyotes and buzzards."

With this evidence before them Christian teachers continue to declare that God never did and never will let anybody starve to death.

Why, this savage God will murder people by every conceivable method when he "needed those people in heaven." Was it not as brutal in God to murder those people for their s uls as for Indians to murder them for their scalps or for robbers to murdhem for their money?

"London, July 3.—More than 700 Danish and Norwegian emigrants bound for New York, together with Capt. Gundell and most of the crew of the Scandinavian-American liner Norge undoubtedly lost their lives in the foundering of the vessel in the North Sea on June 28."

God just "needed those people in heaven" and so his wholesale slaughter of his children goes on, and all are glad that he loves them so well.

"St. Louis, July 3.—At least twenty persons met death tonight and twoscore were injured in the wreck of train No. 11, on the Wabash railroad, near Litchfield, Ill."

God must think the end justifies the means so when he "needed those people in heaven," he simply ditched them.

"Pueblo, Aug. 8.—Plunging through a bridge into a creek, near Pinon, Col., three crowded cars and engine of the Mo. Pacific Flyer, it is estimated, carried 122 persons or more to death last evening.

"Whether the engine and the torrent of water from the cloudburst struck the bridge simultaneously or the torrent had already undermined the structure or previously washed it away is not known."

God is full of resources but when he needs people in heaven on short notice one of his favorite methods in securing them is to ditch a passenger train. You know God makes it rain, for the clergy and the religious press tells you so, and you know it is their duty to keep posted on what God does, how he does it and his reason for doing it.

Well they tell us he "needed those people in heaven." What was easier than to burst a cloud just ahead of the train and knock the bridge out? That settles it and all are happy. Who cares what method God uses if he only gets 'em?

Oh, joy! Shout, "Glory to God in the highest" you Christian people!

Set apart a day to be devoted to praising God for his "divine permission" of another wreck whereby he secured a lot more Sunday school children for heaven.

Chicago, July 13.—An excursion train on the Chicago and Eastern Illinois Railroad, which was hurrying back to the city with one thousand of the merrymakers of the Doremus Chapel (Congregational) Sunday-school on board, crashed into a freight train between Chicago Heights and Glenwood at 7 p. m. tonight. Twenty-four persons were killed and fifty injured. Among the dead many women and children.

The first two cars, where the greatest carnage took place, were packed with children. They had organized a little choir and were singing hymns joyously."

"Suffer little children, and forbid them not, to come unto me; for of such is the kingdom of heaven."—(Jesus.)

"Of the eighty injured, sixty are children."

Why did he not take them to heaven with the rest, Mr. Weller? Were they not just as ready and as worthy? Did God not need them in heaven? Then why did he make a pass at them and bruise up their little bodies if he did not need them?

"Then ensued a scene of panic and death. Women and childred, injured and dying, screamed in terror. Many were pinioned beneath wreckage in the first two coaches. Fully 600 women and children, weeping hysterically, surrounded the rescuers."

God was right there killing those people for their souls, according to the wise(?) teachers, just as an Indian would kill them for their scalps. Why did he not speak out and tell the poor scared women and children what he was murdering them for and allay their fright?

"Twenty-four dead bodies were beside the track, and ten of the injured were said to have received mortal hurts."

I thought some clergyman or the editor of some religious paper who knew all about God said he was humane. Then why did he not kill these little ones out right and put them out of their suffering so long as he needed them in heaven? I think that is a case for the officers of the society for the prevention of cruelty to children to look into.

"Whole families were wiped out in the disaster. Charles Stewart, his wife and child, were among the first victims taken from the wreck.

Edward Ecklund, his wife and two children composed another family that perished in the wreck.

Responsibility for the disaster has yet to be fixed."

It is easy to locate the responsibility for the disaster. Just ask Mr. Weller or most any clergyman or editor of a religious paper. They will promptly inform you that "God needed those people in heaven." And you have been taught that he is all-powerful and can do as he pleases, no one can prevent him. So don't lay the blame on the innocent officials or employes of the road. Some Christians used to be under the impression that the object in bestowing unlimited love, praise and flattery on God was to induce him to make their lives long and prosperous on earth. But it now seems some of them know his special blessing for those who love him most is to murder them for their souls.

Perhaps after all the Christians are doing God a great injustice by teaching that he sent the flood to drown a world, and fire and brimstone to destroy Sodom and Gomorrah because they were wicked and he hated them. Perhaps they were exceptionally good and "God needed those people in heaven."

Well, my Christian friends, the ideas of the existence of a God, heaven, hell and immortality are simply ancient fables and mistakes handed down to us by our ignorant ancestors of the long ago. Let us discard them as we do the old methods of agriculture, transportation and commerce. We live in the twentieth century, let us adopt the twentieth century knowledge of those matters.

What are the facts? Why don't you know them? Well then I shall tell you. God is only the name of a myth the same as Santa Claus. Heaven and hell are fabulous places like the fountain of perpetual youth. Immortality is a supposed attribute we do not possess.

Death is complete and perpetual so far as our individual life is concerned. These are the inexorable truths of nature. Our likes and dislikes are powerless to change them. Since they are true we are glad we know them. Their teaching and acceptance by the world will make it happier and better. Religions, hatred and wars will pass away as these truths are recognized and accepted. Then help to make the world wiser and better by ceasing to pay teachers for perpetuating errors and join the Church of Humanity and aid in the promulgation of truth. Fill out the following blank and return it to me and I shall forward you a certificate of graduation in the knowledge of God and a life membership in, and one of the founders of the Church of Humanity. A church that defends God against the wicked accusation of murdering children for their souls. This church recognizes and proves him to be a myth. The only vindication and exhonoration possible to be made for God. Then unite with God's defenders and aid in the good work.

THE IGNORANCE AND SUPERSTITION OF GOD'S CREATORS REVEALED.

God's creators reveal their ignorance and superstition in the creation of God and bring themselves and their myth into contempt.

Wise people who have given the creation story due consideration no longer believe it to be the words of a God or a revelation from any unseen being but recognize it as an attempt Enterprising Missionaries.

The members of the Church of Humanity have given me a class of 900 editors of religious publications to instruct in the true knowledge of God. I am proud of such a magnificent class of highly educated influential men and women. I dare say no other teacher in the whole world has a class of equal power and influence.

If I can succeed in teaching them the truths on which the Church of Humanity is based, and I am confident I can, they will then teach those truths to their 50,000,000 of readers. That will unify their now discordant, contradictory teaching and be a long step in the evolution of the world's ideas of God and the banishment forever of idolatry. I am proud of the members for their liberality and enterprise in donating the teaching of this great class.

The result of the unorganization of those who are not Christians are vividly reflected in a paragraph in the July number of the Humanitarian Review of Los Angeles, Cal. Here it is: "W. S. Bell, the widely-known Freethought lecturer, has recently removed from Denver to Los Angeles where he has decided to make his home. Mr. Bell made a call at this office a few days ago, and he informed me that the demand for lectures where an admittance fee is demanded has declined to zero, and he, like the other old-time itinerants, Dr. York, Prof. Jamieson and many others once popular and successful, is not now in the lecture field. It is too bad that these men who devoted the best days of their manhood to such a noble work are now, at the approach of old age, forced to seek new and unfamiliar vocations for earning a livelihood." The enforced idleness of these men is positively the result of their own teaching.

In all their writings and lectures they held the Christians up to the scorn ridicule and contempt of all for their stupidity in being led by the nose by the clergy and hiring them to do their thinking for them.

They waxed eloquent on the duty of every man with brains to do his own thinking and not to follow any one.

Their audiences simply took them at their word and are now doing their own thinking. They do not wish to be as silly as the Christians are and hire Messrs Bell, York and Jamieson to do their thinking for them. These men and others like them have simply lectured themselves out of a job. Yet they continually boast of their superior intelligence over the clergy. But you never knew a priest or preacher to knock himself out of a job in tnat way. So in the matter of holding a job and making business for themselves prosperous, we must admit the clergy have the most intelligence after all.

Freethought lecturers and editors throw a wet, frozen blanket, as it were, over every attempt to organize—the very thing that is needed to give permanent employment and support to both classes of teachers. The very name "Freethought" would disintegrate any society and their continual teaching that every one should do his own thinking and let every body else think as he pleases will knock the support from under every Freethought lecturer and journal in the field if their own teaching is followed. What use has any one for the services of a lecturer whose main theme is, "let every one do his own thinking." How can one ask a neighbor to subscribe for a Freethought paper that tells him it is more of his business what others think and believe, and a man is a fool for allowing others to do his thinking for him. Of course any one who is not a Freethought lecturer or editor can see it is just as foolish to allow them to do one's thinking as it is to allow the clergy to do it. Then they are ready to drop both the lecturer and the paper.

I am doing my level best to organize the readers and hearers of that class of journals and lecturers so we could give them steady employment in their chosen profession at good wages through the power of organized numbers. What strange fatality causes them to try to block my efforts and refuse the slightest aid? Jealousy? Stupid mortals! They have lectured themselves out of an audience and are jealous of one of their pupils least he gets a hearing. Do they not know that in this beautiful and all most unoccupied field of teaching there is room for half a million instructors?

For thirty years I patiently waited and longed for one of these lecturers or editors to organize their hearers and readers so I could contribute to their support while they gave me and my family and neighbors regular lectures and a local society similar to what the Christians had.

While I was unable to support one of them myself, yet I would have gladly given $10, then $25, $50, $100, $500, and finally $1,000 a year to their support as my income from the farm increased.

I wanted some society like my Christian neighbors had, teaching truths I could indorse and help to support and teach to a Sunday school class if necessary. Although I would prefer to pay some one else for doing the teaching, just as I do in the common school branches. With all my effort to persuade editors of Freethought papers to aid me in organizing their readers into a society they seem to prefer to discourage the work of organization and to follow the Freethought lectures to the wall for lack of support. While I am trying so hard to build up a church organization through which Mr. Jamieson could be given renumerative work as an instructor he is writing an article on "Should Freethinkers Join Church" for the September Humanitarian Review. Perhaps he will make the Church of Humanity his target and discourage all he can in joining it and working for it. I hope I am mistaken in this prediction and that he will give the movement his hearty approval. Let all parents who wish their children to know the truth about God rally to the support of the Church of Humanity Let the little band of 48 remain faithful and all others who are in sympathy with our heroic work join at once and help us to gain the numbers that will make us popular and respected as much as any church is, and enable us to hire teachers for our children at reasonable wages.

Remember the Slocum and unite in the Church of Humanity.

The sooner you send me a class of 40 of your nighbors to be educated in the knowledge of God the sooner they will be able to graduate and join the church.

of the ancients to account for a first cause of the existence of things. It was fixed up by perhaps the smartest of the people of some prehistoric tribe as answers to the questions of the masses who wished to know more of their environments. And while the story in many forms has been believed in by many people for thousands of years yet it has always carried within its makup the evidence of its untruthfulness. And now many of the people are intelligent enough to compare known facts with the statements made in the story and have no difficutly in classifying it as fiction.

To contemplate for a few minutes the unreasonable acts and words attributed to God by his creators will convince any one, who is unafraid of him, of his origin in fiction.

Gen. II. 8 And the Lord God planted a garden eastward in Eden; and there he put the man whom he had formed.

9 And out of the ground made the Lord God to grow every tree that is pleasant to the sight, and for food; the tree of life also in the midst of the garden, and the tree of knowledge of good and evil.

15 And the Lord God took the man, and put him into the garden of Eden to dress it and to keep it.

16 And the Lord God commanded the man saying, Of every tree of the garden thou mayest freely eat.

17 But of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil, thou shalt not eat of it: for in the day that thou eatest thereof thou shalt surely die.

In these five verses is revealed much of the ignorance of God's creators and also much of their cunning in the art of strategy by having their character deliberately set a trap in which to catch man and give it an excuse for punishing him. In V. 9, you will observe, the story teller believed in such a thing as a tree of life and that the eating of its fruit would enable one to live forever. Nobody believes in the existence of such a tree now.

The "fountain of perpetual youth" fable is a paralle story told by the Indians and Ponce de Leon, Spanish governor of Porto Rico in 1513, went on a fool's errand in search of it.

No intelligent person believes in the "tree of life" or "fountain of perpetual youth" fables now.

The original God creators also believed in the existence of a tree of knowledge of good and evil, and that if one ate of its fruit he would become wise. No body believes in the existence of such a tree now. This all proves the ignorance and superstition of the God creators who evidently thought knowledge of good and evil could be obtained by eating the fruit of a special tree.

Let us now turn our attention to the fiction-made God. Other churches teaches that this is a real live character and that this story is a true account of his actions and words.

Were that teaching true these verses would prove him to be a fool and a knave—a fool for not creating man wise in the first place or else for not commanding him to eat exclusive ly of the tree of knowledge of good and evil until he could get along without his aid, and a knave for setting the tree-traps in the garden when he knew the man would be caught by them. The churches that teach that God is a real being and that these verses are true make him out to be a very wicked, deceitful, revengeful, ignorant being, utterly devoid of good sense and good qualities. To hold this fiction-made character up as a real being, a Heavenly Father, a perfect ideal of wisdom and goodness and a perfect model for earthly parents to emulate in the treatment of their children tends to keep man from advancing in goodness and civilization. Tell me the number of respectable husbands and fathers in your city, county or state and that will be the number of earthly fathers in that territory who are almost infinitely wiser, better and more worthy of emulation than this God is represented to be by these verses.

Then why should the clergy continually abuse the best specimens of noble manhood and hold them up to perpetual scorn, ridicule and contempt as totally deprived beings and use all their words of commendation and praise in eulogizing this fiction-made God?

What earthly father would deny his children the knowledge of good and evil that would enable them to choose one and avoid the other What father would be jealous of his children acquiring knowledge and prohibit it under penalty of death?

What father would deliberately set poisoned fruit before his children and tell them to not eat it or they would surely die the same day, before the children had learned it was wrong to disobey or what dying meant.

Would he be a good father if he did when, he knew all the time the child would eat it?

God's creators in these verses make their character out the most wicked scoundrel that could be conceived of, compared with which the combined wickedness of the human race during its entire existence pales into insignificance. And other churches fasten this crime of all crimes on God by teaching that he is a real being and that this is a true account of his doings.

Were the teaching of other churches true, verse 9 would make this God directly responsible for all the crimes, suffering, sorrow and misery of our race during its entire existence. Here this character is represented as deliberately laying the foundations of hell on earth and any other hell idolators of earth think exists.

He plans to entrap his innocent mud man and through him you and I and all our race. By God's diabolical work in verse 9 he is directly responsible for all the sin, suffering, sorrow and death of all our race and also for his own suffering and disgraceful crucifixtion on a cross. A thousand million lectures could be given on the wickedness and foolishness of the God for placing the tree of life and the tree of knowledge in the garden with this mud man without exhausting the subject.

Of what use were these trees only to ensnare man?

If the eating of their fruit gave wisdom and perpetual life why did not this God let the mud man have all he could digest of it? Mercy! If I knew of two such trees I would give all my earthly possession and interest in heaven for them. I know that some Christians need knowledge bad enough to rent me some ground to plant them on for a share of the fruit. I would have my children eat of that fruit every day. It would beat sending them to school to gain knowledge and employing doctors to keep them alive. I could exchange the apples from the tree of knowledge for the millions of dollars paid to teachers as most parents, and children too, would prefer eating an apple and becoming instantly possessed of all knowledge than to put in a dozen years at school gaining just a little. I could sell the apples from the tree of life to the Christians for the billions of dollars they give to the clergy, for most of them would prefer to just live on here than to run the risk of getting to heaven through dying. But what's the use to speculate on what could be made from a couple of such trees. I would take a bite myself from an apple of the tree of knowledge, then I would have sense enough to give them free to all.

Had God been a real being as other churches say he is instead of only a novel character as the Church of Humanity know him to be he would have eaten an apple himself from the tree of knowledge of good and evil before he put the mud man in with it. Then he would have recognized the evil of such a wicked plot and would have given it up.

He would have forseen the evil it would bring on his mud man and himself and would have refrained for his own sake if not for the man's. He would have been enabled to forsee his mud man eating the apple, the rage it put him in, the banishment of his mud man and mud-rib woman, the misery and wickedness of the descendants of the mud pair: the necessity of drowning nearly all of them, the re-peopling of the world from the same stock without any improvement: the necessity of destroying Sodom and Gomrorrah; the necessity of taking special charge of a few and making pets of them and aiding them to slaughter all their male neighbors and establishing a kingdom on the spoils of wars of extermination, only to be later on in turn overthrown by those who were suppposed to be the enemies of God and his pets. He would have foreseen himself, or his son Jesus, nailed to a cross; the uselessness of the sacrifice, the world drenched with the blood of religious wars; the horrors of the inquisition; the world lit up with the lurid light of burning victims of religious hatred; the sufferings of all the wars, of all the famine, of all the pestilence, of all the floods, of the fires, of all the misery, suffering, sorrow and death for all time, then he would have left the tree of knowledge, or else the mud man, out of the garden and not allowed him to get sight of it. Or better still he would not have forbidden the eating of its fruit. Churches, clergy, christians can you understand what an infinite fiend you are making of this man-made God by declaring it to be a real being and these five verses of the bible a true account of its work and words? By so teaching you make it a devil of devils, a fiend of fiends whose extreme wickedness amounts to extreme madness or insanity. The devils and all their works in heaven, earth and hell are included, but only form a very small fraction of the work of this supreme original devil whose works recorded by these five verses laid the foundation of all the suffering of all the ages. You make him a fiend that should be shunned, detested and despised by every living creature.

No words are adequate to describe the deliberate wickedness and fiendish cruelty of God were he a real being as you claim and this bible story told the truth about him.

But arise! rejoice! herald the glad tidings of the dawning of the better day. Proclaim to all the word that the great discovery that God is a harmless innocent myth like Santa Claus is at last positively made. Tell all the world of God's Defender, backed by the Church of Humanity, that from now on will stand up for God and defend him against the wicked charges of other churches and the bible. God's true defenders are gaining in numbers every month. Their time and their money are freely given in God's defense. The misrepresentations of other churches and the Bible will go unchallenged no longer. God being a myth is unable to defend himself against the cruel charge of creating a mud man and placing him in a pen with a very tempting tree of knowledge and forbidding him to eat of its fruit. What a wicked charge for people claiming to be good to make against a poor helpless innocent myth named God. Why, bless their dull, stupid, simple-minded craniums, they never smelled an apple from the tree of knowledge or they would have known all along that this creation story was only a fable. Less than half-witted people have searched half of Asia and part of Europe and Africa for the garden of Eden when they should have known all the time that it, with the trees of life and of knowledge, mud man, God and every thing else connected with it were only fancies of the mind of the God-creator or fabulist.

The plain honest truth is all that need to be taught in order to raise a world from its knees, free it of idolatry and place it on a higher plane of civilization.

The plain honest trutn is all that need to be taught about God in order to make a perfect vindication and defense for him. It is the only defense possible to make for God. The truth is all I want, it is good enough for me, it is good enough for every member of the Church of Humanity. Is it not good enough for you Christians? What more do you want? To have God abused, misrepresented, lied about? The truth will make you free from idolatry, the fear of a man-made God and a man-made hell. It reveals God in his true nature—a harmless innocent novel character instead of being the arch-enemy of our race as the misrepresentations of other churches make him to be.

Then join the Church of Humanity and be numbered with God's true defenders. Add your influence, number and aid to the side of truth. Help to move the world along to higher planes of civilization. Help to rescue God from the infamy of the garden of Eden plot, where other churches make him the author of all the woes of our race. If you are able to recognize the truth fill out the blank application for membership in the Church of Humanity and return it to me and I shall be glad to welcome you to membership and shall forward you a certificate of graduation in the knowledge of God and life membership in the Church of Humanity and one of its founders.

THE CHRISTIAN EDUCATOR
AND GOD'S DEFENDER.

W. H. KERR, Editor and Publisher.

Devoted to Teaching the Discovery that God is a myth like Santa Claus and to Founding the Church of Humanity.

Vol. 1. Great Bend, Kansas, September, 1904. No. 10.

Church of Humanity.

Christians are learning slowly, but surely, that their beloved Heavenly Father is a fabulous being, and their Savior, Jesus, was only a poor, deluded Jew, who died nearly two thousand years ago and is still dead, and will remain so. As they learn these facts all the honest ones must leave their Christian churches, as they would be self-condemned hypocrites to remain in them and help to pay for teaching they knew to be untrue. The Christian churches have taught them from childhood to be honest and truthful. To follow that teaching which they still believe in there is no honorable course left them but to resign their membership in their respective Christian churches.

They were taught to learn all they could about God and try to know Him better. By following these injunctions their investigations lead them to the evidence that proved Him to be a myth like Santa Claus, having no real existence whatever. They were taught not to lie or deceive, by the churches, and as they believe that teaching should be followed as well as preached, they are compelled to resign, since they are unable to make their churches accept and teach the truths they found in their investigations. They want society for their children where they can be taught the results of their patient investigation. Therefore, they are uniting with others who made investigations into the claims of Christianity and found the same truths. They call this union of investigators the Church of Humanity, and they invite all investigators who found the same results to unite with them and help to establish a system of teaching that will facilitate the labor of others in their investigations and recognition of the truths when found.

BIBLE LESSON No. 7.

[By the International Instructor for the Church of Humanity.]

God's Creators Make a Grave Mistake In Not Creating a Mrs. God.

There is no God. Therefore the bible could not have been dictated by one. Every word of it was written by man and carries that evidence in its make-up. Therefore, it is not wise to worship it or to believe any statements in it that are contradicted by known facts.

Every story in it that cannot be substantiated by outside evidence must be treated as we would any work of fiction. God is the fiction-made hero of the creation story, as he is of many other bible stories. God is simply the name given the leading character by the novelist, and he was created in the same way other novel heroes and heroines are created. But we should no longer worship this creation of the fabulist nor reverence the fable, and it is our duty to teach our children not to do so.

It is the object of these lessons to teach Christians how to apply logical reasoning to the bible stories, that they may be enabled thereby to recognize the fact that they are the work of fabulists. I can only give enough comments on the bible's statements in these short lessons to indicate the way of making reasonable criticisms thereon. The reader can, of course, extend the line of criticism indefinitely in various directions.

Gen. 2:18. And the Lord God said, It is not good that the man should be alone; I will make him an help meet for him.

Who wrote this verse? The fabulist. Did God dictate it? No. the fabulist put the words in the mouth of the leading character, God. Would a real live character have talked to himself in that way? No. Just to let you see how foolish this God would have been were he a real being, let the clergy try to answer these questions:

How did this confirmed bachelor-God know it was not good for man to be alone?

Was it not good for himself to be alone?

Was man not created in his image?

Why did he not create man so it would be good for him to be alone, like God? He was not created like God, after all. But he was not alone. Did he not have God, who was his image, for a companion?

Did Adam make any complaint? Did he demand a "help meet?" If he was satisfied why was not God? Did he not foresee the trouble he was making for Adam and himself when he thought of creating a woman? Did he foresee the necessity of raising a son to be crucified on a cross if he persisted?

If he did, why was he so wicked as to carry out his wicked plot against the mud man? Why did he not make a "help meet" for himself when he knew he must have a son to sacrifice on a cross to appease his anger at the posterity of the woman he was planning to make? If he knew his half-breed son was to be so much better and smarter than Adam's children why did he not make a Mrs. God in place of a Mrs. Adam and give our race a better parentage to start with?

When the clergy answer these questions to the satisfaction of the Church of Humanity most any member of it can give them a few hundred more just as good.

19. And out of the ground the Lord God formed every beast of the field, and every fowl of the air; and brought them unto Adam to see what he would call them; and whatsoever Adam called every living creature, that was the name thereof.

20. And Adam gave names to all cattle, and to the fowl of the air, and to every beast of the field; but for Adam there was not found an help meet for him.

It is very foolish, indeed, for any one to teach that the names of animals were given them by this mud man, Adam, one of the fabulous characters of this creation fable. No one should believe it true, and a little reflection will cause all Christians to disbelieve it. If it is a sin to deliberately teach children lies, as the clergy claim it is, then the clergy and all Christian parents who teach these verses as truth are guilty of the sin of inexcusable lying, for they can have no excuse for not knowing them to be false. Here are a few of the reasons by which anyone can know them to be untrue:

1. The task was too great for any one man to accomplish. The scientists have seen and classified 380,000 species of animal life—animals, birds, fish, and insects. To just name this number at the rate of four per minute and put in twelve hours a day would take almost seven years.

2. No man could remember them all, much less be able to teach them orally to his children. Remember the fabulist had not given the mud-man a pencil and tablet to write them down.

3. All living things could not be brought together in one climate as it would be too cold for some or too hot for others.

4. Forms of life are still being discovered from time to time and names are given them.

5. The different languages have different names for the same animal, and it is not stated in what language Adam spoke, if in any one. Take, for instance, the name "mule." English, mule; [Sp. and It. mulo; L., mulus; Sax., mui; D., muil or muilezel; G., mouleseel; Sw., mulasne; Dan., mule; Fr., id; Arm., mules; Ir., muile; W. mul]. Many more languages and dialects give the mule more names. Then, again, it is a mongrel, a cross between two other species, as many more animals are known to be, and could not have been created by a God by his mud process.

All Christians ought to be able to see by these explanations that the animal-naming fete of a mud man is a little piece of fiction, and that he could have had no more to do with it than with the naming of races, tribes and nationalities of men, or with the names of rivers, mountains, trees, herbs, flowers and vegetables.

What about the animals and man and woman God created in the first chapter? Were not those animals as good as these mud animals of the second chapter? Would not that woman do for a "help meet" for this mud man, Adam? Had God forgotten her?

21. And the Lord God caused a deep sleep to fall upon Adam, and he slept; and he took one of his ribs, and closed up the flesh instead thereof;

22. And the rib, which the Lord God had taken from man, made he a woman, and brought her unto the man.

Were it not for the army of misguided teachers telling the people that these verses are true and that they will go to hell if they disbelieve them, all would be ashamed to let it be known that they believed them true. Why did not God make her out of mud, the same as he did Adam and the animals of this story? Was it all dried up?

It must have been pretty dry and hard to be more difficult to work than a bone. Why did not God make this pair, that were to be the progenitors of our race, in his image, as he did the pair in chapter 1? Or why did he not let that pair be our grandparents? This story is altogether too short, considering its importance. We want the details. Can't some clergyman or religious paper supply them?

25. And they were both naked, the man and his wife, and were not ashamed.

Well, why should they be ashamed? Who was there to see them except God, and some who think they know say he can see through clothing.

A mud pair could not be ashamed of anything. I saw a marble pair totally naked at the St. Louis fair last month and they were not ashamed, either. There is a tribe of people in the Philippines who wear no clothing and are said to be not ashamed.

Did they descend from this innocent mud pair before the fall?

In this bible story of creation I see something else that is naked that most of the Christians have so far overlooked, and of which we should all be ashamed. I see a naked lie, and we should all be ashamed to believe it true. Those Christians who still believe it true should hide the nakedness of their ignorance under the mantle of truth from the Church of Humanity and make themselves presentable to the intellectual world.

We are glad to present the mantle?

Will you, bible believer, accept it?

Illogical Reasoning Corrected and Questions Answered for Editors.

I am very thankful to the editors who have written to me, and to those who sent me copies of their papers commenting on my work. It gives me an opportunity to answer their questions, correct their ideas of the Church of Humanity, and point out their illogical reasoning. This will all be done in the kindliest of feeling and consideration observed by any teacher who is hired to teach others. You are teachers of the people, and as such it is of the greatest importance that you be guided by sound reasoning in your conclusions, else those depending on you for information will be led astray through your false teaching. You will at once recognize, then, the great importance of all teachers knowing the truth about those matters they aspire to teach. It is right in you to ask me questions, that you may know more of my teaching concerning points you wish special information on, and I shall take pleasure in answering them to the Monthly, 25c per year in advance; sample copy free. Bundle rates; 10 yearly subscriptions to one address, $2.00; 10 or more of any number to one address, 2c each.

Entered as second-class matter February 3, 1904, at the post office at Great Bend, Kansas, under the Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Address, W. H. KERR, Great Bend, Kansas.

Do not abuse the Christians but educate them.

Join the Church of Humanity to-day; to-morrow may be too late.

Four dollars pays for the C. E. and G. D. to 40 of your neighbors a year.

The worshiping of dead Jews by Christians is as idolatrous as the worshiping of ancestors by the Chinese.

Every member of the church should send me a class of 40 scholars. Don't neglect it; send them to-day.

Shall we Teach American Millionaires.

I have the addresses of 4600 American millionaires. Shall we send them our church paper? Shall we teach them the principles of the Church of Humanity? Shall we teach them the truth about God? Shall we try to rescue them from idolatry which their millions of dollars support and win them and their millions to the support of truth? If we could secure only one out of the lot and win him over to the side of truth, he might amply repay the church in financial support. The conflict between truth and error is largely fought out with dollars. If the people on the side of error put up their money for its support and the people on the side of truth either have none or else refuse to back truth with it as the other side backs error with theirs then the error will win. Do you want to see errors win? If not put up all the money you can spare on the side of truth. We must back truth with our money or truth will be defeated. It would cost $1150 to send the paper a year to all of them. But we could donate it to part of them one year and part the next until we got around. In the meantime we might win one over to our side then he perhaps would donate the paper to the rest as he could easily do.

Let your answers be in dollars and cents as money talks best in this educational work. I shall donate one-third as much on this fund as all others combined. I shall put up $20 and ask all others to put up $60 as a starter on this fund. Will you do it? Come on boys, let us have a long list of names as donors to the Millionaire Fund to report next month, and I shall then begin sending it to them with next issue.

Help! Help!

There was not a person joined the Church of Humanity last month. That is a shame. There must be many more who are free from the worship of dead Jews and old Jewish idols. There must be many more who know the truth and believe others should know it. They can't know it until they are taught it the same as they are taught any other branch of learning. They cannot be taught unless those who know the truth unite in the Church of Humanity and establish a system of teaching and employ teachers to teach them. Will you, reader, help us? Don't you want to see truth prevail over errors? Don't you want to save your loved ones from idolatry? Don't you want to see the people made better and wiser? If you do, join the Church of Humanity and help us at least to that extent. Give us your name, number, influence and encouragement.

A Talk to 900 Editors of Religious Publications.

I come to make my monthly call at your sanctum. I find upon actual count I have only nine hundred of your profession on my visiting list. As stated on my first visit a month ago I am sent here by the members of the Church of Humanity to talk to you on the evil you are doing in teaching the people errors.

That you are aiding in retarding the progress and civilization of our race by teaching the false ideas of God, and of life, and to try to teach you what the facts really are and to persuade you to teach them to your people in place of the mistakes. Believing you to be just as honest and as anxious to teach the people truths as I am it will take very little, if any, persuasion to induce you to teach truths in place of errors once you know what they are. So my greatest labor will consist in placing the truths before you in such a clear convincing way that you will be able to comprehend them. I have not come here to contaminate your morals and induce you to teach your people wickedness as those wo desire to impute false motives might charge. On the contrary I assure you most positively I am as anxious for you to be good and do good as you are. I am sure our standard of moral ethics are practically the same. You believe it wrong to murder, rob, lie, swindle, cheat, commit perjury, rape, incest, adultry, arson, to fight, drink inroxicants, chew tobacco and smoke. So do I, and also scores of other crimes you condemn. Of course you recognize degrees in crimes and vices, and that it is more wicked to commit some than others.

I believe it is wrong to worship idols, fetiche's and dead Jews. So do you. I believe it is wrong to teach the people fables for facts and errors and mistakes for truth. So do you and you are too honorable to do so knowingly. Now since the fundamental basis of our moral standard are the same there can be no hatred between us. Our contradictory teaching involves the question of facts in nature and our knowledge of them and not of our individual character or motives since they are, in the main, identical. But the reason of my visit, and the presumption of my ability to teach you is based on my good luck in learning more about God than you have been able to learn. In many branches of learning many of you are doubtless very much in advance of me, and would be able to teach me, but in this particular branch of learning I am so much farther advanced that none of you would edit religious papers were you in the possession of this knowledge of God.

This advanced knowledge of him is what I shall try to impart to you. And you, always desiring to teach truth, will do all in your power to learn it so you will be able to teach it to your readers who are depending on you to give it to them through your respective publications.

In trying to impart the knowledge

Unite! Unite!

Scientists, Philosophers, Aethiests, Infidels, Freethinkers, Agnostics, and all non-worshipers of idols of every name Unite in the Church of Humanity and build up an organization that will save your posterity from Christian Idolatry:

Follow the example of the Christians in their united efforts to make idolators of their children and yours.

Follow their Pittsburg Pa. example where fifteen evangelical denominations representing 500 churches and ministers united in a grand union revival work. They held 19 simultaneous revivals in different centers of the city and continued them 16 days. Twenty-five evangelists preached to 40,000 people. The result was 6,000 converts to Christian idolatry. The prayer meetings, Sabbath schools and congregations of various denominatoins participating have been greatly increased. These union revivals are to be held in many cities and the results will be the same.

What are all the first mentioned classes of believers, or knowers, doing to counteract all this false teachings? How many representatives had they in Pittsburg to proclaim the truth to the people? What are they doing in the line of union work? What are they doing as individual classes to save the people from Christian idolatory? Nothing! Nothing!! Nothing!!! Do they not care to save their own wives, children and loved ones from Christian idolatory? Christian idolatry is just as bad as heathen idolatry since the objects they worship are only man-made idols as are the heathen's?

Your lecturers have all went out of the business for want of support and that is caused by not organizing. Your publications are going out of business, as witness the Boston Investigator, for lack of support and that is caused by not organizing. If you do not organize so you can employ teachers to teach your children and others what you know how in the name of common sense can they learn it? And if the children are not taught what you know the Christians are more than anxious to teach them what they believe and win their support for the forces of idolatry. Therefore when the old ones die off there is none left to support your lecturers and publishers and as they die off there are none to take their place as witness the Iron Clad Age and Freethought Magazine. Your children and others are not taught in the knowledge you posess concerning God. You have left that to chance and that method has utterly failed to teach them. The Christians do not leave the teaching of their idolatry to chance but unite to teach it to their children.

Their method is a great success and consequently they have thousand of teachers and publications to your one. You can read, write and cipher, and know many truths about geography, physiology, astronomy, geology, zoology and botany and you wish your children to learn them.

You do not leave their learning them to chance. neither do you care to teach them yourself.

You unite with others who wish their children taught these things into organizations and tax yourselves to build school houses, buy books and hire competent teachers. Now it is of much greater importance your children be taught the truth about God than any one branch, or even several branches, of a common school education.

The truth about God should be taught as a branch of a common school education by the public schools.

But as so very few know the truth as yet that cannot be done since the majority rule and they, believing the errors of the ancients concerning him, will not allow the truth taught in that way. There is nothing thought to prevent you from joining the Church of Humanity and helping to established an organization that will teach your children and others the truth about God and in this way save them from idolatry. They will then be won to the support of truth and the teachers of truth and in time the the children will be prepared to take the places of the teachers as they die off and thus perpetuate the teaching of truths as the teaching of errors is perpetuated.

You Cannot Help But See We Must Unite! Unite!

International Lesson

DAILY PROOF THAT THERE IS NO GOD.

OBJECT LESSON IX.

[By the International Instructor for the Church of Humanity.]

Above the graves of our perished loved ones the Church of Humanity proclaims God a myth.

There is only one way left in which to save the people from idolatry and that is to teach them the truth. They must be taught the facts about God. To ridicule and abuse them has been tried by many writers and speakers but it has utterly failed to convince them that God is a myth. That method should have never been tried. The people who are free from idolatry should remember their father, mother, brothers, sisters, sweetheart, wife or even their children may be numbered with the worshipers of a myth-God. The learning of any other branch of knowledge or all of them has also ignominously failed to check the worship of an idol named God. People who are well versed in all the branches of scientific learning and are able to teach some of them in high schools, colleges and universities are still ignorant of the fact that God is a fabulous being and continue to worship him as blindly as any heathen does his idol.

So the knowledge that God is a myth like Santa Claus must be reduced to a system of teaching as a separate branch of knowledge, and those wishing to know the truth about God must study that one special branch the same as they do any other specialized branch of knowledge to be proficient in it.

One method the Church of Humanity has adopted to prove to the people that God is like Santa Claus —a myth—is to give daily object lessons that will prove to them beyond the shadow of a doubt that there is no Heavenly Father, God, Jesus, Holy Ghost, Virgin Mary, or any other saint or being in the skies who know anything or care anything whatever about a human being. These object lessons must be held up before the people's eyes and the right interpretation given until they are able to recognize the truth that there is no God. The teachers of idolatry, who mistake

Join the Church of Humanity. It is the leading church of the world.

Help to educate the Christians all along the line by donating to the several educational funds.

Hurray, brave heroes! "A long pull and a strong pull" and we will have the world off its knees.

Save your children from worshiping such deluded men as Dowie by getting them into the Church of Humanity.

The reading season is now on. See that all your relatives and neighbors are on the mailing list of the Educator.

It is worth a dollar of any man's money to be able to say to the world he does not believe the snake and ghost story in the bible true.

The worshiping of dead Jews by Christians is as idolatrous as the worshiping of ancestors by the Chinese.

Worshiping Gods is a heathen vice and all good people should stop it, and join the Church of Humanity and help to rescue others.

If Americans must worship a dead man, they shonld be patriotic enough to select one of their race and nationality and not an ignorant foreigner.

If Christians would pray to Abraham Lincoln results would be the same as praying to dead Jews since a dead American has as much power to answer them as a dead Jew.

To worship a myth named God and a dead Jew as a God in this age is simply monstrous, horrible, heathenish, barbaric and all intelligent people should discontinue the practice.

When we work as hard and pay as much, to teach our children not to worship idols as Christians do to make them idolatrous then we will save them from idolatry and not before.

Remember the "Slocum" and pay no attention to the teachings of the clergy or religious papers that say there is a "Jesus" or a "Heavenly Father" in the skies who loves you and has power to save you from harm.

Like a teacher in any other branch of knowledge I can teach only those sent to me. So send in the address of your neighbors and friends and I shall teach them in the true knowledge of God for 10c a year each in classes of 40 or more in one order.

Non-Worshipers of Idols of all the World, Unite! Unite!

Nothing can save your posterity from worshiping idols and dead men as Gods, but a presistent continual, systematic teaching that all Gods, Devils and Holy Ghosts are fabulous beings; that heaven and hell are myths and the resurrection of the dead a delusion.

This teaching cannot be done without a stable, permanent organization of those who have learned these great scientific, universal truths. The idolators of every land are thoroughly organized and employ an army of priests to perpetuate their idolatry by teaching it to the young.

They have a regular systematic plan for the collection and distribution of funds for the employment of these false teachers. They have a regular systematic plan for the selection and training of these teachers.

If we would save our children from being made idolators by these mistaken teachers we must unite in an organization as compact and as efficient as are the idolators. We must collect funds and disburse them for the teaching of truths as they do the teachings of idolatory.

We must have a systematic, efficient method of teaching our knowledge to the rising generations as have the idolators of teaching their belief to them.

We must have a method of selecting and training teachers for the duties of keeping children free from idolatry as have the idolators for preparing teachers to make idolators of them.

In short we must develop as much interest, enthusiasm and determination to save our children from idolatry as the worshipers have to make idolators of them.

Nothing in the wide world can do this but organization of a compact form. What could a mob of 1,000 do against 100 well armed and well trained soldiers working in unison under a competent commander? The efforts to overthrow idolatry have been of the mob kind and has utterly failed as it necessarily must do for lack of organization.

Individuals have been hurling at Christians papers, leaflets, pamphlets and books containing arguments, evidence and facts enough to free the world from idolatry, with but little effect. The few Christians who read and understand them sufficently to be freed from idolatry thereby have no way of knowing whether others arrive at the same conclusion or not. They have no way of aiding in the teaching or of having their children taught to understand the facts they have learned. They may read on themselves but have no way of letting the world know they have learned anything thereby.

Their children go to Sunday school and church and learn to be idolators while they are learning not to be idolators. They get too old to read, or die, and the papers are discontinued. The books lay dust-covered on shelves, are moulding in boxes while organized idolatry wins their children to its supports.

In the Church of Humanity you find a determined effort to remedy all this through organization.

It is composed of those who have learned the objects of their former worship are only dead Jews and myths. They want their children taught these facts through an organization that they may be saved from worshiping those objects.

They invite all who have learned these facts and who love their children enough to care to save them from idolatry, or care to live in a civilized world to unite with them in the Church of Humanity for the purpose of promulgation and perpetuating the universal scientific truths on which that church is based. Therefore this is an invitation to non-worshipers of idols of the world to Unite! Unite!

To Free Thought Editors.

Gentlemen:—I respectfully ask that you please publish the call for 100 volunteer heroes and heroines to declare, by joining the Church of Humanity, that they believe the snake story in Geneses 3, on which Christianity is based, is a fable. Give your readers an opportunity to be numbered among this heroic 100. Give your lady readers an opportunity to compete with the men in filling this call for heroes and the prize of a Remsburg's Bible.

To make it convenient for them to join the church please attach the blank application for membership to the call. This method will give your readers an opportunity to unite and to save their children from idolatry through organization. Please reproduce the bible lesson, No. 8, as that will aid them in deciding. A Most Valuable Gift to the Church of Humanity.

The planetarium, illustrated else-where in this paper, showing the relative positions and movements of the earth, moon and Venus around the sun, and worth $30, retail, is a gift to the Church of Humanity through the kindness of Laing Planetarium Co. It comes in a neat wooden cabinet 8x 14x18 inches, with neat handle, convenient for carrying. I expect to give a few lectures on "Time" in the interest of the Church of Humanity the coming winter and shall use this instrument to illustrate them. Through me the thanks of the church are extended to the Co.

Remember $4 brings the Educator to 40 of your relatives and neighbors a year. I donate the other $6 for you.

Notice of Proclamation

The first proclamation [illegible] gated by the Church of H[illegible] will be issued and published [illegible] November C E. & G. D. [illegible] be the proclamation of the premacy Of Man On This Pl[illegible] and that issue should be [illegible] broadcast by thousands. I [illegible] make a special rate of 50 cents [illegible] hundred for the that issue [illegible] will be No. 12. All the [illegible] members interested in our [illegible] should send in their order for [illegible] You should take at least a [illegible] of 100 to distribute in your [illegible] borhood.

I will have the address of [illegible] preachers in the U. S. I would [illegible] a copy to you if you, readers, [illegible] pay for them at the extremely [illegible] price of $5.00 per 1,000.

This proclamation will be [illegible] epoch marker in the Church [illegible] Humanity.

The Remsburg bible, [illegible] $1.25, goes to the sex furnish[illegible] the majority in filling the call [illegible] a hundred volunteers.

If you get this missionary [illegible] leaf without having ordered [illegible] some one numbers you among [illegible] friends and has sent it to you. [illegible] it is free to you, pass the kind [illegible] along by donating it to [illegible] friend.

The question is: Shall [illegible] Americans, of the Twentieth [illegible] tury, refuse to be put upon [illegible] knees by the ancient Asiatic [illegible] ens in worship of their idols? The Church of Humanity takes the affirmative.

Don't be ashamed to say you do not believe the snake and ghost stories of the bible true. It is the believers of them who should blush scarlet with shame every time they are mentioned.

Those who are free from the worship of dead Jews and idols named God, Holy Ghost, etc., should stake their fortunes, and lives if necessary, on the perpetual freedom of their posterity.

Laing's PLANETARIUM

Should be in all Schools, Colleges and Home Libraries. It is simple, practical, and direct. Its use will tend to stimulate the imagination, develop the reasoning power and cultivate the memory.

The advantages of this illustrative device are its simplicity and exemption from breakage and disorder, having no cog-wheels or intricate machinery. Being simple in construction, it is easily kept in order, and manipulated by the instructor or the pupil.

It surpasses other and more intricate apparatuses not only by its simplicity, but by showing more strikingly the relative motions and positions of the heavenly bodies in those important phases of instruction so difficult for the pupil and embarrasing for the teacher without a good illustrating apparatus. The causes of the seasons, the variations in day and night, the moon's nodes and phases, the cause of eclipses, etc., in short, all the problems which tax the constructive imagination of the child in its first attempts to grasp the facts of astronomical geography are simplified and are made entertaining, attractive, and perfectly clear.

To whom it may concern: Sanitarium, Battle Creek, Mich.
June 23, 1903.

This is to certify that we have purchased and practically tried to our full satisfaction the uniquely constructed Laing Planetarium.

It should be placed in every institution purporting to stand in the front ranks of scientific methods along educational lines.

DAILY PROOF THAT THERE IS NO GOD.

OBJECT LESSON X.

[By the International Instructor for the Church of Humanity.]

Above the graves of our perished loved ones the Church of Humanity proclaims God a myth.

Attention, Christians! Many of you have doubtless wished you had lived in the good old times when there were prophets, Jesus or an apostle from God on the earth and that you were near enough to see and hear him and grasp him by the hand. Well, don't regret it any more. You are in much better luck than were the ancients.

There is now at Zion City, near Chicago, an apostle of God's as genuine as any apostle or savior that ever lived and perhaps as smart and truthful.

The following item of news proves it:

Chicago, Sept. 17.—John Alexander Dowie asserts that he has received another "Divine call." This time he claims to be "The Divinely Commissioned Apostle of Jesus Christ."

You see by this that God has favored him above all the pious priests, preachers and editors of religious papers by making him "the Divinely Commissioned Apostle of Jesus Christ."

Of course he must be the smartest and best Christian on earth to day, or God would not thus have selected him over all the hundreds of millions of Christians in the world.

You will surely not presume to doubt God's judgment. Can't he see and know who is most worthy to be his Apostle."

You have the advantage of the railroads and steamboats over the ancients and you can come from all parts of the world to congratulate Apostle Dowie on his good fortune in receiving such a great favor from God. What! you don't believe God? Oh! you don't believe Dowie. Well, he "asserts" and "claims." what more could he do? That is all the evidence you have that other prophets and saviors were God's agents and representatives. Oh! they had witnesses and performed miracles? Well, Dowie has as many or more witnesses who will testify to the truth of what he says, and, is it not a miracle that Americans, claiming to be civilized and enlightened, and living in the Twentieth century, can be so easily humbugged?

When Apostle Dowie collects a few thousand more followers around him, as he will do, he very likely will have his vanity screwed up to the point of proclaiming himself "Jesus Christ," having come the second time to earth in fulfillment of his promise two thousand years ago. It is alleged he has repudiated his father and therefore he is as liable to be the son of a Holy Ghost this time as he was the first time. You Christians may as well begin now to worship him and not wait until he dies again. You may as well begin now to believe everything he says true, for his followers may make it true by writing a book about him and his sayings and incorporating it in the bible as they could and likely will do. Then you Christians will believe it all true, and abuse anyone who disbelieves it.

Now I ask you to observe this man and his conduct closely that you may know how prophets, saviors and bibles are produced, and understand, how our great religions and creeds and sects originated.

If Dowie is mistaken and really believes a God has communicated with him and has appointed him "The Divinely Commissioned Apostle of Jesus Christ" or if he is only a cunning deceiver leading the people to believe falsehoods, you are not in a position to disbelieve him since you believe in the existence of God and that he has before now appointed prophets and apostles to act as his agents in delivering his messages to the people.

Your churches are founded on the sayings of such men as Dowie. Christianity, Mohammedanism, and all the great religious creeds of the world and their many subdivisions that divide the people into hostile religious factions were produced by such men. Why then should the world continue to war over the conflicting messages from former prophets and saviors when they have now a new and direct agent from God who is "commissioned" by him to be his mouth-piece to the world. Just drop all your contentions about what creed, sacred writing and religion is God's and go to Dowie and get, through him, a new revelation from God. You can all be sure then that it is a pure, unadulterated message and commandment direct from God. There will be no questions than concerning omissions, interpolations, interpretations and truthful translations and revisions to cause doubts of its genuineness. You will get direct from God's own mouth in the English language his message to you. What! you doubt it? Be careful now. Some people doubted what Jesus Christ said and he unceremoniously consigned them all to hell. Dowie can send you to hell for doubting him as easily as Jesus could, and perhaps he will if he hears of it.

Remember it is not Dowie who talks now, it is God talking through him to you. He is only the instrument God selected as his mouth-piece, as all priests, preachers, prophets and saviors are who have received a "divine call."

This seems to be the latest authentic "divine call" God has made. As he is subject to the laws of evolution and progression he may be more civilized now than he was when he used his son Jesus as a mouth-piece in telling the world what he wanted it to do and believe. There may be many things he wants changed, and beliefs and actions he wants discontinued. He may repeal some of his old laws and enact some new ones.

The clergy and editors of religious papers should go to Dowie and get their bearings; they may be teaching things that are contrary to God's latest revealed will. They are as liable to be sent to hell for teaching contrary to God's will expressed through Dowie as that expressed through Moses or Jesus.

The facts in the case are these: Dowie is either a poor deluded man who mistakes his own ideas to be those of a God, as many millions of people do, especially the teachers of religions, or else he is knowingly deceiving the people for what he may conceive to be best for them and best for himself. Jesus may have belonged to the former class while perhaps Moses belonged to the latter class of prophets or religious leaders. In either case we should not believe the reasons he assigns as being the source of his teaching, to be true.

It is our duty to disbelieve, repudiate and refuse to follow any prophet, apostle, savior or teacher who puts a God back of him in order to make his teaching appear to come from the God. Our duty will be clear in such cases when we learn the primary truth on which the Church of Humanity is founded—that God is a fabulous being like Santa Claus. Of the hundreds of churches this is the only one in existence that is in a logical position to save the people from following and worshiping Dowie as a son of a God, or as the "Divinely Commissioned Apostle" of one, whichever he chooses to proclaim himself to be. You may sneer at Dowie now but in the course of time your posterity may be numbered with his worshipers. It is as likely to happen as it did to many of those who made fun of and ridiculed Jesus.

The only way to head off Dowie and all prophets, apostles and saviors like him for all coming time is to teach the people the truth about God. That is the only thing that can save the people, your posterity included, from being fooled and led astray by such deceivers whether they be self-concious of it or not. It is no longer a question as to which of the great religions of the world is true and of Divine origin, or which bible or set of sacred writings are God's true messages, or what part of the prophet,s sayings were prophet and what were from God. But the question to be settled now is between the belief in the existence of a God and the positive knowledge of his non-existence. Between errors, fables, myths, heathenism and the ignorance of the ancients on one side and truth, science, civilization and the wisdom of the moderns on the other side. What side, reader, are you on? What side do you support with your number, wealth and influence? You are on one side or the other. There is no neutral grounds. The Church of Humanity represents the wisdom of the moderns, other churches represent the ignorance of the ancients of which Dowie is their true exponent. If you believe in the ignorance of the ancients go and worship Dowie and get a direct message from your God. If you believe in the wisdom of the moderns fill out the following blank and return it to me and receive in return mail a fine certificate, suitable for framing, making you a life member and one of the founders of the Church of Humanity.

The Educational Funds.

I have the addresses of 900 editors of religous publication 4600 American millionaires and several thousand clergymen. I am calling for funds to send the C. E. & G. D., the missionary lesson leaf of the Church of Humanity, to those people. As fact as the funds are received the papers will be sent to them. I can now supply these people with our church propaganda paper a year for ten cents each. Cash to the various funds now stand as follows:

For sending papers to 900 editors of religious publications:

Emil Fredrich	Mt Sterling	Ky	$10
Moses White	Newhope	Ark	10
Charles Long	Payson	Utah	5
John Bertaux	Rich Hill	Mo	1
E. C. Berchwald	Chicago	Ill	1
A. Lutterman	Ackley	Ia	1
Elias Molee	Tacoma	Wash	1
P. C. Hansen	Greenleaf	Kans	1
M. H. Kennedy	Shreveport	La	1
I. I. Lynn	Spokane	Wash	1
W. H. Kerr and family	Gt. Bend	Kan	25
	Total		57

For sending papers to 4,600 American millionaires:

Charles Long	Payson	Utah	$5.00
John S. Holman	Pontiac	Ill	.75
W. H. Kerr and family	Gt. Bend	Kan	25.00
	Total		30.75

For sending paper to 10,000 clergymen:

Miles Kelley	Glen Riddle	Pa	$2.50
B. A. Sutterman	Ackley	Ia	1.00
W. H. Kerr and family	Gt. Bend	Kan	25.00
	Total		28.50

The good this educational work is doing cannot be over-estimated and all these funds should be filled out so all in these classes can get the paper soon and for a year. Ten dollars will pay for the teaching of a class of 100 in the principles of the church a year. When $10 will do so much good every one interested should pay for a class of 100. Will you, reader, take a class of 100 to educate? Take your choice of the three divsions and donate your $10 to that fund.

THE STAKES WE PLAY FOR:—Shall our children be free from the worship of idols? The Church of Humanity takes the affirmative.

The Church of Humanity will teach your children to abstain from all the crimes and vices other churches do and one more—the vice of worshiping dead Jews and a myth named God.

We want the girls to compete with the boys—no matter if you are grey headed—in filling the call for a hundred volunteer heroes and heroines to say, by joining the church, they believe the snake and ghost stories, on which Christianity is founded, is untrue.

gin and action of opinion, faith and knowledge from a phychological and philosophical standpoint?

4. Has man perception, memory and consciousness; if so, from what source did they originate?

5. Will you please explain the origin and action of metaphysics?

6. Will you please explain why the most intelligent people admit that there is an all-wise Creator, while the ignorant deny the same?

7. If the Bible is a set of mythical stories, and God, a fabulous being, why are those who read and obey it so much in advance of those who have gods and creeds of their own?

8. If the Bible is a myth, who do writings at a difference of 1500 years and ancient history agree?

ANSWERS.

1. I know no more about a "First Great Ceuse" than you or any one else does, and all I have to say in regard to it is mere opinion and speculation. If there is a "First Great Cause" you and I will have to wait patiently until some one discovers it and proves it. If that is done in our day, so much the better, if not, we will have to worry along some way without that knowledge.

As it is now positively known that there is no such a being as a God in the universe, the strong probabilities are that there is no First Great Cause. There is most certainly none that knows or cares anything about human beings, and that is demonstrable and capable of being taught by those who know it, and of being learned by those who do not. The discovery that God is a myth, like Santa Claue, simply eliminates all consideration of him from the solution of your question. You and I will have to look to the scientists for a solution of your question and not to the prophets and saviours who tried to solve it with the God idea. That idea utterly failed to correctly solve many questions that the scientists solved correctly without it. So in this question, as indeed in all your questions, we must look for a solution outside of the God idea.

2. With the God-idea eliminated I have no more to do with this question or the three following ones than any other person, and my personal views, opinions and speculations, whether right or wrong, will have no bearing on the discovery of God's mythical nature. But since you have asked me I shall give you my opinions without taking up as much space as I would like to in giving the reasons therefor.

Nature is both causc and causality, or cause and effect, since there can be nothing that is not natural in nature and no power that is not natural. Hence all phenomena in nature is the result of natural causes ane therefore identical with nature. What appears to be opposition in nature is simply two phases of nature, hence it could only protect itself against itself. This it does in thousands of ways to a limited extent, but there does not seem to be intelligence manifested in this protection since the protection is not adequate in some respects, nor final in any. So far as I can judge from the evidence at hand nature is supreme, but not intelligent by our standard, or measure of intelligence. Nature produces us without intelligent design, and if there ever was a God or a million gods, they, like ourselves, were the product of nature and not nature the product of Gods. Hence, was the God you worship a reality he, like yourself, would be a product of nature and subject to its laws. In that case nature would be the creator of God and not God the creator of nature.

3. Our opinions, faith and knowledge are derived for the most part, if not entirely, from our surroundings, teachings, observations, experience, and our own deductions therefrom.

4. Certainly. Perception, memory and consciousness are functions of the brain. They are not confined to man but are common, in a greater or less degree, in all animals. The brain originated as did the other organs of the body through reproductions of the parents and the brain gradually grew and learned to exercise its functions as did the other organs of the body. As to the first origin of man, with all his faculties, I believe at present in the Darwinian theory of man's gradual evolution and development from lower forms of life. The Garden of Eden fable, with its mud man and all-rib woman, is too utterly silly to be believed for a moment by a Twentieth century man or woman of ordinary intelligence.

5. This innocent little question is one that embraces all the sciences, both of modern and ancient times, both true and untrue. To give it a general meaning and then try to answer all in detail would require volumes. But I could answer it in a short way by simply saying I make no pretense of being a metaphysician. But that would not be satisfactory to either of us perhaps. You could have simplified the question by making it plainer and limiting it to metaphysical theology. I am not sure as to what you mean by "action of metaphysics," and will have to skip the "action" of metaphysics until I can get an explanation of your meaning.

In the broadest sense metaphysics and physics seem to be synonomous terms and include both the positive knowledge and the speculative guesses of our race, on all known and unknown objects, either seen or guessed at. In a more limited sense, physics is the study or knowledge of the material universe, while metaphysics is man's knowledge and guesses of the immaterial and unseen qualities of material things, and his guesses of imaginary beings and things.

The name, metaphysics, is a noun, derived from the Greek, and means after or next in importance to physics. In the ancient schools the science of metaphysics was divided into several divisions, viz; Otology, treating of the nature, essence and qualities or attributes of being; Cosmology, treating of the nature and laws of matter and motion; Anthroposophy, treating of the powers of man and the motion by which life is produced; Psychology, treating of the intellectual soul; Pneumatology, treating of spirits or angels, etc.

Metaphysical Theology, called by Leibnitz and others Theodicy, treats of the existence of God, his essence and attributes. "These divisions of the science of metaphysics," says Webster, "which prevailed in ancient schools, are now not much regarded." And I would say some of them must now be discarded and allowed to become obselete.

As it is now positively known that god is a man-made myth, like Santa Claus, we have no more use for metaphysical theological discourses on the nature, essence and attributes of God, since a God who does not exist can have none of these qualities.

Pneumatology can be suspended until some one finds a spirit or angel from an unseen world who can verify his find to the satisfaction of a truth-seeker. Then it will be time enough to inquire into its nature, essence and attributes,

Psychology must be discredited and allowed to become obselete and pass into oblivion unless its definition be changed to mean a treatise on man's intellectual faculties, and not on his intellectual soul or on the doctrine of his spiritual nature. Since man has no unperishable life within him there is no need of discourses or treatises on that which he does not possess

The building up of these now discredited divisions of metaphysics by the ancients was the result of their allowing their imaginations to get to far ahead of their positive knowledge. The discarding of them by the moderns is the result of man's positive knowledge catching up with the imagination of the ancients. This should teach our race the valuable lesson of never again allowing its imagination to get such a death grip on great numbers that they will murder all others who are unable to work their imaginations up ts the regulation standard.

As to the other divisions of metaphysics I see no reason why they could not be treated under the name physics, and thereby discarding the name, metaphysics.

6. The most intelligent people on the questions under consideration are the members of the Church of Humanity, and they all know there is no such a being as an all-wise Creator. As you are classed with the ignorant ones who deny this positive knowledge perhaps you could account for that ignorance better than I can, but I shall give my explanation of it, which I am confident is the true one. We are all jurors on all questions coming before us for examination and decision. Christianity, being a vast system of mythology, like other great religions, lays first claim to a child's considerations and decisions. Mother father, teacher and priest are its advocates The terrible punishments for a decision against it and the magnificient reward for a decision in its favor are continually held up before a child to influence its decisions. The child's mind is poisoned against the advocates of truth. They are represented to it as being devils, imps of Satan, agents of hell, who take a delight in trying to influence its decision against Christianity in order to drag it down to eternal torture.

For centuries the advocates of truth were ostracised, outlawed and hounded to death by every conceivable method of torture fanatics could devise. Who can blame the child for deciding in favor of Christianity under the circumstances.

That is the method employed in making idolators of hundreds of millions of children. What is their decision worth? By the rules of jurisprudence of all nations it is valueless, since they heard only one side of the case, and their decision was rendered under threat of punishment for a contrary decision anb a bribe for a favorable decision.

The Church of Humanity is composed of a few who have learned that both the threatened punishment and proffered bribe are non-existing and hence worthless. They heard and studied both sides impartially and decided according to the preponderance of evidence without fear of punisnment or hope of reward. Their desion is legal and will stand unimpeachable throughout the world and for all time.

7. You assume a fact to exist where the reverse is nearer the truth. As applied to nations you can easily see the fallacy of your assumption by contrastieg Russia, a Christian nation, with Japan, a nation having "gods and creeds of their own.". As applied to individuals, observe the treatment accorded Russian captives by the Japanese to the treatment accorded Japanese captives by the Russians. Coming closer home, contrast the ignorance and idolatry of members of the christian churches, who read and obey the bible, on their knees worshiping dead Jews named Jesus and Mary, and old Jewish idols named God and Holy Ghost, with the astonishing advancement of the members of the Church of Humanity who have learned that all gods, devils and Holy Ghosts are fabulous beings; that heaven and hell are myths, and the resurrectian of the dead a delusion. Speaking of those in advance, why, man, it will take the most self-sacrificing labors the church of Humanity can put forth for a hundred years to educate and lift up christians who read and obey the Bible, to its advanced position.

8. No one claims the Bible is a myth—it is a real man-made book the same as other books. There are many fables in it and some of the characters in those fables are myths. Gods, angels, devils, and Holy Ghosts are a few of the fictitious characters. Writings that are true must always agree with those truths regardless of the time they were written or the name of the book they are found in.

Those who believe I fairly represent and defend their position in the above answers should fill out the subjoined blank application for membership in the Church of Humanity, and return it to me. I shall, on its receipt, transcribe it into the Book of Life and send you a certificate of graduation in the knowledge of God, making you a life member and one of the founders of the church of Humanity. I desire to represent and defend you, but cannot do so unless you join the church, as I do not know who or where you are or whether you believe the principles of the church or not. So if you are far enough advanced in the knowledge of God to graduate please do so at once. We need your number, name and influence to back us up in our educational work. The season for revival work is now here. Let us have a revival second to no other church. While others are getting thousands of members let us have dozens.

Personal to the Church Members.

Come to experience meetings! I want each of you to give reasons in in your own language why you know there is no God. Give your experience and observations in you own way that convinced you there it no God. I want your experience for the benefit of the great class we are teaching so they can profit by it.

We will model it on they plan adopted by some Christains churches in having the members tell what God does for them and how they know he loves them. But we will tell how we know God loves no one and is a fictitous being.

We will have a monthly experience meeting in each issue. You can all come to this experience meeting, from sister Lee in California to brother Frantz in New York, from brother Lymn in Washington to brother Harris in Alabama. Write out a dozen or more short statements of different experiences and observations and give your conclusions drawn from them that prove to you there is no God and the utter uselessness of worshiping one. Then I shall select one or two from the list given by each member to use in each experience meeting. As you observe new events that prove God's nonexistence write them out briefly and send them in for the experience meetings. Here are a few models to pattern after:

1 I know there is no God who loves people for a lineman fell from a telephone pole to the pavement in this city and received injuries from which he died in a few days without regaining conciousness.

Had there been a God who sees sparrows fall and cared more for a man than a sparrows he would have seem this man's danger and prevented the fall.

Therefore the good sparrow-seeing and hair counting God is a myth like Santa Claus and I shall not worship him.

2 I know there is no God who loves and cares for little children because a little boy in this county wishing to take some of his books home from school ran back to get them but finding the door locked raised a window whsch dropped on his knee as he was climbing in and he, being unable to raise it, died there. As that child was as dear to God as my child could be and as no God came to its aid none would have come to the aid of mine if it was dying. Therefors I do not allow my child to pray to God but teach it that God is a mythe like Santa Clause.

3 I know there is no God who loves or cares for Christain mothers and answers their prayers for a good Christian mother near by prayed very frevuently for weeks for God to spare her little sick boy with out avail.

As that mother is as worthy of being favorable answered by God I could be, and as her prayers were unanswered, God shall never refuse to answer my prayers for I know now he is a myth like Santa Claus and is therefore excusable for not answering prayers and I shall never ask him to.

Now send in a lot of similar observations and deductions therefore for our experience meeting column in the next issue. Do not delay. Each one send in something for that department.

A Preacher Answers Himself in His Own Pamphlet.

Rev. H. M. Brooks of Paris, Illinois has sent me his pamphlet, "The Church Impeached," with his compliments, for which I thank him.

He says so many good things, and recognizes so many evils that his God could easily remedy were he a real being that it seems strange to me he does not recognize the truth that his God is a fabulous being like Santa Claus else he would never allow the injustice and suffering complained of. Love and fear of a man-made God clouds his reasoning faculties on subjects relating to him while they are quite clear on many other subjects.

I wonder if he will be able to recognize the parallel between two of his statements and the application of the latter to the Church of Humanity. Well see if you can. Here they are:

"I shall never spend any time try- to prove the existence of God.

Moses never wrote a sentence and Christ never said a word with a view to proving the existence of God.

The reason of this is found in a saying by David that, 'the fool hath said in his heart there is no God.'

What is the use of spending time to prove anything to a fool? Any man would be doing the world a better service by sitting around whittling store boxes than writing a book or delivering a lecture in order to convince some fool that there is a God." Now for the answer.

"Take five hundred children and bring them up where the custom is to take a human being to a given spot each Saturday and burn him and ninety-nine out of each hundred will think it right.

(Same thing in worshiping idols. Ed.)

And if there should be any with undividuality enough to raise up and declare the custom pernicious and ungodly the rest will call him a fool (You are one of the "rest." Ed.) and an anarchist and jump on him and tramp his life out (That is what you would like to do. Ed.) and some other generation will come along and discover that he was right and build him a monument.

This is the way we advance"

Now since you see so clearly the mistakes of the ninety-nine why should you be guilty of the same mistake in regard to members of the Church of Humanity who have learned there is no God and are organizing to teach that fact?

Under the caption: "The church must be honest" you say:

"I want the church to be honest, I want the Clergy to tell us if the Bible is true or false. If it is true, I want them to teach it, and if false, I want them to say so plainly and in a manly way." In view of what you just said about the uselessness of "spending time to prove anything to a fool" this request is humorous.

If one of them knew the bible is false he would be afraid to say so through fear of the ninety-nine, of whom you are one, jumping upon him and tramping "his life out."

Now friend Brooks, your request is a legitimate one, but you know all idolatrous churches are organized to make idolators of the people by teaching them the bible is the words of a God and every word is true, hence no clergyman dare teach contrary to what he is employed to 'each or the "ninety-nine out of a hundred" who, think their idolatry right would kick him out. But there is a church that will tell you the truth you ask for "plainly and in a manly way." It is being organized for that purpose and all who wish to know the truth about the bible, God, heaven, hell or a future life can now apply to it—The Church of Humanity. Mr. Brooks' pamphlet is interesting reading and can be had I presume of the author by sending him the price, 25c.

A Proposition to the Millionaires.

Gentlemen:—The Church of Humanity is sending you this little messenger to inform you of the important discovery it has made. The discovery is that God is only a myth like Santa Claus, that heaven and hell are non-existing and that no one rises from the grave. You will see by these facts that Jesus can be nothing more than a dead Jew. Being practical men who do nothing unless there is some profit in it you can readily see there can be no profit in worshiping dead Jews. You can readily see there is no longer any object in giving anything to God since he, being a myth, is unable to reward you for giving or to punish you for not giving. As you desire every one to have confidence in your sound business judgment you will therefore cease worshiping God and Jesus and refuse to give of your wealth to the support of idolatry. Being men who are both able and willing to educate your children in the most advanced knowledge in all branches of learning you will no longer wish them to worship dead Jews and Jewish idols but will want to send them where they can be taught in a manly dignified way the truth about God and be thereby saved from idolatry. You will not want your children to be idolators like the low, the ignorant and the totally depraved. Now the Church of Humanity is not in a position to take and teach your children in these great new-found truths owing to the facts it has no college building or the money to erect one. It has the truths and the teachers ready to teach them. Now what is wanted of you is the money with which to build and equip the college. I therefore ask fourteen hundred American Millionaires to chip in what they think it is worth to them to have their children saved from worshiping dead Jews and other idols and raise $14,000 for the Church of Humanity with which to build and equip a college building in which to teach their children and others the true knowledge of God. Now I shall ask each one of you to please inform me by return mail the amount you will give for the purpose.

W. H. KERR.

Join the church of Humanity.

Preposterous!

Several have written to me saying they would not give a cent towards sending this little missionary to the clergy or editors of religious papers, giving as their reasons the erroneous statements that these people know better but are engaged in the business of making people idolators for the money there is in it. I am sure that is a grave mistake and I hope no member of the Church of Humanity will be guilty of it. It is a very untrue and unjust charge to make and deceive those who believe it as to the true reasons the teachers of idolatry are engaged in the business and charges an ignoble motive not justified by facts. There may possibly be an exception to that rule once in a while but that does not justify a general application. Those people actually believe what they teach, and believe it is of vital and far reaching importance, both to themselves and to the ones they teach, that they should do it. They believe to a great extent, that happiness and civilization on earth, and eternal happiness in another life, depends on their teaching.

The money consideration is only incidental, but of secondary importance as being necessary to their maintainance in order that they can devote their time to the teaching. Many thousands of them could make more money in other occupations and make it easier and have better homes and surroundings. Many thousands of priests would surely be happier in homes of their own with wife and children they could call their own were they free from the vows of slavery to a dead Jew and an old Jewish idol named God. It remains for the Church of Humanity to break the chains of love and fear that bind them to those idols, and set them free. The Church of Humanity must be the liberator of those people by teaching them the truth. Nothing is better adapted or more able to accomplish that result than this little missionary, and as it belongs to the founders of the Church of Humanity and is anxious to do their bidding, they should send it on its mission of liberation to the homes of every clergyman and editor of a religious paper in the land.

Each founder of the church should give the little missionary orders to go to at least a hundred homes of clergymen. The little missionary will die if you do not give it work to do. It cannot live without work. It came into existence to work, and work it must have or it will perish. When there is so much work that it should do and is willing to do it so cheaply and freely you, brothers and sisters, should enter into a contest to see who can give it the most work to do. It cannot go without your orders. Send in your commands at once and do not let the little missionary die for want of work to do.

Heaven is an imaginary setellite of earth that keeps directly over every Clergyman's head though they be on oposite side of the earth or near its opposite poles.

The Church of Humanity must promulgate its teaching of the truths about God as other churches do the fables about him, that fit to those who know them not.

International Lesson

DAILY PROOF THAT THERE IS NO GOD.

OBJECT LESSON XII.

[By the International Instructor for the Church of Humanity.]

Above the graves of our pershed loved ones the Church of Humanity proclaims God a myth.

God is a fabulous being like Santa Claus. A fabulous being is an unreal being, invented by the imagination, and has no existence in fact in nature. God was first imagined to exist several thousand years ago.

People who did not understand the cause of the movements in nature thought there must be some great, powerful, intelligent being that made all objects in nature move and directed those movements. They thought the movements of nature were controlled by an unseen being to please or injure man. Hence they thought that imaginary being could be induced to move the objects in nature to please and benefit man if it was petted and flattered with excessive praise. They named that imaginary being "God," and the exeessive praise of him "worship."

As God is an imaginary being and is worshiped, he is an idol. Those who worship him are therefore idolators. Some people call idolators heathens. Heathens who worship God do not know that he is only an imaginary thing like Santa Claus As soon as they learn he is, they stop worshiping him. They remain as good in every respect as they were when they were heathens. There is no evidence to prove that anyone ever became wicked through learning that God is a myth.

Very few people have discovered that God is a myth like Santa Claus. Those who have are uniting under the name, Church of Humanity, to teach that great discovery to others. They are so glad they are free from idolatry they wish to make others free. They are sending their little missionary, the C. E. & G. D, to thousands of those who teach and practice idolatry that they may learn how to be saved from it.

They teach them the lessons by which they learned that God is a fictitious being, and therefore the uselessness of worshiping him is made plain. In these lessons facts are given to prove that there is no God who knows or cares anything about human beings. There was a sad case in Kentucky last month that proves conclusively that there is no God. Here is an account of it:

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 29. — Enoch Sloan, a well-to do farmer of Shelby, Pike county, one of the most remote points of the state, Sunday night shot and killed his wife, his four children and himself. The killing took place about 11 o'clock, but nothing was known of it till the morning after, when the nine-year-old daughter of a neighboring farmer called at the house to borrow some water, the well on her father's place having been dry for weeks.

To the drought which is playing such havoc in Kentucky the sextuple tragedy is due. Sloan's farm was one of the few in Pike county whose cisterns and springs had not long been dry. Saturday night he told his wife he was going to call on God for the first time in his life. He said he had only enough water for the family over Sunday. His stock had withered and died, and the only relief he saw was in Providence.

Dressing himself in his best clothes he went to church Sunday morning and did not return after the service. He remained in the woods near the church during the afternoon and attended worship at night. Then in a loud voice he called on God to bring rain. So many others made similar appeals that little attention was paid to him in particular, and his fervor was only looked upon as natural.

After church it was noted that he was very excited. He went home shortly after 10 o'clock and nothing more was known of him till the next morning, when the neighbor's child called for the water. Sloan had evidently killed his wife first. She was found dead before the fireplace, the family bible open in her lap. The children were scattered all about the house, showing that they had tried for safety in flight.

Sloan, after killing his wife and children, went back into his wife's room, and sitting by the dead woman's side put a bullet through his brain, his head when found, resting on her lap, his hand, still holding the revolver, being around her neck.

The lessons to be learned from this sad tragedy are:

1. That the God this man prayed to for rain is a myth like Santa Claus and could neither hear nor answer him and is therefore excusable for not taking any steps to prevent the murders.

2. That all people should be taught in childhood that God is a myth like Santa Claus and can do nothing whatever for them and that they should not expect him to.

3. That no one should pray to God or expect any aid whatever from him no matter how great the need of his aid is, since they should know in advance that he is a myth, unable to hear or aid them, though they be in the very jaws of death

4. That people who believe God is a real live being depend on his aid in times of great danger and fool away their time praying to him when they should be doing something to avert the danger themselves

5. That a belief in a God made a fool, a murderer and a suicide of Enoch Sloan.

6. That the Church of Humanity in teaching that God is a myth exonerates him from complicity in the murder of that family.

7. That the Church of Humanity is doing the world a very important service in teaching it God's mythical nature and thereby saving christians from running a-muck when they are unable to make God help them when the weather is unsatisfactory.

8. That all Christian churches by teaching the errors of the ancients that God is a real being, make him indirectly responsible for the murder of that family by not tending to his business of making it rain.

9. That all Christian churches are responsible for the murder of that family through their false teachings of the people to look to and depend on God for aid in times of great distress.

Now it should be plain to all worshipers of ordinary intelligence that the God that they were taught to believe existed and loves people is only an imaginary creation of the mind like Santa Claus. The universe is very large indeed, yet there is not room in it for the existence of such a kind, loving heavenly father, with the wisdom and powers the Christians say he has and this murdered family. One of the accounts is untrue. Which one is it? If this murder case can be proven then the God story is untrue. If it is untrue there are hundreds of similar cases that are true that equally prove the God story untrue.

It is not rational to continue worshiping a God that all can see so plainly is a myth like Santa Claus when their attention is called to the matter in such a convincing manner. We know that had a man, or several men, been right there and watched the murder of that family, with ample power to prevent it, as God and Jesus is believed to have been, and would not use that power, we would all condemn those men in severe language and, instead of worshiping them, would prosecute them for being accessories to the crime.

We must not have a double standard of conduct, one for man and one for God, and require man to do right and require God to be wicked. God and Christ must come up to the standard of conduct required in a good man or be uncerimoniously thrown overboard as fiends until they can come into our homes as innocent, harmless myths, like Santa Claus.

We must not praise a God from inaction in saving a family from murder where we would mob a man for inaction. A God, or a Christ, who could look on the murdering of that family, with ample power to prevent it, without being moved to sympathy and pity to action would be veritable fiends, unworthy the respect, much less the worship, of the most depraved human beings. A God and a Jesus who could look on the murdering of that family without being moved to pity would look on while your family or mine was being murdered without pity or aid for them in any way.

That is sound logic, reason, and conclusion. No Christian can escape that conclusion unless he has his egotism so highly developed as to believe he and his family are more worthy of the protecting care of God than that family was. Come now, my Christian class of fellow citizens, who are contemporaries, traveling through this beautiful transit of life, let us reason together. We are, or should be, equally interested in the advancement of our race in knowledge and goodness, in happiness and civilization. Tell me, is it sensible to continue worshiping a God or a Jesus that cares nothing for ourselves or families? Tell me, is it rational to believe a God would care for our families in any imaginary world who did not care for them in this real world? Tell me, is it rational to believe a God would care for any imaginary part of man who did not care for his real body and life? If you answer these questions in the affirmative it is your duty to join some Christian church that teaches these irrational doctrines. If you answer them in the negative it is your duty to join the Church of Humanity, the only church in extence that teaches the people to use the same rational thinking and acting they follow in dealing with other subjects.

QUESTIONS ON THE LESSON.

1 What is God? 2 What is a fabulous being? 3 When was God first imagined to exist? 4 Why did people imagine a God to exist? 5 What reasons had they for the imaginary being to cause movements in nature? 6 What did they think would influence the imaginary being to work to their interests? 7 What name did they give the imaginary being? 8 What did they name the praise of him? 9 Why is God an idol? 10 What are the people called who worship idols? 11 What do some people call idolators? 12 Do heathens know their God is not a real being? 12 What do they do when they find out he is not? 14 Do they then remain good? 15 Is there any evidence to show they do not? 16 Do many people know God is a myth? 17 What are those doing who have? 18 why are they uniting? 19 why do they want to teach that God is a myth? 20 what are they doing to save people from idolatry? 21 Tell what are given in these lessons and what given for? 22 Tell the complete story of the murder. 23 Recite eight lessons to be learned from this sad tragedy. 24 To whom should it be plain that God is only an imaginary being? 25 Is there room in the universe for a Heavenly Father and this murdered family? 26 Is one of the accounts untrue? 27 which one is untrue? 28 Is it rational to worship a God? 29 would we worship a man who could have prevented the murder and would not? 30 what would we do with them? 31 Should we have a double standard of conduct, one for man and one for god? 32 Should god and Christ come up to the standard of good conduct required of man? 33 Under what conditions should they be allowed to come into our homes? 34 Should we praise a god for inaction? 35 would god and Christ be fiends if they could not be moved by sympathy and pity while they observed that family being murdered? 36 would they be worthy of the respect of savages? 37 would god and Jesus care if our families were killed? 39 what trait of character would a Christian have largely developed to believe God would protect him and his family? 39 Should those who are free from idolatry reason with those who are not? 40 Should all be equally interested in the progress of our race? 41 Is it sensible to continue worshiping imaginary beings who cannot care for us or our families? 42 Is it rational to believe God would care for our families in an imaginary world who does not care for them in this? 43 Is it rational to believe a god would care for an imaginary part of man who does not care for his real body and life? 44 If one answers these questions in the affirmative what should he do? 45 If answered in the negative, what is one's duty? 46 Name the only church that teaches the people to think and act as rationally in the study of god as they do other subjects?

BIBLE LESSON NO. 10.

[By the International Instructor for the Church of Humanity.]

God's Creators Have Put Him to Holding Court.

We have now learned that God is a fabulous being like Santa Claus.

We have banished the sense of both love and fear of him inculcated in our minds in childhood through the teaching of errors by our parents and the clergy. We are now in the proper judicial state of mind to read the bible and to judge God correctly by the character his creators gave him.

No one is competent to judge God correctly whose mind is dominated by excessive love for him or fear of him.

But when we once learn that God is only the name given a fictitious being who has not the least reality in fact, we are enabled to break the ties of love and fear with which mistaken teachers bound us to him and study him with the disinterested mind we study the idols of other idolators.

Genesis 3, 8.—And they heard the voice of the Lord God walking in the garden in the cool of the day: and Adam and his wife hid themselves from the presence of the Lord God among the trees of the garden.

The creators of God have in this verse reduced him to the size and limitations of a man. He is devoid of omnipotence and is here shown to be devoid of the attribute of omnipresence. He was not present with Adam but had to hunt him up as a man would have to do.

It was said he created the sun and placed it yet here he can't bear its heat 92 millions of miles distant and has to defer tending to business until the cool of the day.

Why did he not happen around when the snake was talking to the woman? He did not know it. Why did he not come around just as the woman reached for the fruit? He did not know what she was doing. So he has not the attribute of omniscience after all.

This does away with the three essential attributes that are necessary in the make up of a God. Without those powers no idol is a God. The clergy will acknowledge that.

So we have no God after all. But we will continue to examine this man-made idol.

9. And the Lord God called unto Adam, and said unto him, Where art thou?

The clergy say this is the Lord God who sees sparrows fall, counts hairs, sees all our actions, knows all our thoughts, yet he is unable to find two full sized people among some trees. What a specimen of a God! He had to resort to the undignified alternative of calling "where art thou?" Had they not answered and had it been night he never would have found them. What an insignificant God!

He is not omnipotent because he could not personally govern or control two people according to his wishes. He is not omnipresent because he could not remain with two people but let them both get lost from him. He is not omniscience because when he had only two people to look after he did not know where they were or what they were doing.

This God-creator reduces him to the size and limitations of a man. What a mighty fall from the powerful God created by the first chapter who could speak the moon, earth and sun into existence! So long as God-creators confine the exploits of their God to large generalities they make for it a fairly good showing, but when they descend to minute details they are under the necessity of divesting their God of the great powers they had endowed him with.

10 And he said, I heard thy voice in the garden, and I was afraid, because I was naked: and I hid myself.

11 And he said, Who told thee that thou wast naked? Hast thou eaten of the tree, whereof I commanded thee thou shouldst not eat?

12 And the man said, The woman whom thou gavest to be with me, she gave me of the tree, and I did eat.

13 And the Lord God said unto the woman, What is this that thou hast done? And the woman said, The serpent beguiled me, and I did eat.

The bible God-creators now have their fiction-God convene court in special session to try this very interesting case. This is God's first case in court. It is an index to his method of proceeding in all cases and will be followed out when he convenes court to try the Christians on that "Great Judgment Day" they fear so much.

As he was as wise then as he is now or will be on that "Great Day" his method of trying a case should be of the deepest interest and anxiety to all Christian criminals. It will be a great comfort to the many thousands of Christians who are in jail, and the penitentiary, and their relatives and friends to have a few conclusions drawn from this case pointed out to them. Most clergymen and most all Christians believe if they could evade God's punishment they would take a great delight in committing all kinds of crimes. As I am just as anxious as they are that they be good and do good I would not remove any necessary restraint on their conduct or just punishment for their crimes. But as I happen to know their natures better than they do I do not hesitate to assure them they will never be punished for anything they do by a God.

Here are two reasons that are conclusive: First. god is a fabulous being like Santa Claus and hence can punish or reward no one. Second. Man has no life that survives the grave to be either punished or rewarded. I know Christians will be as good after they learn these facts as they were before. The Christians who have learned them and are now members of the Church of Humanity amply prove that assertion true by their continued good conduct. But it is difficult for Christians to learn these truths of nature so long as they are in mortal fear of the punishment of this fiction-God. So we shall point out the impossibility of ever being punished by this fiction-god though they lived forever and this God was a reality and the "great judgment day" was of endless duration instead of twenty-four hours long as Christians expect it will be.

1. This God is too slow. The billions of Christians who have lived committed so many crimes that he has more cases now than he will ever be able to dispose of and he is not going to send the guilty ones to hell until he has all the goats sorted out and bunched up to the left. He has only two witnesses here to examine, but see how long it takes him.

In all Christian countries there are thousands of judges trying Christian criminals and passing judgment on them. According to the clergy the Christians commit many crimes against God for which he will punish them, that are not recognized as crimes by the laws of any nation. So God will never reach your case. He is so slow he could not have time to even enter the crimes of Christians on the docket so numerous are they.

2. god believed the unsupported word of the guilty parties. Had Adam followed god's example in lying and denied eating of the fruit of that tree he would have escaped punishment for god did not know for certain he had until Adam acknowledged it.

I shall not advise or encourage Christians to lie under any consideration until Gabriel calls them forth on the "great judgment day." I advise them one and all to then lie like troopers and admit no crimes whatever. They will then go scot free of punishment for god will not know any better nor will he think of subpoenaing witnesses. If he happens to know any better in your case and accuse you of lying, tell him you thought it right to lie since he lied to Adam about him dying the same day he ate that fruit and as he was a good God you thought it right to follow his example. Tell him if you must go to hell for lying he must go too since he is the father of liars and told the first one. He will see the consistency of your position and grant a general amnesty to all. Christians, do not fear God, even though you believe him to be a real live thing for he will never get to your case and if he does you can easily lie out of it.

The Church of Humanity is the only church that ever existed that saves all its members from hell unconditionally. There is only one fact for you to learn to make you eligible to membership in that church, and that is that god is a myth like Santa Claus Try to learn that great truth then join that church and you are saved from hell.

Don't worry about your lost condition when you can be saved so easily.

QUESTIONS ON THE LESSON.

1. What have we learned about God? 2. What have we banished from our minds? 3. When was love and fear of God incalculated in our minds? 4. By whom? 5. HOW? 6. What state of mind are we now in? 7. What can we now do? 8. When is a person incompetent to judge God correctly? 9. When are we able to break the ties of love and fear by which we are bound to God? 10. How should we study God? 11 Repeat the bible verse. 12. To what size and limitations have God's creators here reduced him? 13. Define attribute, omnipotence, omnipresence and omniscience. 14. Has God the power to be present everywhere? 15. Why not? 16. Can God stand heat? 17. Why not? 18. Why did God not stop the snake from talking to Eve? 19. Why did he not prevent the woman from eating the fruit? 20. Has God the attribute of omniscience? 21. Name the three attributes that are necessary in the nature of a God. 22. Could an idol be a God without them? 23. Has God any of them? 24. Have we any God? 25. Repeat verse 9. 26. Is this the same Lord God the preachers and priests make the people worship? 27. Is this the Christian's God? 28. Name some of the things he is said to do? 29. Are the two people hid from God? 30. How does he find them? 31. How do we know God is not omnipotent. 32. Give a reason to prove God is not omnipresent. 34. Give a reason to prove God is not omniscience. 35. Describe the difficulty God-creators have in giving minute details of the exploits of their God. 36. Read the four verses. 37. What are the God-creators having their fiction-God do? 38. What for? 39. Is it God's first case? 40. Why should it be of interest to Christian criminals? 41. What do Christians believe they would do could they evade God's punishment? 42. Should we remove any necessary restraint on their conduct or just punishment for their crimes? 43. Are they mistaken about the fear of God being the cause of their goodness? 44. Give two reasons why God will never punish them for anything they do. 45. Will Christians be as good after they learn these facts? 46. What proof have we they will be? 47. Why is it so difficult for Christians to learn these truths? 48. Assuming their superstition to be true, give reasons why God could not punish them. 49. What should Christians do on the "Judgment Day" to save themselves from being sent to hell, that they should not do before that time? 50. Who, according to the bible, told the first lie? 51. Who is the father of liars according to the Christian superstition? 52. Why should God grant a general amnesty to all liars on the "Judgment Day?" 53. Why should Christians not fear God? 54. Is there any church that saves all its members from hell unconditionally? 55. Name it. 56. What one truth must you learn to be eligible to membership in that church? 57. Should you try to learn it? 58. What should you do then? 57. Will that save you from hell?

What the Church is Doing and What It Proposes to do.

The Church of Humanity now has a class of 5000 students. It is educating them in the true knowledge of God. This great class includes 900 editors of religious publications, 750 clergyman and 1400 American millionaires. This is a magnificent undertaking for a church so young and with only 68 members the majority of whom are too poor to contribute to the teaching. It will take from one to five years teaching owing to the aptness of the students in learning new truths, before members of this class will be able to graduate in the knowledge of God. In the meantime funds must be raised to continue the work and enlarge it. I have the addresses of 4600 American millionaires that should all be added to the class. I have several thousand addresses of clergymen that should be added and will be as fast as funds are sent in to do it. It only costs ten cents a year for the teaching of each student in his or her home.

I do the teaching free of cost to the church. My children help to fold, wrap and address the lessons, free, to the church. All I ask the rest of the church members and founders to do is to pay for the press work and postage on the lessons. Please send in your donation for the continuance of the teaching.

Every penny will be placed to your credit which will be reported from time to time in the paper, and shall be a receipt for the same.

All who are able to do so should send in a Christmas gift of $5 and a New Years gift of $5 to carry on and enlarge the educational work of the Church of Humanity.

Christian churches accuse God of being real with knowledge and power to have prevented the murder of the Sloan family. That makes God a fiend. The Church of Humanity proves God a myth. That defends and exonerates him. What church then is God's true defender? Join the Church of Humanity then and be one of God's defenders instead of joining a Christian church and becoming one of his defamers.

The Church of Humanity.

The Church of Humanity is the first attempt ever made to organize those who have learned the real truth about God. It is the first attempt ever made to teach the truth about God through an organization. All of the thousands of societies organized to teach something about God are teaching untruths about him. Those unt ruths represent him to be such a wicked fiendish being that millions of our race are in insane fear of him. That fear causes them to worship him with excessive praise, flattery and cajolery. As God is now positively known to be only a man-made myth like Santa Claus all worshipers of him are therefore idolators. It is high time those who know the truth about him were organized into a society and set the task of teaching that truth to others in order to check idolatry and eventually eradicate it.

That eradication should be accomplished during the Twentieth century. Not the least practice of idolatry should be carried over by any portion of our race into the next century. It will not be if those who are free from it will do their full duty. Their duty is to join the Church of Humanity and do all in their power to promulgate its teaching. That church is based on the scientific facts that all Gods, devils and Holy Ghosts are fabulous beings, heaven and hell are myths and the resurrection of the dead a delusion. There are 72 who have learned these factsand have certificates of graduation in the knowledge of God. They are life members and founders of the Church of Humanity. They are sending this little missionary to bear the glad tidings of these discovered truths to thousands, that they too may be free and rejoice with them in their freedom from idolatry. They stand as beacon lights on the advanced heights of progress to guide the world up to higher planes of civilization. They are living monuments that disprove effectively every false teaching of the worshipers of God. They effectively disprove the following false teachings of idolators:

1—That God would strike anyone dead if he said there is no God —they are all alive yet.

2—That if it were not for the fear of God people would commit all kinds of crime,—not one of them is in jail or penitentiary.

3—That people would degenerate into savagery were they not kept in fear of God,—they are all engaged in honorable occupation.

4—That people would rob and murder were it not for fear of God—no one locks his house, barn, hen house or coal bins on account of these church members living near them, neither do any carry weapons when they expect to meet them on the highway.

5—That the marriage institutions and the family would be discontinued were people relieved from the fear of God —they all love wife and children as much if not more than they did when they were idolators. All the love they gave to God and dead Jews, they now give to their families.

In short they are as good citizens in every respect and better in some than they were when worshiping God. The false teaching by the clergy that if people once knew there was no hell hereafter they would promptly set up one in this life is totally disproved by these 72 members of the Church of Humanity. There is no more reason to expect Christians to become fools and criminals when they learn the truth about any other branch of knowledge. The Church of Humanity is the right kind of an object lesson the worshipers of all Gods need. It disproves all the false theories of the teachers of idolatry and gives an opportunity for those who are misled by them to see with their own eyes that they are untrue. On account of this good objective influence on idolators all who are free from idolatry and have learned that God is a fictitious being should unite with the Church of Humanity without hesitation. Your number, name and influence are badly needed as object lessons to the Christians.

You can do more good by joining the church in one year than you can in a life time out of it. Hardly any will know you have learned the truths on which it is based if you stay out, and your number and influence is lost, while if you unite with us many thousands will know you are free and will be influenced by it. Then again your influence for truth and progress will be multiplied by the number of members in the church. And last but not least your number and influence will continue doing good for millions through all coming time if you are enrolled in the Book of Life as a life member and one of the founders of the Church of Humanity where by remaining out of it what little influence for good with a very few will cease at your death and you will soon be forgotten dust and the world no better for you having lived in it.

The Church of Humanity wants members in every school district and city precinct in the United States as living mounments to the false teaching of Christianity and as object lesson for the guidance of idolators. Then, dear readers, if you are free from the fear of the idols of mythologies please fill out the blank application in this paper and mail it to me RIGHT NOW.

This church is a missionary educational church and promulgates the great truths it has discovered about God, Jesus, hell, heaven, Satan and life by donating its teaching free to the people to the end that idolatry may be checked and finally eliminated from our civilization. We wish the clergy and editors of religious publications to know the truth about God so they will not charge our refusal to worship him to a wicked nature and incite the people against us as enemies to truth, law, virtue, progress and civilization.

We believe in and practice and teach all the truths and moral virtues they do but we have advanced farther in the knowledge of God than they and teach that advanced knowledge. We wish them to learn it too and then help us to rescue the world from idolatry.

While I must look to and depend entirely on the founders of the church for the funds for the educational work, yet I shall be pleased to receive donations to the funds from any one.

We wish the millionaires to learn the truths we have to teach so they will aid us in establishing colleges to prepare instructors.

For the small sums donated to the three funds I have placed 750 clergymen, 900 editors of religious publications and 1400 millionaires on the regular mailing list. I would like to keep these classes on the list until they can graduate in the knowledge of God if possible. I must depend on the donations of those who wish them taught to enable me to continue the teaching. Founders of the church must take the lead in this work and each one should donate from $10 to $50, according to his ability, to these educational funds. We never can win the people from idolatry until we teach them the truth. I estimate it will take five years for the average reader to learn the truths we teach so thoroughly as tobe able to graduate in the knowledge of God. When we get a college established where young people can come and devote their entire time to the study of God they perhaps can graduate in one term of nine months teaching. Until that time comes we must carry on the work as best we can through our church organ.

Kentucky's Disgrace.

"Louisville, Nov. 28–The drought in Kentucky is beginning to decrease the milk supply in Louisville. Several dairies have put their customers on half allowance. Several distillers have suspended operations until rain falls.

In many churches yesterday prayers were offered for rain."

If it did not rain in Kentucky for ten thousand years no one would be justified in making such an exhibition of their idolatrous heathenism over it.

Kansas has disgraced herself in the same way many times. It is to be hoped she will never do it again. To pray for rain is a manifestation of ignorance that is out of line with all known facts, with all progress, with all teachings and schools except those engaged in perpetuating heathenism and idolatry. Intelligent people should unite in the Church of Humanity and help to give the people such instruction as will prevent them from making such disgraceful exhibitions of their ignorance.

Monthly Report.

Number of graduates in the knowledge of God enrolled in the Book of Life since last report, 8. Kansas, 2; Missouri, 2; Texas, 2; Idaho and Indiana 1 each.

Occupation of members: Housekeeper and dressmaker, hotelkeeper, lecturer, book and news stand and telegraph operator.

Nationality of members, Americans. Previous church connections; Baptist, 1; none, 4. Total number of members in the Church of Humanity, 72.

The man who will not try to save his children from idolatry is not doing his duty by them.

I inclose 25cts for C. E. & G. D. Will join the church when I am able to pay for a pew. (JOIN NOW while you are prompted by good impulses to do right. Salvation from idolatry is free to those unable to pay until they make a raise. Ed) You are doing a good work in your frank and friendly way. I wish I could aid you more. Your style suits me, because my views are identical with yours, and your plain, earnest cogent arguments might take better with some religionists. That was an elegant stopper you applied to that old gag about what "the fool hath said."

Find inclosed $5 balance on educational fund. The dry weather has played havoc among my crops, but I expect to be able to help push the good work next spring.
EMIL FREDRICH, Mt. Sterling, Ky.

Find inclosed $1.25 for sub. and bundles of C. E. & G. D. to distribute. In No. 12 your answers to Rev. Ambrose were well chosen and I take a particular delight in reading them once in a while.
P. C. HANSEN, Greenleaf, Kans.

I send you $1 for missionary work. Those extras you sent me I have distributed and shall do so should you send more.
Elias Molee, Tacoma, Wash.

I inclose 25 cents to send the C. E. & G. D. to my cousin one year as a New Year's gift. I am pleased with its contents.

My religion is Justice, Humanity and Fraternity. Accept my best wishes for your welfare and success.

Unite Unite.

Through advocating organization by the C. E. & G. D. seventy two people have been found in a little more than a year who are able to graduate in the knowledge of God, who believe in organization, who believe in specializing the study of God and eliminating all irrelevant questions, who wish that knowledge taught to others in a systematic way they can comprehend, who are paying for its teachings to a class of 3,000 students composedof clergymen, editors of religious publications and milloniares. If one little paper a year can accomplish such great results who can estimate the good work for organization and teaching that could be accomplished in a year were all Freethought editors united in the Church of Humanity and work in harmonious union for the up-building of that church and the promulgation of its teachings? Perhaps there are twenty such editors in the United States who could do at least as well on the average as the C. E. & G. D. has done. That would mean 1400 more church members in a year. Supposing them to aid as much in promulgating our teaching through the church organ, that would mean 60,000 more readers of the organ of our common church. That would not mean a cent of profit for me in money but twenty times the work for me and my family. We could include in our class then all the editors of religious publications, all the millionaires, all the state and national lawmakers and judges and then nearly one-third of the clergy of the United States. In five years we could have an organized church, a national instructor, an instructor in every state and large city, a college, a hospital ,an orphanage and a home for old people. Are these results not worth uniting for? Would it not be nice if we had a hospital now to take Mr. Heston to where he could have the best of medical care. Mr. and Mrs. Green died for want of love, sympathy, appreciation and recognition of their devotion to and labors f the good of humanity.

Should we organize so we too can build colleges, orphanages, hospitals and homes for our dear ones, or must we ever depend on the idolators for them and then brag about our mental superiority.

No Free thought editor or writer is justified in criticising the stupidity of idolators until he can show as good judgment in the art of organization and teaching and caring for his loved ones as do the idolators.

The idolators of every city are giving us an object lesson in uniting for a common purpose that we must follow if we are ever going to prove that we have as much sense as they.

Here is a clipping giving the plans of the idolators at Kansas City for uniting in a grand revival:

THE COMING REVIVAL.

K. C. World, Dec., 26.

Much interest is being taken in the inter-denominational "revival" in this city which is to begin January 2 The movement has some unique features It is being conducted on broad lines, the apparent object being not to build up one church at the expense of another, but to promote those general principles of Christianity held in common by the various churches.

A score of religious sects will take part, representing nearly 200 congregations and a membership of more than 75,000. If all these people, or any considerable proportion of them go to work in earnest, a religious awakening may be looked for unprecedented in the history of the community. Every corner of the two Kansas Citys will be thoroughly covered, but there will be a careful guarding against the customary duplication of effort in any given territory and the consequent waste of energies.

The cosmopolitan character of the movement may be judged from the fact that churches radically different in doctrine and of form of goverment are to co-operate. The Salvation army, the Volunteers of America, and the negro churches have been invited to take part.

A pleasing feature of the movement is that the various churches which in former years spent so much time and energy in fighting each other have decided to minimize their differences of ereed or methods and unite in fighting their common enemy, the forces of evil in the community.

See how sensible these people are to stop their quarrling and unite. They will be able to complete the heathenization of the two cities.

Now why can't all the editors who are trying to free the people from heathenism be as sensible and unite in one grand revival and build up a rival church to teach the people the truth? Do not they believe what the Church of Humanity teaches? Do they not want their readers to have any society except that furnished by idolators? Do they want to compel the children and wives of their readers to attend Sunday school and Christian churches by refusing to help them to organize? Do they not know that we must teach the truth about God in the same way errors about him are taught? Can't they comprehend the fact that it is not the method of teaching but the things idolators teach that is wrong?

Do they always wish to merit the charge of tearing down and never building, or being only a perpetual negation? Brothers and sisters, please write to all Freethought editors you know and ask them to UNITE, UNITE.

Unless a Christian is an expert in anatomy he can't tell when he finds a bone whether the original owner is dead or not.

A sure proof of God being a myth is that he does not resent being accused of a crime for which negroes are burned.

Guess it would be satisfactory with most Jews if the Christians would stop murdering live Jews and worshiping dead ones.

If you are waiting to do all your good deeds in another world you will have missed your opportunity forever as there is no other world for you.

It is a strange mystery how it happened that people otherwise considered sensible have looked on their dead through the past centuries and did not know they were dead.

In the fall of Port Arthur the Japanese captured twenty christian chaplains who were God's representatives to keep him informed what Christians needed and how best he could aid them in slaying the heathen Japs. That should be enough to shake the faith of Christians in the power if not in the very existence of God.

The Study of God

INTERNATIONAL LESSON

DAILY PROOF THAT THERE IS NO GOD.

OBJECT LESSON XIII.

[By the International Instructor for the Church of Humanity.]

Above the graves of our persihed loved ones the Church of Humanity proclaims God a myth.

So long as we live we should never forget the disasters that prove beyond the shadow of a doubt that God is a myth like Santa Claus, and therefore unable to protect us and our loved ones from death. If we forget those object lessons we are liable to fall into the habit of idolators all around us in their heathen practice of praying to God for aid in the face of great danger. There never can arise a danger great enough to justify a prayer to God for aid, . With the positive knowledge that the end of life was not five minutes off we would not be justified in praying to Santa Claus to prolong life. It would be as useless and as foolish to pray to God to prolong life, since he is discovered to be a myth, too.. That the disasters happened long ago or in some other country does not make them of less value as proof of God's non-existence than had they happened near us today and some of our loved ones had perished in them. We must not overlook the family loss of one of its members that equally prove God a myth. That a family has not lost a member in years does not prove that it is protected from harm by a God, for it has had losses and will have again.

The loss our neighbors have is as strong a proof of God being a myth as our own loss. We must not allow the teachers of idolatry to build up our egotism to the point of believing we are God's pets and that he will take care of us though he lets the rest of the world perish. Many have given up the idea that God cares for their lives in this world, but hold to the illogical idea that he will care for them in another world. As our life is terminated at death there is no other world for us.

The Church of Humanity does not take God away or destroy the continuance of life, it has simply learned that there never was a real god nor was there ever life beyond the grave for any one. Hence it only teaches the facts that have been always true, but the people did not know them. It is as honorable and praisworthy to learn those truths and proclaim them to the world as to learn and proclaim any new truths discovered in any other branch of study. The Church of Humanity is doing the world the greatest good by this service of teaching it these truths which alone are able to rescue it from idolatry.

Many people are beginning now to comprehend these truths and by the aid and moral support from the Church of Humanity will in a few years be entirely free from idolatry.

The object lessons given in this little missionary of the church are on the lines of evidence of God's mythical nature most easily learned. Many are beginning to recognize this evidence even without the aid of teachers. But with the aid of teachers from the church they would learn it much sooner and every effort should be put forth by the church to aid the people who are struggling to throw off the heathen practice of worshiping idols. Here is a clipping sent by a friend who has learned where to look for evidence of God being a myth, that proves that people can learn from experience and observations that the God their idolatrous teachers taught them to worship as a heavinly father who loved and cared for them did no such things:

"It is said that many people in New York City, formerly religiously inclined, some even professing Christians, lost all faith after the burning of the "General Slocum" with 500 children on board. A deaconess of the parish of St. Marks says; "I am working among the people of the neighborhood, trying to recruit the parish again after its devastating catastrophe. I might say that my work is largely religious as well as social. I am trying to get the people back into the church, for since the accident many have fallen away. Strangely enough, many of them seek to put the blame upon the church of God for the catastrophe. Others have entirely lost faith in God. It is hard to know how to deal with such cases." she said sorrowfully. Such people have very little logic. They kept on "believing" after the tremendous catastrophe in the Island of Martineque where far more people were killed, by the explosion of a supposedly extinct volcano. Apparently the New York backsliders are not touched by disaster far from home." —Atchinson Globe, Sept. 20.

These people of the parish of St. Marks should never again worship God or help to support a church that does, for the following reasons:

1. They know by bitter experience that they were deceived by false teachers in regard to a God and a Jesus loving children or anybody.

2. They know that no amount of praise or flattery of a God that it is possible to give has the least effect in influncing him to care for them.

3. They must now know that infancy, innocence and good character have no influence to induce God to care for any one.

4. They know the ones that perished were as worthy of the love and care of God as they, and as God did not care for them he does not care for the ones that are left.

5. They should resent with all the power at their command the deception the Christian church played on them through its false teachings about a God and a Jesus caring for people who worshiped them.

6. They should resent with all the dignity of noble manhood and womanhood the neglect of their loved ones by a God and a Jesus they had loved, praised and worshiped as friends and benefactors, and cease forever to worship them again or desire to live with them in heaxen or any other place.

7. They should invite the worshipers of God in all christian churches to resent God's neglect of their perished loved ones and join in a sympathetic strike and cease worshiping God and supporting churches that did until he would consent to make some recognition or approval of their love and devotion.

8. Reason should teach them that a God who does not care for their bodies cannot care for thier souls if they had only.

9. Reason should teach them that a God who does not care for them in this world could not have cared for them in any other.

10. Reason should teach them that since christian churches have deceived them so about what God would do for them in this world that they are deceiving them about what he will do for them in another world,

11. Since they know God did not make himself useful as they had been taught he would do in case of trouble, reason should teach them that he is a myth like Santa Claus and does not exist only in the imagination of idolators.

12. It is not enough to merely lose faith in God's so-called promises of aid, these people should now know positively that he is a fictitious being and consequently never made any promises.

The object lesson St. Marks' parish gives as proving God's non-existence should do for all Christians. Christians everywhere should be as thoroughly convinced by it as though it had been their congregation and they had lost dear ones in the catastrophe. Reason should teach them that God could not care more for them than for the ones that perished of that congregation; that as that congregation was not rewarded for its devotion to God neither can they be; that it is their duty to take sides with that congregation and cease idolizing a worthless God and help to dethrone him in the affections of idolators.

No good person should want to go to live with a God who they believed was able to save those christians but would not. It is an insult to the memory of the dead to believe God is caring for you since he did not care for them, It is an insult to to the relatives of the dead to believe God cares for you when you know he did not care for their loved ones. You should believe those that perished were as good as you are and as worthy of the care of God. Since he did not care for them you should know he does not care for you and will never aid you in the least particular even though you meet with as horrible a death as they did.

Religious congregations should not make the mistake made by the St. Marks' congregation in continuing to believe in God after the eruption of Mt. Pelee where so many people were destroyed, even while on their knees praying to God for protection.

They should promptly repudiate God and all churches that teach peopel to love and worship him since the evidence is conclusive that those churches are mistaken about God's nature.

If you have a good nature and the capacity to reason intelligently and draw rational conclusions you will be so moved to pity for the victims of those disasters that no idolatrous teachers can decieve you into worshiping a god whom they say had the power to have prevented those horrors, for you will know no such God exists.

The Church of Humanity knows how to deal with such cases as the survivors of all disasters. It tells them plainly and honestly that they had been mistaken all along about a God and a Jesus loving and caring for them; that they had been deceived by ignorant teachers; that they should now recognize the truths taught by this up-to-date church and refuse to ever believe in the existence of a God or to support a church that does. The Church of Humanity is the only church that knows and teaches the truth about God. It is the only church that gives a rational, provable reason why God did not come to the rescue of the Slocum victims. It is the only church that gives a rational apology and excuse for God for not hearing and answering the prayers of dying Christians. It is the only church that defends God for inaction by teaching the truth about him. If you wish to be numbered with the rationalists as one of God's true defenders join the Church of Humanity and aid it in teaching the truth about him. If you wish to be numbered with God's defamers join a christian church and aid it in teaching mistakes and untruths about him.

If you are helping to free the people you should fill out the subjoined blank application for membership in the Church of Humanity and return it to me. All the forces for truth should unite in one body to make their work effective. Individual or divided efforts cannot accomplish much good.

Our object should be to overthrow idolatry during the Twentieth century. To accomplish that Herculean task will require all the forces for truth united in one compact invincible body working in harmonious union. The task is so great and the time so short there is not a day to spare.

If you believe the truth about God should be taught and the people freed from idolatry join the Church of Humanity and aid in the task.

QUESTIONS ON THE LESSON.

1 What is this lesson on? 2 What is God? 3 Can he protect anyone from death? 4 Should we ever forget the disasters that prove God a myth? 5 What are we liable to do if we forget them? 6 Are we ever justified in praying to God for aid? 7 Would we be justified in praying to Santa Claus to prolong life? 8 Is it useless and foolish to pray to God to prolong life? 9 Why? 10 Should the disasters that befall others prove to us as clearly God's non-existence as if they happened to ourselves? 11 Does the death of a member of a family prove to us that the God and Jesus we were told loves and cares for people are myths? 12 Should we allow the teachers of idolatry to make us so egotistical as to believe we are God's pets and that he is taking care of us while he lets the rest of the world perish? 13 Are people illogical to believe God would care more for them in another world than in this? 14 Is there any other world for us? 15 Why not? 16 Does the Church of Humanity take God away and terminate life at the grave? 17 What has it learned? 18 Have those facts been always true? 19 Did the people know them? 20 Is it as honorable to learn and teach new found truths about God and life as about other branches of study? 21 Does the Church of Humanity do the world a great good by this service? 22 Is the teaching of these truths the only thing that will rescue it from idolatry? 23 Are people beginning to comprehend these truths? 24 What church will aid them in freeing themselves from idolatry? 25 What is the "General Slocum" disaster? Ans. On June 15th, 1904, the steamer "General Slocum," carrying about 1600 people, mostly women and children, on the annual picnic of St. Marks Lutheran church, to Locust Grove, on Long Island Sound, caught fire and burned. Over 1000 of those Sunday School children and church members perished in the flames and water. 26 Should the survivors ever worship God again or support a church that does? 27 Give twelve reasons why they should not. 28 Should the object lesson of St. Marks parish prove to all Christians God's non-existence? 29 Give three conclusions that reason should teach them. 30 Should a good person want to live with a God who cares nothing for those who love him? 31 Do you insult the memory of the dead to believe God cares for you? 32 Do you insult the relatives of the dead by believing God cares for you? 33 What should you believe about those who perished? 34How can you know God does not care for you and will never aid you? 35What mistake do religious congregations make? 36 What should they promptly do? 37 What abilities must you have to save yourself from being deceived by the teachers of idolatry? 38 What church knows how to deal with the survivors of disasters? 39 What does it tell them? 40 Is it the only church that teaches the truth about God and gives the only rational reason why he did not hear and answer the prayers of dying Christians? 41 If you wish to be numbered with God's true defenders what should you do? 42 If you wish to be numbered with God's defamers what should you do? 43 What should all the teachers of truth do? 44 What should be their object? 45 What will that require? 46 If you believe the truth about God should be taught and the people freed from idolatry, what should you do?

Now if you really believe it and wish to aid in the greatest work for our race of our century, please fill out this blank and return it to me and get in return a certificate of graduation in the knowledge of God making you a life member and one of the founders of the Church of Humanity.

Since the Jews are well enough acquainted with the nature of their virgins to affirm that all the children they ever raised had earthly fathers there seems to be no good reasons why those who are not Jews should call them liars.

The Study of God

BIBLE LESSON NO. 11.

[By the International Instructor for the Church of Humanity.]

God's Creators Hand Down His First Legal Decision.

A Sample of Divine Law And Judgments.

God is a man-made myth like Santa Claus. Every story related in the bible or told by parent, priest or preacher representing him as a real being is a fable.

The Garden of Eden story is a piece of fiction belonging to the class of fables recorded in "Arabian Nights," "Aesop's Fables," "Grimm's Fairy Tales," and other books of fairy, witch and enchantment stories.

Every one who has read those works of fiction ought to be able to recognize the Garden of Eden story as belonging to the same class.

Were it not for rewards offered children for believing the story true and the punishments threatened them for disbelieving it no one would believe it true. All good parents should teach their children that the Garden of Eden story is a fable and that the promised rewards and threatened punishments for a belief or non-belief in its truth fulness does not exist.

The Church of Humanity is composed of the few who have learned these great truths and rejoice in their freedom from idolatry. They are doing all they can to free others from idolatry by teaching them the truths that made them free.

Every student of the bible must now look to the Church of Humanity for the true interpretation of every thing in it relating to God. It is the only church in existence that is not influenced by hopes of reward or fear of punishment at his hands and hence is able to teach the truth about him impartially.

Gen. 3, 14.—And the Lord God said unto the serpent, Because thou hast done this, thou art cursed above all cattle, and above every beast of the field; upon thy belly shalt thou go, and dust shalt thou eat all the days of thy life.

In this verse God's creators put in his mouth his first legal decision. This decree is a sample of what Christians call "Divine laws" "righteous judgments" and ignorantly affirm "all our laws are taken from the bible." The facts are no nation would to day tolerate such absurd law or decisions.

If any judge would follow God's example and render such a decision he would be sent to an insane asylum.

That is not the judgment of a real live God for there is no such a being. It is the ideas of the fabulists who are here creating God as any ancient or modern fiction writer builds up his fiction hero. The greatest calamity that ever befell our race was brought on it when a few adopted this fiction-made God and made him the central figure in a mythology named Christianity and then tried to murder all who would not worship him. Were it not know that rational people can be scared out of their wits by the shadow of a ghost that never existed one should be tempted to believe the religious world insane with fear of the fiction made hero of this bible story. No one should have the least fear of this man-made God. He is as helpless and harmless as Santa Claus. If a spider's web was tied to the smallest hair on your head and all the Gods in the universe united in one grand tug-of-war with the Christian's God as captain of the team they would be unable to break the web, much less to pull the hair out. That gives you some idea of the weakness of the God of whom hundreds of millions of our race are in such insane fear. The Church of Humanity stands as a perfect shield forever between God and all the people who take refuge in its protecting care.

It will not allow God to harm one of its members in this or any other world. It teaches the people how to take the Lord God from the skies, where the fabulists placed him after they took him out of the Garden of Eden, and put him beneath their feet a harmless myth very few people of the intelligent class are afraid of the devil, for they know he is a myth. God is as much of a myth as is the devil and as harmless.

Any intelligent person can recognize that fact when the lessons this bible verse teaches are pointed out to him. Any lawyer worthy of the profession could easily clear that snake of any crime. Any judge would acquit it. Any jury would bring in a verdict of not guilty.

A lawyer would appeal the case from a Divine to a human judge on the ground of the Divine Judge being non-compos mentis, and give among many other reasons the following to prove the charge true:

1.—The Lord God did not summon the snake to hear the charges against it.

2.—He did not question the snake or allow it any explanation or defense. 3.—He believed the unsupported testimony of one he considered a criminal of the greatest magnitude. 4.—He believed a snake could talk to a woman in language she could understand.

5.He passed judgement on a snake, and cursed it.

6.—He thought a snake could understand his decrees and would obey them. 7.—He extended his punishment to include the innocent of future generations as given in the next verse.

15—And I will put enmity between thee and the woman, and between thy seed and her seed; it shall bruise thy head, and thou shalt bruise his heel.

Any judge would be declared insane if he followed the precedent set by the Lord God in trying a case and in passing judgement on a supposed criminal. All Christian churches indirectly accuse God of insanity by denying he is a myth and declaring him to be a real being and this bible story a true account of his doings.

The Church of Humanity defends him by teaching the people that he is a myth like Santa Claus. If you are able to recognize the plain truths herein taught you should join the Church of Humanity and be one of God's defenders instead of joining a Christian church and being one of his defamers. Join the Church of Humanity and be a factor in the world's progress.

QUESTIONS ON THE LESSON.

1.-What is God? 2.-Stories that represent him as a real being are named what? 3-The Garden of Eden story is what? 4-In what works of fiction are similar stories found? 5-Who should be able to recognize the Garden of Eden story as a fable? 6-Why does any [illegible] believe it true? 7-What should a[illegible]od parents teach their children? 8-To what church do the people [illegible]long who have learned those truths? 9-How do they help to free other from idolatry? 10-To what church must bible students now look to for a true interpretation of all its statements relating to God? 11-Is it the only church that is not influenced by either love or fear of God? 12-What does that enable it to do? 13-Repeat the bible verse. 14-What does God's creators have him do? 15-Is this a sample of God's laws and judgements? 16-Who are so ignorant as to believe our laws are founded on the bible? 17-Would any nation tolerate such laws and decrees as the Lord God makes? 18-What would happen to a judge were he to hand down such decisions? 19-Is that the judgement of a real God? 20-Why not? 21-Whose ideas are they? 22-Is that the way the heroes of fiction are built up? 23-State the greatest calamity that ever befell our race? 24-Tell what will scare some people out of their wits. 25-Do some people act as though they were insane with fear of a fictionof made God ?26-Should any one fear God? 27-Why not? 28-Give an illustration of the weakness of God. 29-What church does not allow God to harm any of its members? 30-How does it protect them? 31-Are many intelligent people afraid of the devil? 32-Why not? 33-Is God a myth like the devil? 34-Does this bible verse prove him a myth. 35-Could any lawyer clear that snake of the crime charged? 36-Would any judge or jury convict it? 37-On what grounds would a lawyer appeal the case? 38-Define "non-compos mentis." 39-Give six reasons to sustain the charge. 40-Would a judge be declared insane if he rendered such decisions? What churches indirectly accuse God of insanity? 42-By teaching what? 43-What church defends God? 44-How does it defend him? 45-What church should you join if you are able to recognize the truths herein taught? 46-Would you rather be God's defender than his defamer? 47-If you wish to be a factor in the world's progress what church should you join?

Observation and Expereince Meeting of The Church of Humanity.

Brother, James Beeson, of Hyton, Ala., tells why he knows there is no God.

So far as their bible accounts of Gods and saviors are concerned they are perfectly ridiculous, Another good reason that there is no God in the image of man or any other animal, is the fact that he never shows himself. I know that the Christians assert positively that their God has shown himself to some of his servants—but their statements want confirmation and until they can produce him any time he is wanted they are unable to convince me of his existence If we take science for our guide we find there is no room nor need of an all powerful God or creator. Because if matter was created the creator would have had to be created, and his creator would have had to have a creator; and so after indefinitely counting creators you would come no nearer solving the next question than when you began. The only scientfical conclusion is that matter always existed in some form and always will.

Somerville, N. J., Aug. 18.—After trying with all her puny strength to drag her five-year old sister, Ethel, out of the Raritian Water Company's big reservoir, into which she had fallen, four-year-old Mary Hill had to release her hold and watch her sister drown.

I cannot believe any man, woman or child, priest, preacher or religious editor; no not my own mother, brother or sister who says God or Jesus loves and cares for them; I know none of them could be more dear to a God and Jesus than Ethel Hill. None have ever needed their services more. I know from this object lesson every body is mistaken who says there is a God and a Jesus who loves and cares for any one. I know they are fabulous beings and I shall never worship them or allow my children to, and shall do all I can to teach others not to, as it is a heathenish, idolatrous, useless, worthless practice, a disgrace to the age in which we live, a disgrace to the twentieth century civilization.

The observation and experience meeting should be better attended. If you have not time to write out something, send in some clippings like the above that prove conclusively the non-existence of God. Make some comments on them, if you have time, that will show that you recognize them as evidence of God's non-existence.

New Year's Greetings to all the Readers of the C. E. & G. D.

Great Bend, Kansas.
City Residence.

We wish health and wisdom; to the members and founders of the Church of Humanity that they may be able to enjoy in the best way this beautiful life in a beautiful world and appreciate to the fullest extent their glorious privilege and duty of helping to eliminate idolatry through the promulgation of the teachings of our common church; to the subscribers that they may see it is their duty to unite with us in fellowship, friendship and membership in the only church that teaches the truth about God and defends him against all the wicked crimes charged to him by the clergy, religious press and bible; to the clergy and editors of religious publications that they may recognize how easily the world is led into idolatry by false teachers and the sure condemnation they will receive by future generations for the part they take in the heathenization of the people, and that it is their imperative duty, as teachers, to take up anew the study of God on modern lines of observation, experience and reason and continue it by the aid of the Church of Humanity until they master it, then unite with the church and help to free the people from idolatry; to the editors of anti-Christian publications, that they may comprehend the fact that the false teaching will remain in the minds of the people until driven out by truth and that it will take a powerful organization to drive truth with force enough into the peoples minds to rout idolatry, and that it is their imperative duty to all unite in the Church of Humanity and help to build up that powerful organization which alone will be able to blockade the irresistable onward sweep of idolatry and prevent it from overflowing into the next century; to the millionaires that they recognize the truths the Church of Humanity teaches and realize it is their duty to come to its aid financially and assist it in promulgating the study of God which alone can free their children from idolatry and keep them free.

Devoted to Teaching the Discovery that God is a myth like Santa Claus and to Founding the Church of Humanity.

Vol. 2 No. 3 | Great Bend, Kansas, February, 1905. | Whole No. 15

The Church of Humanity.

The Chruch of Humanity is a society being orgaized for the purpose of teaching the discovery that God is only a fabulous being like Santa Claus. It is now positively known that there is no being, object or thing in the universe that in the slightest particular resembles the imaginary myth called God which people worship and and pray to. It is now known that God is simply a creation of the imagination and has no more reality or existence than has Santa Claus. This is the ultimate and final truth in regard to God—the alpha and ormega of God. Nothing more can be learned about him. We know now his source and his abiding place. The God-idea is the germ from which spring all systems of mythologies called religions. The idea of a God originated perhaps in a desire to give an explanation of the phenomena observered in nature, and later was used by schemers to scare people into doing their bidding. Millions of people for many centuries have been led, or driven, by the schemers through fear of this imaginary being to commit the greatest of crimes and criminal excesses. Many systems of mythologies have grown up around the God-idea in an endeavor to explain what God is, his powers and attributes, how and why he did things, and what he wants and does not want the people to do, and the nature of his rewards and punishments therefor. As the God-idea had its origin in imagination every thing in connection with it necessarially had to originate in the imagination. Since people could not imagine alike the great number of opposing religions and creeds, with their thousands of subdivisions, are easily accounted for. The God-idea, until very recently, has ever been a barrier across the path of progress in many sciences. People are now begining to recognize and admit the discovery that God is only an imaginary being like Santa Claus, and has been set up in the minds of people in the same way as is Santa Claus in the minds of children. There are now seventy-five members of the Church of Humanity. This church is based on and teaches the scientific discoveries that God, Satan and Holy Ghost are fabulous beings, heaven and hell are myths and that life is terminated forever at death. These are facts that have always been true and always will be. Our likes and dislikes, hopes and fears, faith and prayers can never change them in the least particular.

Our highest duty now is to recognize and admit these great truths of nature and reconcile ourselves to them. Children should be taught these facts and never be taught the fable of a continous life as being true. Then they will never experience the disappointment of those who have been taught the mistakes of our ancestors. The study of God as taught by the Church of Humanity is a supplement to the common school education. The great truths it teaches should be placed in text books and the study of God added as a special branch of study to the list of common school studies required by law to be taught. The teaching promulgated by the Church of Humanity is not a religion, creed, faith or theory, but definite, scientific, demonstrable, provable facts. These truths no longer belong to the domain of theological metaphysical speculations.

They must now be classified as scientific facts. Our children are entitled to the facts in all branches of study, and the study of God can be no exception to that rule. No good result can come from witholding these truths from them.

If they are not given the facts they will be taught to believe untruths which will make idolators of them. All reference to God in school books, that represent him as a real being, should be eliminated. Public school teachers should not be allowed to teach the students that God is a real being.

This cannot be accomplished until a large society is established and these truths promulgated by it until they become generally known and accepted. Hence it is of the greatest important that all who know them unite in the Church of Humanity and aid personally and financially in their promulgation.

The Question Box.

I invite all who wish to ask any questions in regard to the Church of Humanity and its teaching. I shall take a pleasure in answering them. Here are a few questions that may be of general interest or curiosity:

A friend—1 Who is president of the Church of Humanity? 2 Who is authorized to receive money for the benefit of the church? 3 In what way is it spent? 4 In case I should send $100 or $1,000 to the church what is the best way to send it?

Ans.—1 The church is not formally organized or chartered. We cannot do that until we get enough members to insure success. I have, through virtue of my discovery that God is a fabulous being like Santa Claus, assumed the title of International Instructor for the Church of Humanity for the purpose of teaching that discovery and of gatherin the people who can recognize its truth into a union for organization. 2 I receive all money for the church and refer you to the Citizens National Bank of this city as to my financial standing and reliability. 3 The money donated to the church is used in promulgating its teachings by sending the church paper free to Christians, and is applied on one or more of the three funds being raised for that purpose, as the donors direct. 4 Send by P. O. money order, draft, or express, payable to W. H. Kerr, with instructions as to what fund you wish it applied to. If no instructions are given I shall use it for propaganda work to the best possible advantage of the church.

Mrs. Weller, Iowa.—1 "Do you lie? 2 steal? 3 swear? 4 drink intoxicants? 5 use tobacco? 6 Are you a free-lover?" Ans. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6,—No.

This lady has evidently heard, and believes, the assertions of many clergymen and religious writers to the effect that were it not for the teaching of Christianity and the fear of God people would take a delight in committing all kinds of crimes and excesses and would rapidly degenerate into barbarians. There are absolutely no grounds for such fears. The good conduct of the seventy-five members of the Church of Humanity who know God is a fabulous being and hell a myth prove that fact beyond doubt.

No clergyman or religious writer should ever again make such false statements, nor should anybody ever believe it again. There is no more reason to believe people would be criminals on account of learning the truth about God than they would be on account of learning the truth in other branches of study. It may be claimed that these people remain good citizens on account of their early christian teaching and training. But that is easily proven to be a mistake also for their children, who never had any "christian training," but have been taught from infancy these facts, are as good children in every respect as are those of christian parents.

Another proof that it is not necessary to scare people with a God and a hell to make them moral and good citizens is the fact that some people in other countries who never heard of God and hell are good moral citizens.

The belief in and worship of God forms no part of moral ethics and good citizenship. That is proven clearly by the fact that the slums of large cities, jails, reformatories and penisentiaries are peopled with believers in God and hell being realities. It is also proven by "Crimes of Preachers," a pamphlet of 124 pages, price 25 cents, giving a record of 2420 crimes charged to the clergy of the United States and Canada. Names, residence, church, and crime charged are given. One hundred and thirty-seven classes of crime are specified and the number committed in each are given. Mrs. Weller will not accept the crimes of christians as evidence that they are mistaken in their teaching that God is a real being. Neither should she regard the crimes of those who have learned that God is a myth as evidence that they are mistaken in that knowledge. Some people committed crimes when the earth was believed to be flat and stationary. Crimes did not cease when all learned the truths that it is round and in motion. There will still be criminals when all learn the truths in regard to God.

A Boon for the Clergy.

The discovery that God is a fictitious being like Santa Claus is the greatest boon the clergy ever had.

Every right-minded clergyman will rejoice that the discovery is made.

It relieves them of all anxiety concerning loved ones who would be sent to hell were God a real being and the Christian religion true.

It relieves them of the almost unbearable responsibility of guiding the people in a course that would escape hell were od a real being. It relieves them of an arduous duty, of intense anxiety, of nerve racking responsiblity. It in fact removes the load from their shoulders, the responsibility from their brains and annuls their vows that binds them in slavery to the duty of saving people from hell.

Clergymen look up, arise, rejoice, you are free, your labors are ended. Enjoy life, rest, peace, happiness. Your worry and fear and anxiety concerning the supposed doomed to hell are over. None of the perisbed loved ones are in hell. There is no one to put them there. Let us all rejoice that we know that fact at last. None of the perished wicked are in hell. There is no one to put them there. Let us not be sorry. They suffered enough during life. Let us remember the good with love, and the wicked with charity. Let us all rejoice that no one suffers in hell or ever will. All is an eternal blank beyond the grave for good and bad alike. Their joy and sorrow, their love and hate, their hope and fear are all ended forever at the grave.

Clergy, try to learn the discovery that God is a fictitious being. The Church of Humanity will aid you. Then tell your congregrations of the new found truths and that you can only remain in their service if allowed to teach them the truth. If your congregations will not allow you to teach them the truth promptly resign and join the Church of Humanity—a church wherein you will be allowed to teach the people the truth about God. You should have no desire to perpetuate the errors, mistakes and idolatry of our ancestors. You live in a country and an age that allows you to learn the truth and teach it. Rejoice!

Faith in the efficacy of prayer should be thoroughly shaken in every Christian that hears of the fall of Port Arthur. The entire Greek Catholic church was praying to God to help it hold out. The Japanese didn't fool away any time praying to God.

Some Reasons Why.

Some do not understand the reasons for donating our educational paper to the clergy and editors of religious papers. I shall give briefly a few reasons in favor of it.

1. This is designed especially to educate the Christians in the true nature of God.

2. They will not subscribe for it, hence it must be sent to them by donation.

3. The clergy and editors of religious papers are the leaders and they should know the truth to enable them to teach it to their hearers and readers.

4. We want them to understand what we teach, our reasons and proof of its truthfulness that they may not abuse us, that they may not be afraid of us, that they may not object seriously to our propaganda.

5. We want them to know we are as much opposed to all crimes and vices as they are and that we teach all the virtues and moralities they do and practice them as faithfully.

6. We want them to know we believe in law and order and government and progress and civilization as much as they do.

7. We want them to know how many people have learned the discovery that God is a fabulous being like Santa Claus and how fast others are learning it.

8. That information will have a powerful influence in helping them to learn the truth and allaying their fears both as to what they thought God would do with those who found out he is a fictitious being and the evil effect they thought it would have on the discoverers,

These eight reasons will justify the founders of the Church of Humanity in donating hundreds of dollars to the funds to continue sending our Christian Educator to these two classes. It is mostly the money of the rich that founds and endows theological schools and we want them to learn the truths our church is founded on so they will help us to establish schools for their teaching and for the training of instructors for our church. Hence the object in donating our teaching to the millionaires. Please send me all the money you can to be applied on the propaganda work of the Church of Humanity.

Christians always look upon the relation existing between themselves and God as being identical with that existing between a farmer and his hogs. The farmer breeds his hogs and takes care of them so that when he wants some lard he can knock one in the head and get it. Christians think God is breeding them for souls and whenever he is in need of some he kills a few and takes them. Hogs have not been observed praying to the farmer to come and take their lard. Draw your own conclusions.

The Study of God

INTERNATIONAL LESSON

DAILY PROOF THAT THERE IS NO GOD.

OBJECT LESSON XIV.

[By the International Instructor for the Church of Humanity.]

Above the graves of our persihed loved ones the Church of Humanity proclaims God a myth.

There are two primary motives that influence people to worship God. They are hopes of reward and fear of punishment. As the people gradually recognize the truth that God is simply the name of an imaginary being those motives will lose all their power and people will cease worshiping God

The discovery that God is a myth is positively made and all that remains now to do is to present the evidence of that fact to the people in a form they can understand. One of the simplest methods of presenting it is to show by actual demonstration that God does none of the things his worshipers say he does. That fact can be easily recognized by people of ordinary intelligence when their attention is called to it. The telegraph, phone and fast mail, as means of collecting news from nearly all parts of the world, and the daily papers for its distribution to the people, give them immensely wider range of knowledge than had the ancient tribes who first imagined a God to be caring for them.

Here are a few of the things God is credited with doing for which idolators claim he should be praised to the extent of worshiping, and which is now positively known to be mistakes: 1 That he created all life. It is now positively known that God has not, and never did have anything to do with the production of life. The most advanced educators are beginning to recognize and admit that fact. Here is an account of a lecture, given by Prof. A. P. Mathews of the University of Chicago to the medical students which indicates the position of advanced scholars on the subject of the origin of life and the position they take as to the bible story of its origin:

Cnicago, Jan. 14.—Prof. A. P. Mathews, of the University of Chicago, in a lecture on the Bible to medical students made it clear to the listeners that the Bible references were taken for naught by the professor. The story of the creation of Adam and Eve, he declared, was mythical. He refused to consider it. He stated his belief that only real chemical forces; acting under certain physical conditions, could produce life.

"There is no such a thing as the divine origin of life," Prof. Mathews is credited with telling his class. "Life is on a purely physical and chemical basis. Certain chemical substances came together under certain physical conditions, and the result was life.

"However, I believe that it is possible to create life. There is no doubt in my mind but that in a short time real life will be produced. Wonderful advances have been made in physiological chemistry in the last decade. It is now only a question of a short time before some scientist will discover the process of the final stage. We can now make everything but the nucleus in the laboratory."

That is the correct position to take, and the one all scholars, worthy of the title, are taking upon the origin and perpetuation of life. God, being a myth, of course had nothing to do with the production or reproduction of life and hence should not be thanked, praised or worshiped as being in any sense our creator. The clergy and religious writers should be ashamed to teach children the inexcusable mistake that God made them, and that they should worship him for doing so. Vegetable and animal life, including man, is the reproduction of parents, and God, being a myth, cannot care how much or how little of any specie of life is produced.

2 That God watches over and protects from harm the good, the innocent, the just and especially those who love and worship him. The wide view of the world the daily papers give us totally disprove all such assertions. There is positively no unseen intelligent power that protects any member of our race in any danger whatever. The daily accounts of horrible deaths of the ones God is said to protect are positive proof of that fact. Only a few incidents of unprotected innocence can be given here as samples of the many thousands. The Fiend, Herman Holmes, confessed before his excution to the murder of twenty-seven people. Perhaps all of them were believers in God's existence and protection, and worshiped him.

God, being a myth, of course could not aid the victims. Johann Adolph Hoch, arrested in New York lately, is alleged to have had twenty wives in the last twelve years.

"Two of these he deserted. The rest, it is stated, says the K. C. World, died within a few weeks or a few months after marriage, supposedly poisoned." These wives believed in God's existence and protection, as nearly all wives do on account of the false teachings of the Christain churches. God, being a myth, of course could not warn the victims. The Christians refer to Dan 6-22, wherein God is said to have closed the lions' mouths to save Daniel, as proof of God's care for the innocent, but the 24 verse disproves the theory for in that verse the innocent women and children of the accusers are reported to have been torn to pieces by the lions. But here is an account of a tragedy that forever disproves the claims that God cares for anyone or ever protected Daniel or any other person from wild beasts:

"Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 27.—Bereft of all reason in his mad desire to save his own life as well as that of his wife, Henry Shoreby, a farmer, cast his 6-months-old baby girl to starving wolves when attacked by a ferocious pack while driving through the pine forests of northern Minnesota. The mother is prostrated with grief at the loss of her little one."

God, being a myth like Santa Claus, of course could not protect that child from the wolves. Hence we know the bible story about God closing the lions' mouths to save Daniel is simply an ecclesiastical assertion to strengthen mythology. Religious teachers should be ashamed to teach children the inexcusable mistakes that God cares for them and protects them from harm, when all who read the secular papers must know it is untrue. God should not be thanked and praised for taking care of people, for he is a myth and cannot do that. Reader, the teachers of idolatry do not seem to have the ability to distinguish between truth and falsehood, fable and fact, the possible and the impossible, or to see any contradictions between everyday facts and theological fiction. But you must remember they never had an opportunity to learn the facts. The facts have never before been taught by a society or school. The Church of Humanity is the first attempt ever made to teach the truth about God in a popular way. If you wish idolatry checked, you should join that church and help to establish an organization that knows the truth about God and will teach it.

QUESTIONS ON THE LESSON.

1 What is this lesson on? 2 Name the two primary motives that influence people to worship God. 3 When will those motives lose their power? 4 Will people worship God then? 5 Name the discovery made. 6 What remains now to do? 7 Name one of the simplest methods of presenting that evidence. 8 By whom can that fact be recognized? 9 By what means is that evidence gathered and distributed to the people? 10 Give the first reason idolators assign for worshiping God. 11 Did God have anything to do with the production of life? 12 Do the most advanced educators admit he did not? 13 Read what Prof. Mathews has to say on the subject. 14 Is that the correct position to take, and the one all scholars are beginning to take? 15 Did God have anything to do with the production of life? 16 Should he be regarded as our creator? 17 What should teachers of religion be ashamed of? 18 By what is vegetable and animal life produced? 19 Does God care how much or how little of any specie of life is produced? 20 Why not? 21 What is the second reason assigned by worshipers of God why he should be worshiped? 22 Are all such assertions totally disproved? 23 Is any member of our race protected by an intelligent unseen power? 24 Give proof of that fact. 25 Name two alleged murderers whose victims were not protected by any unseen being. 26 Give the true reason why God did not protect them. 27 What case do Christians refer to that they claim proves God's aid for the innocent? 28 What bible verse disproves it? 29 Why? 30 Recite the account of the babe that was thrown to the wolves. 31 What does that case prove the bible story of Daniel to be? 32 For what purpose? 33 What should religious teachers be ashamed to teach? 34 Why? 35 What abilities do the teachers of idolatry seem to be deficient in? 36 What excuse can be made for them? 37 What is the Church of Humanity? 38 Should you join that church? 39 Why?

Deplorable Ignorance.

In reading the speeches and writings of men high in official and judicial places one is amazed at their ignorance of God by refering to him as a real being.

"I contend, that it is to arraign the dispositions of Providence himself, to suppose that he has created beings incapable of governing themselves, and to be trampled on by kings."—Henry Clay.

We can excuse Mr. Clay for refering to "Providence" as a personality because he is dead and does not live in the Twentieth century, but here are two, as a sample of thousands now living, who are not excusable for such ignorance.

"I do not hold you two in the same class. The God Almighty does not, and if He did He would not be a just God."—Judge Wofford.

"First.—If the Filipinos are now incapable of self-government, how will he explain the action of the Creator in leaving them so long without a benevolent guardian."—William J. Bryan.

It is deplorable that such men are so ignorant as to refer to "God Almighty" and "Creator" as a real being when they could so easily inform themselves of the truth. Such men should never mention God until they can spare a few hours to inform themselves what he is. They would not think of mentioning Santa Claus as to what he does and his reasons therefor in their arguments and decisions. Through the ignorance of great men as to what God is, the common people are confirmed in idolatry, since they reason that they should know as they must have greater abilities and opportunities to learn the facts. But the truth is these great men got their ideas of God from their mother and the Sunday school and have been as unable to learn anything more about him as the less favored.

All this emphasizes the great necessity of the Church of Humanity pushing its campaign of education to the limit of its financial ability. Colleges must be established by it as soon as the funds can be raised to do so. Then those expecting to enter public life can complete their education by taking a course in the study of God that will enable them to talk intelligently about him instead of displaying their profound ignorance.

A Very Bad Mistake of the Clergy.

Some clergymen make the mistake of not allowing themselves to read or hear any evidence that tends to prove their preconceived ideas incorrect. Rev. M — writes: "Please discontinue your little sheet to my address. If what you teach is true I don't need it; if not true I don't want it."

Rev. M— reveals two grave mistakes in his reasoning in the last small sentence.

1st. If what I teach is true he DOES NEED the "little sheet" in order to learn the truths I teach, for the following reasons: 1. To learn the evidence that proves them true. 2. That he may refrain from abusing and misrepresenting the people who have learned these truths and are proclaiming them. 3. That he may cease teaching the people to be idolators. 4. That he may join the church that teaches the truth and aid it in rescuing the people from idolatry and promoting true progress and civilization.

2nd. If my teaching is not true he DOES NEED the "little sheet" that he may learn the evidence we rely on to prove the truths, for the following reasons: 1. That he may know the true reasons we have for not worshiping God and not do us the great injustice of erroneously attributing it to a wicked nature. 2. That he may be able to disprove the evidence we rely on and save the people from being misled by it.

He manifests the same disposition to cling to his idol right or wrong, that the lowest class of idolators do. He does not wish to know that God is simply a creation of heathens, a fabulous being like Santa Claus. Had he been taught to worship an alligator or a skunk he would have clung to it with the same tenacity, right or wrong. He and I believe in the golden rule, now let us put it in practice. He sends missionaries, bibles and tracts to foreign lands and wishes those people to read them and listen to the missionaries patiently. Now all I ask him to do is to hear us and read our literature with the same interest and patience he desires in the worshipers of other idols.

Will he put the golden rule into practice? We read his bible, religious literature and hear the sermons of the clergy. Is he as willing to hear the other side? Does he really wish to know what is true? Can he judge what is true without hearing both sides? Could a judge or a jury? Would he abide by an adverse decision if only the other side was heard by judge or jury?

Come, let us reason together. It is not to your interest or that of your posterity to perpetuate the worship of the idols of heathen mythologies. Let us be Americans living in the twentieth century and not Israelitish Arabs living 4,000 years ago. Our brains should be allowed to be as smart and as civilized as our hands and feet. Our hands would not hold to the old reap hooks of those old Arabs, why then should our brains hold to their old idols? Our feet would not follow the old plows of those ancient Arabs, why then make our brains follow their old Gods? Our hands and our feet have out-classed our brains in acquiring wisdom. They consider it no disgrace to discard the out-of-date reap hook and the crooked-stick plow of the ancient heathens. But our brains—shame on them—consider it a disgrace to discard old out-of-date Gods of ancient heathens.

Members of the Church of Humanity have given their brains liberty to catch up and keep pace with their hands and feet in the onward march of progress. Rev. M— should bring his brains up 4,000 years and introduce them to his progressive hands and feet.

Propaganda Fund.

The three funds being raised to continue the free teaching of the great discovery that God is a myth like Santa Claus to 900 editors of religious publications, 750 clergymen and 1,400 American millionaires, stand now as follows: Editor fund, $59.75; millionaire fund, $33.75; clergy fund, $33.75.

Christians cannot be expected to contribute to these funds until they learn the discovery we teach, hence those who have learned it will be expected to contribute. I do not pretend or expect to teach the graduates in the knowledge of God anything more. It is their duty to aid me financially all they possibly can in teaching others what we have learned. They should donate their church paper to their relatives neighbors, school board, and all the school teachers in their respective counties. People will never be able to learn this discovery unless they are taught it. I can teach them through our church organ a year for ten cents each, if enough is contributed to justify me in continuing the teaching. I would not like to continue the teaching unless at least 5,000 students are given me. At 10 cents a year each it would amount to $500. If the seventy-five church members would share equally in raising that amount it would be only $6.65 each this year, which would be very light indeed. But suppose half of them are not able to donate anything, which is not likely, it would only be $13 50 each for the other half, which surely would not be excessive or burdensome. Any one of the millionaires could pay it all and many of them ten times as much without missing it. As soon as they learn the discovery and realize the great importance of teaching it to people some of them will doubtless come forward and finance the teaching. Until that time comes the members should carry on the propaganda work though it be a small financial sacrifice. All the funds donated are now exhausted and it is necessary for the church members to make financial arrangements for 1905 to continue the work of the church. I ask each member, personally, to pledge the amount he or she will contribute to the church propaganda work for 1905 on the subjoined blank and forward to me at once. The money can be paid in monthly or quarterly installments, as best suits the convenience of the donors.

W. H. KERR, Great Bend, Kansas.

Are You Doing Your Full Duty?

Brothers and Sisters:—Are you doing your full duty in aiding the propaganda work of our common church? Each one of you is an equal founder with myself of the Church of Humanity. Will you have a clear conscience and deem yourself worthy the honor of a founder of a great church if you do not aid in its upbuilding to the limit of your financial ability?

While a few of you have aided nobly and must have a clear conscience of duty well done, for which you deserve and receive full credit and praise, yet there are many others who have not given a penny to the cause or donated a copy of our paper to any one. That is not right, it is not justice, it is not worthy the founder of a modern church designed to free the people from idolatry. How much credit should you have when our church becomes popular and powerful with millions of members? Just in proportion to what you do for its success, according to your ability, and no more. You should see to it then that you aid it financially to the limit of your ability. You should be as liberal in the support and upbuilding of your church as the Christians are in theirs. You are as able as the average Christian church member to do for your church as much as they do for theirs. You know they give from $10 to $50 per family yearly to the support of their church and its propaganda work. Can you expect our church to win if you are not as liberal as the members of the other churches are? As you believe our church to be more in the interest of civilization than other churches you should aid it proportionately more than other churches are aided by their members.

Some of you must be as able financially to aid our church as I am. I do not ask you to do more, but it is not unreasonable to ask you to do as much in proportion to your means. Besides my gifts to the church of $175, and my time free to its service, which is worth at farming $5,000 a year, I donate our church paper to 200 Christian relatives, neighbors and friends; to all the school teachers in my county, 131, and to the members of the school board of my city.

Are you doing your duty by your church, and by your relatives, neighbors and teachers in placing your church teaching in their hands? It will not cost you any more than it does me, besides you are left to continue in productive industry while I am not. Wake up and be a live member and make yourself worthy of the respect and confidence of Christians. Donate our church paper to your relatives, neighbors, school teachers and officials. Donate to the educational funds so I can put thousands more students to learning the great truths of nature our church is founded on and thereby save them from idolatry. Do you not feel grateful to those who aided you in learning the truths that freed you from idolatry? Well the people whom you help to free will be as thankful to you when they are free. Then they will aid in establishing our church through which our posterity can be kept free from idolatry.

There are a hundred or more subscribers to the C. E. & G. D. that are ready for their graduating certificates. Please apply for them now and thereby encourage others to do the same.

When facts in nature do not conform to a system of teaching as is taught in Christian churches then the teaching should be changed to conform to the facts as is done by the Church of Humanity.

Which one of the 1400 millionaires we are educating in the study of God free will send me a check for $14,000 with which to provide a college building for the Church of Humanity? Don't all speak at once.

Every Christian who has children able to read should see that they have access to this paper so they can study the evidence in favor of God's non-existence. They cannot judge rightly without hearing the evidence on this side too.

If you use tobacco in any form or intoxicating drinks, figure out what it costs you a year and donate the amount to the educational funds explained in this paper. It will make yourself happier and some Christians wiser for the change of investment.

The Church of Humanity removes forever from the tired brain of the clergy the great responsibility of steering a stubborn world clear of hell. It proclaims the discovered truth that there is no one to put any body in hell. Rejoice! O, ye clergy! rejoice!

The Study of God

BIBLE LESSON No. 12.

[By the International Instructor for the Church of Humanity.]

The Snake is Acquitted at Last, God's Judgments and Decrees Overruled by The Church of Humanity.

When the name, "God," is used in this paper it is always understood to mean the fictitious character mentioned in the bible, the religious press and the pulpit; the man-created myth the Christians, Jews, Mormons and Mohammedans worship. God is now known to be a myth—a creation of the imagination—a fabulous being like Santa Claus.

To worship god constitutes idolatry and heathenism, and, in the light of modern discovery, is a greater sin or vice than the use of tobacco or intoxicating drink. A man can abstain from the use of tobacco and intoxicating drinks and teach his children and others to do so without being abused by even the greatest users of them. But when he learns that God is a myth and engages in teaching that fact to others to save them from idolatry, some of the idolators think he is doing wrong. That attitude must now be changed on the part of the worshipers of God and they must recognize their liberators as friends who are doing the greatest possible good for them by teaching them the discovery that God is a myth.

Since the worshipers of God rely on the bible to prove his reality we will show in these lessons that the bible furnishes positive proof that he is a fictitious charater created by fabulists. No stronger proof can be given of that fact than the story of the Garden of Eden, and I shall dwell longer on it in order to show clearly its absurdity. Of all the utterly foolish and idiotic sayings and doings attributed to God by the bible, that prove him a creation of fabulists, his judgments on a snake caps the climax.

Gen. 3.—14 And the Lord God said unto the serpent, Because thou hast done this, thou art cursed above all cattle, and above every beast of the field; upon thy belly shalt thou go, and dust shalt thou eat all the days of thy life;

15 And I will put enmity between thee and the woman, and between thy seed and her seed; it shall bruise thy head, and thou shalt bruise his heel.

That cannot be the record of a judgment of a real God because it would prove him to be simply a raving idiot if it is. Any judge would be declared insane and would be hustled off to an asylum were he to hand down such a decision. Acts that would prove a man insane would also prove God insane were he a real being and did them.

There could not be a double standard to judge by. God would necessarily be required to fill the measure of a sane man at least. Hence we know there is no God in the universe or he would not let such an idiotic decision be attributed to him nor allow those who believe him to be the author to murder others for not believing it. A judge would sue a publisher were he to accuse him of handing down a decision like God's creators made for him. That millions of bibles with this decision in have been printed and scattered over the world for centuries without any protest from God proves him to be a fabulous being like Santa Claus, and hence no protest can come from him, no matter what or how many wicked lies are told on him. Other churches that teach that God is a real being and that this silly decision is his are defaming him. The Church of Humanity is defending God by teaching the discovered truth that he is a myth.

No crime of omission or of commission attaches to God for being a myth. He can't help it any more than can any other character of fiction. But were he a real being with the attributes his creators assign him a million volumes could not hold a record of his crimes of omission and commission.

It would have been criminal as well as idiotic in God to have punished the snake for telling the truth. So we are glad to know the whole story is a fable. No snake ever heard of this judgment passed on its specie.

It would have been a blessing to our race if the fable had never been written. But the greatest blessing we can get out of it now is to recognize it as a fable, which it is, and teach that fact to all the world. That will destroy its power for evil, and make the bible as harmless as a volumn of Æsop's fables. So long as the bible is erroneously believed to be the word of a God the believers will be easily led to war in its name and defense. I am no lawyer but I can clear this snake of any crime by a jury composed of the 900 editors of religious publications and 750 clergymen to whom I appeal to through God's Defender. Gentlemen of the Jury: Here is a fable in a book named "The Bible" wherein a woman accuses a snake of beguiling her and the only thing the snake said on which she bases the charge is the following verses:

Gen. 3-4.—And the serpent said unto the woman, Ye shall not surely die;

5 For God doth know that in the day ye eat thereof, then your eyes shall be opened, and ye shall be as gods, knowing good and evil.

The snake told the truth according to the following verses.

Gen. 3-7.—And the eyes of them both were opened, and they knew that they were naked; and they sewed fig leaves together, and made themselves aprons.

22 And the Lord God said, Behold the man is become as one of us, to know good and evil: and now, lest he put forth his hand, and take also of the tree of life, and eat, and live for ever:

Webster defines "beguiled" as follows: "Deluded, imposed on; mislead by craft; eluded by strategem; passed pleasingly."

The snake's plain statement of truths to the womam, could not constitute beguilment under the above definition. It simply wanted her to know how she could rise from a state of naked, ignorant savagery, to which God had consigned her, to a plane of civilization at least equal to that of the Gods.

It knew God had lied to Adam for the purpose of keeping him from advancing in civilization.

If it is lawful and commendable for men to tell the truth it must be for snakes, too.

If it is lawful and commendable for men to expose the lies and deceit of the wicked and rescue the innocent victims from their snares by telling them the truth it must be right for snakes to do likewise. What is your verdict gentlemen of the jury? The Jury:

"We, the jury, selected to try the case of one certain snake on appeal from the decision of the Lord God unanimously concur in the following verdict after due deliberation: We are well acquainted with the character, habit, custom and ability of snakes and as we never saw, heard nor dreamed of one being able to talk, we declare that particular talking snake a myth, a creation of the brain of the bible fabulist.

2 We are intimately aquainted with women and have such a high appreciation of their intelligence and veracity that we do not believe anyone was ever guilty of charging a snake with beguiling her, and we declare that particular woman to be a myth, a creation of the brain of the bible fabulist.

3 We are not lawyers, but we have some ideas of legal proceedure and of the duties, powers and limitation of judges. We have known poisonous snakes to bite children and stock from which they died, and we believe that to be a greater cause for judicial punishment than the telling of truths by them, yet we never heard of one being indicted, or of a judge convicting one. We would certainly consider it very idiotic in any judge to pass such a sentence on a snake as the one the Lord God decreed and we would not only impeach him but would send him to an insane asylum to be treated for an attack of some mental malady.

Therefore, as it is so inconsistent for a Lord God to do that which if done by a man would convict him of idiocy we declare the Lord God a myth like Santa Claus, a creation of the brain of the bible fabulist."

Thank you gentlemen. You have much more common sense than many intelligent people have given you credit for. Now if you will teach the people and especially the women and children, your decision here given and the reason therefor I shall send my children to be taught by you and will do all I can to have your salaries raised from 50 to 300 per cent, as I consider it at least worth that much more to have them taught truths and common sense than lies and imbecility.

Reader, the clergy and editors of religious publications are wedded to their idols.

It is very difficult for them to learn the truth about them. They are actuated by excessive fear of punishment and hope of reward from them. Not in a thousand years will they render such a sensible verdict as I have put in their mouths unless a powerful rival church of the intelligent people is built up.

The Church of Humanity has learned the truth and indorses the findings of the jury. If you, reader, indorse the verdicts please send in your application for membership in the Church of Humanity. It is the only way to influence others to come to like conclusions, and be saved from idolatry.

QUESTIONS ON THE LESSON.

1 What is the lesson on? 2 What is meant when the name "God" is used? 3 What is God discovered to be? 4 The worship of God constitutes what? 5 It is worse than what other vices? 6 Why? 7 How should idolators regard their liberators? 8 What do worshipers depend on to prove God a real being? 9 Does the bible, when rightly understood, prove him to be the creation of fabulists? 10 What story proves it? 11 Recite the verses. 12 Can that be the judgment of a real God? 13 Why not? 14 What would be thought of a judge were he to render such a decision? 15 Would acts that prove a man insane prove a God insane? 16 Could there be a double standard to judge by? 17 What would be required of God were he a reality? 18 How do we know there is no God in the universe? 19 Would a judge resent being accused of giving such a decision? 20 Why does not God protest against the wicked lies told on him? 21 How are other churches defaming God? 22 How is the Church of Humanity defending him? 23 Is it a vice or crime in God to be a myth? 24 Why not? 25 Would he be a criminal were he a real being and the acts charged to him true? 26 Name some of the acts charged to him that would constitute crimes. 27 Should we be glad the the story is only a fable? 28 Did any snake ever hear of it? 29 To what would it have been a blessing had the story never been written. 30 How can we get the greatest blessing out of it now? 31 What effect will that have on the people? 32 A belief in the bible being the word of God has what effect on the people? 33 Who are called on to act as jurors in the snake trial? 34 Give the arguments used in the snake's defense? 35 Give the three findings of the jury. 36 What should the people do did this jury really make such a decision and teach it? 37 Should the teaching of truths be worth more to the people than the teaching of untruths? 38 Why can't the clergy and editors of religious papers easily learn the truths about their idol? 39 Will they ever be able to make such a decision as I have attributed to them without a powerful rival church being established. 40 What is the name of the rival church being founded to teach the people the facts? 41 What church indorses the findings of the jury? 42 If you, reader, indorse the verdicts what is your duty? 43 Will joining the church influence others to recognize the truth and admit it? Money Talks.

Just before going to press a good article was cut out to make room for the following, just received, which talks for the Church of Humanity more eloquently than anything I can say:—

"Payson Exchange Savings Bank.
Payson, Utah, Jan. 29, 1905.
Pay to the order of W. H. Kerr
One Hundred Dollars $100.00
To Hanover National Bank,
New York City.
C. E. SNELL, Cashier.

This is the message from Brother Long of Payson, Utah, who has found a sincere friend to help him. It is to be used for propaganda work of the Church of Humanity during 1905. I extend my personal thanks, and through me as its representative, the thanks of the Church of Humanity, to Brother Long and his friend. The money will be placed to the credit of the educational funds. Now there is only $400 to be raised by the other members to enable me to keep our great class of students on the mailing list during 1905. Now, brothers, chip in and raise that by cash and pledges with a whoop, and then there will be no more calls for cash aid from you for the work of the church in 1995. I shall continue the educational work we are doing and enlarge it all I possible can with that amount. By next year our membership may be doubled, and we can then enlarge, and perhaps increase our class of students to 10,000.

My surprise at finding a $100 check in my mail was only equaled by my joy in knowing we had a hundred-dollar man in our ranks. Now if there can be found two fifty-dollar men, four twenty-five-dollar men, and twenty ten-dollar men in our ranks, the financing of our church work is assured for 1905. Brother, let me know through the pledge blank in this issue what class of financial pillars of the Church of Humanity you wish to be placed in.

The motto of all nations should be: Millions for arbitration but not one cent for slaughter.

The Church of Humanity.

The Church of Humanity represents and teaches the scientific knowledge of God. It proclaims the greatest discovery of all the ages—the discovery that God is a fabulous being like Santa Claus, a man made character, a creation of fabulists. By this scientific truth the value of all religious creeds, churches, denominations and sects is measured. It is thus clearly seen that all titles to "mansions in the skies" granted by any of them for worshiping God are absolutely worthless.

There is no guesswork, hope, fear, faith or prayer required in learning what God is any more than in the solution of a mathematical problem. Above all of the mythologies of the world including Christianity and their thousands of divisions and sub-divisions, with their multiplicity of conflicting ideas of God that bring confusion to the student, there is a scientific answer to the question —what is God?

That answer has been wished for by scholars and scientists for ages. It has been searched for by students in every mythology in every land. The ancient cities of by-gone ages have been exhumed in search of the answer. Dead languages and hieroglyphics have been deciphered in search of the answer. The earth, the planets, the stars, the universe have been searched for the answer. Millions have prayed for it, and some have committed suicide in hopes of finding it on the shores of an unseen world. That scientific answer has been sought for that all might know positively what God is, and be able to verify and prove it by infallible evidence. The answer is at last discovered. Like the discovered answers to many other perplexing questions it is remarkably simple. It was not found amid the ruins of the dead past, or on the shores of imaginary unseen worlds, or in the distant stars. It is found in the brain of man and nowhere else in the universe.

God is simply a myth, a fiction of the mind. He is a reflection of the ignorance and wishes of his creators; a mirage of their minds as a reflection of their bodies in a mirror.

As the Santa Claus-myth has been personified by effigies in picture and paint and model and by man to impress the myth more effectually on the minds of children, so the God-myth has been personified by models in wood and stone and picture. Then when our race advanced in intelligence natural objects were used to personify the God-myth such as snakes, crocodiles, cattle, trees, elephants, volcanoes, fire, etc. As these in rotation were discovered by the most intelligent to not possess the powers and attributes assigned them by priests for which they were worshiped, then the moon, sun, planets and stars were used to fasten their God-myth to. But they in turn, after being worshiped for ages, were discovered not to have the powers and attributes assigned them and their God-ship fell into disrepute. As soon as the inquisitive people found out an object of worship did not possess the powers for which it was being worshiped some one would hitch the God-myth to another object and promptly proclaim himself its high priest. Thus the God-myth has led our specie a merry chase throughout the ages. Samples of nearly every object in nature have been worshiped sometime by some of our race on account of having had the God-myth fastened to them by some one. When the list of objects, both natural and hand made, had all been tried, and found wanting in appreciation and ability to come up to the required standard, then the imagination had to be called into service to evolve an imaginary being and put him out of the reach and sight of inquisitive people.

A wandering tribe of Israelite Arabs finally boxed God up in an ark and would not let inquisitive people see him. Their enemies captured him. That should have shaken their faith in the power of God. The Philistines had no use for a God of Israel and returned him. They then stowed him away in the Holy of Holies in a temple. Enemies burned the temple and smoked him out. He went up in smoke. Then in their imagination they founded the New Jerusalem in the skies, paved its streets with pure gold, erected a golden throne and crowned God "King of All" and placed him on it. But the everlasting inquisitiveness of some people could not be thwarted by that subterfuge. They invented a telescope and pointed it in the direction as the priest's finger when he pointed to where he said God was on his throne in the New Jerusalem.

Behold, it was not to be found in the known universe, although every nook was thoroughly searched. Then the foxy priest disolved the New Jerusalem into a spiritual heaven with nothing opaque about it, and God was disolved into very thin air and spread over so much space it was not thought possible he could ever be found out. But God-creators made two fatal mistakes. One was when they put in a book what they claimed was his account of his own exploits in the creating business, and his experience in raising a couple of youngsters without a mother. The other was when they hitched the God-myth to a man and gave a written account of his exploits.

The Church of Humanity has pulled aside the mask of the God-myth thrown over the creation story and hold up to the astonished gaze of the world a caricature of an ignorant, wicked man who curses snakes, women, ground, and knows nothing of the earth or the universe.

It has pulled the mask of the God-myth from Jesus, and behold, a poor, ignorant, fanatical man is revealed. So the fear of God is beginning to cool in the minds of many people and they are getting up off their knees. The priests who are able to comprehend the result of this awakening, and who are wicked enough to desire the continued enslavement of the people to the God-myth, are in a panic. With the energy worthy of a nobler cause they seek another object to hitch the God-myth to. Some suggest "good." They knock out one o and capitalize g and there they have "God." It will not work. Nobody will worship "good." It is not a personality, not a sentiens being. It cannot be made one by clothing it with the mask of the God-myth. Others suggest love. They have the central letter and all that is necessary to make a God of love is to put a capital g on one side and d on the other side and, behold, "love" is "God." It will not do. Nobody will worship love. It is not a personality.

Electricity, magnetism, gravity, life, have all been suggested as powers that the God-myth could be hitched to. But it will not be of any use to attempt it. The Church of Humanity has learned the secret of God-making, and will do all in its power to protect the people from being deceived into worshiping any of the qualities of nature that priests may attempt to clothe with the God-myth. All who have loved once worshiping anything masked with the God-myth should unite with the Church of Humanity and help it to free them. The church has 82 helpers now and is getting a nice little start in the good work.

The Old and the Young Unite in the March of Progress.

In sending his dollar and his application for membership in the Church of Humanity, brother Aaron Davis, of Frederick, Maryland, says: "I do not like the Christian religion. It is rotten from start to finish. Do not patch it up but break it down. I am nearly 86 years old. I will not be with you many years longer. I am glad you are so young."

Brother Davis is old in years but young in desires and love for progress, and he proves the maxim, "Never too old to learn," true. He is a tailor and a farmer.

"My dear Brother:—I inclose Pacific Express Money Order $1.50, one dollar to apply on life membership in the Church of Humanity, 25c to continue my subscription to the Defender another year, and 25c for which I wish you would mail the Defender to my father, Rev. S. Thomas, Dorrance, Kansas, if he does not now take your paper. Wishing you all kinds of success in your work, I remain,

Yours fraturnally,
Paul Thomas."

Brother Thomas is 28 years old, a telegrapher at Modoc, Ill, and the son of a preacher. This is all very encouraging indeed. It justifies the highest hopes that our race will in time be free from the idolatry of worshiping dead Jews and other objects real and imaginary to which the God-myth has been attached.

Rev. Thomas may never be able to learn the new discovery about God his son has learned, but, neither is it likely he can or will learn telegraphy. I am sure his devoted son will no more think of hating him for not learning that God is a myth than for hating him for not learning telegraphy. Neither should the father think any more of hating his son for learning more about God than he, than of hating him for learning more than he about telegraphy. It simply illustrates the great progress of the twentieth century, and that this progress has at last invaded the church.

The Church of Humanity is a manifestation of church-progress in the knowledge of God. For centuries the complaint of those who represented the van guard of progress and scientific knowledge has been that the churches were too far behind, too stupid, too ignorant and out of line and harmony with known facts. "Higher critics" have been trying for hundreds of years to get the churches to advance and adopt the scientifically known truths of nature. The Church of Humanity is the answer to the call of science to the churches. Come up! Come up! We have at last responded to the call. Many of the "Higher Critics" now find themselves far in the rear. The laugh is now on them. The church at last has passed them. The Church of Humanity now has to look back to greet them with the call: Come up! Come up!

The Study of God

INTERNATIONAL LESSON

DAILY PROOF THAT THERE IS NO GOD.

OBJECT LESSON XV.

[By the International Instructor for the Church of Humanity.]

Above the graves of our perished loved ones the Church of Humanity proclaims God a myth.

Now that the discovery that God is simply a myth like Santa Claus is positively made and proven by infallible evidence, every teacher and educator should try to learn that fact and incorporate it in his teaching. People can learn this great discovery and live and die in the knowledge of it as is clearly demonstrated by the members of the Church of Humanity. There is no valid excuse for not trying to learn the truth about God. There is no valid reason for not retaining that truth to our latest moment of life. It is not difficult to learn this discovery with a little help from teachers. Were it not for the great number engaged in teaching the people error in regard to God, and threatening them with such awful torture for not believing it, and promising them rewards for believing it, the people could soon be rescued from idolatry. When the people once learn that the rewards and punishments are mythical, they will wave the false teachers aside and study God as they do other things real or mythical. They will weigh the evidences pro and con and decide according to that and leave all bribes and threats out of consideration. When they once adopt that method of studying God they will not be long in learning the truth of this discovery.

As a bribe to keep people from learning the truth about God, they are taught to believe God is protecting them from harm, helping them to get rich and destroying their enemies, and for this great service he is doing them they should never cease praising him. Such false teaching might easily be believed by a wandering tribe of savage Asiatic barbarians whose leaders taught them to murder all neighboring tribes and divide the spoils, including the virgins, among themselves. But, for a civilized man, living in the Twentieth century, who has access to the daily papers, to believe such nonsense, is inexcusable. Who are your enemies? Is God destroying them? Is not ignorance and poverty and vice and crimes your enemies? What is God doing to destroy them? Is God helping you to get rich? Those who depend on him the most and worship and praise him with the purest love and devotion are the poorest; while the ones who do not depend on him, do not trust him, do not fool away any time worshiping and praising him, but tend to business, gain in wealth. Is God protecting you from harm? An intelligent civilized man cannot, and should not believe it, even if sworn to by a million clergymen. A hundred years ago a thousand million people testified that God was protecting them from harm. The silent cities of the dead testify unanimously and emphatically that the living lips were mistaken. A million priests and preachers believed God was caring for them and devoted their time to teaching others the same mistake and to worshiping him for doing it. But today the tombstones on ten thousand hills testify to their mistake.

A hundred years ago these poor deluded people thought God made it rain for their good. Today it rains the same though none of them need it or want it. A hundred years ago the trees put out their leaves, the grass grew, the flowers bloomed, the rivulets murmured, the birds sang. Our superstitious ancestors thought a God was causing all that beauty for their special pleasure. Their love and gratitude shone forth in smiles of recognition and appreciation. They reciprocated in prayers of thankfulness and songs of praise. Today, the trees put forth their leaves, the grass is as green, the flowers as lovely, the rivulets murmur, the birds sing as sweetly, but they awake no responsive joy in those once loving breasts in which life is forever extinguished.

Had there been a God taking care of them he would be doing so now and they would be here to enjoy the beauties of life with us.

So it is with the people of today who think a God is protecting them from harm and producing all the beauties of nature for their pleasure. Within a hundred years their theories will be proven false by their own tombstones, but the beauty of nature will continue. They will then testify to the truths the Church of Humanity teaches as do all the perished hosts who have peopled this planet. So there is no God controlling nature to please us nor keeping us alive to enjoy it. We should be convinced of that fact when we see and read of people all around us dying who are as good, and as worthy of a God's protection, as we are. We should admit they are, for our lives will be extinguished before many decades, and it certainly would be very presumptious in those who remain a while longer to think otherwise of us.

Read the story of the continual destruction of our fellow beings in the daily papers and then you cannot truthfully say you believe God is taking care of you.

You will recognize the fact that if a God was protecting you he would also protect them, since they are as worthy. But since no God is protecting them there can be none protecting you.

Here are a few headlines clipped from the daily papers, under which are given the sad details of the extinguishment of life in those who had been taught by mistaken teachers to believe a God was loving and caring for them, and for which supposed services, many had given thanks in prayers and hymns:

"Murdered in his Berth on Joy Line Boat. Child smothered while sleeping. Two women and three children perish in fire. Woman somnambulist is drowned. Twenty-one dead, twelve dying. Five men killed in a coal mine. Erie wreck killed girl and injured fifteen people. Captain, four passengers and 13 of the crew believed to have perished in boat in terrible storm. Rear end crash kills two. A man's heart found on car axle. Father killed while attempting to save son who met death. Child drowns in pond. Seventeen murders forty-four suicides and 100 fatal accidents in Chicago in January. Gasoline explosion kills 20. Woman 70 years old burned to death. Three tarinmen dead. Four buried alive. Virginia mine disaster, 117 men killed, 100 families and 300 children left destitute, ninety-two bodies recovered and fifty-five funerals held today."

It does not seem possible that an intelligent person with reasoning powers can read these disasters from day to day and believe the assertions of mistaken teachers that there is a God who knows and cares for people. Those who teach the existence of a loving Jesus who has power over nature and who is with us continually do not seem to have the ability to recognize the inconsistency between such teaching and these every day facts. They cannot both be true. If the teaching is true none of these disasters ever happened. If these disasters happened, then the teaching about a God and a Jesus loving us and caring for us is untrue. What is your verdict? Did the disaster happen or not? If you are unable to read, or will not read, or confine your reading to a little religious paper that gives no news, or if you have no eyes or ears or reasoning faculties, but get all your ideas from some priest, then you will decide in the negative and continue to support the churches that are teaching falsehoods. If you read the daily papers, have eyes and ears and reasoning faculties and know how to use them, you will decide in the affirmative. In that case you should support the Church of Humanity, as it is the only church that knows the truth about these matters and teaches it to the people.

Questions on the Lesson.

1. What is the lesson on? 2. What discovery has been made in regard to God? 3. Should teachers try to learn that discovery? 4. What should they do then? 5. What proof have we that men can learn the discovery? 6. Is there any valid excuse for not trying to learn it and retain it as part of our acquired knowledge to the last? 7. Is it difficult to learn with the aid of teachers? 8. Give the reasons why it is so difficult to rescue the people from idolatry? 9. What will the people do with false teachers when they learn the rewards and punishments for believing errors are mythical? 10. How will they then study God? 11. Will they be long then in learning the truth of this discovery? 12. Explain the nature of the bribes offered to induce people to worship God. 13. Who might believe such falshoods? 14. Should a civilized man believe them? 15. Does God destroy your enemies, make you rich or protect you from harm? 16. What are your enemies? 17. Who gains fastest in wealth? 18. Should one believe a God is protecting him from harm? 19. What did people testify to a hundred years ago? 20. What proves they were mistaken? 21. What did the clergymen believe and teach the people? 22. What now proves their teaching false? 23. How did people regard the rain then? 24. How do we know they were mistaken? 25. Describe the beauties then. 26. What did our superstitious ancestors think of it? 27. How did they respond? 28. Describe the beauties of nature today. 29. Do they respond? 30. Why not? 31. Had a God been caring for them what would have been the result? 32. Do the people make the same mistake today? 33. What will prove their theories untrue? 34. What church, then, will they prove to be teaching the truth? 35. How are we convinced there is no God controlling nature or keeping us alive to enjoy it? 36. Why should we admit those whose lives are being extinguished are as good and as worthy as we are? 37. Can one truthfully say he believes a God is caring for him if he reads the account of disasters? 38. If a God is caring for you would he not care for others too? 39. Since no God cares for others is it reasonable to believe there is one caring for you? 40. Read the headlines copied from the daily newspapers. 41. After reading these accounts of the extinguishment of lives, should anyone believe a God cared for them? 42. Do people who teach such mistakes seem to have the ability to recognize the inconsistency between their teaching and the facts? 43. Can they both be true? 44. Did the disaster happen? 45. What circumstances will cause one to decide in the negative? 46. What will cause one to decide in the affirmative? 47. If one decides in the affirmative what church should he join and support? If you believe this church is teaching the truth please fill out the following blank and return it to me.

Obituary.

In common with all organic life, the members of the Church of Humanity die. In common with all churches, our church records the sad events. In common with all church members we are sorry and grieve for our fallen brothers, and miss them from our church society. Relatives are sad and mourn their loss. Friends and neighbors regret the extinction of their lives.

Brother Watson Heston, of Carthage, Missouri, is the first of our heroic members to fall. He died January 27, 1905, of consumption, after suffering with it 18 months and being bedfast several months. He leaves a wife to mourn the loss of a devoted husband and loving companion. She has the sympathy of the Church of Humanity, of which she is a member, in her sad bereavement.

Watson Heston was born and raised near Wapakoneta, Ohio. He learned carriage and house painting in early life which he followed many years. Married Miss Lottie Ayers February 3, 1873. Moved to Carthage, Mo., Dec., 7, 1876. Learned photography and cartoon work. In 1886 he was employed by the Truth Seeker, a free thought publication of New York City, to illustrate it by caricaturing superstition and idolatry and illustrating bible texts.

He continued that work nearly twelve years. It brought him international fame. His works are bound in four volumns. Among other things the Truth Seeker says of him: "He was a genial and campanionable man; an able writer as well as artist, and a poet of considerable merit. He was fortunate in being happily married to a woman who survives him, and they never ceased to be inseparable lovers. His work was unique. What he did was never so successfully attempted by any other man, and had there been a larger field for his labors, he might have won fortune as well as fame."

As soon as the Church of Humanity was called to his attention he at once recognized the truths it is based on as being in harmony with all scientific knowledge—all known facts Although on his death-bed he did not hesitate to join that church and become one of its founders. In the Book of Life is this brief record: "No 66. Date, Dec. 10, 1904; Watson Heston, Address, Carthage, Mo.; Age 58; sex, male; occupation, artist; nationality, American; language, English; previous church, none." He died in the full knowledge that God is a myth. His last hours were peaceful and he died as if going to sleep.

Brother Charles Long, of Payson, Utah, is the second founder of the Church of Humanity, whose life is extinguished. He died Feb. 21, 1905, of bronchitis and heart failure in his eighty-fourth year. He leaves no near relatives, his wife having died twelve years ago. He was strictly honest and industrious and his neighbors speak of him in words of praise. He was conscious to the last and died peacefully in the knowledge that God is a myth and that life ceases forevor at death. He recognized the truths the Church of Humanity teaches and knew they are in harmony with all known facts and that they will be believed by all the world in time. Although at that ripe old age he was full of enthusiasm to aid in the upbuilding of the church. He donated the church paper to 40 of his neighbors and sent me $15.00 for the Educational Funds besides the $100.00 he donated the Church of Humanity last month. He has been our principal Financial Pillar, and the church owes him a debt of gratitude it can never pay. I have been advised by a dear friend of his that he remembered the church in his will, and I have sent a Power of Attorney to his friend to represent me and the church and to see that his wishes are fulfilled.

A neighbor of his sends me the following: "Mr. Long was born near Bristol, Kingswood, Gloucester, England. Was married in 1852. He was ever an earnest seeker after the truth He embraced the Mormon Faith and came to America in 1854. Later, he left that church and for many years has been an ardent supporter of Freethought and has done much to advance the cause in his home town and elsewhere. He joined the Church of Humanity in 1904 and worked for its success and had great hopes for its future. Mr. Long was an honest and upright citizen and will be sincerely mourned by his friends. He wanted the C. E. and G. D. sent on to his address as before."

In the Book of Life is this brief record: No. 17. Date, Jan. 17, 1904. Charles Long, address, Payson, Utah; age, 83; sex, male; occupation, gardener; nationality, English; language, English; previous church, Latter-Day Saints.

Death! What can we say of it? Only the truth. We all want to know and understand it. It is now known positively and definitely by the Church of Humanity. It is simply a cessation of individual life forever. Only the living know that the dead are dead. The dead cannot know it. It is similar in some respects to passing from wakefulness to dreamless slumber. Before twenty-four hours, nearly all our rece will sleep. To save their lives not one could tell when the change comes to himself. But life is there and it wakes into consciousness, while in the other case life is extinguished.

Consolation to the living? What can we say to them? There are many things that could be said. More than I have space here to tell. The foundation for our consolation or regrets is laid before life is extinguished in our loved ones. If we have treated them right, and never intentionally caused them suffering and sorrow, but have done the best we could to make their lives happy, that should be a great consolation to us, while the opposite course will cause us the deepest sorrow and regret. We should ask ourselves what we would have them do were our places exchanged, and the answer will generally be what we should do. We would not want them to miss the joys, beauties and happiness of life through sorrowing for us. We would want them to go ahead with the duties of life, remembering that they can only retain life a few years at best, and that it is their duty to retain that life and make the best use of it as long as possible. We do not feel sorry for those we love when they are in peaceful, dreamless slumber. When life ceases they are as free from trouble and pain and will ever remain so. Since they cannot stay with us in this life we are glad we have learned that they do not retain conscious life to be tortured in the Christian's hell.

The Christian's heaven would be equally tortuous to the civilized man. No civilized man worthy of that title would endure heaven twenty-four hours. He would not worship a Heavenly Czar when he sees him refuse the petition for aid from his loving subjects in an Iroquois theatre or on a Gen. Slocum. We would prefer going to hell to worshiping such a monster.

The Russians are going to resent the way the petition of women and children were treated by one they are taught to believe is an agent of the mythical heavenly Czar. Would they not resent such acts in the principal were he a reality and they retain as much manhood?

On the tombstone of our missing brothers there should be some sign of recognition. I suggest this: A founder of the Church of Humanity No.——in the Book of Life.

Have the members any suggestions to offer?

Our Millionaire Class and the States They Live in.

The Millionaire Class the Church of Humanity is teaching in the true knowledge of God includes all the millionaires in the following states: Ala.,5; Ariz., 2; Ark., 2; Del., 16; Fla. 6; Ga., 3; Idaho, 7; Ind., 27; Ia., 22; Kans., 8; Ky., 16; La., 19; Me., 12; Mich., 84; Miss., 3; Mon., 25; Neb., 15; Nev., 4; N. H., 17; N. M., 2; N. C. 9; N. D., 1; Ore., 10; S. C., 5; S. D., 2; Tenn., 18; Tex., 29; Utah, 16; Vt., 11; Va., 14; Wash., 13; W. Va., 16; Wis., 59; Wyoming, 2; Minn., 70; N. J., 103; Part of those in the following states: Calif., 45; Col., 24; Conn., 62; D. C., 9; Ill., 72; Md., 26; Mass., 120; Miss., 57; N. Y., 215; Ohio, 77; Pa., 106; R. I., 33 Total, 1519.

Needs of the Church of Humanity.

A college is needed by the Church of Humanity. It will not be long until our members will want a place to send their children to be taught in the true knowledge of God. In all the wide world there is no such a school today. There must be such a school established as soon as possible. We will give the first one in our millionaire class of 1500, who graduates in the knowledge of God, the honor of founding our first college. This should cause a friendly rivalry among that class for that honor. Fifteen thousand dollars will furnish and equip a fine college for the church.

NOTICE—Any one writing to me who does not wish his letter published please mark it "private" or "personal."

If the members of the Church of Humanity are as liberal in the support of their church as are the Christians in theirs, truth will prevail; otherwise it will not.

Brothers and Sisters: Send in good pledges of support for your church for 1905 and rsise the $500 at once for the propaganda work. I can then keep all the students on the mailing list another year and increase the list to 5000.

NOTICE—The Church of Humanity is donating this educator to the clergy, editors of religious publications, colleges and universities, and millionaires. It wishes them to learn the great discovery that God is a myth like Santa Claus, and help it to rescue the people from idolatry.

I ask all to whom this paper is donated by the church or individuals to please notify me of any change in their address promptly that they may not miss getting it. Some school teachers and some preachers will doubtless be through with their present charges soon, and will then have a different address.

Monthly Report.

Number of graduates in the knowledge of God enrolled in the Book of Life since last report, 11; Iowa 3; Kansas 2; Illinois 2; Pa. 2; Ohio 1; Md. 1. Occupation of members: Farming 2; housekeeping 2; machinist, letter carrier, miner, teaching and farming, physician, telegrapher, teaching. Nationality: American 10; French 1. Previous church connections: Catholic 3; Campbellite 1; Lutheran 1; Diciple of Christ 1; None 6. Total membership 83

Two have died: Brother Watson, of Carthage, Mo., and Brother Charles Long, of Payson, Utah.

What Do You Think of This?

In looking over statistics of churches sent me by the U. S. Statistical Bureau of Washington, D.C., I find that the Church of Humanity is now ahead of four of the 143 churches in point of numbers given in the census of 1900.

When our membership increases to 300, we will be ahead of twelve churches, and when we get 500 members we will out-class 19 Christian churches in numbers in 1900. Let every one who reads this paper and thinks we are teaching the truth join the Church of Humanity and help to put the church that teaches truth ahead of the ones that are teaching errors and making idolators of the people.

In looking over the circulation of the 894 religious publications we are educating as given in N. W. Ayre and Son's Newspaper Annual for 1902, I find the circulation of our church paper (5000) out-classes 378 religious publications in point of circulation.

Of course, in point of teaching the truth about God we out-class all of them combined. This good showing will surely encourage the church members to renewed hope and energy and make them determined to hold our ground and even push forward to overtake more Christian churches and religious publications. I suggest each member send in a dollar and a list of ten addresses to mail the paper to a year in celebration of our achievement in so short a time. Brother Long's $100.00 check gave me so much hope and encouragement last month that I added 100 more millionaires to the donated list and I put 411 leading colleges and universities of the U. S. on the donated mailing list. I would like to continue them on the list. Will you, my brothers, stand by me and endorse this grand educational work with checks for these educational funds? If you do we will surely hold our ground gained, and another year will be in a good position to push on to greater conquests.

The Study of God

BIBLE LESSON NO. 13.

[By the International Instructor for the Church of Humanity.]

God's Creators Make Him a Hater and Enslaver of Women.

In studying the character attributed to a myth named God we see a reflex of the character of his creators. Hence our condemnation of every wicked thing said and done by God passes over him and strikes his creators as being the guilty parties in holding such views.

Those ancient women haters and enslavers built up a fictitious character named God and placed in his mouth their own contempt for women and their ideas of how she should be enslaved. Then they called attention to their own language which appeared to the masses to come from the fiction God. By that sort of ventriloquism schemers were enabled to make the masses do their bidding under the impression they were doing "the will of God," but in reality were doing the will of his creators.

Every clergyman and teacher of idolatry are engaged in creating a God in the imagination of the people and use the same tactics. They, apparently unconsciously, play at mental ventriloquism to fool the people with the illusion that their wishes are God's wishes. They tell what God wants and does not want when they should use the pronoun "I". In quoting God's wishes from the bible we should always remember it is the wishes of his ancient creators.

Gen. 3; 16: Unto the woman he said, I will greatly multiply thy sorrow and thy conception; in sorrow thou shalt bring forth children; and thy desire shall be to thy husband, and he shall rule over thee.

God, being a myth, never uttered these words that villians and ignoramuses use as a pretext for enslaving womanhood. They are the utterance of the bible writer who approved of the conditions then existing in his country hundreds of years ago. He put his approval in the mouth of his God as a command. He deceived millions of people unto this day into the belief that his desires and wishes are commands from God. When the people once learn the discovery that God is a fictitious character they will no longer be fooled by such tricks. Then decent men everywhere will repudiate this barbaric command and recognize the equal rights of their daughters with those of their sons and they will know they violate no command of a God by so doing but simply the wishes of ancient barbarians.

The practice of putting heathen and barbaric ideas into the mouth of a fictitious God and palming them off on innocent childhood as infallible truths is reprehensible and should be discontinued by all who have any self-respect and decency as soon as they are made aware of the deception. That practice ever tends to keep the people from advancing to higher planes of knowledge and civilization. It is a tie that keeps them ever looking backwards to the barbaric past and binds them to the perpetuation of heathen ideas and customs.

The fountain head of idolatry must be broken up so thoroughly that no fragment of it can be set up and worshiped. That fountain head, source, core or germ from which flow all the idolatry of the world in its many forms, under many names and organizations, is the God-idea.

People must no longer believe in the existence of a God in any manner, shape or form. The Church of Humanity promulgates the scientific discovery that there is nothing in the universe that in the slightest particular resembles God and that he is therefore simply a creation of fabulists.

To free the people from the worship of God, who simply personifies the ignorance and wickedness of ancient barbarians, it is necessary to compare the character given him by his creators to that of a good man in the Twentieth century.

A good father would not talk that way to his daughter, nor order her enslavement even by her husband for desiring knowledge. He would not intentionally and deliberately multiply her sorrows, but on the contrary, do all in his power to shield her from sorrow. He encourages her to desire knowledge and to try to obtain it. He feeds, clothes and shelters her so she can devote her time to acquiring knowledge. He toils in field and shop, in mine and office to make the money with which to provide books and teachers for her. He is not enraged with envy and jealousy when she has an ambition to gain the wisdom of her father. Oh no, the good old father's heart swells with pride, and tears of joy shine in his eyes when his daughter graduates in the knowledge of sciences he never had an opportunity to learn. He has nothing but words of praise and cheer and thanks to bestow on his brave, good daughter.

Contrast such a father with this barbaric God. It is like a contrast between the pure, beautiful light of the sun to the dark side of the moon, or the light of day to the blackness of night, or the wonderful advancement of the sciences in our day to the general ignorance four thousand years ago, or freedom to slavery, love to hatred, civilization to barbarism.

This great, wise Lord God, Heavenly Father, who is said to own the Universe, and operate it has only one poor, little, ignorant, naked daughter. He turns her into a garden with all the other animals and insects and vermin. He gives her no shelter, no home, no clothing, no food, no books, no instruction, no tools to work with. He treats her in every way but one like he does the most loathsome vermin of animated life, and in that one way worse than the meanest. He gives all animated life free access to the Tree of Life and the tree of knowledge except his poor little daughter and her companion. This mighty God was jealous of their ambition to become wise and to rise above the condition of the animals around them so he prohibited them from partaking of the tree of knowledge.

This poor orphan girl, who never knew a mother's loving caress, or advice, or instructions, was denied by a worse than brutal God the only avenue to obtain the knowledge of right and wrong.

Every vermin and insect and animal had free access to the source of knowledge, but God lied to Adam to scare him away. The snakes had free access to the tree of knowledge and one, after learning of its effects, took pity on the poor child and gave her the secret. It risked the vengence of a fiendish God to do an act of purest love for that motherless child. It took its barbaric punishment like a hero, and never regretted taking the part of a friendless child and starting it on the road to knowledge.

And so God's lonely daughter found in her animal companions truer friends than her father. Even a snake had sympathy, pity and love developed to a degree infinitely greater than God. Instead of this Divine Father caring for his motherless daughter, as a good earthly father would do, he flies into a rage because she gained knowledge enough to make herself an apron of fig-leaves. He curses the snake and the ground and acts more like an idiot than anything else. He greatly multiplies the sorrows his poor daughter already has, and decrees her subjection and slavery. What a Lord God! What a Heavenly Father! What a Divine Being! What a Jewish Jehovah! The snake-cursing God! The ground-cursing God! The woman-enslaving God! Is this the God you worship, my Christian friends? Is this the God you compel the children of the Church of Humanity to bow in prayer to and to sing praises to in the Public schools? Is this the God you want incorporated into the constitution, and the United States made a subject of? Is this the God you ask in prayer to protect your daughters? There is his own account of how he treated his own motherless child Read it again and again until you know it. Is that the God you ask to help the White Cross Society "to treat all women with respect, and protect them from wrong and degradation?" That name "God" is a disgrace to any pledge to protect womanhood. It is a disgrace on any banner under which to organize the forces for peace and civilization. It would be more appropriate on the banner of those who degrade and debauch women; on the doors of dens of vice and on the cards of such men as Holmes and Hoch.

That one bible verse should cause all womanhood to arise from their knees and cease the worship of such a God forever. Their worship and praise should turn to scorn and contempt. Every man worthy of the title should, in the name of mother, wife and daughter refuse to worship God. It is degrading in the extreme to worship God, to sing praises to him, to point to him as an example for men to follow. It lowers the standard of fatherhood and trails it in the dust of the barbaric past to worship God. Protect womanhood by refusing to worship and glorify a God who denied her the avenue of knowledge, multiplied her sorrows, consigned her to slavery and later debauched her.

That is the bible picture of God. He is what his creators made him. He is the impersonation of their barbaric natures. When you worship him you simply worship the ideas of ancient Asiatic barbarians personified. In the name of womanhood stop it. In the name of manhood stop it. In the name of decency, morality, humanity, stop it. Other churches are defaming God by teaching he is a real being and that this bible verse is a true record of his acts. The Church of Humanity is defending him by teaching the scientific discovery that he is a myth like Santa Claus and therefore innocent of the crimes and vices charged to him by the bible and religious teachers. But nobody but a fool or a knave would worship a myth knowingly. Join the Church of Humanity and help to rescue the people from idolatry.

Questions on the Lesson.

1. What do we see in the character attributed to God? 2. Who should we condemn for God's wicked nature? 3. How did God come to be a woman hater and enslaver? 4. Describe the process of making the masses believe in the enslavement of women and perpetuating that slavery? 5. Who's will were the people doing? 6. Do God-creators use the same tactics now? 7. How are the people fooled by them? 8. When they tell us what God wishes what pronoun should they use? 9. In quoting God's wishes from the bible whose wishes should we remember they are? 10 Commit Gen. 3, 16 to memory. 11. Are those the decrees of God? 12. Why not? 13. What two classes use them as a pretext for the enslavment of womanhood? 14. Whose decrees are they? 15. Why were they put into God's mouth? 16. For what purpose? 17 When can the people be no longer fooled by such tricks? 18. What will decent men do then? 19. They will violate whose wishes by so doing? 20. What can you say of the practice of putting barbaric ideas into the mouth of a fiction God? 21. By whom should it be discontinued? 22. What is the effect of that practice on the people? 23. How thoroughly should the fountain head of idolatry be broken up? 24. What is the source of idolatry the world over? 25. Should people any longer believe in the existence of a God? 26. Name the church that teaches the scientific discovery that there is no real God? 27. What is he then? 28. He personifies what? 29. To free the people from idolatry what is necessary to be done? 30. Tell us how a good father in the morning of the Twentieth century treats his daughter to the best of his ability. 31. Illustrate the contrast between such a father and this barbaric God. 32. Describe how this barbaric Heavenly Father treated his daughter. 33. In what way does he treat her worse than the most loathsome vermin? 34. What took pity on her and gave her information at the risk of the vengence of this heathen God? 35. Did her animal companions love her more than her Heavenly Father? 36. How did he act when he discovered they had aided her in gaining knowledge enough to make herself an apron of fig-leaves? 37. How does he punish her for making the apron? 38. What exclamations of contempt should good people have for such a God? 39. Is this the god the Christians worship and want to force on others? 40. Is this the god they expect to protect their daughters and all women "from wrong and degradation? 41. Is not the very name "God" an emblem of degradation, slavery and debauchery of womanhood? 42. Would it not be more appropriate on the banners of the low and vile, on the doors of vice and corruption? 43. What effect should that one bible verse have on womanhood and cause them to do? 44. What should their love and worship of God turn to? 45. In the name of whom should men refuse to worship God? 46. Is it degrading to worship God and urge men to follow his example? 47. Does it not lower and degrade the standard of fatherhood? 48. How should we protect womanhood? 49 Is God what his creators make him? 50. What does he impersonate? 51. When you worship God what in reality are you worshiping? 52. In what names should the worship be stopped? How do other churches defame God? 53. How does the Church of Humanity defend him? 54. Who would worship a myth knowingly? 55. Why should you join the Church of Humanity?

The Church of Humanity.

The Church of Humanity demonstrates by a visible, tangible object lesson, the falsity of many theological assertions, teachings and theories, chief among which are:

1. That a negative cannot be proven—that no one can find out there is no God. The Church of Humanity has discovered the great scientific truths that God, Satan and Holy Ghost are fabulous beings, that heaven and hell are myths and that there is no resurrection of the dead.

2. That were it possible to discover there is no hell and no God to make one, the people are not strong enough morally to stand such truths. That they would retrograde rapidly into anarchy and barbarism, take a delight in robbery, murder and suicide. The 82 members of the church who have learned these facts do no such things, and by their continued good conduct prove all fears and theories of the clergy absolutely groundless. They are going ahead with the duties of life with as much energy, happiness and comfort as are their Christian neighbors. They are as good children, wives, husbands, fathers, neighbors and citizens as are their Christian neighbors and as they were themselves when they were Christians.

3. That people could not die peacefully without a belief in the existence of a God and immortality. The members of this church who have died knew to their last conscious moment that God is a myth and that life is extinguished forever at death, yet they died as peacefully as could any Christian. When false theories have been taught for ages people come to believe them so thoroughly that nothing but a practical demonstration can convince them of their erroneousness. The Church of Humanity comes upon the stage of action to prove by a practical objective proof that all can see that those clerical theories and teachings are absolutely false without a single exception. Many of our church members doubtless believed when they were Christians, as do most all Christians now, that those false theories as to their motives for doing good and being good were true. They now know they were mistaken then. They have learned that God is a myth like Santa Claus and that life is extinguished forever at death, yet they have no reasons to be foolish and wicked enough to commit any of the crimes and vices they had thought they would do if free from the fear of God. They find that the real reasons and motives for their being good citizens still remain and have not been impaired in the least by the discovery that God is a myth and that death ends all. They find the real reasons for being good citizens after all is not a desire to please a God or to escape a hell, but it is because they have no desire to do wrong knowingly. They simply have no more desire to rob, murder or commit suicide than they have to chop off one of their fingers. Those Christians who still may refuse to learn the truth about God through fear they will be unable to restrain their wicked natures when the fear of a savage God is removed, should reflect that they would not wish relatives, friends and neighbors to know they are criminals. They would not desire their freedom and liberty taken from them by being shut up in jail or a penitentiary. They would not desire to quit this beautiful world at the end of a rope or in an electric chair. So you Christians need have no fears you will be short of motives for being good even though God and hell are both elinimated from the list. The Church of Humanity is just the kind of a society that is badly needed to demonstrate by actual examples all Christians can see, that people can live and die in the knowledge that God is a myth, and that this life is all the conscious existence we have, and that such knowledge does not make bad citizens. Therefore, there should be, and must be as fast as possible, church members secured in every neighborhood as living and dying object lessons to the Christians that people can live and be good citizens and die peacefully in the knowledge this church teaches. Nothing else can, or will, ever convince idolators that a true knowledge of their idol is not detrimental to a good, happy, prosperous life and a peaceful ending of it. The clergy will not dare to tell the people to their face it is pitch dark when they can see the noon-day sun at the same time. They will not dare tell the people they would take a delight in all crimes and vices and retrograde into savagery were it not for their fear of God and tell when they can point to our church members all around them as perpetual proof that the clergy are mistaken. They will not dare tell them of the horrible death-bed scenes of remorse, fear and despair of those who have learned God is a myth, and death ends all when they have seen with their own eyes our church members die serenely, peacefully, calmly. So the good, moral and educational influence the Church of Humanity will have on Christians as object lessons cannot be exaggerated. The importance of all who have learned the truths this church teach unite with it is easily recognized, and they should one and all accept our sincere invitation to unite with it in fellowship, friendship and membership.

Same Old Trick.

When the state supports idolatry, idolatry is expected to support the state in time of need. "High Russian churchmen issued a manifesto calling on the members to protect Russia as the sacred home of Christ. Some of the Russian newspapers fear the result will be an incitement to the ignorant peasants to begin a war of extermination against the entire educated class. M. Onershkoyski, the famous Russian author, declares that to call on the faithful to fight with the cross to the last drop of their blood for the salvation of Russia as the home of Christ and to cut off the rotten branch is nothing short of a tocsin for a religious uprising, an appeal to the fanactical and the most uncontrolable of human passions. 'The fire once started' he says would produce a world of historic conflagrations, which neither the government nor the intellectuals can stop."

All this shows the danger to any government in harboring and fostering the worship of an idol. Ignorant people who have no homes of their own worth fighting for, can be changed into fighting demons by an appeal to save a home for their idol who, in this case, was a poor, ignorant fanatical Jew who has been dead nearly two thousand years and, therefore, needs no home. When they are once fired with religious fanatical zeal they will not stop with the slaughter of invading enemies of Christ, as their priests represents the Japanese to be, but will turn their swords on the educated class in their own country who know that Jesus was no God nor the son of one and therefore refuse to worship him. Thus the nations have been kept down to a level with the ignorant classes in regard to the knowledge of God through the slaughter or intimidation of the "intellectuals." This emphasizes the great necessity of forestalling religious massacres by teaching the people the facts about their idol in times of peace when the reasoning faculties are allowed greater freedom and isolated fanatics, who would murder a brother for not worshiping Jesus, are held in check by their more conservative neighbors. This is the correct psychological time to teach the christians in the United States the great scientific discoveries that God, Satan and Holy Ghost are fabulous beings, heaven and hell are myths and life is extinguished at death. To do this now will save the people from religious wars and massacres forever in this country. This work is of such vast far reaching importance that all the "intellectuals" in this country should join the Church of Humanity at once and help it to push the campaign of education to the utmost. Our liberties, property and, perhaps, our lives would be at stake if this educational work is not well advanced before conditions become favorable for a religious military crusade here.

Wouldn't Trust Their Idol.

The Catholic church at Paola, Kansas, was struck by lightning April 10, being the sixth time since it was erected in 1895. The loss was $14,000 but was fully insured. If those people would build a house and give it to a neighbor they would not insure it against his burning it down intentionally. If he did they certainly would never build him another house. But the poor dupes think that God burned down the house they sacrificed so much to build him yet they will endeavor to replace it with a better one in hopes of pleasing their idol next time. "What fools these mortals be."

It Don't Scare Us a Bit.

A little stamp with a red border, perhaps suggestive of flames, was sent me by a friend (?) with the following quotation on it: "The wicked shall be turned into hell and all the nations that forget God."—Ps. 9:17. My friend (?) should have sent this quotation to some fellow idolator. It is waste of postage to send it to a person who has learned the discovery that the "God" and "hell" referred to are myths—No. 1. On second thought it is best to send all such nonsense to those who have learned the facts. It wil do them no harm, while it might scare those who have not learned these facts, dreadfully.

Good News.

The administrator of Brother Long's estate, Mr. Thos. H. Wilson, informs me there is between $2500 and $2800 left by will to the Church of Humanity, which will be available in September or October. Now that will make us a fine nucleus for an endowment fund to insure our continuance in this educational work. This is a practical object lesson in the necessity of organization on our part. Without it there is no one to accept the donation of the living or the bequests of the dying to be used as they desire it to be That is the reason unbelievers in christianity like Mr. Carnegie gives his millions to the christian organizations. When we organize and get in a position to use money properly in our educational work it will be given us, and not before. We cannot organize without members, therefore all anti-christian papers should help to get their readers to join the Church of Humanity.

The Study of God

INTERNATIONAL LESSON

DAILY PROOF THAT THERE IS NO GOD.

OBJECT LESSON XVI.

[By the International Instructor for the Church of Humanity.]

Above the graves of our perished loved ones the Church of Humanity proclaims God a myth.

"God" is simply the name of a fabulous being as is "Santa Claus." He has no more existance or realty than has Santa Claus. To worship him is a heathan vice and should be regarded as a crime among civilized people. It is a crime against progress, civilization and posterity, and it will be prohibited in our public schools as soon as a majority of the Christians learn the truth about it. "Love is blind," and that is as true when one is in love with a myth as with a person. Hence the object of the God-makers in making love for him the first and greatest of the commandments is apparent. They wish to blind idolators with love to the real nature of their idol. As a basis for that love they are taught that God loves them. When we prove by daily objective lessons, which all can comprehend, that God loves no one, then the foundation on which love for God is based is removed and there is no reason left for loving him. The members of the Church of Humanity have learned that God is a myth and hence need no further proof that he loves no one since it is a self-evident fact. But these lessons are given for those who believe God is a real being capable of knowing and loving them, hence the necessity of proving to them by objective lessons they can see that God does no such thing. The proof of that fact is found in the horrible deaths of those whom God is said to love and who have been loving him under the false idea that he loves and cares for them. Statistics prove that sixty-five members of our race, on an average, die every minute. The clergy try to assure those who are left they are protected by the love and care of God. But that theory is proven false by two infallable proofs:

1. That those who were killed were as worthy of God's love and care as those who are left, and as God did not love and care for the unfortunate he could not love and care for the fortunate. That is a self-evident fact that all should be able to comprehend.

2. That those who escape through what the clergy claim is God's protection are killed a little later, hence could not have been saved until then through the protection of God since they are still as worthy of his love and care as before. Therefore, he could not have been the cause of their previous escape. That is another self-evident fact all should be able to comprehend. Conclusions based on this evidence are proven to be correct by the reports in the daily papers of the slaughter by innumerable ways of our fellow beings that could and would be prevented were there a God who knows and loves us. To save space I shall only reproduce the headlines, from newspapers of recent date, under which the sad misfortunes are given in detail.

HEADLINES—India shaken by earthquake, nine English and seventy natives killed. Man is killed by train. Slays mother with ax, then shoots father. Four trainmen killed. Finds bride a corpse. Mother and two children cremated in their home. Reservoir collapsed, 180 dead and wounded workmen taken from the ruins. Engineer killed. Mother burned to death. Five killed in mine explosion. Two men killed by Empire express. Cave-in in Arizona shaft buried four men alive and seriously injured five others. Seven men were killed in wreck and many more will die. Two men scalded to death while trying to rescue a third, who will die. Killed in battle of Mukden 55,000 Russians and 65,000 Japanese. Electrician killed by train. Three thousand massacred at Merkah by natives. Sixty entombed in Liter mine, only three men escape, no hope is entertained, terrific explosion just after cage was lowered. Boiler bursts in shoe factory at Brocton, Mass., fifty-five dead, forty three missing.

In the light of these facts God's love and care is not worth the snap of your finger. Love does not manifest itself in that way. We are told by the false churches that our "Heavenly Father" loves us so much more than any earthly father can do. Every one can see by the light of these facts it is untrue. That is a little word one is not often justified in using and should only be used where no other word will fit the case. But to make such an assertion of our "Heavenly Father" in the light of these facts, that all must see who read the papers, is a deliberate, willful untruth, unworthy of any clergyman who has a child he dare acknowledge. It is a libel on every father worthy of the name and should be resented by all true fathers, including the Protestant clergy. Name the father who, having ample power to prevent it, would allow his children to be slaughtered in the foregoing manner. Can you name one? If you can he is either an idiot or a fiend whom no one would love and respect, much less worship and live with. His Christian neighbors would mob him for refusing to save his children. There cannot be a double standard of goodness in this treatment of children requiring us to worship a heavenly father and mob an earthly father for refusing to protect their children. We must either praise man for refusing to love and care for his children or condemn our "Heavenly Father" for refusing to care for his. They must be put in line and the same standard of ethics required of both. Some modern God-makers recognize this necessity and make a desperate effort to create a good, loving, sympathetic God in harmony with our ideas of a model earthly father, and apoligize for, or overlook the savage nature given him by the bible God-makers. They are unable to do that and make it harmonize with the facts the headlines prove without divesting God of the attributes of unlimited power and wisdom assigned him by former God-makers. They have a very difficult problem to solve. If they create a good, kind, loving and sympathetic "Heavenly Father" they are obliged to divest him of both power and wisdom formerly assigned him, and he will thereby be disgraced in the minds of savages. If they retain in his make-up unlimited power and wisdom it is so out of harmony with the every-day facts here recited that they are obliged to divest him of love and sympathy and he is thereby disgraced in the minds of civilized people. God-makers will try to cater to both classes and fix up a God to suit each class if possible, though they be very dissimilar. The best way out of the difficulty is for all the God-makers to discontinue that art. It is a very disreputable, disgraceful and dishonorable business. It is an art that can well be spared, and should be allowed to become one of the "lost arts." It is infinitely worse than the "gold brick" swindle or the "green goods" fraud. It should be outlawed as are the other confidence games. Our children should be protected by law from being duped by it. The clergy and all religious teachers should be as much interested in this rescue work as any other class. Those who do not know God is a man-made character have themselves been victimized, and they should not only desire to be rescued but should refuse to be a party in victimizing others and advocate its prohibition for the sake of their children as they do the prohibition of other fraudulent devices. They can do this more effectually by uniting with the Church of Humanity, as it is the only attempt ever made to organize those who know the facts about God for the purpose of teaching them to others and thereby rescue them from the idolatry of worshiping man-made idols. It is as disgraceful to worship a mind-made idol as a hand-made idol, since the powers for which they are both worshiped are imaginary.

QUESTIONS ON THE LESSON.

1. What is the lesson about? 2. What is God? 3. Has he a real existance? 4. What can be said of the practice of worshiping God? 5. When will it be prohibited in the public schools? 6. What is said of love? 7. Is it true when one is in love with a myth? 8. Is that the reason that God-makers wish idolators to love God? 9. Why? 10. What is love for God based on? 11. When will the bases for loving God be removed? 12. Do the members of the Church of Humanity know God loves no one? 13. Why? 14. Who are these lessons prepared for? 15. Is it necessary to prove to idolators God does not love them in order to rescue them from idolatry? 16. Wherein do we find the proof that God loves no one? 17. How many of our race are killed every minute? 18. What do the clergy assign as the reason some escape death a while 19. Give the two proofs that this reason is false? 20. Are they self-evident facts? 21. What proves these conclusions true? 22. Read the headlines from the daily papers telling of the destruction of our fellow beings? 23. In the light of these facts is not God's love and care for us, the clergy tell us of, a myth? 24. Does love manifest itself that way? 25. What do the false churches tell us about our "Heavenly Father?" 26. How do we know it is untrue? 27. In the light of these facts should any one make the assertion? 28. Is it not a libel on fatherhood? 29. Should it not be resented by all fathers worthy of the name? 30. Would any father who could prevent it allow his children to be killed? 32. What would he be if he did? 32. Would any one desire to love him and live with him if he did? 33. What would his neighbors do with him? 34. Can there be a double standard for the treatment of children, one for God and one for man? 35. Should God be required to treat his children as a good father would? 36. What do some modern God-makers recognize and try to create? 37. Why are they unable to do that? 38. State the difficulty they have in creating a God to suit the two classes? 39. What will God-makers try to do? 40. What is the best way out of the difficulty? 41. What can be said of the art of God-making? 42. Should it be prohibited by law and children be protected from being duped by it? 43. Should the clergy and religious teachers be interested in this rescue work? 44. Why? 45. What church should one join who wishes to aid in rescuing the people from idolatry? 46. Why. 47. Why is it as disgraceful to worship a mind-made idol as a hand-made idol?

God-Makers in Conference.

"Washington, April 4.—At the Baltimore Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church today," says the New York World, "exception was taken to that portion of the report adopted yesterday stating it to be the general conviction in the church that 'a child is not born into the kingdom of God, but must wander among the swine and clash with the world awhile before being saved.' The Rev. J. P. Wright of Baltimore, moved to make the report say that a child 'is born into the kingdom of God,' and the amendment carried."

We see in this incident how the word of God is made by majority vote at a conference of clergymen.

They first had by their votes prohibited children being "born into the kingdom of God" and required them to "wander among swine and clash with the world awhile before being saved." As there are 70 children born to our race every minute, and one-fourth of them die before they are six years old and, therefore, not able to "wander with swine and clash with the world," this ruling would send them all to hell. How fortunate for these seventeen infants who die every minute that Rev. Wright thought of them and had them "born ipto the kingdom of God." He saved one-fourth of the race by that one master stroke. That is more than Jesus did in his lifetime. Those christians who cannot refrain from worshiping someone for "saving" them should worship Rev. Wright for "saving" all these children. But it is not necessary now to worship anyone for saving people from hell. The Church of Humanity has made the profession of saving people from hell a useless, worthless profession through its teaching of the great discoveries that God, Satan and Holy Ghost are fabulous beings, that heaven and hell are myths and the extinguishment of life at death.

Unite! Unite!

John D. Rockefeller on April 8 gave $100,000 to the American Baptist Missionary Union. Mr. Barnes, the assistant treasurer, said when asked if the gift would be accepted: "Most assuredly it will. As a matter of fact our union, to my knowledge, has received Mr. Rockefeller's check every year for twenty-five years, and there never had been any thought of refusing his gifts." In addition he contributes annually to the building need of the union and it exceeds this year those of former years. He is a Baptist, but does not confine his gifts to that denomination. He recently gave $100,000 to the American Board of Foreign Missions (Congregational). He gives perhaps enough to maintain several hundred missionaries in foreign lands to induce those people to substitute the christian's idol for the one they worship. He gives these great donations because he was raised in a church that believed in organization and in teaching its belief to others.

Mr. Andrew Carnegie pledged $1,000,000 to a fund of $25,000,000 for superanuated Methodist preachers at the new England Methodist Conference in Melrose, Mass., April 8.

These are illustrations of what the millionaires are doing to aid in propagating idolatry. It is said Mr. Carnegie is not a believer in the christian religion, but what do the clergy care for that so long as they get his liberal donations? How could the innocent children who are made idolators with the money know the donors are imposing a vile superstition on them that they themselves disbelieve? These millionaires believe in winning the smiles and praise and toleration of organized society. They would give as liberally to the Church of Humanity were our membership counted by millions. Many of them would have been raised in this church had it been organized many years ago as it should have been, if there were any who knew the facts it teaches. Now that the facts about God are definitely known why not all editors and writers who know them unite in the Church of Humanity and induce their readers to do the same? If we cannot win the financial support of the millionaires in aid of our cause why not organize to win the support of their children or grandchildren? If we will organize and get Sunday schools established with hundreds and thousand of children in them learning the truths we teach, some of them will be millionaires and will aid the Church of Humanity as liberally as idolatrous churches are now aided by millionaires. If we had $1,000,000 we could soon put fifty missionaries to work saving the people from idolatry by teaching them the truth. The millionaires will not aid us until we organize a strong society. Then let us Unite! Unite!

Take One or the Other Out.

The teaching of geologists and God-makers are both allowed in our public schools. They disagree as to the age of the earth. They can't both be right. Take the false one out. We should not be taxed to perpetuate mistakes. Our children have enough to do to learn the facts. According to the cronology of God-makers the earth is only 5,909 years old. An account of the finding of a giant fossil bison that lived 25,000 years ago is given in the Kansas City World. It says in part: "By scientific calculation it is estimated that this bison lived 25,000 years ago. This is known by the mortar bed formation from which the fossil was taken. A stone arrowhead, such as was used by the natives at that time, was found lodged beneath the left shoulder blade of the animal." If the geologist who made this "scientific calculation" that proves the earth to be at least 25,000 years old is giving us the facts, then the God-makers who have a bible showing the earth to not be one-fourth that age have no moral right and should have no legal right to impose their false bible and their false teaching on the students. This account seems to prove that man was a mighty "lord of creation" more than nineteen thousand years before God-makers had set their myth at creating things, including a mud man.

Join the Church of Humanity and help to make us strong enough numerically to drive the false teachers out of the public schools by force of numbers.

Very Important.

The indications are that someone, or more, are trying to influence the postal authorities at Washington to deny the C. E. & G. D. the use of the mails at second class rates, which would cause its suspension if they are successful. I have received a letter from Edwin C. Madden, third assistant postmaster general, Washington, D. C., setting 2 p. m., May 10, for a hearing to show cause why the authorization for admission of the Christian Educator and God's Defender as second class of mail matter should not be revoked. It is claimed we have not a legitimate list of subscribers. To save the paper for the educational work we are doing through it from suspension by the postal authorities we must convince them we have a legitimate list of subscribers. To do this the subscribers, church members and friends of our cause must aid me at once, without delay. Here is the plan to follow in aiding at once to save our church organ: I authorize the church member and subscriber to act as agents in securing subscribers, and will allow them 60 per cent on all subscriptions, at the regular price of 25 cents, they can secure and send in before May 5. Send me 10 cents for each subscription and keep the balance. Renew your own subscription at same price, 10c, for another year. When you have all the subscribers you can secure make out a list of them on a postal, or letter, stating they are subscribers to the Christian Educator and God's Defender and mail it to Edwin C. Madden, Third Assistant Postmaster General, Washington, D. C., in time to reach him before May 10. Friends, give this aid at once else the enemies of the Church of Humanity and truth will overthrow us through their influence through the postal authorities. PLEASE AID THE CHURCH OF HUMANITY NOW.

To Our Class, Attention.

I have received a letter from Hon. Edwin C. Madden, Third Assistant Postmaster General, Washington, D. C., notifying me that I will be granted a hearing at his office at Washington, Wednesday, May 10, "to show cause why the authorization for the admission of the C. E. & G. D. to the second class of mail matter should not be revoked and why the third-class rate of postage should not be charged for the transmission of that publication in the mails upon the following grounds: The list of persons to whom the publication is sent as to subscribers is not a 'legitimant list of subscribers' as required by law." The Church of Humanity raised the money to pay me for sending our church organ to you. In this plan of teaching the great discoveries we have learned we are following the precedent of the "Appeal to Reason" and think we are within our legal rights to do so. However, if the postal authorities think otherwise that will be final and we would be obliged to pay postage at third class rate. This we will be unable to do and will be obliged to discontinue sending the paper to you. The postage cost of mailing 5,000 copies at the second class rate is only $1.50, or one cent a pound in bulk, while at third class rate it would be $50.00, besides the trouble of placing a one cent stamp on each copy. I would be willing to do the extra work but the church is not strong enough to bear the additional expense. Now, this or the next issue may be the last the church will be permitted to donate to you. I shall be very sorry if it is, as I believe the discoveries we are teaching are the greatest that have ever been made and the teaching of them to you of the greatest importance. I think it would take five years' hard study on your part to learn these discoveries and many of you could not learn them in that time. I would be greatly pleased to donate my services free of charge to you in teaching you these discoveries, but will be unable to do so if the ruling is against us. Now you should be as much interested in learning these discoveries as I am. Being honest and sincere and having no desire to intentionally deceive the people by teaching them untruths that make idolators of them, and having a desire to know the facts yourselves, as a large majority of you must have, I suggest each of you send me a dime for another year's teaching. You will not miss that and it will enable me to keep you on the mailing list should the authorities prohibit the church's donation to you. Please inclose a dime or 5 2-cent stamps to me for a year's subscription to the C. E. & G. D. before May 5.

Yours sincerely,
W. H. KERR.

My hope is stronger than ever before that some of the anti-Christian publications, if not all, will join us in the near future in advocating organization of all students of that class of literature who have learned that God is a myth. The reasons why they should unite with the Church of Humanity and organize one grand educational campaign are irresistable and none should try to resist them.

The Study of God

BIBLE LESSON NO. 14.

GOD'S CREATORS MAKE OF HIM A DETESTABLE FIEND WHOM NO CIVIMIZED MAN SHOULD RESPECT UNTIL HE LEARNS HE IS A MYTH.

Nobody who knows that Santa Claus is a myth finds any fault in him. First, because he is a good myth; second because all adults knows he is a myth. Only children who have not unlearned the lies about him can hate him for not bringing the toys they wished for. So it is in our relation to God. No one can hate him when he learns he is a myth like Santa Claus. We can only deplore the ignorance and superstition that seeks to compel us to worship a myth or would silence us while our children are being compelled to worship it.

God's creators have aided in his final overthrow as an idol of worship by attributing a savage, fiendish unreasoning nature to him.

Like the germs of death in every organized life this myth-God had the death germs implanted in his nature by his creators. His very creators are the ones who are responsible for his final dissolution as an idol of worship. As men become really civilized they will gradually become conscious of the fact that it is wrong to worship and glorify a lying God, a cursing God, a woman enslaving God, a sorrow inflicting God, a cruel God who produced thorns and thistles to spite his children. Those are the qualities given God by his creators in order to cause savages to fear and worship him. But those very qualities will cause civilized men to refuse to worship him. His creators were building an idol for savages to worship. They did not suspect that the posterity of the savages would ever become civilized. They did not know civilized man would not be pleased with the savage nature given God that so much pleased savages. Hence they gave God a nature that pleased savages but alienates civilized man.

The savages and the ignoramuses think the kings can do no wrong, or that every thing they do is right, no matter how cruel or atrocious it is. The same two classes think the same of God. Civilized and intelligent men hold kings strictly accountable to moral ethics and that good behaviour they exact from the most humble subject. They are even more exacting in the good conduct of rulers than in that of the lower classes since they have better environments. So in regard to God. His creators made him master of his environments and consequently they should have created him a perfect character. They should not have left a shadow of a trace of hatred, spite, anger or revenge in his makeup. They gave him power and wisdom to make no mistake, and the ability to instantly correct it had he made one, without the manifestation of anger. In their desire to overawe their fellow savages with God's magnificence his creators gave him unlimited wisdom and power over nature. That is the undoing of this myth-God. Instead of making use of that wonderful power, after failing in his wisdom attribute, to correct his creation mistake by creating another mud-man and rib-woman, how does he act? Let the book to which the God-myth has been fastened, as its producer, explain:

Gen. 3:17.

17. And unto Adam he said, because thou hast harkened unto the voice of thy wife, and hath eaten of the tree, of which I commanded thee, saying, Thou shalt not eat of it: cursed is the ground for thy sake; in sorrow shalt thou eat of it all the days of thy life.

18. Thorns also and thistles shall it bring forth to thee; and thou shalt eat the herb of the field;

19. In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread, till thou return unto the ground; for out of it wast thou taken: for dust thou art, and unto dust shalt thou return.

Those who are made of the stuff slaves are made of will worship this man-made God to whom these decrees are attributed. They will thank and praise him for cursing the ground for their sake, and curse all who refuse to join with them. They will sing hymns of eulogy and flattery to him for giving them thorns and thistles in place of corn and wheat and abuse all who refuse to do so. They will write and preach of the goodness, kindness and sympathy of him for decreeing that they shall return to dust, and promptly consign every one to hell who refuse to be elated with joy over these decrees. Those who are made of the stuff free men are made of will declare their independence of this man-made God and swear by the eternal freedom they hope for their posterity they will never bend the knee in homage to this ground-cursing God. By the great labor saving inventions they will never bow the head in prayer to this thorn and thistle producing God. By the beautiful light of science they will never allow their children to worship this sweat shop God. By the great discovery that God is a myth they will do all in their power to rescue the people from idolatry of worshiping this imported heathen idol.

Read those decrees of your "Heavenly Father" again and think if an earthly father could not have treated those two children better had they been his—and he endowed with infinite wisdom and power.

Every father, worthy to be called such, treats his children better without infinite wisdom and power than this fictitious God did with them. If that is the best example God could give us as the result of infinite wisdom and power, we should all be glad our fathers did not have those powers. We disobeyed them many times, yet they never gave us such inhuman, fiendish punishments as this Divine Father gave his children. We would not have loved and respected them had they done so. We should not love and praise this "Heavenly Father" for conduct we would condemn in an earthly father. The good earthly father should be our ideal and we should repudiate this Heavenly Father as being unworthy of respect and emulation, much less praise and worship. Why should the clergy continue to abuse our loving, devoted earthly fathers and gloryfy this imported barbaric idol from a heathan land and age?

They tell us God has never repented of these wicked decrees against Adam and that we, as his posterity, still suffer the same penalties as he did for his disobedience. What an idiotic, barbaric injustice! All partially civilized countries have outgrown the heathen idea that children should be punished for the crimes of their parents. What in the name of sanity had we to do with Adam harkening unto the voice of his wife and taking a bite of the tree of knowledge? Every sane man and woman should refuse to worship and praise such a wicked man-made God, and have no desire to live with him or to have anything to do with him, but to learn the discovery that he is a myth and then join the Church of Humanity and help to teach that discovery to the world. According to the book of fables, named bible, it is about 6,000 years since this fiction God made these decrees. Why don't some God-creators have him repent of his wicked decrees and take us all back into the Garden of Eden and repeal the Divine curses placed on the ground and on Adam? Is not 6,000 years long enough for a Heavenly Father to nurse his Divine Hatred for his children because Eve stole an apple from him whom idolators say sees everybody all the time?

After all it is God who needs repentence and forgiveness from man for his wickedness. As he is a myth he can't repent, but all who learn that discovery freely forgive him for all his crimes of omission and of commission against our race for all time.

Had an earthly father passed such wicked decrees on his children he would have repented before six months and revoked them.

There are some things we should note particulary before leaving these decrees. God's ancient creators did not put a word in his mouth about a resurrection, or immortality, or repenting, or going to heaven or to hell. All these things have plainly been concocted by later priestly God-creators. The ancient God-creators had him inflict all his punishments in this life and then consign man to eternal dust. The fabulist stumbled onto the truth when he put in God's mouth "and unto dust shalt thou return." That is in line with modern science and the teaching of the Church of Humanity. But it is not on account of a decree of a myth-God. It was true before the age that God-creators appeared.

Again, this bible God-creator does not have him in this case extend the punishments to Adam's posterity after all. There is not a word in these decrees to indicate the punishment administered to Adam was to be extended to his posterity. The "original sin," "total dapravity" and God's curses on idolators on account of a supposed relation to a myth-man are all plainly devised by later God-creators.

Here is a myth-God punishing individuals for what he thought was the greatest crime—disobedience. He has not required any one to worship him, or pray to him, or sing hymns of flattery to him, or believe in the coming of Christ, or in anything else. He only required obedience. When his children failed in that he punished them. But not a word did he say to them about repenting and asking for forgivness; not a word about "believe or be damned;" not a word about sending them to hell; not a word about punishing their posterity for their disobedience; not a word about them ever having immortality to lose. All these ideas and many more have evidently been added by later God-makers. It is as wicked to lie about God as about a fish catch. The original God-makers made him bad enough and all later priestly mistakes that make him still more wicked and detestable should be unceremoniously thrown overboard, even by Christians. But all mistakes and incapacities attributed to God by his creators are freely forgiven him by the Church of Humanity. It promulgates the great discovery that he is a myth like Santa Claus, and hence is guiltless of all the inhuman crimes and vices charged to him by ancient and modern God-creators. If you believe in justice to God join the Church of Humanity and help to defend him. He should have millions of defenders to counteract the false teaching of the millions of his defenders.

QUESTIONS ON THE LESSON.

1. What is the lesson on? 2. Do people find fault with Santa Claus? 3. Why not? 4. Who could find fault with him? 5. Can any one hate God when he learns he is a myth? 6. What do we deplore? 7. Who have aided in the overthrow of God as an idol of worship? 8. In what way have they done this? 9. What will men become conscious of as they become more civilized? 10. What is God charged with doing that make it improper to worship and glorify him? 11. Why did his creators give him that nature? 12. Does it cause civilized man to worship him? 13. Whose worship was God created for? 14. Did the God-builders ever expect the people to become civilized? 15. Did they know civilized man would not be pleased with the savage nature of a God that pleases savages? 16. What do savages and ignoramuses think of kings? 17. Do they think the same of God? 18. Do civilized men hold rulers accountable to moral ethics? 19. Should God's creators have given him a perfect character? 20. Why? 21. What should they have omitted in his makeup? 22. Why? 23. Why was God given supreme power and wisdom by his creators? 24. Was that God's undoing? 25. With perfect power and wisdom could he not have created a perfect man? 26. To what book has the God-myth been fastened as its producer? 27. Read the bible verses that decrees Adam's punishment because he hearkened unto the voice of his wife. 28. How will slaves act towards this man-made-God? 29. How will free men act towards this God? 30. Do not earthly fathers without infinite wisdom and power make a better success caring for children than a fictitious God did with them? 31. If the possession of infinite power and wisdom causes such failures as God made in caring for children, should not we be glad our fathers did not possess those powers? 32. Do fathers treat their children as cruelly as God treated his? 33. Would their children love them if they did? 34. Should we love and worship a Heavenly Father for conduct we condemn in an earthly father? 35. Is a good earthly father a better ideal father than God? 36. Should the clergy continue to abuse our fathers and glorify God? 37. Have God-creators ever made him repent for the punishment he decreed for Adam? 38. Do the clergy teach that God punishes us for Adam's disobedience? 39. Is it justice to punish children for the crimes of their parents? 40. Should any one desire to worship God or to live with such a being? 41. What is our duty to God? 42. About how long ago is it since the incidents in this fable are supposed to have happened? 43. Would a real live God hate his children that long because the first one disobeyed? 44. Is it not God who should repent and ask forgiveness of man for his wickedness were he a real being? 45. Why don't he? 46. Why do we freely forgive God of all crimes charged to him? 47. Contrast the teaching of this bible God-creator with the later teaching of God-creators and point out wherein they differ. 48. What fact does the fabulist put in God's mouth that is taught by the Church of Humanity? 49. Was that true before the time of God-creators? 50. Do these decrees of punishment for Adam extend to his posterity? 51. Contrast the requirements of modern God-creators of idolators in their duties and attitude to God that the bible God-creator does not require. 52. Is it reprehensible to lie about God? 53. Should modern God-makers make him more detestable than the ancients did. 54. What should Christians do with these later priestly mistakes about God? 55. What church freely forgives God for all the crimes and mistakes charged to him by his creators? 56. What does it teach about God? 57. If you believe in justice to God what church should you join and aid? 58. Why should he have millions of defenders?

Devoted to Teaching the Discovery that God is a myth like Santa Claus and to Founding the Church of Humanity.

The Church of Humanity.

The Church of Humanity is the name under which those are uniting into one compact society who have learned the great scientific discovery that God is a fiction-made character like Santa Claus. They are thus uniting for the purpose of accomplishing the object and fulfilling the demands through a united effort that they as individuals are powerless to secure. Among the long felt wants that are to be accomplished through organization are: First, a bond of union and sympathy, companionship and friendship, and of mutual protection and defense among those who have learned this discovery. Second, the establishment of a uniform affirmative system of teaching this discovery through schools and instructors provided for that purpose.

Third, the establishment of local church societies for the benefit of the members and their families where good moral ethics are taught in connection with this discovery about God, and the latest discoveries in all branches of science. The many letters that come to my desk from those of all grades of Christian knowledge and temperament, as well as those from people who have outgrown Christianity, through a knowledge of the errors on which it based, put me in a position to know the needs and requirements of both parties. To illustrate my meaning I shall here introduce sample letters from Christians indicating their needs and dispositions and how we must prepare to meet them. The editor of "Primitive Monitor and Church Advocate," of Greenfield, Ind., writes:

Dear Sir: You have been sending me your paper for some time. You talk much about your late discovery, but never tell how or where you made it; how you know there is no God and no devil. Solomon said, "The fool hath said in his heart there is no God."

In the last issue of your paper you ask 58 questions on the last page and 47 on the second page, but you answer none of them. How did you learn that God is a myth? Who told you so? You should prove what you assert. You remind me of a man that would tear my house down when it is 40 degrees below zero just because you did not like the way it was built and leave me to perish in the cold.

If you do not like the house I live in, then build me a better one and I will gladly change.

The Bible is God's book and it can not be impeached. It tells us of the only true God and our blessed Savior.

You can publish this if you want to.

Yours in hope of eternal life.

R. W. Thompson.

This letter indicates the Christian gentleman who is guided by reason in the best light and logic he has.

He is not afraid to read and hear the other side like a true juryman. He is open to conviction; susceptible to argument, reason, evidence, proof. He will stop teaching and practicing idolatry when he is convinced by proof that it is such, and that God is a fiction-made character. We owe all of our advancement in church and science and invention to this type of men who back up and support the pioneers in every line of progress with the encouraging words, "build me a better one and I will gladly change."

There is only one type of man and woman to whom we owe more and that is the pioneers themselves who will bravely endure the "40-degrees below zero" while they build the new. But their heroic sacrifice would be in vain did not this second type follow up then and occupy advance position when it is prepared for them.

The duty of the Church of Humanity to this man, who, I am glad to know, represents a very large per cent of the members of all mistaken Churches, is quite plain. Before that type can come to us we must build and furnish the new mental home for them. That means we must have a church organization more numerous and wealthy and popular than the one they are members of. We must have more. We must have schools and instructors, text books and a regular system of teaching that will meet every requirement, every question these people advance in a straight forward manly way. We must deal with their intellects and reasoning faculties and satisfy them with positive proof they can understand that their church is based on error and that ours is based on fact. Above all, we must treat them with the kind, considerate respect due ladies and gentlemen of the highest order. I would be glad to know we are making our sacrifices for only such people as these. But I turn with sorrow and regret to another type that must be dealt with in quite a different manner.

On the margin of a returned paper is this message: "Could'n't expect any thing better of a cur." No name signed, perhaps he is ashamed of it himself.

On another returned paper is this significant message that smacks of the infamous Spanish Inquisition: "Keep your paper, I would stop you sending it through the mail if I could." No name signed, he too may be ashamed to own it. If he is there may be a little hope for him since he has the sense of shame to some degree. This type of Christians are ruled by prejudice and fear and hatred. They cannot be reached by reason, argument, evidence, or proof or anything else of an educational nature from our side. They shut their eyes and ears to our teaching. There can be no hope to educate that type, and they will use all their political power and physical power they can to prevent us teaching the better type of Christians. They are the legitimate fruit of the most ignorant and brutal teaching of idolatry of which the following letter from the president of St. Charles College seems to be a true exponent.

Sir:

'The Christian Educator and God's Defender' two copies of which were lately sent to our college is the worst rag of a paper that ever entered St. Charles College You, the editor, are spreading by your lying paper and propaganda the most fatal error that will poison the fountainheads and sap the foundation of this beautiful country. Those who have the power, should stop you in your impious work by cutting you off from all communication with your fellowmen. Anyhow I hope that you will not insult us any more by sending that paper to our College.

Charles B. Schrautz
Pres't.

This is the President of a Catholic College. I am glad to know he does not represent near all the Catholics in this country. They like members of other churches represent all degrees of advancement in the knowledge of God from this college president to members of the Church of Humanity. I am glad to know there are seven ex-Catholics enrolled in this church. They have learned the truth about God and are free from idolatry and the fear of this mythical God and hell. They rejoice in their freedom and the great truths they have learned. I represent them. They employ me to teach what they have learned by contributing to the educational fund. They wish others to learn the truths they have that they too may be free from idolatry. They have as much right to the use of the mails as the President has. But he does not believe any one has a right to live if he does not accept his teaching. He represents all that is brutal in idolatry. Reason, evidence, proof of our discovery can never educate him. He is proof against it. He will not give us a hearing. He represents the type of christians that established the Spanish Inquisition and maintained it; that burned Bruno, tortured Galileo and killed or imprisoned every scientist and discoverer for hundreds of years. They brought on the midnight of the dark ages that turned the progess of the world back a thousand years. They have tried to block the progress in the study of God for ages and forced their false ideas of him on every one. Shall these people who have not learned the truth be allowed to prohibit others from doing so any longer? Have they not kept the world on its knees worshiping their priest-made idols long enough?. Should not the intelligent classes who read and hear all sides of the question be allowed to teach what they have learned about it? Must those who wish to know the truth about God, and put in a score of years studying him from every viewpoint, be "cut off from all communication" with their fellowmen because they have made the greatest discovery of all the ages, and desire to teach that discovery to others and thereby rescue their loved ones from idolatry?.

The duty of the Church of Humanity is as plain in its treatment of this type of Christians as the other. Nothing but numerical power will convince this type of Christians that those who teach a new discovery should not be driven off the earth. They refuse to consider our evidence and proof. They can only think of meeting our claims with physical force to prove we are mistaken The sword and the torch have ever been their arguments to prove all scientific discoveries false. Nothing but numerical and financial strength can they comprehend.

Hence it is the duty of all who do not wish the worship of a priest-made God forced on their children by the public schools to rally to the standard of the Church of Humanity and make it strong enough to convince this type of Christians that we know enough about God to be tolerated.

Join the Church of Humanity and help to put it to the 100 mark for next month.

Every married man who does not want his wife to worship a dead Jew should take the C. E. & G. D. for her to read.

Every father who does not want his children to worship or fear a ghost in the skies called God should take the C. E. & G. D. for them to read.

Every clergyman who would rather teach the people truths than errors should take the C. E. & G. D. and post up on modern discoveries concerning God.

Every one who wishes the people freed from idolatry should join the Church of Humanity and prove to them that there is no God to object to them being free.

Will some millionaire please step forward and plank down the postage to continue sending this little missionary to our Christian classes as Rockefeller and others are aiding the Christian missionary work.

I have received many good letters for the experience meetings but have no room to print them. Guess we will have to get field workers to establish local churches where these experiences can be given personally. Who will do the field work as State Instructors?

Extract from an Encouraging Letter.

Dickens, Iowa.

Dear Sir and Brother:—

I am very much pleased to learn that our paper is progressing with a good prospect of winning the race. I think you have struck the right cord for a leader in the music of the gods and spheres, and hope you will draw a large church together for the good of humanity. I will help what I can.

Enclosed find one dollar to help along the cause. I am distributing the papers sent me. I think the C. E. & G. D. improves with each issue and wish I was able to send you $100., as did Bro. Long of Payson. I think your arguments are based on self evident facts, and you have the faculty of making everything so very plain that he who "runs may read" and he who reads runs no chance of being mistaken. Your coaxing winning way ought to win thousands to your standard when they realize that it is the only religious banner of truth now flung to the breeze. I feel sure that in time you will win golden laurels for your crown of reason and truth. With heartfelt wishes for your prosperity and happiness in this world I am your friend.

JAMES E. MILLS.

Note to the Teacher.

Great Bend, Kan., March 31, '05.

Mrs. Eva Clark:—I have learned that God is a myth and that therefore he has no son named Jesus or any other name. I do not want my daughter taught to worship myths. I send her to school to learn truths, not fables. By reading the bible, singing hymns of praise and repeating the Lord's prayer in school you are teaching idolatry to the students. I most emphatically and conscientiously protest against such teaching. If you are unable to teach them the truth about God, for the sake of impartial justice to the school patrons, please omit the religious exercises in school. I have as much right to have my conscience respected in this matter as you have yours.

I have spent years of study and much money to learn the truth about God, that I may know it for my own satisfaction and to be able to teach my children the facts. All that labor is being lost by you refusing to learn the facts, and forcing your idolatry on the students.

I have tried to teach you through the Christian Educator the truth about God so you would cease teaching errors and idolatry. You have returned my paper marked "Refused."

How can I protect my children from false teaching when the law compels me to send them to you to be taught, and you impose on them an idolatry that is not required by law in your capacity as teacher? How can I protect my children only by teaching the teacher the truth about God? If you refuse this teaching and persist in your false teaching how am I to protect my children from being made idolators by the public schools that should be non-sectarian? I hope you will reconsider this matter and either try to learn the truth about God or else treat all the patrons of your school impartially by omitting religious exercises in the school.

Yours respectfully,

W. H. KERR.

The public school is being turned into an inter-denominational school to teach the students the basic principles of the Christian idolatry and prepare them for membership in any Christian church from Catholicism to Dowieism.

From the primer class to the seniors, in every grade, the Christian mythology is inculcated. Hymns of praise and idolatry are taught. Bible reading and prayer to idols are required.

If I refuse to send my children to these idolatrous teachers the truant officers will compel me to. When I try in a manly way to teach the teacher the facts about God she refuses my services, though they are given free at a great financial sacrifice to me. If I appeal to the school board to have the false teaching discontinued, they have not learned yet that it is false and refuse my request. If I appeal to the courts for relief from the enforced teaching of idolatry to my children, the judges have never learned the discovery that God is a myth and they refuse my request. Here is a vile, degrading, humiliating idolatry forced on my children that I am willing to give thousands of dollars and the services of my life to prevent, but am absolutely helpless. These teachers, school boards and judges would advocate war and even engage in it before they would submit to have their children taught in the public schools to worship the God of any other mythology. They would call it a violation of the dictates of their conscience and would rise in mass to prohibit it. It is as great a violation of the dictates of my conscience to have my children forced to worship the God of the Christian mythology as it would be of theirs were the worship of any other idol taught their children by force in the public schools. I know Christians have always assumed that those who did not worship their idol had no conscience. But that is a grave mistake on their part. We have a conscience, and it is imperative that all who do not wish their children forced to worship idols by our public school teachers must unite in the Church of Humanity and defend the rights of their conscience. Our conscience has as much right to assert itself and defends itself as has that of the Christians.

What manner of men are you who will not unite with us to protect your children from the false teaching of idolators who force your children to worship idols? Unite with us in the Church of Humanity and help by the force of numbers to influence teachers, school boards and judges to learn the truth about God and to have it taught in the schools instead of the falsehoods they now teach about him that make idolators of our children.

Bible God-Makers Make Him Insignificant Compared to Modern Man

"God," is the name of a man-created myth like Santa Claus. He is not responsible for the weakness of body and mind his creators assigned him. No one knowing these facts can find any fault with God or hate him in the least. Only those who believe him to be a real being and this bible a true account of him can criticise him for not filling the measure of his opportunities. But to overthrow this myth as an idol of worship it is necessary to compare it to a modern man to show its insignificance by the comparison. If people must worship something on account of its power and wisdom then they should worship some modern

A Suggestion to the Church Members.

One brother wrote me he could not help the church financially on account of his crop failing last year.

Now I suggest that the farmers put in a larger acreage of their leading crops and set apart a portion of it, say one twenty-fifth for the Church of Humanity, and donate the proceeds to it. Members of Christian churches adopt that plan in some parts and it works well in building up their churches. They sometimes give as much as one-tenth to their church. Your church is greater than theirs. It is as dear to you as theirs is to them, and you should do as much, if not more, for it than they do for theirs. Laborers, teachers, clerks, and all who work for a salary could donate two weeks' wages a year to the church. Merchants and professional men could donate two weeks' income a year to the church. In this way you could all help to build up your church and not miss it. I am donating fifty-two weeks a year to the service of the church, besides some money. Is it asking too much of you to donate two weeks' service to the church in that way?

Raise Clubs—What to Do and How to Do It.

If Mr. Madden decides we can't educate the Christians by classes at the second-class rate of postage for our little educator, and no man with money cares enough for them to pay the extra postage, then let our friends raise clubs on the commission plan. Send for a bundle of sample copies, pass them around to your friends, ask them to subscribe, keep 60 per cent as commission for your trouble, send 40 per cent or 10 cents of each subscription to me. Of course you can give your friends your commission if you wish.

Follow the example of these brothers.

The Study of God

INTERNATIONAL LESSON

DAILY PROOF THAT THERE IS NO GOD.

OBJECT LESSON XVII.

[By the International Instructor for the Church of Humanity.]

Above the graves of our perished loved ones the Church of Humanity proclaims God a myth.

"God" is simply the name given to a priest-made character of fiction. He has no more reality than has Santa Claus. He is built up in the minds of children by parents, relatives, playmates and teachers in the same way Santa Claus is built up in their minds. They tell them what God says and does and his reasons for saying and doing things. In the building of Santa Claus in the child's mind as a real being the builders, excepting the children who have not learned the truth, are deliberately lying to them.

In the building of God in their minds they are telling untruths, but they are not all lying, because a very large majority of God-builders do not know any better themselves. Lies are untruths told knowing them to be such, while untruths are lies told not knowing them to be such. In building up Santa Claus in the child's mind the builders do not intend for him to remain there always as a reality. They would be ashamed of the child if when grown he still believing Santa Claus to be a real living being.

They expect the child to find out sometime they were lying to it. They place no prohibition on the child learning the real facts in this case. They offer no reward to the child for retaining the delusion, they threaten no punishment to the child for learning the truth about Santa Claus.

They do not hate, slander or abuse those who will not be a party to the deception. Neither do they poison the child's mind with hatred and fear of those who will undeceive it. They do not believe the earth will stop rotating, the sun cease to shine and the universe collapse if the child is undeceived and is taught the truth about Santa Claus by some one. Very differently the same builders treat the other myth, named God, they build in the mind of the same child. The two myths are exactly alike in the primary nature—purely mythical. While the one is universally known and admitted by adults to be a myth, the other is only now beginning to be known and admitted to be such by the very few. Hence it can by properly regarded as a discovery by them. So important is the discovery that it will necessitate the shifting of all religious and semi-religious societies and organizations to new foundations. Owing to such vast changes that must be made in societies to put them in line and harmony of teaching with this discovery it can be easily recognized as the greatest discovery made in historic times. It is indeed so great that it seems incredible to nearly all that it could have been made.

The attitude of the people to the myth named God must now be changed to that which they bear to Santa Claus. No adult should believe him to be a real living being, and parents should not allow their children to grow up believing it. It must now be considered a great favor by parents when some one will tell their children of this discovery concerning God and explain to them that God is simply a myth, like Santa Claus, having no existence whatever. It should be more disgraceful to be known as a believer in the reality of God than a believer in the reality of Santa Claus.

Owing to the many societies engaged in teaching the untruths about God that make idolators of the children, it will be necessary to organize societies of those who can learn this discovery for the purpose of teaching it to the children and thus save them from the disgrace of worshiping a myth. These societies will provide buildings, secure text books and employ instructors to teach this discovery in a systematic way the same as other branches of knowledge are taught. Every question will be answered satisfactorily and positive proof given in such a way that children can understand it.

In proving the discovery that God is a myth the same methods will be followed that are used successfully in proving that Santa Claus is a myth. These same methods applied to God proves him a myth as easy as it proves Santa Claus a myth, but they must be taught by organized societies to checkmate the influence of organized societies engaged in teaching errors about him.

The God-builders will be followed right up by by the truth-builders who will get in the lead as soon as possible. That is why all who do not wish idolators made of their children should join the Church of Humanity. It will take numbers to put the truth-builders ahead of the God-builders. If we get possession of the child first and build truth firmly in its mind we can defy all the God-builders to make an idolator of that child.

When a child is first truthfully told the story of Santa Claus and taught how children are deceived by lying Santa Claus-builders no one can fool that child. It will work precisely the same way with a God-myth.

To overthrow idolatry the truth-builders must organize and get into position to establish Sunday schools and local churches so they can have an opportunity to build up truth in the minds of children.

Here are the headlines of a list of fatal accidents taken from recent news items that would prove to any child five years old that there is no God and no Jesus in the universe were they rightly explained to it.

HEADLINES—"Six are dead in a wreck of a special," "Mother saw her 4 year old boy killed by cable car," "Ten miners drop to death in a shaft," "Two dead, two dying from asphyxiation," "Three instantly killed by powder explosion," "Thirty-five buried in ruins by earth-quake," "Four boys killed in fire panic," "A wreck kills five," "Many reported killed in a wreck near Vicksburg," "Laredo, Texas, wiped out by a cyclone, fifty people killed, immense cathedral destroyed," "400 killed and wounded in collapse of reservoir," "Child burned to death and mother will die of burns," "French mission in Congo wiped out and 4000 natives meet death in a battle," "Four children burned to death at Clarksburg, W. Va.," "Two children perish in fire at Ashland, Wis.," "Seven children perish in flames near Quebec," "Fourteen cremated in convent fire—one nun, nine girl pupils, four aged women."

Truth-builders could easily demonstrate to a class of Sunday school children by such object lessons as this, that can be gathered from the newspapers each week, that God and Jesus are myths and have no existence whatever. Hence it is as useless to worship them by prayer and hymns of praise as to worship Santa Claus in the same way. When these facts are placed before children by a truth-builder in the Church of Humanity and the inconsistency between them and the stories about a "Heavenly Father" and a "Jesus," told by the God-builders, explained to them there will be no question as to who they will believe. Our duty then to the children is plain and imperative. Instead of casting slurs, insinuations of weak minds and epithets at the children for believing the God-builders, as I am sorry to note some writers do, we must organize and provide buildings and employ instructors to teach them the truth. We were all children once. Our sympathies should be enlisted in their behalf. They have no way of knowing the God-builders are teaching them errors, if we those who know the truth, will not organize to teach it to them. Then the duty of all who believe children should be taught the facts about God and Jesus instead of being abused for believing errors about them should join the Church of Humanity and help to put it in a position to do the teaching.

QUESTIONS ON THE LESSON.

1 What is the name of this study? 2 What is "God?" 3 What myth does he resemble? 4 How and by whom is he built up in the minds of the children? 5 Explain the difference between lies and untruths. 6 Which is used in building Santa Claus and which in building God in the minds of children? 7 Explain how one myth is not expected to remain in a child's mind as a real being and how it is expected to learn the truth about it? 8 Explain how the other myth is expected to remain in the child's mind as a real being and the influences used to compel its retention there as such? 9 In what primary feature are the two myths alike? 10 Do many people know God is a myth like Santa Claus? 11 Can it be regarded as a discovery by them? 12 Explain the importance of this discovery and its effects on organized societies of a religious nature? 14 Why should it be recognized as the greatest discovery made in historical times? 14 Does it seem incredible to most people that the discovery is possible? 15 Should the attitude of the people now be the same to both myths? 16 Should any adult believe God to be a real being? 17 Should parents allow their children to grow up believing God a real being? 18 Should it be as disgraceful to believe in the reality of God as in the reality of Santa Claus? 19 Why is it necessary to organize societies of those who can learn this discovery to teach it to the children? 20 What will be the duty of these societies? 21 How will they teach the discovery? 22 What will be the method followed? 23 Will the same method used in proving Santa Claus a myth prove God a myth? 24 Why must the teaching be done by organized societies? 25 Why should those who do not wish idolators made of their children join the Church of Humanity? 26 Why should the truth-builders strive to get ahead of the God-builders in teaching children? 27 Can a child be fooled by the Santa Claus myth after it is taught the truth? 28 Can a child be deceived with the God-myth after it has been taught the truth? 29 To overthrow idolatry what must the truth-builders do? 30 Where will the evidence be found to prove to the children that there is no God or Jesus in the universe? 31 Read the headlines under which the cruel slaughter of God-worshipers are recorded that could not be were God a real being? 32 Could truth-builders easily demonstrate by this evidence to a class of children that God and Jesus Christ does not exist? 33 When the facts are placed before children and their inconsistency with false teaching regarding God and Jesus explained to them will there be any question as who they believe? 34 Is our duty to the children plainly indicated here? 35 Instead of abusing them for believing fables as some writers do what must we do? 36 Should our sympathies be with the children? 37 Have they any way of knowing the God-builders are teaching them errors if those who know the truth will not organize and teach it to them? 38 What then is the duty of those who believe children should be taught the facts about God and Jesus instead of abusing them for not knowing the facts about them? 39 Should they join the Church of Humanity and help to put it in a position to do the teaching? If you think it is, fill out the following blank application for membership in the Church of Humanity and return it to me. I shall then transcribe it to the Book of Life and send you a certificate of graduation in the knowledge of God, making you a life member and one of the founders of the Church of Humanity. Have all your friends and relatives you can influence send in their application too.

Who Will Pay the Postage for Their Education.

If some man with money who is interested in having this educational work continued will pay the extra postage, should Mr. Madden rule the paper out of the second-class list, I shall continue the work. At third-class rate of postage it means a one cent stamp placed on each copy sent out, or 12 cents postage a year per copy.

The postage on the paper a year to the class of 3550 we are educating free would be $426.00. Is there any man with money willing to pay that much a year to have this great class educated in the true knowledge of God? If not I shall bid them adieu.

people since theyare infinitely greater in power and wisdom than God's creator made him in the closing scenes of the creation fable.

GEN 3:

20 And Adam called his wife's name Eve; because she was the mother of all living

Idolators believe this statement to be God's; but it is untrue and therefore "God's word" is worthless. According to the fable Eve was not then the mother of anybody. All animal life existed including the human pair created in the first chapter that was commanded to "be faithful and multiply, and replenish the earth, and subdue it: and have dominion over the fowl of the air, and every living thing that moveth upon the earth."

If the clergy would put in one millionth part of the time and energy teaching the people the facts about God they use in trying to harmonize the many conflicting statements of the bible God-makers with eachother and with the facts as we now know them to be they would soon be freed from idolatry. The object of all teachers should be to help to free people from idolatry and not to make idolators of them.

21 Unto Adam also and to his wife did the LORD GOD make coats of skins, and clothed them.

What a heathen God! Is that the best he could do with all the power and wisdom assigned him? Why, any father in all partially civilized countries can make a better out at clothing his children than that. We should not worship God for his wonderful power and wisdom when every man we meet is so much greater than he. God did not know that his children needed clothing or how to provide it until they invented the art of sewing and made an effort to clothe themselves. They were not so cruel as God was and refused to kill animals for their skins for clothing.

So God brought death into the world himself and not Eve as we are taught by idolators to believe. The mythical woman should be cleared of this infamous charge and should be placed to the credit of this myth-God who, of course, did no such thing either. Had God been a real being instead of a creation of fiction he could have invented looms and sewing machines and every modern invention and art used in producing clothing and taught it to those children and not left them and their posterity without them for ages. Had the people never become wiser then God we would still be clothed with skins of animals. If you must worship God for his wonderful wisdom here displayed you should worship the inventors of looms and sewing machines as much more as modern methods of clothing ourselves are superior to God's method.

22 " And the Lord God said. Behold the man is become as one of us to know good from evil: and now lest he put forth his hand and take also of the tree of life, and eat, and live for ever:
23 Therefore the LORD God sent him forth from the garden of Eden to till the ground from whence he was taken.
24 So he drove out the man; and he placed at the east of the garden of Eden Cherubims, and a flaming sword which turned every way, to keep the way of the tree of life."

How little, mean and contemptible this fiction God is compared with a modern man.

Idolators place the blame for death being in the world on the disobedience of the myth-woman Eve, when the fable plainly indicates that there was no immortality intended by the myth-God. He had the tree of life, which alone could give immortality to those who partook of it in the garden. But it was never intended by the myth-God to allow his children to eat of it. So they never had immortality after all and there was no "fall" that "brought death into the world."

When the man got so far advanced as to dress up in a coat of skins all he lacked of being a God was to eat of the tree of life.

What a contemptible God to look like a savage dressed in a coat of skins! Not one idolater in a billion would recognize his idol and worship it if he met it on the street.

So God drove his children out of the garden through fear they would eat of a tree that would cause them to "live for ever" What a wicked malicious "Heavenly Father!" What a contemptible "Lord God" when compared to an earthly father who gives his last dollar, and makes a debt that will enslave himself for years to pay off, in an effort to prolong the life of his child only a short time at most.

How can idolators overlook these heroic fathers and glorify a myth who would not allow his children to live?

How can they believe this myth wants them to live forever with him in an imaginary world when he would not allow them to live with him in this world? He would not allow our ancestors to live with him in the garden of Eden forever.

If the posterity of those out-casts had any spunk they would resent the insult by refusing to worship and praise him or live with him in heaven or any other mythical place. They would not worship and praise and desire to live with an earthly father who treated them so shamefully. Why then be so infatuated with this myth-father? If we must have a double standard for the treatment of these fathers let us give the best treatment to the real one who can and not to the myth who cannot reciprocate our love and devotion.

Not for a warranty deed to the universe would a good father have the wicked disposition to treat his children as did this fiction God treat his.

This then is the heathen idol imported in the brain of our puritanical ancestors which had been forced on them by the sword of Constantine. This is the heathen idol said by idolators to have denied our ancestors access to the source of knowledge; prohibited them from acquiring eternal life and guarded the way with a flaming sword, and then drowned a world of their posterity for lacking in the knowledge he denied them.

This is the fiction-made idol who had his illegitimate son Jesus, crucified on a cross to save a few from the effect of his mismanagement when he could easily have saved all by allowing them free access to the source of knowledge and eternal life.

Give a good earthly father the power attributed to this fiction-God for ten minutes and he would make some radical changs in our environments. With one wave of his hand he would instantly banish sickness, disease and death forever. With one tap of his little finger he would instantly transform this storm-swept planet of ours into a perpetual summer resort. He would paint the withered cheek of age and sorrow with the eternal bloom of youth and joy, and along each one's pathway would be gentle zephyrs from southern seas and flowers forever in bloom. He would at once arise to the measure of his opportunities. He would make the fabled trees of knowledge and of life realities. With one hand he would pass the tree of knowledge to every being and ask them to partake freely thereof. With the other hand he would follow up with the tree of life and give all a perpetual lease on life. In short he would make all co-equal and co-eternal with himself. All would have unlimited power but they would have the wisdom to use that power rightly.

Contrast the use a good man would make of the power attributed to a myth-God to the use he is said to make of them and it makes God a contemptible criminal of the greatest magnitude for not using those powers to good advantage. He is represented as being it in his power to give knowledge to all yet refuses to do so preferring to curse us and send us to an eternal hell where he can take a delight perpetually torturing us for not having the wisdom he alone can give but will not.

Modern God-makers say he wants us to live with him in heaven, but the bible God-makers here tell, by inspiration from the myth, how he drove our ancestors from the tree that alone can give eternal life, and prohibited them from living with him forever in the fabled Garden of Eden. And this is the wicked man-hating God who has come down to us through the brain of our ignorant ancestors from a heathen land and age. We are under obligations to accept and worship this man-made idol of ancient savages.

My countrymen arise, and shake off the fear of this myth, refuse to be an idolator in this beautiful land and age, protect your children from the ignorance that seeks to enslave them to a wicked man-made God, join the Church of Humanity and make it strong enough to force the worship of this heathen idol out of public schools and let God come into our homes as does Santa Claus a harmless myth.

Idolatry cannot be checked without teaching the people the straight truth, about God. That connot be done without an organization to provide instructors and buildings for that purpose.

Hence the necessity of all who wish their children perpetual freedom from idolatry uniting to establish a perpetual society that will teach the truth about God until all the world learns it.

QUESTIONS ON THE LESSON

1 What is the lesson about? 2 What is God? Is he responsible for the nature assigned him? 4 Should anyone hate God for his wicked nature? 5 If he was a real being and the account of him true would there not be grounds for criticising and hating him? 6 What is necessary to do to overthrow this myth as an idol of worship? 7 If people must worship something what should it be? 8 Why? 9 Repeat what idolators say is God's word? 10 Is it true? 11 Why? 12 If the clergy would use a fraction of their time in teaching the truth about God they use in trying to harmonize contradictions of God-makers what would be the result? 13 What should be the object of teachers? 14 Read what a God with infinite power and wisdom can do when he engages in tailoring. If that don't make idolators ashamed of their idol what will? 15 Cannot any half civilized father or mother make a better out at clothing their children? 16 Should we worship a god when every parent we meet is greater than he? 17 Who first taught god the art of sewing and that his children needed clothing? 18 Was God more cruel than our ancestors when he engaged in the clothing business? 19 Who then brought death into the world? 20 Should Eve be accused of it any longer? 21 Had god been a real being what could he have done? 22 How would we still be dressed were we not wiser than god? 23 If idolators must worship some tailor should they not worship some modern one who is more proficient in the business than god? 24 Read god's account of why and how he prevented our ancestors from gaining immortality and living with him forever? 25 Was it not real mean in our "Heavenly Father" to not allow his children to have immortality and live with him forever? 26 Did this ficton god ever give or intend to give immortality to the myth Adam and Eve? 27 Was there any "fall" of man? 28 How near did Adam come to being a god "as one of us?" 29 Since Adam was so near like god when he learned "to know good and evil" and to wear a coat of skins would God's worshipers know him from any other heathen if they met him? Why did god drive our mythical ancestors out of the garden of Eden? 31 Does that demonstrate the wicked nature of our mythical "Heavenly Father?" 32 Contrast the treatment God gave his children to that of a good father? 33 Should idolaters overlook the virtues of a good earthly father and glorify the evil disposition of a "Heavenly Father?" 34 Should idolators believe a God wants them to live with him in heaven when he would not allow their grandpa to live with him in the fabled garden of Eden? 35 Should not idolators resent the shameful treatment their grandparents received at the hands of a mythical-god and refuse to live with him in a mythical heaven? 36 Would they desire to go back and live with a father who drove them away from home so they would and place "a flaming sword which turned every way" to keep them coming back to get medecine that would save their lives? 37 Which father should we love the most, the real or the mythical one? 38 Would a good father desire to have the wicked disposition assigned God? 39 Describe some of the wicked things this myth-God did and how he could easily have provided all with knowledge and eternal life had he desired to do so? 40 Describe how a good earthly father would use the power attributed to God? 41 In contrast to have a good father would use infinate power and wisdom is not God a wicked criminal unworthy of respect for not making better use of his powers? 42 Describe how he prefers to use them? 43 What is the difference in the teaching betweed modern and bible god-makers as to god's desire that human beings should live with him? 44 How has this man-hating god came down to this generation and and from whence did he come? 45 Are we under any obligations to accept and worship him? 46 Repeat the appeal to our countrymen. 47 Can idolatry be checked without teaching the people the truth about God? 48 Can that be given without an organization to provide instructors and buildings for that purpose? 49 Is it necessary for all who wish their posterity perpetual freedom from idolatry to establish a perpetual society that will teach the truth about God until all the world learns it? If you recognize this nacessity please join the Church of Humanity at once as it is being established for that purpose.

The Church of Humanity.

Some society should teach the truth about God. The Church of Humanity has undertaken that task. It is now definitely discovered that God, Satan, and the Holy Ghost are creations of fiction, that heaven and hell are myths and that death is the cessation of life permanently. People will continue to worship a dead Jew named Jesus and a creation of fiction named God until they are taught the truth about them. It is as honorable and as necessary to tell the truth about God as it is about other things. There cannot be an exception to the rule that it is best to teach the truth about the universe in which we live as science reveals it to us. Science has now revealed the truths that there is no God, devil, Holy Ghost, heaven nor hell in the universe. There are no schools or societies established to teach these most important truths. Hence the necessity of establishing them. These truths cannot be taught other societies and individuals without an organization for that purpose. Existing schools and colleges cannot teach them until a majority of their patrons and the teachers learn them, because as long as the majority are ignorant of them they will not allow them taught in schools they control. Existing churches and societies cannot teach them until a large majority of the members, officers and teachers learn them, because the teachers cannot teach until they first learn these truths, and the members will not allow them taught until they first learn them. If a clergyman learned these truths and attempted to teach them to his congregation it would dismiss him for heresy. If a member of a church learned them and told other members and the clergyman what he had learned he would be expelled for heresy. Hence the imperative necessity of organizing another society to teach these truths and into which the clergy and members of all other societies can come and be welcomed when they progress in the knowledge of God beyond their own societies. Other societies and organizations cannot come bodily over to the Church of Humanity; but any priest or preacher and his entire congregation can come and unite with this church individually as soon as they learn the truths on which it is founded. Then the priest or preacher can re-establish his congregation under the auspices of this church and teach it the truth about God to which it will gladly listen and pay him for delivering. While the older members would know the truths and would not need a teacher yet their children are ever coming on to be taught these truths, and many of them would find pleasure in attending these meetings as they do now in other churches, and find duties to perform as officers of the various societies needed and as under teachers. Through the establishment of this church the clergy can be given employment when they learn the truth about God and their services as teachers are therefore most valuable instead of being thrown out of employment as they are now if they learn the truth about God and are honest enough to refuse to play the liar and hypocrite.

The most intelligent Christians who learn the truth about God can now join this modern church and continue to be useful members of society instead of being forced to play the hypocrite in other churches in order to retain a place in society, or of backsliding and dropping out of church societies when they are really in a position through advanced knowledge and experience to render society more valuable services.

Those who never took an active part in church societies on account of being farther advanced in the knowledge of God than any previous church can now join this church and become valuable members of society as officers and teachers. Children can now be taught the true knowledge of God including all the fables about him in the bible without being made idolaters, and that is the crowning advantage of this church.

Never has there been in all past ages an organization that taught mythologies without the object of making the students idolaters. This church will teach the Christian mythology with the direct object of preventing its scholars of ever becoming idolaters.

As showing the composition of the Church of Humanity I shall state that of the 91 founders 46 had never united with any other church. The other 45 members have been drawn from sixteen Christian churches as follows: Roman Catholic 8; Methodist 8; Lutheran 7; Presbyterian 5; Baptist 4; Missionary Baptist 2; Methodist Episcopal 2; Campbellite 2; German Lutheran, Latter Day Saints, Methodist Protestant, Menonite, Wesleyan Methodist, Quaker, Deciples of Christ and Christian, one each.

This shows that the Church of Humanity is composed of equal numbers from the ranks of other churches and from non-church members. That is great encouragement and shows a general demand for an organization to teach the scientific truth about God which this church does. There can be but one truth about God, and that must be a universal, scientific truth capable of demonstration to all the people alike and of recognition and acceptance by all. Only a few have thus far learned that truth but it is their imperative duty to organize and get in a position to teach it systematically to others and thus eventually put an end to the idolatry of worshiping a creation of fiction named God and a dead Jew named Jesus.

The church invites all who have learned that God is a myth to unite with it at once so that organization can be perfected and its work enlarged. To join this church all that is necessary is to fill out the blank application in this paper or a written one like it, and mail it to the editor.

By return mail you will receive a certificate of graduation in the knowledge of God making you a life member and one of the founders of the Church of Humanity.

The certificate is printed on white paper in two colors with colored borders; size 8x10 inches and suitable for framing, and reads as follows:

"The Church of Humanity.

You are cordially invited to subscribe and get at first hands the teaching of the new church instead of depending on hearsay which may not be correct.

If you, reader, want the truth about God send 25 cents for it a year.

If you, reader, want an organization to teach the truth about God please join the Church of Humanity now.

Errors can only be driven out of the mind by driving truth in.

If children are taught the truth about God they will not be scared into idolatry by some Salvation Army lass who has been scared out of her wits by a raving evangelist.

If you are too far advanced in the knowledge of God to join any of the Christian churches you should join the Church of Humanity and be a useful member of society.

If you are a member of a Christian church and have mentally outgrown its heathenish creed don't remain a hypocrite nor backslide, but slide forward into the Church of Humanity where you can teach things in harmony with your conscience and your intellect.

The assertion of some that women and children keep up Christian churches is a mistake, except in the sense that one might say children kept up public schools.

Women and children compose the largest part of church congregations.

Men found churches, fill the pulpits, write the creeds, fill the principal offices, conduct and direct all business and furnish the money to keep the churches up.

If the men withdrew their presence and support from the Christian churches none of them would remain in business a year. Of course those churches are out of line with the intelligence of the Twentieth century, but for pity sake don't charge it to the helpless women and children.

It is folly to abuse Christian churches for not teaching the truth about God. In the first place they do not know the truth about him, and in the second place they are founded and organized for the purpose of teaching the ancient errors about him. They are as unable to teach the modern scientific truth about God as is a babe to teach mathematics.

The Study of God

INTERNATIONAL LESSON

DAILY PROOF THAT THERE IS NO GOD.

OBJECT LESSON XVIII.

[By the International Instructor for the Church of Humanity.]

Above the graves of our perished loved ones the Church of Humanity proclaims God a myth.

In presenting evidence that all can understand that proves that God is a myth we follow scientific methods of observation, experience and investigation that resulted in the discovery of all the knowledge possessed by man. Hence the truths we have discovered in regard to God are scientific truths or the revelations of science.

To prove God's existence simple assertions have been made without it being thought necessary to support them with proof. It is asserted by those who teach God's existence that he loves people; that they are his children; that he cares more tenderly for them than an earthly father could do for his children. In support of this claim they make other unproved assertions which they mistake for proof of the first. The clergy, evangelists and all religious teachers gather quite a list of cases where people were in smashups, storms and all kinds of catastrophies and did not get killed. They give as a reason for this that they were saved by the power of God and report how thankful they were to him.

All such cases are proved by observation and investigation to not have been the result of any care from unseen beings. Three facts observed prove that positively:

First. Others who were as worthy of protection did not escape.

Second. The same result of some being killed and others escaping is observed in cases of other animals of all kinds wherein no one claims that a God interfered.

Third. By keeping track of those whom it was said God protected we find a little later on meet as horrible a death as they escaped before.

These observations prove conclusively that the loving and protecting God the clergy tell us of does not exist. While the cases of temporary escape from danger of death does not prove the existence of a protecting God, the millions of people who did not escape that the teachers of idolatry overlook prove there is no God in existence.

These cases happen daily and should be continually called to the attention of the people, and their significance pointed out to them, until they fully recognize them as positive evidence that there is no God.

It is the duty and plan of the Church of Humanity to collect this evidence and to present it to the people as positive proof that God is simply a creation of fiction like Santa Claus and has no real existence.

This evidence is collected from the daily papers and is true as some of the readers may personally know it to be.

KILLED IN TRAIN WRECKS.

Five men killed in wreck at Casey, Ia., Oct. 31.

Twelve killed and forty-five injured in wreck at Sheffield, Mo., Oct. 30.

Ten killed, fifteen injured in a wreck at Scranton, Pa., Nov. 8.

CONCLUSIONS. Since no father would allow his children to board a train he knew would be wrecked and they killed were they on it is positive proof that the loving God we were taught to believe in does not exist.

Seven men killed and eight probably fatally injured in mine explosion at Bluefield, W. Va., Nov. 4.

COMMENT. A father would not allow his children to enter a mine when he knew it would explode and they be killed.

CONCLUSION. The Heavenly Father is a myth.

Seven killed in a cyclone at Mountainview, Ok., Nov. 4.

COMMENT. A father who had control of cyclones would not drive them over his children and kill them.

CONCLUSION. The God we were taught to believe existed does not exist.

Three of an exploring party of four that became lost in crossing a wide stretch of desert in Mexico starved to death.

COMMENT. A father with the ability to do so would go to his lost children and feed them.

CONCLUSION. The God we were taught to thank for our daily bread does not exist.

Five men, all having large families, were killed in a mine explosion at Hazel Kirk, Pa., Oct. 30.

CONCLUSION. This lesson teaches us that the God who takes care of widows and orphans we were taught existed does not exist since the best care he could have given these would have been to protect the husbands and fathers from destruction.

Two girl are burned to death in a flat in Lowell, Ind., Nov. 7.

COMMENT. A father would rescue his burning children had he the power to do so.

CONCLUSION. The God we were taught to pray to and beg protection from the fires of hell does not exist since if he did he would have protected these children from that fire as it was worse than hell-fire because that is not supposed to kill anyone.

Five missionaries are reported killed at Lienchow, China.

COMMENT. A father who wished something done and knew his children were unable to do it and would be killed would not send them but do it himself.

CONCLUSION. The God we were taught to believe existed, and who wanted us to induce all the world to worship him, does not exist, since he could do that service for himself in less time and with no danger to himself if he existed.

ATROCITIES OF RELIGION IN RUSSIA. The world is reminded of the religious frenzy of the Dark Ages when Christianity had supreme power in Europe by the Christian barbarism in Russia now. Within the last few weeks thousands of Jews have been killed and their property looted by the Christians on account of a difference in their religious belief.

COMMENT. A father would not allow his children to slaughter each other over the meaning of his orders to them but would state them so plainly in the hearing of all that all would understand them alike.

CONCLUSION. That Heavenly Father whom we were taught to believe gave us the Bible as his instructions to us for a guide in faith and actions does not exist.

If you, dear reader, believe the logical conclusions in this object lesson and have not joined the Church of Humanity please join it at once by filling out the following blank and return it to the editor. It will then be transcribed to the Book of Life as a record and a certificate of graduation in the knowledge of God, making you a life member and one of the founders of the Church of Humanity.

I guarantee that people will not become wicked on learning the truth about God, the predictions of the clergy to the contrary notwithstanding.

WANTED. Ten thousand people to become civilized at once by refusing to worship a creation of fiction named God and a dead man named Jesus, and join the Church of Humanity.

WANTED. The editor wishes to correspond with some lady or gentleman with ability to present the truths the Church of Humanity is based on, to the people from the rostrum with a view to permanent employment.

One party writes me that this paper will fail unless it "gives other churches hell." Now we have no "hell" and don't want any to give other churches or their members. It is teachers and text books they need. If our children were being taught mistakes in geography, geology and astronomy should we give them "hell" or should we provide them with true text books, schools and teachers? The Church of Humanity prefers the latter course. Other churches are teaching our children mistakes about God, Jesus, heaven, hell, and life. Now we propose to adopt text books, employ teachers and establish schools that will teach the truth about those subjects. Then send our children there to be taught instead of to the mistaken teachers. That is the civilized way of doing and will be effective.

The study of God was the last study left in the hands of the clergy but like their teaching on other branches of knowledge that was formerly left to them they were all wrong on that too. One by one all branches of knowledge were taken from the clergy as it was discovered they were not teaching the truth about them and placed in the hands of the school teacher.

Now the Church of Humanity takes the study of God from the clergy and places it in the hands of the teacher to be taught to the people with religion and worship entirely eliminated from it. It is found that the clergy is as badly mistaken in their teaching of God as they were in their teaching of geology and astronomy, and that teaching can no longer be left to them.

As the people gradually come to recognize the fact that the Church of Humanity is the only institution that teaches the truth about God, thousands of children will be intrusted to its care to be taught the truth about God. The church must arise to a realization of its duties and responsibilities by providing the schools and teachers.

The clergy and evangelists have a large list of accounts where people were not killed in disasters to rehearse to congregations to prove that God takes care of people. The erroneousness of their conclusions can be easily determined by applying the scientific method of finding out the truths of other things—by observation, investigation and experience. Just keep track of those people whom the clergy say God is protecting and you will find a little later on they are killed in a wreck or by some disease, or some accident which will prove that no God had anything to do with their previous escape

Kansas City, Mo. expected to telegraph $10,000.00 raised by subscription to Jacob H. Schiff, treasurer of the national relief committee in New York for the persecuted Russian Jews. Jews are persecuted by the Christians in most all European countries because they do not believe Jesus was a son of their tribal idol, Jehovah, or God. As a permanent cure for the religious persecution of the Jews and everybody else I suggest the Jews of America raise funds by subscription for the Church of Humanity to teach the Jews that their Jehovah is a creation of fiction and to teach the Christians that their Jesus is simply a dead man. That will stop the barbarous religious slaughtering in Russia for all time.

Don't Do It.

I have just received two letters from parties who apply the name of God to "nature," "love," and "good."

They say they believe in that kind of a God.

That is misleading, evasion and dodging the question to keep from making an honest admission that one is mistaken in thinking there is a God. It gives aid and encouragement to idolaters for they will say you admit there is a God and believe in his existence.

Advanced theologians are adopting that subterfuge and silly sophistry when driven by the force of Twentieth century intelligence to repudiate the Jewish tribal idol "Jehovah" that they had been worshiping. I hope none of the members of the Church of Humanity will be led astray by such tactics on the part of theologians. God is no part of nature or its manifestations,and no part of nature or its attributes or powers is God. So don't apply the name God to "love," "good," or "nature" for it would be as inappropriate as to apply the name of the other myth, "Satan" to them.

Let us all be honest with ourselves and everybody else by simply admitting we were mistaken in thinking there was a God and that now we have learned the truth that there is none.

When we become as determined to save our children from idolatry as the Christians are to make idolaters of them then we will succeed and not before.

Parents should unite with the Church of Humanity. Children should unite with the Church of Humanity. Everybody should unite with the Church of Humanity.

The Church of Humanity eliminates religion, peity and worship from the study of God as they have been eliminated from all other branches of scientific knowledge.

The Church of Humanity urges all parents who wish their posterity free from the heathenish idolatry of worshiping a dead Jew and an old Jewish creation of fiction named God to unite with it at once.

Who would have their children worshiping a creation of fiction named God and a dead Jew named Jesus when it can be prevented by placing in their hands "The Truth About God" which can be had for 25 cents a year?

Withdraw your financial support from the churches that make idolaters of your children through their false teaching about God and give it to the Church of Humanity that will keep them from idolatry by teaching them The Truth about God.

The Church of Humanity wants to get faculties to enable it to take care of and teach all children intrusted to it the truth about God that they may never become idolaters. All parents who wish that result should unite with this church now.

WANTED. The editor wishes to correspond with some lady or gentleman able to teach vocal and instrumental music suitable for use in public meetings of the Church of Humanity with a view to permanent employment.

Please send the editor 25c in stamps, coin or postoffice money order at once for your subscription to enable him to get second class postage on this paper. This is a sample copy and you may not get another copy if you are not a subscriber.

If you get more than one copy of this first issue it is to enable you to get subscribers for it. All members of the Church of Humanity and regular subscribers are authorized to solicit subscriptions for our church paper at 25 cts. a year.

The members of the Church of Humanity refuse to worship God and Jesus not because they are sinful, which the clergyman may assign as the reason, but because they have learned the facts that God is a myth and Jesus a dead man.

Brother Long is dead, but he is the most potent factor in the work of the Church of Humanity which he helped to found. His bequest has made it possible to re-publish its organ and to renew the church work with increased vigor. He has thus immortalized his name by saving the church at a critical time.

"Tokio, Nov. 14.—The mikado left today to pay a visit to the Shrine of Ise, where he will make a report as to the successful termination of the war with Russia to the spirits of his ancestors."

It is strange that such a sensible, practical people will lapse into such tomfoolery. Wonder if he will give them pointers on how to lick the spirits of the savage Russians.

When the people begin to be aroused to a realization of the terrible disgrace of worshiping a fictitious character named God and a dead Jew named Jesus then thousands of children will be sent to the Church of Humanity to be taught those truths that will prevent them from becoming idolaters. Then tens of thousands. if not millions, of dollars will flow to the church treasury for that purpose. The Church of Humanity must arise to fill the measure of its opportunities and responsibilities.

The Church of Humanity welcomes women and children to membership and urges them to unite with it, but since men have founded all the false churches they must found the true church. Women and children are naturally timid and can be excused for being afraid of a dead man named Jesus and a creation of fiction named God, but for a man to be afraid of such things is enough to excite both pity and contempt for him and makes him unworthy to be called a man.

We pay hundreds of dollars to have our children educated in other branches of knowledge, but they are still left idolaters when they get through. The Church of Humanity adds the study of God to the list of necessary studies of a common school education. It will teach this branch of knowledge and free all who learn it's teaching from idolatry and prevent all who are not idolaters from ever becoming such. Hence it should have the generous financial and moral support of all who wish such an organization established.

The greatest mystery to solve by the coming ages will be the question: "Why were the Americans, in the morning of the Twentieth century, so stupid as to believe the Christian mythology true and worship its fiction created God and a dead Jew named Jesus?"

Join the Church of Humanity and thereby put your record in writing that you were not one of the stupid class. The Church of Humanity will be one bright morning star of the Twentieth century that heralds the coming of that intellectual age when the world will be free from idolatry.

Through taxation parents pay out large sums of money to have their children taught the common school branches of knowledge. For food and clothing and books for the children while they are attending school much more money is required. They gladly do all this for their children that they may be intelligent. But that intelligence is offset largely by allowing them to be taught the idolatry of worshiping a dead Jew named Jesus and a Jewish myth named God. Parents can now greatly increase the intelligence of their children by placing in their hands the Truth About God which the Church of Humanity will furnish them for 25 cents a year.

On November 15th twenty-four Protestant evangelical denominations, comprising 18,000,000 communicants assembled in Carnegie hall, New York City, for the interchurch conference on federation. Now, gentlemen, the first business you should do is to send a delegation to learn of the Church of Humanity that God, Satan and Holy Ghost are creations of ancient fiction, that heaven and hell are myths and that death is the permanent cessation of life. Then agree that each of the twenty-four denominations represented will begin at once to teach their people the truth and rescue them from the idolatry of worshiping a fictitious character named God and a dead Jew named Jesus.

This is the psychological age and country in which to throw off the idolatry of heathenism. The Christians are too busy chasing the almighty dollar to take time to chase one of their number who refuse to worship a dead Jew named Jesus and an old Jewish myth named Jehovah. Perhaps though they are all getting ashamed of religious persecution. If they are it is the finest compliment that can be given their intelligence.

There is absolutely no law or organization to prevent Christians of every denomination joining the Church of Humanity.

This they should all do as soon as they learn this church is teaching the truth and not lead others, especially children, into idolatry by their example.

By working together in harmony in an organization the Christian churches are successful in teaching their children to worship a dead Jew named Jesus and a Jewish tribal idol named God. They also teach the children of our church members the same idolatry. We as a church and as individual members must do our duty by our children in teaching them the truth about God which alone can save them from idolatry caused by the teaching they receive from the idolatrous churches. So we must learn a valuable lesson from the Christians in uniting and organizing. While we have truth on our side they have a supurb organization on their side which more than offsets the difference between truth and error. Errors with organization can always win against truth and unorganization.

I guarantee the people, including our own posterity, will worship a myth named God and a dead man named Jesus until they are taught not to do so. It will take a strong, determined organization to do the teaching. Will you be one of the heroes?

The Christians are doing all in their power to get all children to worship a Jewish creation of fiction named God and a dead Jew named Jesus. That is pure heathenism of the first magnitude, but what are you doing to save the children from heathenism? Nothing but an education in the Truth About God can save them. Are you helping to the full extent of your power in that education? That education can only be given them through an organization for that purpose. Are you helping to establish that organization by having joined the Church of humanity and aiding it to win more members and a wider circle of readers for the Truth About God?

THE STORY OF CIVILIZATION IN SHORT CHAPTERS. Learn the Truth About God. Join the Church of Humanity. Help to get others to read and to join. Organize and incorporate. Establish schools and colleges to teach the children the Truth About God. Civilized.

The world is not in sight of civilization so long as it worships a creation of fiction named God and a dead man named Jesus.

I wish each church member to represent the church in his or her locality or city and solicit subscriptions for their church paper and members for their church. A bundle of sample copies of the papers and blank applications for membership will be sent them for that purpose on application. Don't fail to help your church as much as Christians help their churches. Then our church will win for it has truth on its side and that should be a good factor in our favor.

A Catechism
Of the True Knowledge of God By the Church of Humanity. No. I.

For the kintergarten class and beginners in the study of God.

I. GOD.

1. What is God?
God is a fabulous being like Santa Claus.

2. What is a fabulous being?
An unreal character in a fable.

3. What is a fable?
A story that is not true.

4. Is there any real live God then?
No, there is no God in existence.

5. Why do so many people believe there is a God?
Because when they were children they were taught fables about God for true stories.

6. How do children learn the fables about God?
They are told the fables while they are quite young and then read them in books when they get older.

7. Who tells children the fables about God?
Their parents, relatives, Sunday school teachers, priests and preachers.

8. In what books do they read the fables about God?
In the bible, catechisms, prayer books, hymn books, tracts, Sunday school papers, lesson leaves and school books.

9. Do the people who teach children these fables about God know they are only fables?
No, they think they are true stories

10. Does anybody know the stories about God are not true?
Yes, members of the Church of Humanity know they are fables.

11. What is the duty of the Church of Humanity?
To teach the children that the stories about God are only fables.

12. What are the seven great fables about God that are generally taught children while they are young?
The fable of creation; the fable of the garden of Eden; the fable of Jesus being the son of God; the fable of man's immortality; the fable about a heaven; the fable about a hell and the fable about Satan.

II. CREATION.

1. Where is there a written copy of the fable of creation?
In the Bible.

2. What does that fable say about creation?
It says that God made everything in six days and tells how he made them and on what days.

3. Is that a true account of the beginning of things?
No, it is not.

4. Why not?
Because God is a myth like Santa Claus and can't make anything.

III. GARDEN OF EDEN.

1. Where is there a written copy of the fable of the garden of Eden?
In the Bible.

2. What does that fable give as a reason for God hating all the people?
Because Adam and Eve ate some fruit of a tree in the garden of Eden that God told Adam not to eat of.

3. Is that the reason God hated all the people and punished them?
No, it is not.

4. Why not?
Because the fable is not true, and God is a myth like Santa Claus and can't hate nor punish anybody.

IV. JESUS.

1. Who was Jesus?
A poor, ignorant, deluded man who lived in Judea about 2000 years ago.

2. Where are written stories about him?
In the Bible.

3. Are those stories all true?
No, some are selfevident fables.

4. What are the leading fables about him?
Those that say he was the son of God; that he cast out devils, turned water into wine, made storms obey his command, brought the dead to life and did not stay in his grave when killed and buried.

5. How do we know those fables are not true?
Because there is no God to have a son, no devils to be cast out and water, storms and dead people cannot hear nor obey the commands of anyone. If Jesus is not a myth he had a father as other people have and when he died he stayed dead as other people do.

V. MAN'S IMMORTALITY.

1. In what book are fables saying God will bring dead people to life again?
In the Bible.

2. What do the fables say about dead people coming to life again?
They tell about a great judgment day that is to be in the future when the dead are to be called to life again to be judged and sent to heaven as a reward or to hell as a punishment.

3. Will God cause all that to be done?
No, he will not.

4. Why not?
Because the stories are only fables. Dead people can never come to life again, and as God is only a fabulous being like Santa Claus he cannot aid them.

VI. HEAVEN.

1. Where are the written fables about God taking people to heaven?
In the Bible.

2. What do the fables say of heaven?
They tell about people being taken bodily up to heaven, and that some people will be taken there after they are called to life again.

3. Will any body ever get to heaven?
No, none will ever get to heaven.

4. Why not?
Because the fables are not true. There is no such place as heaven. Dead people cannot come to life again to go anywhere. God is a myth like Santa Claus and cannot take neither live nor dead people anywhere.

VII. HELL.

1. Where are the written fables about God sending people to hell as a punishment?
In the Bible.

2. What do the fables say of hell?
They say it is a place of fire in which God will punish those he hates.

3. Will anyone ever suffer in hell?
No one will ever suffer in hell.

4. Why not?
Because the fables are not true. There is no such place as hell, and no such a being as God to make such a place.

VIII. SATAN OR THE DEVIL.

1. Who is Satan, named also Devil?
He is another fabulous being like God and Santa Claus.

2. In what book are fables in which Satan is mentioned?
In the Bible.

3. What do the fables say of Satan?
He is accused of being unfriendly to God and man and of trying to get Jesus to worship him, and getting into people and causing them to be sick, or crazy, or do miracles, or mean things.

4. Does Satan do any of the things he is accused of?
He does not.

5. Why not?
Because Satan is a fabulous being like God and therefore cannot do any of the things accused of.

6. Can you put in one declarative sentence what you have learned about God, Satan, heaven, hell and immortality?
God and Satan are fabulous beings, heaven and hell are myths, and the dead do not live again.

IX. THE BIBLE.

1. What is the Bible?
It is a book believed by some people to be the words of God and all of it true.

2. Is it the words of God?
No. God being a myth, cannot write nor dictate the writing of books.

3. Are all the statements in the Bible true?
No, there are many mistakes and fables in the Bible and we should not believe such no matter in what books they are found.

4. Should we believe in and practice all the things the Bible teaches people to do?
No, there are many crimes and vices and improper things the Bible teaches and approves of that we should not believe in nor do.

X. OUR CONDUCT TOWARD BIBLE MYTHS.

1. What should be our feeling toward God?
We should neither fear, love nor hate God, but treat him as we do Santa Claus becaus he is a fabulous being like him.

2. What should be our feeling toward Satan, or the devil?
We should neither fear, love or hate him because he is a fabulous being like God.

3. What should be our feeling toward Jesus?
We should have sympathy and pity for him because he thought he was laboring for the good of the people in saving them from the wrath of a God who does not exist. We should neither worship him nor abuse him but point out his hallucinations and errors that people of our time may be freed from the idolatry of worshiping him.

4. What should be our feeling toward heaven and hell?
We should have no fears of going to hell nor hopes of going to heaven because there are no such places in existence and when we die we will stay dead forever.

XI. OUR CONDUCT TOWARD THOSE WHO HAVE NOT LEARNED THERE IS NO GOD.

1. How should we treat those who have not learned the discoveries that God in a fabulous being; that heaven and hell are myths and that death is the end of life?
We should treat them kindly and place before them the evidence that prove these discoveries true and aid them in learning them and then urge them to unite with us in the Church of Humanity and help us to teach others these great discoveries and thus save the people from the idolatry of worshiping a dead man named Jesus and a myth named

XII. OUR MORAL CONDUCT.

1. What is our moral duty?
We should obey the laws of our land, uphold and support those that are necessary for the establishment and perpetuation of good society, and advocate the enactment of other laws that will tend to promote peace, prosperity and progress, and the repeal of the laws that are detrimental to these ends.

NOTE 1. This catechism covers the fundamental truths and teachings of the Church of Humanity and is easily comprehenden by older people who will teach it to the children at home and in Sunday schools.

NOTE 2. The teacher should be familiar with the principal Bible-fables on which the Christian religion is based, and be able to tell those fables in an interesting way to children, and bring the meaning of this condensed catechism to their understanding and comprehension by an elaborate account in detail of the Bible stories, ever keeping in their minds that the stories are only fables.

If you have children, and do not wish them to disgrace themselves and the age in which they live by worshiping a creation of ancient fiction named God and a dead man named Jesus, you should join the Church of Humanity at once and help it to get strong enough to establish a school to teach your children the truth adout God, for it is the first attempt ever made to organize a society for that purpose.

If you do not take enough interest in your children to help to found a church that will teach them the truth about God, others will take enough interest in them to teach them errors about him that will make them idolaters.

The clergy say your children are totally depraved and degenerates who will take a delight in committing all kinds of crimes if not scared into being good by teaching them the ancient fables about God and hell for truth. You should resent the insult, if you love your children and have any self-respect, by turning them over to the Church of Humanity to be taught the truth about God.

The advantages of organization are brought to our comprehension with irresistable force when we remember the bequest of $2,755.00 to the Church of Humanity by Bro. Long, and the revised will of another brother bequething $200.00 to the church at his death. Other members of the church I believe will make bequests to it also. Hence we should push the work of gaining numbers so we can organize and incorporate and be in the best position possible to use these bequests to the best advantage for the church as intended by the donors. Besides we are liable any time to get large donations from the living to push our educational work with.

If you are a member of any other church and know that God is a myth you should join the Church of Humanity and not remain a hypocrite under the false idea that others would not remain good citizens if they knew as much about God as you do.

VOL. I. Great Bend, Kansas, January, 1906. No. 2.

The Church of Humanity.

The Church of Humanity believes in doing things, and in the motto "Do it Now." It is composed of people who have learned by investigation, observation and experience that God, Satan and Holy Ghost are fabulous beings; that heaven and hell are myths and that dead people do not come to life again. So it is preparing to teach these scientifically demonstrable truths as a new branch of study to be added to the necessary branches of a common school education. The new branch of study is named "The Truth About God." Those who complete the course of study in this branch of knowledge are eligible to membership in the Church of Humanity and a certificate as graduates in the knowledge of God. The object of these graduates uniting in an organization is to establish a uniform, graduated course of study in The Truth About God, and to establish schools in which children can be taught these final truths direct before they are caught in the meshes of the Christian mythology from which not one in a thousand can ever hope to escape. We also intend to rescue all we can of those who are lost in the labyrinth of idolatry where on bended knees with bowed head and tear stained eyes they implore dead Jews and creations of fiction to lead them to the light. Being practical people living in a practical age we intend to shorten the route to ultimate and final knowledge of God many years.

We do not believe it necessary to go east all around the earth to reach the first station west of us. Likewise we do not think it necessary for each one to make a life study of mythologies including Christianity by going back through all historic times studying their Gods and Devils, hells and heavens, Saviors and Bibles to learn at last that God is simply a creation of fiction.

We intend to shorten the route to the knowledge of God for our posterity by placing the results of a life's research for that knowledge into one sentence, and a very short one—God is a fabulous being. We will teach children to give that answer to the question: What is God? Then they will express a fact that has taken our race many thousand of years to learn and but very few know it yet. Millions have devoted their lives to the study of God without finding the true answer. Many widely different answers are given but all are proven untrue, but this, by investigation, observation and experience.

In teaching a child the shape of the earth we have it say "round like a ball" so it can understand its shape by comparison to a smaller object that it can comprehend better. That is giving the child in one small sentence the final knowledge of the earth's shape that took our race perhaps millions of years to learn. And it is but comparatively recently that its shape was discovered and became generally known. We do not think it necessary that the child should first be taught all the false ideas and speculations as to the shape of the earth before its true shape was discovered. As the child grows older we teach it a few simple proofs of the earth's pherical shape in the shortest way.

So in teaching "The Truth About God" we give the final knowledge in the sentence "God is a fabulous being like Santa Claus" so that people can more easily comprehend him by comparison with a myth they do understand. Of course we will give ample proof of that fact in a course of study so all can understand it who take that course of study.

For ages to come children will be taught something about God. If we who know the truth about him will not do our duty to teach them that truth we have only ourselves to blame when they are taught the errors about him and made idolaters by those who have not learned the truth. We must ever remember that the children are in a very few years the men and women and parents, teachers, editors and authors, the legislative, judicial and executive powers that rule the world. To eradicate idolatry in our race then is to begin with the children. Then the permanent eradication of idolatry will gradually advance into all the activities, societies and powers of the world as the children advance in age.

This simple process of ruling the thought of the world was ages ago learned by the propagators of idolatry. Hence their elaborate organized system of inculcating their idolatry in the minds of children. Truth About God can only be successfully engrafted in the mind of our race by the same process. The Church of Humanity recognizing this process of changing the mind of the world will adopt it and make every ligitimate effort to get its fundamental truths taught to the children. If by following certain methods and tactics in teaching errors the world can be put on its knees in worship of idols and myths, by following the same method and tactics in the teaching of truth it can be freed from idolatry and raised off its knees again.

But of necessity some of the adults must learn it first and band together in an organization, establish schools and employ graduates in the knowledge of God to do the teaching, then send their children there to be taught the evidence that prove God a myth. Local churches and Sunday schools will be established wherever a few graduates are near enough each other to do so. Until that time comes a simple home teaching will be substituted to give the children the right start in learning The Truth About God. That is the plan and method contemplated by the Church of Humanity to overthrow idolatry. If you are the least bit desirous of having that false teaching discontinued and are not a member of the Church of Humanity I earnestly invite you to fill out the blank application in this paper and return it to the editor. It will then be transcribed to the Book of Life and a certificate of graduation in the knowledge of God returned, making you a life member and one of the founders of the Church of Humanity.

Do It Now.

New Year's Greeting.

Here's to the founders of the Church of Humanity. May their heroic devotion to the cause of truth result in the overthrow of idolatry and the permanent rescue of posterity from that heathen practice.

Here's to the Christians. May they remember the suppression of scientific truths by idolaters that brought on the Dark Ages and do it no more forever.

Here's to the editors of anti-Christian publications. May they comprehend the fact that their support is dying of old age and they have made no provision to educate children in the facts that prove Christian teaching regarding God untrue. May they remedy this fatal defect before it is everlastingly too late by uniting with the Church of Humanity and urging their readers to do likewise to the end that it may grow strong enough to establish a system of teaching children and furnishing them society that will keep them from becoming idolaters and make them readers and supporters of editors and authors that are engaged in the laudable task of freeing our race from idolatry.

Here's to our dear Christian mothers. May they ever remember that we love them with deepest filial respect and devotion regardless of their idolatry. May they comprehend the fact that we have actually and truly discovered that God is a creation of fiction and Jesus simply a dead man, and that we do not worship them owing to this discovery. May they have no fear that our race will retrograde into savagery on account of this discovery, for we are as anxious as they to have the world free from crimes and vices. May they always know that we are following their highest moral teaching in devotion to truth, justice and morality. May their declining years be full of peace and joy and never a wave of grief and anxiety cross their loving breasts on account of their progressive children discovering new truths in the great book of the universe.

Here's to our Christian brothers and sisters. May they know we can love and respect them without worshiping their idols. May they still respect us although they may not have the time or inclination to verify through investigation the truths we have learned.

Here's to the Christian wives whose husbands are life members and founders of the Church of Humanity and who object to them teaching their children its truths. May they read every day the following Bible requirments and believe and obey them: "Thy desire shall be to thy husband and he shall rule over thee."—Gen. 3:16. "Wives, submit yourselves to your own husbands."—Col. 3:18. "As the church (Christian church. Ed.) is subject unto Christ so let the the wives be to their husbands in everything."—Eph. 5:24. Let your women keep silence in the churches, for it is not permitted unto them to speak, but they are commanded to be under obedience, as also saith the law. And if they will rearn anything, let them ask their husbands at home; for it is a shame for a woman to speak in the church."—1 Cor. 14:34, 35. "Ye wives, be in subjection to your own husbands. * * * For after this manner in the old time the holy women also, who trusted in God, adorn themselves, being in subjection to their own husbands; even as Sarah obeyed Abraham, calling him lord."—1 Peter 3:1,6. "Let women learn in silence with all subjection. But I suffer not a woman to teach, nor to usurp authority over the man, but to be in silence. For Adam was first formed, then Eve. And Adam was not deceived, but the woman being deceived was in the transgression."—1 Tim. 2:11, 14

May they obey these laws under

Unite! Unite!

My Christian brother writes me accounts of revivals in his neighborhood conducted by trained evangelists resulting in hundreds of conversions. Those children are bound by the unbreakable chain of fear in the idolatry of worshiping a dead man named Jesus and a a creation of fiction named God. Not one in ten thousand can ever be rescued. Conversion means closing their ears and eyes to the teachers of The Truth About God. They are henceforth enemies to truth for life through the power of fear and bribery and hatred inculcated by the evangelist. All over the country the revivals are going on. Children by tens of thousands are being converted. They are your children, and your neighbors. They are those who in a few years will be the parents of the next generation. Their idolatry will be perpetuated by them in the support of other evangelists to convert their children and thus the endless chain of idolatry sweeps on through the ages.

Their idolatry is infused into laws and customs impossible seemingly to change. Who are to blame for all this perpetuation of the ignorance, superstition and idolatry of our race? Certainly not the children, they have no opportunity to learn the Truth About God. Not the evangelists, they are the deepest effected victims of the false teaching. Not the parents, they had been converted in childhood and remain converted though many of them take no active part only to pay the evangelist. So there are none left to shoulder the blame but the few who have learned the Truth About God, they know the facts and should know the remedy and apply it. If idolatry is ever overthrown it must of necessity be done by those who know the Truth About God, it cannot be done by those who do not. Hence the responsibility rests on them alone. The overthrow of idolatry can only be accomplished through the educational process. That process cannot reach the people, especially the children, except through an organization of those who know the Truth About God for that purpose. You see idolatry everywhere fastening itself upon the United States and compelling them to teach and defend it. Self interest, business principle, common object, effective work and common sense should suggest to us all the importance of union. I suggest that the editors of all the publications in the Free Directory in this paper unite and aid it in the educational work it is trying to establish for our common good. That will set the pace and other editors will then fall in line with them. Then let each one urge his readers to unite in the Church of Humanity as a common society for them all. That will make a tangible result and showing for all time for the labor of each editor in the cause of truth and civilization. Through this society his converts to truth can perpetuate his teaching from generation to generation and form an endless chain for truth and right and civilization that will be a match in time for the endless chain of ignorance, superstition and idolatry. This union of people in a common cause will enable them to support and maintain our college where young men and young women can be thoroughly trained and taught in the Truth About God and sent out as National, State and County Instructors to counteract the false teaching of the Christian Evangelists. Then our readers would be on an equal footing with their Christian brothers. We could then hire these college graduates in the Truth About God to come and give our children such a course of teaching in a course of lectures that would forever save them from becoming victims of the Evangelists' false teaching. That would make our children readers of our books and papers and supporters of our schools and societies and perpetuators of the Truth About God.

In an editorial in the Truth Seeker of January 13, just received, is an account of the effort made to fasten idolatry on us as a state institution by a bill introduced by Congressman B. G. Daws, of Ohio, for the repair and construction of chapels at permanent army posts. Idolaters are ever seeking to enforce the worship of their idols by law. It is only a question of a few years when this will be done if we fail to do our duty in promulgating the Truth About God. Woe unto us then. We will be compelled by law to worship a dead man and a creation of fiction or suffer the horrors of the Spanish Inguisition as martyrs to truth. Fear of that should unite us and urge us forward in the educational work which alone can save us from such a dreadful fate.

"The bill," says the T. S., "puts the control of the chapels into the hands of the Secretary of War who is a Freethinker who does not speak his sentiments." No one who does know the Truth About God will have the moral courage to stand by it and defend it as a public officer until he is backed by the power of an organization of influence. If the publications mentioned will aid in the task of find- and uniting the people who have learned the Truth About God we would have an organization that would give public officials the necessary moral support to enable them to do stand up in defense of truth and right. While we still have the liberty to unite and give the people the necessary teaching in the Truth About God that will prevent them from taking that liberty from us we should by all means do so.

Self defense demands it. Prudence demands it. Common sense demands it, and we are very foolish indeed if we don't, UNITE! UNITE!

Some Bible Truths.

As the cloud is consumed and vanisheth away; so he that goeth down to the grave shall come up no more.—Job 7:9.

For the living shall know that they shall die; but the dead know not anything, neither have they any more a reward; for the memory of them is forgotten.

For that which befalleth the sons of men befalleth beasts; even one thing befalleth them as the one dieth so dieth the other; yea, they have all one breath; so that a man hath no preeminence above a beast * * *

All go to one place. All are of the dust, and all turn to dust again. Ecc. 9:5; 3:19, 20.

They are dead, they shall not live; they are deceased, they shall not rise. * * * Is. 26:14.

Those who believe every word of the Bible true must believe the above Bible quotations. They must also believe what the Church of Humanity teaches that there is no resurrection of the dead, The Bible also says: "For if the dead rise not, then is not Christ raised." —Eccl 15:16. That is in line with the teaching of this church and is proof to those who believe the Bible that Christ is simply a dead Jew.

It further says: "And if Christ be not raised, your faith is vain." —Eccl. 15:17. That is what I have been telling you Christians all the time.

Now that the Bible says so I wonder if you will refuse to believe it because its teaching agrees with that of the Church of Humanity.

WANTED— The editor wishes to correspond with persons with ability to present the Truth About God to the people from the rostrum.

THE PROGRESSIVE READING CLUB. TO THE CHURCH. I wish all the founders of the church to resolve themselves into a Progressive Reading Club to study our church text books. As Remsburg's Bible is the best work on the Bible I know of to prove it the product of man in every particular, and disprove the Christians' claim that it is the product of a God, I have adopted it as our text book on the Bible. Each member, that is not now supplied with a copy of this book, should procure one at once and be a member of the club. The regular price is $1.25 post paid. By ordering of the editor you can get a year's subscription to T. A. G. and the book for $1.25.

REMEMBER you can get a bundle of these papers to distribute for 1c per copy.

Christians should not forbid their children to learn the Truth About God.

EDITORS AND AUTHORS, who know the Truth About God, let us unite with our readers in one educational society to enable us to maintain a college for graduating young people in the Truth About God and sending them out as National, State and County Instructors to teach the people the Truth About God.

THE HEROIC 100. There are 95 members now enrolled as graduates in the knowledge of God and founders the Church of Humanity. When the 100 mark is reached I shall present each with a souvenir card with the name and address of each member. If any have changed their address since last report to me please send me the address now so the card will be correct to date of issue. This will enable each member to correspond with all the other members and know who and where they are. There should be a fraternal feeling of fellowship among us found nowhere else. As our church grows in numbers we will have closer comrades until we can begin to have local churches and Sunday schools.

The Study of God

INTERNATIONAL LESSON

DAILY PROOF THAT THERE IS NO GOD.

OBJECT LESSON XIX.

[By the International Instructor for the Church of Humanity.]

Above the graves of our perished loved ones the Church of Humanity proclaims God a myth.

Come, Christian, give me your hand while we take a walk. I have some things to show you. Are you from Missouri? "Yes." So am I. You will believe when shown?"Certainly." I do. When known facts contradict theories the theories should be abandoned, should they not? "Sure." Why, there are no grounds for a quarrel between us.

Well, here we are at the railroad wreck. It is at Lincoln, Mass., Nov. 26, 1905. "At least fifteen persons were killed outright, burned to death or suffocated and thirty more seriously injured in a rear end collision at 8:15 tonight between two passenger trains," says the account. "The fog concealed the signals. The majority of those injured were women."

See the mangled dead! Hear the sobs of grief as children, husband, wife or mother finds their loved one there and seeks for signs of life but get no response to their loving inquiries from the silent lips. Hear the shrieks of the dying, pinioned fast while flames creep upon them! See the frantic effort of loved ones to rescue them! See strangers risking their lives in the flames to save the helpless! Where, O where is that Jesus who is willing and able to save!

Where. O where that God, that Heavenly Father, that Supreme Being that the Christian world worships and that fraternal orders require a belief in!

"He is working as the love principle and power in the hearts of the rescuers."

That does not seem reasonable because you see its utter helplessness in the presence of an element you say he created. I have that sentiment too and it furnishes me with the positive proof that God is a creation of fiction. Is it reasonable that he would furnish the proof of his non-existence?

Was not that power inadiquate to remove the fog that caused the wreck? Why did not that love prompt the caution of a pilot engine in the fog before a heavily loaded passenger train? Would not that have been done had the Czar of Russia or the Sultan of Turkey been a passenger? Does your God care more for either of them than he does for all the common people of America?

"Well I think he has too much to do to take care of all the people." So then he is not love at all, not omnipotent, nor omnipresent, nor omniscient? "He has all those attributes and love and goodness but he has made these laws of nature that we must guard against" Then he cannot or will not make known his love and goodness to us nor control his creations for our good. Did not these poor mangled people, whose lives are extinguished forever, love, praise and worship God and Jesus on the theory that they had provided for and protected them from harm so far through life, and that they would continue to do so? Was not that what they poured out their heartfelt thankfulness for? Was not care and protection what they prayed for on that theory? "I guess it was" Here are facts, my friend, and in their presence conflicting theories go down and must be abandoned. "He saved some of the people and they should be thankful to him for that." Could he not have saved all as easily as a part? Were not these dead as worthy of love and protection as those that escaped? If a man killed all your family and spared you would you feel it your duty and obligation to love, praise and worship him until he concludrd to kill you too? If your God makes it rain and rule the elements as you believe he does, did he not cause the fog that obscured the signals? Did he not know what the result would be? When a man does such things intentionally is he not guilty of manslaughter and punished as a murderer? Why should we praise a God and hang a man for doing like things? "Well I don't understand God's ways, but I know he will save me from hell if I love and obey him. "How do you know he will when you just now admitted you did not nnderstand his ways? See those who always worshiped him perishing in those flames appealing to him with their last dying breath to save them. Is not that as terrible as any hell could be? Could they suffer more if in the hell you imagine exists? Have those people not loved and obeyed him as you think he demands? They are total strangers to you yet would you not have prevented the wreck had you the chance? Would you not have rescued all without injury had it been in your power? "I surely would." Then you who have the will but not the power are infinitely more worthy than your God whom you think has the power but not the will. Why then should I not worship you in preference to God? "I would not allow you to. It would be degrading yourself and humiliating to me." But would it not be more disgraceful in me to worship a less worthy object, and would it not be a less worthy being who would demand it? "Some preachers teach that hell is not a place of literal torture in fire but it means remorse, self-condemnation, expulsion from God's loving presence." But they also teach that God is present evsrywhere. What is his presence worth here? See the evidence of deepest sorrow and despair of those relatives as they try in vain to find signs of life in their perished loved ones. Could any grief of your imaginary hell be greater? And these your God's lovers and worshipers whom you say he protects from hell. "Well, God will make it all right in the next world by rewarding the faithful." But, as you don't understand his ways, how do you know there is another world or how he would manage it?

Here we are in the very presence of your imaginary God and see the suffering by fire equal to one theory of hell, and the sorrow and grief equal to the other theory of hell and these sufferers God's own people, yet he does not lend a helping hand. What basis have you for your theory that he would be a more loving sympathetic, caring God in some other world? Before such reason and logic the theories of God's better behavior in another world must fall, my friend, must fall! Before the actual, demonstrated facts that prove there is no God to know or care for us in this world the theory that there is must fall, my friend, must fall!

And here are more evidence, and all reasonings applied to the foregoing case will with equal force apply to this additional evidence.

"Madrid, Dec. 2—Two railway trains collided near Aranjuez today and eleven persons were killed."

"Jersey City, N. J. Dec. 2—Three laborers killed and four mortally wounded by a mail train."

EXPLOSIONS. "New York, Dec. 19—Three persons killed and ten injured by premature explosion of dynamite."

"South River, N. J. In an explosion at the International Powder works four men are killed."

"Mongahala City, Pa., Nov. 15.—Eight men killed and blown to pieces by a mine explosion near Bentleyville."

"Birmingham, Ala., Dec. 13.—Five men blown to antoms at the works of the Du Pont Powder Co."

"Marquette, Mich., Dec. 16.—Five men are killed by dynamite works blowing up at this place."

"Cheyenne, Wyo., Dec. 2.—21 men killed and 33 entombed by an explosion in mine No. 1 at Diamondville today."

SHIPWRECKED. "Duluth, Minn. Nov. 29—Nine men perish on wrecked steamer Mataafa in storm."

"Southampton, Eng., Nov. 20.—123 lives lost by wreck of steamer Hilda during storm near St. Milo France."

MISCELLANEOUS DISASTERS.

"Pittsburg, Pa., Nov. 18—Mother and son perish in flames."

"Amsterdam, N. Y. Dec. 13—Three children drowned while skating on pond."

"Albany, N. Y. Nov. 19—Girl of fifteen years old killed by train while taking home flowers for the supper table."

"Washington, Dec., 29.—Five men killed by cave-in while excavating for bank building."

"Glascow, Scotland, Nov. 19—Thirty-nine men were burned to death and thirty-two severely injured today in a fire in a lodging-house on Watson street."

But why prolong the story of death and destruction? Is not this enough to convince any one that the loving God and Jesus who are able and willing to answer prayers for protection are myths? If they can't be moved to pity by such suffering of their worshipers in this world how could they be in any other world? If they have no power to save in this world how could they have in any other world?

"Well, I confess I don't understand it." Of course you don't. I knew that all the time. We are again in harmony of opinion. I know the reason you don't understand it. You have been taught errors. When that teaching faces such an array of facts, reason and logic that proves it untrue as you have here been shown it confuses you. It will continue to do so until you realize the truth that the Christian churches are teaching mistakes that never can be harmonized with every day facts as we know them, and that the Church of Humanity is teaching truths that are in perfect accord with those facts.

"What does it teach? It teaches that God, Satan and Holy Ghost are fabulous beings, that heaven hell are myths and that there is no resurrection of the dead. "I never can believe that. My mother didn't believe it." Your mother was doubtless one of the best mothers that ever lived; gentle, good and kind, but there are many discoveries made that she did not believe could be made that you know are now made. I call your attention to the trolly cars, telephones, X rays, wireless telegraphy, liquid air and radium as samples of the many. We can give up the faith and belief of our ancestors in regard to God with no more disrespect to them than to discontinue using their style of implements and methods of using them for those of better make and later methods.

Were your mother living now she would change her belief in regard to the discovery of all these things if shown them and very likely would believe in God being a creation of fiction if given the evidence of it as plainly as you have been today. "Well I'll study over the matter." Thank you. That is all I ask except that you give equal weight to the evidence you have taken today of God being a creation of fiction that you do to the theories of the clergy. And should you conclude the preponderence of evidence is on the side of his non-existence I cordially invite you to become a life member and one of the founders of the Church of Humanity.

Circular Letter No. 2.

To The Church of Humanity:

Very Important.

Grear Bend, Kan., Dec. 8, 1905.

Brothers and Sisters of the Church, Greeting:

I wish your advice on an important matter to the church

We will need a college under our control in the near future to which the members can send their children to be given a course of study in the "knowledge of God" under the management of our church.

I know of no better locality for such a college than in this city.

There is a $35,000.00 hotel here that is vacant. It was built in 1887 of cement and limestone basement and three stories of brick on that; is 100x110 feet, is cemented on two sides next the streets, is just across the street at the N. E. corner of city park in center of city.

It will need some internal repairs such as plaster, paint, papering, lighting and heating before it could all be used. It had been fully equipped with heating, lighting, sewerage, baths and closets, but some repairing would be necessary before establishing them again, There are 32 rooms on the fourth floor and 25 on the third floor.

Some of them are in suites adapted for family use. Most of them have flues so that students could board themselves if desired. The seoond floor is divided into large rooms suitable for library, class and assembly rooms.

The basement has rooms suitable for kitchen, dining and gymnasinm rooms, and also for a publishing plant. The builders had built it for their own use and it is well built.

We could get this valuable property for $7,000 is taken at once. Educators who have examined it say it is adapted very well for educational purposes. As our church members are scattered all aver the United States here is a central location. It would do for our denominational college. In a very few years our church will need all of this building for a college and publishing house. But we must buy it now if we are to get it at all. So please answer the following questions and mail the answers to me by return mail. Number your answers to correspond with number of question on another sheet.

1. Shall I buy the building for the Church of Humanity? If answer is "yes" then;

2. Shall I pay $2,000 of church funds on it?

3. How much will you pay now on it? 4. How much will you pay annually on it for five years?

5. How many children would you send to this college to be taught the "Trne Knowledge of God" and a business education next year.

I will head the purchase fund with $2,000 cash. That with $2,000 of church funds would leave $3,000 to be raised yet.

I will promise to send three children to the college. As soon as we are organized and incorporated trustees would be elected to take charge of the college. If we are to save our posterity from idolatry and become a power we must be doing things. I believe a business college can be established at once to teach stenography, typewriting, bookkeeping, and penmanship, commercial arithmetic and spelling. A course in the "Study of God" would be added as soon as it can be prepared.

Great bend has a population of 3500; is situated on the Arkansas river, is the county seat of Barton county and surrounded by a rich agricultural region. It has two railroads, Mo. Pacific and A. T. & S. Fe, and has a prospect of a third road.

As it is in the center of the Kansas wheat belt it is about the second largest flour producing town in the state. It has good walks and groves, has water, light and phone service and is a good residence town.

I think it a good place for the location of our denominational college and that we would do well to locate here. In this matter I must be guided by the vote and support of the church. So please send in your answers to the questions by return mail as this fine property will be held for us only a few days. I send a view of the building from the southwest corner. There are no street cars now.

Yours sincerely,

W. H. Kerr.

Doing Things.

The above circular letter with cut of building was sent the founders of the Church of Hunanity Dec 8. The first few responses received seemed to indicate that the majority thought the college plan premature until we had a larger membership and I answered them that the plan would by given up As later answers came a large majority favored it and a few sent pledges of financial aid. So I bought the property for a college for the Church of Humanity. I paid $2,000 of the church funds on it and advanced the balance myself If the chnrch can establish and maintain a permanent business college with a course of study in The Truth About God as one required branch of the college teaching, with at least fifty students taking that course of study, I shall give the church my equity in the prosperity as a part of my contribution to the freedom of our posterity from idolatry.

If, after giving those who wish their children free from the worship of a dead man named Jesus and a character of fiction named God a chance to establish a course of teaching that will accomplish that result, it is found not enough wish their children free from idolatry to maintain the teaching that will free them, then the property can be rented or sold and the equity divided. I think it not best to make the course in the study of God compulsory for a year or two, giving the parents the option, but induce them if possible to allow their children to take the course. At a suitable time I would make that one of the required studies of the college. We must remember no child is born an idolater, or with any inclination to worship a dead man or a creation of fiction handed down by our ignorant ancestors. We must remember children are made idolaters by idolatrous parents and teachers. They are compelled to attend Sunday school, parocial schools, and churches where idolatry is taught and practiced. We must also remember that to save our children from idolatry we must establish societies and schools where The Truth About God is taught and require our children to learn it. Forcing idalatry upon children, which will be done as long as there is an idolatrous parent can only be checkmated by those free from idolatry requiring children to learn the facts about God that will keep them free.

Some may think we should do this teaching at home, and we should to a certain extent, but a few considerations will convince them that it is not to be depended on, and is not effective. It is not satisfactory to either parent or child. Christians have better facilities than we have for giving their children home teaching but none of them depend on it. They prefer to organize, establish societies and schools and pay out millions of dollars to give their children a thorough training in the knowledge and practice of idolatry. We all prefer to tax ourselves to support the common schools rather than to do the teaching at home. The Truth About God then must be reduced to a course of study and taught our children by the same general method used by the teachers of errors regarding God. The common schools cannot teach it until it is popularized by thousands having first learned it. The plan contemplated to secure students to take the course in the study of God is to solicit the co-operation of the Freethought press by having it place before its readers this opportunity for them to give their children a thorough course in the up-to-date knowledge of God that will forever save them from idolatry in connection with a first-class business education in the branches named. The course of study in The Truth About God will not be added until children whose parents demand it attend the college. This will give a large number of our population an opportunity to have their chileren taught those truths that will save them from idolatry that no other institution of learning offers them.

If you want the world, including your posterity, to be free from the worship of dead people and creations of fiction you should join the church of Humanity at once, if not a member, and help to create a power that can do the freeing by the educational process.

Those who trust to nature and evolution to correct the false teaching of Christian churches are entertaining groundless hopes, since if they were of value they would have given the truth to the world in the first place instead of permitting errors to suppress the truths of nature for thousands of years. Hence evolution in the ideas of God must be forced forward by adequate teaching through the instrumentality of organization by those who have learned the truth about him.

The worship of a dead man is indefensible from every view point, and should be discontinued.

A long pull and a strong pull and a pull altogether and we will have the Christian world off its knees by the close of this century.

A happy and prosperous New Year for all except those engaged in crime, vice, and false teaching.

Some good New Year resolutions:

To guard ourselves against committing crimes and vices.

To love and respect parents, husband, wife and children.

To seek and recognize the true, the beautiful, the sublime in nature and life.

To examine again the foundations of your belief in God's existence with the light of modern science and discard the untrue and accept the truth that light reveals whatever it may be.

To then unite with the Church of Humanity to enable it to proclaim and teach that new-found truth.

New Year's Greeting.

pain and penalty of being sent to an imaginary hell by a mythical God until they too join the Church of Humanity where these laws are all repealed and woman put on equality with man.

Here's to the clergy. May they take a greater interest in civilization and the promulgation of the universal truths of nature in preference to the mistakes of a small sect of idolaters. May they again examine the foundations of their mythology with the search light of modern sience and find it but a ghost story verified by the reported dream of a love-sick swain, with a sub-foundation of a talking snake fable in a much older mythology. May they blush with shame to their very soles when they think of palming off on innocent children these stale fables for truth. May they take no delight in seeing poor ignorant fellow-beings worshiping dead Jews and creations of fiction. May they respond to the higher conscience of nobler manhood and join the rescuing party that is seeking to save from such heathenism our fellow beings.

Unite! Unite!

COPY OF LETTER TO THE EDITOR OF THE INGERSOLL MEMORIAL BEACON.

Great Bend, Kansas, Feb. 10, 1905

Mr. W. H. Maple,
Chicago, Illinois.

Brother Maple:—

I wish to congratulate you for your advocacy of organization in the last "Beacon" under the heading "About Organization." I hope you will continue advocating it and the union of anti-Christian editors into one organization until it is an accomplished fact. Nothing they could do would help more to free the people from idolatry than to organize a compact harmonious society of themselves and their readers and establish a uniform affirmative teaching regarding God, and give their readers an opportunity to aid in the teaching by forming local societies for themselves under the national organization.

To so organize there must be a definite object to be undertaken of vital importance to attract and hold us together in a harmonious working organization. I shall here mention a few of the objects that could not be successful as basis for union among anti-Christians, some of which have been tried and proved insufficient.

1. The combining of several unrelated reforms in which people honestly differ, and which are only problematically or theoretically believed to be best, and then only for a part of the people.

2. The nine demands of Liberalism. Very few people are vitally interested in them or can be made to take any interest. They are at most only protests against effects of false teaching and make no provision to correct that teaching.

3. To make people "Freethinkers." All think they are free thinkers now and so they are.

4. To provide a free platform for all ideas. That brings pandemonium, disrupts any society and disgusts everybody.

5. To teach Agnosticism. Very few care to listen to what others don't know. They prefer to listen to and pay people for telling and teaching things they do know. It is preposterous for one who says he is ignorant of a subject to assume to teach it.

6. To tell people they are fools to hire others to do their thinking. We must all depend on teachers and professional people who make a special study of their work.

As to Haeckel's 30 theses, if I remember correctly, he teaches nothing regarding God and his theses seem indefinite, difficult to understand and some seem not applicable to this country, being of a political nature not needed here. As a basis then for organization we must take something of vital importance to all and that will hold them together when organized. Some common, central object that will cause people to work freely for regardless of miner differences and for which they will plank down their money freely in liberal sums to secure.

In my judgment no object can fill the bill as a basis for organization except the rescue of our posterity from the idolatry of worshiping a dead Jew named Jesus and a creation of fiction named God. With that as the primary object to be accomplished we can organize to teach the discovery now positively made that God, Satan and the Holy Ghost are fabulous beings; that heaven and hell are myths and that death means the permanent cessation of life. The teaching of this discovery is the only thing that can accomplish the object in view. The organization will be the necessary machine to do the teaching. Hence all who wish the object accomplished will be compelled to join and support the organization through which alone the object can be reached.

That organization having such a grand object to accomplish will formulate a system of teaching, establish colleges to prepare and train the teachers, send them out with authority as instructors. It will establish subordinate, or auxiliary, societies for women, children and young people, and local societies for all its members. That will give society for all classes and ages and give all opportunities to become workers in the great cause. It will make a demand for vast sums of money and will have the ability to use it for what the donors desire.

We who have large families and a little property pay out hundreds of dollars in taxes and other hundreds for books and board and clothing to give our children an education, but when they are through they are on their knees worshiping dead Jews and a creation of ancient fiction. That is because they are not taught the truth about God, but are taught the errors and mistakes about him. That is a most hideous, shameful, disgraceful position for our children to be placed in after all our heroic devotion and sacrifices to give them a chance to become intelligent, useful, progressive citizens.

This state of affairs must be remedied by an organization that will be able to give the children a course of study in the truth about God as a supplement to their school education. The truth about God should be taught as a discovery which it is. Never mind who made the discovery, that is unimportant. Hundreds have made it and thousands have contributed to the proof of it. As soon as the machinery is ready to do the teaching in the proper way through properly trained and qualified teachers, parents will come forward and plank down their money to have their children taught the great discovery.

It seems to me the teaching of this discovery is the only thing worthy of our time and money and that nothing can be of more importance.

As the Church of Humanity has the nucleus of such an organization already formed, would it not save time and trouble to just fall in line and help to develop it? We have nearly a hundred members now. If you and the other editors you appeal to would do that, the Church would soon have enough members to formally organize and incorporate. I think 1000 members would be enough. I would then call a delegate convention for that purpose. You would all have equal voice in its organization and be equal founders of the Church. Could anything be more fair? Could you ask more of any other organization? Is not the object sought the grandest that could be selected? Is it not worthy of our combined energies and devotion? Are we not all equally vitally interested in the undertaking? Why should we who have a common object in view toil on feebly, singly and accomplish nothing only making of ourselves a laughing stock and butt of ridicule for idolaters when through a harmonious union and concert of action we could shake Rome to her very foundations in twenty five years? Will we be sensible like all other classes engaged in a common work and unite to accomplish something that cannot be done otherwise, or will we remain foolish and accomplish nothing through our stupid idea of "independence," "liberty," and "doing our own thinking." Come, let us be sensible, let us unite to accomplish an object worthy of the heroes of any age. We do not have to go to Europe to find an idea to unite on and battle for. Europe has not yet discovered that Jesus is only a dead Jew and God a myth. Let America be the first to proclaim and teach this discovery, greatest of all discoveries in historic times. Let us stand out in bold relief as the fearless champions of this discovery and marshal our forces to wage an educational battle with Rome. Let us stand by and defend our children to our latest breath and last dollar against that irresistible power of organized idolatry that seeks to put them on their knees to worship dead Jews and creations of fiction.

Come, rally round the standard the Church of Humanity has raised, swear by the General Jackson your posterity shall not bow down to the heathen idols, imported by ignorant foreigners, from Arabia.

Now brother Maple, you have my unreserved ideas as per request. Let the other editors dish up theirs and if possible let us find some common basis of union and object that is of vital interest to editors and readers alike. If you and all the editors you appeal to could see your way clear to join and help the Church of Humanity, with the permanent rescue of posterity from idolatry the object, the teaching of the great discovery the means and the church organization the instrument to accomplish the work, it would be the greatest event of modern times. The hope of saving posterity from idolatry could be marked up several hundred per cent, the world would seem brighter for us and our readers and we would be assured our race would be made wiser and happier for our having lived and labored for its good.

Then let us UNITE, UNITE.

Yours sincerely,
W. H. KERR.

P. S. You can use this in the Beacon if you with.

Proposition to Editor of Anti-Religious Publications.

GENTLEMEN:—Since some of your own members and some of your readers have suggested that Prof. Haeckel's 30 theses form the basis of a common organization for all local organizations, editors, authors and readers who have learned that Christianity is based on errors and are teaching that discovery I suggest that, as they cannot be accepted in full as he presents them, they be reconstructed by you until they can be indorsed by all and then proceed to organize on that basis.

SUGGESTIONS: 1. Object. Let the primary object for a great common union or organization be the preservation of posterity from the idolatry of worshiping a dead man named Jesus and a myth named God.

2 NECESSARY MEANS TO ACCOMPLISH THE OBJECT. Let the teaching of the discovery that God, Satan and Holy Ghost are fabulous beings, heaven and hell are myths and death the permanent cessation of life be the means to accomplish the object.

3 NECESSARY MACHINERY. Let the organization be constructed as the necessary machinery to do the teaching that alone can accomplish the desired object.

BASIS OF ORGANIZATION. The above three fundamentals are, in my opinion, all that are necessary for the construction of a great universal organization. It does not seem to me necessary to incorporate in the basis for the organization the conclusions of any of the natural sciences as Prof. Haeckel does in his 30 theses. Our organization would be compelled to teach the advanced discoveries made in all the natural sciences to maintain its position as the exponent of science and the eradicator of idolatry.

We would be left perfectly free then to keep step with the advancement of every science and accept and teach their discoveries as soon as made and proven. Through the machinery of this organization all advancements in the sciences would be handed down to the common people so that they would no longer be designated "the ignorant masses." That would be a service most earnestly to be desired and one surely received with gratitude and thankfulness by the common people.

As the teaching of the discoveries enumerated above necessarily include the teaching of the leading natural sciences to prove them I can see no need of enumerating them and of giving their findings as basic principles of the organization.

However, for the sake of a harmonious union of all our forces in one common organization, so badly needed to do effective work, I suggest that a delegate convention be called to meet at some central location in the United States to formulate, if possible, a basis of union of all our forces into one common organization. The basis of representation could be one delegate from each society, and the editors and authors of publications and books that prove religions untrue. If that does not appear feasible, then let the discussion go on through the papers until a satisfactory basis of union and organization is arrived at. As the Ingersoll Memorial Beacon has taken up the discussion of the subject of a basis for a common union and organization let it be taken up by the other editors and continued until a satisfactory basis is found. How many can indorse Haeckel's 30 theses as modified by me in this issue? How would you further improve them? Have you a better basis to offer?

Ernest Haeckel's 30 Theses.

the sciences mentioned are verified by many qualified professors of those sciences then of course the Church of Humanity can accept the theses as above condensed and modified as they also include now the basic teaching of the church.

This Church invites all who wish the people freed from idolatry to unite with it.

VOL. I. Great Bend, Kansas, March, 1906. No. 4.

The Church of Humanity.

The Church of Humanity is composed of law abiding citizens. They believe in law and order and try to practice every virtue that constitutes good citizenship. They believe in civilization and progress, in peace and industry, in happy homes and prosperous families. They desired to know the truth about God as every intelligent citizen should. Many of them joined the various conflicting Christian churches while young through the influence of mistaken teachers. Others thought it best to investigate the claims of the different sects more thoroughly before joining any. The desire of all to learn the truth about God led them to investigate the claims of the various religions and their sacred writings and compare their claims with the truths of science discovered in the great book of the universe.

This investigation led them to recognize and accept the discoveries that God, Satan and Holy Ghost are creations of fiction, that heaven and hell are myths and that life ceases at death. They recognize Christianity as a mythology and its Gods as idols. Hence they refuse to worship such and are uniting for the purpose of teaching these great discoveries to the people that posterity may be kept free from idolatry through a correct knowledge of God. After learning those discoveries they could take no other course without forfeiting their selfrespect. They cannot worship a dead man named Jesus any more than they could worship any other dead man. They could no more worship God than they could the God of any other mythology. They know the people will continue in idolatry until they are taught the discoveries that has freed them. They know from the history of progress that only the very few make discoveries and that those few must teach them to the many if they are ever to know them. They recognize the truths that people must be taught the things they should learn; that the bulk of our race ever has and ever will follow leaders and teachers; that the few must ever teach the many; that it is as absurd to believe or expect each person to do his own thinking in regard to God as it would be to believe or expect each farmer to invent and manufacture his own farming implements, or a child to learn to read and write without a teacher. They know that if the teachers are mistaken all their scholars will be mistaken. They know that the clergy are mistaken in their teaching regarding God and therefore all those who accept them as teachers must of necessity be mistaken. They know that the few who have learned these discoveries must establish an organization able to support instructors to teach these discoveries to the people and rescue them from idolatry.

If you, reader, have learned the discoveries and are not yet a member of the Church of Humanity it is your imperative duty to join it and become one of its founders and organizers. You owe this duty to posterity. You owe it to yourself, to your relatives, neighbors and friends. You owe it to civilization and progress. To see the people all around you including your loved ones worshiping myths and a dead man without doing your best to enlighten them, when you know the truth, brands you as a moral coward unworthy the respect of yourself much less that of anyone else. The Christians have in their homes the Bible, religious books and papers, yet they know that it is not enough to insure the idolatry of their children. They know that books and papers can teach nothing of themselves, not even their own contents. They know there must be teachers to use those books as text books and give the children personal instruction from them. The children must be in classes and the book taught them in lessons. Hence the organization of Sunday schools and class meetings and prayer meetings, and all the young people's societies. Even adults are unable to learn from the Bible without a preacher or priest to give them personal instruction in sermons to aid them in the study and understanding of the Bible. We never can save our own children from idolatry much less rescue others from it until we recognize the necessity of organization and follow the example of the Christians in their method of organization and teaching. The truth about God must be taught by the same methods that errors about him are taught. It is not the organizations and methods of teaching, except in a few cases, that the Christians adopt in teaching we object to. It is the errors we object to. Were they teaching the truth about God I would join their church without a moments hesitation and help to aid and support their teachers and organizations. But they do not know the truth and could not teach it if they did in any of their organizations. Did the laymen attempt it they would be turned out of the church organization at once. Did any of their clergy attempt it they would be expelled for heresy. Hence the imperative necessity of new organizations to teach the great discoveries that must be taught the people before they can stop worshiping a dead man named Jesus and a myth named God. The organization of the Church of Humanity is the first step ever made in the right direction to free people from idolatry through the educational process. We have 98 enrolled life members and founders of the church. There must be some more who have learned that God is a fabulous being. If there are we want to find them so they can be invited to unite with us and help in the founding and organization of this church. It is unreasonable to suppose that there is anyone who knows that God is a myth and will not aid in establishing a society to teach that truth which alone can rescue the people from idolatry. The greatest help you can do to aid in freeing the people from idolatry is to tell them officially in black and white that you know God is a myth and that you do not worship him. You can do that effectually only by joining a society that is based on that truth and makes its teaching a primary object. The first thousand members will be the founders of the church. It will then formally organize and incorporate. You should hasten to have your name enrolled as a life member and founder of this church. Do not delay. Procrastination is the thief of time. You might miss the honor of being a founder of this modern church by neglect of your duty now.

Man Has no Immortality.

The teaching of the Church of Humanity that man has no such a thing as an "immortal soul" is sustained by Prof. George H. Howison head of the department of philosophy of the University of California.

"He startled his class in ethics recently," says an exchange, "by declaring that not only do animals reflect and reason, but that every living thing is immortal, if man is immortal.

"It is now very generally admitted that animals do reason.

"Moreover, it is plain that some animals are more intelligent than others. Some have a better quality of gray matter in their brains than others. They are better thinkers. There are more convolulions or wrinkles in their brains.

"The more wrinkles in any brain —man or animal—the more brain force.

"As to the immortality of animals the argument, of course, is by analogy.

"Science does not undertake to say that any soul is immortal, but philosophy steps in to say that all life is from one source, is alike, and if one life is immortal, all life must be immortal"

All Christians admit that animals, except man, have no immortal soul. Then, since all life is alike, it is plain that man has no immortal soul either. That fact should be taught now in the place of the errors of the ancients who could not understand the nature of life so well as our modern philosophers and scientists. No good end is served by trying to make ourselves believe errors and with holding the truths of nature from the people. It is very plain that thought is produced and made manifest by organized matter in aminate form. It is just as plain that thought ceases when the amination ceases, and is not an independent, self-existent, conscious spirit that can be separated from the body.

An Index to the Character of Christian Savages.

It is reported to the press by telegrams from Manila that in a battle with outlaws in the crater of Mount Dajo on the island of Jolo 600 men, women and children were slain by American troops and the Moro constabulary under American officers. I suppose those Moros had believed the stories that the Americans were so civilized that they would not murder innocent women and children in battle with an enemy.

The Christian manufacturers of battle ships and munitions of war will be greatly elated over this incident. They will know that it will help to teach China that she must build up and equip a powerful army and navy to protect herself against the Christian savages of America and Europe, and that will create a big demand for their wares.

Parents should be so ashamed to have their children worshiping a myth named God and a dead Jew named Jesus that they would help to establish an arganization to teach them the truth about God without being asked twice to do so.

For children to be worshiping idols is a serious reflection on the intelligence, or neglect of duty of their parents.

The Study of God

INTERNATIONAL LESSON

DAILY PROOF THAT THERE IS NO GOD.

OBJECT LESSON XX.

[By the International Instructor for the Church of Humanity.]

Above the graves of our perished loved ones the Church of Humanity proclaims God a myth.

No idolater ever worships his idol voluntarily, makes sacrifices to it and supports its priests except he be taught that the idol is doing and will do infinitely more for him than he is doing for it. In up-to-date phrazeology, the idolater is made to believe he is working a magnificent "graft" on his idol. He is taught to believe he is getting billions of dollars worth of service from his idol in exchange for building it joss houses, supporting its priests and doing the little manhood-debasing performances the priest says the idol requires.

Likewise, no idolater ever ceased idolatry voluntarily except he be taught that his idol is unable to "deliver the goods," and is shown by actual demonstration he can comprehend that he is the one "being worked" in the "confidence graft." The reason why idolatry is so hard to overthrow is because both priest and idolaters stubbornly refuse to learn the truth about their idol. The priest does not want to know, or the idolaters to know, that he is mistaken; partly through fear of losing his present profits in the "graft" and partly through his ignorance in believing his idol's ability to fulfill, in another world, the promises former priests made for it.

The common idolaters, following the lead and reasoning of their priests, do not want to know the truth about their idol, thinking they would thereby lose the present imaginary aid they receive from it as well as the part it is to fulfill in another world. They reason that as they have already fulfilled a big share of their part in the "graft" they are now entitled to their reward from the idol that they would lose did they learn the truth that they had been "buncoed." The idolaters, priests inclnded, do not seem to recognize that their case is similar to those who have bought a "gold brick" or a bunch of "green goods." Instead of trying in every way possible to keep from learning the truth about God and the true value of their investment in his worship they should follow the example of the victims of the "gold brick" and "green goods" swindle who are generally anxious to have their purchase examined by experts to determin their real value. Since a part of the idol's contract, made for it by the priests, is to be fulfilled in another life in another world, and since there is no such life or world, the idolaters never know how badly they have been swindled if they do not find it out before they die. Perhaps that is the reason priests try every means to prevent the idolaters from learning the truth. But one can hardly believe that members of his own race can be so totally depraved as to deliberately prey upon the love one has for parent or child. The man who would knowingly lie to a mother about his ability to make it possible for her to see and know and converse with a dear child in some other world, for the purpose of extorting money from her, is, in my estimation, the vilest, meanest depraved wretch on earth, compared to whom all other classes of swindlers are honorable.

An international organization to educate and maintain competent experts in the value of contracts made with the self appointed agents of idols is badly needed to establish such experts in every community in the world. There is not, in all the world, a neighborhood that is not "worked" by some idol "grafter." The people are helpless. There are no experts they can appeal to as disinterested parties to advise them on the value of the claims. Your posterity and mine will forever be at the mercy of the idol-mongers in every land and age until such expert agencies are established for their protection.

The Church of Humanity is advertising extensively to find those who know the truth about idols and who care enough for the protection of their posterity to join with others in founding such a protective organization. Pending the finding of enough members to formally organize and incorporate it will go right on giving its expert evidence as to the value of deals made with the clergy who are the self-appointed agents to peddle God and Jesus around as the boss idols of this age, giving more in return for your money and self-debasement than any other idols on the market.

Many millions of our fellow beings have been "taken in" through their cupidity by the glittering prospects of working a "graft" on these idols through their agents. For a little weekly cash to these idols, whom the agents say own the universe and a certain amount of flattery that no decent man would accept, these idols are to give in return protection from harm, prosperity in this world and an eternity of idleness and bliss in another world. What a "graft" on these idols!

The Church of Humanity comes upon the scene as an expert on the value of these deals to the dupes and stands ready and willing to protect all from being swindled by the idol peddlers, as do the assayer and currency expert to protect the prospective victims of "gold brick" and "green goods" swindlers if consulted in time.

Our expert testimony is as definite, clear and positive as that given by the experts in the other cases, and can be as confidently relied on. With us it is no guess work or hear-say, or mere opinion or beliefe. The evidence is clear and all can understand it when taught its meaning.

Here is the evidence, that cannot be disputed, that proves the popular idols, God and Jesus, cannot fulfill one promise in this, or any other world made for them by the clergy. Hence they do not exist and you lose everything you expected them to do for you when you made the deal with their pretended agents. I cannot, for want of space, give these sad accounts in full. Everybody should read the daily papers wherein they will find full details of these disasters that prove God to be a fabulous being.

"Boston, March 14.—Twenty-eight men went down to death on the British King which foundered far out at sea on Sunday night.

"Lahore, Punjab, India, March 10.—Eight persons killed and twenty-six injured in an earthquake at Kakoola.

"Helena, Mont., Feb. 6.—Three little girls of J. B. Cypher were burned to death in a fire that destroyed their home.

"Lake Charles, La., March 8.—In a wreck at Bon Ami a fireman is killed and two engineers probably fatally injured.

"Walsenburg, Colo., Feb. 20.—Thirteen miners killed in a mine explosion at the Maitland coal mine.

"Fort Erie, O., March 11.—Two killed and nineteen injured in a train wreck at Godsend.

"Meridian, Miss., March 3.—A cyclone kills 35. Hundreds of families homeless.

"Gambier, O., Feb. 24.—Three boys are dead in the ruins of burned buildings.

"Paris, March 10.—About 1200 miners killed by an explosion of fire damp in a coal mine at Courriers France.

"Paris, March 12.—Seventeen men lost their lives in an attempt to rescue the bodies of those who perished in the mine disaster at Courrieres, France.

"Denuer, Colo., March 16.—From 40 to 50 passengers were killed or roasted alive in a collisinn of two passenger trains near Florence, Colo.

The details describing the suffering of many of the victims of these great disasters are terrible.

No God or Jesus was in sight or hearing of any of these recorded disasters, that cover a large portion of earth, to fulfill their part of the agreement between dupes and idol-mongers wherein the idols were to care for the dupes for a certain amount of love, praise and cash. The dupes fulfilled their part abundantly. The idols can't fulfill theirs. Idols that are unable to fill their part in this world of the agreement are as unable to fill it in any other world. All love, care, protection or other thing of value promised by the idol-mongers to be delivered by said idols in this, or ony other world, for cash down, continued ignorance and hyporacy, are worthless.

Idol-mongers should be prosecuted for obtaining money under false pretenses. It is as positively proven by these disasters that no one can get anything of value from God or Jesus for their investment in them than if they bought a check on an imaginary bank of a confidence man. If one can be prosecuted for obtaining money under false pretenses, why can't the other where the case is as probable? But where nearly all are idol "grafters," expecting to get the liberty to continue crimes, protection from harm, abundant prosperity in this world, and everlasting happiness in a ready-made "mansion in the skies" for so little invested there is none to make much of a remonstrance against those who give them such a fine chance to "fleece" the idols.

The only way then to overthrow idolatry is to teach the would-be idol swindlers that they are the ones that are swindled and that the idols really give them nothing in return, and that it is the middle man, or clergyman, who gets all there is of value in the deal. The constant dripping of water will wear away stone, and I believe the constant pouring of proof will wear through the thickest skull. With that object in view there should be a hundred young men in our college preparing to go out among the people as instructors to pour the evidence on them thick and fast that they are being swindled by dealing in idols. It is not money invested that constitutes the greatest loss, it is the act of worshiping a man created God and a dead Jew which constitutes idolatry of the rankest kind and disgraces not only the idolaters but all of us and the age and country in which we live for all coming time. If you wish future generations to give us credit for one redeeming act to counter balance the contempt in which they will hold us as idolaters I urge you to join the Church of Humanity and aid in making a start to overthrow that idolatry.

When the children of publishers, lecturers and writers against the Christian mythology become converts to that superstition it shows a grave failure of duty of the parents for which they cannot be excused.

Parents cannot save their children from idolatry until they are willing to pay as much in time and money to teach them the truth about God as the Christians are to teach their children idolatry.

Nothing Unusual About It.

Some of my Christian critics say the claim of the members of our church that they have discovered that God is a myth is absurd since the wisest men of all ages could not make the discovery. There is nothing in that criticism to prove that we could not have made it. Every year there are new discoveries made in nearly all branches of knowledge that was never known by those "wisest men."

Many of the greatest discoveries made were made by common people who made no pretense of being "wise." Many of those discoveries were so simple when understood that the wonder is, not that they were made, but that every body did not know them long before. For ages the "wisest" chemists have been trying to discover a process of tempering copper, yet it was discovered by by a newsboy named Robert Anderson of Los Angeles, Calif. who "exhibited a copper ax and several knives tempered to the hardness of steel to experts," says a news item of March 4. He asks $1,500 000 for the secret.

The discovery we made that God is a myth is so very simple when understood thatit is astonishing that all people cannot make it for themselves. We do not ask $1,500,000 for the discovery. We are anxious to teach it to others through our publication for 25 cents a year. It should not take anyone long to learn it. It is not necessary for you to learn all the languages, dig in all the ruins, study all the sacred writing or to be an expert in all branches of knowledge to learn that God is a creation of fiction.

All that is necessary is to listen to a God-maker a few minutes and then look about you a few minutes and you will at once discover that he had just been making God as he went along with his story or was only repeating what some other God-maker had said or written. There is ample proof in every home, in every newspaper and in every church to teach anyone that God is a myth when one knows how to recognize that proof and apply it.

The Idol in Wall Street.

Mrs. J. Alden Gaylord mixes her idolatry and business in Wall Street as shown by a news item.

"I never did like cowards and therefore I asked God to help me to stand up like a man. I am in Wall Street, with God's help, to make money. I am not here of my free choice, but from necessity and by a guidance of a higher power. I feel that I have the assistance of God," she says.

Some, who don't know that God is a myth, may wonder if he is a "bear" or a "bull" and if the common scrub stock will stand any show when on the opposite side of the market.

"Idol" is the "Key."

"Idol!" Mrs. Eddy, "Idol," is the "key" that unlocks the meaning of the scriptures, and of the Christian religion.

The God of the Jews as of the Christians of today is simply an idol—a man-made God—a creation of fiction—a myth. The "key" you discovered is a false one, or it may be a skeleton key since it has made a good many skeletons. Here are two that may be charged to it:

"Denver, Colo., Feb. 9.—Belle Brown, 20, who came here to marry Frank Senter, a baker, and found he had died the day before, is dead of a broken heart.

Senter was a Christian Scientist and died of a nasal hemorrhage, refusing medical aid."

Educate Your Neighbors.

I have received some letters asking me how many church members and Sunday school scholars our church has in Great Bend, saying they are alone in a priest-ridden neighborhood and are therefore unable to do anything in the organization line.

It is said a poor excuse is better than none but that is no excuse for not laying the foundation for organization. Would you expect to build a church edifice before laying the foundation first? The foundation of a church society must precede the organization as it does the edifice. Education must precede organization. You must teach the people what you want them to know. The people of your neighborhood are no more superstitious and idolatrous than they are here. They doubtless can learn the truth about God as quickly and as easily as they can here. It will cost you no more to teach them than it costs me to teach the people here. In fact it will cost you much less if you have a paying occupation, as you will not need to abandon it as I have to do. You can go right on making money and do the necessary educational work at the same time. It will take three to five year's educational work before you have the foundation for the organization completed, and that only for a small society at first. We have no society here either, but hope to have some day when the necessary teaching is done.

As I am not a public speaker and so far have been unable to hire one far enough advanced in the knowledge of God I must depend on suitable literature as you do. You might begin the educational work by ordering a hundred copies of our church paper each month for free distribution. They are only 1 cent a copy in bundles.

Don't be discouraged if they can't learn it in a year or two. Let them know that the discoveries are made that God, Satan and Holy Ghost are fabulous beings, that heaven and hell are myths and that the dead do not live again. Give them a start in how to learn these truths. The sooner they begin to learn them the sooner they will be ready to help you organize.

Too Much God?

One man writes that I have too much about God in the paper to suit him.

He may belong to one type of Christians who do not wish to know the truth about God if it is not what they had been previously taught.

But if he only wants a variety of reading matter he should subscribe for a few of the Freethought publications mentioned in this paper. A dime to any of them will bring him sample copies. Then he can choose those he likes best.

The belief in the existence of a God is the root from which spring every religion and idolatry that can be seriously objected to by civilized man. The Bible and Jesus could be discarded as objects of veneration and worship, but idolatry would continue so long as the God idea is retained.

When the idea that there is a real God is driven out of the peoples minds then will idolatry of Bibles and saviors cease. The foundation of all religions will then be destroyed and the foliage consisting of revelations and saviors and prophets and popes wither and die of their own accord. Real truths of nature and teachers of those truths will take their places. The brain of man will not become a vacuum, as one Christian informs me it will, but a store house of true knowledge instead of being a store house of fables and idolatry.

As our special mission is to teach the discovered fact that God is a myth and to organize those who know that fact into a society to spread and perpetuate that teaching this little sheet will be confined to those objects.

The primary object now is to find those far enough advanced in the knowledge of God to be elegible to membership and induce them to join with us in this educational work.

Following Abraham's Example.

Thomas Darrell, fifty-five years old, an inmate of the Johnson Co. (Ind.) Infirmary killed a roommate, named Cyrus Brown, in obedience to the command of two angels who had come to him in a dream, he says. He says there was no ill feeling between him and the victim, and cannot explain why he did it except that the two angels told him to kill Brown. Of course he was arrested. He will be sent to an asylum or the gallows. The fables in the Bible of dreams and visions taught to children as truths and of great value are responsible far undue importance attached to dreams. Abraham is held up as "the father of the faithful" and an example to follow because he was willing to sacrifice his son in obedience to a command he received in a dream. The Christian world believes that Jesus was the son of a God by the evidence of a dream Joseph is said to have had in regard to the matter.

Superstition?

In obtaining evidence as to who murdered J. M. Christmas and wife and young son at their home near Cottonwood, Ala., a detective resorted to a novel plan. A news item says: "A detective from Chicago hid in the woods near Cottonwood and posed as an escaped murderer from Georgia. He hired a negro whom he suspected to bring his meals to a spot near where he also hid a ventriloquist. A mule grazing in the woods was made by the ventriloquist to talk to the negro, whose superstition was worked upon until he confessed the details of the murder to the mule. The detective overheard the confession and tonight arrested two parties and will make other arrests. The case reveals a remarkable example of the superstition of the negro race."

It does! 'Peers to me I have heard a number of the whites say, and have received letters from a number of others, saying that every word in the Bible is true, and that a person is both wicked and stupid who does not believe it.

Num. 22:28 reads: "And the Lord opened the mouth of the ass, and he said unto Balam, What have I done unto thee, that thou hast smitten me these three times? 29. And Balam said unto the ass, Because thou hast mocked me: I would there were a sword in mine hand, for now I would kill thee.

30. And the ass said unto Balam, Am not I thine ass, upon which thou hast ridden ever since I was thine, unto this day? Was I ever wont to do so unto thee? And he said nay."

If it isn't superstition to believe this Bible yarn, what is it? From that negroe's view point was not that talking mule a parallel case to Balam's ass?

Perhaps that "remarkable example of the superstition of the negro race" is only a reflection of the religious education they received from the "white trash."

Parents who are free from idolatry through learning the truth about God must be made to understand that they are responsible for the idolatry of their children and that they can't evade that responsibility by trying to shift it to the teachers of idolatry.

The founder and editor of the Blue Grass Blade died February 7 at his home, Quakeracre, near Lexington, Kentucky. The following extracts from the account of his life's work and funeral appeared in various papers giving them a write-up:

From the Cincinnati Enquirer.

"Charles Chilton Moore editor of the Prohibition-Infidel paper, the Blue Grass Blade, and one of the most noted Atheists in the world, died at his country home, "Quakeracre," in this county this afternoon, after a long illness of asthma and heart trouble.

Charles C. Moore was one of the most remarkable characters in the state and was probably the most picturesque editor in the world. He was born of wealthy and influential parents, and early turned his attention to the ministry. He was a grandson of the late Barton Stone, who was the co-worker of Alexander Campbell in the establishment of the religious sect so numerous throughout the Middle West and commonly referred to as the Campbellite religion.

After receiving a thorough education which would fit him for the ministry young Moore was ordained and became the pastor of the Christian church. * * * The Civil War caused him to abandon his calling for a time and he joined the Confederate army.

After the war he again engaged in preaching for several years.

About this time he was visited by a former college class-mate who called himself a non-believer, and after services one Sunday night he took up the task of converting his companion. The two discussed religion the entire night, Rev. Moore meeting every objection of the doubtful one and finally convinced him that he was wrong and that the Bible was true and that Christianity was founded on truth, righteousness and love.

In convincing his friend, however, Moore opened up a new line of thought for himself, and the more he thought the more convinced did he become that he was wrong, and it was not long after this that he startled his congregation by the announcement that he had come to disbelieve the truth of the Bible and could not therefore continue as their pastor and guide. This announcement created one of the greatest sensations of the day, and leading ministers of the Christian denomination visited young Moore for several weeks and besought him on bended knees to renounce his unbelief and come again into the church.

Moore was deaf to all their appeals, however, and quit the pulpit for good."

From the Louisville Herald.

"Lexington, Ky., Feb. 9.—The body of Charles Chilton Moore, the noted Infidel and teacher, was laid to rest this afternoon in the beautiful Lexington cemetery, amid the most remarkable and unusual scenes ever witnessed at a funeral in this city.

The funeral procession was one of the longest seen here in years, and fully one thousand people had wended their way to the cemetery chapel before the hour set for the services in order to hear the funeral orations delivered by those of the same faith as the deceased and the crowd then followed the remains to the grace where they stood with bared heads while the last oration was delivered as the body was lowered to its last resting place.

The first address was made by Mrs. Josephine K. Henry, of Versailles, Ky., the most noted woman freethinker of the present age, and she was followed by Dr. J. B. Wilson of Cincinnati, while Moses Kaufman, of this city, made a brief address at the grave.

The unusual ceremonies were perhaps the most solemn ever held in the cemetery and were in strict accordance with the wishes of editor Moore, who asked that the funeral be conducted in this manner and named the three people he wanted to deliver the orations if it were possible for them to do so. *

The funeral was attended by many prominent people of the city among whom were many of the leading ministers who stood by in silence and heard the beautiful expressions of sympathy and love for the dead with no hope held out for a meeting in the next world."

As I have not space here to reproduce the three great orations delivered at the funeral of this noted converted preacher by converted christians, and the fuller comments of the press, that I would like to give, I ask all my readers, who are not subscribers to the Blue Grass Blade, to send a stamp to its editor at Lexington, Ky., for the two copies of it dated Feb. 11 and 18, containing them in full.

Mr. Moore was one of a coterie of a dozen or so co-temporaneous editors and publishers in this country who heroically lead the forces teaching the truths about nature and life in their conquest of ignorance, superstition and idolatry. He will be greatly missed from the vanguard of the destroyers of idolatry who are all too few to cope with ignorance and superstition intrenched as they are in fear, prejudice, custom and organization. We can hope though that the place made vacant by a fallen hero will be more than filled by volunteers who will take up the work where he left off and continue the educational work with renewed vigor and push forward, even more energetically and systematically, in the great world work of overthrowing the idolatry of worshiping a man-made God and a dead Jew.

In the next issue I expect to point out where we should profit by his example in following his course in some respects and by following a different course in other respects; and wherein the orations at the funeral can be improved on.

Then and Now.

The belief in prophecies is deeply inculcated in the minds of all by the rehersal of 'Noah and the Ark" fable in the Bible by the teachers of idolatry. The destruction of the inhabitants of the world, with a few exceptions, was due to a disbelief in the prophecy of Noah, they teach. They hold the lost world up to ridicule for its skepticism and condone its destruction as a just retribution of their man-made God.

Now the negroes of Memphis, Tenn., are going to profit by the dreadful fate of the antediluvian world and don't intend to be caught naping as it was. Consequently when Aunt Ginnie Cole, an old negress, prophecied that on March 25 Memphis would sink beneath the waters of the Mississippi river they began hiking. Negroes are leaving Memphis by the hundreds, frightened out of their wits by the prophecy, says the account. Neither persuasion nor ridicule has availed to dissuade the black believers, and a negro exodus appears inevitable.

The point to be seen in this case is that while some think that the reason the ancients disbelieved in Noah's prophecy was because they were ignorant and think the reason why people believe in Aunt Cole's prophecy is because they are ignorant.

A $1,000 Bet on Clergymen Won.

A comedian named Henry E. Dixey was refused membership in the Pittsburg Y. M. C. A. on the ground of being an actor says the New York World of March 12.

Mr. Dixey was so indignant that he offered to give one thousand dollars to charity if it could be shown that there are more actors than clergymen in the State prisons of the United States.

Aside from considering men as to whose antecedents there is doubt the poll of the prisons stands as follows: Actors; 21; Clergymen, 44. Besides Florida reports "many colored preachers," and South Carolina reports "no white ministers" intimating there are some colored ones.

All this proves there is no God to answer the daily prayers of the clergy to keep them from sin and crime. It proves that the clergymen are mistaken when they tell how God destroyed their desire for strong drink, tobacco; cigaretts and cigars when they were "converted." Had there been a God doing all that he would have destroyed their desire for the greater crimes that landed them in the State prisons.

It proves that the clergymen are not "called" to their occupation by an omniscient God when with a very little fore-sight he could have seen them in State prisons where their example in crime is a louder sermon for evil than any they could deliver for good.

It proves that idolatry, and ignorance of the truth about God is not a preventative of crime as the idolaters affirm it is.

It proves that we need not teach our children lies, about there being an omnipresent God as an unseen sleepless, sleuth detective ever on their trail to find an excuse to roast them in an endless hell, in order to scare them into being idolaters under the false idea that they will then be safe from the commission of crimes. Many of those who are hired to teach our children those lies, and are supposed to believe them, are themselves behind prison doors for the commission of great crimes.

Shall We Have Funeral Services.

The orations at the funeral of C. C. Moore was a grand success as an educational lesson to idolaters. Perhaps they did more to shake the faith of the idolaters in the reality of their idols than any thing else. I believe funeral orations, as an educational feature, should be delivered at the graves of all members of the Church of Humanity. Mrs. Henry and Mr. Wilson I believe, could fill the bill by making some little changes in some of their sentiments and joining the church.

Then as State Instructors for the church they should be entitled to preachers' rates on all railroads, and perhaps would be allowed them.

They are well prepared for such duties and could respond to a call on short notice. I ask all the church members who are not readers of the Blue Grass Blade of Lexington, Ky., to send stamps for copies of the Feb. 11 and 18 issues of that paper and read the orations of Mrs. Henry and Mr. Wilson delivered at the funeral of Mr. Moore, the editor of that paper. I want you to see them and to judge if those people would do to conduct funeral services for our members. I believe by all means we should make some arrangements to have funerals of our members conducted by persons selected for the purpose. We should most certainly not accept the services of idolaters under any circumstances. By having one or more officially authorized to conduct our funerals they could prepare for the duties and hold themselves in readiness to respond to calls on a moments notice.

There are quite a number of very old people in our church and it is a matter of prudence that they make arrangements for their funeral services in advance as Mr. Moore did.

The Christians use this sad event to inculcate superstition and idolatry. It is right and sensible that we should use it as an occasion to inculcate truth and wisdom. It will be a great consolation to know in advance that when one is consigned to the grave his course in doing his duty as he understood it will be ably defended and justified.

The Truth About God, only 25c a year.

Life membership in Church of Humanity with a certificate of graduation in the knowledge of God, only one dollar.

If you want the people to be free from idolatry you should help to establish a society to give them the necessary teaching.

The primary object of this publication is to find those far enough advanced in the knowledge of God to be elegible to membership in the Church of Humanity, and to get them enrolled as life members and founders of it. I want the church to have 1000 members before I call a national convention of the members for formal organization and incorporation. If you, reader, wish to be one of the founders of it please send in your application for membership at once.

Harboring a Deadly Viper.

When any idolatry is allowed to fasten itself to a government to be fostered and protected from criticism by it, it soon seeks to dominate that government and would help to destroy it rather than relenquish its presumed right to control it. We have an example of this arrogance of a state fostered idolatry in France now. The Catholic brand of idolatry has been supported by France with government aid for a hundred years. Now that idolatry, led by its priests, would incite a war of rebellion rather than allow the government to take an inventory of its church property according to law.

VOL. I. Great Bend, Kansas, April, 1906. No. 5.

The Church of Humanity.

The evolution of the church as represented by the Church of Humanity is so marvelous as to be beyond the comprehension of most people at first. Very few can recognize that this church is in reality an evolution of all previous churches. So strange to them is the truth about God that they are unable to comprehend that it is truth at all, or that this church really teaches the ultimate knowledge of God, the goal to which all churches aspire.

But there is such a wide space between the most advanced Christian church and the Church of Humanity that other churches cannot see that this church is in a straight line with themselves as viewed from idol worship at the beginning of historic times to the final emergence of our race from it. Idolatry has been a fungus growth on the intellect of our race. If it ever filled a useful purpose it has most certainly outlived that usefulness and is now a great incumbrance to the advancement of our race in wisdom and civilization, as perhaps it ever has been. All sacred mythologies have been false leads, or by-paths, along the rough journey of our race from savagery to civilization. They have cost it thousands of years and indescribable suffering, before they were found to be false and were abandoned or retraced. The Christian mythology has cost a large part of our race hundreds of worse than wasted years and perhaps more suffering and treasure than any other mythology, and the end is yet a long ways off.

A few however, have seen through the rifts made in the mythologies by the scientists, and have made the greatest discoveries in historic times—the discovery that there is no such beings as God, Satan and Holy Ghost or such places as heaven and hell in all the universe, and that conscious life ceases at death. These discovered truths are the basis on which all who have learned them are uniting under the name of the Church of Humanity to teach them to others, and especially to the children, that idolatry may be eliminated from our civilization in time.

These discovered truths are to be the uniform international scientific standard by which to measure and determin the mistakes of all religions, churches and creeds and their hundreds of branches.

The devotees of each religious sect have always used their creed as a measure to judge all others creeds and the discoveries of science by. Their creed being wrong it was a false standard to measure with. At last we have found a true standard of creed measurement. This standard measures all religious creeds uniformally, impartially and correctly. When people once learn this scientifie standard of measurement they will be experts in the art of testing the true value of any form of idolatry they may be asked to subscribe to and support.

Looking back through the ages we can see the fatal errors made by all people in every age and clime for want of this standard of measurement. Looking forward to coming time we can see the universal good it will do. People will no longer be imposed on by being led into the practice and support of idol worship by false prophets and leaders. But these great discoveries will be made in vain unless the evidence of their reality be taught the people. People will continue in idolatry until they thoroughly learn the proof that these discoveries are really true. To shorten the time it will take the people to learn these discovers they must be taught to the children. They cannot be taught them without teachers. Teachers cannot be provided for them without organization. Organization cannot be accomplished unless those who know these truths now are willing to join the Church of Humanity to make it strong enough to organize. You, who know these truths, will not join with us unless you object to having idolatry forced upon you and your posterity as it will be by law sometime if more people are not taught these discoveries. Then these discoveries would be suppressed by law and another term of dark ages would be inaugurated with all the horrors of the Spanish Inquisition revived. It is said history repeats itself. Do you who have read the history of the Dark Ages want them repeated? They will be as soon as the idolaters of all creeds unite as many of them are now trying to do. The liberty we now have to teach these discoveries will be taken from us as it was taken from Gallileo and Bruno to teach the truths of nature they had discovered. Our only safety lies in teaching these discoveries to more people so the task of suppressing them would be made impossible. Those who have learned the truths on which the Church of Humanity is based can surely recognize the importance of organizing to teach and perpetuate them. Therefore I most earnestly invite all such persons who are not yet members of this church to send in their applications for membership at once. Do not delay. Do IT NOW.

My "Graft."

A friend heard a man remark, after looking at a copy of our church paper a moment, "that man is working a graft."

The truth of that remark depends on what one means by "graft," how an enterprise turns out, and on the value one sets on things accomplished.

If I can be of any aid in accomplishing the object I desire, and am not placing too great a value on that object, and if the gaining of things of great value for very little comparatively invested is a "graft," I plead guilty. Now I shall give you the measurements and you can easily see what a magnificent "graft" I will have if I succeed. I have six children and I value their preservation from the idolatry of worshiping a myth named God and a dead Jew named Jesus at one million dollars each. All my descendants—don't know how many—at one million dollars each. All that I expect to invest for this great value is my time and ten to fifteen thousand dollars.

Unlike most other grafters I am perfectly willing to give the "snap" away and even urge others to come in with me and make as great a profit. Some have not so many children to raise their profits so high as mine but I will not ask them to invest so much in the enterprise. One dollar is all I ask for letting a man in on the ground floor. He then stands an equal chance with myself to win. In this age of "Frenzied Finance" when most every one is crazy to find a "graft" to work I think here is a magnificent opportunity that should not be missed. Gentlemen, send in your applications for membership.

Children Sacrificed to Idols.

Christianity has made millions of converts by rehersing stories of heathens sacrificing their children to their supposed God. They tell of children being thrown to alligators, into the Ganges and into volcanos as a sacrifice to their God to appease his wrath or insure his blessing. But what can you say of Christians who sacrifice their children in this land and age to their idol—a man-made God? Certainly no heathen was ever more ignorant of the real nature of his idol. Certainly no heathen ever deserved more severe condemnation for the sacrifice of his child to his idol than do modern idolaters under the name of Faith Curist, Divine Healers, &c.

We often read of children suffering with diseases, that are generally easily cured by qualified physicians, but are refused medical aid and left to suffer and die; a sacrifice to an idol—a man-made God. A case in point is that of Grace Bates, three years old. Here is the account as given by the press:

"Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 24.—Declaring that a parent who failed to provide medical attention for his sick child is guilty of criminal negligence, Coroner Jermon yesterday held David Bates, a member of the Divine Healing Congregation of Faith Tabernacle, in $2,000 bail for a further hearing today.

Ambrose Clark, assistant pastor of the Tabernacle, was arrested on a warrant issued by the Coroner.

Bates's daughter, Grace, died Tuesday night at his home, No. 144 West Tioga street, after three weeks' illness of typhoid fever.

J. Wesley Ankins and Ambrose Clark, pastor and assistant pastor of Faith Tabernable, frequently prayed over the sick child and told the parents that God would heal her, and that doctors and medicine were anti-Christian."

No child was ever more truly sacrificed to an idol through the ignorance of an idolatrous parent, than was this child.

Were it not that the community worships the same idol and does not wish to bring it into disrepute this case would not be named "criminal negligence" but rank idolatry of the most heathenish type wherein human sacrifice is required. Did any heathens come to our land with a different idol on which they depend for aid in sickness they would be held up to ridicule by Christians as being heathen idol-worshipers that could not be tolerated in this land and age

If you, reader, wish the idolatry that requires the sacrifice of innocent children overthrown by the educational process, join the Church of Humanity and help in the overthrow.

If you have children they are worth saving from idolatry. You cannot save them except by having them taught the truth about God. That teaching will cost you time and money. But no teaching is more important. If you neglect your duty they will have to depend on the teachers of errors concerning God who will make idolaters of them. Can you afford to do that?

When we read the press dispatches giving Dowie's curses on his enemies as he ferociously charges on them in Zion City we are forceably reminded of the malevolent disposition of the old Bible prophets including Jesus.

The Truth About God

International Lesson

DAILY PROOF THAT THERE IS NO GOD.

OBJECT LESSON I.

[By the International Instructor for the Church of Humanity.]

Above the graves of our perished loved ones the Church of Humanity proclaims God a myth.

Every evangelist of idolatry point to the one who escaped death as a living monument to the protecting power of a loving God.

The Church of Humanity point to the one who did not escape as a prostrate monument to the truth that there is no God in the universe.

They point to the happy mother whose child returned to health. We point to the weeping mother whose child perished. They point to the living millions, we to the perished trillions.

They make millions of converts to idolatry with their evidence. Why should we not make hundreds of converts to truth with ours? They have the living to add their testimony that a God protects them. are not the silent dead as good witnesses that no God protects? The living can be mistaken in their testimony, the dead cannot be.

In a few years the living witnesses to the protection of a God are dead, and thus prove they were mistaken about there being a protecting God.

They then become our witnesses, for the dead cannot lie.

So the living who escape destruction temporarily are no evidence at all that there is a God, while those who perish are positive evidence that no God exists.

It will not be so difficult to rescue people from idolatry when they once know there is no God who knows or cares anything about them. They will not care then whether there is a God or not and will listen to the evidence of his non-existence with as much interest as to that of his existence since it will not effect their existence in the least whether there be a God or not.

And here is positive daily evidence that no God knows or cares for human beings:

"Silverton, Col., March 20.—Sixteen men have been crushed or suffocated to death by the avalanches in this district in the last three days.

"Boston, March 20.—In a blizzard at sea the Lady Antrim was wrecked and her crew of five men perished.

"Birmingham, Ala., Feb. 27.—Six miners were killed and twelve badly injured, most of whom will die, by an explosion in the Little Cahaba Mine No. 2, at Piper, Ala.

"Vicksburk, Miss., Jan. 23.—The steamer Helena was blown up at Whitehall Landing and four men killed.

"Fargo, N. D., March 27—Two men were roasted to death in a freight car near Garden station.

"Dallas, Tex., Apr. 6.—Prof. Renau, a teacher, was struck by lightning and instantly killed.

"Norfolk, Va., April 4 —Many are reported dead and injured in a train wreck at Juniper Station.

"Fort Worth, Tex., March 27.—Three persons fatally hurt and twelve others badly hurt in a train wreck at Carthage.

"Redding Cal,, Feb. 21.—A landslide caused a train wreck in which six persons are killed.

"Birmingham, Ala., March 27.—Two miners are killed and several injured in an explosion in the Reader mines.

"London, March 27.—In a terrible storm at sea off the Northern Portuguese coast a ship went down with all on board.

"Brantford, Ontario, March 27.—Two Salvation Army recruits just arrived from England were struck by a train while on a bridge and killed.

"Fairmount, W. Va., March 23.—Thirty men are dead, twenty-five injured and 35 unaccounted for as a result of an explosion of gas in a shaft of the Century coal mine at Century.

"London, March 20.—Advices from Faihoku, capital of the island of Formosa, state that an earthquake on that island destroyed 1400 houses and killed 1,014 people and injured 695.

"Naples, Italy, April 11.—As a result of the volcanic eruptions of Mount Vesuvious 2000 people have lost their lives."

And so the daily destruction of life goes on all over the world oblivious of idolatrous creeds.

This proves that not one form of idolatry has the slightest effect to stay the unintelligent forces of nature in their work of destruction of human life.

It proves there is no such a being as a God to control or modify the forces of nature in the interests of our race in the slightest particular. Why should any care if there be a God or not when we have daily evidence that no such a being knows or cares for our race, or any member of it?

Why should we not all feel free to learn the truth about God when that knowledge will protect us from being imposed on by idolaters who refuse to learn the truth?

Why should any of us wish to worship an imaginary being that has not the slighest existence in fact?

Why should we make our children idolaters or allow others to do it?

Can't you see by this evidence that no God knows or cares for those who were the victims of these disasters?

Can't you admit that some of them at least were as good idolaters as yourselves?

Can't you believe that as they worshiped the same God you do if he was a raality he would have protected them if he is protecting you from harm?

The imaginary God you worship you believe fills all space, sees and knows everybody all the time, loves and cares for everybody, especially those who love and worship him.

Can you see the slightest difference in the treatment accorded by nature to the idolaters and the non-idolaters? Can you see any difference in the treatment between man and other animals nature makes in these destroying forces?

Logical Conclusions:

1. Since every form and brand of Christian idolatry, hope, faith and belief were represented by the victims of these recorded fatalities none of them can be true or have the slightest influence as a protector from destruction.

2. Since there is no God to care for the body and all it contains in this world there can be none to care for any part of it in any other world.

3. Since God is a fictitious character the worship of him is rank idolatry and should be discontinued.

4. Since the people cannot know that God is a myth until they are taught it, the few who do know it should join the Church of Humanity and make it strong enough to do the teaching.

Do It Now.

Apply the Scientific Standard.

Creed-Measure.

People are coming to grief every day because they have not learned to apply the Scientific Standard of measurement to the various forms of idolatry.

The Standard Creed-Measure is the basis of the Church of Humanity and reads as follows:

All Gods, Devils and Holy Ghosts are fabulous beings, heaven and hell are myths and death is the permanent cessation of life.

Memorize this measure and you will be prepared to instantly reject any form of idolatry presented to you for acceptance and support.

Here is one case where the ignorance of this measure and how to apply it caused fatal results:

"Chicago, April 5.—Faith in divine healing caused the death of Mrs. Lucia Due. Due and his wife conducted a faith cure cult. Mrs. Due was attacked with violent erysipelas. Due summoned Dr W. J. Anderson, but refused to allow him to apply restoratives.

"He summoned me so that at the inquest he could say he had called in a physician," said Dr. Anderson. "When I was called to the house the woman was unconscious and I told him she had but a short time to live.

"No, no, the Lord will heal her," said Due. I told him the woman had not more than five hours to live and suggested that I be allowed to apply restoratives. "It can do no good, medicine never helps one." said Due."

Another case where the knowledge of the Standard Creed-Measure should have been applied was at the funeral of S. S. Wilard of Springfield, Mo. A "divine healer" named N. O. Tate, says the account, tried to restore the dead man to life by prayer and had to be thrown out after more than an hours praying so the funeral could proceed.

Thousands of people of Zion City are now coming to grief because they refused to learn and apply the Standard Creed-Measure when the Dowie spur of idolatry was offered them. When too late to save their property they found out that they were humbugged, and now are saying some uncomplimentary things about the "First Apostle of Jesus Christ," and are in rebellion against his authority. The new leader, Voliva, says "we don't believe that any man among us is a direct authorized agent of God." They will retrace their little side journey in idolatry back to the old heathen track instead of throwing the entire system of the Christian mythology overboard with its latest high priest that they have discovered at last is a fraud.

Regardless of the impression, Freethinkers, Secularists, Infidels, Rationalists and Atheists have that their children are smarter than these idolaters the fact remains that they are not. The brains of of the posterity of all these people are not one bit more developed than that of the idolaters. It is not a question of brain development but of education in the true knowledge of God. The children of the most abject slaves to idol worship can learn the truth about God as easily as can the children of non-Christians. Your posterity and mine will be as easily deceived by the Eddies and Dowies and saviors as any. The only way to save them from being humbugged by such idol mongers is to establish an organization able to give them the necessary teaching in the truth about God. Do you Mr. anti-Christian wish your posterity to be left to the mercy of the religious fakirs of the future? If not you will join the Church of Humanity and help to provide them with a sufficient standard of creed-measure with which they can protect themselves from such imposters.

Do It Now.

Blind Leaders of the Blind.

Mount Vesuvius, about 15 miles from Naples, Italy, and surrounded by a dense population, is an active volcano. It is estimated 2000 lives have been lost and many thousands more are in momentary danger of extinguishment. The priests are exhorting the terrified people to "pray my children; you may be sure God will not desert you" instead of telling them the truth that there is no such a being in the universe and to save themselves by flight.

As a result of that blind leadership "in many places the entire family was found dead, kneeling about their humble shrine. They were slain at prayer by the deadly gases."

Those people sacrificed their lives to their faith in the priests' hoodoo about a non-existing being caring for them. Your posterity and mine will ever be led by the blind leaders of hoodooism until they are taught how to protect themselves by the use of the standard measure for hoodooism on which the Church of Humanity is based and which reads as follows: All Gods, Devils and Holy Ghosts are fabulous beings, heaven and hell are myths and conscious life is forever ended at death.

When the very lives of your posterity depend on knowing this measure and how to apply it you are very indifferent if you will not give one dollar for life membership in a society that will teach them how to apply the measure if it gets euough members.

If you care to have the blind leaders, who lead the people into the very jaws of death, deposed join the Church of Humanity and Do It Now.

The Church of Humanity.

With this number of The Truth About God the Church of Humanity completes its first chapter in society building.

The first 100 have been found who have learned the truth about God and desires that truth promulgated and handed down to coming generations that they may be saved from the idolatry of worshiping a man-made God and a dead man named Jesus. They have applied for and received certificates of graduation in the knowledge of God and life membership in the Church of Humanity. They are the first hundred founders of the church. Their names and addresses with a short biography of each are given in this issue. We invite a full comparison in every particular between the character and worth of the members of this church and those of any Christian church. Note their honorable occupations and professions that include a wide range of diversified activities. Note their nationality, and the previous church connections of half of them. Are they not as honorable, as trustworthy, as good citizens as the same number of Christians anywhere? Are they not as good relatives, friends and neighbors as the Christians are? Why then should people refuse to learn the truth about God? What advantage then have idolaters over those who learn the truth and refuse to be idolaters? Is it not better to know the truth than to be ignorant of God's nature? Have not those the advantage who will learn the truths of nature and be prepared to protect themselves from being made idolaters by the teachers of idolatry? Would you rather your posterity knew the truth about God than be left in ignorance of his nature to fall a victim to the teaching of errors by the ignorant?

These people want posterity saved from the idolatry of worshiping a man-made God and a dead man. Hence they are uniting in an educational movement to give the necessary instruction to the young that alone can save them. They want all who know that God is a myth to unite with them. It should be less difficult to find the next hundred members with the first hundred members to help. The next chapter of one hundred members should be added in less than six months. The first hundred invites every subscriber to The Truth About God who has not done so to join the church at once and complete the second chapter in our church founding. Each one has a personal interest in this educational work. Do not wait for others to join first. No one can do your duty for you in this matter. We would not have known a single truth of science had no one taught it until all knew it. We would not have a single great labor saving invention had no one used it until all were ready.

If the few who have learned the discovery that God is a myth will not unite to teach that discovery until all are ready to receive it the people will remain idolaters forever and will never know the truth about God. Then don't wait for people who can not or will not learn the truth. Organize to save your own posterity from idolatry through the educational process. Some people still believe the earth flat and stationary. Would you refuse to have your children taught the truth on account of those people? Would you wait until they learn it? Why should you wait until the idolatres learn that their idol is a myth before you organize to teach your children the truth? Do you expect those who do not know the truth about God to teach anything but errors about him? There is only one course to take if you want anybody rescued from idolatry and that is for those who know the truth and want it taught to band together in a society and teach it. If you will not do that then you don't want the truth taught for there is no other method of teaching that will meet the requirements. The men have founded every church xcept the Christian Science church and they must found the society that teaches the truth about God. Children cannot do it. Women cannot do it. We will not expect or require them to. If the men are too cowardly to say they know that God is a myth we cannot expect the women and children to say so. If men are afraid of a God that does not exist, hurting them in any way for saying so, we cannot expect the women to be more brave.

If men are afraid to acknowledge they have learned that God is a myth for fear of it effecting their social or business relations with those who have not learned that truth how can we ever expect women and children to do so. Women and children are more sensitive as a general thing to what they believe is the local popular prejudice. Men alone have the power to change conditions and prejudices. Men can see beyond local affairs and present time. Children and most women cannot. When men popularize the truth about God by building up a strong educational society the women and children will be naturally attracted to it. When the men erect the substantial frame work of the society then suitable work must be planned for the women and children so they can aid in society building. I am glad to acknowledge the presence of a number of women and children in our church and appreciate fully their worth and aid and will continue to extend a glad welcome to them. The church should have at least 1000 members before it formally organizes and incorporates. Let the men who know that God is a myth set the right example by placing the acknowledgement of that fact above financial or social considerations.

The preservation of a child from idolatry should outweigh all other considerations of its father. He should not for a moment think of his financial or social matters in deciding whether to allow his child to be made an idolater by those ignorant of what God is. What must be thought of a man so totally depraved that he will knowingly make his wife and children worshipers of a myth-God and a dead Jew and pretend to be so himself in hopes of getting thereby an advantage in a little financial dicker? Is he not lower in moral worth than those who are idolaters through ignorance? Does he not deserve the scorn and contempt of even the idolaters who can see his motives beneath his hypocricy? The honest idolaters who are such from ignorance of the nature of their idols admire and respect the sincere man no matter how great a difference in their teaching. The promulgation of a new discovery that is at first unpopular gains in popularity and respect as more people accept it and proclaim its truth. Hence the more people who recognize the truth about God and join a society that proclaims it the more popular that truth becomes and the more popular its advocates are. Therefore all those who wish the people to learn that God is a myth and cease idolatry should popularize that truth for them by proclaiming it themselves by uniting with a society for that purpose. That is the only course to take to popularize that and its believers and teachers.

We have found 100 who have learned that God is a myth and are not afraid or ashamed to acknowledge that they have done so. That makes the discovery 100 times as popular as it was, and I believe that when this church has 1000 members and is organized and incorporated the discovery will become so popular that people will apply for admission to it without waiting for an invitation to do so. But there is now a standing invitation by its 100 members to all the subscribers to the Truth About God to unite with them in the Church of Humanity and thereby add another chapter to it at once. Now readers let each of you, who are not members, accept the invitation of one of the members to join with him or her in this society, and the second chapter in our society building will be at once completed. Do not refuse the kind invitation extended to you by these people. Keep me busy this month filling out certificates of graduation in the knowledge of God and membership in the Church of Humanity. Nothing you could possibly do would please me and all the members more. Popularize yourself and the truth you know by promptly accepting the invitation to let the world know you have learned it. If you were undecided as to whether there is a God or not the terrible destruction of life at San Francisco by earthquake and fire in April should thoroughly convince you that God is a fabulous being and make you eligible to membership in a church that says so. Then accept the invitation of your comrades.

DO IT NOW. DON'T DELAY.

The earthquake at Frisco says by its actions there is no God and no intelligence back of it that knows man. Let us all believe and teach what it proves to be true by its actions.

The indiscriminate destruction of life by earthquake and volcano give the lie to every theologian and teacher of idolatry.

The Church of Humanity is founded on the truths of nature, hence is in perfect accord with the ravages of nature that know not man.

All other churches are founded on the mistaken guesses of man and are therefore contradicted by the forces of nature.

INVITATION—The 99 members and founders of the Church of Humanity invites, through their church paper, each subscriber to it who is not a member to unite with them in church membership during May. Now all do so. Nothing would please them more. Let each subscriber accept the invitation of a member I want to report another chapter to the members in June.

Finding Those Who Know the Truth and Want it Promulgated.

There are so few people who know that God is a myth and they are so widely scattered that it is a difficult matter to find them. After they are found it is a great task to urge most of them to do their duty in helping to found a society to promulgate that truth without which no one can be freed or saved from idolatry. The Church of Humanity is advertising extensively for those who know the truth about God that they may be invited to unite and found a society for the rescue and preservation of their children from the idolatry of worshiping a creation of fiction named God and a dead Jew named Jesus. It appears to me that all such people should not wait for a second invitation to unite for this purpose that they can see can not be accomplished without it. It is very encouraging though to know that some can recognize their duty and do it as soon as this subject of organization of our forces for educational work is called to their attention. The following are a few of that class who have promptly responded to the call:

"Henry Crouse, Moab, Utah.

The Truth Seeker of April 7 invites me to send 25 cents to you for a years subscription to the Truth About God. I am 72 years old. Am particularly interested in the truth. Have been groping many years. It is time for every person to cease to be an idolater of myths, fictions and falsehoods.

J. W. Day, Raymondville, Mo.

Enclosed find 25 cents for one years subscription. Also blank application for church membership, information about college etc.

E. W. Rodes, Golden Pond, Ky.

Please find money order 50 cents. Send your application blanks, and send us two copies of paper, 'Truth About God."

W. C. Sappington, Grandy, I.T.

Kindly send me blank application, also information about your college. Find 25 cents for subscription to the Truth About God.

Chas. A. Lee, Jacksboro, Tex.

Find enclosed 25 cents for "Truth About God." Send blanks and information in regard to membership in the Church of Humanity.

John Marsh, Saybrook, Ill.

Please send blanks for membership in the Church of Humanity, also information about your college. 25 cents enclosed for the "Truth About God."

Joseph H. Cloud, Wilmington, Del.

Enclosed please find order for two subscriptions to the "Truth About God," and please send blank applications for membership in the Church of Humanity. Saw ad. in Blue Grass Blade.

William Faraday, Altoona, Pa.

Enclosed find 25 cents for the "Truth About God." Send me blank application for membership in the Church of Humanity and information about the college. Saw your ad. in Humanitarian Review and am desirous of becoming one of the founders and organizers of the above church which teaches doctrins in accord with my belief. I believe when the truth is known and taught regarding these subjects the world will be better.

W. D. Harp, Kathleen, Fla.

I saw your ad. in Blue Grass Blade. Enclosed find 25 cents for the "Truth About God." Please send information about the Church of Humanity with blank application for membership.

John P. Williams, Dallas, Ga.

Enclosed find stamps for copies of Truth About God. I want to join the Church of Humanity, send blank application. I know there is no conscious existence after death, and that all the teaching about a real God, Devil, heaven and hell is nonsense and fables. I want to belong to a society that teaches truths instead of the fables.

A. H. Gibbs, Kansas City, Mo.

Just saw your ad. in Ingersoll Memorial Beacon. Please send me "Truth About God." I will be glad to become a member and subscriber if it is as good as it sounds in ad."

Let the good work go on until every reader of a Freethought publication is a member of the Church of Humanity and doing his or her duty in promulgating the truths that alone can free the people from idolatry. A man's first duty is to learn the truth about God and free himself from the idolatry of worshiping a creation of fiction and a dead man. But his duty does not end there by any means. He must free his children and loved ones. He can not do that alone. He must help to build up on organization that will be able to provide trained instructors for them, as the idolaters provide for the teaching of errors that make idolaters of the people.

Don't wait to send for blank applications for membership. Fill out the one in this paper, or write out one like it and answer all the questions in rotation and send it to me. I will do the rest. DO IT NOW. DON'T DELAY.

You are Away Behind, Doctor, Add Some More to It.

Rev. Dr. Algernon S. Crapsey, rector of St. Andrew's church, Rochester, N. Y. is the defendant in a heresy trial in the Protestant Episcopal church.

He is accused of having delivered sermons disputing the divinity of Christ, the Immaculate Conception, the bodily resurrection and the Trinity. One witness testified that on the night of Dec. 21, 1905 the Dr. said in his sermon, "Jesus was born of parents belonging to the middle class. He was born of a simple father and mother. He was the son of a carpenter. The fact that the early Christians predicated a miraculous birth of Christ is to be regarded as one of the greatest misfortunes that has ever befallen mankind."

Dr. Crapsey will make no attempt to repudiate the utterances credited to him but will insist that a broad view of the theological questions involved would justify everything he has said. A book, "Religion and Politics," which he published containing some of his alleged heretical sermons will be offered in evidence against him.

Well, well Dr., you are in a pretty pickle. Too far advanced to be of any service to a sect of Christian idolaters but not far enough advanced by nine-tenths to be elegible to membership in the Church of Humanity. You don't know enough about God to teach the cradle class in this church.

Now, good Dr. Crapsey, I advise you to add to your other repudiated theological ignorance the affirmations that God and Satan are fabulous beings, that heaven and hell are myths and that death ends conscious existence. Then employ, not idolatrous lawyers to defend you, but a few modern scientists who know something of the origin of life on this planet and of the formation of suns and systems of worlds in space. Make yours a trial between modern civilization and ancient barbarism, between knowledge and superstition, between scientific truths and theological idolatry, between truth and falsehood. Then if the idolaters throw you out by force of numbers come right forward and join the Church of Humanity where you will be welcomed with open arms and where there will never be any danger of you outgrowing your church or of being put out on account of becoming too wise.

If you had any lingering idea that it might be possible that God was a real being as claimed by idolaters all doubts should have been removed forever from your mind by the San Francisco disaster that proves beyond the shadow of a doubt that God is only a myth.

TO THE SUBSCRIBERS: Unite with the Church of Humanity. It is a movement of your class of readers and students of nature to have an organization of, by and for themselves to perpetuate the truth about God they have learned and hand it down to posterity that it may be saved from idolatry. Unite with those of your class and help in the founding of their society.

The invitation, with blank attached, to join the church on fourth page is published in a leaflet, 1 cent each. Send for some to hand or mail to those you think would join the church if invited to do so. The church members should each order a few.

The lesson is crowded out this month, but the earthquake at San Francisco should be lesson enough for one month to prove that God is a myth and cause those who can understand the truth it teaches to join the Church of Humanity.

TO THE CHURCH MEMBERS: As Mr. J. E. Roberts has resigned as minister of "The Church of This World" at Kansas City and is "out of a job" why not invite him to unite with us and do field work for the Church of Humanity as a state or national instructor? Will some of the members write to him in regard to the proposition? He should be kept in the lecture field. Others can raise corn and beans, but very few are able to raise people from their idolatrous knees. Such people are most needed now. Not one of them should be allowed to engage in other occupations for want of "calls" if it can be helped. Address, J. E. Roberts, Hotel Baltimore, K. C., Mo.

JOIN THE CHURCH OF HUMANITY.

An Urgent Invitation From All Its Members

TO All Readers of Freethought Publications And Scientific Works That Disprove The Existence of a God to Unite With Them in the Church of Humanity

TO SAVE OUR CHILDREN FROM IDOLATRY.

BY

W. H. KERR, 2210 Broadway, Great Bend, Kansas, Editor of the Church Organ "The Truth About God" and Temporary International Instructor For The Church of Humanity.

JOIN THE CHURCH OF HUMANITY. DO IT NOW. DON'T DELAY. This is a movement of all the readers of Freethought publications and of scientific books that disprove the existence of a God. We must organize to save the children from idolatry. Papers and books are not doing that and cannot do it. It requires personal teaching by qualified instructors to use the books as it does in teaching other branches of knowledge to children.

The teachers of idolatry are making converts to idolatry of our own children while we delude ourselves with the idea that we have more sense than the Christians and that Christianity is bankrupt and nearly dead. It is not dead and never will be until the people are taught the truth about God. We, who read and understand anti-Christian publications and scientific works that prove that God is a myth, must organize to promulgate those truths.

Let every one of those readers unite in the Church of Humanity now to propagate and perpetuate their knowledge. We are none too many to enable us to organize and incorporate if every reader of anti-idolatry publications unite as life members and founders of the Church of Humanity. The church has 100 members now and wants 1000 before a convention is called to formally organize and incorporate.

The church invites and urges you to become a life member and one of the founders of it. The first 1000 members will be the incorporaters and founders.

Let us all unite in this common society. Let us be builders of society. Let us be teachers of the Truth About God. Let us save the children from idolatry regardless of cost in time and money.

The Church of Humanity is based on the great scientific discoveries that God, Satan and Holy Ghost are fabulous beings; that heaven and hell are mtyhs and that death is the permanent cessation of conscious life. Members assume no obligations except those voluntary given. All those who know God is a myth are eligible to membership in the church.

When the application for membership is filled out and sent me I shall record it in the Book of Life and send the applicant a certificate of graduation in the Knowledge of God, making him a life member and a founder of the Church of Humanity.

The special work of our church and its paper is organizing the readers of anti-Christian publications. We can do nothing without organization, while with it we can have congenial society of our own; promote the reading and study of publications that are helping to overthrow idolatry; establish a course of study suitable for church, Sunday school and college use in teaching the discoveries on which the society is founded; spread and perpetuate those truths; save the children from the idolatry of worshiping a man-made God and a dead man; accomplish the final overthrow of idolatry and the substitution of scientific knowledge in its place; furnish our own society, teach our own children, marry those of our own knowledge, bury our own dead, promote our own enterprises, support our own churches, schools and teachers.

Would not all that be better than to be dead-beats in society while the teachers of ancient errors make idolaters of our children? If you think it would be let your answer be your application for membership in the Church of Humanity which is hereby attached ready for you to fill out and return to the editor. Do It Now. DON'T DELAY. Add 25 cents for "The Truth About God" a year if you are not a paid up subscriber.

Now please don't wait for another invitation to unite with society composed of the readers of Freethought papers and magazines and books that proves Christianit a mythology. We must learn the art of society building and teaching. It is absolutely necessary to protect our children from being victimized by the Eddies and Dowies of the future. This church is a safe refuge for all members of all other churches who have learned that their church is teaching errors and idolatry as well as for those who never joined any other church. We will educate young men and women in the truth about God in our college and send them out as Instructors to rescue the people from idolatry and get them to join the Church of Humanity where they can aid in the work of rescue. But those who are now free from idolatry must unite to begin the work of rescue. Let each do his duty at once and we will soon be able to organize and begin saving the people from idolatry by the educational process. DO YOUR DUTY and DO IT NOW.

It is your cause. It is the call of your class to duty. All the church members say come. Duty to your loved ones in idolatry says come. Your duty to the truths of modern science says come. Your duty to civilization and progress says come. Your duty to your comrades who have enlisted in this rescue work says come. Your own best judgment and conscience says come. Then do not disappoint the voices that call you to duty, but satisfy and please them all by filling out the following blank application for membership in the Church of Humanity and return it to the Temporary International Instructor for the church. Do IT NOW. DON'T DELAY.

Let us make the truths of science we have learned popular by all of us saying to the world through the Church of Humanity that we believe them. Let us make our class of readers and students of nature popular by all of us uniting in this society to make it have a large membership which will compel respect for each one of us. By uniting and building up a large society we will make ourselves more popular and respected than any Christian church because we have truth on our side with modern sciences to prove it. When we have everything to gain by uniting in this church—respect, popularity, honor—why should anyone who reads a Freethought publication hesitate a moment to send in his application for membership. Why should anyone refuse to unite with his class in this great movement and prefer to remain an isolated, cowardly dead-beat in society, afraid to acknowledge he has learned the truth about God? Afraid to make a protest against the idolaters who teach his loved ones the falsehoods that make idolaters of them. Come, wake up, have some life and energy; have some pride and spunk; have some nerve and metal. Don't let the idolaters brow-beat and buldoze and intimidate you. Assert your right to organize and have your knowledge taught to the children. Assert your right to save your own posterity from idolatry by helping to organize a society to teach them the truth about God. You have as much right to do that as idolaters have to teach them falsehoods in order to make idolaters and supporters of idolatry of them which they will continue doing until checked by an organization of your class of readers and students.

This is the first attempt ever made to organize an educational movement to overthrow idolatry. The first call is for 1000 volunteers to start the movement. You see the need of it. Respond promptly to the first call. Be a hero in this educational contest with Rome. It is the greatest contest ever waged.

On one side is five hundred million idolaters, thoroughly organized, trained and equipped and pledged to the perpetuation of the errors, superstition and idolatry of the ancients. On the other side is a call for one thousand volunteers—100 have responded—to represent modern discoveries in the great book of the universe. Equipped with the modern sciences we go forth to challenge the all powerful Rome to an educational contest. To the victor goes the coming generations. They have all been going to Rome. Generation after generation have been put on their knees to idols Rome taught them to worship.

Are not your children as dear to you as to Rome? Is it not worth while to organize to save them from being victimized by Rome? If you fail to do your duty now a large share of the wealth you leave your children will be turned over to the agents of Rome to make more idolaters with because they will be won to the cause of idolatry. All Protestant churches are simply branches of Rome. Why leave your surplus wealth for such debasing purposes? Why not place it where it will do the most good to your children and loved ones? Why not use it in establishing an organization to give them that knowledge of God that alone can save them from idolatry? Can you place it to a better use for them?

Idolaters put up their money and time to make idolaters of your children. Why not put up yours to save them from idolatry? Do you not care for your children's wellfare? Will you not help to establish a society for them wherein they can be taught the truth? Why leave your wealth to be turned over to the teachers of idolatry? Would you not rather turn it over to your own class to help in the building of societies for yourself and children? Would you not rather have truths of nature taught than the mistakes of the ancients? Make your choice now. Decide now whether you will help your own class to organize or help the idolaters to further enslave you and your posterity to the worship of idols. Be a man. Stand up for your class, the truths you have learned. Stand up for your home, your loved ones, your honor. Stand up for truth and right. Defend yourself and loved ones against the forces of idolatry with your time and your surplus wealth. You can do nothing when you are dead. Do your duty now while you live. Make a start in the right direction by enclosing a dollar with this application for membership. For this dollar used in this way you can let the idolaters know for all coming time that you knew the truth about God, that you was free from idolatry, that you was not a cowardly dead-beat in society, that you were one of the heroes who founded the Church of Humanity. The members call you to duty. They invite you to fellowship. I shall depend on you. I shall anxiously await your application. I shall be glad to welcome you to membership, friendship and fellowship in the Church of Humanity. Don't disappoint your comrades who have already volunteered in the rescue work. You have loved ones to be rescued. You may have posterity to be saved from idolatry. You are vitally interested in this movement of your class and ever will be so long as you live. Identify yourself with it. Harken to the dictates of conscience. You can see a world on its knees worshiping idols. You can see teachers of idolatry promptly putting each successive generation on its knees to the worship of idols. You can see your own loved ones go down before the organized forces of idolatry. Join the rescue party. Do It Now. DON'T DISAPPOINT YOUR COMRADES.

Devoted to teaching the Discovery that God is a Myth like Santa Claus.

This Church invites all who wish the people freed from idolatry to unite with it.

VOL. I. Great Bend, Kansas, June, 1906. No. 7.

The Church of Humanity.

The Church of Humanity is designed to supply a growing need never before supplied—the need of a true knowledge of God. A few people have made the discovery that God is a creation of fiction and has no existence whatever. This is a discovery of the greatest importance. A discovery compared with which all other discoveries are insignificant. When nearly the entire human race has worshiped Gods from prehistoric times to the present and then the truth is learned t at no God exists it is a discovery so wonderful that few can comprehend it, or believe that it is possible. The few who have made the discovery know that the worship of Gods will continue in practice until the worshipers are taught the evidence that proves the discovery of God's mythical nature true. They know it will require a great organization to establish and maintain educational institutions for the teaching of this discovery to others and preparing them to go out as instructors to teach the people this discovery and rescue them from the idolatry of worshiping a creation of fiction named God and a dead man named Jesus. To establish such schools and maintain the instructors will require large sums of money and that can be raised only by donations from those who know the discovery and want it taught to posterity to save it from idolatry. Hence the Church of Humanity must have a large membership so the expense of the educational work will not be too heavy to bear.

As in other ch rches some members will be unable to pay anything and others can pay liberally without feeling it financially. Those who can will pay for the teaching of G d's non-existence to those unable to help financially and find their reward in a higher plane of civilization for the people, and in the education of those who are to associate with and become the life companions of their children. The principles on which the public schools are based will be adopted in the educational work of the church except the taxation will be voluntary instead of compulsory, and as in that plan few will object to paying for the education of children whose parents are unable to contribute anything finding their compensation in a higher level of intelligence among the common people.

As people realize the truth of this great discovery the disgrace of worshiping God and Jesus will be so impressed on their minds that they will put up all the financial aid necessary to insure the thorough instruction of their ehildren in the proof of this discovery so they can never be victimized by the teachers of idolatry. They will recognize the fact that this branch of knowledge is worth more to their children than all others combined and will pay for its teaching accordingly. Children can be taught all other branches of knowledge and still remain idolaters, but this one branch—the truth about God—will prevent them from becoming idolaters though they learn no other branch of know edge. Therefore one can understand the value and importance of organizing to teach this branch of knowledge, and of having children learn it.

The church has 109 members now. It should have 1000 members bef re formal organization and incorporation is justified. Then it will be strong enough to employ one National Instructor to do field work as a traveling missionary to proclaim and teach the great discovery to the people and organize local churches for the members wherever a few are in reach of each other for meeting purposes. I think the church would be able then to maintain a college also for the teaching and training of instructors to be sent out as demands are made for them by church members.

Our college building will be ready in a short time to receive and care for students, and the church should see to it that the building is provided with students. I shall expect the members to send their children here for a course of study in the Truth About God if only for a short course of three months instruction. I have been very busy helping to repair and clean up the building and have much to do yet in making it attractive and comfortable for the home of students while taking a course of instruction that will forever protect them from becoming victimized by the ignorant teachers of idolatry. But it will be the duty of the members o provide the students. Idolaters cannot and will not be expected to furnish any students for our college. It must be supported and patronized by those who have ceased to be idolaters through having learned the truth about the idols and wish that truth taught others to save them from ever becoming idolaters.

I only wish the church was able to fill the building with students when it is ready for them. But the church must have several hundred members more before it can do that. I think we should have one thousand members and be organized and incorporated and have trustees elected to manage the college. I want to deed the building to the church as soon as it can maintain a college in it that teaches the discoveries the church is based on. The church should be proud of this building as it is the largest in this city and well adapted for a denominational boarding school. Our church could have its great discoveries taught here and instructors prepared to go forth and teach them to the people. The people can never give up idolatry until they are taught these discoveries. The Church of Humanity should take the greatest pride in getting able to do that teaching and make every effort to gain increased membership to enable it to secure this building and establish its denominational college. We are 109 now. Bro. Heald, editor of Higher Science, of Los Angeles, Calif., is going to take an active part in finding those who know God is a creation of man and invite them to become members and founders of this church. I earnestly hope other editors of anti-Christian publications will join in the hunt for those far enough advanced in the knowledge of God to be elegible for membership in this church.

This is the only way a union of our forces can be accomplished and an effectual educational movement be inaugurated. I have just received an application for membership through the influence and invitation of Mr. Heald and expect many more in the near future. I earnestly request all subscribers to T. A. G. who are not members of the church to send in their application at once. Your subscription to the paper aids us and we appreciate it but the ultimate object in pub ishing the paper is to gain members for the church. If you fail to send in your application for membership our labor has been in vain and we cannot mutually aid each other in the establishment of an educational institution to overthrow idolatry. You can do a thousand times more good and please the church members a thousand times more by uniting with the church than by simply subscribing for its organ. I hope each one will do the greater good and give this greater aid by applying for membership at once.

Meeting Competition.

Seeing the success of the Catholics in holding their natural increase of numbers in their church through their plan of infant baptism and early religious teaching some Protestant teachers of idolatry are taking the cue from them and are enrolling infants in Sunday schools as the "Cradle Roll." A card sent me for comment by Mr. E. A. Davidson of Collins, Miss. is an invitation from a primary Supt. of a Sunday school to a mother requesting her to enroll her infant in this class, promising to send it "a beautiful Certificate of Enrollment" and birthday presents, and "hoping to see it, in due time, enrolled as a regular member of the Sunday school."

All the comment I have to offer is that the Church of Humanity must meet this competition too for the teaching of the young. It must see to it that its share of the seventy infants born to our race every minute are taught the Truth About God before the teachers of idolatry get in their false teaching. Therefore I suggest that as soon as this church is organized and incorporated that it issue a proclimation making every child born to a member of this church "A Born Member" of the church, and making it the imperative duty of its parent to teach it the discoveries the church is based on; that at the age of five years it be confirmed as a member and be required to take a prescribed course, under an Instructor, in the Truth About God; that when the course is completed it be given a certificate of graduation in the knowledge of God, making it a life member of the Church of Humanity.

The most brilliant jewel in the galaxy of discovered truths is the discovered truth that God is a myth.

The idolatry of worshiping a dead man named Jesus and a creation of fiction named God can never be checked until the people are taught the evidences that prove God a myth.

Any society or organization formed to rescue people from idolatry and preserve posterity from falling victims to it that does not provide for teaching the discovery of God's mythical nature will be unable to accomplish anything.

The discovery that God is only a creation of fiction can be accepted and believed by idolaters only when it becomes popular. Make it twice as popular as it is now by 100 more who know that truth joining the Church of Humanity at once. Let each subscriber to the Truth About God try to be anong that hundred by applying for membership at once.

Haeckel's 30 Theses Will Not Do For a Basis of Organization.

In the June Beacon friend Maple suggests "the holding of a meeting in Chicago this coming fall composed of editors (or their proxies) of Freethought Journals" etc, to form a national organization and suggests Haeckel's 30 theses as a tentative platform for the organization. While I am pleased to note a desire for organization on the part of Freethought editors and am glad to see the subject discussed, I know from past experiences and observation that no organization can be formed in that way with any vitality to it. Haeckel's theses were tried as a basis for organization at St. Louis and proved a failure. They are too voluminous, and too indefinite concerning the foundations of idolatry and the methods of overthrowing it to form a basis for a society with that object in view.

No society of our people can be of any value that does not make that its primary object. We need an organization based on a vital truth with a definite object in view. What truth among all the truths revealed by science is greater than the discovery that God is a myth? What object could an organization have more vital than the overthrow of the worship of dead people and myths?

Haeckel does not, in his theses, recognize the truth that God is a myth. Neither does he contemplate the overthrow of idolatry, but rather continues the basis for it in the following statements which could not be indorsed by the Church of Humanity and which shows he is not far enough advanced in the knowledge of God to be eligible to membership in it:

"In our modern science the idea 'God' can be maintained only so far as we see in 'God' the last indiscernable cause of all things, the unconscious hypothetical 'original cause of substance.'"

Now the youngest child in the Church of Humanity could tell Mr. Haeckel that God is a fabulous being like Santa Claus and is not the "original cause of substance" or anything else. The idea that God is a real being and cause of anything is the heart, core and center of all religious, idolatrous mythologies including Christianity.

Mr. Haeckel uses God to account for the things whose real cause he is ignorant of just as the idolaters do. The crowding of God back farther on account of his more advanced knowledge than the Christians do does not check idolatry in the least. If all Christians were as wise as he most of them would still worship that "original cause of substance." Haeckel's position illustrates how this myth-God recedes as positive knowledge advances and so long as there is an idolater who does not know the whys and wherefors of all things he will still attribute what he is ignorant of to God until he is taught that God is a myth, then he will try to find the real cause. If Mr. Haeckel ever learns the "original cause of substance" he will find it is not God at all as he has learned that the causes of other things he understands is not God. But perhaps there would still be other things he did not know the cause of and would advance the God idea to account for that. The only sensible course to take is to recognize the discovery that God is a myth and seek the real cause of things which when found has never, in all our investigations, been found to be God. The Monistic Education as outlined in theses 28 are totally inadiquate to check idolatry. Thousands of children are thus educated in this country only to fall victims to idolatry through the teaching of the first Evangelist or Salvation Army lass that happens along. He does not once suggest the only teaching that can arm the child to resist the false teaching of idolaters—the teaching that God is a myth.

In thesis 18 Haeckel teaches Determinism which, if I understand his explanation and meaning, is that all people believe and act as they do owing to the construction of their brain in which they had no part. This teaching gives rise to the often expressed idea that members of the many different religious sects are such owing to the construction of their brains and that determined before hand the denomination they would adhere to. No teaching could be more absurd and contrary to facts. The Church of Humanity could not indorse such erroneous ideas. It is altogether a question of teaching. All human beings can learn and understand the discovery that God is a fabulous being if they are given the necessary teaching.

Haekel speaks of "body and spirit" in thesis 20; of "soul and body," and "spiritual food," thesis 28, much as the idolaters do instead of recognizing "spirit" and "soul" as creations of fiction, like God, heaven and hell.

I do not know if friend Maple included me or the Church of Humanity among the invited parties to the proposed meeting for organization or not. It is due him to state our reasons for rejecting Haeckel's theses as a basis for organization. The Church of Humanity has an infinitely better basis for organization in the discovered truths it proclaims, and no possible object could be suggested of greater vital interest than the overthrow of idolatry through the teaching of those discoveries. The church cannot recede from its advanced position to compromise with idolatry by accepting a bybrid foundation called "a tie between science and religion."

I know friend Maple will find in his own country a foundation and object for an organization adopted already by the Church of Humanity in every particular far superior to that of Haeckel's, and one that he will find on close analysis will meet his own requirements much better. I invite the church members to write to Mr. Maple and the Beacon and urge the impartial consideration of the foundation and object of their church on his attention.

Some Mistakes of Freethinkers.

Very little progress can be made by non Christians in organizing an educational movement to overthrow idolatry until many of the absurd teachings in all Freethought publications are corrected.

In my work of organization I am frequently confronted with these false ideas that block my labors. These mistaken ideas will thwart any attempt at organization under any name or by any body else. Hence I earnestly request all editors of Freethought publications to correct these mistaken theories and discourage the teachers of them by commenting on them adversely when presented in manuscripts for publication.

Here are a few of the mistakes most commonly made by writers in all Freethought journals which the editors should point out and have corrected to conform to actual facts. I suggest the correction:

1. That the clergy know they are teaching falsehoods and purposely do so to deceive and mislead the people. Correction. The clergy actually believes they are teaching truths and are totally ignorant of the discovered truths that God is a myth, heaven nonexistent and death the end of conscious life.

2. That the clergy are only in the business for the money consideration and would do or teach any thing else if there was as much money in it. Correction: Many of them could make more money easier in other occupations. They would not teach what they believe untrue for a money consideration. Part of their reward they believe is in store for them in heaven, and part in what they believe is the promulgation and perpetuation of the glory of God and Jesus on earth, the advancement of civilization and the saving of precious souls from hell. We must give thom credit for honesty and sincerity and what they believe to be truthfulness and a high and noble purpose. We must charge them only with total ignorance of the discovered truths concerning the foundation on which their teaching rests.

3. That nobody now believes the Christian dogmas and that it is useless to organize to destroy an exploded belief. Correction: Practically all the people are firm believers in the real existence of God, heaven, hell and immortality, and these beliefs are the foundations of all idolatry. Those holding these false ideas contribute directly or indirectly to the support of idolatry. Hence they are idolaters whether they personally practice it regularly or not. The difficulty the Church of Humanity is having in finding enough people free from idolatry to organize proves the scarcity of people who know the truth about God. It is impossible to believe that any who actually know God to be a myth would refuse to aid in founding an educational organization to teach that most important of all discoveries. Not one in a million are as far advanced in the knowledge of God as those optomistic writers in free thought publications would have us believe. A large majority of those very writers do not themselves know that God is a fabulous being.

4. That the brains of Christians are not yet developed is the reason they are idolaters. Correction: That assertion is absolutely false and shows a loose habit of reasoning and poor observation on the part of those making it. Christians can learn a discovery as quickly as those who are not Christians.

5. That time alone will, through natural evolution, eradicate idolatary. Correction: That also is a mistaken theory. Time, alone, teaches nothing. Evolution in knowledge is artificial and forced. Truths are discovered and then taught to others, not by time, but by those wishing them taught.

6. That "Truth crushed to earth will rise again" through its own inherent strength. Correction: Truths have no inherent strength within themselves to impress themselves on anyone or in anyway resist errors. They are not sentient things, and can not care whether they are known and accepted or not.

7. That Christians would commit all kinds of crimes and excesses if the fear of God and hell were removed from their minds. Correction: That is a mistake taken from the teaching of idolalers, and no one who has been freed from idolatry should believe or assert it. The good behavior of the members of the Church of Humanity, who were nearly all Christians once, prove it erroneous by practical demonstration.

8. That no one knows or ever can know if there be a God, heaven and hell and continuous conscious life or not. Correction: A few have positively made the discoveries that God is a fabulous being, heaven and hell myths and that death is the permanent cessation of conscious life. These discoveries can be proven true, by a study of the proof of them found in the natural sciences, in the Bible and in our personal observations, and information through the press.

9. That if God is only a myth there is nothing to teach about him since nothing can be taught about things that do not exist. Correction: Since practically all believe God to be a real being they must be taught the fact that he is only a myth or they will never know it. The teaching of that fact consists in teaching the evidences that prove it true, such as the higher criticisms of the Bible, the natural sciences, and daily observations of nature. Instead of there being nothing to teach to prove God a myth, as some affirm, the amount of things to teach is appalling. There is plenty of things to be taught and plenty of people needing the teaching to require the constant services of a million instructors for all time since each successive generation must have it all taught over again to it.

10. That each one should do his or her own thinking and that it is foolish and unwise to hire anyone to do ones thinking. Comment: This false theory is largey responsible for the inability of anti-Christian to organize and disrupts any attempt at it. It is also responsible largely for the poor support given anti-Christian publications and lecturers and must be corrected before organization of any kind or by anybody can be accomplished and the necessary financial support given instructors and publications. Correction: The very progress of our race in knowledge and material betterment depends on the desires of the people to learn and utilize the dis-

For the Blade Symposium.

Great Bend Kan., June 18, 1906
Mr. James E. Hughes,
Editor B. G. B., Lexington, Ky.
Dear Sir and Friend:

I write to express my thanks to you for taking up the subject of organization of the anti-idolatrous forces and putting it to work in a systematic way saving and rescuing others from idolatry. Nothing can be more humiliating than to see a man who claims to know Christianity is founded on errors and that God is a creation of fiction sending his wife and children to Sunday School and church and having the worship of dead Jews and myths practiced in his own home. He is certainly more contemptible than the man who allows this but does not know the truths he claims to know, and it causes grave doubts as to whether he really knows them himself. That is the case or he fails to realize the shame and disgrace of such heathenish idolatry and ignorance else he would make a Herculean effort to have his family taught the truths he claims to know that they too could be saved from that rank heathenism. He may excuse himself on the grounds of not having the time or the educational or financial ability to buy the necessary books and give his family the necessary instructions to save them from idolatry, or on the further grounds that his family would be deprived of society and social gatherings were they not allowed to teach and practice the prevailing idolatry in the neighborhood as that is the usual basis and objects of all societies in rural and village life.

But these very excuses should demonstrate to him his utter inability to save his family from idolatry single-handed and make him extremely eager to help in the organization of those who know God is a myth to enable them to have that truth taught to their families and others. I hope all who wish organization for themselves and families in which, and by which, the truths that preserves one from idolatry can be taught will accept your kind invitation in the Blade of June 17 to contribute to the symposium their ideas and suggestions on the subject of organization.

Here are mine in answer to your five numbered questions but not in the order you placed them:

4. What would you suggest as the platform?" Answer: The great discoveries now positively made that God, Satan and Holy Ghost are fabulous beings, that heaven and hell are myths and death the extinguishment forever of conscious life.

"1 Should Freethinkers organize?" Answer: All Freethinkers who have learned the above discoveries should organize to teach them systematically and effectually under the organization name, "The Church of Humanity."

"3 Should they organize on religious lines alone or should they combine the religious with the political effort?" Answer: They should organize strictly on educational lines to promulgate the basic truths, especially the discovery that God is a creation of fiction. They should use their political power as an organization only in defense of their educational work should it be attacked politically.

"5 State nature of propaganda to be employed." Answer: It should be strictly an educational propaganda of the discoveries on which the organization is based with the primary object of rescuing and preserving posterity from the idolatry of worshiping a dead man named Jesus and a myth named God.

When one thousand have learned that God is a myth and have applied for and received a certificate of graduation in the knowledge of God making them life members and founders in the Church of Humanity call a national delegate convention of the church to formally organize and incorporate.

Then the members, through their delegates, will take charge of the organization, adopt a constitution and by-laws, elect officers and outline its educational work. The educational plan contemplated by me is when incorporation is effected to elect one National Instructor to act as field missionary in making these discoveries known to the people and as an organizer to establish local church organizations for the members and founders wherever possible and wanted; to establish a college for the teaching of these discoveries and the training of Instructors who are to go forth as State, City, County and Local Instructors as demands are made on the college for their services.

In the educational work necessary to prove these discoveries to the people it is contemplated to teach them the "Higher Criticisms" on the Bible which make of it a proof that God is a myth, and the natural sciences, especially those that explain the origin and development of animal and vegetable life, and of the formation of suns and planets in space all of which prove there is no God back of phenomena.

"2 Is it possible for Freethinkers to organize? Give reasons pro and con." Answer: Never under the name of Freethinkers, Secularists, Rationalists, Infidels, Agnostics or Atheists can an organization be effected with any life or vitality to it.

(a) Because those names are very unpopular with the people we wish to educate in the true knowledge of God, and most of them are unpopular with those who are not idolaters.

(b) As thinking is free and ever has been and ever will be there can be no demand for an organization to make people "Freethinkers." Eevey one will tell you he is thinking now as he pleases and so he is.

(c) The noun "Freethinker" is so defined as to include about everybody. Webster defines it "A softer name for a deist; an unbeliever; one who discards revelation," and "freethinking" as "Undue boldness of speculation; unbelief; skeptical." Everybody could be included under these definitions for each one disbelieves some things that others teach and has a furious "kick a coming" about some things. Those "kicks" would be urged on the society for adoption. That would insure inharmony, discord, pandemonium and failure at the start. There could not be an organization established on a drag-net platform with everyone's reform ideas on all subjects incorporated for it would please nobody.

Only those who have learned the discovery that God is a myth need be invited to meet to form an educational organization to overthrow idolatry and that organization could not be loaded down with their ideas of reforms on political, economic or social questions. "Freethinkers" must learn that they must have separate societies to advocate their several reforms in and not attempt a general log-rolling of all their reform ideas on all subjects under one name and organization. The name "Freethinkers" should be discontinued with all the other names previously mentioned and we should all be simply American citizens, or citizens of our respective governments. As such we should and can unite and form organizations to propogate any theory or discovery enough are interested in to justify organization, or unite with and help the societies already established to advocate them.

I hope the members and founders of the Church of Humanity will each contribute an article to this symposium and invite the attention of your readers to the consideration of the basic truths this church is founded on, and its object in organization, and the educational methods it contemplates inaugurating to accomplish the desired object.

Thanking you in advance for the privelege of contributing to your symposinm on the very important question of organization, I remain, Yours sincerely,

W. H. KERR,
Temporary International Instructor for the Church of Humanity.

To the Church Members.

GREETING: As an interest in organization is being awakened in some anti-idolatrous publications I request those members who write occasionally to such papers to write to the Ingersoll Memorial Beacon, Chicago, and the Blue Grass Blade Lexington, Ky., on the necessity of orgenization giving them all the encouragement you can along that line until the movement takes practical form. Call their attention to the discoveries the Church of Humanity is based on as the only practical basis and the rescue and preservation of the people from idolatry through the promulgation of these discoveries as the greatest object to be accomplished. Urge the acceptance of the basis and object of this church

The Way to Join the Church of Humanity.

One does not have to look foolish and do and say foolish things in joining the Church of Humanity as one does in joining idolatrous churches. Here is the way it is done:

Let all subscribers to T. A G. follow the example here given.

"Danbury, Conn, June 20, 1906
Mr. W. H. Kerr,

Dear Sir; I inclose herewith P. M. O. for $1, also application for life membership in the Church of Humanity. Yours truly,

C. W. Robbins."

That is easily said and done, and is all that is required now. I will do the rest. I want at least 100 subscribers to send in a little note like this one by return mail. When you can do so much good with so little exertion no valid excuse can be offered for not doing it.

If you really want to see an organization of those people who are free from idolatry through the knowledge of the nature of idols worshiped join the Church of Humanity and help to get those of like knowledge to do likewise. It is the only feasible method of establishing an organization.

The discoveries on which the Church of Humanity is based is the shortest, simplest and at the same time more vital than any basis for organization that could be suggested.

Union on a common basis for a common purpose must precede a meeting for organization.

Some Mistakes of Freethinkers.

coveries and inventions that only the few can make. They ever must learn from the teachers of these discoveries and inventions. It is perfectly right that the people should hire these teachers to teach them how to think and what to think in order to learn those discoveries and inventions that they never could learn without that aid. Each person can be an expert in only one, or very few, lines of professional or industrial service and and when needed they must hire the services of those proficient in the other lines of service- Millions of teachers are hired to do the thinking for the children in teaching them how and what to think to enable them to gain knowledge. It is perfectly right and wise for those people who believe the Christian religion true to hire its teachers, the clergy, to instruct their children and themselves in its teachings and requirements. It is as right and wise for people who hear of the discoveries the Church of Humanity teaches to hire those who know them to teach the discoveries to themselves and their children there is no other plan by which they can be learned and accepted.

Membership Depends on Who Invites.

As illustrating the need of more solicitors to invite people to unite with the Church of Humanity the following applicant is a good example:

"Circleville, O., June 9, 1906.
W. H. Kerr,

My Dear Sir:—This day I received invitation with blank application for membership in the Church of Humanity from F. H. Heald, editor of Higher Science, Los Angeles, Calif, He is a scientific thinker and one of the braniest Freethinkers in existence. I have been acquainted with him and his writings for years.

I have filled out the application for membership and enclose $1.25 for certificate as a member of your society, and subscription to the Truth About God. I am in the prime of life and am practicing medicine in this place.

Hoping you will succeed in your work for humanity, I close to await an answer. Yours,

ESTER A. VAN RIPER, M. D."

The point I wish to make is that while I personally by letter and also through the church paper invited Mrs Van Riper to unite with the Church of Humanity and thereby become one of its founders she refused my invitation only to accept instantly the invitation when presented by friend Heald. Now this reveals a trait in our natures that must be reconed with, and emphasizes the need of more solicitors for members. I might urge some people to unite with the church until the end of my days without results while those same people would unite with the church on the sligutest expressed wish from some one else.

I have known preachers who worked very hard to win converts to their idolatry but seldom secured one while other preachers won converts by the score from the same congregation with apparent ease. I have known some people who would not do what they intended to do because some one they disliked wished them to, while they would do things they had not intended doing because some one they liked wished them to.

Now there may be many readers of anti-Christian papers and works on the sciences that prove God a myth and who are eligible to membership in the Church of Humanity but who will not accept the invitation to unite with the church from either Mr Heald or myself but who would on the first invitation do so if extended by a particular editor of one of the other anti-idolatry papers and magazines.

Doubtless editors Davis, Maple, Macdonald, Shaw, Hughes, Lenau, Sercombe and other editors of this class have their special admirers who would on an invitation from them unite with the Church of Humanity. Now the question is, will these editors unite in this society and invite their admirers to do so too? Can they find a firmer foundation to base an organization on than the discovered truths this church is based on? Can they find more important truths to unite on to teach? Can they find any basis at all for an orgsnization that can ever overthrow idolatry without incorporating these discovered truths in it? Why, of course not! No society can ever accomplish anything in the overthrow of idolatry without making these discovered truths on which this church is based the essence of its teaching Then why should not all those editors, who wish their posterity freed and kept free from the practice of worshiping dead Jews and myths, unite in this society and invite their admirers to do the same? Is not that the sensible course to take? Will not that course result in perfect union and hermony of our forces? Will not that union and harmony give us a chance to build up an active organization? Can we do anything without it? It is results we all want to accomplish. Why not "get busy" and steer straight for results? Why all this wasted energy we put forth in talk, talk, talk, write, write, write, with no results? Not one of the seventy babes born to our race every minute is preserved from idolatry by we boastful wise people. A few society dead-beats have been made so wise? by anti Christian publications that they refuse to pay the preacher for making idolaters of their children, but when they die their relatives poke them into idolaters' graves at the expense of their estate without a kick from them either before or after death. What wonderful results this is for "400 years of Freethought!" Freethought, Infidelity, Atheism, Rationalism and all the other isms combined are not preserving our children from the idolatry of worshiping a dead man and a creation of fiction named God, and they never can because none of them teaches the discoveries that the objects worshiped are man-created idols and have no existence in fact. So let us discard all such names and be simply American citizens or citizens of our respective countries and in a broader sense world citizens and members of the human race. That will be designation enough in a general sense and our individual and family names are designation enough in a particular sense. But we who have learned some great discoveries concerning the idols the people around us worship can unite to teach these discoveries to our children to protect them from the false teaching of idolaters under the organization name—Church of Humanity—for this particular purpose and object.

As for me it makes no difference whatever as to whose invitation is accepted in applyiag for membership in the Church of Humanity. I want to see the church grow in numerical strength as that must precede all other work by it. I shall welcome as heartily those who unite with it on some one else's invitation as on my own, and forward them their certificate of graduation and membership as cheerfully.

One mistake Mrs. Van Riper made is in saying "as a member of your society." I wish all to say they are members of the Church of Humanity and leave my personality out, not that I am ashamed to stand for the society as the discoverer of the truths it is based on and its founder but that I wish the honors shared by all the members alike. I wish each member to regard the church as THEIR CHURCH although it is the common society of all its members, and I wish each founder of it to take a personal pride in its growth and educational work. Now, why should not all the editors named do as Mr. Heald is doing—unite with this society and invite their readers to do so too? Let it be their church as much as mine. Let them share equally the honor of being one of its founders and discoverers of the truths on which it is based. Let them share equally the praise and gratitude of the people who are to be saved from idolatry through its educational work. Why not? Can any proposition be more sensible and reasonable? They profess to be guided by reason. Why not give an example of it? Now fellow editors fall in line, if only one at a time, and try to become society builders. You have played at trying to tear down societies long enough to demonstrate your inability to do so, and you should and will continue impotent to destroy society by the methods you employ. You should know that the only possible way to destroy a society teaching falsehoods is to build up a rival society teaching truths

No political party, regardless of its corruption and oppression, can be destroyed except through a rival party that corrects the abuses complained of. Likewise no idolatrous society can ever be destroyed except through the building of a rival society that represents and teaches what the dissenters want taught. Friend Heald has taken the right course and I sincerely hope the other editors will see their way clear to follow his example. Regardless of what they may think of Mr. Heald or myself they should think of their posterity that cannot be saved from idolatry through any other means and help in this society building for their sakes without regard to whether it pleases me or any other member of the church. DO YOUR DUTY! DO IT NOW.

A Firm Foundation For The Overthrow of Idolatry.

There are many teachers of all the natural sciences who do not practice idolatry but who still believe its primary foundations true and when they die are buried by the clergy with idolatrous ceremonies and are consigned to idolaters' graves. There are a much larger number of like teachers who regularly practice idolatry. That proves conclusively that the final antedote for idolatry is not found in any one or in all combined of these sciences.

Hence another special study must be added to the list to insure the discontinuance of idolatry of all who take the course and graduate in it. That special course of study we name the "Truth About God" and consists of teaching the discoveries that God is a creation of fiction, heaven and hell myths and death the permanent cessation of conscious life. This course of study must be provided with suitable text books in a graduated form designed to educate the child from early infancy until it graduates in "The Knowledge of God" and is fully insured against ever falling a victim to the practice of idolatry.

The Church of Humanity is based on these discovered truths and is organizing and preparing to establish a course of study and a college in which students can be given a thorough course of study in these great discoveries. If you, reader, are interested in the overthrow of idolatry and the establishment of truths in its place I earnestly insist on you joining this society and thereby helping to give it the necessary numerical strength to organize and establish the work it is designed to do.

Things for Christians to Remember.

When you pray remember God is a myth like Santa Claus and can not hear you.

When you ask a blessing remember God is a myth and does not know anything about you.

When you get in trouble remember God is a creation of fiction and don't ask him to get you out.

When you commit any crimes remember Jesus is a dead man and knows no more about you than a dead mule does and you need not ask his forgiveness.

When a bad storm approaches remember that God is a creation of man and don't ask him to protect you but get in the cyclone cave.

When you get caught in a wreck remember the saints who died are still dead and lose no time asking their aid but do your best to scramble out.

When you think your sins will insure you a passport to hell remember "Holy Mary, mother of God" died nearly 2000 years ago and stays dead and it is useless to ask her to intercede for you. But stop sinning and subscribe for the Truth About God that will teach you the discovered truths that God is a fabulous being, hell a myth and death the end of conscious life. Then your fears will vanish, and the world look more beautiful as a good place to remain alive in as long as possible.

Proved to be Christians by the Bible.

An Englishman, after reading the exposures alleging the selling of products of stock that died prematurely, for table use, by American packers, declared "the Americans are not Christians."

But he is mistaken. The selling of unfit meat is a proof of good Christianity. It was so ordered by the myth God of the Christians in the Mosaic laws, professed by them to be divine and binding on them.

Here is "God's law" on the subject:

"Ye shall not eat of any thing that dieth of itself; thou shalt give it unto the stranger that is in thy gates, that he may eat it; or thou mayest sell it unto an alien." Deut. 14:21.

There is nothing said about having inquisitive inspectors to prevent the sale of stock that died of cholera, blackleg or tuberculosis.

People who make such demands are so un-Christian as to believe that man's law is better than "God's law."

There will be some day a great demand for the services of Instructors to explain and teach the marvelous discoveries on which the Church of Humanity is based. Will the church be prepared to furnish them?

When the honest intelligent people once comprehend the discovery that God is a fabulous being, heaven and hell myths, and death the permanent extinguishment of conscious life they will wave tradition and custom aside and have these discoveries taught their children regardless of the time and cost it requires.

The Building of the Church of Humanity.

AN INSTRUCTOR AT WORK

Brother Emil Fredrich, of Mt. Sterling, Ky., a commissioned County Instructor for Montgomery county, Ky., writes me a very encouraging letter and incloses a clipping from the Mt. Sterling Advocate edited by a Methodist preacher, giving public notice of his commission and purpose of holding Sunday school to teach the great discoveries the Church of Humanity is based on and its moral ethics. Here is the clipping giving notice and explanation:

"NOTICE.

"Having been appointed as instructor for Montgomery county by the Church of Humanity, I will on July 8th, being the anniversary of the church, open a Sunday school class at my greenhouse and invite all who can make it convenient to attend.

EXPLANATION.

The Church of Humanity is non-orthodox in its character. It is the church that seeks the scattered truth in every creed and aims for the good and true of every race and clime. It is iconoclastic in all its tendencies, it is strictly scientific in its researches and makes it a duty to solve the uncertain allegories of ancient and modern mythologies not in accordance with pure science, it is the church for thinkers, it has no hell to scare, nor devil to coax, in short it is the church that saves by rational education. Those who have the moral courage to think for themselves will find these lessons great feasts of mental brain food.

Come, all of you and imbibe freely the prodigious gifts of nature among the fragrance of flowers. Every Sunday at 10:30 a. m.

EMIL FREDRICH, Instructor."

Extracts from the letter: "I believe I live in the most stupid orthodox town in Uncle Sam's dominion. Ten churches in a town of 4000 inhabitants is a fair showing of its credulity. We have on an average four church revivals lasting three to four weeks each every year. You remember two years ago I began lecturing in the interest of our church. I lost nearly all my trade and they threatened to drive me out of town then if I persisted in destroying their religion through the teaching of truths. Argument upon argument followed with the clergy and the Christians in which I always won as I have the best scientific, classical and historical literature ever produced to aid me. My untiring efforts have not been in vain. Conditions have changed wonderfully. At this writing I enjoy the best of trade and reputation. The people no longer try to abuse me as they did. They begin to ask me questions about our church and its teaching, and they begin to think we have a right to live in this world. If I ever succeed in establishing a branch in this jungle of superstition our church will surely be a success in more fortunate localities.

Do not expect any financial support from me this year as I may have some expenses in establishing a local society at home.

Your brother and co-worker,

EMIL FREDRICH.

COPY OF MY REPLY.

Brother Fredrich. My dear Instructor:—Yours of the 15th with clipping at hand, I am very glad indeed that you have taken up the work again, and that there is not so much prejudice against you for doing so this time. In time our church will be as popular as any Christian church and no one will think of abusing or boycotting our members or our instructors.

When the people once learn that we are teaching the truth and good moral ethics our church will be the most popular of all and in time is bound to win the support of all. Other churches, to remain popular and in favor with the people, will be obliged to teach the same truths we do.

I advise that you teach the basic truths of our church as modern discoveries—that God, Satan and Holy Ghost are fabulous beings, heaven and hell are myths and death the permanent extinction of conscious life; and also good moral ethics. You can teach all the good moral qualities and duties the Christians do. Such as the duty of husband and wife to love each other and their children. The duty of children to love each other and their parents. The duty of all to treat others with respect, kindness and justice.

You can teach the duties of good citizenship, advocate the support of orderly government and defend the institution of marriage and the home.

You can teach total abstinence from the use of tobacco and intoxicating drinks, (if the Christians will let you do that in Kentucky,) vulgar and obscene language, cursing and swearing.

You can teach that it is the duty of all to learn the truth about God—the great discovery that he is a myth—and to join and support a society to promulgate the teaching of this great discovery to rescue and preserve the people from idolatry. You can teach that you are doing your duty as all people should do; that you have a right to learn the truth about God and to teach it when found, and to help to establish an organization for the teaching of Instructors to perpetuate that teaching and thereby rescue the people from the idolatry of worshiping a dead man named Jesus and a creation of fiction named God.

I saw the notice in B. G. B. and the Truth Seeker of your Sunday school.

I am glad you are doing your good work in the name of and by the authority of the Church of Humanity That will give us respect and popularity as a society. I would advise though that your object be to build up society on a true foundation. Represent yourself as a builder of society rather than as an iconoclast to tear down existing societies. When we build a better society the people will come to us and that will destroy the false societies for want of support. The distruction of the false societies will be accomplished by the people deserting them to come to ours when we demonstrate our ability to build a better one. So we must be builders of society. We should follow the general plan of the Christians in building a society on a true foundation. So you should have plenty of vocal and instrumental music at your meetings. Don't neglect that. Then have select reading consisting of extracts from some author teaching our discovered truths and our moral ethics.

Try to get all who attend to join the church and your Sunday school classes. Tell them of our church and its progress, of its aims and objects and of our intention to formally organize and incorporate when we have 1000 members enrolled. Tell them of our $50,000 college building where we are to train and prepare Instructors to go forth as National, State, City, County and Local Instructors to teach the great discoveries our church is based on to the people to rescue them from idolatry. Above all do not abuse the Christians for their ignorance. Our duty is to teach and not to abuse.

In receiving members into the church have them fill out the blanks I furnish you and then forward them to me with 25 cents of the dollar fee and I will issue them their certificate of graduation in the knowledge of God making them life members and founders of the church. I shall welcome them to membership in the church and try to teach them their duty in attending and supporting their local societies.

It is not the intention for the local societies to aid the central office much now, but eventually the local churches will maintain the central office and head officials by small donations as other societies do.

Have courage, hope and perseverance in your work. Let me know how I can aid you. It is the intention to give all possible aid to the members who try to establish local churches and Sunday schools. You should have a free circulating library of the books that freed you from idolatry for your school so all who attend can have free access to them. Each attendant could take a book or pamphlet home to read and exchange every Sunday. That would give them free teaching in our discoveries. I shall aid you in buying the library from the church funds. I shall donate $12.50 if you can raise an equal amount by donations to the library fund.

Then make out a list of the books, pamphlets and leaflets and the number of each wanted. The Truth Seeker Co. furnishes our church with any of its publications at wholesale prices and doubtless I can make similar terms with other publishing houses. Send to the Truth Seeker Co., 62 Vesey street, New York City, for a catalogue of their publications if you have none and order of them the literature they have that you need in the free circulating library and they will make you the lowest possible wholesale prices. That will give you 35 to 40 dollars worth of books which will make a very valuable library and give your classes all the reading they can do for a very small donation. If the T. S. Co. have not all the books you want let me know who has and I shall try to make arrangements with them to supply our church needs at wholesale prices too

Through our system of local churches and Sunday schools our

Obituary.

Brother J. Q. A. Newsom, of St. Louis, forty-seventh member and founder of the Church of Humanity died June 28.

The following is copied from the St. Louis Republic of June 30:

"John Quincy Adams Newsom, 70 years old, formerly Secretary of State of Indiana, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs Frank Chapman, No. 3838 Laclede avenue, Thursday night, after an illness of twelve hours.

The death of Mr. Newsom from apoplexy, occurred when he was preparing to demonstrate a plow, to which he had devoted a life's work. The machine was only recently perfected, and will revolutionize the plowing industry, it is said, if plans are carried out as suggested by the inventor.

Mr. Newsom only recently came to St. Louis from Bartholomew county, Indiana, where he lived most of his life.

Upon his recent arrival in this city he interested local capitalists in his invention and formed a company for its manufacture, his son, J. N. Newsom, being first vice president.

Mr. Newsom is survived by his wife and four children—two sons and two daughters. He was taken to Columbus, Ind. last night for interment."

Mr. and Mrs. Newsom visited their son Lincoln at Claflin, this county, during the summer of 1900. They had several pleasant visits with us on the farm, where we were living then, and greatly enjoyed driving over the fields and seeing the methods of farming in Kansas.

When they heard of my son's death by lightning they came to sympathize and he to offer the funeral oration if his services were acceptable, but we had taken our son to Bunkerhill to bury him in the family burial lot beside his baby brother

I was sorry I had not known of his coming and of his ability to offer what true consolation could be given a bereaved family.

In July 1904 with my two eldest daughters I visited him in St. Louis and he showed us through the exposition ground. He and his son J. N. Newsom gave me their applications for membership in the Church of Humanity concerning which he was very enthusiastic and hopeful.

In the following October he attended with me the sessions of the International Congress for Progressive Thought in St. Louis.

I think some recognition of our perished members should be inscribed on their tombstone. I suggest the standing proclamation heading our lessons with an addition thus: A founder of the Church of Humanity. Above the graves of our perished loved ones the Church of Humanity proclaims God a myth.

The Building of the Church of Humanity.

church should be able in time to keep hundreds of tons of literature, that will free the people from idolatry, in circulation all the time. If your society enlarges so it can use a larger library I will donate of the church funds $12.50 more on the same terms. The central office is to be a collecting and disbursing agency for the church. Large donations and bequests for the upbuilding of the Church of Humanity will be received here and distributed where it will do th most good for our educational movement. With church funds I am buying books for a free circulating library in this city when we get a society established. In order to get the benefit of the bequest left our church by brother Long the members should all do as you are doing—organize a local Sunday school and church and establish a free circulating library of literature suitable to free the people from the idolatry of worshiping a dead man and a myth. I would be glad to aid any of the members who will do so in the same way as I offer to aid you. That is what Bro. Long gave the bequest for— the upbuilding of our church. I would suggest you stamp each book of the library with a rubber stamp "Church of Humanity Library," and make out a printed list of all in it and paste in each book giving the retail price of each so that any one could buy a copy if one is wanted to keep, and also know what other books you have in the library so they could ask for what they want at the meetings. As soon as convenient I shall appoint a standing commission to examine all scientific and anti-Christian books and publications with a view to selecting those that can be indorsed by our church and used as text books or general reading matter. We will not prohibit the reading of any book but will not indorse and use as church text books or general reading matter: 1st. Books whose authors simply wish to abuse Christians. 2nd. Whose authors do not know what they are writing about. 3rd. Whose authors indorse and seek to perpetuate the worship of any God or justify it. Only such books on scientific subjects and bibical criticism that substantiates and proves the discoveries our church is based on will be indorsed officially and adopted as text books and general reading matter by the Church of Humanity. When the proposed commission has accepted a book the official stamp of indorsement of the church will be given it. So far as I have examined the hundreds of books, pamphlets and leaflets ordered from the Truth Seeker Co. very few of them could be indorsed by our church. A few of the scientific works could be accepted if revised and the author's views on idolatry, inserted through ignorance or a desire to catch the patronage of idolaters, omited. Likewise some of the works on biblical criticism could be indorsed and accepted by our church had not the author catered to idolatry by incorporating his deistical ideas and beliefs. I find four principal reasons for rejecting most Freethought and scientific writings and those on biblical criticism.—1. The author writes from the view point of personal hatred of the Christians in general or of some ones in particular. 2. From that of a deist. 3. From that of an Agnostic. 4. From that of a Spiritualist. No such works can be indorsed by our church.

Our ideal author, in giving us the ruths of nature and biblical criticism, is he who poinsts out as he reveals the truths to us how they disprove the existence of God, Satan, heaven, hell and immortality, this shall be our rule to judge by in selecting books for our church and Sunday school use.

Write to me often and let me know how I can aid you, and report your progress in organizing a local society.

Wishing you great success I remain yours sincerely,

W. H. Kerr.

P. S. I have just read your letter in the Blade of the 22nd. It is good and to the point. But I call your attention to the letter from Dr. J. C Barnes in same issue that is so very discouraging. You and he contradict each other as to the atitude of Freethinkers towards organization. You cannot both be representing Freethinkers if they represent anything in particular. While you declare there is "increasing spirit for national organization among Freethinkers" he is as emphatic in his that "in the very nature of their (Freethinker's) psychic situation are averse to organization and institutions." If Mr. Barnes is a Freethinker and is authorized to represent them and is giving a true interpretation of their position and views then I am not a Freethinker, never have been one and never will be and I do not want one to join the Church of Humanity for he would tear down our society as fast as 1000 of us could build it up. While you and I labor to build up an educational organization to rescue and preserve our posterity from idolatry Mr. Barnes would shut our mouths and tie our hands while the teachers of idolatry put our children on their knees to the worship ot dead Jews and myths. Since the name Freethinker seems to mean everybody in general and nobody in particular I suggest that our churchmembers discontinue applying it to themselves or to non-idolaters and be simply plain American citizens who have learned some great discoveries and intend to organize to make their teaching possible.

W. H. K.

A Correction.

In July Higher Science is the following statement:

"The Church of Humanity now ownes property worth $50,000 and the first 1000 members will own the stock. The property which is located at Great Bend, Kansas was left as a legacy by a deceased member."

Of the bequest left the church by brother Long $2000 was applied on the purchase of the building for our church college. I gave of my own money the balance of the purchase price, $5000, and am using over $1000 more in repairing and cleaning up the building. It will require between ten and fifteen hundred more to fully restore the heating, lighting and sewerage systems It was formally built for a first-class hotel but got into the hands of a loan company and has not been used for a few years in which time it got badly damaged. When fully repaired the building could not be duplicated in this city for perhaps less than $50,000.

When the church is organized and incorporated and establishes a college in this building for the teaching of the discoveries the church is based on I shall give it a free, clear title to the property. It is not to be owned by a stock company as a money maker for the church or any member but is to be owned by the church as an educational institution and be under the control of trustees elected or appointed by the church to maintain our church college.

Get Ready to Celebrate.

Kansas is to have a Semi-Centennial Exposition in 1911.

A few days ago I received from Mr. J. E. Junkin of Sterling, Kan. Chairman of the Publicity Committee, a circular letter announcing it and a booklet giving the preliminary organization.

The following resolution was passed by State Editorial Association recently.

"Resolved, That the State Editorial Association heartily indorses the proposed Kansas Semi Centennial Exposition in 1911, and pledges its support to this proposition, which means so much to the material prosperity of the state, as well as spreading abroad the fame of our commonwealth. The admission of Kansas into the Union in 1861 was an event of so much importance that we are justified in inviting the whole country to help us celebrate." The teaching and progress of the Church of Humanity should be fully represented at this exposition. Our church college should be in full working order by that time and the work of its students exhibited. The church should be organized and incorporated before then and its history with the names of its founders exhibited along with its text books.

Let us all work together in unison, harmony and earnestness in the upbuilding of our common church that it may make a creditable showing by that time.

The object lesson furnished wealthy parents by the Thaws and the Whites of New York demonstrate to them that they can do their children a great injustice by leaving them so much wealth to revel in that they are relieved of the necessity ot doing some useful work.

Donate While Living.

Brothers Heald and Wallace have both promised the Church of Humanity a bequest in their wills. It is perfectly right for them to remake ample property to provide the necessaries of life to the last need for them, but they should donate now at least a part of the surplus they intend leaving the church later. Several good reasons can be offered for this course.

1st. They can aid in suggesting the uses it is intended for and help to carry out the provisions of the gift in the way it will do the most good.

2nd. They will receive the gratitude of the church while they can appreciate it.

3rd. The will have the pleasure of knowing the good it does and get the benefits of it through the increased usefulness of the enlarged church work.

4th. It will encourage others to make donations while living when they see the necessity for them and the good uses made of them.

5th. When the less able make donations to be used in our society building the wealthy will come forward and give our society freely of their abundance.

6th. In the establishment of our educational movement to rescue and preserve the people from idolatry, through the systematic teaching of the great discoveries, money is as necessary as the active workers, and more so, as the number of working Instructors depends on the conditions of the church treasury. Therefore the substantial contributions to our church treasury will have equal credit for the advancement of our church with the active workers.

The purchase of our college building and the establishment of our church paper are the results of the encouragement given by the $2000 bequest of brother Long.

7th. By donating a part now they can better judge how much more to leave the church in their wills by seeing the uses and results of previous donations.

8th. In aiding the building of school houses and employment of teachers to give our children an education we do not put off our aid until after death Neither should we do that in aiding an education society preparing to teach the children the Truth About God which is the most vital important of all branches of knowledge since if it be not taught them they will be taught the ancient errors that make them worshipers of dead Jews and creations of fiction.

9th. By these two brothers giving part of their gifts now it will create a generous impulse among our members and a desire to give immediate aid to the upbuilding of their church which might in the aggregate amount to $10,000.

That generosity would attract attention to the earnestness and devotion of our members to the church and would inspire confidence in our work and ability among outsiders. Then no opposition would be given our educational movement and such men as Mr. Carnegie would be influenced to endow our college and aid us most generously.

10th. Thus it can be easily seen that a few thousand dollars so donated aid to our church would be most far reaching in its effects at this stage of our society building. It would be much more

Donate While Living.

Brothers Heald and Wallace have both promised the Church of Humanity a bequest in their wills. It is perfectly right for them to retain ample property to provide the necessaries of life to the last need for them, but they should donate now at least a part of the surplus they intend leaving the church later. Several good reasons can be offered for this course.

1st. They can aid in suggesting the uses it is intended for and help to carry out the provisions of the gift in the way it will do the most good.

2nd. They will receive the gratitude of the church while they can appreciate it.

3rd. The will have the pleasure of knowing the good it does and get the benefits of it through the increased usefulness of the enlarged church work.

4th. It will encourage others to make donations while living when they see the necessity for them and the good uses made of them.

5th. When the less able make donations to be used in our society building the wealthy will come forward and give our society freely of their abundance.

6th. In the establishment of our educational movement to rescue and preserve the people from idolatry, through the systematic teaching of the great discoveries, money is as necessary as the active workers, and more so, as the number of working Instructors depends on the conditions of the church treasury. Therefore the substantial contributions to our church treasury will have equal credit for the advancement of our church with the active workers.

The purchase of our college building and the establishment of our church paper are the results of the encouragement given by the $2500 bequest of brother Long.

7th. By donating a part now they can better judge how much more to leave the church in their wills by seeing the uses and results of previous donations.

8th. In aiding the building of school houses and employment of teachers to give our children an education we do not put off our aid until after death Neither should we do that in aiding an educational society preparing to teach the children the Truth About God which is the most vital important of all branches of knowledge since if it be not taught them they will be taught the ancient errors that make them worshipers of dead Jews and creations of fiction.

9th. By these two brothers giving part of their gifts now it will create a generous impulse among our members and a desire to give immediate aid to the upbuilding of their church which might in the aggregate amount to $10,000.

That generosity would attract attention to the earnestness and devotion of our members to their church and would inspire confidence in our work and ability among outsiders. Then no opposition would be given our educational movement and such men as Mr. Carnegie would be influenced to endow our college and aid us most generously.

10th. Thus it can be easily seen that a few thousand dollars now in donated aid to our church would be most far reaching in its effect at this stage of our society building. It would be much more valuable now than many times that amount in later years when our church work is fully established and appreciated and money flowing into our church treasury without the asking.

Come, Brothers, be generous while you are living and can appreciate the gratitude of a thankful church and witness the upbuilding of the grandest educational institution ever undertaken by man in the promulgation of the greatest scientific discoveries ever made.

Some Mistakes of Freethinkers.

CONCLUDED

11. That one is generally right and that it is a virtue to always side with the minority.

CORRECTION: It is as unwise to decide a question according to which side the least number is on as that on which the greatest number is on.

One should decide according to truth and right regardless of numbers on either side. A lady wrote me recently saying: "I read your article in the Blade on organization. I usually like to decide with the fellow that is in the minority, so that would be against you, there being only one not in favor of it." You see what an error this woman made by basing her decision on numbers. The Christian's reason for deciding we are wrong because the majority do not believe us as good. It is high time non-Christians ceased boasting of their rationalism and ability to follow correct reasoning and give us practical examples instead.

All theories and discoveries must of necessity originate with the minority. But theories are not all true and the minority is not always right A truth the minority teach is not changed into a falsehood when the majority accept it. Neither is an error or mistake advocated by the minority changed to a truth should the majority come to believe it. One should discard errors and accept truths on their own merits and not on the numbers for or against.

12. That since the Christians are mistaken in their teaching concerning God, Jesus, heaven, hell and immortality they must be mistaken in all their other teachings.

CORRECTION: No greater error could be made than to reject all teaching of Christians on account of their errors concerning the above subjects. We should closely discriminate between the true and the false teaching of Christians and gladly accept the true and best while correcting the false.

13. That it is necessary to first destroy the Christian societies before a society can be established on a true basis.

CORRECTION: There is plenty of room and all the liberty necessary to go right to work building a society on a true foundation. All that is needed is enough people who know what the truth is with energy and sense enough to unite and do the building.

Each member of the church who desires a local church and Sunday school in reach of his family should have a lot of his neighbors read the chutch paper if he has to pay the subscription for them. You can't have a society unless more people believe as you do, and they cannot so believe unless they are taught the truth you know. Your church paper will teach them those truths.

Parents cannot save their own children from idolatry without saving their neighbors children also. Hence the necessity of having our church literature put in their hands and the employment of Instructors to help in the teaching of the discoveries to them and organizing those who can learn them into church and Sunday school societies to spread and perpetuate the knowledge.

Of all the letters in Freethought publications on organization, pro and con, not one suggests that we owe any duties to the children. Their education in the true knowledge of God should be of first importance. The Church of Humanity recognizes this duty and provides for its fulfillment in its educational plans.

The Church of Humanity is on the right road to organized success. If you want the worship of a myth and a dead man overthrown unite with this church.

After three applications for second-class postage rates for our church paper, and much correspondence and trouble, it has been granted by the authorities at Washington.

The "old home" of millions of Christians has been endeared to them through the memory of the societies maintained around it. The members of our church should endear their homes to their children by providing local churches and Sunday schools for them to attend.

Brother Franklin H. Heald in his publication, Higher Science, Los Angeles, Calif., says in the July number:

"The editor of Higher Science is in no hurry to shuffle off his mortal body, although it is more or less damaged, but when he does, the aforesaid (Church of Humanity) will receive another legacy."

On behalf of the other members I extend thanks to brother Heald for this announcement. The church has no desire for brother Heald to "shuffle off," but it could use to great advantage that legacy now. As a compromize I suggest that he donate a large portion of the contemplated gift now to the church.

We all know the proverbical poverty of editors. If brother Heald can live and make a donation to his church it should have a magical effect on the more fortunate members in loosening their heart-strings and purse-strings in the interests of their church. I have a suspicion that brother Heald does not contemplate leaving the church simply the surplus accumulated profits on subscriptions to Higher Science. I am sure if I was depending on the subscriptions to T. A G. for a living I would be compelled to become a vegetarian and adopt Nebuchadnezzar's style of living when he went "back to nature."

Mr. Madden would not believe we had any subscribers for T. A. G. I gave him a list of subscribers and asked him to write them and get their statement. I thank those who answered his questions promptly.

Application for Membership in the Church of Humanity.

Fill out the following blank and return it to me if you have learned the great discovery that God is a myth and are not yet a member of the Church of Humanity.

On its receipt I shall transcribe it to the roll-book as a record and mail you a certificate of graduation in the knowledge of God making you a life member and one of the founders of the Church of Humanity. When we are 1000 strong I shall call a national convention of the church to formally organize and incorporate.

For the Blade Symposium.

By W. H. Kerr, Temporary International Instructor for the Church of Humanity.

Great Bend, Kans., July 24, 1906.
Mr. James Hughes, editor B. G. B.
Lexington, Ky.

Dear Sir and Friend:—I have been greatly interested in the letters contributed to your symposium on organization of the anti-idolatry forces. The following are some of my observations and conclusions drawn from a study of them: There are three classes—those who wish organization, those who do not and the indifferent.

The latter think they have nothing at stake either way. The objectors have no good reasons for objecting and the advocates, with one or two exceptions, offer no vital reason for organization.

With your kind permission I shall outline in detail more fully than before the basis, methods and plans of the Church of Humanity in the hopes of unifying and strengthening the advocates, weakening the objectors and interesting the indifferent in the cause of organization.

This will give your readers an opportunity to understand and discuss each feature of our church, and may furnish the grounds for consolidating the advocates of organization, winning the objectors and invigorating the indifferent.

1st. BASIS FOR ORGANIZATION. The Church of Humanity is founded on the discovery of the great scient fic truths that God, Satan and Holy Ghost are fabulous beings; that heaven and hell are myths and that death is the extinguishment forever of individual conscious life.

2nd. OBJECT IN ORGANIZING The vital object in organization is the rescue and preservation of the people, especially children, from the idolatry of worshiping a creation of fiction named God and a dead Jew named Jesus through a systematic teaching of those great discoveries by competent, qualified Instructors.

3rd. METHOD OF FOUNDING THE CHURCH.

(a) Qualification for Membership. All those who have learned, or may hereafter learn, the great discoveries on which this church is based are elegible to membership.

(b) Application for Membership. The following blank application for membership is filled out in full and forwarded to me:

Explanations. The word (believing) is equivalent to (knowing) as here used and will be so understood.

The dollar fee, while intended to be the uniform fee for all applicants, is not essential and will be omitted entirely for old, poor or disabled applicants who can't well spare it, and credit will be given others who have not the fee at the time of application.

We want all to understand it is members we want instead of dollars and that the dollars are only valuable and wanted for use in gaining more members.

(c) Certificate of Graduation and Membership. Upon receipt of the application I transcribe it to the BOOK OF LIFE as a short biographical record, and forward to the applicant a certificate of graduation in the Knowledge of God, making him, or her, a life member and one of the founders of the Church of Humanity. The following is a copy of the certificate in blank which is 8½x10½ inches, printed in two colors with borders, on good paper and is suitable for framing as I send them in mailing tubes:

Temporary International Instructor for the Church of Humanity.

Members are requested to frame them and place in home or office.

The first thousand members will constitute the founders and organizers of the Church of Humanity and are to share equally the honors of making the discoveries on which it is based.

Different degrees of credit for the upbuilding of the church will be given the members according to personal work and financial aid given by each to this great educational movement. The members constitute the Church of Humanity proper. The church is now composed of 112 members and founders scattered through 26 states as follows: Kansas 24 Iowa 11, Illinois 9; Kentucky, Missouri, and Texas 6 each; Indiana, Washington and Pennsylvania 5 each; Oklahoma 4; New York, Ohio, California and Arkansas 3 each; New Jersey, Montana, Minnesota, Colorado, Maryland and Alabama 2 each; Utah, W. Virginia, Wisconsin, Idaho, N. Dakota, Masachusetts and Connecticut 1 each. 3 members have died; Charles Long of Utah, Watson Heston and J. Q. A Newsom of Missouri.

The list of the first 100 members with their records from the Book of Life will be furnished free on application to me.

4th. PLANS FOR THE FUTURE (a) Formal Organization and Incorporation. When 1000 members and founders are enrolled I shall call a national, or international, delegate convention of the church to formally organize and incorporate the Church of Humanity.

(b) Basis of Representation. There will be one delegate from every nation, state and territory containing less than 13 members, and one for every twenty-five members or major part thereof in each nation, state and territory.

(c) Method of Selecting Delegates. When the required number is enrolled I shall call for candidates for delegation to the convention through our church paper and forward the members in each state a list of the members and candidates therein, giving the number of delegates it is entitled to and ask the members to vote for same and mail vote to me.

The candidates receiving the highest number of votes will be elected and notified accordingly. All the members will be invited to the convention but only the elected delegates will participate in the org. nization.

(d) Duty and Work of the Convention. The convention will then take charge and proceed to its own organization in the usual way. There will be a great deal of difficult and particular work for the convention to do that will require the services of the best talent in the church. A constitution, by-laws and articles of incorporation will have to be prepared, officers elected and their duties defined and standing commissions selected to select and adopt text books; examine and commission Instructors, and trustees selected to take charge of our church college and much other work.

(e) Contemplated Method of Propaganda. When a nation is able through its church membership to maintain a National Instructor one will be appointed to its service. At the convention one will be selected for the United States. The truths our church teaches will be promulgated through a graduated system of Instructors.

As fast as states get able to maintain Instructors they will be taken out of the national territory and State Instructors provided for them—one for each state. When any city or county can maintain an Instructor it will be taken out of the state territory and city or county Instructors provided. The International Instructor with the National Instructors will have the general supervision of the church work. All Instructors will have the supervision of the educational work in their respective territories, receive reports from Instructors under their charge and report to their superiors.

5th. The Education of Instructors. *

As soon as the church is incorporated and able to establish and maintain a college teaching the discovered truths it is based on I shall give it a free, clear title to this valuable property for that purpose. Educators inform me it is well arranged for a boarding school. Students can room, and board themselves if they desire, in the building. The two upper floors could be used for that purpose and the lower one for assembly and recitation rooms. A kitchen and common dining room could be established if students desire it. The building will be ready by September to receive students. I have made arrangements with Prof. A. L. Lessman, principal of the Great Bend Business College, to receive our students at very reasonable rates. He will give them a thorough business education in connection with the special studies that will fit them for Instructors in our church which I shall provide for. In the college is taught Stenography, Typewriting, Spelling, Commercial Arithmetic, Bookkeeping, Penmanship and oratory. I expect telegraphy and other studies will be added this coming fall. I shall reserve choice rooms for students who notify me they are coming to attend the college.

This will be the first educational institution in all the world to teach the truth about God. No educational institution knows the great discoveries our church is founded on. As soon as the people begin to realize the truth of these discoveries they will have them taught their children to protect them from being scared into idolatry of worshiping a dead Jew and a myth by the Dowies, Eddies, Torrys, Joneses and Smalls and the Salvation Army or any other teacher of idolatry. The well-to-do will send their children to our college with orders to teach them these discoveries and good moral ethics regardless of costs.

The rich will pour millions upon millions of dollars into our church treasury to build up our educational institutions with. Nations, states and cities will make demands on our college for qualified Instructors at extravagant salaries. That will justify bright young men and women devoting four or five years to the necessary preparation to qualify them for the positions.

In conclusion I hope I have succeeded in giving your readers a good understanding of the basis, objects, methods, plans and hopes of the Church of Humanity.

If, however, there are other points any of them want information on I shall be glad to give it if in my power to do so.

Thanking you in advance on behalf of the church for your courtesy in accepting our contribution to your symposium through which we make the church and its work known to your readers, I remain,

Yours sincerely,
W. H. KERR.

Subscribe for Truth About God so your family can know of the greatest discoveries made in all the ages.

In organization lies our only hope of rescuing the people from idolatry. Join the Church of Humanity if you want any one saved from the heathenism of worshiping a myth and a dead man.

To worship a myth whittled out by the imagination of a savage is as heathenish as to worship an image of that myth whittled out by the hand of a savage.

If you help to establish the Church of Humanity as an organized educational society it will keep on teaching the Truth About God to your posterity and thus preserve them from idolatry when you are dead. Society lives for ages while the individuals die and are forgotten.

The man who objects to having truth taught under the name of church would object to a sensible song sung to a tune used by idolaters in worshiping their idols if he is consistent.

Three of our church members have died. A number of them are quite old. If the church is to be organized and established during the lifetime of these members a greater effort should be made by all to find the required number of people elegible for membership and get them to unite with the church so it can organize. Each member should desire to see the church organized in his time.

The Building of the Church of Humanity.

"ROLL OF HONOR."

In September "To-Morrow," Chicago, under "Roll of Honor" the editor gives the name and address of 74 people over 65 years old whom he designates as the "old guard of Freethought" and intends maintaining an "Old Guard column."

The editor says: "To-Morrow Magazine extends the glad hand to the Freethinkers of the world and especially you noble souls sixty-five years and upward who have worn your armor long and are still in the fight. Step fourth serene from your shops and cottages the brighter day is here—you are the favorites now—the honored prophets of the new civilization. We may now all be free just as fast as we can bury the old time theologians for of course, as always, they will carry their ignorance to their graves.

Your steadfastness and courage have won us the world. Write to us. Send in your views and opinions and above all send in the names and ages and addresses of all the 'Old Guard' who are more than 65 years of age. We shall print and gladly increase the list from month to month as we want to keep the old war horses in touch with each other.

The list will be made up according to age, the oldest at the top and biographical sketches with portraits will be a feature of the Old Guard column."

As promised in last T. A. G. I extend to each one named in that Roll of Honor, who has learned that God is a myth, an urgent invitation to send in his application for a certificate of graduation in the knowledge of God, and life membership in the Church of Humanity. On behalf of the members I shall be greatly pleased to bid you a hearty welcome to membership, fellowship and friendship in this church. I want you all to be numbered among the founders and organizers of the Church of Humanity. I want you all to be numbered among the discoverers of the grand scientific truths on which it is based—the discoveries that God, Satan and Holy Ghost are fabulous beings, heaven and hell myths and death the extinguishment of individual conscious existence.

These marvelous discoveries have never in all the histories of our race been proclaimed before. They are modern scientific discoveries. Extremely few have thus far made them. The so-called wise men of the world do not know them. Kings, emperors, czars and presidents of the most enlightened nations are totally ignorant of these great discoveries and are still worshiping dead men and myths under the belief they are real live beings. The vast army of school, college and university teachers never heard of these discoveries and are still stupidly teaching their pupils to worship God and Jesus. The great army of the clergy know them not and will think it utterly impossible that such discoveries could have been made when they hear of them. The rank and file of the world's population following these great mistaken leaders of thought must from necessity know nothing of these grand truths. Only the heroic few who made the truth about God their guiding star and, waving aside every warning fear, bravely forced their way through the mighty jungle of superstition and mythologies that have been growing for untold ages about the God idea and finally arrived at the goal in the very heart of the jungle.

And there, in dumb-founded amazement, they stood to marvel at the discovery of God whom they had patiently traced to his lair.

After years of patient toil in an honest search for God through all religious creeds, bibles and sacred writings of the world and throughout the known universe with telescope and spectrum God was at last found. Not in any of those places where he was thought to be but he was found enthroned in the brain of ignorant people as a purely fabulous being like Santa Claus. Others again relying on their observations of nature and personal experiences and applying reason and logic to these suspected the location and nature of God which on closer examination they found to be true. The location and nature of God is now scientifically known, and wherever the God-idea is taken up in any religion or creed in any land or language it is easily traced to its home and source by the lucky few who have made the grand discovery of the location and nature of God.

As yet extremely few have made the discovery that God, Satan and Holy Ghost are fabulous beings, heaven and hell myths and death the extinguishment forever of personal conscious life. These few are uniting in an educational society to proclaim and teach these truths that they may be perpetuated and promulgated until all the world knows and accepts them.

Through our church paper the members invite each and every one of you, who knows God is a myth, to send in his or her application for membership. This is a duty you owe to yourselves, to your posterity, and to the world at large. Unless you do this your labor has been in vain. No one will ever know you have made the discoveries. You will miss the honor the future has in store for the discoverers of these grand truths.

You will be unable to help to emancipate our race from idolatry. You cannot aid our church and its grand educational work from the outside. You will be numbered with the Deists, Agnostics and idolaters who give aid and comfort to the teachers of the errors of the ancients. You can only do good now by uniting in this society and aiding in its founding and organization. Immortal fame awaits you who are wise enough to take this advanced position now and proclaim these great discoveries. It will be some consolation to know that the world will some day place your name in the Roll of Honor among the heroes of the ages if your name is found among those who made these vital discoveries and were life members and founders of a society to perpetuate them.

As the evening of life draws near you should be rich in observation and experience. Your days of usefulness are not over, but on the contrary are just begun when you have learned these discoveries and are in a position to become founders of a society to perpetuate them. That society needs the benefit of your mature wisdom in its council chambers when the time comes to organize, incorporate and form a constitution and by-laws. Will you give it that aid? Will you add your voice and vote to its deliberative councils? Will you help to lay the foundation of the Church of Humanity on the eternal truths of nature that will some day overthrow all the idolatrous religions of the world?

The soldiers who engaged in the slaughter of their fellow beings are rewarded by pensions and honor.

How much greater should be the reward of the soldiers of civilization. Add the influence of your number, name and wisdom to this society as a guiding example to others who are still floundering in the ignorance of Agnosticism. Help to form a beacon light for those who have lost their way in the jungle of superstition and are drifting back to the old idolatry or trying to hitch the God idea to some new object to worship. The entire world is still in practical idolatry and the support of it. The only antidote that can ever cure it is the discoveries the Church of Humanity teaches. Therefore I hereby send you an urgent invitation to unite with your co-workers and contemporaries and help them to administer the antidote.

Shirley, Ill., Sept. 8, 1906.
W. K. Kerr, Great Bend, Kans.

Dear Sir:—On reading the publications sent me, I at once made up my mind to join the "Church of Humanity" as by belonging to it I can be helped and I believe help, in the teaching of the truth.

Your views are exactly mine in every respect. I feel as if they were my own on paper. I went to Sunday school five years with a purpose.

I went to learn about God and it seemed that he eluded me at every point, until the light of truth burst upon me as I grew older and read about other religions and saw the falseness and misleading statements of all.

I have been trying to teach to all who would listen to me for the last four years the truth of the matter.

I have been attacked by preachers, deacons and laymen but never by the same one twice.

I would let them storm and preach and then by facts and cold reason, but never with invective or anger, disprove their statements and leave them without anything to say.

But they still drift in the old channel as they are not strong enough to stand alone and fight idolatry.

I can only pity their ignorance and fear of God (nothing).

I am very glad to know that there is now an organization moving to lend them a helping hand and lift them to the higher plane of truth.

I will close with best wishes for all concerned.

Yours truly,
WM. E. GATES.

Bro. Gates is only 23 years old. What hope and courage his message brings us all.

How we can sympathize with him and he with us in our common struggle to emancipate our people from idolatry.

We are engaged in the greatest contest ever waged in the interests of civilization. Nearly the entire world is against us. We have learned the great discoveries that disprove the foundation belief underlying all religious societies. We are promulgating the grandest discoveries ever made in historic times. We need the cheering words and helping hand of every well wisher of our race.

Advance.

Anti-idolaters! Face-about. Advance. Stop advancing backwards like lobsters. Look no longer to Thomas Paine as the leader of advanced knowledge of God. He was in advance of the procession in his time. All honor and praise to his heroism. But so rapidly has the knowledge of God been advanced that he is a way back number now. Many Christians and some idolatrous churches are about ready to pitch their campments on the advanced ground cleared by Mr. Paine. Many of his arguments and evidences pointed out and used then are still good and ever will be and can be used by the Church of Humanity in proving its great discoveries true. But Mr. Paine's conclusions and beliefs and hopes cannot be used. They now do more harm than good in that they tend to pull the van-guard who have discovered the location and nature of God back into idolatry. Even the immortal Ingersoll can no longer be accepted as authority on the knowledge of God so swiftly has that knowledge been pushes to its final termination in the discovery of the location and nature of God. The brilliant master of language, who could please the eye with oratorical gestures, and the ear with retorical bouquets of facts, reason and logic may never be equalled. His manhood and honesty will ever be a model for nobility of character. Many of his arguments, compiled facts, and biblical criticisims are valid yet and ever will be. Like those of Mr. Paine the Church of Humanity can and will use them in proving its great discoveries true. But his conclusions in regard to God, like those of Mr. Paine, cannot be accepted by this church. They, like Paine's, tend to pull the discoverers of the truth about God back to ignorance and idolatry.

I warn the church members to beware of those writers and speakers in Freethought publications who are still following the lead of Paine and Ingersoll and are using their mistakes as the advanced know'edge of today in regard to God. As an example of such mistakes, I call your attention to Dr. J. B. Wilson's oration at the funeral of Mrs. Williamson as reported in the Blue Grass Blade of July 15 under "brilliant oration at grave."

I shall reproduce a few of the most important mistakes he made that are disproved by the discoveries the Church of Humanity has made and shall comment briefly thereon.

1. "People believe as they must—as their brains are shaped—as to race, climate and environment."

That is a grevious mistake in every particular except as to "environment" provided that includes teachers. With the exception of idiots the entire population of the world can learn that twice two are four if given sufficient training by a competent teacher, and so with most knowledge. Of course some are more apt in learning than others but that difference is found in the same climate, race and brain-shape.

As to what people believe it is primarily a matter of teaching. All can learn the truth that God is a myth with the proper teaching as easily as to learn a thousand different errors about him.

There is no such a condition as people believing as they must. It would be more correct to say people believe as they are taught, although the leaders in all lines of knowledge are to some extent self-taught through observation, investigation and experience.

2. "Of the future we all know that none of us know anything. We can only hope and dream and wait. We feel that somewhere there is a celestial key that makes of the puzzle of life a kingdom where all is harmony and justice and satisfaction."

That too is a mistake. It is now positively discovered that death is the extinguishment forever of individual conscious life, and is taught as a fact. It can be taught and learned by the introduction of evidence that clearly prove it to be true. Our likes and dislikes, our hopes and wishes are no evidence at all for or against. It is a truth in nature and we must submit whether we want to or not.

Belief in the error of immortality can not save us from the fate of life-extinguishment. The wise thing to do is to accept the truth and try to make earth a good, beautiful home for us all while we pass through the transit of life.

3. "We can all believe in a providence, in a Supreme Power of some kind, in a future life, and hope to meet again, without prostituting our intelligence to a belief in the impossible miracles."

We who have learned the great discoveries the Church of Humanity is based on can believe no such things. No greater miracles could be offered us on which to prostitute our intelligence than the idea of any "Providence," "Supreme Power," "future life" and "meeting again." We could not make a greater prostitution of our intelligence than to believe such utterly impossible things in the face of a world of positive evidence around us that disproves them. With a few minor exceptions the oration justifies the headlines, "brilliant oration," for the balance is true, beautiful, grand and can be enthusiastically indorsed by the Church of Humanity, for the beautiful thoughts and sentiments clothed in flowery rhetoric are those of this church. I recommend all our church members who do not take the Blade to send for a copy of that date and read the oration.

In connection with this beautiful oration marred by the teaching of superstition, idolatry and errors of former brilliant leaders, whom Dr. Wilson was evidently following, I recommend the reading by him and editor Hughes of the article, "is it fair," in this issue.

Is it Fair?

In the Truth Seeker of July 21, under "The Insanity of the Inspired,' is reproduced the opinion of an expert on insanity, Dr. Archibald Church, who was called in to pass on the sanity of Dowie during his hearing in the United States District court in Chicago.

Dr. Church pronounced Dowie insane and gave as his reason "An individual who believes he is under mystic or divine direction, and who believes that this direction dominates his life, is insane."

Practically all the people believe in the existence of a God. They believe that God "dominates" their lives because they were taught it in idolatrous churches, Sunday schools, religious publications and by their idolatrous parents.

No one can believe in the existence of a God without believing that God knows him, wants him to do some things and refrain from doing other things. Every God-creator endows him with unlimited power and wisdom and the desire to "dominate" the lives of the people.

But what is the Truth Seeker doing to prove God a fabulous being?

What is it doing to teach its own readers the discovery that God is a fabulous being? That is the only knowledge that can save the people from the false belief that their lives are "dominated" by a divine being which this expert says is proof of insanity. The Truth Seeker admits God-creators to its own columns, "God's Protest" being a conspicuous example. Is it fair to be a party to making people insane and then to abuse them for their insanity?

In the Humanitarian Review for September under "Shall we Organize" it says: "It matters not whether or not one believes in the existence of 'God' 'spirit' embodied or disembodied."

That is to say, in connection with Dr. Church's declaration, that it matters not whether people are in sane, and that it is right to teach children to believe things for which they can be judged insane.

He does not think it necessary to teach the only discovery that can prevent people from believing errors that prove them insane. Is it fair to teach the people it is right to believe things and then tell them they are insane for believing them? A man who thinks there is no harm in believing in the existence of God and teaching it has not learned the discovery that God is a myth else he would recognize the harm in idolatry. No one can believe in the existence of God without being an idolater and a defe der and patron of it. The belief in the existence of God led to all the crimes and tortures committed in the interests of idolatry, and friend Davis can see no harm in perpetuating the cause of it all! He often condemns the effects of idolatry but sees no harm in the cause. Why all this criticism in Freethought publications of effects while aiding in the perpetuation of the cause? If you saw a man trying to fill a sack with wheat and working hard scooping it in with one hand and out with the other would you call him a "Rationalist" or a "Liberal?" Would not anyone be ashamed to be known by the name he is? Would anyone care to follow his example who wished to accomplish anything? Would anyone care to employ him to teach them what to do and how to do it? When he had worn himself out in a long life of toil and privation trying to fill the sack would you not call his an unreasoning, irrational method? A wasted life? Would he not come dangerously near being judged insane? All Freethought publications are engaged ostensibly in pumping idolatry out of the people. If that is not their mission, what is it? Yet very seldom can one pick up a copy of any of them in which the editor or some contributor is not vigorously pumping idolatry into their readers through articles teaching God as a real being, which false teaching is and ever has been the fountain source of all religious idolatry. Again I ask, is it fair to devote part of a publication to teaching the people those errors for believing which they are adjudged insane and then devote the balance of the publication to a tyrade of ridicule and abuse of those people for lack of knowledge? As a co-worker and contemporary of all those who wish idolatry overthrown, by the promulgation of the truth about God, I beg all editors, who wish that result accomplished, to refuse space to God-creators in their publications and furnish it only to those who will tell the people the truth about God which is now positively known and verified, or use the space yourselves in so teaching. There are hundreds of publications devoted to the creation of God to one willing to tell the truth about him.

Refer your would-be God makers to those idolatrous publications who make a specialty of that line of business They are out of their element in a publication that seeks to civilize the people by teaching them the truth about their idols and inducing them to give up the practice of a heathen idolatry.

Prepare yourself for elegibility to membership in the Church of Humanity by learning the great discovery concerning God.

Since the discovery is now made that God is only a creation of fiction every worshiper of him must be recognized as an idolater.

Sure Not.

In September Searchlight under "organization" friend Shaw says:

"The present rapid growth of Liberalism within the churches causes me to doubt whether or not we need any outside organization. At the present rate it will not be long until all good Liberals will be elegible to church membership."

Friend Shaw is perfectly right, logical, sensible and practical, provided he includes the Church of Humanity in "churches," and there is no reason why he should not.

With this church included, as it should be if not, there is absolutely no need of any further attempt of Liberals trying to form any new organization or reviving the old ones. It would only be a waste of time and energy to do so. It could not be accomplished if tried and would result inevitably in failure as all previous attempts have done were it attempted. No organization can be accomplished and maintained without a vital basis to rest on and a vital object to accomplish. The Church of Humanity has appropriated the only available vital base and object possible for a non idolatrous organization. As friend Shaw says, there is positively no more need of any organization for Liberals outside of the churches. There are now churches for all. If anyone who has learned the teaching of the Church of Humanity is not yet a church member it is his own fault. All Liberals, Freethinkers, Infidels, Agnostics, Atheists, Monists, Christians and all can be church members.

The Church of Humanity will welcome all the above classes to membership provided they have or will learn the truth that God is a myth before making their application for membership. Those who still believe the ancient errors concerning God can find congenial fellowship in one of the many idolatrous churches. It is the duty of everybody to unite with some church. Of course we are anxious they should learn the truth about God and join the Church of Humanity and help to promulgate its discoveries,

It might be friend Shaw did not have in mind the Church of Humanity as he further says:

"In many churches they (Liberals) are now welcome, provided they keep silent on the subject."

By including the Church of Humanity all Liberals can join a church without keeping silent and will not only be allowed to teach what they believe concerning God but will be urged to do so. If they have learned the great scientific discoveries that God, Satan and Holy Ghost are fabulous beings, heaven and hell myths and death the end of conscious life, there is now a church that will welcome them with open arms where they will not be required to "keep silent" and will be urged not to do so. Liberals who have not learned these grand discoveries and are hankering to worship a dead Jew named Jesus and a creation of fiction named God will be equally welcome to membership in idolatrous churches and equally urged to break their silence, not in teaching truths as in the Church of Humanity, but in teaching errors and making idolaters of the people. So the Liberals have a choice lot of churches now to select from and there is absolutely no need of an "outside organization."

Propaganda Committe.

The Church of Humanity represents the grandest truths ever discovered. Those truths cannot promulgate themselves. Those who believe them must do it or it never will be done.

How would it do to have a committee of our members on propaganda work? How many would like to be on that committee? I need the advice and suggestions of the chairman of such a committee. How would it do for all members who would serve in that capacity to notify me by card and then publish their names next month and then they elect their chairman by a vote to me on a card for their choice, the one receiving a majarity to be chairman? The chairman could make suggestions to me from time to time as to the needs and duties of the committee. Our church paper and literature should be widely distributed, and more literature prepared and selected for distribution. I believe our paper should be read by thousands instead of hundreds. For propaganda work I mail the paper to ten subscribers at the same post office for $1. Suppose 100 of our members would send in a list of ten subscribers each month, which I know they could do, that would give us a thousand more readers every month or twelve thousand in a year. It is estimated by publishers that each copy is read by five people, but suppose ours was read by only half that number, owing to fear and prejudice, it would reach the attention of 30,000 people in a year. That grand result would only cost each committeeman a dollar a month or twelve dollars a year. We can win more members only by propaganda work. We should all have a great ambition to build up a large membership to make it as popular as any other church. To do that we must be active members like those of other churches. Why, our members can easily place their church paper in the hands of 100,000 readers in three years if they will not let the members of other churches be more generous and active than they. Truths need as active and generous supporters and defenders to succeed as errors have. The defenders of errors have set the pace. We will get ignominiously beaten if we do not come up with the cash and activity to their pace. Members, are you willing to do it in order to gain the victory for truths? Will a 100 join the propaganda committee and sign this pledge:

I hereby accept the office of committeeman on the propaganda work of the Church of Humanity for the state of ..... and promise to send in ten subs. monthly to T. A. G. for one year. Name and address .....

How Other Churches Win.

There is only one way for the Church of Humanity to win and that is by following the example of other churches especially the most prosperous ones. We have truths on our side and we deserve to win. Truths will win if given equal opportunity with errors.

They cannot have an equal chance unless those who know them push their teaching with equal vigor in as good methods as errors receive.

In successful church building the first essential thing is numbers. With a large membership comes demands for literature, teachers, organizations, educational institutions and the money to finance it all. But with large numbers comes also wealth to take care of the financial end. You know the Catholic church has large numbers and requires large sums of money to finance their institutions. How do they get it? Why, their rich members who believe their teaching give it freely and gladly. What! They are fools for doing so? No indeed, they are not. Believing as they do it is the wisest thing they can do. You who know they are teaching errors would be fools to aid them. Our rich church members could do no wiser thing than to donate to the Church of Humanity their surplus wealth to push its educational work with while the Catholics would be foolish to donate aid to it until they believe its teaching. You can easily understand that what is wise for one man to do is foolish for another to do who does not want it done.

But here is the case in point I wish to give as illustrating the way numbers bring demand for money but also bring the money.

The catholics are so numerous they require a large number of priests and a seminary was needed in Kansas City to educate poung men for the priesthood. A Mr. Wm. Kenefick, of course a Catholic, comes forward to pay for the ground, eight or ten acres, and erect St. John's Catholic Seminary, which will cost hundreds of thousands of dollars. Other rich catholics of K. C. have made bequests to the board of a hundred thousand dollars for the seminary.

Only boys over twelve years of age will be admitted. They will be taken from the parocial schools and will pass an examination before being admitted.

Rev. Thomas Fitzgerald, vicar general of the diocese of Kansas City will appoint the professors, select the class books and specify the course of study. That is the way Rome prepares so thoroughly to furnish teachers of errors for the people. No wonder the people are idolaters. Truth never can compete successfully with errors until its advocates prepare as elaborately and as thoroughly to provide teachers and defenders of it. The wealthy men in the Church of Humanity should come forward and endow our college with enough means to enable it to offer free room, board, clothing, books and teachers to all the young men in our church who would come and study for the duties of Instructors for our church so they could meet those young Catholic priests as soon as they emerge from their Seminary and give them such an intellectual reception that they would straightway join the Church of Humanity.

I know with an equally thorough training our young men could do it, and by the eternal truths our church is founded on I would rejoice to see that done.

If the well-to-do members of our church will chip in equal amounts I will plank down any day $5,000. to back our young men who will prepare to defend the truth against the teachers of superstition and idolatry.

Truth never can win in its contest with errors until its backers put up dollar against dollar, church against church, college against college and teacher against teacher of the backers of untruths.

The Church of Humanity is built of people who have learned the discovery that God is a myth.

The place for all who wish posterity saved from idolatry is in the Church of Humanity.

Each parent should value it worth one million dollars to him for each child saved from the worship of God through a knowledge of the truth about him.

Application for Membership in the Church of Humanity.

Fill out the following blank and return it to me if you have learned the great discovery that God is a myth and are not yet a member of the Church of Humanity.

On its receipt I shall transcribe it to the roll-book as a record and mail you a certificate of graduation in the knowledge of God making you a life member and one of the founders of the Church of Humanity. When we are 1000 strong I shall call a national delegate convention of the church to formally organize and incorporate.

Great Chunks of Evidence.

When a lonely child is bitten by a poisonous snake and has to lie down to suffer and die, with no one to love or care or comfort it in its last sufferings, how pathetic! How it proves conclusively the non-existence of God and Jesus and the angels of the Christian mythology.

It is remarkably strange that the Christian world, after being taught and trained for two thousand years in the principles and duties of love, sympathy, compassion and pity, can not see that the above and similar cases disprove tetotally the theories that there is a God, Jesus and unseen angels in the universe.

The Christians are ever ready with an excuse for their God and Jesus in such cases. But of the scores of excuses and explanations throughout the past ages not one was the true one.

At last the true excuse and explanation is found and promulgated by the Church of Humanity. It is that God and angels are fabulous beings, and Jesus only a dead man. Idolaters and Agnostics do not accept and believe the above reasons as the true ones, but they are and no other excuse or explanation can be offered that satisfies and convinces the humane critical mind.

While the Christians can accept the sophistry offered by their clergy about the child being too good for earth and God wanting its soul in heaven, as reasonable and logical excuses for his non-interference, they must be puzzled to find excuses to satisfy them when great numbers of people including all shades of belief, all degrees of morality and all ages are hurled to death indiscriminately as was the case in the destruction of hundreds of lives by the earthquake at Valpariso, Chile, August 23 and 24.

There has been five great disasters recently, the Iriquois theatre fire at Chicago, the burning of the General Slocum in New York, the Mount Vesuvius eruption, the San Francisco earthquake and the one at Valpariso, wherein hundreds of lives were lost that a very large per cent of the Christians must know of.

While these great chunks of disasters are no more convincing to the mind trained to weigh them than a dying child that God is a myth yet they must have a deeper impression on those minds untrained to recognize the inconsistency between them and the teaching of the existence of an all-powerful and all wise loving God.

By persistent systematic teaching by the Church of Humanity the entire world will in time recognize and accept its discoveries that God is a fabulous being, heaven and hell myths and death the end of individual conscious life. It is the only scientific answer and will be in time accepted by all if they ever learn the truth. It is the only solution capable of being proved true by the scientific method of proving the truths of nature. It will be a great blessing to our race when all the world believes and accepts the great discoveries the Church of Humanity has made and is promulgating. As soon as readers of our paper and literature are convinced of the truth of these discoveries they should unite with the Church of Humanity. That will aid others to become interested in our discoveries and learn them too.

As soon as editors are convinced the discoveries we teach are true they should join with us and assist in promulgating them by teaching them to their readers and preparing them for membership in the church where they can aid in the rescue of others from idolatry and preserve their own posterity from it.

Traced God to His Lair.

The Church of Humanity has traced God to his lair, and it is another illustration of truth being stranger than fiction. Instead of God being found on a throne in the skies surrounded by a choir of angelic singers with wings and lily white robes, where all idolaters thought he was, he was found to be enthrowned in the brains of people as a purely imaginary being.

The process of creating and perpetuating God is clearly and fully known by this church. Wherever a God-creator is at work, whether in the home, the Sunday school, church, religious publication, he is instantly recognized by this church.

Every one who affirms anything of God that purports to represent him as saying, doing, wishing or desiring anything is a God-creator, and perpetuator of idolatry.

The parent telling his child, the Sunday school teacher telling his class, the clergyman telling his congregation, the editors and authors of religious papers and books telling their readers about a God saying, doing or desiring anything are one and all engaged in creating God in the mind of others. But the creation of God is not always confined to those who practice idolatry. It is often found in unexpected places, practiced and indorsed by those who are supposed to know better than to engage in such business.

In the Truth Seeker some weeks ago there was a poem entitled "God's Protest" which the editor seemed to indorse by placing it on the first page and calling special attention to it, and, if I remember correctly, was printed in a leaflet. The editor seemed to be unaware that he was giving aid and comfort to a God creator who is aiding to keep the people in idolatry by trying to improve a character of fiction and make it more worthy of worship. While it would undoubtedly be better for idolaters to worship a creation of fiction to which is assigned a good nature than one given a wicked nature yet the point is that no creation of fiction can be made good enough to justify the the idolatry of worshiping it. The principle is the same. Idolatry of fabulous beings, whether good or bad characters are assigned them, is equally objectionable to a person who knows they are only creations of the imagination and whose worship should and must be discontinued.

That God creator and the editor may have thought they were justified by the declaration of Ingersoll that "a good God is the noblest work of man." But Mr. Ingersoll was greatly mistaken in that affirmation and those who follow his lead in that sentiment must of necessity be mistaken also. Idolatry cannot be overthrown by the creation of new characters to worship or by the improvement of the old ones.

The Church of Humanity improves on Mr. Ingersoll's declaration by affirming the noblest duty of man is to discontinue the creation of new Gods to worship and overthrow the idolatry of the old ones.

Therefore I suggest that all editors who wish idolatry discontinued reject the contributions of God-creators or publish them only to point out, editorially, right after the article, the mistake of its author.

Editors Should Join in the Rescue Work.

During August the church found, through its publication, and enrolled six life members and founders of the church who has learned the great discovery that God is a myth.

Why should not all the editors who wish the people freed from idolatry join in the work of rescueing them? What reasons can they have for not helping to find those who have learned the discovery that God is a myth and invite them to unite in this educational movement of their readers for the purpose of enabling them to aid in the rescue and preservation of others from idolatry through the promulgation of their common discovery?

What reasons have they for not accepting the truth of the discoveries some of their readers have made and aiding them in teaching those discoveries to the Deists and Agnostics among their readers who need this advanced teaching to make them elegible to membership in this advanced church?

Is it possible they are not as far advanced in the knowledge of God as their readers who are members of this church?

Is it possible they have not learned the discovery that God is a myth?

Is it possible they cannot take this advanced step through fear of losing a subscriber who is an idolater? Are they jealous of me or our church paper?

Are they jealous of the advancement some of their readers have made? Do they not want their readers to know the truth about God?

Do they not want their readers to organize so they can aid with time and money systematically and efficiently in freeing others from idolatry, providing themselves with society, educational and charitable institutions?

Surely none of these excuses could be worthy reasons for refusing to aid their readers in organizing.

Suppose ten of the leading anti-Christian publications would accept the invitation to aid in the educational and organization work. They could on an average do as well, if not better, than our church paper is doing in finding members for the church. That would mean at least sixty additional members to the church each month. In less than two years we would have the required 1000, educated and enrolled as life members. Then we could proceed to call the national delegate convention for formal organization and incorporation. It would encourage the other editors along similar lines of teaching to unite and engage in the work. Perhaps twenty-five or thirty publications would join in the educational and organization work within a short time if a few would take the lead. Then our membership would grow rapidly. Editors would have accomplished something to justify their time and services that would be of inestimable value in overthrowing idolatry. They would have the pleasure of knowing they helped to set a power in motion that could grapple successfully with organized idolatry and finally overthrow it, if not in their lifetime at least in this century.

Why not be a factor in organizing that power? Their posterity cannot be saved from idolatry without it. Do they want to go down to their graves knowing they have done nothing to establish an educational institution able to preserve their posterity from worshiping a dead Jew and a myth-God?

Will they allow petty jealousies and little misunderstandings or even criticisms to swerve them from the duty of uniting to accomplish a great object for each of them that they cannot all do working singly without order, system, method, basis or object, and often undoing what good they and contempories have done?

Cannot they realize the great advantages of a united effort to accomplish results?

Editors, study closely the plan for united editorial work the church outlined in the August issue and indosse it by accepting it if it is satisfactory, if not write me your objections.

New Members.

The Church of Humanity gained two members so far in Sept.

They are H. J. Stevenson, of El Reno, Okla. and Wm. E. Gates, of Shirley, Ill.

The church extends a welcome to these members.

Bro. Gates' letter on first page was with his application for membership which will be greatly appreciated by the members and will renew their hope and courage. The church greatly appreciates the acquisition of new members. It can not call the national delegate convention for formal organization and incorporation until 1000 members are enrolled. I send a special invitation to all who are in sympathy with our educational work to send in their applications for membership if they have not done so. Your well wishes and hopes for our success in our contest with organized idolatry can not help us if you do not act with us. It is your battle as much as ours. Do not shirk your duty. Do not expect us to win the contest without your assistance that you may enjoy the fruits of our labors without lending us a helping hand. You will be disappointed if you do, for it will be utterly impossible to win without your aid. These two brothers have done their duty, now do yours. They did not expect or desire others to win a glorious victory for them. They are willing to do their part. Will you do yours? You can aid us none by staying on the outside of our church. The enemies of truth are all there. Those who do not believe our grand discoveries are all there. Those who practice and support idolatry are all there. You will be numbered with them and against us as long as your name is not on our Roll Book. Only those who make known to the world through the Church of Humanity that they have discovered that God is a myth can be recognized as having made it. All is lost if you do not help win the victory with your name, number and example.

VOL. 1. GREAT BEND, KANSAS, OCTOBER AND NOVEMBER, 1906. No. 11.

The Building of the Church of Humanity.

The building of the Church of Humanity consists in finding and uniting in an educational organization all those who have learned or can hereafter learn the great scientific discoveries now positively made that all Gods, Devils and Holy Ghosts are fabulous beings, that heaven and hell are myths, and death the extinguishment forever of individual conscious life. These are modern discoveries and are the greatest ever made in historic times. Besides them all other discoveries pale into insignificance. For want of a knowledge of these discoveries practically our entire race are idolaters worshiping creations of fiction, objects, properties of objects and dead people to which they attach the God-idea.

The grandeur of these discoveries can be realized when we contemplate the universal ignorance of them. When we see kings, czars, emperors, sultans and presidents of all nations worshiping idols we know these are modern discoveries and that those people have not learned them yet. When we see educators, from the country school teacher to the professors in our highest colleges, universities and academies teaching and practicing idolatry for want of a knowledge of these discoveries, we know they are of recent origin and that those people know nothing of them.

These grand discovered truths must of necessity then be the foundation of all educational movements and systems of teaching designed to overthrow idolatry. All efforts to form societies and establish systems of teaching in every country on earth to check and finally overthrow the idolatry of that country must of necessity be based on these great discoveries that constitute a common universal foundation for that purpose. Christianity, with all of its divisions and sub-divisions, Confucianism, Hindooism, Mohammedanism, Buddhism, Taoism, Shintoism, Judaism and Polytheism, with their sacred writings and various forms of worshiping various idols must one and all go down before the educational societies based on these grand discoveries. These discoveries constitute a common basis on which to build an educational organization to overthrow all systems of religious mythologies on this planet. Never can our race be entitled to the claim of civilization until all its idolatrous practices and institutions are overthrown by the promulgation of these discoveries. As fast as people learn these discoveries they should unite with the Church of Humanity which is the first society in all the world to recognize them as discoveries and understand their vital intrinsic value and proclaim them to the world. The proudest people in all the world should be those who have learned these discoveries and have received from the Church of Humanity certificates of graduation in the knowledge of God and are enrolled as life members and founders of this educational society. In this most important of all branches of knowledge they are intellectual giants compared with the dwarfed pigmies of idolatrous royalty. They have learned the grand discoveries that are yet unsuspected by the most advanced nations. They are forever free from idolatry, while the millions around them are wallowing in the profound ignorance that puts them on their knees in worship of dead Jews and a myth-God.

I therefore take great pleasure in announcing the seven new comrades who have applied for certificates of graduation and membership since last report. I give their record in rotation from the Church Roll Book:

Riggs, E. H., Brewster, Neb., 45, Male, Merchant, American, English, none.

Whitaker, I. H., McConnelsville, O., 69, Male, Agent and Collector, American, English, Presbyterian.

Hinsley, W. W., Howard, Kans., 72, Male, Real Estate, American, English, Campbellite.

Tebbe, Louis P., Loveland, Col., 57, Male, Fruit grower, American, English and German, Presbyterian.

Lyndall, Mrs. H. M. M., 196 So. Grent Ave., Columbus, O., 76, Female, American, English, United Presbyterian.

Lambert, Louise, 1145 Gratiot Ave., Detroit, Mich., 55, Female, Housewife, German and American, German and English, none.

Frantz, Jack, 106 Forsyth St., New York City, 20, Male, Tinsmith and Roofer, Roumanian, Roumanian, none.

This is the golden harvest of all anti-idolatrous teaching. This church is the granary into which is being stored the results of all the labor of all the authors, editors and lecturers against idolatry. Every such teacher can flatter himself with the idea that his heroic labors have not been in vain, but are reflected in the growing membership of this society. Never before could they know for certain that they had saved anyone from idolatry. Never before could the Christians know definitely that anyone believed their most advanced teaching. Never before could we tell our Christian mothers, brothers and sisters with certain knowledge that any others knew the truths we did. Christians always thought that the one they knew, or heard of, that disbelieved their mythology was the only one in the world that did so.

All that is being changed now. We know we have company. Christians can be easily convinced we have by telling them the discoveries on which the C. of H. is based and telling them the number of members it has. That alone will have a wonderful power to open their mental eyes and cause them to sit up and take notice of "where they are at," and how the intellectual world is leaving them behind on the God-idea.

Every anti-idolatrous and non-Christian editor and author and lecturer should be proud of the increasing membership in this church, as it measures the good they are doing in saving people from idolatry. This society is their common granary into which is being gathered the harvest from the truths they have been sowing for half a century, and measures correctly by its membership the results of their labors. Each and every one of them should take a commendable pride in seeing this society grow in membership, power and influence, as it reflects directly their own best labors in behalf of truth, progress, civilization and the overthrow of idolatry. Each one should do all in his power to place in the membership of this society all who have been influenced by his teaching to give up idolatry and accept the truths of nature. He can then point with pleasure to what he has helped to do, and his joy will increase as he sees the membership climbing up. His most precious reward will not be in dollars and cents altogether, but in reading the thanks of appreciation from those he helped to save from the belief in and the practice of a heathen idolatry, and placing them where they can help to point out the way by example and precept to others caught in the meshes of false teaching as every child born to our race is if it lives a few years.

The age of the large majority of these members show that this society began just in time to save a part of the golden harvest of the truth-sowers of the last century. That harvest is rapidly dying off of old age without being gathered into an organization where their knowledge can be perpetuated and their name, number and influence used on the side of truth, progress and civilization. I appeal to all editors of non-idolatrous publications to help to find those old people who have learned the truth about God and get them into this society through which they can let the world know the grand truths they have learned. We want their name and number to fill up the Roll-Book that measures the golden harvest from the seeds of truths sown by the heroic dead and the faithful living.

But let these old new comrades tell their story in their own way. Comrade Hensley, Howard, Kans. "Bro. Kerr: You are a brave man, but when one knows he is right, it gives him courage. I want on that Roll of Honor. My parents were Methodists. At the age of 19 I joined the Campbellites. I was a Bible reader and an active member. At the age of 34 I began to doubt the inspiration of the Bible. I earnestly and seriously investigated. At the age of 45 I stepped out in the open plain of Freethought and burned the bridges behind me, and the longer I live the more I see I am right. I am now passed 72. So here is $1 for the good cause." What a grand thing for us all had this society been organized years ago and this comrade been given a chance to do all his teaching and aid in its interests and upbuilding instead of giving it to the promotion of idolatrous societies. Let us all begin now to correct the mistake by establishing an organization that will have branch societies in reach of young people where they can aid in teaching and promulgating truths instead of errors.

Comrade Whitaker, McConnellsville, O. "Dear Sir: Your letter at hand and all contents noted. I first joined the Methodist church but soon found out that I could not go their doctrine. Then I went to the Presbyterian church. But, my dear sir, that was like jumping out of the frying pan into the fire. So I stepped out and have been going it on science and Freethought and find it is the correct salvation. I send in my application for membership. I desire to belong to the Church of Humanity, and to be honest, truthful, just, charitable, loving and merciful, law my God, justice my creed and liberty my heaven. Away with all religious creeds and myths. I enclose $1, also a photo, so you can see what I look like."

Thanks, comrade. I did not need your photo, though, to know that you are all right after reading your desires. A beautiful character of thoughts and deeds appeals to my admiration more forcibly than one of handsome physical form.

One can be a member of this Church and believe in and practice all those commendable virtues. I request though that you do not apply the name "God" to law nor anything else except a myth of that name since the discovery that God is a creation of fiction it causes confusion to apply that name to any real thing or manifestation of it or to substitute that name for the proper one. I notice friend Maple of the Beacon is making a desperate effort to find something big to hitch the God-idea to, but this Church will head him off. Neither law nor thought nor nature nor anything else that really exists is God.

On behalf of the Church of Humanity I bid one and all our new comrades a hearty welcome to full membership in this church and hope

The T. A. G. stands for a good government and good morals.

The C. of H. is not a local affair as Mr. Hughes of the B. G. B. believes.

We can have a church society for our family where they can be taught the truth about God when we unite and hire teachers as the Christians do.

It will be grand when we have churches and Sunday schools in reach of us where we can send our families to learn the truth about God.

It will cost lots of labor and money to provide teaching for our families that will save them from the idolatry of worshiping a myth, God and a dead Jew, but it should be done regardless of cost.

Parents who wish to invest money and other property for the benefit of their children cannot do better than to invest it in the upbuilding of the Church of Humanity for them.

Parents, let us pool our wealth we intend for our children and provide a well organized educational society able to teach them the truth about God and preserve them from idolatry when our lives are extinguished.

The Blue Grass Blade says the Church of Humanity is only a local affair. Well, so was the teaching of Bruno, Galileo, Newton, Darwin and others who made discoveries in nature. But they could not be classed as local teachings now. The discovery that God is a myth is now known by citizens in twenty-seven states scattered from Maine to California and from Oregon to Alabama. Mr. Hughes perhaps has not learned the discovery, but we can hope he will.

The C. of H. has a perfect working model in society building in the Christian churches. It should follow their example. Truth about God can only be taught by the same methods errors about him are taught.

All criticisms of the Bible and the Bible God are of no value unless carried out as evidence to prove the discovery that all Gods are fabulous beings.

Idolatry can never be overthrown except by the same methods it is enthrowned, that is the educational method. Let us begin that method by establishing a society to teach the discovery that God is a myth.

Editors who wish to aid in the overthrow of idolatry by teaching the discovery that God is only a creation of fiction should not defend nor allow contributors to defend the theories and acts of the vile, vulgar and obscene in their publications. It tends to create the impression in the minds of decent people that freedom from idolatry leads to debasement of character and ideals and they will not allow such publications in their homes. The discovery that God is a myth is a scientific truth and provable by the scientific methods of proving facts. That truth and its proof should be taught in connection with the best moral ideals and conduct.

Freedom and willingness to hear and learn the truth about God does not free the people from idolatry unless some society will provide the teaching for them to hear.

More money should be spent in the upbuilding of the Church of Humanity to enable it to teach the truth about God than is given to support the public schools as it will save the children from idolatry.

None but the graduates in the knowledge of God can understand the deep disgrace, shame and dishonor of worshiping God, Jesus and other imaginary idols.

When Deists, like friend Maple of the Beacon, learn that the Bible God is not the genuine article and start out to ransack the universe on a God hunting excursion and to find something to hitch the God-idea to they should be careful to not hitch it to something not intelligent enough to know of the existence of our race and powerful enough to make itself known to man. As it is evidence per se that no such a thing exists in the universe Deists should be ready to graduate in the knowledge of God after they have sown their wild oats and returned to this planet with out being able to lasso a God.

Where are those fifty millions of people in the United States we have been told about who do not believe in Christianity? When it comes to a show down they are about as mythical as God.

It is the teachers who use the text-books in our schools who teach the children and not the text-books. One could half fill his home with text books but without the services of a teacher his children would die of old age before they could learn the a, b, c's, or 1, 2, 3's. No one is stupid enough to advocate the idea that children should "do their own thinking" in acquiring an education without the services of a teacher to instruct them how to think and what to think, and how to use the text books.

It is a great mistake then to advocate that each one should do his own thinking in regard to God. People must from necessity think and believe as they are taught concerning God. As nearly all their teachers so far have been teaching them errors they believe errors. Publications and text books can make very little progress at best against those errors without teachers. Hence the necessity of building up the Church of Humanity to enable it to provide the teachers. For every dollar invested in school books perhaps at least nine are given to a teacher to use them. When we invest a dollar in anti-Christian literature we should invest nine dollars in the upbuilding of the C. of H. so it can provide the teachers to use those books in teaching our children the truth about God. It is absolutely useless to fill our homes with anti-Christian literature to save our children from idolatry without providing them teachers, for they will be taught idolatry by the idolaters who provide the personal teachers, schools and societies.

AN APPEAL TO CHARITY FOR A WIDOW.

Watson Heston needs no introduction to the members of the Church of Humanity. They nearly all know of his many years of labor devoted to the overthrow of idolatry though his cartoons. They know of The Freethinkers Pictorial text Book and the two volumes of Bible Stories Comically Illustrated. Those works of art are in thousands of homes and are continually going into more. They will continue to aid in the overthrow of idolatry until the work is accomplished.

Every one who is free from idolatry whether a member of the church or not owes him a debt of gratitude. Devotion to his chosen field of labor precluded the hoarding of wealth. Eighteen months of sickness, preceding his death about two years ago, made a large debt for his widow to pay. She has been struggling gallantly to make a living and pay off that debt. She is a dressmaker, but when rent, fuel and living expenses are paid very little can be applied on the debt, but she has reduced it a great deal. Her health is failing under the strain and worry over her financial condition. Her creditors have all been very kind and made their charges as low as possible, in some cases one-half or less. There are still unpaid on the bills the following amounts:

Doctors' Bills	$85.00
Undertaker's	45.00
Drugs	10.00
Tombstone	40.00
Total	$180.00

In grateful recognition of comrade Heston's services in aiding to free our race from idolatry and as a mark of respect and duty to his widow I appeal to all our comrades to chip in to a relief fund to pay off this comrade's debt.

It is a great load for this poor widow, but amounts to very little when shared by fifty of our well-to-do members. She is a worthy subject for the reception of our charity.

Comrade J. B. Wise called to see her when in Carthage selling books a few months ago and here is his statement:

To the members of the Church of Humanity. Dear comrades: I will state while in Carthage, Mo., I took the opportunity to go and see Mrs. Lottie Heston and found her in very poor circumstances. She is in poor health but has to work very hard to live and pay house rent. She is certainly worthy of aid. We who believe in helping worthy humanity should contribute enough money to pay off her remaining indebtedness. I am sure it would be greatly appreciated by the widow of Comrade Heston who gave his time to the good of humanity.

J. B. WISE.

Now I ask that fifty of our ablest comrades contribute from $2.50 to $10.00 each, according to his present ability, to this fund. Send the amount to me so I can note it in next issue. A good way is to get a P. M. O. payable to Mrs. Lottie Heston, Carthage, Mo., and mail it to me to be forwarded.

I start the donations with:

W. H. Kerr and family	$10.00
From Church fund	10.00
A charitable comrade	2.50
Total	$22.50

COMMENTS ON NEWS ITEMS.

JOPLIN, MO., Oct. 9.—Because she believed that her mother, whom she loved very dearly, was about to die, Lillie Lawrence, the 14-year-old stepdaughter of James Lawrence of Carterville, commited suicide by jumping into a pond five miles from her home Sunday. Her body was not found until Monday noon. She left a note saying:

I will meet my mother in a dearer home in a few days.

EVIDENCE PER SE THAT NO GOD EXISTS.

Millions believe in the existence of a God through being taught fallacious evidence of his existence and care of man.

With no one and no society to point out the weakness of that evidence and introduce rebuttal evidence it is accepted as proof of God's real existence and interest in man's welfare.

A case in point is that of John Michelson, a laborer of Kansas City, Mo., who recently fell from the top of the Long building but accidentally caught a swinging rope and saved himself. He is now exhibiting himself before idolatrous societies as evidence of the power and willingness of a God to take care of those who call upon him. Before the Junior class of the Oakley M. E. church of K. C. he declared that the fact that he was alive was not due to his own skill but divine power. He said he believed "that God will always take care of those who call upon him."

That will be taken as evidence per se by the idolaters that God exists and cares for those who worship him. The story will confirm people in their idolatry and make new converts to idolatry wherever used by the clergy.

It will be the duty of the Church of Humanity to point out the weakness of such evidence and introduce an infinite preponderance of evidence to refute and overthrow that class of evidence.

In the first place his statement is an inexcusable libel on every perished Christian and a downright insult to their living friends and relatives which they should resent instead of parading it to the world as though his calling upon God was more sincere than trusting and more worthy of recognition than that of the billions of perished Christians whom no God intervened to save.

EXHIBIT A.

I offer this man Michelson himself as positive proof that his theory is wrong. Just watch him a few years and you will find that he will meet a fatality as great as he now escaped from which no God will save him although he may have time to call upon one a hundred times more vociferously.

EXHIBIT B.

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—Oliver Haekel, 32 years old, a structural ironworker, today fell 15 stories to his death from the new Commercial Bank building. A thousand people stood horrified and saw the form of the man revolve in the air.

Here is an identical case, but Mr. Haekel is not able to go before idolatrous societies to explain how he had called upon God in vain to save him as he thought he did Mr. Michelson. But the Church of Humanity will explain through its organ the reason why God did not come to his aid. It is that God is a myth like Santa Claus and therefore is unable to help any one.

EXHIBIT C.

"LIMA, O., Oct. 17.—"Help, my God, help me! I can't get out," were the last words of Mrs. Clinton Bryan, a young wife, as she fell, wrapped in a sheet of flames, with her two infant children in death grasps about her neck.

The Bryan home became a seething furnace following the explosion of the gasoline stove at 10 A. M. Though Mrs. Bryan had every opportunity to save herself, no sooner had the explosion occured than, wrapped in flames, she rushed to an upstairs room to save her two sleeping sons, two years old and eight months respectively. With the flames all about her she stumbled and perished with the children."

Here is positive evidence that Mr. Michelson is mistaken in attributing his lucky catch to the intervention of a God. Can any Christian believe that a God could care more for him than for this mother and her children? Was she not as worthy as he? Did she not call on him as trustingly? Is not a man who goes around offering himself as a living monument to the mercy of a God devoid of shame in the face of this evidence? Is it not an exhibition of monumental egotism and self esteem for any one who knows of this case to ask or expect a God who refused aid in this case to aid him? How can an intelligent person who knows of this case ever again ask or expect a God to do anything for him?

Ten minutes before this accident Mrs. Bryan would have sworn that God was a real being and had protected her all through life. She would have been greatly offended had she been told she was mistaken in believing there is a God and a Jesus and angels protecting her from harm. The trouble is as long as an idolater is alive he can teach the mistaken idea that a God is protecting him while dead idolaters cannot teach that the reason they are dead is because no God comes to their rescue. That is the reason errors about God have more believers than the truth has. The errors have live defenders and witnesses. When those defenders and witnesses get knocked out through the failure of their theory to work out as taught they are unable then to revise those theories and change their teachings. The C. of H. speaks for the idolaters when they put their theory to the test and are unable ever after to have a theory on any subject. We offer the charred bodies of these victims of misplaced confidence as evidence per se that the God and Jesus who are supposed to care for people are myths.

It is said "love is blind" and so when an idolater is "stuck" on his idol he must have a very large preponderance of evidence to prove to him that his idol is not equally "stuck" on him. They will say here are only four cases where God failed to do his duty to one where he did and therefore there is some chance yet for them to get aid from their idol. But we are not through with the evidence per se that dead idolaters offer to prove the nonexistence of the idols they had worshiped and depended on for aid in time of need.

EXHIBIT D.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Oct. 16—Five men burned to death and one drowned as a result of a powder explosion on the steamer White Horse.

LONDON,—Thirty-five lives lost by the foundering of a cadet ship.

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 1—Three sailors drowned by the sinking of a steamer on Lake Erie.

CARTHAGE, Mo., Oct. 1—Three trainmen killed and bodies burned in a train wreck.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 20—Six hundred lives lost is the largest estimate caused by the great storm that swept the gulf coast.

SAN SALVADOR, Oct. 20—A tempest has raged for ten days. Great loss of life. The rivers are bringing down dead bodies constantly.

HONGKONG, China., Sept. 20—Five thousand is the latest estimae of the lives lost as a result of Tuesday's disaster from the hurricane.

PENSACOLA, Fla., Sept. 29—At least one hundred lives lost in the hurricane on the coast.

HAVANA, Oct., 19—One hundred persons are known to be dead as a result of the cyclone that swept the city.

KEY WEST, Fla., Oct. 22—From two to four hundred persons perished in the hurricane that swept the Florida coast.

KANSAS CITY, Kan., Oct. 28—Fifteen people burned to death in Chamber of Commerce building.

COFFEYVILLE, Kan., Oct. 28—Three people killed in a gas explosion.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. Oct. 28—Three passenger coaches thrown from a trestle into water beneath and about 80 people, mostly women and children, drowned like rats in a trap.

This exhibit ought to convince any jury that since no God came to the rescue of these people, most of whom were as good Christians and called on God as devoutly as Mr. Michelson did, that no God saved him either, but that it was simply a lucky grasp he made that saved him.

But the people can never be given this evidence and have its meaning explained to them so they can understand it until the Church of Humanity is able to establish Churches and Sunday Schools under the charge of competent instructors everywhere. Then on with the founding of this educational organization that they may begin the rescue of the people from the idolatry of worshiping a myth-God and a dead Jew.

If you desire your posterity saved from idolatry give your name, wealth and influence to the upbuilding of the Church of Humanity.

If you, reader, are intelligent enough to recognize this evidence as proof that no God exists who knows or cares for man, please fill out the following blank and return to me and see what you get by return mail.

ORGANIZATION.

In the October Humanitarian Review Friend Davis takes exceptions to my quotation from his article on Organization in last issue. I assure him most positively no misrepresentation was intended. I am unable to see wherein I did so. In connection with the subject of organization that was under consideration, the balance of the sentence quoted is immaterial, as it does not change its meaning. The full sentence is, "With such a broad, scientific platform, it matters not whether or not one 'believes' in the existence of 'God,' 'the gods,' 'spirits' embodied or disembodied, 'spirit communication,' or in 'materialistic monism,' or 'does not know;' he can join the new association if he accepts science instead of supernatural revelation, etc." The point I made was that he was willing to accept an organization partly composed of deists. He did not deny that and so my criticism was justified. His next sentence is: "The Agnostic, the Spiritist or Spiritualist, the Materialist and the Monist all can if they will, unite as Rationalists, or as Naturists, in one compact organization, if they accept reason as the revelator and science as the revelation and supreme authority for creed and conduct, as embraced in the above definition." Friend Davis makes the same mistake many others do in advocating organization by assuming that those of diametrically opposed opinions can unite in one society to teach any one of those opinions. That assumption has been proven fallacious in all attempts at organization and should never be tried again. Those advocating organization should recognize the fundamental principle of organization, viz: that those of conflicting theories can unite in a common organization to fight a common enemy or outside theory, but not to fight one of its integral parts. For illustration, the democrats and republicans can unite to oppose Socialism, but not democracy or republicanism. Also, democrats, republicans and socialists can unite to oppose Anarchy, but not any one of the combine. Likewise those of opposing views on religious matters can only unite to oppose a common opposition view. Thus all protestant sects can unite to oppose the catholic demand for a share of the public school fund but not to oppose one of the combine. Catholics and protestants can unite to work for their common interests and oppose a common enemy, but not to oppose each other's special interests and teaching.

☐ Those of the several beliefs mentioned by Mr. Davis could not unite to disprove any one belief of the combine, but only to oppose a teaching antagonistic to all or to promulgate a teaching beneficial to all alike. Hence it is useless to talk about Materialists, Spiritualists, Deists and those who have learned that God is a myth uniting to teach that any one belief in the combine is true or false. It may be that Mr. Davis and others imagine that those of all the above beliefs can be united and then taught the truth or falsity of their theories. That is a fatal error. People must first be taught to believe in, and accept, the teaching of a society before they are admitted as members. Then they in turn help to promulgate the teaching. To place all the above classes into an organization, if it could be done, each class would claim to be the only simon pure rationalist, and that their teaching was the revelation of science while all the other theories were the result of superstition and prejudice and bigotry. Therefore it is easy to see the finish of such an organization. Such is the finish of all previous attempts at combining those of antagonistic teachings. Let us not attempt such methods again that insure failure from the start. The success of an organization then depends on all its members believing alike in its fundamental teaching and the object to accomplish. Spiritualists would not remain in a society that taught the treatise on "A Future Life?" by Mr. Davis, now running in the H. R., wherein he ably demolishes every argument in favor of spiritism. No Deist would remain in an organization wherein is taught the discovery that all Gods are fabulous beings. No one who has learned that discovery could remain in an organization wherein Deists worshipped their man-made idols. That is the reason they left such societies and enrolled in the Church of Humanity. If we could be satisfied to remain with, and help to teach in, and support idolatrous societies, there is a general assortment from which to choose already organized that would welcome our support and membership. If we could be hypocrites and pretend to accept false teaching we could do that as well in the old societies as in a new one and there would be no need of a new one.

People of all other churches and of no church are uniting in the Church of Humanity, but before they do that they learn that the other churches are all teaching errors and that this church is based on a vital truth and has a vital object to accomplish that they wish accomplished. That insures harmony and unity of action and support. There is no internal fight to make on fundamentals that will disrupt the society as there would be with a number of conflicting fundamental theories, as was the case in all previous attempts at organization. Another serious mistake in many of those who wish organization is that those who know the truth about God must go back to idolatry in order to include a larger number eligible to membership. That is a grievous mistake. We must plant our standard on the solid rock of truth, and through the educational process bring others up to it. We cannot abandon truth to go back to their position. They must be taught to abandon errors and advance to truth. This church welcomes all who can do that.

TO READERS OF HIGHER SCIENCE.

Through the kindness of comrade Haeld in exchanging subscription lists with me I am able to mail sample copies of this issue of T. A. G. to 150 of his subscribers.

This is an invitation to each of them to subscribe for our Church paper and above all to send in their applications for membership in the Church of Humanity.

Comrade Heald is a life member and one of the founders of this Church and he is anxious for all his subscribers to unite with this society and thereby be numbered among its founders. This Church is based on, and is being organized to teach, the great scientific discoveries that Gods, Devils and Holy Ghosts are fabulous beings, that heaven and hell are myths and death the extinguishment forever of individual conscious life. All who have learned the discovery that God is a creation of fiction are entitled to a certificate of graduation in the knowledge of God and life membership in the C. of H. The first 1,000 members will be recognized as the original discoverers of these great truths and the founders and organizers of the Church of Humanity through which they are to be taught to the people.

One hundred and twenty-eight have thus applied for and received certificates of graduation in the knowledge of God, making them life members and founders of this Church.

When 1,000 graduates are on the Roll-Book I shall call a national convention of the Church for formal organization and incorporation.

All the church members and comrade Heald want every one of you to unite with us in founding this educational society. Come now all together, and give the Church a boost. You must know by this time, with the aid of such a teacher as Mr. Heald, that God is simply a myth like Santa Claus. You should want your postperity to know that truth so they will not be victimized into idolatry by the teachers of idolatry. You must know nothing can save them from idolatry but an educational society able to teach them the truth about God. You must know none but those who know that truth can establish that society. Therefore we urge you most earnestly to do your duty in helping to found and organize that society.

Fill out the blank application for membership in this copy and return it to me. On its receipt I shall transcribe it to the Church Roll-Book as a record and mail you a certificate of graduation in the knowledge of God, making you life members and founders of the Church of Humanity.

NOTICE.

When the membership of the C. of H. reaches 200 I shall fee justified in enlarging the church paper to five colums. That will make it about one half larger. I would like to make the change after its first year is completed. That will be January. Our subscribers who are not yet members can put the Church membership to that mark in a month by part of them sending in their applications for membership. Of course they all intend to unite with the Church sometime. Why not do it now and give us a larger Church paper for the same price. Our paper can only grow as our membership grows to justify it. Subscribers please send in your application for membership in the Church of Humanity now.

WANTED.

I want at least one official propagandist for the C. of H., in each state to aid in the church work. Comrades Joseph Frantz of New York and C. Lippel of New Jersey will take the position for their respective states. I want comrades in every state we have members in to volunteer their services in that capacity. Please send in your names at once so we can organize a propagandist committee of our church members at once. Don't wait for some one else to respond. When a member from each state is secured for the national propagandist committee they can organize by selecting one of their members chairman. There will not be much to do and anyone can fill the position. I will offer suggestions from time to time as to what I think best to do. They can advise me of their needs and that of the church in general. That will give us all a chance to work in harmony and unison for the upbuilding of our Church. We can then bring concerted influence on the editors and lecturers and writers of anti-Christian literature to aid us, and defend our Church and its publication should we be molested by the postal department. Let us have one comrade at least from each state on this committee. Please report for duty.

GUTHRIE, Okla., Oct. 28.—The Jews of the new state are preparing a petition to the constitutional convention, praying that no clause in the constitution of the state recognize Jesus Christ as a deity or any clause that will be repugnant to the Jewish or any other religious sect.

I move to amend the petition by inserting after the word Christ as follows: "God, Creator, Heavenly Father, Providence, Supreme Being, Jehovah or any other name denoting a belief in the existence of an intelligence in the universe that knows or cares for man, or any clause that will be repugnant to a person who has learned the great discoveries that all Gods, Devils and Holy Ghosts are fabulous beings, heaven and hell myths and death the extinguishment forever of individual conscious life."

The Building of the Church of Humanity.

they will live to see it formally organized, incorporated and in working order with many branch societies under competent instructors saving the people from idolatry. If you have learned the greatest of all discoveries—that God is a character of fiction—please send in your application for a certificate of graduation in the knowledge of God so I can announce it to our readers next month. I want my Christian relatives and friends to know how many there are in the United States who have learned this great discovery.

You should want to let your knowledge be known through this society so it can be perpetuated to influence others to learn the truth. You should not be willing to die without giving the world the benefit of your years of study and investigation. No one will ever know that you learned the truth about God if you do not make it known through membership in this society and you will forever be classed and numbered with the idolaters. Life is uncertain. You cannot be enrolled as a founder of this church after you are dead. Do your duty now and let the Christians know you have learned the greatest discovery ever made by man.

Devoted to teaching the Discovery that God is a Myth, like Santa Claus.

This Church invites all who wish the people freed from idolatry to unite with it.

VOL. 1. GREAT BEND, KANSAS, DECEMBER, 1906. No. 12.

The Building of the Church of Humanity.

There is a scientific answer to the question "What is God?" and that answer is now definitely known and proven by the standard method of discovering truths, viz., experience, observation and investigation. By that method it has been discovered that God, Satan and Holy Ghost are fabulous beings, heaven and hell myths, and death the termination of conscious life. These discoveries are of the most vital importance of all discoveries. For want of them our race has been idolaters from time immemorial. It will continue in idolatry until these discoveries become generally known, let that be one hundred or one million years. People will be very slow to learn and accept these discoveries, owing to their environment of having been taught idolatry, and being surrounded by idolaters who will, with a very few exceptions, do all in their power to prevent and discourage any from learning and accepting them. But a few will recognize the great value of these discoveries as civilizing influences and will unite to promulgate them. The idolatry of worshiping a man who died two thousand years ago, and a creation of fiction named God, will become so intolerable to them that they will provide instructors to teach their children these discoveries rather than see them taught errors about God and made idolaters by idolatrous societies. But they cannot provide such instructors without uniting in an organization to enable them to collect and disburse the necessary funds for erecting buildings and hiring instructors. Unless they unite in a society, it cannot be known who and how many, and where they are, who have learned that God is a myth, and want that fact taught to their children and others to rescue and preserve them from idolatry. The Church of Humanity is the society name under which those people are uniting to begin their educational work of teaching that great discovery. No progress can be made in teaching this greatest of all discoveries, except through this society. It cannot begin its system of teaching properly until it is organized and incorporated. It cannot do that until one thousand graduates in the knowledge of God are enrolled as life members and founders of the society. All who wish the people rescued from the idolatry of a myth-god and a dead Jew should do all in their power to find those who know God is a myth and get them to send in their applications for certificates of graduation in the knowledge of God and life membership in the Church of Humanity.

The editors of non-idolatrous publications should aid in this society building by teaching their readers the discovery that God is a myth, and thereby making them eligible to membership in this society.

They must know they will die in a few years and this society will be the only means of preserving their posterity from idolatry.

Individuals die and their teaching is forgotten, unless preserved in and perpetuated by an organization. Very few, if any, in this age would know anything about Jesus, Mohammed, Buddha or any of the great teachers of idolatry had not their false teaching been preserved and propagated by organized society.

The discovery that God is a myth can only be preserved and propagated by the same method used in teaching idolatry.

Only those who know this discovery can thus unite in an organization to promulgate it. Only those who can comprehend the deep disgrace, shame and dishonor of worshiping a creation of fiction, named God, and a poor, ignorant Jew who died nearly two thousand years ago, will want their posterity kept free from that heathen idolatry, and will unite in the Church of Humanity to enable them to do the necessary teaching.

One hundred and thirty-six have been found who know God is a myth and who wish that knowledge perpetuated and promulgated.

They have applied for and received a certificate of graduation in the knowledge of God and life membership in the Church of Humanity.

Since last report the following comrades have united with the church, as shown on the Roll Book:

No. 128—Fieferblot, Sem., 147 Essex St., New York, N. Y.; Male, Baker, Hebrew, Jewish.

No. 129—Blake, J. G., Pinkerton, Tex., 64, Male, Farmer, American, English, Baptist.

No. 130—Williams, Capt. Ira, La Rue, O., 75, Male, Farmer, American, English, None.

131—Johnson, Allen, Corpus Christi, Tex., 55, Male, Hotel Keeper, American, English, None.

No. 132—Jones, Dr. C. E., Winslow, Ark., 48, Male, Physician, American, English, None.

No. 133—Jones, Mrs. Dr. C. E., Winslow, Ark., 36, Female, House Keeper, American, English, None.

No. 134—Jones, Miss Annie, Winslow, Ark., 19, Female, Student, American, English, None.

No. 135—Jones, Miss Georgia, Winslow, Ark., 16, Female, Student, American, English, None.

No. 136—Milburn, Wm., Soldiers' Home, Milwaukee, Wis., Painter and Decorator, American, English, Covenanter.

But I am thankful to these comrades for their appreciation of the work we are doing, and their desire to aid in that work. I welcome them to membership, fellowship and friendship in the Church of Humanity. It gives me hope and courage, as it will each member of the church.

One comrade is a Jew, which is remarkable. Jews do not accept Jesus as a God or the son of one. But they will accept extermination in slaughter before they will abandon their ancient tribal idol, God, whom Moses and other sharp leaders put back of their commands to make a savage tribe obey them. When a Jew can see through the game of deceit played by the rulers of their savage ancestors, and recognize a myth where there was supposed to be a real God, the rest of us should have no trouble in catching on to the game.

Comrade Williams is 75 years old, and this is the first church he ever united with, which shows he has been guided by good judgment all through life. He would not unite with a church without investigating its claims. All the other churches, being based on errors, were promptly turned down, but this one he found to be based on truth, and it is promptly accepted. I hope all the 180 in To-Morrow's "Roll of Honor," who are over 65 years old, will follow Comrade Williams' lead, whether they made a mistake in uniting with some idolatrous church in early life or not. I shall send each of them a sample copy of this issue and hope they will apply for membership at once.

Comrade Blake is 64 and will soon be eligible to membership in that "Roll of Honor." From a good letter he writes I give this extract: "I hope every Free thinker in the United States will join the Church of Humanity. That is the proper move. Organize a church and teach the brotherhood of man."

Comrade F. H. Heald went carefully over his subscription list and sent me a select list of 125 readers of Higher Science, who, he thinks, will unite with the church. I shall mail each of them a marked copy of this issue and hope each and all will accept at once the invitation to apply for membership in the Church of Humanity. Increased membership makes the church rejoice. Give it reasons to rejoice a hundred times in the next month by 100 sending in applications for membership.

The Appeal to Reason, a Socialist paper, published at Girard, Kan., is raising a fund to send the Appeal to 30,000 school teachers for three months. Let us push the teaching of the truth about God as the Appeal pushes Socialism. Educate your teachers for three months for five cents each. Get a list of all the school teachers in your county from the county superintendent and mail it to me with five cents for each teacher, and I shall send them TRUTH ABOUT GOD for three months.

Unite with the Church of Humanity.

A PROTEST

The teaching and inculcation of the idolatry of worshiping a myth-God and a dead man permeates all public schools. It will continue to do so until a large part of the patrons learn that God is a myth and unite to make an effective protest against the teaching of idolatry to their children. Until the Church of Humanity is strong enough to entitle it to recognition by educators, the members should individually protest, in the name of the church, against teachers assigning their children outside lessons or recitations inculcating idolatry.

One of my little girls was assigned "A Child's Thanksgiving" poem to commit to memory and recite at school, of which the last verse reads as follows:

"Let us praise Him, our dear Father,
Lord of sun and rain and dew,
For the joys He's ever sending
Every year to me and you."

I instructed my daughter to omit that verse and sent her teacher the following note:

"Miss ———: Please excuse Alice for reciting only three verses of the selection you assigned her, as I seriously object to her reciting the fourth verse; or please assign her another selection free from the inculcation of idolatry of a myth-God.

"Since it has been discovered that God is a myth, like Santa Claus, it is wrong to teach children to thank, praise or worship him.

"I inclose a marked copy of our church paper that will give you full proof of God's mythical nature. Yours sincerely,
"W. H. KERR."

I marked the article "Evidence per se that no God exists" in a copy of last TRUTH ABOUT GOD and sent it to her.

Friends Shaw and Maple, and several other editors of Free Thought publications who have not learned of the discovery that God is a myth, may accuse me of dogmatism, bigotry, fanaticism, intolerance and a lot more coice epithets that they use on the Christians. That is because they, not having learned the truth about God, can see no harm in such idolatrous teaching. They can only see harm in the child when grown to womanhood and supporting the idolatrous churches and priests, while they make war on truth, progress and civilization.

I know of only one way to stop idolatry and that is to STOP IT.

A man's first duty is to learn the discovery that God is a myth, then stop the idolatry of him in himself first. His next duty is to unite with those of like knowledge to enable them to provide instructors for their families, neighbors, school board and teachers, so that idol-

To Citizens of Great Bend, Kan.:

Fellow Citizens:—I have mailed you, who are on the 'phone list, some sample copies that you may understand the great newly discovered truths we teach, and the method of teaching them. You will note the perfectly honorable method used, its freedom from abuse of Christians and the objects they worship, the high standard of moral ethics inculcated. I have made, and am teaching, the greatest discoveries made in historic times. They are the finding of science on the great questions of "What is God?" and "What is Death?" We should all have a great desire to know the true answer to those vital questions, both for our own satisfaction and to enable us to teach our children the truth concerning them. We are in no way responsible for the mistakes of our ancestors nor are we under the least obligations to continue those mistakes. But we are under the greatest obligations to correct their mistakes as soon as we find them out. That is a credit to us and reflects credit on our ancestors for producing a progressive progeny.

Our generation, and the one preceding it, has corrected many mistakes of our ancestors in every branch of knowledge and expanded the frontier of knowledge in all directions far beyond the dreams of our most progressive ancestors. Methods of production, communication and transportation have been marvelously improved to the everlasting glory of our generation. Our advancement in the knowledge of God has not kept pace with our progress in other branches of knowledge, owing to the powerful societies established by our ancestors to prohibit the correction of their mistakes. But, thanks to the magnanimity of this generation in this country, the embargo on advancement in the knowledge of God has been removed and we are at last perfectly free to learn the truth about God and to teach it. If those who have discovered the truth about God will unite and push its teaching with untiring zeal and enthusiasm and perseverance it will soon be known by thousands. I do not seek or desire to overthrow or destroy existing societies, but to put a firm foundation of truth under them in place of the errors of our ancestors. I desire all the truths and good moral ethics taught by societies continued. It is only the errors I seek to eliminate by the substitution of truths in their places. I firmly believe you desire the truth about God taught, and have no more desire to be deceived by false teaching than I have. Your only objection to my teaching is that you believe I am mistaken. I have as much at stake as any of you can possibly have, which insures a clear knowledge of the truth I teach concerning God before I began the work. I expect some time to be able to secure the services of an instructor to hold regular church services in our city. I am very anxious for you to become regular readers of our church paper, that you may be enabled to learn the truth about God and our method of teaching it, so that you will not be afraid to come and bring your children to our church services when we are able to furnish them.

Your sense of justice and "a square deal" will suggest that you should pay the small subscription of 25 cents for Truth About God until January 1, 1908. Therefore, please drop a quarter in an envelope for me and place it in your box for the postman to put in the office.

I shall send a marked copy to each one this letter is addressed to.

Thanking you in advance for your kindness in promptly complying with the request, I am yours respectfully,

W. H. Kerr.

A PROTEST.

atry can be prohibited in the common schools. That is the only course to take to eradicate idolatry in the public schools.

Our school teachers, fresh from the Sunday school, the Epworth League, Christian Endeavor societies, churches, parochial schools and other idolatrous societies, usually select the most idolatrous songs and recitations for the students. Writers of text-books, being idolaters themselves, and to supply idolatrous patrons, vie with each other in the amount of superstition and idolatry they can work into text-books. The only way for those patrons who do not wish their children taught idolatry in the public schools is to unite in the Church of Humanity to enable them to make an effective protest. I ask all who do not wish idolatry of a myth-God and a dead man taught in our public schools to send in their applications for membership in the Church of Humanity at once. Numbers against it is the only thing possible that will cause its eradication.

God-Created?

In a three-page article in To-Morrow magazine for December, Grace Moore expresses a great dislike to prefixes to names, such as Mr., Mrs., Miss, Dr. Rev., Prof., Col., Capt., etc., as being "titles vain and undemocratic," and then winds up with this bit of vanity that discloses the vainest of the vain:

"He or she who has knowledge of the laws of life and is strong in the consciousness of his (or her) essential greatness as a God-created human being, endowed by Nature with all the possibilities inherent in Nature, has no need of any artificialities or human designations."

She is evidently ignorant of the fact that "God-created" is one of the "artificialities or human designations." As God is discovered to be a myth, her "strong consciousness of her essential greatness" as a God-created Grace Moore is one of the most vain and undemocratic titles imaginable. The pride she evidently takes in that vain title is not equaled by any taken in the title she uses three pages to condemn.

CORRECTIONS.

Ingersoll Beacon—"To say 'there is no God' throws no light on the God-idea; it neither explains what people mean by the word, nor what the word actually means."

It expresses a truth in the fewest words and explains what the graduates in the knowledge of God have discovered.

All adults who have learned the Santa Claus deception know that to say he is a fabulous being or a myth is equivalent to saying there is no real Santa Claus. Likewise all adults who have learned the God-story know that it is the Bible God that is believed in and worshiped.

The few who have repudiated that God and conjured up others in their minds believe them to have intelligence enough to know of the existence of our race and in some way to care for it in general, and individuals in particular. The graduates in the knowledge of God have discovered that the God idea is an error and that God, Satan and Holy Ghost are fabulous beings, heaven and hell myths and death the cessation of conscious life. When a child is undeceived regarding the pretended reality of Santa Claus it understands what it means to say there is no Santa Claus. When friend Maple understands the mistake handed down to us by our ancestors regarding the existence of an intelligence in the universe that knows man he will understand the simple truth when told in fewest words—God is a myth.

The Beacon, quoting from M. J. Savage, says:

"Any man who recognizes a law in him and without him which binds him under penalty to certain courses of action, called right, such a man believes in the essential idea that underlies the word God."

The graduates in the knowledge of God know that no God exists in the universe. Yet they recognize a course of moral ethics and a law of state that "bind them under penalties" to do right, and this recognition neither underlies nor overlies the word God. It has nothing whatever to do with it except to urge them to proclaim the discovery that God is a myth and rescue the people from the idolatry of him.

In November Higher Science Comrade Heald says: "Even Brother Kerr, of our Church of Humanity, 'churches' me for quoting from myths, and some other magazines and Liberals call it illiberality."

As a matter of fact I do not object to Comrade Heald quoting from the Bible or any other book. I simply requested that he did not credit it to a God, as he is a myth and never said or thought anything. No graduate in the knowledge of God should attribute anything to him. Although he knows where the credit belongs, idolaters will think he thereby acknowledges that God said things and is hated for the sentiment or commands expressed. No graduate can have any hatred for God on account of sayings in the Bible, or elsewhere, purporting to be his. All such quotations should be credited to their real authors, the God-makers, to avoid confusion in the minds of idolaters as to our knowledge of God.

Be as active as the idolaters in church building and we will win.

TITLES AND DESIGNATIONS.

While the Church of Humanity repudiates and discards all names and titles given dissenters from the common ideas of God and the popular form of worshiping him, yet our members should have a common name or title to express their position on the God-idea. I notice some call themselves Atheists, Freethinkers, Infidels, etc. I suggest they abandon all such names and adopt "Graduate in the knowledge of God." That expresses our true position on the God question, and no hatred or prejudice can attach to it, as is associated with the other titles which do not express our knowledge of God. All should aspire to a full knowledge of the truth about God. When asked what our knowledge of God is, it can be answered briefly by giving the result of our acquired knowledge in one stence which all should commit to memory, viz.: We have discovered that all Gods, Devils and Holy Ghosts are fabulous beings, heaven and hell myths, and death the termination of conscious life. When asked how we came to make that discovery we reply, by experience, observation and investigation, which is the standard method of making all scientific discoveries of the truths of Nature.

When writing to members of the Church of Humanity, and speaking of them, I suggest we use the word "Comrade" to express our common membership, knowledge and interest in the Church of Humanity.

Make It Unanimous.

I notice in To-Morrow magazine, Chicago, a "Roll of Honor" including 187 names of "The Old Guard of Free Thought" over 65 years of age. I further notice that 24 of those named are graduates in the knowledge of God and have received certificates of graduation and are life members and founders of the Church of Humanity. I want that "Roll of Honor" to make it unanimous by the balance of them sending in their applications at once for certificates of graduation in the knowledge of God and life membership in the Church of Humanity. I want them all to be numbered among the founders of this society. I shall mail each one a marked copy of this issue for that purpose. Please don't delay making application.

EVIDENCE PER SE THAT GOD IS A MYTH LIKE SANTA CLAUS.

A God of unlimited wisdom and power, who knows of our race and has love, sympathy and pity for any member of it, as idolaters claim exists, would of necessity have to make use of those attributes and qualities to prove his existence. As there is unlimited proof that no such qualities are made manifest, when the greatest need of them are called for every moment, it is positive proof that no such a being exists in the universe. The absence of such a being, with such powers and qualities, to supply that need is evidence per se that no such being exists. Here is positive proof of the need of such a being and equally positive proof that the need was not supplied, which proves conclusively the non-existence of any power to supply it:

"Denver, Nov. 10.—Miss Laura Scott, nineteen-year-old school teacher, became lost and traveled many miles at night over the snow-covered prairie. Searchers found her frozen to death in the attitude of prayer."

God is a myth or he would have heard and answered that girl's prayer.

"Memphis, Nov. 19.—Eight lives were lost in the storm which swept over this state Saturday night. A woman and child were crushed and then cremated by a tree falling on their home."

"Nov. 1.—The German ship, Hermen, collided with a four-masted schooner in the English Channel and went down with 23 of her crew."

"San Jose, Cal., Nov. 12.—Several killed by the explosion of the boiler of the locomotive hauling the Sunset Express at Sargent's."

"Cleveland, O., Nov. 12.—Six killed by the explosion of a boiler in the car shops at Collinwood."

"Cherbourg, Nov. 22.—Thirteen persons are dead as the result of a collision of two steamers."

"Laporte, Ind., Nov. 12.—Six are dead and many missing that may have been cremated in a train wreck at Woodville."

"Seattle, Nov. 19.—Forty-two passengers and crew of the steamer Dix were drowned in a collision last night in Puget Sound."

These disasters created the greatest possible demand for the services of that Heavenly Father live idolaters claim never forsake them in time of need. That this Heavenly Father did not respond to the most fervent appeals to him for aid ever offered by those perishing idolaters at a time most needed in all their lives is conclusive evidence per se that their dear Heavenly Father is a myth.

This evidence is cold, practical, objective, material fact, that all are capable of comprehending when it is drilled into them daily for a few years by competent instructors. This class of evidence alone, when used by the skillful teachers, will overthrow the fine spun metaphysical theological treatises and discourses of all the Doctors of Divinity who have ever graduated in idolatry in all the Theological Seminaries erected to make idolaters of the people. This is the kind of evidence that led me to the discovery of God's mythical Nature long before I heard of Ingersoll or a Freethought publication. Since this is ample proof per se that no God in the universe has the power to make himself known through the manifestation of knowledge of these events, and the power to exercise pity and sympathy through practical aid, it is conclusive evidence that no God exists.

No matter what else exists in the universe that has not been discovered yet, this is proof that no God can be there. The minor evidences, that idolaters rely on as proof of the loving, watchful care over them by a Heavenly Father, must be simply a superstition in the face of this evidence that no such being cared for them in the greatest crisis of their existence. There is no God caring for the little things in the life of idolaters when this evidence proves there is no God caring for their lives.

Had idolaters such a thing as a soul it is evident there is no God caring for it separately when this evidence proves no God cares for their soul and body combined.

Had idolaters the power to survive death with a conscious existence it is evident that no God could care for that existence in any other world, since this evidence proves that no God cares for them in this world. Therefore, God is a myth and all teaching to the contrary is false. That false teaching will continue and our race will be idolaters until an organization is established able to teach the people the evidences that prove the discovery that there is no such a thing as a God in the universe.

The Church of Humanity is the first attempt ever made to organize an educational society to furnish that teaching. Those who wish their posterity saved from the idolatry of a myth and a dead man should unite with this society and help to build it up.

The church has 135 members now on the Roll Book. The subscribers to TRUTH ABOUT GOD should send in their applications for membership if they have not done so. In this work I have many discouragements to meet and overcome. Nothing gives me so much hope and encouragement as the new applications for membership sent in.

I would like to be kept busy filling out certificates and enrolling new members. I am willing and anxious to do my part to the best of my ability. I can raise the membership to 200 before January 1, 1907, if the readers will do their part in sending in their applications for membership. Let all the subscribers, and those who get sample copies, help to put the church membership to the 200 mark by January 1 by uniting in 1906 with the church.

This is the revival season among the idolaters. Everywhere they are adding great numbers of new idolaters to their church roll books. Those who know the truth about God should be as anxious to build up an organization that represents their knowledge as idolaters are to build up their idolatrous societies. Truth should have as brave and active defenders as error has. Idolatry of myth-Gods and dead Jews can never be overthrown without active society building by those who know the truth about them. Why should not 100 readers of this number of TRUTH ABOUT GOD get energy enough worked up to act enough to fill out an application for membership and mail it to me? Millions are acting in the interest of idolatry every day. Why can't non-idolaters act five minutes in the interest of truth to save their loved ones from idolatry? Singly not one of us can save our posterity from idolatry. United, we can save them all in time. Let us then unite to establish an educational society that will live and save our posterity from idolatry when our lives are terminated. You have only a short time to act before 1907. Don't let this year slip by without uniting with the Church of Humanity. Come by ones and twos and even by whole families, as the Joneses did. Millions are going to the idolatrous churches. You come to this. It is the only one of the lot that knows the truth about God, and teaches it. Never mind the dollar if you haven't it at this moment. Send it some other time. Borrow a pencil, beg a stamp and send in your application for membership.

THE REASONS WHY.

A number of comrades have written to me expressing surprise that the anti-Christian publications have not taken up the work of helping the Church of Humanity to overthrow idolatry by teaching its foundation truths and helping to unite their readers who know those truths into this educational society so they can aid in this great task. But no one has been more surprised than myself at their refusal to do so. I can only guess at the reasons why they will not aid us.

1. Some of them have not yet learned the discoveries the Church of Humanity is based on, and, therefore, are not eligible to membership in this church. They are unable to graduate in the knowledge of God. They can not teach what they do not know nor can they aid their advanced readers to organize to teach truths they themselves have not learned. So that class are surely excusable. We can hope, though, that they will learn those truths and unite with us to proclaim and teach them.

2. Many of their subscribers have not yet learned that God is a myth and that death is the end of conscious life. As the editors depend on their subscribers for support they, like the clergy, are afraid of losing that support should they teach truths not yet learned by their less advanced subscribers. They draw their support from Spiritualists, Agnostics, Deists and those of all degrees of advancement in the knowledge of God, from benighted idolaters of myth-Gods and dead Jews to graduates in the knowledge of God. We can not excuse them from teaching truths and aiding in the organization of those who know them on that ground. It is their duty to teach the truth if they know it and bring their readers up, by evidence they can understand, to a full knowledge of those truths that will enable them to graduate in the knowledge of God. To do that, they should be graduates themselves. Graduates should be organized into an educational organization so they could go to work in systematic order and method in providing teachers and schools and societies to perpetuate their knowledge. It is both useless and uninteresting to graduates in the knowledge of God to be kept back with students in the first grade discussing the questions about the divinity of Jesus, the inspiration of the Bible, and whether the Jewish Jehovah is the real God, when they have learned the discoveries that all Gods, Devils and Holy Ghosts are fabulous beings, heaven and hell myths and death the end of personal conscious life. Criticisms of Jesus, Bible and Bible-God can only be used as proof of those discoveries to be interesting or to aid in the overthrow of idolatry. To simply teach people that Jesus is not God or the son of one, that the Bible is not the word of God and that the Jewish Jehovah is not God is a waste of time and energy unless the discoveries the Church of Humanity is based on are taught the people. If that is not done they simply hitch the God-idea to some other real or imaginary thing and go right on in their idolatry.

All anti-Christian editors should, therefore, graduate in the knowledge of God, join the Church of Humanity and proceed to educate their readers in the knowledge of God, until they are able to graduate, too, and become members and founders of the Church of Humanity. Then they can interest themselves in providing teachers and societies to teach their discoveries to their posterity, and thus save them from idolatry. No other course can even check, much less overthrow idolatry.

LOST OPPORTUNITY.

Prominent men and women in the non-Christian ranks are dying off rapidly and many are neglecting the opportunity to prove to the world for all coming time that they had learned the truth about God, if they really had done so.

C. C. Moore, Peter Eckler, Dr. York, Capt. Henry, Felix Oswold, Dr. Wetmore, Dr. Foote and several others have all died since the discovery that God is a myth was made and the Church of Humanity founded to teach that great discovery. Those men had all been given an opportunity, and most of them urged by personal letters, to apply for certificates of graduation in the knowledge of God if they knew him to be a myth and become life members and founders of the Church of Humanity. That they did not accept the invitation is conclusive evidence they had not learned that great truth or did not recognize its importance, which would amount to the same thing. What a pity those men could not learn that great discovery and proclaim it definitely through a certificate of graduation and a record of it in the Roll-Book of the Church of Humanity. What an inspiration their names and numbers would have been on our Roll-Book as founders of this church. What an influence and an example it would have been for our young people to follow. Their names and numbers and influence are now forever lost. What a pity! We can never point to them as having made the great discovery, that God is a myth, to influence others in giving up idolatry. I wish my comrades to know I did my duty to the best of my ability in this matter that they may place no blame on me. I wrote personal invitations to Moore, York, Foote and Eckler, urging them to unite with the Church of Humanity. I mailed copies of our paper to them. I advertised in most of the leading non-Christian publications, that all who had learned this great discovery might have an opportunity to graduate and become founders of an educational organization to perpetuate their knowledge when they are dead. What more could I have done? Their neglect should be a solemn warning to others to do their duty in this matter before it is forever too late. The old must die, the young may die sooner, so I warn one and all who have learned the discovery that God is a myth, to make it known to the world for all time by sending in at once their application for a certificate of graduation in the knowledge of God and life membership in the Church of Humanity.

Put California to the Front.

Readers of Higher Science, Greeting: Comrade Heald has sent me a select list of 120 names of his subscribers who he thinks will unite with the Church of Humanity. They are nearly all in California, and about half in Los Angeles, his home town. Now I shall give California a fine opportunity to become the strongest state in the Church of Humanity by mailing to each address a marked copy of this issue of TRUTH ABOUT GOD. I invite each one most urgently to fill out the blank application for membership in this copy and return it to me by return mail. I want it before January 1, 1907. Don't fail. I know you people out there on the coast had a good lesson in the earthquake to prove to you that no unseen being is caring for you. You are too intelligent to want your posterity to worship dead Jews and myth Gods. You are smart enough to know nothing can save them from falling victims to idolatry except the best teaching you have received in the knowledge of God. You must know it will require the services of an educational society to give them that teaching when your lives are terminated. You must know that none but those who know God is a myth can found and organize that society. Well, the Church of Humanity is just what you are looking for, so come on boys and girls and help to build it up. We are 135 strong now. Add your 120 to it. Bring your wives and children along, as Dr. Jones did. That will boost the church membership as never before.

OBJECTIONS TO CHRISTIANITY.

By reading anti-Christian publications we observe three primary reasons why their contributors object to Christianity, viz.: the cost, the moral teaching and the meanness of Christians. These are all unworthy objections, and no matter how vociferously they are proclaimed it is no indication that the proclaimers are free from idolatry through having learned the discovery that God is a myth. People who make these objections the basis of their criticisms have been mistaken for non-belivers in the basic teaching of idolatry. That led to the false belief that idolatry was dying out through the people learning that God is a myth. That is a grave mistake. Those who make the greatest objection to the cost of teaching idolatry generally are those who pay the least. They would be leaders in building churches and hiring idolatrous teachers if they could only do it without any cost to themselves. That kind of people will have the same criticisms for the Church of Humanity, because it will cost something to teach the people the truth about God in rescuing and preserving them from idolatry.

These who base their vehement criticism of idolatrous churches on their moral teaching would be presumably very active members of those churches if they could only be allowed to indulge their base natures in all kinds of vile language and conduct. That kind of people will have the same criticism for the Church of Humanity, because it will teach the highest standard of moral ethics and decency and will allow no debased characters to be its representative teachers when known.

Those who base their hatred of idolatrous churches on some mistreatment from some church member would have been presumably members of some such church had they always been treated kindly by church members. That kind of people will find the same fault with the Church of Humanity. We make no pretense that our members will be much better on a general average than are the Christians. The learning of a few more truths of Nature do not greatly change man's moral disposition. It will only stop one of the greatest vices of our race—idolatry of myth-God and dead people. Through that false teaching people are led to commit some of the worst crimes of our race.

Another class of objectors base their objections to Christianity on the Bible, and might be called the intellectual objectors. They contend that Jesus was not a God or the son of one; that the Bible is not a revelation from God, and that the Bible-God is not the real one. Such people have worthy bases for their objections and will be in full accord with the Church of Humanity in all that. But they are not free from idolatry by any means. They still retain the God-idea and have hitched it to something else or intend to when they can think of something big enough to hitch it to. They think there must be a God somewhere and that he should be worshiped. They, too, are mistaken, for people are free from idolatry when they are not and do not want to be. But this is the class the Church of Humanity must try to win by teaching them the discovery that no God exists, and that it is useless to try to hitch the God-idea to anything in the universe, for it would not be God.

The only criticism of Christianity worthy of our time and money in making is that it is teaching idolatry of a myth-God and a dead man. That criticism is applicable to all Christian sects and all the religious mythologies. They must all be overthrown through the teaching of the discovery that all Gods are fabulous beings. All who base their objections to Christianity on the grounds that its basic teaching is a mistake should unite with the Church of Humanity at once.

Heston Relief Fund.

Comrade Lottie Heston, of Carthage, Mo., widow of Comrade Watson Heston, the great cartoonist, was left destitute with a large debt to pay, owing to a long siege of sickness ending in the death of Comrade Heston about two years ago.

The Church of Humanity desires to express its appreciation of Comrade Heston's labors for the good of humanity, and its duty to his widow by aiding her to pay up the remaining bills due. She feels under the greatest moral obligations to pay these bills and, although in poor health, she denies herself the necessaries of life to apply her small earnings as a dress-maker on the debt. There remains yet to be paid on the bills the following amounts:

Doctors' bills	$ 85.00
Undertaker's	45.00
Drugs	10.00
Tombstone	40.00
Total	$180.00

The following amounts from the comrades have been received and forwarded to her. In the order received at the office of TRUTH ABOUT GOD they are:

W. H. Kerr and family	$10.00
From Church fund	10.00
A charitable comrade	2.50
Dr. Ester A. Van Riper, Circleville, O	2.50
Dr. W. P. Murray, Cincinnati, O.	2.00
L. P. Tebbe, Loveland, Colo.	5.00
A. D. Marble, Oklahoma City, Ok.	2.50
John S. Holman, Pontiac, Ill.	2.00
C. W. Robbins, Danbury, Conn.	3.00
Dr. L. S. Stoll, Smithland, Iowa.	.25
Mark Rowe, Redmon, Ill.	1.00
Miles Kelly, Glen Riddle, Pa.	1.00
Allen Johnson, Corpus Christi, Tex	1.00

Comrades, we have only $137.25 to raise now. Our church can easily raise it. Let every comrade chip in. Get a post money order, address to Mrs. Lottie Heston, Carthage, Mo., and mail it to me, to be forwarded to her in time to add it to the list in next TRUTH ABOUT GOD. It will make her life happy to have this great load of worry and trouble removed so she can use her small earnings for the necessaries of life. It will make all the donors happy to know they aided in this worthy charity, and that they are not devoid of sympathy and pity and humanity, as idolaters claim all are who will not worship a dead Jew and a myth-God.

Revolutionary.

From Life.

"He is a radical of radicals."

"Yes?"

"He even advocates the public ownership of legislatures."

"Good heavens, would he leave no field whatever for private enterprise?"

IN ancient times men who hated tyranny were compelled to go out and talk to people to explain to them the meaning of the traps laid for them. You all remember "Rienzi's address to the Romans." Today one man may sit in the quiet of his study and write to thousands and millions. And that is the great factor in this agitation against the tyranny of the new forms of capitalism. Millions are thinking and tomorrow they will have awakened enough to act. The future is ours.

Don't be a fossil.

Do a little acting in the right direction.

Help us save your posterity from idolatry.

The Church of Humanity is growing some. Boost it.

Value it worth as much to save our children from idolatry as idolaters do to make idolaters of their's and we will save them.

WHY NOT?

The Church of Humanity is composed of the graduates in the knowledge of God, from among the readers of all the different anti-Christian publications.

In most cases they have advanced in the knowledge of God beyond some of their teachers. That speaks well for their abilities and also for that of their teachers in giving them a good start in the right direction.

We can only regret that some of the teachers could not keep up with their brightest scholars. But they must all have due credit for what they have done, and are still doing. I know their scholars, who have graduated, will ever hold in grateful remembrance their teachers regardless of whether they have advanced beyond them or not. All teachers should be proud of the abilities of their aptest students, and rejoice when those students advance to where they are able to instruct their teachers. Such should be the feeling of all non-idolatrous authors, lecturers and editors towards those who have graduated in the knowledge of God who began their studies perhaps under their instruction. They should be proud of the large number of graduates they have turned out and should encourage all of their readers to graduate in the knowledge of God as soon as they are able to do so. There may be quite a large number of students among the readers of the several non-idolatrous publications qualified to graduate now. They should be urged to do so to increase the class of graduates.

But not all the teachers were outclassed by their pupils.

Comrades Heald, Mills, Ernst, Mizzles and several other editors and ex-editors and authors were among the first to graduate in the knowledge of God. I have just received a letter from Comrade Heald, editor of Higher Science, Los Angeles, Cal., in which he says:

"Friend Kerr:—Names received. I send 150 in return. Will go through list when I can and pick out two or three hundred that I think will join. You are O. K. and will win. Keep after them. I am with you and may have more room later, so I can keep a page standing in H. S."

Comrade Heald is up with his graduated students and wants all the balance of his readers to graduate as soon as they know the truth about God. Hence he is willing to exchange subscription lists with me, so I can urge his readers, who are able to graduate, to do so and furnish them an opportunity. Why should not all editors of non-idolatrous publications be willing to exchange lists with me so as to give all of their readers an opportunity to get a certificate of graduation in the knowledge of God and become life members and founders of the Church of Humanity? Why not give them an opportunity to help to organize an educational society able to perpetuate their knowledge and hand it down to posterity to preserve it from idolatry? Why not? Why not do all in their power to aid me in finding all their readers who have learned the truth about God that I may invite them to graduate, unite and help to establish a society for their wives and children wherein they can be taught the great discovered truths that will save them from idolatry? Why Not?

LIKE RUSSIA AND COLORADO.

From the Cleveland Press.

Chicago is the place where they shoot and kill the poverty-stricken men and boys who pick up a little coal along the railroad tracks.

Several cases of this kind have taken place lately.

Only a few days ago a little boy, who was the sole support of his mother and other children, was trying to fill a little basket with the nuggets that had been jostled from the cars. A private watchman in the pay of the railway company ordered the little fellow to stop. The boy thought the watchman was a highwayman and started to run. The watchman fired on the poor boy, and the latter dropped in his tracks, dying in a few hours.

There was no arrest.

Last week an Italian was gathering coal along the tracks. He was out of work. There was no money to buy fuel with which to cook the food for his family. The watchman shouted to him to drop the coal. The unfortunate foreigner did not understand the English langauge. The watchman shot at the crouching figure "just to frighten the man," as he afterward said. The bullet killed the man instantly.

True, there is one newspaper in Chicago that mildly suggested that the matter "ought to be brought to the attention of the grand jury."

Of course the men and boys who have been killed—no women or girl has been shot, as yet—were "trespassers."

But they were also human beings engaged in a pathetic struggle for existence. And trespass is not an excuse for cold-blooded murder—except in Chicago.

Human life is about as cheap in that city as it used to be in a frontier mining camp.

FREE COMPETITION.

From Life.

"Times are hard," said the Picked Chicken.

"Why," said the Rat, "this is an era of prosperity; see how I have feathered my nest."

"But," said the Picked Chicken, "you have gotten my feathers."

"You must not think," said the Rat, "that because I get more comfort you get poorer."

"But," said the Chicken, "you produce no feathers and I keep none——"

"If you would use your teeth——" interrupted the Rat.

"I——," said the Picked Chicken.

"You could lay by as much as I do," concluded the Rat.

"If——" said the Picked Chicken.

"Without consumers like me," said the Rat, "there would be no demand for the feathers which you produce."

"I will vote for a change," said the Picked Chicken.

"Only those who have feathers should have the suffrage," remarked the Rat.

VOL. 2, No. 1. GREAT BEND, KANSAS, JANUARY, 1907. WHOLE No. 13.

The Building of the Church of Humanity.

An outline of the conditions that call the Church of Humanity into existence should of necessity be familiar to all. I shall here set forth a statement of the conditions that make this educational society an imperative necessity. It is said, "Necessity is the mother of invention." Necessity is the mother of this church. It is called into existence and will be enlarged, and perpetuated, by the endless-chain process, from generation to generation, to perform a specific duty that never can be done without it—that is, preserve the posterity of its founders and charter members from idolatry by teaching it the great newly-discovered truths that all Gods, Devils and Holy Ghosts are fabulous beings, heaven and hell myths and death the permanent cessation of conscious life.

Practically our entire race is submerged in the idolatry of worshiping a God in some form, under some name, and has ever been since the dawn of history. It will continue to be so for ages to come unless it is taught the above discoveries. All the ferocious religious wars and persecutions have been in vain so far as the overthrowing of idolatry was concerned. They were simply contentions between factions, or combinations of factions, over the making and worshiping of a creation of fiction, and between the followers of the several creations of fiction. In France and several other European countries there are now serious clashes between the different idolatrous factions that may lead to a fierce religious war between idolaters of the same creation of fiction. In all Europe there is not a man, much less a party, that is trying to overthrow idolatry by teaching the people the discovery that the God whose worship they are fighting over is a myth. Perhaps there is not a person in Europe who knows that fact. If there is he is keeping mum, which gives no more aid to idolaters than if he did not know that jewel of truth. The condition in France will in time spread to other countries, and even to America. Besides the internecine Christian feuds, which are a perpetual menace to the internal peace of every Christian country, there is the perpetual antagonism between the several systems of mythology that break out in religious wars of the most violent nature. That condition will continue for thousands of years unless the idolaters under every system of mythology are taught the discovery that there is no intelligence in the universe that knows or cares for our race, or any member of it, corresponding to the God-idea. To those who know that discovery it is intolerable to see the world in an eternal warfare over the mythical idols that are worshipped in the belief that they are real beings. Then to see the priests of those mythical Gods teaching our children the falsehoods that make them idolaters of those man-made idols is unbearable. Our posterity is surrounded by those teachers of error, and ever will be, no matter in what part of the world they may locate.

They will be taught to worship as real beings the Gods whom we have discovered to be myths. They cannot inherit our knowledge of God that would save them from idolatry. Hence, through absolute necessity, we who wish our posterity to know the discovery that God is a myth, that they may be saved from a degrading idolatry, are compelled to unite in an organization to enable us to provide the teaching. That teaching must be given in early childhood and continued throughout life or our posterity will be won to the practice of idolatry through the teaching and influence of the idolaters by whom it will be surrounded. Therefore societies must be established and maintained for that purpose all over the world for all time to prevent its lapsing into idolatry.

Those societies must be built up of those who know God is a myth and maintained forever. They must be modeled and maintained on the same general plan of the idolatrous societies. The truth about God must be taught and promulgated by the same methods as is error.

Truth can never overthrow error unless it is backed with as much money, as able defenders and as strong societies as promulgate and support error.

The Church of Humanity is the first attempt ever made to establish a society to teach and hand down to posterity the truth about God that will save it from idolatry and stop the warfare over it.

Our immediate posterity has a right to expect that service of us. The highest service we can render posterity is to build up this society on a perpetuating basis that it may be able to follow it up through the coming generations in every part of the world and teach it the discovery we have made. It is the only way idolatry can ever be overthrown, or even checked. There must be persons hired on an annual salary to do the teaching. They cannot do the teaching without ample pay for their services. They will be members of the society and subject to its orders. The society will pay for what it wants, as idolatrous societies do. The church will maintain educational institutions for the training of those who are to engage in teaching for it, as other churches do, when it gets able. Our teachers could be no match for the trained teachers of idolatry who have been furnished their education for that duty free in theological seminaries. This church will give young people who are to be its teachers the same opportunities to prepare for their life work the clergy have. It must put its teachers on equal footing both as to facilities for preparing for their life work and pay while engaged in it. We who wish our posterity taught the truths our church is based on will not be so unreasonable as to require or expect our teachers to work for us free or at a less wage than teachers of idolatry get. We should treat them better and pay them better in order to induce the teachers in idolatrous churches to learn the truth about God to enable them to do service in our church. With many it will be primarily a matter of the greatest inducement offered as to whether they will prepare to teach error or the truth about God. We must simply meet the conditions of competition in this matter. We will get teachers when we pay enough. We must value it worth as much to have our children saved from idolatry as idolaters do to have their children taught idolatry. We must put as high a value on the teaching of truth as they do on the teaching of error, and then we can successfully compete with them in society building.

When the Church of Humanity has 1,000 members in the United States it can employ one National Instructor, at a fair salary, to do rostrum work for the church all over the country in proclaiming the discoveries it teaches and soliciting members. Then, for every additional thousand members, it can add one more instructor to its service, and divide the territory up between them. That will enable it to pay a good salary without its being burdensome on the members. Then we will be in a position to begin in a business way to rescue people from idolatry. The instructors will teach what they are hired to teach, and will be under the direction of an executive board of the church members elected for that duty. We should have the first thousand members enrolled during 1907, so the church can organize and incorporate next Christmas or New Year's. Then we can employ our first instructor for field work. Each member should work to that end and try to get new members for the church. Let us, one and all, put in our best licks in boosting the thermometer up to the 1,000 mark. We are 141 members now. If we can each secure eight new members during 1907 we will have reached the goal. Let us make a dash for it this year. Let each member write out a list of ten persons likely to unite with us if sufficient persuasion is brought to bear on them. Then write each one personal letters and send them literature of our church and its paper. Send me the full list and I will aid by letters and literature to win them to the cause so dear to us. Idolaters build up their societies by personal persuasion and teaching people their duty. We must build up ours in the same way. People must be taught what their duty is, and then be persuaded to do it. Non-idolaters who claim to be wiser than idolaters should not be so hard to persuade to do their duty as idolaters are. We should have a big advantage over the Christians in gaining membership.

SHOWING THE GROWTH OF THE CHURCH OF HUMANITY.

The following comrades united with the church during the last month:

PARAGRAPHS.

Happiness comes as a result of doing duty cheerfully.

May the New Year have in store a full measure of health, happiness and prosperity for all our comrades.

Comrades, do your church duties as faithfully and pleasantly as Christians do theirs and it will make you as happy as they are.

We can have the truth about God taught to our families when we pay as much for having it done as Christians do for having error taught to their families.

The truth about God should be popular. If it is not it is because so very few know it. Those few can make it popular by teaching it until a large number learn and accept it.

Uniting in the Church of Humanity will enable all who have made the discovery that God is a myth, whether they live in city, village or country, to aid in having that jewel of truth taught.

Societies are machines for doing things that cannot be done by individuals. The Church of Humanity is to be the machine for doing things we want done, but are unable to do individually.

Comrades and subscribers, it will be grand when our church is able to keep a lecturer like Dr. J. B. Wilson in steady employment lecturing in each state and large city for our cause. We can do that in time if all of you will help as I suggest.

The entire world needs saving, not from hell, for there is no such place; not from the wrath of God, for there is no such a being, but from idolatry of the man-made idols manufactured out of the God-idea. Join the Church of Humanity and be one of the founders and charter members of the first society ever organized to save people from idolatry.

Comrades, the circulation of your church paper and the growth of your church depends largely on your individual aid. Resolve to do as much for your church as idolaters do for theirs. You should all be members of the two church committees—the publicity committee, to circulate the church papers and the booster committee, to aid in increasing the membership. Send in orders for bundles of the paper and names of those you think will unite with us if urged to do so. You cannot save your own posterity from idolatry without saving those by whom they are surrounded and with whom they associate. It is as necessary, then, to have your neighbors and their children learn these discoveries as to teach them to your own children.

When the Church of Humanity reaches the 1,000 mark it can organize and employ one National Instructor at an annual salary to do field work for the church. Let us all try to put it to that mark this year, so that we can put our worker in the field next year.

Every man and woman who has learned that God is a myth and feels lonesome because no others in the neighborhood have learned the same truth, should unite with the Church of Humanity, where they will have comrades of like knowledge and where they can help promulgate their knowledge until they can have local societies of such people.

Good News, Comrades! A number of non-idolatrous papers and magazines have informed me that they will solicit members for the Church of Humanity during 1907. Among them are Higher Science, Blue Grass Blade and To-Morrow Magazine, and others will be added to the list. This is glorious news. I hope they will all join in to help their readers organize so they can begin saving their children and others from idolatry. Their readers are dying off with old age and no provision has been made to hand their knowledge down to posterity. This uniting of their scattered readers will enable them to put lecturers in the field, and keep them there, proclaiming the grand truths they have learned and uniting with us all who accept them. They will build up a great educational society that will be self-perpetuating, like the idolatrous societies have been. There are bright prospects ahead for our church. Comrades, take hope and courage, and push with energy and enthusiasm. Put your money and action into the work, as the Christians do, and success will be as sure to reward us in society building as it has them. Congratulations are due our noble contemporaries for their promised aid. When we are organized into societies, like the Christians are, we can use hundreds of books and papers to one without organization. We can save our children and those of the Christians from idolatry where we can save none now.

PUBLICITY COMMITTEE.

Very few people, comparatively, have heard of the great discoveries made and taught by the Church of Humanity. Why not have a "Publicity Committee" of our able members to let the people know of our discoveries?

The best way to advertise our discoveries is to scatter broadcast our church paper. That will let the people know of our discoveries and the evidences that prove them true. A few of those who get a stray copy will subscribe for it and in time will believe our teaching and unite with the church. Organization is our special mission, but people have to be taught that our discoveries are true before they will unite with us to aid in their promulgation. Hence the necessity of placing our paper in the hands of the people.

To members of the Publicity Committee who will order bundles of copies each month during 1907 I will make a special low rate of ¼c per copy. A bundle of 10 each month for one year, 30c; of 25, 75c; of 50, $1.50; of 100, $3.

Comrades, join the Publicity Committee and take a bundle each month for distribution.

EVIDENCE PER SE THAT GOD IS A MYTH LIKE SANTA CLAUS.

Above the graves of our perished loved ones the Church of Humanity proclaims God a myth.

More people read newspapers now than ever before, and the number is constantly increasing. They are becoming the great educators of the people and moulders of public opinion. The Church of Humanity will make them its allies and assistant teachers in placing before idolaters daily evidence that the God they worship is a myth. They will furnish the evidence and this church will teach the meaning of it in relation to the God-idea. As soon as the people know the true interpretation of that evidence they will get daily object lessons in the truth about God from their daily newspapers.

Here is a sample of the daily proof they will furnish the people that the God they worship is simply a creation of fiction, having no real existence in the universe:

"Holland, Mich., Nov. 22.—Four men employed on the work of the pier extension were swept away by a storm and drowned.

"New York, Dec. 22.—The steamer Frithjof, with nine of its crew, was lost in the Antartic November 10.

"Steubenville, O., Dec. 24.—Mrs. Ira Hillman and her two daughters were suffocated in a fire here today.

"Christiansand, Norway, Dec. 11.—Twelve men of a crew were drowned when the steamer Forsoget sunk in a storm.

"Sixteen persons drowned near Montjo bay, Jamaica, when a sailboat capsized in a storm.

"Breeze Hills, Ill., Dec. 22.—Six miners were killed by the cage in which they were going to work falling 400 feet.

"St. Paul, Dec. 24.—Nine passengers were killed in a train wreck at Enderlin, N. D., and thirty-seven injured, many fatally.

"Bayfield, Wis., Dec. 15.—The steamer Manistique, with 40 passengers aboard, is reported lost.

"Vicksburg, Miss., Dec. 18.—The steamer W. T. Scoville was blown up this morning at Gold Dust Gin and sixteen passengers killed.

"Patterson, N. J., Dec. 22.—Mrs. Alice McWithey and two small daughters were burned to death in their home this morning."

This is enough for one lesson to show the character of the daily evidence the papers will furnish their readers that the Church of Humanity is teaching the truth about God. The part the church has to do is to interpret this evidence for the people and explain its meaning to them. Then they will be able to recognize evidence every day in any part of the world they may happen to be that God is a myth. This is evidence per se that all can learn, with the assistance of an instructor, that no unseen intelligence corresponding to the God-idea, Jesus-idea, Ghost-idea or spirit-idea exists. As fast as people learn from the Church of Humanity to understand the full meaning of this every-day evidence in its bearing on those false ideas they should cease forever the worship of God and Jesus and their belief in the existence of Holy Ghosts and spirits. This evidence is universal, objective, undisputed, undenied and fully convicing, to those who understand it, that God is a myth. It overthrows the testimony of all the bibles and sacred writings in the world. Before it the sophistry of all the priests of all systems of idolatry must go down if the Church of Humanity is made strong enough to teach all people the true meaning of this class of evidence. It shows that no member of our race can get the least bit of aid from unseen beings, regardless of what one may worship or believe, do, say or think, which shows clearly that there are no unseen beings that know of or care for man.

If you, reader, believe that statement and are not yet a founder and charter member of the Church of Humanity please fill out the following blank application and return it to me so I can make you one:

Never before could isolated individuals who were not idolaters aid in building societies that taught the truth about God, as they had discovered it to be. Now, through the Church of Humanity, they can all be united and be officers and active society builders. They can place their time and money in the work of society building for themselves and their children, as the Christians do. They can help to make the society grow until it reaches them with its field workers. All should be glad of this opportunity and should make the most of it by uniting with this church and aiding in its upbuilding.

The teaching of the discovery that God is a myth is the only teaching that can rescue and preserve people from idolatry.

APOLOGIES.

As there was some matter on economics of socialistic bearing in last TRUTH ABOUT GOD, some may think I myself am falling into the traps from which I have been warning others all along. The explanation is that that issue was printed by the Appeal to Reason publishing house, and, not having enough copy, it was filled out from the Appeal's ever abundant supply of socialistic copy. I shall have enough copy furnished hereafter that it may not occur again.

I read several leading Socialist papers, and think all others should do so, to keep posted on that phase of political and economic teaching in order to take sides intelligently for or against it. But we must learn to keep unrelated questions strictly separate, and to unite into different societies and combinations for or against each question, as our interest and judgment dictate, and work through the proper channels without any reference to other unrelated questions. Each important question must be threshed out on its own merits alone. No combination of unrelated questions can be made that would suit very many people, and it should not be attempted. People can unite to propagate only one central idea in which they are vitally interested, but they can form many different combinations of individuals to carry on the propagation of all the important ideas they are interested in. That plan does not indicate that a person is a one-idea man that takes no interest in but one question, which he makes a hobby of, but it indicates that he recognizes the necessity of keeping unrelated questions separate and working for each one he is interested in through the proper societies and their special publications. That plan does not alienate the support of people who believe in some one or more of his ideas, but not in others. A man will not unite with another to aid him in the promulgation of an idea he indorses if he is compelled to accept or aid other ideas he does not indorse. That is a fundamental principle of vital importance in society building not recognized by those who attempted Freethought organizations. They had a misconception of the meaning of free thinking and of the duty of free thinkers and free actors. They seemed to think, and based their action on the erroneous assumption, that all who claim to be free thinkers must think alike on all questions, and that they could be united in one society to engage in a general boosting of a conglomerate mass of ideas on many unrelated subjects. All people are free thinkers. In this country at least they are reasonably free to express their thoughts and conclusions, and to organize to promulgate them. But with all that, they cannot arrive at the same conclusions on all subjects. Of course, expressions of thought should ever be limited to decency, propriety and circumstances of environment. The thinkers themselves should do that voluntarily, but as some will not they must be compelled by law to do so.

The discovery that God is a myth is a scientific fact, a truth in Nature, and has no relation to economic matters. As the captains of industry and the manual laborers of all classes learn that truth they can unite in the Church of Humanity as equal comrades to promulgate it to save the posterity of all from idolatry. They could not thus unite if its teaching were complicated with economic theories they disagree on. This should teach us all the very important lesson of keeping unrelated subjects separate. We should all read the daily newspapers, that give the world's news on all subjects, but our educational journals should confine themselves primarily to the specific subjects they teach. We can then subscribe for a representative publication on any subject we are interested in. That is the proper course for free thinkers to take, and not expect, nor require, one paper to give their favorite view on a number of important though unrelated subjects.

The specific mission of TRUTH ABOUT GOD is to help to teach the great discoveries that God is a fabulous being and death the end of conscious life, and to find and organize into an educational society all who know those grand truths, that they may be promulgated until all the world knows and accepts them. Hence it must confine itself to its special mission as far as possible. It is the special organ of those people who know the truth about God and desire that truth taught to their posterity to save it from idolatry. All people, regardless of the side they take on other questions, who desire that result should subscribe for TRUTH ABOUT GOD and unite with the Church of Humanity. It is the only way they can get what they desire in that line. Do not hesitate, then, as the paper and the church will be confined to its legitimate duties and you will not be required to take something you did not pay for and do not want.

CONGRATULATIONS.

I congratulate Dr. J. B. Wilson on his able article, "The Reign of King Humbug," in The Blue Grass Blade of Dec. 16, and also The Blade in having such an able contributor. I believe it should be printed in a leaflet and distributed by thousands. I can indorse most of it. I have not space left in this issue to point out what I do not indorse. Suffice to say he is mistaken in some things, and in the remedy for the ignorance he points out that makes the people such easy victims to the teaching of idolatry. He asks for the remedy, and says in his opinion there is none, but proposes a reformation of the clergy. Now, there is a remedy, but it is not in that direction, except as it is forced by a rival society that will rescue the people from idolatry through teaching them the discovery that God is a myth. The remedy is to build up the Church of Humanity to 1,000 graduates in the knowledge of God and then hire Dr. Wilson, if he is a member of the church, or some other member, if it has an abler one, at an annual salary, to proclaim its discoveries to the people from the rostrum all over the country, and build up the church membership so it can employ more lecturers.

The situation, in a nut-shell, is this: Our posterity, for all time, will be taught by organized idolaters the God-myth and immortality delusion as truths, which will make them in turn idolaters and the supporters and promulgators of idolatry. Dr. Wilson knows the discoveries that God is a myth and conscious life ends at death. He is able and willing to take the lecture field and proclaim those discoveries to the people all over the country. He cannot do that without ample pay for his services.

A few of us know those grand truths and wish them proclaimed to all the people, that they may be rescued thereby from idolatry. No one of us is able to pay for that service. By all those who desire that service uniting in an organization, and each paying a small share, they can hire Dr. Wilson, or someone else, at a reasonable annual salary and keep him at work all the time. Perhaps Dr. Wilson would be glad to accept such employment. We should be equally glad to have his continuous services. He could help to build up the church membership. For every additional 1,000 members we could add one more lecturer to the field force and divide the territory among them so as to give each thousand members one lecturer. Now let us all see if we can get the first 1,000 members in time to organize and employ a national lecturer for our church next year to begin with.

Comrades, let us do our best to boost the thermometer to the goal.

AN ACTIVE WORKER.

Comrade J. Frantz, of 119 East 116th street, New York City, is doing good publicity work for the church in that city. He bought 1,000 copies of No. 12, 100 "Marvelous Discoveries" and several hundred invitation leaflets and distributed them where they would do the most good in the city. He sold some, left some at news stands and with liberal societies for sale and gave some away free. He visited all the leading liberal societies in the city and introduced our church and its teaching and publication to their audiences. He attended meetings of the Manhattan Liberal Club, Liberal Arts Society, Brooklyn Philosophical Association, Harlem Liberal Alliance, Unity Congregation and several other societies, and introduced our work and publication. He sold many copies at all the meetings, which will undoubtedly bear a rich harvest in time. Comrade Frantz is a whole publicity club in himself. He is doing a fine work for his church in sowing the seeds of the truth it teaches. It will produce the golden harvest of increased membership in time. The personal work of idolaters in distributing literature and soliciting membership for their idolatrous societies is what builds them up. Our church will successfully compete with them when our members work as hard for the propagation of truth and the upbuilding of our church as idolaters do for theirs.

Let us follow Comrade Frantz's example of activity and push.

Let us all be members of the Publicity Club and distribute a bundle of the church papers every month. We must let the world know the grand truths we have learned.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

Rev. H. J. Iobes, of Drew Theological Seminary, Madison, N. J., writes:

"I read your 'Marvelous Discovery' and only desire you to ask yourself, and then answer me, Where did you come from? By what process in Nature did you come to know that you know? The little word I, ego, is a world in itself. Can you tell me what it is, where it came from and how you know it?"

Answer: To answer briefly, I am the product of parents, as are all animal and vegetable life. I know by observation and experience that it is a fact that such life is the fruit of parents. The parents that reproduce their species are the result of evolution through long ages from lower forms of life. The beginning of life evolved from the mineral kingdom by chemical processes from latent powers inherent in matter, under favorable environments. To get the full meaning and evidences of that fact, of course, you will have to study scientific works on the origin of life, its development and evolution on this planet.

The "I" or "ego" is simply myself as a separate individual body. I explained my origin. "Myself" is, of course, my body. The brain is one of the body's organs. It is the organ of the mind that produces thought and all its modes. Education gives the brain artificial powers. Those powers, with mind and thought, cease with the death of the brain and body that produce them. There is no intelligence in the universe that represents the idea expressed by the word "God" in the Christian mythology. The God-idea is a mistake. A few now know the discovery that all Gods, Devils and Holy Ghosts are fabulous beings, heaven and hell myths and death the cessation forever of individual conscious life.

I am helping to build up an educational organization of the people who know these jewels of truth to promulgate and perpetuate them, that posterity may be rescued and preserved from the idolatry of worshiping a myth-God and a dead man. The Church of Humanity now has 141 members. When it has 1,000 I shall call a national delegate convention of the church members to formally organize and incorporate the society.

The plan is to organize to teach the truth about God by the same general methods errors about him are taught.

I inclose copies of our church paper that will give you an idea of our methods and plans.

Would be glad to receive your subscription for TRUTH ABOUT GOD. Then you can keep posted in the development of our work.

Out of the God-idea, which is that there is a supreme intelligent being, has been manufactured all the idols ever worshiped by man or that ever will be. That God-idea has been discovered to be a mistake—there is no such being in the universe that knows of man's existence. Hence no more Gods should be hatched from that idea and the worship of those that have been must be discontinued.

The Church of Humanity unites in one happy society all the widely scattered and otherwise lonesome people who have learned that God is a myth, and, therefore, cannot affiliate with idolatrous societies.

When we all unite in the Church of Humanity, like the Christians do in their churches, it will enable us to hire teachers to teach the truth about God and life like they do to have error taught.

HESTON RELIEF FUND.

A special effort by the comrades to complete this fund should be made this month so we can announce the work completed in next issue. The amount to be raised is $180.00. The following contributions have been received and forwarded to Comrade Mrs. Watson Heston:

W. H. Kerr and family	$10.00
From Church fund	10.00
A charitable comrade	2.50
Dr. Ester A. Van Riper, Circleville, O	2.50
Dr. W. P. Murray, Cincinnati, Ohio	2.00
L. P. Tebbe, Loveland, Colo.	5.00
A. D. Marble, Oklahoma City, Okla	2.50
John S. Holman, Pontiac, Ill	2.00
C. W. Robbins, Danbury, Conn	3.00
Dr. L. S. Stoll, Smithland, Ia	.25
Mark Rowe, Redmon, Ill	1.00
Miles Kelly, Glen Riddle, Pa.	1.00
Allen Johnson, Corpus Christi, Tex	1.00
R. L. Baker, Fort Fairfield, Maine	10.00
Edward Burke, Fort Fairfield, Maine	1.00
J. F. Mayo, Sycamore, Kan.	3.00
J. Frantz, New York City	2.50
Charles Kimberly, Circleville, Ohio	1.00
Mailed direct to Mrs. Heston:
John Hirt, Cincinnati, O.	$10.00
Otis White, Salida, Colo	5.00
Dr. J. B. H. Feenstra, Arcadia, Ia	3.00
J. Fox, Harvard, Ill	1.00
Total received	$78.75
Balance to be raised	$101.25

I will be one of twenty comrades to chip in $5.00 each to make up the amount. Who will be the others? Let all send $5.00 who possibly can. Work is so plentiful and wages so good that any able-bodied man can earn that amount most anywhere in the United States in two or three days. If some can't spare so much, then take a half share, $2.50, and send it in at once. Remember, Watson Heston gave several years of patient labor to freeing people from idolatry and superstition through his cartoon work. There was no organization to pay him reasonable wages for his services to humanity. He tried to help to remedy that condition by he and his wife being among the first of the founders and charter members of the Church of Humanity. But he was past doing any more work, as he was then bedfast from a disease that finally ended his life after eighteen months of continuous suffering. The least we can do now, as a duty, is to pay off the remaining indebtedness on his doctor, undertaker and tombstone bills and relieve his devoted widow of that great load in her struggle with poverty.

We will not make many calls for charity, and none that will not be justified. Comrade Heston's is a special case. When our church is incorporated we will hire our instructors at a stated salary and raise it by donations. That will not be charity in any sense of the word, but strictly business. We intend to put the teaching of the truth about God on a business basis and keep it there. We do not ask, nor expect, teachers in any other branch of knowledge to teach our children free of charge. We will not ask, nor expect, our children to be taught the most important of all branches of knowledge free of cost to us. We will pay the price for it the same as we do for any other teaching. If Comrade Heston had gotten full value for his services there would have been no call now for aid for his widow to pay funeral expenses. But we must pay the funeral expenses of our teachers should they fail from any cause to have enough property to do that. Mrs. Heston will write a personal letter of thanks and appreciation to all who contribute to her aid in paying off this debt.

In a letter from Mrs. Heston she says:

"I have written to all who have so kindly and generously aided me. I certainly feel grateful to them and to yourself and Comrade Wise for doing so much for me. I do hope there will be enough raised to help me out financially. If I was younger it would be quite different, but when one is on the down-grade in years, with nothing but hard work ahead, it is very discouraging. No one but myself and a few near friends know what I have endured since Mr. Heston's death. Many would have given up in despair. If I can only get out of debt I will be so happy."

Get a postoffice money order or a draft payable to Mrs. Lottie Heston, Carthage, Mo., and mail it to me to be forwarded in time to mention it in the next TRUTH ABOUT GOD.

ORGANIZATION

Great Bend, Kan., Dec. 15, 1906.

Dr. J. B. Wilson,
206 East 4th St., Cincinnati, O.

Dear Sir: I have read your article "On Organization" in The Liberal Review of December, except pages 3, 4, 7 and 8, which are blank. I am sorry it is not all there, and have written for a good copy, if they have any. I am glad to see you still in the ring for organization. You have had some experience, and that should aid you in the matter greatly. I wish to congratulate you on many things you mention that work against successful organization. We should eliminate the methods that caused failure on previous occasions. The very names, bases and objects of previous trials at organization need not be used again. We must have a name that no hatred attaches to by those we seek to educate. We must have for our basis vital scientific truths proveable to all and a vital object to accomplish worthy of our time and money.

Organization cannot be based on the hatred of anybody or any society, nor on the proposition to tear down or destroy society, nor on the hatred of idols worshiped. Hence, your suggestions as to name, basis, object and method will not do for a successful organization, since they are simply the same old things failed on previously under new names that would not help things in the least. I beg of you not to advocate organization on those lines, as it will invite certain failure should it be attempted. You must take a broader view of the situation that confronts us and lay deeper plans to remedy the evils by which we are surrounded. Here are the facts I wish you to consider:

1. Our entire race is immersed in the idolatry of worshiping Gods.

2. Powerful societies that cover the earth, and include most all our race, are organized to perpetuate that idolatry under the belief that those Gods are real beings and it is their will and desire to be worshiped.

3. Those who do not belong to those idolatrous societies have been taught the idolatry in their respective countries and believe its fundamental teaching, and are, therefore, practical supporters of it.

4. It is now positively discovered that the God-idea is a mistake and that there is no such a being in the universe that knows of man's existence. That all Gods, Devils and Holy Ghosts are fabulous beings, heaven and hell myths and death the permanent cessation of conscious life.

5. The race will continue in idolatry, and the support of it, until this discovery is taught and accepted by all.

6. The rescue and preservation of the people from idolatry through the promulgation of this discovery is of the greatest vital importance to our race.

7. Therefore, the only educational organization worthy of our time and money must be based on this discovery and for its promulgation, with the object of rescuing and preserving posterity from idolatry.

8. I want my posterity saved from idolatry through a knowledge of this discovered truth. So do all who know it.

9. Singly it is utterly out of the question for any of us to do that services for even our own posterity.

10. United in an educational society to teach this discovery we can all have our posterity saved from idolatry.

11. Hence, through absolute necessity we are all forced to unite and adhere to the union and donate freely of our time and money to its service to enable it to accomplish the desired object. We will be forced to perpetuate the society, as the object to be accomplished will be perpetual through ever-coming posterity.

12. None but those who have discovered, or may hereafter learn, that God is a myth can be eligible to membership in the society.

13. The labors of the society in its educational and organization work must be confined strictly to the object that calls it into existence, viz.: the rescue and preservation of posterity from idolatry through the teaching of these great discoveries. That will be work enough for the society for centuries, though it should grow to hundreds of millions of members and millions of instructors.

14. The Church of Humanity is designed to fill all the conditions outlined above, which I believe you will recognize as essential to success when your attention is called to them. It has 140 members now. When it is 1,000 strong I shall call an international delegate convention to formally organize and incorporate it. Its business will then be conducted by legally qualified officers elected by the church. It will then be able to support one National Instructor to do field work in lecturing and organizing societies. Every additional thousand members can support an additional instructor. The organization will then be built up, as are Christian churches by evangelists and the clergy and other society workers. It will establish and maintain colleges for the teaching and training of its Instructors, who will go forth as required by the members to establish local churches and Sunday schools and other societies for them, and furnish regular teaching for them and their children, as the idolaters do. They will officiate at marriages, funerals and on public occasions requiring public speakers.

Now that you know the basis, objects and methods of the Church of Humanity, I invite you to study them closely and, if they are satisfactory to you, I earnestly urge you to unite with it and aid in its organization. I believe you would be a strong candidate for the position of National Instructor to begin field work for the church when it is organized and able to maintain one. The first 1,000 members will be the charter members. Please let me know your wishes.

Yours,
W. H. KERR.

Subscribers, unite with the Church of Humanity and help in its boosting. The rescue and preservation of the people from idolatry depends on the success of this church. Help it to succeed by uniting with it.

No. 141, J. R. Miller, Carl Junction, Mo., 37, male, harness maker, German-American, German and English, Campbellite.

On behalf of church I bid our new comrades a hearty welcome to membership, fellowship and friendship in the Church of Humanity. May they live a long life and enjoy a full measure of health, happiness and prosperity. May they ever be faithful and steadfast supporters and defenders of the grand truths their Church teaches, and be instrumental in winning many from idolatry of a myth named God and a dead man named Jesus. May they do all in their power to aid in the upbuilding of the Church of Humanity, of which they are founders and charter members, until it is the most popular, honored and respected of all Churches, and fulfilling its mission of rescuing and preserving millions of people from idolatry.

They have boosted the membership thermometer to the 141 mark. Come on, brave boys and girls, and give it a still greater boost for February. We will all be glad to see the mercury climb up. The faster it climbs the sooner it will reach the goal—the 1,000 mark.

The Building of the Church of Humanity.

NOT "AN EMISSARY OF THE POPE."

Mr. R. PETERSON, Editor Examiner, Paris, Tex.—Dear Sir: As you are evidently in the dark regarding the Church of Humanity, you have done it a great injustice in your article "An Emissary of the Pope" in the last Examiner, and I inclose an article for the next issue of the Examiner giving a clear exposition of the church, its basis, object, method and plans. In justice to it and yourself I hope you will publish it. Some of the church members are readers of the Examiner, and they will expect a statement in it from me that will inform all its readers regarding the true nature of the society they are helping to found and organize, and you will do them a great favor by its publication.

Yours Sincerely,
W. H. KERR.

The Church of Humanity.

Written for The Examiner.

The Examiner failed to be true to its name in one instance by giving the Church of Humanity a write-up in its last issue under "An Emissary of the Pope" without a previous careful examination of the subject. Hence a great injustice was done its readers who are founders of the Church of Humanity, and an erroneous opinion of it given those who are not. To correct that injustice as much as possible, which was committed through a misapprehension of the facts, the editor has kindly allowed me to make a statement concerning the church to the readers of The Examiner. They can, after reading, judge for themselves whether or not I am an emissary of the Pope.

I shall first make a general statement as to the conditions that justify the existence of this church, and then give its basis, object, methods and plans for future work as it grows in numbers.

The situation is this: 1. Our entire race is submerged in the idolatry of myths mentally manufactured out of the God-idea. The God-idea is that there is a supreme intelligence of unlimited power and wisdom that knows of and cares for our race in general and each individual in particular. That idea assumes many forms and attributes and attaches itself to both real and imaginary objects. It endows those objects with a desire for our worship, love, praise, fear and obedience, and it, in return for all that, a willingness to aid, love and protect us, give us power to survive death and care for us in another world.

2. The entire world is thoroughly covered with powerful organized societies to perpetuate the God-idea and the fear and worship of the objects to which it is attached. All children born to our race, if they live four years, are taught the God-idea by their idolatrous parents, and then by the various perfected systems of teaching, until all thoroughly believe it, whether or not they be members of an idolatrous society. Thus this false God-idea is perpetuated by the endless-chain process from generation to generation throughout the ages.

The perpetual wars that are supposed to be in the interest of civilization are simply religious wars between idolaters who worship different objects and myths to which they have attached the God-idea, and between different sects over the forms and methods of worshiping the same idol.

3. A very few people, widely scattered, have learned through experience, observation and investigation that the God-idea is a mistake. They have made the grand discoveries that all Gods, Devils and Holy Ghosts are fabulous beings, heaven and hell myths and death the permanent cessation of conscious life. They see the people all around them teaching and practicing idolatry for lack of the knowledge of these discoveries. They deeply deplore that condition, but are utterly helpless to remedy it. They are powerless to save their own posterity from idolatry. They are going down to their graves, taking with them these jewels of truth when they should be given to all our race.

4. In their desperation to avoid that calamity they are uniting under the name "Church of Humanity" to devise ways and means of perpetuating their discoveries and handing them down to posterity, that it may be preserved from idolatry thereby. They recognize the fact that posterity cannot inherit knowledge from ancestors without being taught that knowledge; that individuals die and truths they alone know die with them; that organizations live and perpetuate truths they are founded to promulgate; that truth can only be perpetuated by the same method error is; that truth cannot overcome error unless given equal backing in labor and price.

To sum up in brief: The Church of Humanity is a society of those people who have learned the above discoveries and wish them promulgated, that their posterity may be saved from the worship of a dead man named Jesus and a myth named God. Those discoveries are the basic teaching of this church, and the preservation of the posterity of its members from idolatry the object.

Organization — Having myself made the above discoveries many years ago, and there being no society teaching them, I recognized them as newly-discovered truths of the first magnitude and their preservation by promulgation of the most vital importance. The rescue of our race from idolatry depends entirely on its learning of and understanding these discoveries. It can learn them only through the teaching of an educational society founded for that special purpose. Hence, I am trying to find and unite all those who have made the same discoveries, that they may be enabled thereby to have them taught to others.

The church now has 143 members enrolled. The first 1,000 members will be the founders and charter members of the church. When that number is enrolled I shall call a national delegate convention of the church to formally organize and incorporate it. Each member receives a certificate of graduation in the knowledge of God and life membership in the church. The delegates will take charge of the church at the convention and proceed to organize and incorporate it to suit themselves, as other societies are organized. They will make their constitution, by-laws, rules and regulations to suit themselves.

I shall submit a report to them of all moneys received and disbursed for the church, and hand over all records and other property of the church. My volunteer work and assumed title will be ended and I will have no power or duties except what the convention sees fit to give me, if any. Should the editor of The Examiner unite with the Church and be a delegate from Texas to the convention he would have equal power and opportunity in the convention with myself, should I be a delegate from Kansas. Each state will be represented according to number of members in it. Every state represented by membership will be entitled to one delegate-at-large and one for every twenty-five members and major fraction thereof. The members of each state will elect by ballot delegates to represent them. Members who wish to be delegates will announce their candidacy in the church paper when the time comes. Members will be notified as to the number of delegates their respective state is entitled to and the candidates therein. Their votes will be sent me and announced in the paper. Delegates will be notified by me of their election.

I have outlined plans for church work after organization, but as that will be the subject of decision by the convention I cannot say now if my plans and proposed methods will be adopted or not.

After the incorporation the church work will be guided by the Constitution and By-Laws adopted and the regularly elected officers under them. Until that time comes I, of course, must be guided by my best judgment and the advice of members in the preliminary work of finding and enrolling the first thousand members.

This statement of the conditions that have called the Church of Humanity into existence and the pre-

SHOWING THE GROWTH OF THE CHURCH OF HUMANITY.

CHEER FOR COMRADE FRANTZ.

Comrade J. Frantz, of New York City, continues to order 1,000 copies of our church paper monthly for sale and distribution in the metropolis. He is greatly handicaped by not being able to speak and write English fluently. Were it not for that difficulty his enthusiasm would soon make him a great leader and teacher in the church. He has a fine opportunity in that great cosmopolitan city to build up a powerful church society. He is doing the best he can under the circumstances. In a recent letter he expresses hope of winning some very influential members for the church. I hope he will succeed in securing some able members who will aid him in establishing a great church society there.

The Truth About God

Published monthly by the Church of Humanity.

Teaches the Scientific Discovery that God, Satan and Holy Ghost are Fabulous Beings; that Heaven and Hell are Myths and that Death is the Permanent Cessation of Life.

Subscription 25 cents a year. In bundles to Sunday Schools, Church organizations and church members for free distribution, 1 cent per copy.

Entry at Great Bend postoffice as second-class mail matter applied for.

Remit by postoffice money order, coin or currency. Address all communications and orders to W. H. Kerr, 2210 Broadway, Great Bend, Kansas.

I hope to be able to announce the Heston fund completed next month. Comrades should send in their contributions to it at once.

Wanted—A "Billy Sunday" for the Church of Humanity, to do field work and gather the people into it by the thousands, as he is doing for the idolatrous churches.

Subscribers: Do you believe the truths about God and Jesus Christ taught in this paper? If you do, join the Church of Humanity and let others know you do.

Order one hundred copies monthly for free distribution among your neighbors. Only 25 cents. You should want them to know the truths you do, but you can't afford to talk to one an hour on the subject for that price.

Don't let our membership thermometer freeze up when that of idolatrous churches is rising so fast everywhere. If we do as much hard work and pay as well as Christians do ours will rise, too. Should we not do as much for truth as they do for error?

All the adult members of the Church of Humanity should attend idolatrous churches, and especially their revival meetings, to study the methods of teaching error, and then adopt those methods as far as applicable in teaching the truths of their own church. The truth about God must be taught in the same general way error about Him is taught.

All the teaching and society building that can be done through Mrs. Bliven's proposed "Materialist Association" can be done in and by the Church of Humanity. It is not a division of our forces into numerous societies under different names that is needed, but union of all into one strong, active society. With all who know the truths the Church of Humanity teaches united we can soon employ teachers, when, by trying to establish a number of societies out of material insufficient for one, nothing can be accomplished. Dead paper-societies are worthless. We must have a live, active, building organization or none. Any number of inactive societies cannot save one child from idolatry. The saving of children from idolatry must be our object. All who wish that done should join the Church of Humanity at once.

Wanted—I want all subscribers to THE TRUTH ABOUT GOD who are not members of the Church of Humanity to at once send in their applications for membership if they believe the truths it teaches. There is no way to perpetuate and teach them except by those who believe them uniting in a society. Please read the lesson in this issue under "Evidence Per Se That God Is a Myth Like Santa Claus" and if you believe the sure proof there given then apply at once for membership. Never mind the dollar fee; if you can't well spare it now, you can send it some other time. Your name and number should be on the Roll Book to influence others to believe and accept the truth about God. The rescue of the people from idolatry depends on your action in this matter. The preservation of your posterity from idolatry depends on you doing your duty in joining this society. Do not fail to do it.

We have two new comrades to welcome to membership:

No. 142, J. W. Alexander, Chautauqua, Kan., farmer, American, English, Presbyterian.

No. 143, A. A. Robertson, Marlo, Okla., dentist, American, English, Baptist.

These comrades are not ashamed or afraid to let everybody know they have learned the truth about God. Why should anybody be? You should be ashamed not to know it. You should be ashamed to keep it a secret when you do know it. These great scientific truths taught by the Church of Humanity are the choicest jewels ever discovered. Every one who knows them should be proud of the knowledge and should desire everybody to know they have learned them. These jewels of truth are the only ones that can save people from the idolatry of worshiping idols, such as a dead man named Jesus and a myth named God. People should rejoice when they learn these truths and want everybody to know them. I am glad to welcome these comrades to membership. I hope to have the pleasure of introducing a larger number next month.

liminary work and methods leading up to organization should be clear to all who study them closely.

I am doing the preliminary work of organization free of charge and am paying part of the expenses besides. The church paper is the property of the church. All the subscription and membership receipts are credited to the church, and all necessary expenses are charged to it. The books are free for the inspection of any member. Those who are not members, of course, have no interest in them. The convention will elect the editor for the church paper, and the treasurer and all other officers, who will be subject to the laws adopted.

The convention will have supreme power over everything relating to the church, even to changing its name if it desires. I expect to devote my services free to the church so long as I am able to be of any use to it. After the convention does its work I will be subject to its laws in my relation to the society the same as other members, officers and teachers in it.

I think this covers all the points you seemed to need light on. If, however, there are others I will be pleased to give you all the information I can if you will be so kind as to ask.

International Organizer of the Church of Humanity.

A PETITION.

To President Murray, of the constitutional convention, Guthrie, Okla.

—Dear Sir: Please hand the following petition to the chairman of the standing preamble committee:

To the honorable chairman and members of the preamble committee

—Gentlemen: I, the undersigned, a citizen of Oklahoma and member of the Church of Humanity, having discovered that all Gods, Devils and Holy Ghosts are fabulous beings, heaven and hell myths and death the end of conscious life, respectfully request you to omit all mention of God under any name in the preamble to the constitution for Oklahoma.

(Signed) .....

Church members in Oklahoma and Indian Territory would do well to sign the above petition and mail it to President Murray. On request of the Jews, Jesus Christ was not mentioned in the preamble. "The supreme ruler of the universe" was first inserted. Then a preacher told them that was a concession to atheism and requested they insert "Almighty God" instead, which they did. If, as that preacher believed, atheists are believers in a "supreme ruler of the universe," then, of course, our church is not composed of atheists. I hope none of the members will apply that title or any other to themselves or other members. We are "graduates in the knowledge of God," and that is title enough. The names, God, Deity, Creator, Lord, Heavenly Father, Supreme Being, Grand Architect of the Universe, etc., all mean the same thing—a myth with the God-idea attached.

Of course, your request will not be granted by the committee, but it will put it on record that those great discoveries were made by a few before Oklahoma became a state.

TO THE COMRADES.

Comrades: Let us all take the cue from Comrade Frantz and try to inject some life, energy and enthusiasm into our work all along the line. What he is doing in New York City you, who live in other cities, can do. Why not follow his example? We have members in Cincinnati, St. Louis, Chicago, Topeka, Oklahoma City, Los Angeles, Tacoma, and dozens of smaller cities. Is it not time to begin active work? You must not be dead members as long as you can breathe. Evangelist "Billy" Sunday converted sixty-three to idolatry at Kewanee, Ill., at one meeting on the 24th of January, making three thousand converts at his meetings there. Are you going to let the teachers of error have all the children, including your own? Have you not the ability, wisdom and life necessary to save even your own posterity from idolatry? Come, wake up! Nobody will hurt you if they do find out that you are alive. Don't die until you have to. If you are not able to lecture to the people on the grand discoveries you have made get ready to have a great time when our hired organizer comes to your town. Give me a chance to prepare the people of your town to turn out to hear our lecturers when they have a chance. Let me talk to a thousand of them every month through our church paper, as Comrade Frantz is doing. Then they will turn out to hear our lecturers when they come. I want every comrade to order a thousand copies and sell what they can in cities and distribute the balance free. We have enough members now to support one lecturer to do field work. We want a man who can win people to join a church teaching truth about God as fast as "Billy" Sunday can win them to membership in a church teaching error about him. I am looking around for such a man. Is there one among our comrades who is able to fill the bill? If there is, please let me know at once. No one but a member of our church need apply. His value would depend on his ability to win members to membership. I have been corresponding with Roberts and Wilson on the subject, but they are not far enough advanced in the knowledge of God to do the work we want. Maybe they will get there in time. Comrades, order a large bundle of papers every month and sow them broadcast to prepare your people for our lecturers when they come. Papers in bundles to you for that purpose only 25 cents per 100.

I want to give your Christian neighbors a lecture every month. I can talk to several thousand of them monthly for only $2.50. Why not break the news of our discoveries to them through our church paper?

MEET CONDITIONS, COMRADES.

In organizing to enable us to have our children taught the grand discoveries we have made about God to save them from idolatry we are compelled to meet existing conditions. Those conditions are made by idolaters. They include:

1. The union in one society of all those who wish a certain idea about God promulgated.

2. The payment of a stated annual salary to special teachers set apart for that purpose.

3. The establishment of special educational institutions to prepare those teachers for their duties.

All that requires, in addition, a great deal of free work by both officers and lay members of the societies, as well as the money necessary to carry on their vast educational systems. These are all voluntary conditions idolaters have imposed upon themselves. They find their reward in their children and those of others being taught to worship the same idol in the same way they do.

Before we need begin to hope to have our children taught the discovery that God is a myth, and thereby be saved from idolatry, as we are, we, too, must voluntarily place an equal obligation upon ourselves and find our reward in the saving of our children and those of others from the idolatry of worshiping God and Jesus and all other man-made idols. It will cost us as much in voluntary work and money to have our children taught the truth about God as it costs Christians to have theirs taught errors about him. Then to know what it will cost us we have only to find out what it costs them. To do that, ask any clergyman with an average congregation and salary; then add building of church and parsonage, their repairs, lighting, heating and janitor services. Then divide cost by number of members, after deducting children, women and the very poor

EVIDENCE PER SE THAT GOD IS A MYTH LIKE SANTA CLAUS.

Above the graves of our perished loved ones the Church of Humanity proclaims God a myth.

The God-idea is composed of three imaginary attributes—omnipotence, omniscience and omnipresence — united with the natural moods of our minds—love, pity, sympathy, charity, hate, revenge, jealousy, etc. This composite God-idea is assigned by man to both real and imaginary objects, and then he worships those objects, through fear of punishment or hope of reward, on account of them having these unnatural powers man has arbitrarily assigned them. When we analyze the God-idea we find its three primary constituents—omnipotence, omniscience and omnipresence —purely imaginary qualities. It is positively demonstrated everywhere and all the time that no being in existence has any one of them. No object could be a God without having these three attributes in reality. As those three attributes are purely imaginary no object in the universe has them; hence it is easy to recognize the truth and understand that every God is a creation of fiction. This method of discovering God's mythical nature is so plain to me that I am astonished that editors and readers of non-Christian publications are unable to make the same discovery or to believe that I have made it.

The God-idea has been attached to many thousands of real objects ranging in interest from the tumble-bug to the sun. The worship of those objects was discontinued when the worshipers discovered they did not really possess the attributes assigned them. Many mistake that for the dying of religion and profess to see in it the end of present religions. That is a grave mistake. The God-idea, which is the base of all religious mythologies, was simply transferred to other objects and idolatry went on unchecked. More people worship idols now than ever before because the race is more numerous. Unless the God-idea is rooted out of the mind of our race by the educational process that proves it erroneous idolatry can never be overthrown. The process of switching the God-idea from one object to another, or one myth to another, is gradually going on all the time. People take a renowned character of past ages or a conjured-up myth of the skies and hitch the God-idea to it. Then they have a God to be worshiped and a mission in life to induce other people to worship it. Their own desires are assigned to this creation of fiction until the learner mistakes it for a real being, and its worship by a part of our race goes on for centuries. God is a sample of the creations of fiction to which the God-idea is attached. He is the successor to whom was transferred the God-idea from a number of other myths that were worshiped for ages. Jesus is a sample of the hero to whom the God-idea is attached. Whether he is an historical character or a creation of fiction is immaterial. We know the reason he is worshiped is because to him has been assigned the three primary attributes of the God-idea above referred to. Those attributes being pure myths themselves can endow no object they are assigned to with the least additional power. In this case we see a poor, deluded, ignorant man, who could neither save himself from poverty nor a small mob, magnified, by the attachmen of the God-idea, into a savior of our entire race, if it worships him, from all harm in this life, a safe conductor through the Valley of Death and a constant protector through an endless life beyond. Thus is the power of the God-idea, when attached to a poor, ignorant man who died nearly two thousand years ago, able to put five hundred millions of our race on their knees in his worship. On account of the attachment of that false idea to that poor man tens of thousands of agents are teaching the coming generation to love, praise and worship him under the belief he is loving and caring for them and will continue doing so if he is only worshiped enough.

Thousands of evangelists are going all over the country as agents of Jesus to round up the people, and especially the children, to submit to them the terms of the proposition. Millions of children and young people, with many old ones, are accepting the terms and signing the contracts. The agents sign up for Jesus and the contract is binding for life. The poor, deceived children faithfully perform their part of the contract until death. Their love and worship are turned over to the mythical savior and their money to his agents, who are themselves ignorant of the fraud they are perpetrating.

Nothing in the world can check this endless idolatry of a dead man but an organized society to give the people and especially the children, a continuous course of teaching of the truth that Jesus is simply a dead man like all others, and is, therefore unable to fulfill in the least particular the contracts his agents have made for him. The proof of that fact must be objective, clear, positive and given continuously to checkmate the energy and presistence of the mistaken teachers. No line of evidence can be more convincing that Jesus is unable to perform the part his self-appointed agents promised than the direct proof that he does not. Here is a sample of the direct proof given daily that Jesus can neither care for, nor even know, a single human being who contracted for his services in time of need through his self-appointed agents, regardless of the faithfulness in carrying out the contract on their part. I want all of my readers to study this evidence and understand its meaning in relation to the contract they were led to make under the false teaching that Jesus is a real live being who knows, loves and cares for them and who is able and willing to aid them in time of need if they would love and worship him. I want all to learn that this is positive proof that no such a character as Jesus Christ is in existence and that all contracts and vows made to his mistaken agents to worship him are null and void owing to that discovered fact. When you read similar proof in your daily papers I want you to recognize it at once, without being told, as evidence per se that God and Jesus Christ are creations of fiction. Here is a sample of the evidence you will find in your daily papers that prove positively that God and Jesus Christ are myths:

Coronna, Spain, Dec. 28.—The Spanish steamship Primrose has foundered off the coast. Only one person aboard was rescued.

Bengen, Hesse, Germany, Jan. 5. —Forty workmen buried alive by a cave-in.

Redding, Cal., Jan. 2.—Three little children burned to death in their homes.

Topeka, Kan., Jan. 2.—Thirty people killed and many of them creamated in a train wreck at Volland, Kan.

Manila, Jan. 6.—One hundred people killed by a typhoon on the islands of Leyte and Samar.

Trinidad, Colo., Jan. 23.—Twenty miners were killed as the result of an explosion in the Primero mine.

The Hague, Jan. 22.—Fifteen hundred people reported drowned owing to a tidal wave engulfing some of the Dutch East Indian islands.

Washington, Dec. 31.—Forty passengers killed by a train wreck near Washington, D. C. Many bodies mangled and torn into bits and strewn for half a mile along the track.

Berlin, Jan. 29.—Between 150 and 200 lives lost in the explosion in the Reden mine at St. Johann-on-Saar.

Northampton, Mass., Jan. 29.—Five men killed in a train wreck.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 11.—Forty factory workers drowned by the ice breaking on the Neva river when crossing to work.

Hamburg, Jan. 14.—Twenty-five officers and men were drowned in the wreck of the British ship Pengwern, which went ashore on Scharhorn reef.

Chicago, Jan. 29.—New cases of contagious diseases breaking all records. In the last twenty-four hours there have been 472 new cases: Scarlet fever 407, diphtheria 29, other diseases 27.

San Francisco, Jan. 5.—The steamer City of Panama is reported lost with 116 persons on board.

The first page of the Kansas City Daily World of Jan. 19 reads very much like one of these lessons on proof of God's non-existence. Here are some of the disasters noted by one paper in one day:

Fowler, Ind., Jan. 19.—Great train wreck. Twenty-five persons killed and forty injured, of whom twenty-five will die. Twenty of the dead were cremated. Wreck due to a dense fog.

London, Jan. 19.—Official report from Kingston, Jamacia, says 700 of the 1017 bodies recovered from the ruins caused by the earthquake there have been buried.

Headlines over lesser disasters are: Collision at Sea. Chicago Epidemic. Cloudburst. Bad Freight Wreck. Oregon's Bad Storm. Bad Wreck on Lake Shore. A Great Northern Wreck. Train into a Washout. Locomotive Blows Up. Ohio River Inundates Thousands of Homes, etc.

And so the horrible destruction of life and property goes on unabated regardless of the prayers to God and Jesus to abate it. Tens of thousands of evangelists and hundreds of thousands of priests and preachers are hired by idolaters to proclaim the goodness, love, pity and sympathy of God and Jesus, and of their watchful care over all the people who love and worship them. How absurd such teaching is in the face of this daily proof that proclaims, in the language of universal scientific truth, that no such God and Jesus exist in reality. There certainly was no manifestation of love, pity, sympathy or care for any human being in any of these recorded disasters from unseen beings. Let us who can understand these truths band together in the Church of Humanity to enable us to employ teachers to teach them to our posterity and thereby save it from idolatry. I want all who read this lesson and believe the truths it teaches to let their wisdom be known to others by uniting with the Church of Humanity at once.

Send stamps for sample copies of the following publications and subscribe for those you like best. You may find something in each of them that tends to overthrow the idolatry of a myth named God and a dead man named Jesus, and aid you in preparing for graduation in the knowledge of God and membership in the Church of Humanity:

The Truth Seeker, 62 Vesey St., New York City.
Blue Grass Blade, Lexington, Ky.
The Searchlight, Waco, Tex.
Higher Science, Los Angeles, Cal.
The Humanitarian Review, Los Angeles, Cal.
Ingersoll Beacon, Chicago, Ill.
Liberal Review, Chicago, Ill.
To-Morrow Magazine, Chicago, Ill.
The People's Press, Chicago, Ill.

Comrades, let us all chip in and finish up the Heston fund. Then all hands join the two church committees and boost the circulation of TRUTH ABOUT GOD and the membership thermometer. Let us all work and push with life and energy the building of our church, as the Christians do theirs, and we will be as enthusiastic and happy as any Christian who ever worshiped a myth-God and a dead man.

men and you will have the money cost to the average paying man.

The Christian churches of this city are doubtless average models upon which to estimate the money cost to us of society building and maintenance. In this city—of about 3,500 population—there are ten Christian sects represented by organized societies. To take three of the most prosperous ones, which we should ever pattern after, the cost of their educational work is as follows:

Methodist, 300 members; clergyman $1,100.

Congregational, 250 members; clergyman $1,200.

Presbyterian, 150 members; clergyman $1,000.

Parsonages are furnished free to all. Marriages, funerals and other special services are paid for in addition. Lighting, heating and janitor work make a heavy additional cost. Their auxiliary societies for young people, such as Sunday schools, Epworth League and Endeavor societies, require much money for literature. There is a great deal of work done free by the members as officers and teachers of the several societies in building up and maintaining them. Women and young people of course constitute a large majority of these educational societies and do the bulk of the free work. But the active, paying men form the main organization of the church and put up the principal part of the money to finance it. Most of the money given by women and children is, of course, furnished them by the husband and father for that purpose.

Besides these heavy fixed expenses, the donations for general educational work, such as home and foreign missions and special revivals, are quite heavy. For instance, a Methodist missionary from the Philippines was given $143.00 by the Methodists, one evening recently, to aid in erecting a home and mission there for a resident Methodist missionary. About the same time they raised $90.00 to pay for the services of an evangelist for a week or so. This is the pace set by the teachers of error about God all over the world, in city, village and rural communities.

Can we, Comrades, take that pace? Can we stand that financial drain? Can we do the necessary free work in forming educational societies? Have we got the legislative, judicial and executive ability within our ranks required in society building? If we cannot match idolaters in these respects, man for man, then are our children and all our posterity doomed to perpetual idolatry. If we cannot do as much for truth as idolaters do for error we can never successfully compete with them for the education of our own posterity concerning God.

On our answer to this question depends whether our posterity is to remain in idolatry indefinitely or be rescued and preserved from it. Our answer depends altogether on the value we place on our children's freedom from idolatry. If we place a less value on it than idolaters do on making them idolaters, then our children are lost to idolatry. If we place an equal or greater value on it, then we will save them by using the necessary time and money in building up the society machinery to accomplish it.

Now, Comrades, place a higher value on the preservation of your posterity from idolatry than idolaters do on making them idolaters and use it in the upbuilding of our common church so it can do the required teaching.

To begin with, make a New Year's resolution that you will aid your church as much during 1907 as the average Christian aids his. Then carry it out by joining the Publicity Committee of our church and order a bundle of 100 copies to be sent you monthly for free distribution. A special rate to that committee is ¼c per copy for bundles of 10 or any multiple of it. Then join the Booster Committee that is to boost the thermometer of membership to the 1,000 mark by January 1, 1908. Their duty will be to pick out ten or more persons whom they think will unite with the church and urge them by letters and literature to do so during 1907. Send me their addresses, so I can aid in teaching them their duty. People will do nothing to save their children from idolatry until they are taught what to do and how to do it. Our comrades should begin doing their duty in that matter.

Now, Comrades, let us, each and all, make that resolution to aid our church as much as active Christians aid their's. Let us begin that aid by being members of the above-named committees and see if we can raise that thermometer to the 1,000 mark by January 1, 1908. A long pull and a strong pull and a pull all together, and we will reach the goal.

SPIRITUALISM.

The following letter is in answer to one (too long to reproduce) from a Spiritualist.

Great Bend, Kan., Dec. 16, 1906.

Allie Lindsay-Lynch,

6901 Stewart Ave., Chicago, Ill.:

Friend: Yours of the 1st and 2d, with other matter inclosed, at hand in due time, but have been too busy to answer such a big letter. May get to answer it only partially now. But as far as I go I hope to answer it truly from the standpoint of my knowledge, which, of course, you desire. The answers may be short, and disconnected in relation, as I shall note briefly, as I come to them, answers and remarks on the points of most interest.

1. In your writings immortality is your primary subject for teaching and God's mythical nature secondary. The first overshadows the latter so much that it receives little or no attention except what you attribute to Mr. Lincoln, and then no proof is offered. The overthrow of idolatry depends on the teaching of the latter subject principally. As I am mostly interested in that great task I devote less time and space to the subject of the termination of life at death. At the same time, I wish to know and teach the truth about it. Knowing I have found that conscious life ends at death I teach that truth. I am always open to consider new evidence against my teaching, but must continue that teaching until I have evidence enough to convince me I am wrong.

2. Lincoln's message. So long as I am editor of TRUTH ABOUT GOD its columns will be perfectly open and free for the publication of anything Mr. Lincoln, or anyone else who has "passed over," or any God idolaters claim exists, desires to say to the public. There is only one little condition, which no one should object to, which I shall require of all, and that is that they deliver their message for publication direct to me. You cannot justly object to that requirement, and so, please, inform Mr. Lincoln and your other "guides" as to the terms on which they can place any message they desire before the public. Christians can make known these terms to their idols, whom they believe hear every word they say.

3. Messages from the unseen. Why should the clergy pay any attention to your alleged message from "Uncle Abe" affirming there is no God when they have an entire Bible they believe to be a message from that denied God? You can see your untenable position. If "Uncle Abe" is able to communicate with you and tell you what to write the Christians will be still more convinced that their "Supreme Being" is able to dictate a whole book and knock "Uncle Abe" out of business. Why, Christians assure me that God walks and talks with them as confidently as you do that your "guides" talk to you. How can you disprove their assertions without weakening your own? Have they not more witnesses to prove their claims than you have yours? The facts are both Christians and Spiritualists are mistaken in regard to the source of their hallucinations regarding voices from a "spirit world." They must all seek another solution for the phenomena. They will find the cause in their own mentality instead of in that of other beings. I inclose a statement of John A. Chandler regarding his "X-faculty," as he calls it, which enables him to write what he calls "Graphic Automatism." It is not credited by him to either God or spirits. You may find the key to the solution of your imaginary guides in this phenomenon. Of course, I believe you honest and sincere. So I do the Christians. But you see honesty and sincerity are no sure protection against error. Such people can be mistaken as well as others. Some people even believe their own spoken words are the voices of the dead speaking through them and take that as positive proof of immortality. In a long letter from Mr. Geo. Vale, of Mound, Minn., is this statement: "Infidels have been demanding positive evidence of a future life. Here is proof which you may test for yourself. No mortal ever thinks in words, but what he believes to be his thoughts in words are but the voices of the dead. This is known to many persons." Is not that a great mistake? If that theory is true it proves all animals to be immortal, as the crowing of the rooster, the barking of the dog, braying of the donkey, bellowing of the bull, etc., would be but the noise of their dead ancestors. I inclose another clipping wherein "spirits" are alleged to have advised a lady to buy stock. You can see by it how people are fooled by knaves in the name and guise of Spiritualism. Does not that prove it to be as fraudulent as the God-dea? It appears to me to be very much like the theological idea of a God and a Devil guiding men's thoughts. They attribute my thoughts and work to the Devil and that of an idolater to a God, Jesus, or Holy Ghost. You can see that they are mistaken. More study will convince you Spiritualism is a mistake also. Perhaps you would find the solution to your imaginary "guides" in the teaching of Prof. C. F. Eldredge, of Kansas City, Mo., who explains to or teaches people how to see and hear things without laying it to either God, Devil or spirits. I inclose a letter from him. You might do well to ask him to explain your experience with "Uncle Abe's" spirit.

4. Aphorisms. Your aphorisms on the envelope and letter-head do not teach the discovery that God is a myth. Idolaters use them all except it be the one referring to evolution, and many idolaters accept that now.

5. Diamonds. I gave you that story as I read it in an article describing the discovery and do not vouch for its truthfulness. But you must know people place no value on things they are not taught has any value.

6. Prejudice. Of course, I have not the least bit of prejudice against you or Spiritualism. But I cannot teach immortality when I know we cannot survive death with consciousness.

7. The Truth About God. All who claim to have known the discovery that God is a myth before the Church of Humanity began teaching it learned it without aid from it. But see how very few know that truth. Not in all the world is there a society organized to teach it. Those who claim now to have known that truth before I was born did not place any value on it. They did not think they had discovered a truth worth teaching. They made no effort to teach it or to build up an educational organization to perpetuate the discovery and hand it down to posterity. They were perfectly willing to die without proclaiming that truth to the world and making arrangements to have it promulgated. People who "discovered" the choicest jewel in the galaxy of discoveries and recognized no value in it did not discover its value, and, as far as the world is benefited by it, they did no good by discovering that truth. Those people who are now afraid or ashamed to unite with the Church of Humanity to promulgate that discovery are in a very poor position to claim any share in any honors that may be hereafter due on account of it. Neither Paine nor Ingersoll knew that God is a myth. If Mr. Paine is in a conscious state, as you affirm, and can tell you there is no God, please request him, for me, to see the publishers of his works and have them revised, wherein he teaches Deism, to conform to the facts he now knows, or, better still, tell him to come and see me and I will make my suggestions direct to him. I believe you are making a big mistake in claiming to get your wisdom from "spirits" of dead people. You should try to learn that your thoughts are produced by your own organism. Idolaters can beat you at that game. They affirm their wisdom comes from God, and that he is the creator and ruler of the universe; hence, is mightier than any little human spirits. You can see how they are

This Church invites all who wish the people freed from idolatry to unite with it.

VOL. 2, No. 3. GREAT BEND, KANSAS, MARCH, 1907. WHOLE No. 15.

The Founding of the Church of Humanity.

The name, "Church of Humanity," is the society name of the union of all those people who have learned, or may hereafter learn, the two great modern discoveries of God's mythical nature and conscious life ending at death.

All idolatrous societies are based on mistakes regarding these two subjects. Hence their inability to teach them, from motives of self-preservation, even were they known by a few of their members and teachers. It is a great mistake for anyone to ask or expect them to do it. It is a greater mistake for those who know these truths to wait in expectation and hope of them doing so. They cannot allow non-members to come in and destroy them by proving their foundation false. All such societies are compelled to turn out their own members who learn these truths and attempt to teach them. It therefore follows that their brightest members in the study of their teachings learn these truths, and the most conscientious of that class must resign, backslide or be expelled. By this process those societies are losing a few of their best class of members in two respects.

All who are not church members are considered by all churches as common subjects for "conversion." Yet a few of them have also learned the discoveries taught by the Church of Humanity and are not really subjects for "conversion" to idolatry. Both classes entertain false hopes. The ex-church members hope their former idolatrous comrades will learn the truths they have and leave the societies. The other class hopes non-church members will learn the truths they know and not unite with idolatrous societies. Those hopes could never be realized under present conditions, for hopes are worthless without the necessary action to fulfill them. Individually they could do nothing to impart their knowledge of these truths to others. Without the machinery of organized society they could not help to hire it done. By both classes uniting, as they are now doing under the society name, "Church of Humanity," they will be able to have their knowledge imparted to others, and the hopes of both classes will soon begin to be realized. There are now 163 members enrolled in the Church of Humanity, and the two classes are about equally represented, there being seventy-four former church members to eighty-nine who were not.

All the leading idolatrous churches have contributed a portion of the ex-idolaters. They all gave up their former society name and relations to adopt the new one. A few of those who never joined any idolatrous societies have adopted the various names of Atheists, Infidels, Agnostics, Materialists, Liberals, Rationalists, Freethinkers, Secularists, etc. They drop all these various names in this new alignment for the one common to all—Church of Humanity. There are good reasons for this course. As only a very small percent of those who left idolatrous churches did so from a full knowledge of the truths this church teaches, likewise only a very few, so far, of those answering to the various titles and names above know these truths. Hence the necessity for this new society alignment and name, as no other name represented those who know these newly discovered truths. This is the common society in which to meet for those of all other societies, both idolatrous and non-idolatrous, who have learned the discoveries that God is a myth and death the end of conscious life. No other society ever knew these discoveries, hence, of course, could not teach them. No other society can help to free people from idolatry since the teaching of these discoveries is the only thing that can do that. People are beginning to recognize that fact more clearly, and those who have loved ones they wish saved from idolatry and others who care for the general uplifting of our race, are turning to the Church of Humanity in greatly increasing numbers for a realization of their hopes and desires. The enrolled membership is now 163. Sixteen applications for membership were sent in during February. It gives me great pleasure to have such a big list of new comrades to introduce to the church society. The comrades will all be glad to see so many new names and will give them a hearty welcome.

Since last report the following comrades sent in their applications for membership and were issued certificates of graduation in the knowledge of God and life membership in the Church of Humanity, making them founders and charter members of it:

144. J. W. Gilbert, Friend, Neb., 66, farmer, American, Presbyterian.

145. Boris Deutsch, 373 Broadway, New York, 18, printer, Jewish, none.

146. Henry Marcus, 45 Essex street, New York, 19, Jeweler, Jew, none.

147. Bruno Lehmann, 746 Jackson avenue, New York, 27, cook, German, Catholic.

148. G. F. Green, Osceola, Mo., 53, carpenter, American, none.

149. I. M. Macomber, Lennox, S. D., 75, retired druggist, American, none.

150. B. E. Stewart, Greenup, Ky., 30, printer, American, Methodist.

151. Sam Rosen, 228 Henry street, New York, 23, shipping clerk, Hebrew, none.

152. John M. Carlton, Gadsden, Ala., barber, American, none.

153. D. C. Glissman, Great Bend, Kan., 46, cabinet maker, German, Lutheran.

154. Henry Crouse, Moab, Utah, 72, gardener, American, none.

155. Nick Pescool, Marysville, Mont., 36, hotel keeper, American, Catholic.

156. George W. Padbury, Marysville, Mont., 48, J. P. & P. M., English, Church of England.

157. James M. Sanford, Fairfield, Neb., 70, manager insurance company, American, Evangelical.

158. Mrs. Anna C. Sanford, Fairfield, Neb., housekeeper, American, Catholic.

159. George M. Collier, Moultrieville, S. C., soldier, American, none.

160. James Adams, Moultrieville, S. C., 58, tailor, American, Catholic.

161. T. C. Brassell, M. D., Cost, Tex., 49, physician, American, none.

162. J. P. Hansen, Fairfield, Wash., 56, farmer, Swede, Lutheran.

163. Frank Forsland, Fairfield, Wash., 56, farmer Swede, Lutheran.

On behalf of the church, I welcome our new comrades to membership, fellowship and friendship in this society. May each have a long life and enjoy a full measure of health, happiness and prosperity. May each be able to do much for the upbuilding of our common church. May each live model lives and be daily object lessons to idolaters that it is not necessary to be idolaters and worship myth Gods and to believe the error about continued life to be good citizens. I am proud of these noble comrades. Their occupations show them to be honorable citizens. This is the best evidence that can possibly be given idolaters that the teaching of evangelists is a mistake in many vital respects. They will know from this object lesson that there is no such thing as a God to strike people dead for affirming there is none, as evangelists teach.

They will know from observing these comrades that people will not degenerate into criminals when they learn there is no God and no life beyond the grave, as all evangelists say they would do. These comrades furnish practical objective proof that literally upsets all theological theories in regard to the totally depraved nature of man, that would make him a criminal were it not for his fear of God and a future hell. Here are people engaged in all the worthy occupations of life, fulfilling the requirements of good citizenship who know there is no God to fear and no future life to hope for, who know hell and heaven are myths and are not influenced in the least by a hope of reward or fear of punishment in a future life.

Some Christians have told me they would take a delight in committing crimes if they believed as I do. But, knowing their natures better than they themselves do, I am not alarmed in the least over their confession. I shall do all in my power to teach them the discoveries I have made to make them eligible to membership in the Church of Humanity. I guarantee that the members of the Church of Humanity will be as good citizens as the same number of members in any idolatrous church. Why should they not be? Does not a knowledge of the truths of nature tend to promote civilization? Who is more wicked since learning the grand truths of astronomy, geology and all the natural sciences? A very few centuries ago the people believed and the clergy taught that a knowledge of those truths acquired by the com-

See the thermometer climb! Keep it going. It is the only road that leads out of idolatry.

Take a bundle of papers monthly and pass them around to relatives, friends, neighbors and everybody. Only 25c per 100.

I want every subscriber who has not done so to send me his or her membership application at once. Don't delay. Do it now.

* * *

Our special work is organization. But we can't organize until we find and enroll enough who want it to justify it. If you want organization send in your application for membership.

* * *

We can't drive idolaters away from the worship of their idols. No one should try it. We must lead them away by example. Get into the Church of Humanity and help to make it so attractive that Christians will leave all other churches to come to ours.

* * *

Don't think for a moment France is doing anything to check idolatry. The trouble there is simply between different sects over the facilities and advantages of worshiping the same myth. Neither of the parties to the fuss knows the discoveries the Church of Humanity teaches.

* * *

Christians can't believe we have really made the discoveries we have. They swear Jesus Christ does love them and that He and God are watching over them and protecting them from all harm in return for their worship and the work and money given in their service. When they get mashed up in a wreck, torn to pieces in a mine explosion, burned up in a fire, frozen to death, starved to death, destroyed by earthquake, contagious disease, cyclones and scores of other ways, then they—well they can't tell us they guess they were mistaken, but the Church of Humanity knew they were all the time just the same.

* * *

An old lady friend of mine told me she would be afraid to teach her children there was no God, as I do mine, for fear God would strike her down. Poor old lady. She could not comprehend the difference between us. She could not comprehend the truth that there is really and truly no God to strike any one down. She thinks I am teaching what I believe to be false, as she would be did she do it before she learned the truth. Did any one teach what I am doing before they learned it themselves, they would be teaching what they believed to be lies, while I have a clear conscience that I am doing right because I know the discoveries I teach to be true. The old ladies in every neighborhood will have their belief in the stories of evangelists about God "striking people down" badly shattered when they see our church members teaching these truths all around them and prospering as well as the idolaters. Nothing can prove to them those stories are false except the actual test and objective proof the Church of Humanity is giving them. Hence the importance of all readers who believe the teaching uniting with the church.

THE PROCESSION OF PLANETS.

"The Procession of Planets," by Franklin H. Heald, editor of Higher Science, Los Angeles, Calif., has been received and read with interest. It is a cloth-bound book of 188 pages, giving Comrade Heald's theory of the automatic, self-regulating, perpetual motion arrangement of the universe whereby it can get along without the services of a God to wind it up. Those interested in the fascinating study of the various theories advanced to explain the natural forces operating the universe of suns and planets would do well to look into this one. The price of the book is $2.50 and can be obtained by addressing the author.

GOD MAKERS! LOOK OUT FOR THEM!

Many idolaters are so hungry for a God that when it is demonstrated to them that every God concocted so far is a myth, they take refuge in concocting one of their own and hitching it to some real attribute of mind, or power in nature, that we all admit exists, and then declare they have demonstrated the existence of God. I have a number of letters on file from such God-makers. Some name the specific attribute or power they refer to and some do not. They have hitched the God-idea to love, goodness, reason, etc., as an illustration of trying to make out that man is God or at least a part of him is. Others hitch the God-idea to electricity, magnetism, gravity, etc., in their desperation to find a basis for believing in the existence of God so they will not appear to be so foolish as to believe in the existence of a being without a basis for that belief. I warn everybody to promptly turn down all such would-be God-makers as being just as foolish as the idolaters who worship the Bible myth-God, or a purely imaginary one of their own concoction.

The following card just received is an illustration of the dire straits some people are reduced to in their desperation to retain the God-idea as a sensible thing to do:

"Boulder, Colo., March 3, 1907.—Can't sign your creed exactly. There is a power which is ourselves—and more. We use it now and shall use it everlastingly, increasing it by use. If people had been conscious of this, had known themselves, and had called this used and unused power God (instead of making a funny little God for Sunday), I should not be fussing. ANNA FERGUSON."

In the first place I have no "creed" for anybody to sign. The real truths about things are not creeds. Creeds consist of belief in and teaching of errors. To believe and teach that 2x2 equals 4, that water runs down grade, that the earth is round, that fire burns, that ice is cold, etc., is not teaching creeds. Likewise teaching and believing the new discoveries that God is a myth and life ends at death is not teaching and believing creeds, but absolute truths. Now your conjured-up God, which consists of "a power which is ourselves—and more," is not God at all, but a creation of your own imagination. All the powers, singly or combined, within ourselves are not God. All the powers outside of ourselves, singly or combined, are not God. Both the powers of ourselves and those outside of ourselves combined are not God. The discovery that Gods are creations of fiction enables all who know it to detect a God-maker instantly.

This lady is an amateur God-maker, but I promptly detect her delusion and reject her product as quickly as I do that of those professional God-makers who make "a funny little God for Sunday." I warn all to be on their guard against modern God-makers, and hand them this truth by which they can instantly detect them, viz., God is a fabulous being.

WANTED! AN ARTIST.

I am so encouraged by the large number of new comrades from all quarters that I will add a new feature to the teaching if I can find the right party to produce it at a price that I can consider. I will have the lesson on the proof of no God illustrated by a picture of the greatest disaster to human life each month. Artists will please read the lesson in this copy under "Evidence per se That God Is a Myth Like Santa Claus," and learn from it the kind of an illustration wanted. I shall note here the principal features I wish brought out in detail:

1. Plainly show people, especially women and children, where any were killed, so situated that death was inevitable.

2. Represent a few, by words, calling on God, Jesus Christ and Holy Mary for aid.

3. Represent by name the different idolatrous churches of which a few are members.

4. Show a few able-bodied men at a safe distance praying to God for aid.

5. Show others working desperately to save the imperiled.

6. Show some caring for the dead and injured.

7. Show some being held back from certain death, who wish to try to rescue loved ones, though at the cost of sure death to themselves.

8. Show some imaginary ghosts in the attitude of idleness and indifference and name them God, Jesus Christ, and other worshiped idols.

It will not be possible to have all these features every time, but all applicable to each particular disaster should be used.

The artist is to be a member of the Church of Humanity in order to have a full knowledge of the illustration wanted and be in sympathy with the teaching it is to bring out. He should make a specialty of finding and reading the full details of all disasters to life from every cause as given in the daily press. He is to take the greatest one that happens in all the world each month, and, after studying it in detail, make the picture as true to the actual facts as possible, to enable the above features, or some of them, to be brought out. If any of our comrades are able to do this work, I ask them to please report by return mail. I ask our comrades to send me the address of any artist they may know, able to do the work wanted. Artists will please send me samples of their work along this line if they have any.

Applicants for membership must fill out in full the application blank themselves and write to me that I may be convinced they fully comprehend and believe the discoveries that God is a myth and life ended at death before they can be received and certificate issued them.

Wm. R. Adams Hooker, Okla.—"Please find 25 cents for 100 copies of TRUTH ABOUT GOD."

EVIDENCE PER SE THAT GOD IS A MYTH LIKE SANTA CLAUS.

Above the graves of our perished loved ones the Church of Humanity proclaims God a myth.

All people, our loved ones included, who worship any God, or voluntarily contribute to the teaching and support of such worship, must be classed as heathens, idolaters and pagans. These names are not given them through disrespect or contempt, but to express a truth revealed by the discovery that God is a myth.

Webster defines "idolater" in two definitions to be "one who worships as a deity that which is not God; a pagan." Since the discovery is positively made that no thing in the universe is God, the worship of any thing is the worship of "that which is not God." Hence all worshipers come under the above definitions. Christians speak of Oriental people with great contempt, as being heathens, idolaters and pagans, because they worship "that which is not God," not knowing that they themselves are doing the same thing and belong to the same class. Those Asiatic people do not know they are worshiping "that which is not God" any more than Christians do in their worship. It would not better matters in the least were the two sets of idolaters to swap idols, or both sets worship the same idol. They would still be subject to the same definitions—heathens, idolaters and pagans.

Webster defines heathen as: "A pagan; an idolater." In the light of the new discovery that there is no such a thing as a God all those definitions are applicable to Christians. The definitions also apply to those who do not worship "the true God." But since the discovery that there is no "true God" to worship, the definition cannot apply to those who have learned that discovery. Dictionaries are changed from time to time to conform to new discoveries and new alignments of the people. The discoveries made and taught by the Church of Humanity will necessitate many new changes in dictionaries.

I ask Christians to remember when they see the name heathen, idolater or pagan applied to them in this paper that it is used to describe those who worship "that which is not God," according to Webster, and not as an expression of contempt or abuse. I want you Christians to learn the discovery that there is no such thing as a real God in existence, that you may cease worshiping "that which is not God" and thereby free yourselves from the application of the above names. I submit to your calm consideration and unbiased judgment the following positive proof that the God and Jesus Christ you worship are purely creations of fiction, having not the slightest existence whatever. These imaginary beings you have endowed with unlimited power and wisdom, and a deep feeling of love, pity and sympathy for man. This evidence shows beyond doubt that no care, love, pity, sympathy or aid is ever extended to man from unseen beings in the slightest degree and that therefore such beings do not exist in reality, but are only creations of fiction like Santa Claus. In this evidence the horrible, shocking details of appalling life-extinguishing disasters must be omitted for lack of room. You will read them in the daily papers you take and I refer you to them for the details of the pitiful suffering of the victims in many cases:

Montreal, Feb. 27.—In a fire which destroyed the Hochelega Protestant school, in the east end of the city, the woman principal and sixteen children lost their lives.

St. Paul, Feb. 13.—Thirty-one dead bodies, from freezing, have been brought into the various towns of the northwest.

La Crosse, Wis., Feb. 25.—Three killed and three fatally injured in a train wreck on the St. Paul road.

London, Feb. 25.—Two hundred persons were killed by a cyclone that struck southern points of the Philippine islands.

Hamburg, March 5.—Eleven seamen drowned in a collision between two steamers.

Hong Kong, Jan. 28.—One hundred Chinese are reported dead as a result of a terrific rainstorm.

Centropolis, Kan., Feb. 8.—Mrs. Frank Schmeck and her two children were found dead in bed with their throats horribly cut.

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 26.—A little 5-year-old girl killed by a street car.

Buffalo, Jan. 28.—Three firemen killed.

Sacramento, Feb. 8.—Seven people drowned.

Chicago, Jan. 30.—One death every ten minutes from contagious diseases sweeping the city.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 12.—Forty men killed and scores injured by an explosion in the mines at Bakhmut today.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Feb. 9.—Eight miners killed by suffocation from a fire in the mines near here.

Chicago, Jan. 28.—Four men killed by a tank explosion.

Freeport, Ill., Feb. 8.—Three killed in a train wreck.

Bismark, N. D., Feb. 5.—A mother and five children frozen to death at Goodrich.

Copenhagen, Denmark, Feb. 23.—Eighteen seamen drowned.

Toronto, Ont., Feb. 27.—Three passengers killed in a train wreck.

Algeciras, March 4.—Eighty-five persons have been buried by a landslide near Sedrata. Fifteen square miles of earth gave way.

Elkins, W. Va., Feb. 5.—Thirty miners entombed as a result of an explosion in mine 25 of the Davis Coal company, and cannot be rescued alive.

Thurmond, W. Va., Jan. 30.—Seventy-nine miners killed by an explosion in the Stewart mine.

Hook of Holland, Feb. 21.—In a fearful southwest gale, while a hundred-mile-an-hour hurricane was blowing, a tremendous sea was running and the weather was bitter cold, the Harwich-Rotterdam passenger and mail steamer Berlin was wrecked off this promontory at 5 o'clock this morning. One hundred and twenty passengers and a crew of sixty were on board. Only one man reached shore alive.

Providence, R. I., Feb. 12.—In a collision between the steamer Larchmont and the schooner Harry Knowlton, off Quanochontaug beach, Block island, the former was sunk and 130 of the passengers and crew perished by drowning and freezing. One of the survivors, Mrs. Harris Feldman, says she saw "those people swept off into the ice-cold sea with prayers on their lips."

This evidence is conclusive that we have been worshiping "that which is not God," because there is nothing in the universe that is God. This evidence demonstrates that fact as plainly as any fact can be demonstrated. It is a short cut to the truth about God. We can all learn and understand this evidence alike when we understand how to apply it to the God-idea. It can be easily taught to children so they can understand it. We no longer have to wade through tons of literature in search of the truth concerning God and then fail to find it. The daily newspapers will give us that truth and the evidence to prove it. We must organize and employ teachers to teach the people the meaning of this evidence and its relation to the God-idea. Let us all stop being heathens, idolaters and pagans. Let us cease forever the worship of fable-made Gods. Let us be civilized. This is the twentieth century and we live in America. Why should we worship the Asiatic myths imported by our ignorant ancestors in past centuries? We have discarded about all their ideas and methods in most everything else for those of our own to our great advantage. Let us now discard their ignorance of God and accept the new discoveries of Americans regarding God and life. This lesson teaches us that no unseen being exists that answers to the characters named God and Jesus Christ. There was not the slightest manifestation of any of the attributes assigned them, such as love, pity, sympathy for our race or any member of it. We know by the absence of an active manifestation of those qualities that the beings to which they are assigned are fabulous beings.

There was no God or Christ caring for the fate of any of these people who perished; hence there is none caring for us. Those people, being as good as we are demonstrate by their fate that truth. Since there is no God or Christ to care for our lives, there can be none to care anything about what we believe and teach. Then let us accept the truth and teach it. There is no God to object to, or care what we do.

Since the last lesson was sent out, twenty have accepted the truth and sent in their applications for membership. I believe all subscribers who read this lesson, and are not yet members of the Church of Humanity, should send in their applications at once. Women and children can not found this new church. Men must found it for them. Men, help to found a church based on truth for them. Please send in your application for membership at once.

THE CHURCH OF HUMANITY NOT ATHEISTICAL.

I ask my comrades to not answer to the name "Atheist" nor to call our church an "Atheist" church. The name doesn't represent us. No man that the title was ever given to knew the truths we do, nor had any idea of doing what we are doing and purpose doing. As an illustration of my meaning, I give the case of Mr. Hugh O. Pentecost. He was called an Atheist. The Truth Seeker says:

"His religious views were those of Atheism and Materialism."

Reading some of his lectures, as reported in the Truth Seeker, I thought possibly he was far enough advanced in the knowledge of God to be eligible to membership in the Church of Humanity and I wrote inviting him to join it if he was and take a commission as state instructor for New York. In regard to it he replied:

"I am not interested in the Church of Humanity, nor do I desire to undertake a commission as state instructor of New York. This latter position I would be wholly incompetent to fill, as I know nothing whatever about God. I do not know that he is even a myth, and am entirely unacquainted with any facts about Satan and the Holy Ghost. So far as I know they may be real beings or myths, and, besides, I find too much to do on this earth to bother my head about anything before or after or off the earth."

This shows that Mr. Pentecost, although being called an Atheist, had not gotten in sight of the truths taught by the Church of Humanity nor had the least comprehension of the vital importance of their teaching.

SPIRITUALISM.

You can see how they are honestly mistaken in their belief. I can see that you are honestly mistaken in yours. If I am mistaken in my teaching I, too, am honestly mistaken, but I base the evidence of the truth I teach on objective facts that all can see when they are pointed out to them.

8. Thinking. Man and all animals I have observed think, and it is a mistake to say they do not. Of course, they do not all think the same thoughts. They also reason, but, of course, not about the same things, nor do they arrive at the same conclusions. But where facts are recognized by man and are provable, such as the mythical nature of God and the termination of life at death, all can arrive at the same conclusion when they are convinced by proof of the facts. They must be taught that evidence, though.

9. Inspiration. The truths of Nature are learned and discovered through the scientific method, viz.: experience, observation and investigation. People can be inspired to that task through a desire to know, praise, honor, etc. But truths are not given by such inspiration as meaning knowledge given to man from "Gods" and "spirits." Such alleged "truths of inspiration" have always turned out to be errors. Hence no one should place any reliance on such alleged "revelations through inspiration."

10. Hypnotism. I do not believe there is much, if anything, in the allegations that people are "converted" to the practice of idolatry by that means. They are taught to believe certain things and to do certain things by a system of teaching until they believe from evidence and act from a sense of duty. They, like a jury, having an opportunity to hear only one side, must of necessity believe it. They do not have an opportunity to hear the rebuttal evidence and teaching that would prevent them from becoming idolaters through the preponderance of evidence. The Church of Humanity is to furnish them that opportunity and that preponderance of evidence that will save them from a wrong decision through lack of evidence. Why not be one of its founders and charter members? Do you not want the people taught the truths that will save them from idolatry? Why not aid in the founding of a society to do it?

Well, I must soon close and not half of your letter reviewed. But it was all read over two or three times, and these answers and comments cover the main subjects.

I sent you my photo' because I had some handy and I saw your picture on some of your literature. I do not deserve all the flattery you give me, and, as you read this letter of disagreement with your views you will think so, too, and take it all back.

I give you credit for honesty and a noble desire to help and benefit humanity. Hope you will concede the same to me. You would not wish me to agree with you if I had to be a hypocrite to do it and pretend to believe what I do not. I, too, was born in Illinois, but was raised in Missouri and, therefore, have to be shown. I will, however, believe anything and everything when evidence to me proves it true. I would rejoice to know I could meet and recognize my loved ones after death, but as that is an utter impossibility I must be reconciled to the fate that awaits me. Their bodies, which I loved, are decomposed. Their brains, that produced thoughts of love for me, are dead. Their minds ceased at the death of their brains. Their lives were extinguished forever then. That is what constituted death. They did not know that they died, nor when, nor that they are dead now. Only the living can know those things. It is an inexorable truth in Nature. Our desires and hopes and fears can never change it. It is inevitable. I am perfectly happy in the knowledge of that truth, since it would be folly to not be.

Life, with all of its vicissitudes, appears more grandly beautiful with eternal unconscious oblivion in contrast, as is eternity before this momentary transit of conscious life. The teaching of, and knowing, the simple truth that death is the termination forever of conscious life will have a manyfold more civilizing effect on our race than the error of belief in continuous conscious life. The value of life itself will be enhanced many hundred per cent. When this great truth is known by all, wars will cease, because no one knowing this truth will volunteer to throw the only life he can ever have away on a battle-field. People will value this life too highly to sacrifice it for nothing in a war that will have to be settled by arbitration in the end. That will force the settlement of disputes by arbitration before instead of after a war. Selfishness alone will conquer war because people will not sacrifice their dearest possession, life, when its value is increased a million times by the knowledge that this earthly life is all they can ever have, and that it will be terminated forever at death. Yes, indeed, "the pen is mightier than the sword," because through the false teaching of the pen it has kept the sword employed since its invention. But when all pens teach the grand discovered truths that Gods are myths and death ends life they will put the swords out of business for want of willing victims.

I must now close. Wishing you a full measure of health, happiness and prosperity, I remain

Yours sincerely,

W. H. KERR.

THE FOUNDING OF THE CHURCH OF HUMANITY.

mon people would make savages of them. Just the reverse has been true to a great extent. A knowledge of those sciences has uplifted our race from the savagery of burning witches, heretics and scientists, and made it possible for me to announce and teach the greatest of all scientific discoveries—the mythical nature of God and the end of life at death. Were it not for the general intelligence of the people I would be burned at the stake before twenty-four hours for proclaiming these grand discovered truths. The discoveries that Bruno taught, for which he was burned only a little over three hundred years ago, were insignificant compared with those I teach. Idolatry survived the discoveries taught by Burno and many greater discoveries made since, but it can not possibly survive the discoveries I teach when they become generally understood and accepted. No sane person will worship a God when he learns positively there is no such a being. No sane person will pray to a dead man for aid when he knows that that man really died and will forever stay dead. The Church of Humanity is just what every idolatrous church needs as an object lesson to observe how people will act when they learn the discoveries that there is no God and no future life. They will not believe it possible for people to act sane and be good citizens who learn these discoveries until they see them with their own eyes doing it. Hence the importance of all who have knowledge of these truths proclaiming it publicly by uniting with the Church of Humanity. Nobody will believe you know then until you do. No one can aid in the rescue of people from idolatry unless they learn these discoveries and proclaim their knowledge through membership in this church—that is being established to teach them. I am personally thankful to our new comrades for sending in their applications in time to be recorded in this issue. I earnestly urge all the subscribers who are not members to study the lesson in this issue on the evidence of no God, and if they believe it true to send in their applications for membership at once. Never mind the fee now if you can't well spare it. It can be sent later.

COMRADES' COLUMN.

John M. Carlton, Gadsden, Ala.—"Please find inclosed money order for membership in Church of Humanity."

C. M. Dyer, 124 Sangamon street, Chicago.—"Inclosed find 25 cents. Please send 100 copies per month until I order otherwise."

C. W. Robbins, Danbury, Conn.—"I inclose money order for $1. Please send me 100 copies monthly. When this is used up, I shall send more."

P. C. Hansen, Greenleaf, Kan.—"Find check inclosed for $1.55—$1 for Mrs. Heston and 55 cents for renewal and a bundle of papers monthly."

John Hirt, 730 Clinton street, Cincinnati, O.—"I inclose money order for $5.00, to pay for 100 copies monthly for 12 months, $3.00, and the rest is for the Heston fund."

G. M. Collier, Fort Moultrie, S. C.—"Enclosed find application of my friend, Mr. James Adams. He has just returned from New York today, and requested me to send his application at once."

J. M. Sanford, Fairfield, Neb.—"Inclosed please find $4.25—$1.25 for five subscriptions to addresses given, $2 for life membership for myself and wife and $1 for a monthly bundle of papers."

G. F. Green, Osceola, Mo.—"Your letter and certificate of membership in the Church of Humanity at hand. The certificate is pretty and I am proud of it. I believe, as you say, our posterity will be proud of us in time to come."

J. R. Miller, Carl Junction, Mo.—"Enclosed find one dollar for Mrs. Heston and one dollar to be used in sending sample copies to enclosed list. Here at home I am distributing my books and getting the people ready for the truth."

E. M. Thompson, Gonzales, Tex.—"Inclosed find 30 cents for bundle of papers monthly, also an application for membership in the Church of Humanity, which I have been authorized to send you, for one of the best citizens in Gonzales county, Tex., Dr. J. C. Brassell, of Cost, Texas."

Received just before going to press four membership applications from Comrade J. Frantz, the local organizer for New York city. He continues his order for 1,000 copies of TRUTH ABOUT GOD. I ask subscribers and comrades in New York and Brooklyn to co-operate with him in the work of establishing a church society there. The first requisite is church members. One hundred should be secured before a society is attempted. See him at 119 East 116th street, New York.

J. M. Gilbert, Friend, Neb.—I inclose $5 for Mrs. Heston, $1 for membership in Church of Humanity and 25 cents for subscription to TRUTH ABOUT GOD. My parents were Liberals. They are both buried in the Gilbert cemetery on this farm. Inscribed on their monuments at father's request is this verse:

"Think of a peace of fifty years;
Of lives devoid of hellish fears.
Died without fear of God or Ghosts,
Or heaven or hell with all their hosts."

Adam Bashore, Brewster, Neb.—"Find inclosed $1 for the Heston fund. Have received the January TRUTH ABOUT GOD and note the membership in Church of Humanity is 141 and no "trials for heresy" yet. I hope there never will be except for obstinate idolatry. With best wishes for your success in the Church of Humanity." (Funny if we should have to try a member on the charge of idolatry and have to turn him out on that account while other churches are turning out their members for refusing to be idolaters! In that case I would propose to the idolatrous church that we swap members without either party going to the expense of a trial.—Ed.)

James Gaston, Cripple Creek, Col.—"Inclosed find $1 for a bundle of forty copies, monthly, as long as it will pay for, and 25 cents for the Widow Heston fund. Did it ever occur to you that Kansas holds the most unique position of any state in the Union? It is near its geographical center and has taken a very prominent part in three of the greatest revolutions of modern times—the freedom of the chattel slave, the fight now on for the freedom of the industrial slave, by the Appeal to Reason, Girard, Kan., and now comes Great Bend, last but not least, in a world's fight for liberation and freedom from superstition and the idolatry of a mythical God that never existed." (I can do nothing without the aid of my comrades in all states. With their hearty co-operation in this great work our combined influence will be felt in time.—Ed.)

The Founding of the Church of Humanity.

THE IDEAL CHURCH

In founding the Church of Humanity in the beautiful morning of the Twentieth Century we should seek to make it an ideal church. To do that the principal features of the organization must be planned in advance, as a carpenter would plan a building. The people who are to found the church and compose its organic structure should be familiar with the plans in detail and approve them in order to insure harmony and co-operation among the builders. Otherwise it would be like a house built by a thousand "boss carpenters" where no one knew the plans of the others at the beginning nor approved them or worked in harmony with them when known later.

In successful society building as in house building there must first be a demand for the structure. Then the structure must be reared in the minds of the architects as an ideal to meet that demand, and specifications formulated and approved before active work can commence to give it material form.

As my comrades in the church are joint-architects and builders of it with myself they should have an opportunity to give the specifications of what they conceive to be an ideal church that will fulfill all the demands and requirements they desire in such society. I shall set apart a half-page for the use of my comrades in giving their specifications for an ideal church. Then, as only one set of specifications can be adopted, the various plans will have to be modified and merged into one composite ideal that will come nearest pleasing all. It is self-evident that my comrades base their objections to other churches on their fundamental teaching and are forever lost to those churches, as it is impossible for them to change those fundamentals except through necessity of self-preservation through the influence of a rival church. My comrades who never before united with any church could find none that came up to their ideal, else they would have joined them. Those who did were forced out through learning the new discoveries that conflicted with their church teaching. To idolaters an ideal church is one that teaches their children and others to believe in and worship their idols by their methods. To those who have learned the discoveries that Gods are myths and life ceases at death a change in church ideals is imperative to make them conform to these new-found truths. As existing churches cannot be changed to meet the requirements of the new ideal, a new church must be established that will. That church must rescue and preserve people from idolatry and the delusion of continued individual life by teaching them the evidence that proves God a myth and continuous life an error. That ideal is realized in the Church of Humanity and is materializing by increasing membership as an international church. But the time is not far off when our growing membership will enable the church to put paid workers in the field to organize local churches for our comrades, and increase our number faster. The symposium on "The Ideal Church" by the comrades as suggested is to enable us to outline a uniform plan for the establishment of local churches by our field organizer when one is secured.

I shall specify the leading features necessary to constitute an ideal local church that I believe would fill the bill for me. My comrades can indorse it, add to or omit features to make it conform to their ideal church as their judgment suggests.

1. The local church must have the same base and object as the parent, or national, church and be under the supervision of the authorities created by its constitution and by-laws to insure uniformity of structure, teaching and methods among all local churches.

2. Instructor. A Local Instructor should be employed on a yearly salary to conduct the meetings.

(a) Qualifications of Instructor. He should be a graduate in a five years' course of study in the preparatory college of the church and have a commission as Local Instructor for the church.

(b) Duties of Local Instructor: His duties would be to teach the people the proof of the truth discovered by the church, build up its membership, organize the various auxiliary societies for children and young people, teach the latest developments and discoveries in the natural sciences, aid the various committees in their special tasks, conduct the funeral services of the dead, teach good moral ethics by precept and example, and make himself generally useful and indispensable to the church organization that employs him.

3. Library. A free circulating library of church literature, including the best works on the natural sciences and biblical criticism.

4. Entertainments. Vocal and instrumental music and illustrated lectures by specialists in amusements and experts in the arts and sciences suitable for instruction to the old or innocent fun for the young.

That, in brief, is my idea of an ideal church society. Each local church organization will, of course, own its own building and finance its own affairs through its elected officers. I ask the comrades to send in a brief statement of your ideas of an ideal church. If you indorse my ideal church say so. If you have thought out a better ideal give it. If you wish to make any changes in mine—add to or eliminate—mention them. I shall place two columns at your disposal for that subject.

I have thought all along that we should find 1,000 people eligible for membership and get them enrolled and organized and incorporated as a national organization with a constitution and by-laws before we put out field workers to build up local churches. The field organizers should have that backing in advance and have definite rules to work by. But if there are not 1,000 people who know the discoveries taught by this church we may have to put out field workers to assist in teaching more people these truths in order to get the required number to organize.

Sixteen applications for membership were sent in during February and seven so far in March, besides six applications sent in from New York, which have not yet been accepted, owing to defects in the applications. I have sent new blanks to the applicants with instructions and hope they will be properly filled out and returned. A number of others have written for blank applications. I hope to have a much larger number of new comrades to introduce to the society next month.

The following comrades have united with the church since the March report and it gives me pleasure to introduce them:

164. Geo. B. Savage, Aguanga, Cal., 63, cattle and bee farmer, American, English, none.

165. G. W. Gann, Denton, Tex., 71, retired attorney, American, English, none.

166. Martin Dennie, 209 E. 89th street, New York, humorist and comedian, French, French-German, English.

I welcome these comrades to our church and hope they will all live to see it organized and making better progress in its mission of saving people from idolatry.

I want all who read this appeal for help to build an ideal church who are not members of any, on account of none coming up to their ideal, to join the Church of Humanity and help in the founding of an ideal twentieth century church.

The time has now come when all abuse of the people for being idolaters should cease, and in its place an educational society be established to teach them the necessary truth that will cause them to cease idolatry. All abuse of idolatrous churches in Freethought publications should cease forever and the abusers devote their time and space to the upbuilding of an ideal church that will teach the truths they think a church should teach. That is the only wise and sensible course to take. My comrades have taken that course and all the subscribers who know the truth about God and life termination should follow their example and join the Church of Humanity at once.

SHOWING THE GROWTH OF THE CHURCH OF HUMANITY.

When the Church of Humanity gets a large enough membership to enable it to employ field workers, its teaching will spread like wild-fire and its membership increase rapidly. Thousands are about ready to give up idolatry if they have the moral support and backing of a strong organization and able advocates in reach to defend their move in their own neighborhood. It takes a great deal of nerve to do right where all are doing wrong. They need, and must have, the moral support of organization and able defenders to give them the required moral courage and nerve to give up idolatry and to let their neighbors know they have done so.

The Truth About God

Published monthly by the Church of Humanity.

Teaches the Scientific Discovery that God, Satan and Holy Ghost are Fabulous Beings; that Heaven and Hell are Myths and that Death is the Permanent Cessation of Life.

Subscription 25 cents a year. In bundles to Sunday Schools, Church organizations and church members for free distribution, 1 cent per copy.

Entry at Great Bend postoffice as second-class mail matter applied for.

Remit by postoffice money order, coin or currency. Address all communications and orders to W. H. Kerr, 2210 Broadway, Great Bend, Kansas.

The truth about God will cure idolatry. Take a dose yourself and recommend it to your neighbors.

Love your enemies enough to rejoice to know that hell is a myth so they will not be made to suffer in it.

All editors and authors of publications that will teach the discoveries that God is a myth and conscious life ends at death can have free membership in the Church of Humanity by sending in their applications. Their work proves their knowledge and sincerity and pays the bill.

Just Received 500 paper mailing tubes from Chicago to send certificates in to keep them nice for framing. If any of the comrades have a mutilated certificate unsuitable for framing, I shall send them a duplicate free on application by returning the old one.

I ask all the readers of this paper who are ready to graduate in the knowledge of God through learning that He is a myth to please send in their applications for their graduation certificate at once.

The Church of Humanity is making interesting history for future generations. Comrades, and subscribers who have not graduated yet, can make that history many times more interesting by all doing your duty as I point it out to you. Our church paper is placed on file monthly by two State Historical Societies—those of Kansas and Colorado—at Topeka and Denver. Let your part in this grand work be great, as it will be recorded there and be read with intense interest by your posterity hundreds of years hence.

THE BLANK APPLICATION.

Comrade J. Frantz thinks he could get more applicants for membership if they were not required to answer the questions in the blank application. I have given my reasons for that requirement before, but will give them again, for the benefit of new members and subscribers.

It is very important that this brief record of each of the founders of the Church of Humanity be kept in full, for future reference, to head off adverse criticism of idolaters.

The first 1,000 members are to be known as the original discoverers of God's mythical nature and of life cessation at death, and the founders and charter members of this church, by which those truths are to be taught to the people. I am, therefore, more particular to have this record of the founders in full than I would be after the first 1,000 members are secured. I shall give briefly the reasons for correct answers to each question.

1. Address. Of course that must be given in full so I can correspond with them, send them the church paper and notify them when we have the required number for organization. Then I want the Christians to know that all our members are genuine and can be verified by any one.

2. Age. That will prevent any assertion that all the founders are children and do not know what they are doing.

3. Sex. The name generally denotes the sex. It is easier though to keep a record of the sex of the founders and the proportion of each by having the question answered.

4. Occupation. The answers to that question will forestall any assertion that the founders are a lot of worthless vagabonds and outcasts. They prove the intelligence, good citizenship and respectability of the members.

5. Nationality. The answers to this question will prevent the assertion of idolaters that the Church of Humanity is founded by foreign heathens who never heard of "Christ, and Him crucified." It proves the founders to be citizens of the most enlightened countries.

6. Language. So far all the members know the English language and I hope the first 1,000 will all understand it so they can aid in the organization as delegates from the various states if elected by their comrades. But it is contemplated to accept people of all languages and this record gives them a chance to know comrades who can speak their language, and form local societies in large cities.

7. Previous Church. This is a very important question. By having the answers to it no idolatrous church can claim that its particular creed and style of idolatry are unknown to all the founders of the Church of Humanity. The answers show that nearly half my comrades were once members of the various idolatrous churches, and, therefore, knew all about their belief and teaching.

This brief biography of each founder of the church is transcribed in the church roll book as a permanent record. I deem it of such importance that I must insist on it. There is no question that anyone should be ashamed or afraid to answer.

The dollar fee is to show good faith in the applicant. It goes into the church treasury to help to pay for stationery used in church work.

COMRADES' COLUMN.

J. C. Cramer, 724 E. Mansfield street, Bucyrus, O.: "Yours of the 13th ult. received and contents noted, and I herewith hand you $1 as membership fee in the Church of Humanity. I also enclose application. I think the invention of the Christian God the most horrible crime ever committed by man." [The Church of Humanity will, in time, stop the creations of Gods and overthrow the idolatry of those created by our ignorant ancestors. All who wish that job done should follow your example to give it the necessary strength.—Ed.]

G. W. Gann, Denton, Tex.: "Firmly believing there is no God I desire membership in the Church of Humanity, for which inclosed find application and money order for $1. Never belonged to any church. Was a Deist till 34. Never believed in the Divinity of Christ or Bible." [Comrade Gann is 71 years old. This move proves the adage, "one is never too old to do good." Hurry up, you younger readers, with your applications for membership so we can organize while this comrade is living and able to help us.—Ed.]

G. M. Collier, Fort Moultrie, S. C.: "Enclosed find $1.25 to pay for membership and the TRUTH ABOUT GOD for my friend, Mr. Adams. Please send his certificate to him at once and place his name on the sub list so he will get the paper without delay. I received my certificate and am highly pleased with it. Will be in a position to help you in your good work soon."

E. M. Thompson, Gonzales, Tex.: "Our school trustee wants Bible reading, Lord's prayer and sacred hymns in our school. I had a talk with our teacher on the subject and she said she belonged to a Christian denomination, but before she would teach it in a public school she would resign. She is an excellent teacher and all but one of the patrons and the trustee signed a petition in favor of employing her another year. I have three children, all boys. The oldest one is 10. He does not go to Sundayschool, but the children all like him. When they try to persuade him to go he knows how to excuse himself. He says he is going to be a worker for the Church of Humanity." [Right now is the time to begin. You can explain to him that God is a myth, and what a myth is, and what death means. Then he will be eligible to membership in the Church of Humanity and you can apply for membership for him. He will then know the truth about those two great questions, which is something that President Roosevelt and all the rulers of nations don't know nor are likely to learn. We will welcome our little friend to membership as willingly as we do the older comrades. I hope the church will some day be able to put a thousand such boys into its preparatory college, where they can be prepared and qualified for instructors in the church to enable them to go forth and rescue the people from idolatry.—Ed.]

Martin Denni, 209 E. 89th street, New York: "Enclosed find $1.25 for membership and subscription. Please send me a few copies each month. I am a member of the German Freethinker Club in Milwaukee. I am also an agent of the German Freethought paper of Chicago. Kindly send me the address of Comrade J. Frantz, of New York." [Comrade Denni is a French and German humorist and comedian. It will seem strange to those idolaters who think they would be despondent enough to commit suicide if they knew their idols were only myths to know of a man who knows that fact and is engaged in this business.—Ed.]

Sem Zieferblot, 147 Essex street, New York: "Please send me 500 copies of TRUTH ABOUT GOD." [I wish all the comrades would send in for a bundle like that each month. Why not? It would cost only $1.25 for them. You never can expect to have your neighbors taught these great discoveries cheaper than that. Why not take advantage of this opportunity?—Ed.]

AN IDEAL CHURCH.

In the Truth Seeker of March 9th is a brief account of the People's Church at Aurora, Illinois, of which it remarks: "An ideal independent church, we should say, and one deserving success."

But it is not an ideal twentieth century church, as my comrades will admit, when they learn that "neither acceptance nor rejection of any theological doctrine is a condition of membership" and "Liberal religious books, recommended by the minister, Mr. J. M. A. Spence, are kept on sale." "Every Sunday the membership book is open for signatures; all who sign it are welcomed to fellowship and become members without further ceremony. Non-residents, on payment of two dollars, will have their names entered on the membership roll, and will receive literature from time to time, including the weekly program." All of which means that, instead of being "converted" to idolatry before joining a church, you are here invited to join first and the conversion will be attended to afterwards. That is indicated by their teaching from "Liberal religious books." Thomas Paine's imaginary "Creator," in whose defense he wrote "The Age of Reason," will be accepted as a reality and worshiped in place of the Bible. Jehovah and His hope of immortality will be instilled and his fallacious evidence of it accepted as sound reasoning and proof. Look out for God-creators under the name of "People's church" or "Independent" church! We must reject their Gods created by "Liberal religious books" as quickly as we would those Gods created by un-"Liberal" religious books.

It is impossible for me to reconcile the Truth Seeker's statement that this is "an ideal church" and "one deserving success" with the editor's claim of knowing and teaching that God is a myth and death the end of conscious life. Here is a church that does not know those greatest of all discovered truths, but teaches the same untruths that form the base of all idolatrous societies on earth, and my friend Macdonald calls it an ideal church. No church can be an ideal one for us that does not have for its object the direct rescue and preservation of the people from idolatry. No church can do that unless based on those two discovered truths and make a specialty of their teaching and their knowledge and acceptance a condition of membership.

EVIDENCE PER SE THAT GOD IS A MYTH LIKE SANTA CLAUS.

Above the graves of our perished loved ones the Church of Humanity proclaims God a myth.

The Church of Humanity is to be the true missionary church of the world. All missionary work, done by other churches, has to be done over again, owning to the fact that they have not learned the truth about their own idols whose worship they teach "the heathen" to adopt instead of continuing the worship of the idols of their ancestors. But the Church of Humanity will have a great advantage over the Christian missionaries. It will not be so difficult to shake a people loose from the worship of a new and strange idol as from one worshiped by their ancestors for ages. When we get to them with our field workers, as we will in time, we will soon knock the idolatry of a strange dead man and a new creation of fiction out of them. But missionary work, like charity, should begin at home. So, for a good while yet, we will devote our attention to the home folks. We believe parents, brothers and sisters, other relatives, friends and neighbors are more dear to us than people of a foreign land, and to them our first labor is due. It is often amusing, though, to note how this labor of love is appreciated by the recipients. A mother will refuse to read or hear our new-found truth, saying it is the work of the Devil. A brother will throw the message into the fire through fear of a God striking him dead should he remove the wrapper and peep in. A sister will hide it from her husband through fear of it upsetting his morals. A friend declares that if he believed as I do he would commit every crime in the list of crimes and wind up by committing suicide. A neighbor solemnly warns me that a general acceptance by the people of what I teach would reverse the wheels of progress, overthrow civilization and cause a general retrogression of our race to ancient heathenism. The idea that our race is so highly civilized and enlightened that it could not possibly survive two more scientific discoveries is laughably ridiculous. Why, bless the timid people, a general knowledge of these truths, taught by the Church of Humanity, will forever prevent the worst thing feared—reversion of our race to barbarism. The objectionable doings of barbarians and heathens are mostly due to their belief in and worship of Gods. When people learn there is no such a being as a God it will then forever be impossible to revert to idolatry. Learning these truths leads out of heathenism and not into it, as suspected by idolaters. The same objections are doubtlessly made by worshipers of other idols to the strange teaching of Christian missionaries. But whoever heard of one of them ceasing his teaching on that account? Why should they expect me to cease my teaching on account of their absurd fears and predictions? I am just as sure they will be benefited by learning the truths I have discovered as they are that Asiatics and Africans will be by accepting their idols as objects of worship. I know of no good reason why the teachers of truth should not be as persistent, patient, and steadfast as the teachers of error. How else can truth win and overcome error? After all, are not the truths of Nature more desirable than errors, and should we not all rejoice to see them win? Is not our advancing civilization due to a general acceptance of the discovered truths of Nature? Is not this proof that the discovery and acceptance of more truths will still farther advance it? It most certainly is.

Now the two greatest discoveries made in historic times have been made, and are being taught, by the Church of Humanity. Those discoveries, when they are generally known and accepted, will do more to advance civilization than all other discoveries combined. The most distinctively heathenish ignorance and practices clinging to our civilization are the beliefs in and worship of Gods, and the belief in continuous individual life and the worship of dead people. The general acceptance of the discovery that all Gods are myths will stop forever the practice of worshiping them, and the acceptance of the discovery that conscious life ceases at death will stop forever the practice of worshiping dead people. Thus will a general knowledge and acceptance of these two discovered truths stop idolatry forever on this planet. Instead of that being a condition of heathenism, as my Christian friends fear, it is discarding heathenism and advancing to higher planes of wisdom and civilization.

In order to make it possible for the people to accept these new-found truths they must be won from idolatry of Gods and dead people by teaching them objective lessons that they can easily comprehend, and those lessons must prove to them, beyond the shadow of a doubt, that no God or dead person knows anything about them. They cling to God and Jesus Christ because they believe they are doing something of value for them. But when they learn the truth, that they are not, they will be in a receptive frame of mind to receive the discoveries that God and Jesus Christ are simply creations of fiction like Santa Claus.

Life itself is more valuable by far than all else a Christian has. When it comes to a test between their lives and all else they generally choose life. They will abandon all their wealth, no matter how great it is, and their dearest relatives and friends to cling to life. If it can be proven, then, that there is no God nor Christ caring for their lives, their dearest possession, then it is clear that no such beings are caring for the things of less value. How could a God or a Christ care for your crops, business, belief, morals, health, or anything else of interest to you when it is demonstrated every moment that no such beings are caring for your life, which is your dearest possession. To prove to you that your life is not cared for by such beings it is only necessary to prove to you that the lives of your comrades, who are as good and as worthy of such care as you are, are not cared for. Those comrades believed the same errors you do, and while living would have sworn their lives were protected by a God and a Christ. But in the following disasters their mistake is proven. While they can not be benefited by this test of the truth of their belief we who are living can be. We can learn from their practical test that no such beings as God and Christ are in existence, and that will cause us to cease their worship and the false teaching that there are such beings. It will enable us to teach our children the truth about them and thus save the children from the idolatry of a myth named God and a dead man named Jesus. It will enable all who can comprehend these truths to unite in the Church of Humanity and help to devise ways and means of perpetuating and spreading these new discoveries. Here are the practical tests that prove there is no God nor Christ in existence to know or care for our lives.

Naples, March 7.—Twenty-nine bodies have been washed ashore at Castellamare and more are coming ashore hourly. They are believed to be those of passengers and crew of the British steamship Malaga, which recently foundered. It is not known how many were lost.

Fort Williams, Ont., March 12.—Five persons were killed in a wreck of a colonist train here today as a result of a furious snowstorm.

Berlin, March 16.—The explosion of air damp in a mine at Kleinrosselen, in Loraine, caused the death of 65 miners. The same day an elevator in a mine at St. John dropped 1,000 feet, killing 22 occupants of the cage.

Washington, Jan. 28.—Reports from American representatives in China state that the famine there is the worst in 40 years, and was caused by excessive rains that flooded large districts and destroyed the crops. Ten million people are suffering and four million actually starving.

Harbin, Manchuria, March 19.—Seventeen persons killed in a train wreck at Turushiohe station.

Copenhagen, March 19. — The Viking was blown over in a storm in the yards today and fifty of the workmen aboard drowned.

Steubenville, O., March 17.—Ten members of two families were drowned in the flood at Mingo Junction.

Joplin, Mo., March 13.—An eleven-year-old boy, while flying a kite, fell into a mine shaft 130 feet deep and was instantly killed.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 13.—Three killed in a train wreck caused by excessive rains, a 5-year-old boy drowned in Millvale, and two boatmen drowned.

Toulon, France, March 12.—An explosion in the powder magazine of the battleship Jena today resulted in the death of between 100 and 200 men.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 15.—As a result of the great flood in the Ohio river valley, seventy-six people have lost their lives by drowning and fire.

Wheeling, W. Va., March 16.—At least seven persons perished in a fire, which has added terror to the flood.

Excepting the starving Chinese, these perished people were all Christians, believed in the Christian mythology and its idols. They were sure their lives had always been protected by a God, Christ, Holy Mary, saints and other imaginary spooks. For that imaginary service from said spooks they felt under the deepest obligations to them, and many felt it their duty to reward them in thanks and praises, and in fervent prayers asked for a continuation of their services.

From this supreme and final test that they now have given us we know positively they were mistaken all the time and that no such spooks really existed and that their lives were at no time protected by unseen beings. By observing these demonstrated facts we are able to learn the truth that God is only a creation of fiction, like Santa Claus. The knowledge of that truth will save us from idolatry and advance all who learn it farther along the road of civilization. This lesson ought to convince many of its readers that it is true. Those who are convinced should unite with the Church of Humanity without delay. You should let others know you have learned it. You can't help others to learn it unless you do. People cannot be driven out of idolatry. They must be led out. Those who want them out must themselves take the lead. It is teaching by example they need. Set them a good example by accepting the truths taught in this lesson and prove to them you have accepted them by sending in your application for membership in the only society in the world that knows them and teaches them.

A few people are strong enough morally to stand the new discoveries that God is a creation of fiction like Satan, heaven a myth like hell and that life ends forever at death. Those few must unite to form the leaven that is to leaven the whole lump of idolatry.

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE CHURCH OF HUMANITY.

Comrades:—The overthrow of idolatry can be accomplished only by teaching the people the two greatest discoveries ever made—God's mythical nature and life termination at death—taught by the Church of Humanity. You are the church. That teaching depends entirely on you. No one can aid in that teaching but those who know those truths. You are the only ones found so far who know them. I want each of you to aid to the best of your ability in that teaching. You can do that most effectively and cheaply by distributing your church paper. Its circulation is only 4,000 now. I want you to put it to 10,000 at once. It is the only way we can find more comrades to increase our church membership. We all want to see it grow. The papers are so cheap to you in bundles—only 25 cents per 100 copies—that the poorest of you can take 50 copies monthly, which will cost you only 12½ cents. The next abler ones can take 100 copies monthly—only 25 cents. Others can take even hundreds, up to 1,000 copies, monthly. Order the bundle monthly for a year. Pay some down and the balance monthly, or at your convenience, so that you keep up with the payments as papers are received. A boy can sell some of the papers for you in cities, enough to pay for his time, and distribute the balance. Religious publications are bought in bulk this way by religious societies and distributed free. They increase their membership in that way. We must follow their example in propagating the truth our church teaches and in gaining numbers thereby.

Twenty million dollars have been given monthly for the last fifteen months by American millionaires for charitable and educational purposes. A very large proportion of it went to religious societies and institutions to propagate their error. Our church would have gotten a share of the money from the non-religious donors had we a large membership to be benefited by it, and an organization with responsible boards of directors to have administered it. Let us push our propaganda to the uttermost of our abilities so our membership will increase and enable us to organize and get into a position to use large sums of money, then we will get donations, too.

Comrades, please help in this great educational work by ordering as large a bundle of your church papers, monthly, as possible. I will look, and hope, for each of you to respond to this appeal with an order at once.

FAIR WARNING.

Better send in that membership application now and avoid the rush. The first 1,000 members are to have the honor of being the original discoverers of the basic truth taught by the Church of Humanity. There will be a big rush near the last to get in for a share of that honor. Their applications will be recorded in the order received. I predict that many will come in by telephone and telegraph near the last, so anxious will some become to share in this great honor that will make them famous for centuries as the discoverers of such great vital truths in Nature and the founders and charter members of the Church of Humanity, through which they are to be made known to the world. Only 1,000 members are reserved for that purpose. When they are taken the organizing convention will be called. Only those holding numbers less than 1,001 can take part in that convention. I wish to give all fair notice and fair warning. Then if they miss this great opportunity it will be their own fault.

STATE ROLL CALL.

In calling for those who have made the grand discoveries that God is a myth and life ends at death, in order to form an educational organization of them to enable them to teach those new-found truths to posterity that it may be saved from idolatry thereby, thirty-two states have responded with a number of such discoverers as follows:

Kansas	27
Iowa	11
New York, Ohio, Illinois, Texas, each	10
Arkansas	9
Missouri	8
Washington, Kentucky, each	7
Indiana	6
Montana, Pennsylvania, each	5
Arizona	4
Alabama, Colorado, New Jersey, each	3
Maryland, Minnesota, South Carolina, Tennessee, Wisconsin, each	2
Connecticut, Idaho, Massachusetts, Michigan, North Dakota, South Dakota, West Virginia, Hawaii, each	1

Subscribers: You see how many your state lacks of being up to progressive Kansas. You can overtake her and put another state in the lead of the procession if you will send in your applications for membership. Why not? Maybe the Kansas subscribers would not let any state get ahead of theirs, but you can make it mighty interesting for them to hold their position. You have an equal chance with Kansas subscribers to put your state at the head of the list.

By these figures you can know how many delegates to the organizing convention your state is entitled to so far. The more members your state has, the more delegates it will be entitled to in that convention. You should see to it that your state is well represented by helping to increase its membership.

There are seventeen states and territories not yet represented by membership in the Church of Humanity. Who will be the first to represent them? This roll call by states will be kept standing and the increase in membership of each state added monthly. Let us see which state will increase the most in the next issue. Let all hands, comrades and subscribers, see what they can do to give their state a good showing in this friendly rivalry.

You can't save your children from idolatry unless you are saved yourself. You are not saved from idolatry unless you know the truths taught by the Church of Humanity, but are simply a waiting subject for the services of an idolatrous evangelist. If you know those truths get into the Church of Humanity and get your children in. That will be a public notice that you and they are no longer waiting subjects for idolatrous evangelists.

THE CHURCH OF HUMANITY WANTS THEM.

The Truth Seeker of February 9th says, on page 85, first column:

"We have had many letters from clergymen who have outgrown their creed inquiring if the Liberals had an organization which could put men onto platforms whereon they could tell the truth and still get bread and butter for their families."

Just the men we are looking for! Send them here! Who are they? Please give me their addresses at once so I can correspond with them with a view to arranging for their immediate employment. Clergymen wanting to "tell the truth" and can't get employment! Shame! Scandalous! Outrageous! Are people really totally depraved that they will employ only clergymen who will tell untruths? Will they refuse "bread and butter" to those clergymen who know the truth and desire to tell it? Do they bribe clergymen to tell untruths with "bread and butter"? Monstrous! Disgraceful to all parties! To the people for offering a bribe for such wickedness; to the clergymen for accepting a bribe for such a purpose; to the "Liberals" for refusing to organize to give truth-telling clergymen employment!

Who are the "Liberals"? Why don't they organize so they can employ those clergymen? Are they the contributors to Freethought publications who abuse women and children for believing the untruths taught by clergymen who are bribed for that purpose? Where are their women and children? Are they included with the ones abused? Would "Liberals" rather abuse their wives and children, mother, brothers and sisters for believing untruths than organize to enable them to give "bread and butter" to some one to tell them the truth? Is abuse cheaper than "bread and butter"? Shame, everlasting shame on such "Liberals," who are liberal in nothing but abuse of helpless women and children! There must be two classes of "Liberals." One class, who send their wives and children to idolatrous churches and let other parties pay the bills while they write to Freethought publications, telling how much wiser they are than the weakminded men, silly women and undeveloped children who believe in Gods, Devils and ghosts; and another class, who believe the proper way to do is to organize and hire teachers to tell the truth to their loved ones to save them from idolatry and the abuse of the other class of "Liberals." Are you, reader, a "Liberal"? If so, to which class do you belong? If to the former class you should change over to the latter class without delay. Don't you want people to know the truth about God and death? Why abuse them if you don't? Why abuse them if you do? How can they learn the truth when given only an opportunity to learn error? Stop abusing them, join the latter class and then both classes unite with the Church of Humanity and help to furnish bread and butter to teachers while they teach the people the truth about God and the cessation of life. Would not that be the better plan? Would it not accomplish results, easier, sooner and more pleasant for all parties? Would you not rather give a few dollars to have the truth taught to your mother, brothers, and sisters than to abuse them for not knowing it? Would it not be better for all Liberals to join the Church of Humanity, which will put them in a position to hire people willing to teach the truth to their families, than to have them forever depend on the teachers of untruth? I think it would. My comrades think it would. We all invite you to come. We will all extend to you the glad hand of welcome. Let your answer be an application for membership.

The Truth Seeker, continuing, says:

"They were ready and anxious to desert the church as soon as they could see their way clear to maintain their families."

What a shame and disgrace that those clergymen are compelled to continue teaching untruths knowingly because those claiming to want the truth taught will not unite to enable them to give them employment! I ask the editors of all non-idolatrous publications to make a specialty of teaching their subscribers the discoveries that there is no such a being as a God in the universe and that life ceases at death. Make them eligible to membership in the Church of Humanity and then unite with it, urge the subscribers to do likewise and help to organize it. Help to put your subscribers in a position to hire people willing and able to teach their families the truth.

A JOKE ON THE POPE.

The Great Bend Tribune contained the following recently:

"About the latest joke is one sprung by some man in Texas who has read W. H. Kerr's paper and who says that Kerr is an emissary of the Pope."

Now, if the joke is not on the Pope it must be on the man who reads our church paper and is stupid enough to believe its editor is employed by the Pope. Of course, I would be greatly pleased to get a commission from the Pope to teach the Catholics in America the discoveries that God is a myth and life ended at death. But, as I am no more likely to get such a commission from that source to teach those truths than from "the man in the moon," I shall proceed to teach them without it, and the records in our Church Roll Book show that some Catholics are learning them, too.

Thousands of idolaters are watching our membership thermometer to see how many there are who believe the discoveries that God is a myth and life ended at death. They will be profoundly impressed by the increasing number of people who believe them as there indicated. Hundreds of millions of people can never believe it possible that these discoveries are true unless they absolutely know they are believed by many other people. Joining the Church of Humanity is the only possible way you can let the people know you believe these discoveries true. The greatest act you can do then to rescue the people from idolatry is to let them know the truths you have learned by uniting with the Church of Humanity and helping to place its publication in circulation.

Devoted to teaching the Discovery that God is a Myth, like Santa Claus.

This Church invites all who wish the people freed from idolatry to unite with it.

VOL 2, No. 5. GREAT BEND, KANSAS, MAY, 1907. WHOLE No. 17.

The Founding of the Church of Humanity.

Church Founders at Work.

Extracts from letters of church founders:

Henry Krogman, Crookston, Minn.—"David Sanders, of Crookston, gave me one of your leaflets 'Join the Church of Humanity.' As I have been looking for something like that I at once decided to join. To keep this work up is my earnest desire. If you would send some more literature now and then to David Sanders it will do some good, as he is in a position to distribute it."

R. D. Faucett, 417 University street, Waco, Tex.—"According to notice in Higher Science, I enclose $1.25 for a certificate of graduation in the knowledge of God, knowing God to be a fabulous being. Enroll me as a life member of the Church of Humanity and send me the church paper one year. I was raised in the Methodist Episcopal church; read the Bible too much; went to the Presbyterians; moved from Missouri to Texas; joined the Missionary Baptists; studied the Bible inconsistencies with natural science for two years and decided I could not indorse any spiritism twenty years ago."

[When the Church of Humanity gets able to put a few qualified instructors in the field to teach the people the discrepancies between Bible teaching and the truths of the physical sciences it will win members fast.—Ed.]

W. C. Dunbar, Fulton, Kan.—"Please find enclosed 50 cents—25 for renewal of subscription and 25 for 100 copies of T. A. G."

O. Ellsworth, 505 Main street, Denison, Tex.—"Enclosed find $5.00 for the educational work. Send me 100 copies monthly. Keep drumming it into them; it will tell in another generation. Yes, it is a pity the Freethought editors cannot see through it and help. They are like thousands of Christians; they know it, but lack the backbone to announce it."

[Some of them do not know the truths the Church of Humanity is based on else they would not abuse their readers for uniting to teach them. In these cases a few of their subscribers have advanced in the knowledge of these subjects far ahead of the editor. Those editors who abuse us are more of a detriment to our progress than are the Christian editors, because we expect better treatment at their hands. If they continue the unjust abuse of their subscribers who are making a heroic effort to organize to enable them to save their posterity from idolatry it may become necessary to withdraw our patronage of their publications as a rebuke to such injustice. Abuse in their columns from any other parties will be considered as under their indorsement. I have written column after column, and letter after letter, begging them to unite with their advanced subscribers in an educational society to enable them to save their posterity from idolatry. The abuse of myself and comrades in The Examiner, Humanitarian Review and People's Press is our reward.—Ed.]

C. H. Mordoff, M. D., Genoa, Ill.—"Find enclosed application for life membership in the Church of Humanity and $1 fee. I hope that some of the members will see to it that when I come to die no preacher of the dead mythology shall raise his idolatrous voice over my remains. Trusting and hoping that you may succeed in gaining the 1,000 members soon, I am your friend and well wisher."

[To save ourselves from the disgrace of an idolatrous funeral it is necessary to have our families and neighbors taught the truth about God and death and united with us in the Church of Humanity. Otherwise they will stow us away in an idolater's grave with idolatrous ceremonies and it cannot be helped. Our only hope is in the upbuilding of the Church of Humanity, so it can provide qualified instructors to teach our families and neighbors the discoveries we have made and bury us when we die. We must devote our money and services to this end while we are living. When we die we can do nothing and the ones we failed to provide teachers for will turn our property over to the idolatrous societies and teachers to bury us in idolater's graves and abuse us for making and proclaiming the greatest discoveries in historic times. Theology is not dead, nor has it even commenced to die. The weapons necessary to kill it have only recently been discovered. We who know what they are must unite to enable us to produce trained experts with these weapons and hire them to go forth and slay the twin monsters of idolatry and superstition.—Ed.]

John Martin, Cayucos, Calif.—"Please find enclosed application for life membership in the Church of Humanity and $1.25 for graduation certificate and subscription for TRUTH ABOUT GOD. Please don't expect too much of me, as I live in the mountains surrounded by Nature in the rough."

George W. Lucas, Rocky Mount, N. C.—"Please send by return mail 100 copies of church paper for enclosed 25 cents, for free distribution."

[The Church of Humanity is an educational society to teach the people the two great discoveries that God is a myth and death the end of life, which is necessary to free them from idolatry. The comrades who distribute THE TRUTH ABOUT GOD among the people are much greater factors in the educational work than the editor. My observation is that no one practicing idolatry will subscribe for our paper, except a few of my acquaintances on personal solicitation, but that 75% of them will read it if furnished free. As it is impossible for me to personally distribute the paper the work must be left to my comrades and the progress and magnitude of our educational work depends entirely on them. I hope each of them will realize his responsibility in this matter and do his share in the work.—Ed.]

Miss Minnie Soll, Park River, N. D.—"Enclosed find money order for the following:

Sander Soll, donation to Mrs. Heston	$1.00
Renewal of subscription	.25
Dr. Holldersen to Mrs. Heston.	.75
Dr. Holldorsen, Park River, subscription	.25
Minnie Soll, life membership in the Church of Humanity	1.00

"I inclose 12 names to whom you might write and send literature. With a little encouragement they might join the Church of Humanity."

[It is very encouraging indeed when young people take an interest in the teaching of the Church of Humanity and unite with it and aid in its work. In time this church must have societies in every neighborhood to give the young people an opportunity to join it and aid in its teaching and upbuilding, as the young folks do by other churches.—Ed]

H. M. Fisk, Pella, Ia.—"Inclosed please find check for $1.35, for life membership in the Church of Humanity and its publication one year. The paramount object in offering my name for membership is the hope that we may provide a fund so that when a death occurs among our membership or their families, at the tick of the wire we can send a capable man to officiate at the funeral of our loved ones and save them the disgrace of a burial by the clergy, who say that our teaching is good enough to live by, but not to die by. Hoping to see grand results from this society, I am yours for truths, not fictions."

[Yes, we must provide for the burial of our dead. Your suggestion is a good one. When the church gets able it will employ field instructors when qualified candidates for the position can be found. Among their duties will be the burial of our dead. When one learns the discoveries that Gods are myths and death the end of life he will no more think of denying them when near death than of denying any other truths he learned, and it is a deep disgrace to store such a person in an idolater's grave. It is our duty to provide against it while living.—Ed.]

SHOWING THE GROWTH OF THE CHURCH OF HUMANITY.

C. L. Westmoreland, Royston, Ga.—"I send you $2.00 to pay for life membership in the Church of Humanity for myself and Mr. S. A. Ginn. He never believed in a God, heaven or hell, but I did. I was a Baptist preacher for twenty-five years. Robert Ingersoll took the religious starch out of me about twelve years ago, and I have read all kinds of Freethought literature. I read the Truth Seeker three or four years, and the Blue Grass Blade ten years. I do not believe there is a God, Devil, hell or heaven. After death I will be only what I was before I lived. All the particles of my body will return back to their original condition in the earth and

The Truth About God

Published monthly by the Church of Humanity.

Teaches the Scientific Discovery that God, Satan and Holy Ghost are Fabulous Beings; that Heaven and Hell are Myths and that Death is the Permanent Cessation of Life.

Entered at Great Bend, Kan., postoffice as second class mail matter.

Subscription 25 cents a year. In bundles to Sunday Schools, Church organizations and church members for free distribution, 25 cents per 100 copies.

Remit by postoffice money order, coin or currency. Address all communications and orders to W. H. Kerr, 2210 Broadway, Great Bend, Kansas.

There is a great difference between graduating in the practice of idolatry and graduating in the knowledge of God and life.

Subscribe for THE TRUTH ABOUT GOD and give your families and friends an opportunity to learn the new discoveries about God and life.

Join the Church of Humanity to make it strong enough to organize and employ instructors in the knowledge of God and life to rescue the people from idolatry.

Comrades: Please send me the addresses of all you believe would be interested in our educational work so I can send them sample copies and invitation leaflets.

Subscribers—We lack only 15 of the 200 mark in our membership roll. Please send in your membership applications and make up the number at once, so I can announce the full 200 next issue.

Notice—A bundle of 100 copies was returned to me last month bursted and the address lost. If the comrade who failed to get his monthly bundle will please notify me I shall send one in its place better wrapped.

People, like the editors of The Examiner and The People's Press, who refuse to join with us in this great work on account of the name "church" would refuse to join in singing a beautiful song of truth, hope and joy if sung to the tune of a religious hymn.

Idolaters in Boston have weighed a fabulous thing people are supposed to have in them named "Soul" and find it weighs about ½ ounce. Now they should have no difficulty in weighing those other fabulous things named God, Devil, Christ and Holy Ghost that idolaters claim are in them sometimes. They can find out what Santa Claus weighs by the same process also.

Comrades: The spreading of the knowledge of the discoveries concerning God and life made by your church depends entirely on you. I can write lessons teaching them, but they are of no value unless you distribute them among the people. I earnestly urge each of you to take a bundle of copies monthly for distribution. To you in bundles they are only 25 cents per 100 copies. Three dollars will pay for 100 copies monthly for a year.

In selecting teachers for our children in any branch of knowledge we select those who have themselves graduated in those branches. Likewise, in selecting teachers to teach them regarding God and life we should select only those who have graduated in the knowledge of those subjects. None but those who hold certificates of graduation in the knowledge of God issued by the Church of Humanity should be employed to teach children anything about him.

Readers of Freethought publications are proving that they will unite and organize. The editors should not fight against it by abusing them for doing so. It is the only possible method by which they can have their knowledge taught to their children to advantage. There are thousands of editors of religious publications, but they all advocate and encourage society building among their subscribers. They all know children and young people can be taught better orally in society classes than by any other method. Our Freethought editors should follow their example and do all in their power to get their subscribers organized so they can give their children proper teaching in society classes. Perhaps by next issue I will have the full 200 members enrolled. The editors should now stop their adverse criticisms and come in and help organize.

Good idea. Mr. Remsburg or Mr. Wakeman should unite with the Church of Humanity and take charge of our preparatory college and have a large class this next winter in training to fill the position of instructors in the church. Our church will be able by then to pay a monthly salary and furnish such a teacher. If either one of them will take the position I believe the students can be found. We will have good facilities here for the students to carry on other lines of study. A new high school building and a Carnegie library building are being built now. The high school will include business courses and will be free to the students. Our church should have a class preparing for instructors in the church. Biblical criticism and scientific works, such as Darwin's and Haeckel's, should be taught them as text books. Who are better prepared to do that than Messrs. Remsburg and Wakeman? What do you say to the proposition, gentlemen? Will some of the comrades please write invitations to them? Address Mr. J. E. Remsburg, Potter, Kan., and J. B. Wakeman, Coscob, Conn.

COMRADES, ENDOW YOUR CHURCH.

I can use any amount of money to good advantage in the upbuilding of the Church of Humanity that my comrades wish to turn over to me for that purpose, and I will gladly give a bond of $50,000, if they wish it, that it will be used for that purpose alone. I do not need it, and will not accept any money for my services. As to my financial ability to work without pay, I refer any parties who wish to know to the Citizens' National Bank of this city. Rich idolaters are endowing their idolatrous churches with many millions of dollars monthly. That is what makes them so powerful and efficient in teaching idolatry. To give truths a "square deal" they must be backed as well financially by their advocates as errors by theirs. Who will be the first of my comrades to endow his church with $10,000? Don't all speak at once.

atmosphere and I will never live in consciousness again."

[Now that you have learned the truth about God and death you should be as enthusiastic in its promulgation as you were in the promulgation of error for twenty-five years. You helped to make hundreds of "converts" to idolatry and you should do all you can to counteract it by active work now. Your knowledge of both sides ought to equip you well for the duties of an instructor in the Church of Humanity. When clergymen learn the truth about God and death their services are of much greater value in the educational work than before. But all idolatrous societies turn them out. The Church of Humanity is the place for them then, and it will in time be strong enough to give all such clergymen employment at an advance in salary.—Ed.]

J. Frantz, 119 East 116th street, New York.—"Enclosed please find $5 on account. Send me 1,000 copies of TRUTH ABOUT GOD. I inclose the membership application of Comrade John Hart, 397 4th avenue, North Troy, New York, by request. He is 101 years old and is as lively as a man of 40 or 50. He reads and writes without glasses, and walks four or five miles daily. I am glad to get his application for membership in the Church of Humanity. I had his photo taken for the Tomorrow Magazine. Have just returned from a visit to Albany, Troy and Schenectady."

[Comrade Frantz is an active worker in the building of the Church of Humanity. He intends trying to organize three local church societies in New York and Brooklyn next winter. Comrades and interested parties in those cities should aid him all they can in that good work. Comrade Hart is a living proof that it is not necessary to worship idols and believe in the superstition of immortality to live to old age.—Ed.]

A. J. Boyer, 221 I street, N. W., Washington, D. C.—"I enclose 25 cents for our church paper. Several chapters of my book are devoted to the origin of the God-idea among primitive mankind and how the absurdity was spread among the people of the world as intelligence and civilization progressed. Religion had its origin in savagery and lingers today most conspicuously among semi-barbarians. Enlightenment illumines the minds of men, and Gods and ghosts flee from it. The future man will be ashamed that his forebears entertained such nonsensical beliefs about God and life after death. Then religion will no longer curse the earth, but morality and right will guide the acts of men. I inclose filled blank application for membership in the Church of Humanity. I shall do missionary work with the paper by passing it around among those who are halfway out of the woods. As soon as I get time I shall run through the files of my papers and send you the addresses of those who have outgrown the superstition about a God and a future life."

G. J. Kleinert, 714 Savoye street, W. Hoboken, N. J.—"Inclosed please find filled-out blank and one dollar for membership in the Church of Humanity. I wish you great success."

A. Jonsson, Gillett, Fla.—"I enclose $1 for membership in the Church of Humanity, 25 cents for one year's subscription to THE TRUTH ABOUT GOD, and 50 cents for as many copies and invitation leaflets as you can afford. I have many Truth Seeker books and have been expecting the "Short History of the Inquisition" for a long time. Then I will start out with lots of rational and scientific books, including your literature. Think I will be able to make some impression on the people then. At least I can narrate the experience I had while a sailor visiting the principal divisions of the world. Regarding your suggestions for an ideal church I think they can't be improved on."

William A. Winham, 296 Hewes street, New York.—"I am sending you enclosed the new application filled out as requested. Will pay fee to Mr. Frantz. In one of your letters you asked me if I understood your teaching and believed along that line. In reply would say that I never did believe in any Gods, Devils or any other such fabulous beings."

Charles R. Kimberley, Circleville, O.—"For the enclosed 25 cents please send me 100 copies of the March issue of our church paper."

HOW TO OVERTHROW IDOLATRY.

The way to begin the overthrow of idolatry by easy stages is as follows:

1. Subscribe for THE TRUTH ABOUT GOD and learn it.
2. One thousand graduate and become the founders and charter members of a society to teach it perpetually.
3. Formally organize and incorporate that society under the name "Church of Humanity."
4. Employ one of the graduates as a national instructor on a salary to organize local churches and conduct the funeral services of our dead.
5. Local churches employ qualified instructors on a salary to teach the people orally these discovered truths.
6. Endow our preparatory college and give candidates for the office of instructor free education in the truths he is to teach and his duties as an instructor.
7. Pay the instructors a larger salary than clergymen get to induce competent young men and women to take up the work as a life occupation and devote the necessary time to preparation.

EVIDENCE PER SE THAT GOD IS A MYTH LIKE SANTA CLAUS.

Above the graves of our perished loved ones the Church of Humanity proclaims God a myth.

In trying to prove the negative of the discovery that Gods are fabulous beings, idolaters use many lines of evidence, arguments and reasonings. These, of course, must be forever accepted as sound and true until overthrown by rebuttal evidence, arguments and reasoning furnished by qualified teachers provided and maintained by an organization for that special purpose.

To date no such organization has materialized and no one qualified to do the teaching has been produced. To rail against idolatrous societies in general, or abuse members of them in particular, as some writers in Freethought publications do, is not aiding in the overthrow of idolatry. To curtail the political power of one idolatrous society in the interests of other like societies, as is being done in France, is not aiding in the overthrow of idolatry. To tear down one man-made God in the interest of another man-made God, as Thomas Paine did, is not overthrowing idolatry and superstition. The worship of hundreds of Gods have been overthrown, but never except in the interest of the God of the overthrowers. It is extremely difficult to interest people enough to put in time and money in the task of overthrowing the worship of an idol unless they have concocted an idol of their own whose worship is to be substituted for that of the deposed idol. The Christian churches are engaged in overthrowing the worship of man-made Gods, but are substituting other man-made Gods in their places. The Church of Humanity is the first attempt ever made to organize an educational society to overthrow the worship of fabulous beings without substituting the worship of other idols in their place. We place our time and money in the task of overthrowing the worship of idols in the interest of the great discoveries of God's mythical nature and of life termination at death. These scientific truths are to be substituted for the delusion of immortality and the false God-idea. Like all discovered truths, they will not be worshiped, but will add immensely to the store of knowledge of our race. The duty of this church is to provide and maintain qualified instructors to teach the people the rebuttal evidence against every line of evidence offered by idolaters to disprove God's mythical nature and life cessation at death. As the Church of Humanity grows stronger in numbers and financial ability it will take up other lines of evidence to prove its discoveries true.

Thomas Paine aided greatly in his "Age of Reason" in advancing evidence, argument and reasons to overthrow the Bible as a revelation of a God, and Jesus as the son of one, and the Jewish Jehovah as a God. All that we can indorse and use in the overthrow of his concocted "Creator," who is equally a creation of fiction with the Bible God. Many more would join the Church of Humanity, but they have hitched the God-idea to Mr. Paine's imagined "Creator" and are not eligible. We must knock that "Creator" out of their minds as a real being. In the creation of his God he uses this untrue statement used by all idolaters: "When we see his (God's) care and goodness extended over all his creatures, it teaches us our duty toward each other, while it calls forth our gratitude to him."

The fact is there is absolutely no "care and goodness" extended over any creatures of earth by unseen beings. That is so plain it seems strange that Mr. Paine could have been so poor an observer as to assert differently. In his criticisms of the Bible and of Christians' mistakes in their God-making he was a sound reasoner. But in his own God-making he was as shallow as any other God-makers. Life is the dearest possession of all animals, as it is of man. That life is destroyed by the elements and by each other, and no unseen being interferes to protect it in a single case. Man wantonly destroys all forms of life and exterminates entire races of animals and no God comes to their aid. It is folly to talk about the "care and goodness" of a God being over all creatures unless it is extended in defense of their lives, which is their dearest possession, and we see clearly that it is not. Hence Paine's "Creator," who extends care and goodness over creatures, is a fabulous being, like all other Gods.

Most idolaters are so egotistical as to believe our race are the only creatures worthy of the "care and goodness" of a God and they are the only "creatures" meant. But the same observations are made in regard to man's life as is made of other animal life, which proves we are not the creatures, either, who receive "care and goodness" from a "Creator." Since that is the case the "Creator" is a myth and we must cease worshiping him and unite in a society to enable us to employ competent instructors to teach others to cease idolatry.

Here is positive proof that Paine's Creator is a myth, because the evidence he relied on to prove his existence—"care and goodness"—is not extended to any member of our race from unseen beings.

Manistee, Mich., April 23.—As a result of a big storm the Arcadia was lost on lake Michigan and her 16 passengers and crew all perished.

Dubois, Pa., March 21.—Six men killed by an explosion in a powder mill.

Chapleau, Ont., April 11.—Fifteen men, women and children cremated alive in a train wreck.

Birmingham, Ala., March 21.—Six men killed by the falling of the lining in a furnace.

Sergeant, Ky., March 21.—Ten miners killed in a mine explosion.

Gilmore City, Ia., April 13.—An epidemic of measles has killed seven people.

Denison, Ia., April 19.—Five on a hand car killed by a train.

Raleigh, N. C. April 23.—Four men swept over the Buckhorn Falls and drowned.

Passaic, N. J. April 3.—A mother and her four children burned to death in a fire in a tenement house.

Atlanta, Ga., March 27.—Four killed in an explosion of dynamite.

Rome, March 21.—Several vessels reported lost in a hurricane.

Harbor Beach, Mich., April 24.—A crew of six on the tug Searchlight perished in a gale.

Lisbon, Portugal, April 10.—Twenty-five lives lost in a fire in an apartment house.

Fort Worth, Tex., April 1.—The entire crews of two freight trains killed in a collision.

Gunter, Tex., April 13.—Eight perish in a fire that destroyed the home of J. C. Price.

Port Huron, Mich., April 21.—Three children cremated in a fire in their home.

Washington, April 9.—The crew, nine men, of a coal barge was lost at sea in heavy weather off the Florida cost.

Dallas, Tex., April 5.—A cyclone at Alexandria, La., killed twenty people.

Fulton, Ky., April 22.—Four children were burned to death in their home.

Baltimore, Md., April 27.—From forty to fifty workmen drowned as a result of the collapsing of a pier in course of construction.

Mexico City, April 16.—Advices indicate that 500 people have been killed by the earthquake that spread death and desolation throughout many southern districts, more especially in the state of Guerrero.

Colton, Cal., March 28.—Thirty people killed in a train wreck.

This list of life extinguishments by many causes proves conclusively that no such a thing as "care and goodness" is extended to any member of our race by "Gods" and "Creators." It proves conclusively that all "Gods" and "Creators" are nothing but creations of fiction, like Santa Claus. Let all who read this lesson cease idolatry forever. Join the Church of Humanity and help us to free others and save your own prosperity from idolatry. Do your duty and help to get others to do theirs. Send in your application for membership in the Church of Humanity right now.

NEW MEMBERS.

Since last report the following comrades have applied for membership and have been issued certificates of graduation in the knowledge of God, and life membership in the Church of Humanity, making them founders and charter members of it. It gives me great hope and encouragement to have the pleasure of introducing such a large number of new members to my comrades:

167. J. C. Cramer, Bucyrus, O., 31, iron moulder, American, none.

168. A. J. Boyer, 221 I street, N. W., Washington, D. C., 68, journalist, American, Protestant.

169. G. J. Kleinert, 714 Savoye street, W. Hoboken, N. J., 36, pilot, German, Catholic.

170. William A. Winham, 296 Hewes street, New York, 21, American.

171. C. L. Westmoreland, Royston, Ga., 66, shoemaker, American, Baptist.

172. S. A. Ginn, Royston, Ga., merchant and farmer, American, none.

173. George W. Lucas, Rocky Mount, N. C., 48, messenger, American, none.

174. Ella P. Hunt, Moline, Kan.

175. R. D. Fausett, 417 University street, Waco, Tex., 47, cabinet maker, American, Methodist.

176. Joseph Ephraim, 291 E. 4th street, New York, 19, printer, Hebrew.

177. John Martin, Cayucos, Calif., 46, farmer, Irish, Catholic.

178. Miss Minnie Soll, Park River, N. D., 22, bookkeeper, American, none.

179. David Sanders, 512 Central avenue, Crookston, Minn., 38, clerk, Scandinavian, Presbyterian.

180. C. E. Kofford, Spring City, Utah, 57, farmer, American, Latter-Day Saints.

181. Dr. C. H. Mordoff, Genoa, Ill., 50, physician and surgeon, American, none.

182. John Hart, North Troy, N. Y., 101, farmer, American, none.

183. Henry Krogman, 514 Pine street, Crookston, Minn., 45, superintendent cemetery, German, Lutheran.

184. H. M. Fisk, Pella, Ia., 62, manufacturer, American, Methodist.

185. A. Jonsson, Gillette, Fla., 72, retired sea captain and fruit grower, Swede, Lutheran.

On behalf of the church I welcome most heartily these new comrades to membership, fellowship and friendship in this educational society. May they never regret this noble move they have made to encourage others to learn the truth about God and life and cease idolatry forever. You are leading the way out of idolatry to higher planes of civilization. May you ever prove faithful leaders by precept and example.

Quite a lot of people are civilized enough now to be taught the truth that Satan is a creation of fiction and hell a myth without deranging their moral equilibrium.

WHY DO THEY DO IT.

Corpus Christi, Tex., March 30, 1907.—Dear Sir and Brother: I enclose you money order for $1, for which you may mail me one hundred papers per month for the next four months, so that I may circulate them and thereby teach the people the truth about God. I take twenty copies of Bro. Peterson's Examiner, Paris, Texas. He gives our church hell sure, like all the rest of 'em. Ha! Ha! Fraternally,

ALLEN JOHNSON.

And there are others! See the Humanitarian Review for February, on page 73, and The People's Press, of April 6, in its editorials. But why do they do it? There is more abuse there of me and my comrades than came to my notice from the 900 editors of religious publications to whom I mailed our educational paper monthly for nearly a year. Many of them commented on the church and teaching and sent me marked copies. But there was no such abuse in them.

Mr. Peterson says he has "been fighting the church for fifty years." He saw the name "church" and trained his fighting battery on us from force of habit regardless of what we are teaching under that name.

The editor of The People's Press, Mr. Lenau, bases his objection to our society on the same grounds, the name. He says: "We don't want any certificate of membership in godless churches or any other churches—'they all look alike' to us. Kansas has always been freakish, and Mr. Kerr is only trying to keep up her reputation." He, too, has been "fighting the church," and, like Mr. Peterson, is unable to distinguish any difference in the teaching between ours and all others, as "they all look alike" to him. That gives me unbounded joy, as it insures great success for our church if some of the other claims of these critics are true. They both claim to be rationalists and reasoners par excellence. They both claim the idolaters are far below them in mental power and are, in fact, nothing but bundles of stupidity, being unable to think for themselves. Now, all idolaters love the name "church" as intensely as our critics hate it. They are untiring workers for it and freely dump their wealth into its contribution boxes. Our field workers will simply advertise a "church" where they wish to establish one, and the idolaters will flock to it, join it by the hundreds and dump their coin, bills and bonds into its coffers by the thousands, as all churches will "look alike" to them. That is, if they are really not any smarter than our critics, who assure us they are not half so intelligent. The only cloud that appears on the horizon of this bright prospect is the fear that my critics might possibly be mistaken in the idolaters not having any more sense than they have. They might have the mental power to observe some difference in the teaching of the Church of Humanity and other churches and be influenced in their actions thereby.

My old friend, Jamieson, in the Humanitarian Review for February, says (and I presume it is indorsed by the editor) "I was greatly pleased at the 'handling without gloves' you gave Kerr (page 484) in December last. If he can inveigle 'Freethinkers' to join his 'church,' let them 'jine'—but the whole thing is a humbug based on another humbug 'My Discovery'! * * * His term 'church' itself is, like his claim, 'My Discovery,' stolen property."

After being informed that we are all freaks we now learn for the first time we are all thieves! But, from whom did I steal the discoveries? Surely not from Mr. Jamieson, because he never knew them, and does not now, else he would not say "the whole thing is a humbug." That indicates that he believes the discoveries are not yet made.

If our critics would not go off half-cocked, but would take the trouble to study our literature, they would probably not go off at all. While I made the discoveries on which the Church of Humanity is based, and was the first one, to my knowledge, to announce them as discoveries, yet I never claimed to be the only discoverer of them. I wish millions of people had made it and organized societies to teach them centuries ago, so that I would have been taught them in childhood. It would have saved every one now the necessity of "discovering" them in order to know them. If we who have made the discoveries fail to organize and teach them it will leave to future generations the same necessity of discovering them if they know them at all. The very few who know them now proves that only one or two in a million will be able to make these discoveries for themselves. I have said time and again that I wanted to find 1,000 of the discoverers to organize them into an educational society to enable them to have them taught systematically to the people, that they may be rescued and preserved from idolatry thereby. I have stated many times that the first 1,000 members of the Church of Humanity were to be known as the original discoverers of the truths the church is based on, and the founders and charter members of it. That makes them all equals with myself, both as to making the discoveries and founding the society to teach them.

If the parties I stole the discoveries from are members of the Church of Humanity they have full credit as being original discoverers of them. But I want them to be liberal and make an active effort to give them away, so that no one else will be under the necessity of stealing them. If the parties are not in the church I want them to get in so they will have full credit as original discoverers, and where they can aid in giving them away. But if they refuse to proclaim to the world the discoveries they made, for want of which our race will be kept in perpetual idolatry, it was perfectly right that some one should have stolen them who would make them known to all. As my critic failed to give me the address of the parties I stole the discoveries from, and as they have failed to call my attention to the theft, I am unable to apologize to them. But no one will have to steal them from me, I am more than anxious to give them away. I am devoting my time and money in my effort to get people to accept them. I never knew before that to give a horse, cow, dog or baby the same name some others have, is stealing. But it must be if giving a society the same name another one has is stealing.

It is high time our critics were letting up and getting into the band wagon with us.

STATE ROLL CALL

In calling for those who have made the grand discoveries that all Gods, Devils and Holy Ghosts are fabulous beings, heaven and hell myths and death the end of individual life, in order to unite them in an educational society to enable them to have those new-found truths taught to posterity, that it may be saved from idolatry thereby, thirty-five states have responded with 185 of such discoverers as follows:

Kansas	28
Iowa	14
New York	13
Texas and Illinois	11
Ohio	10
Arkansas	9
Missouri	8
Kentucky and Washington	7
Oklahoma and Indiana	6
Pennsylvania, Nebraska, Montana and California	5
New Jersey and Minnesota	4
Utah, Colorado and Alabama	3
Wisconsin, South Carolina, North Carolina, North Dakota and Maryland	2
Connecticut, District of Columbia, Florida, Idaho, Massachusetts, Michigan, South Dakota, Wisconsin and Hawaii	1

These people have made the greatest scientific discoveries ever made and want to organize to begin a methodical teaching of them to the people to save posterity from idolatry. When 1,000 such discoverers have answered this call by applications for membership in the Church of Humanity I shall call an international delegate convention of the church members to formally organize and incorporate the society.

I hope to have the first two hundred to announce in the July issue, and want all subscribers who are ready to graduate in the knowledge of God to send in at once for their certificates. Three new states are represented, and some have doubled their membership in the last month. Put your respective state forward in this grand work by sending in your membership applications. Do it today!

HESTON RELIEF FUND.

The balance to be raised on Comrade Heston's doctor and funeral bills is $180.

Previously acknowledged, $115.80.

Since last report the following comrades have contributed as follows:

Jack Frantz, 105 Greenston street, New York	.50
John Hirt, 730 Clinton street, Cincinnati, O.	5.00
Sander Soll, Park River, N. D	1.00
Dr. Hollderson, Park River, N. D	.75
Total contributed	$123.05
Balance yet to be raised	56.95

Comrades who have not contributed should do so now and raise this small balance to relieve his widow of this long-standing debt over which she worries greatly, but is unable to pay. We should all cultivate the good qualities of sympathy and charity and here is a worthy opportunity.

PREPARE FOR DEATH

Comrades, the surest guarantee you can make that you will not be buried in an idolater's grave by idolatrous ceremonies is to see to it now that your family and friends are taught the new discoveries regarding God and life taught by your church and enrolled as members of it. Get the women and children of your families in your church. Then you will be reasonably safe from the disgrace of an idolatrous funeral. Teach them the lessons from TRUTH ABOUT GOD that prove God and Jesus Christ myths, and what death means. Then have them fill out membership applications and send me and I will do the rest. Dr. Wilson should unite with the Church of Humanity and make a special preparation to conduct funerals of our dead on short notice. I believe our comrades would organize a mutual burial association on the assessment plan to employ him, or some other qualified person, to conduct their funerals. We need some such arrangement made in advance. It is too late when a comrade dies to make it for him then.

ABOLISH WARS.

Along with our task of abolishing idolatry by teaching the people the truth about God and life, we should do all in our power to abolish wars by doing all we can in aid of the permanent establishment of the Congress of the United Nations for the peaceful settlement of all matters.

Owing to the annihilation of time and distance through modern methods of communication and transportation all nations are brought closer together than were the states of the Union fifty years ago. There is no more sense in two nations going to war than there would be in two states doing it. Our national motto should be "Millions for peace, but not one cent for slaughter."

The coming peace conference at The Hague next month should make arrangements to establish a permanent Congress of United Nations to convene annually and enact international laws.

I believe this sentiment for peace is unanimous with my comrades and the Church of Humanity gives its full power and influence to the sentiment for universal peace.

Subscribers: I don't want you to remain in the study class one day longer than necessary to graduate in the knowledge of God. You must then get into the graduated class by applying for a certificate of graduation. Please read the lesson herein on the proof of God's mythical nature. If it convinces you God is a myth please send in your application for certificate of graduation in the knowledge of God. That certificate makes you a life member of the Church of Humanity and one of its founders and charter members. Sixteen readers graduated in February. I want a still larger class to graduate monthly. If you are ready to graduate, please fill out the application blank in this copy and send it to me. Idolaters cannot believe the great discoveries taught by the Church of Humanity unless they know other people believe them. Hence the necessity of all who know them making it known through the Church of Humanity.

VOL. 2, No. 6. GREAT BEND, KANSAS, JUNE, 1907. WHOLE No. 18.

The Founding of the Church of Humanity.

Creating a Demand.

It has been said that every demand can be supplied. If that be true, it is only necessary to create a demand for the teaching of the discoveries that Gods are creations of fiction and life ended at death to induce people to prepare themselves and come forward as teachers of these discoveries. So far, there has been no demand for such teachers. On the contrary, there has been a vast demand for the teaching of error regarding those subjects. Millions of people have prepared themselves and come forward to supply that demand. Hence the people have kept themselves well supplied with the teachers of idolatry by creating the demand for them.

I know many poor observers lay the idolatry of our race to the clergy, but that is a mistake. When a clergyman dies or moves away you will notice that his congregation will at once send for another one. He will say he was "called" by the command of God. But he really came to fill a demand of the people. There is a great difference between a command and a demand. A command can make people do things without price if there is authority with sufficient power back of it. A demand must have a sufficient price attached to it to be effective. God, being a fabulous being, can not give commands. Idolaters offering a tempting salary create the demand for teachers of idolatry and the demand is supplied, and ever will be regardless of how many die or move away. There can be no demand for teachers of truth regarding God and life until those making it attach a money consideration to it. There must be a price set on it, and that price must be high enough and permanent enough to justify people in preparing to supply the demand.

The Church of Humanity is nearly two hundred strong and ought to be able to begin the creation of a demand for teachers of its discovered truths. I shall start the nucleus of the first demand ever made by our race for teachers of the truth about God and life, and shall ask my comrades to join me in creating this demand by pledges for similar purposes. I head this demand by the following personal offers, good annually for ten years, beginning January 20, 1908:

1. For a National Instructor for the United States, annually for ten years, $100.
2. For a State Instructor for Kansas, annually for ten years, $100.
3. For a Local Instructor for Great Bend, annually for ten years, $300.
4. To maintain the church preparatory college, annually for ten years, $100.
5. To build a church edifice in Great Bend, $1,000.
6. To build a residence for Local Instructor, $500.

This pledge is for the minimum amounts. I may be able to give much more some years.

Besides the foregoing, I shall give the Church of Humanity a clear warranty deed to the building here for its preparatory college as soon as it is able to maintain a college. The building could not be reproduced now for less than $50,000. In addition to this, I expect to have a few thousand dollars worth of property to leave by will to the church, when I am through with it, provided the church is organized and incorporated and actively teaching its discovered truths, and saving people from idolatry thereby.

Now, comrades, this marks the beginning of creating a demand for the teaching of the two great discoveries our church has made. I want you to add to this demand until it becomes great enough to induce some of our comrades to prepare to supply it. Fill out the following blank pledge, or one like it, and send to me to be published in our church paper.

Now, comrades, express in dollars and cents what it is worth to you to have those discoveries taught that will save your families from idolatry. Help to create a demand for teachers that will teach the truth about God and life. When that demand is great enough the teachers will be forthcoming to supply it. The Agnostics, who now boast of their ignorance of those subjects and take a pride in declaring their inability to learn anything about them, will see a new light. Pride in their ignorance will diminish greatly and they will make an effort to learn something if they desire to make themselves of any value to us as teachers. The Church of Humanity must create the demand for its own teachers and also supply it from its own ranks. Then people able to supply the demand will get into the ranks where they should be. When our demand for such teachers becomes great enough to induce young people to take a course at our preparatory college they will come and prepare to fill that demand. All we need to do in this matter is to be as sensible and practical as we are in other matters. We do not ask or expect our children to be taught in any branch of knowledge without paying the teachers. We must pay enough to create a demand for teachers and justify them in preparing themselves for the work. We should be as sensible and practical as the idolaters are. They want their children taught the things they believe to be true regarding God and life, and unite in societies to enable them to create a demand for teachers of those things by the offer of salaries that will bring them. In the practical work and business methods in organizing and teaching we must follow their example to win success. We are on the right track at last and should move along now with confidence and firmness.

When the Church of Humanity has a tempting salary pledged for ten years in advance for instructors there will be people with ability as public speakers who will turn their attention to the demand and prepare to fill it.

Come, now, my comrades, fill up the blank pledges with nice tempting bait and rush them in and see how much of a demand we can create for the teaching of those discoveries that will save our posterity from idolatry.

I hereby promise to pay to qualified instructors, provided by the Church of Humanity, annually for ten years, if I live, the following amounts:

1. To our National Instructor, ...
2. To my State Instructor, ...
3. To my Local Instructor, ...
4. To maintain the preparatory college, annually for ten years, ...
5. To build a local church, ...

It is understood that the instructors provided are to be members of the Church of Humanity, and to hold commissions as to their fitness and qualifications for such offices, provided by a national board of examiners of the Church of Humanity.

SHOWING THE GROWTH OF THE CHURCH OF HUMANITY.

HARD TO PLEASE.

My friend, W. H. Maple, editor of the Ingersoll Memorial Beacon, is surely hard to please in the matter of organization. In the May Beacon he calls special attention to Dr. T. J. Bowle's plea for an organization of Rationalists in that issue. Then he proceeds to use up over a page and a half in adverse criticism of myself and comrades in our efforts at organization. He then switches over again and uses nearly a page in stating his disagreement with General William Birney's pamphlet against organization. The majority of Mr. Maple seems to be in favor of organization, since he decided twice in its favor and once against it. But it is noted he voted in favor of it where only talk was used and against it where actual organization is being done. That would indicate that he is in favor of it so long as nothing but the wind work is being done, but against it the moment real organization begins.

Teaches the Scientific Discovery that God, Satan and Holy Ghost are Fabulous Beings; that Heaven and Hell are Myths and that Death is the Permanent Cessation of Life.

Entered at Great Bend Kan. postoffice as second class mail matter.

Subscription 25 cents a year. In bundles to Sunday Schools, Church organizations and church members for free distribution, 25 cents per 100 copies.

Remit by postoffice money order, coin or currency. Address all communications and orders to W. H. Kerr, 2210 Broadway, Great Bend, Kansas.

To find fault with God for the wickedness attributed to him by his makers expresses as much ignorance of him as a child would of Santa Claus by blaming him for not bringing it toys.

The idolatrous churches will have at least one thing to thank the Church of Humanity for, and that is that it is now attracting most of the venom of the Freethought press from them to itself.

An editor who believes in the possibility of there being "a very 'bad' God who has a special liking for fires and earthquakes and railroad smash-ups" does not know enough about God to free himself from idolatry, much less others.

help to build up an educational society with thousands of teachers, backed by billions of dollars, it would probably take two thousand years to teach these discoveries to the world so thoroughly as to make them acceptable to all.

A part of the Freethought press seems to hold the same relation to the Church of Humanity as the idolatrous church did to the scientists a few centuries ago. I wonder if it will borrow its instruments of torture to use on us.

The teaching of hatred of God and churches frees no one from superstition and is not what we want at all. What we want, and are willing to pay for, is the truth about God and life and the establishment of societies to teach it.

The lesson and other good features are crowded out of this issue to make room to repel the attacks of the Freethought press on the Church of Humanity. I shall not divert our space from its proper uses often in this way. If the fight to destroy our society is continued on their part we had best put them on the black list and see them no more forever. We can not afford to sacrifice our children to idolatry for all the Freethought publications in existence.

Subscribers: If you disapprove of the campaign inaugurated by a part of the Freethought press to prevent their subscribers from organizing, please let your protest be known by applying for membership in the Church of Humanity. That will be the only effective way you can protest. Do not let them force us to give up the good start we have made. The rescue and preservation of your own posterity from idolatry depends on the success of this society. Join it, stand by it and help to defend it against all comers.

Freethought publications that fight organized societies regardless of what they teach are of no value in freeing people from idolatry, since they have an unworthy motive.

Friend Maple's idea of "progressive thought" in the knowledge of God may be like the Irishman's idea of cropping his dog's ears. He cut off a small slice each day in order to not hurt it too much at once. He may believe our race should eventually get to where the Church of Humanity is, but that it should put in one hundred thousand years more in getting there. Well, don't be afraid that the world will learn our discoveries too fast. Though the entire Freethought press of the world should have the good sense to unite with us and devote its energies to the teaching of these discoveries and

The Church of Humanity received only five new members in May. I charge this low record directly to the baneful influence of the hostile part of the Freethought press. A large proportion of our comrades are old people—over 65 years of age. I wanted to get the required number to formally organize while they are living so that the organizing convention could have the influence of their wisdom and experience to guide it in framing the organic laws of the society. This unwise fight of the editors on their subscribers' effort to organize is retarding the growth of the society and will put it back many years in reaching the 1,000 mark, where formal organization and incorporation is to begin. Many of our old comrades will have died by the time we get the required number if the hostility of the press we have helped to support for years is not withdrawn.

Comrades, I welcome you to this society home. No one can save us from idolatry but ourselves, and we must unite in a society to do that. No one can save our children from idolatry but ourselves, and we must unite in a society to enable us to give them the necessary teaching. Children can not build society for themselves. We must do it for them. Then let us all work in unison and harmony in this society building. We have a common interest in it and will receive a common benefit from it. Please do all you can to aid in the upbuilding of our common society. Urge those you know who are eligible to unite with us. In union there is strength and popularity. The best rebuke you can give to the enemies of the Church of Humanity is to send in your applications for membership in it and aid in its upbuilding.

DESTROYING ORGANIZATION.

It will never be necessary for idolaters to pay any attention to any attempt at organization to teach the truths that would overthrow idolatry, for they can depend on the Freethought press preventing any such organization. We have had contributions to the destruction of the Church of Humanity from several of the Freethought papers, and the attack has only begun and will doubtless be joined in by the rest of them.

We have not reached the 200 mark, but Mr. Maple has become scared at our success and proposes to protest against it, as he thinks "real friends of progressive thought" should do. In the first consignment of his protest he says:

"We believe Mr. Kerr to be both earnest and honest, but this does not imply that his scheme is a good one for the promotion of scientific knowledge and reasonable right doing—the two great aims of the rationalistic propaganda."

To unite to enable us to prepare and employ qualified teachers to teach our children the necessary truths to save them from idolatry is not a "rationalistic propaganda" and must be stopped by order of Mr. Maple. To teach the truth about God and life is not a good scheme "for the promotion of scientific knowledge and reasonable right-doing," and must be stopped by order of Mr. Maple. The negroes everywhere can organize to enable them to teach their children the errors they have learned. There are about 500 in this town and they maintain two churches of their own. But we must not manifest as much intelligence and ability as they do. We must not organize to teach our children the truths we have learned because it would "injure the cause of sane scientific rationalism." Oh, no, we must not injure that dear cause, whatever it is, if our posterity has to continue worshiping myths forever. The Church of Humanity intended to teach all the truths and good moral ethics taught by all the other churches, and I thought that would be "reasonable right-doing," but now I am informed it is not and must give it up. The Church of Humanity intended to teach the truth about God and life in place of the errors about them taught in other churches, but now I am informed that would not be a good scheme for the promotion of "scientific knowledge."

The fact is that all scientific knowledge, excepting that regarding God and life taught by the Church of humanity, is taught in all the great universities and it has not checked idolatry there or anywhere else in the least. The discoveries taught by the Church of Humanity regarding God and life is "scientific knowledge" of those subjects. But it will never be taught in existing societies and schools because of the inability to reconcile and harmonize it with the idolatry in those institutions. Therefore, a special society must be organized for their special teaching. If you Freethought editors succeed in killing the Church of Humanity, as you intend to do, the hope of promulgating the scientific knowledge of God and life will be destroyed and those grand discoveries will be lost to our race for centuries.

NOTICE.

If the Freethought editors kill the Church of Humanity by their abuse, and make it impossible for their readers to ever organize to provide that society and teaching necessary to save their posterity from the idolatry of worshiping creations of fiction, such as God and Jesus Christ, the pledge I make on first page will be good to any organized church of white people that will teach the discoveries that all Gods, Devils and Holy Ghosts are fabulous beings, heaven and hell myths and death the end of conscious life. All the aid in money and free work I have promised to the Church of Humanity will be given to the active organizing society accepting the proposition.

It is hard to tell where the Freethought press stands. It is apparently divided in its energies between abusing the idolatrous churches for not advancing fast enough and the Church of Humanity for advancing too fast.

Comrades: I appoint all of you a Committee on Public Education for our church. The public must be educated in the discoveries our church has made. You must do it. No one else can. I ask each of you to take a bundle of copies monthly for distribution. I want each of you to be a center of education in your respective neighborhoods. You can get some boy to distribute the papers if you have not the time. I want you to order 10,000 copies monthly at once. It is extremely important that you should do this now. Before a month I want to get an order from each of you for a bundle of papers monthly for a year. Please act at once. To you in bundles, the price is only one-fourth of a cent per copy.

33 copies monthly, one year.	$ 1.00
66 copies monthly, one year.	2.00
100 copies monthly, one year.	3.00
200 copies monthly, one year.	6.00
400 copies monthly, one year.	12.00
500 copies monthly, one year.	15.00

Many of you are able to take 500 copies monthly, and you should do it. Just think of it! Here is a chance to teach your neighbors the truth about God at a cost of only 3 cents per family per year. Did you ever hear of such vitally important education being given so cheaply? You never had such a chance as this. You must seize it now. Send in your order at once. I shall have a few extra thousand copies run off of this issue to fill your orders as they come in. Don't disappoint me. Millions of copies of religious publications are distributed weekly through the various church societies in this way. We must follow their methods in that respect. I will do my part to the best of my ability. You must do yours, as I can do nothing without your aid. By co-operation among ourselves, we can accomplish the object so dear to us all. Do your part, comrades, and do it now. We must all cease abusing Christians for their ignorance and begin to educate them. That is the better plan, the more honorable and the more effective.

LOST CONFIDENCE.

The attitude of the editors of Freethought publications toward the attempt of their subscribers to organize a suitable society for themselves and families deeply grieves me, as it doubtless does my comrades. I did everything in my power to induce them to join with us in this movement and help us build up this society, that is positively necessary to give our families the required teaching that can save them from idolatry. I am unable to express my sad disappointment in them. My hope of their assistance has vanished. My confidence in their ability to organize has been dispelled. My belief that they really cared to save anyone from idolatry was erroneous. My idea that they had the ability to lead the vanguard of our race to higher planes of civilization was a delusion. I was mistaken in my belief that they knew the truth about God and life. Their attitude toward their subscribers who do know the truth, and wish it taught in a systematic way by an organization for that purpose has been a rude awakening to me. My earnest entreaties for them to join with us and help in the work of society-building have been spurned with contempt. My articles advocating organization and outlining suitable plans have been thrown in their waste baskets. My search for people who know the truth about God and life in order that they could be invited to form a society to teach it could only be made by paying the usual advertising rates, when allowed to make it at all, through their publications. And now, when they see we are making some advancement and have a fair prospect of success, they unite to destroy it. They could not unite to help build a society for their subscribers and their families, but they can unite to destroy it. They have no room for a word of aid and encouragement for society building, but they have any amount of free space to be devoted to the destruction of the start we have made. Some of them accepted the money our dead comrade left, to be used in the church work, to advertise for people eligible to membership in the Church of Humanity. Then they wrote page after page of criticism of us to make that advertising worthless and to keep their readers from organizing.

I had thought the active idolaters would be the only ones to fight us because our discoveries destroy the very foundation of their idolatry. But to my amazement, the Freethought press are the only active fighters of our movement. They are the only editors who have taken alarm at our teaching and are nearly unanimous in their hostility to it and the effort of their subscribers to organize to teach it.

Comrade, I appeal to you! Is it fair? Is it right and just that they should destroy our work of organization? The Church of Humanity is yours as much as it is mine. The grand discoveries it has made and is teaching are yours as much as mine. The teaching of them is the only thing that can possibly save your posterity and mine from idolatry of fabulous beings. Must our posterity remain in idolatry forever for want of the knowledge of the discoveries you and I have made? Must these great scientific discoveries be lost again to our race for want of some society to make them known? Must the honor of making these discoveries and proclaiming them to the world be left to some other generation in the distant future? It is for you to say. The fate of the society is in your hands. Will you rally to the defense and preservation of your society, or will you give aid and encouragement to its destroyers? You are subscribers to one or more of those publications that are seeking the destruction of your society. You have the power to request their editors to cease fighting your society or take your name off their subscription list. When they come between you and the only hope you can have of saving your loved ones from idolatry, your course is clear and your duty is plain. They are not saving your posterity from idolatry, and never can do it. They are now using their power to prevent you from doing it. Being your representative, I am naturally the target of their abuse and criticism, and the bulk of it will fall on my shoulders. But, I tell you comrades, I shall loyally stand by you and your society against the combind abuse of the entire Freethought press. At your command I shall put on the black list each publication that develops the fighting fever against your society. At your command I shall not hesitate to check them off our free directory and my exchange list. That will be a notice that they have, by their unfair treatment and abuse, forfeited the good will of the Church of Humanity and are not entitled to the patronage of its members.

OBSERVATIONS OBSERVED.

I have written a reply for the Beacon to Mr. Maple's "Observations" concerning the efforts of his subscribers to organize, and hope he will publish it, but I wish to comment more fully on a point or two, and on one or two I overlooked.

The first point I wish to note is in reference to my lessons proving God's mythical nature where Mr. Maple suggests that "possibly it may be a very 'bad' God who has a special liking for fires and earthquakes and railroad smashups" that causes the destruction of life there recorded. It is remarkably strange to see the editors of Freethought publications taking up the defense of superstition for the idolaters against their own subscribers, who are making a feeble effort to organize to enable them to save their posterity from it. There are thousands of editors of religious publications, and hundred of thousands of clergymen whose special duty it is to teach and defend the idolatry of the people. If they knew about it they would smile to see the way the Freethought editors take up their burden and attempt to knock out their enemy, the Church of Humanity, which is composed of their own subscribers. They would be further pleased to see them use their own reasoning and argument. When my dear little son, Albert, was struck down in the harvest field by lightning I was informed that some Christians said it was a judgment from God for my belief in his non-existence. I wrote an article for the local papers, defending my position and criticising idolaters for worshiping a being they believed could be guilty of such atrociousness. An idolater came to the rescue of his idol's character in a two-column article to prove that it was the work of the Devil, the name of Mr. Maple's "bad" God. Many Christians have learned that the Devil is a myth, and I was under the impression that all the Freethought editors had, and made no effort to prove him such. It seems, though, that I have greatly overestimated the wisdom of some of those editors, and may have to establish a special kindergarten department in our paper for their exclusive benefit to bring them up to the knowledge of some idolaters regarding the Devil.

Another great mistake he made is: "As we have said before, it is an easy matter to destroy gods—that is, particular creatures of the imagination." * * * Such talk as that is fatal to the necessary effort to overthrow idolatry. Nothing causes a stop in work quicker than the belief that the job is done. No one will prepare adequately to do a work that is underestimated. The trouble is, Friend Maple, like idolaters, mistakes "particular creatures of the imagination" for real beings, and, of course, thinks it not necessary or desirable to destroy the belief in them. The Devil is a "creature of the imagination," like Santa Claus, yet Mr. Maple does not find it "an easy matter" to free himself of the Devil-idea, as shown by his belief in the existence of a "bad God."

God, Jesus Christ, Holy Ghost, soul, heaven, hell and Satan are all pure "creations of the imagination," but it is not an easy matter to destroy the belief in them as realities. All these, or similar myths, are believed to be realities by practically our entire race. Each generation is taught by their parents and an army of teachers that they are realities, yet my mistaken friend says it is an easy matter to destroy that belief. In the United States alone there is an army of 154,390 ministers hired by 31,148,445 idolators to teach this superstition to the rising generation in 201,608 churches. There is in the world another army of 2,426,888 Sunday school teachers teaching that these creatures of the imagination are realities to 22,739,323 children in 262,131 Sunday schools. My friend thinks it is so easy to vanquish these hordes of idolatrous teachers that he is alarmed for their safety and rushes to the defense of their superstition against the Church of Humanity, and calls that the work of "real friends of progressive thought" * * * "in the cause of sane scientific rationalism."

Another delusion Mr. Maple is under, and, I suspect, is shared by other editors of his class, is that I am wanting them to aid me in something they get no benefit out of. Now, I never viewed it in that light at all, but have been guided by the thought of co-operation among all the editors and all their subscribers for the accomplishment of an object of equal value to all that could not possibly be obtained in any other way. He says:

"He (Kerr) has no word of encouragement for any other (organization), and is astonished that all the Freethought editors do not turn in and give him a boost."

There is no other organization for me to encourage, but I want to aid all I can in establishing thousands of them. I supposed the editors had families they wished saved from idolatry, that they were really interested in freeing all the people from idolatry and promoting civilization. I thought if we could organize an educational society able to do that it would be an equal "boost" for us all. I have always regarded myself as an isolated reader of their papers and not a rival editor. This little organization sheet is designed to express the wishes of their subscribers as such. It is printed to let them know what their readers want them to do and to teach, and how they want them to organize into an educational society with them and help them more effectually to give their families the necessary teaching to save them from idolatry, which can not be done under present arrangements. But now you meet this desire of your subscribers with not only a flat refusal, but a demand "that some real friends of progressive thought protest against (their) movement, which, to the extent that it is successful, will injure the cause of scientific rationalism much more than it will hurt ecclesiasticism." You not only refuse to "boost" your subscribers to what they want, but propose to do all in your power to prevent them from getting it. If you will turn to the first page and read the pledge of aid I make to the organization you certainly will concede that I am willing to aid a little in the boosting business myself. If you and all the other editors were members of the society, and working in co-operation and harmony with it, it seems to me you would all be boosted a little by my aid, perhaps as much as your aid would "boost" me. My idea is for all my comrades to do all they can to booost the society in general, but not any member of it in particular.

I do hope you will be able some time to comprehend this movement and get into it and do some real boosting in the right direction. It is what every one of you editors should have done on the first invitation. You can be sure if you kill this effort of your subscribers to organize it will be the last one they will attempt to make.

OUR CRITIC.

The Examiner returns my article. It is remarkably strange that by far the greatest abuse of myself and the Church of Humanity has come from what is supposed to be a Freethought source. I would pay no attention to it whatever except that my reply can be used as a means to teach my position and that of the Church of Humanity to prospective comrades that might be led astray by the second consignment of abuse in The Examiner (Paris, Tex.), for March and April.

Mr. J. Peterson, the editor, proposes to let me make a statement in The Examiner if I will republish his abusive article in our church paper. I decline, with thanks. The price is more than I care to pay. I have too much respect for my comrades to fill their paper with abuse of them from anybody. He persists in misunderstanding the nature of my work now and what I purpose doing. He conjures up things he supposes I am doing and then abuses me for doing them when I have no thought of doing them at all. But, as I have no more desire to abuse anyone than to be abused, I shall throw the cloak of charity over him and try to find excuses for his abuse:

1. He is old—in his 77th year.

2. His sight is very poor, and perhaps he has not read much of our church paper—not enough to grasp the meaning of our movement and comprehend what we are doing and intend to do.

3. He and I are working along two entirely different lines of thought and action that really have very little in common. Hence, being under the impression that I am trying to do the same thing he is and seeing I am not using his method gives him a basis for his abuse. I am inclined to believe this is the real cause of it. But if it is it puzzles me to understand why he, being a Freethinker, should abuse me, for doing my work in my own way, more than the millions of people do who make no claim to being Freethinkers. Now, I shall try to make plain to him the fundamental differences between his work and that of the Church of Humanity, that he may see it is on a different road entirely and not trying to take his job away from him. Then I hope he will stop abusing it from jealousy or any other motive. I shall state his life's work in his own language, which is the base and object of his labors. In his first attack on me under "An Emissary of the Pope" is this: "We are in the sere and yellow leaf of seventy-seven years, and have been fighting the 'Church' for over half a century, and this is the first attempt, so far as we recall, of any reformer, real or pretended, to collect Infidels into a society under the shibboleth, the trade-mark universal, of the whole hoodoo Klamjamfry." That sentence not only gives the key to his life's work, but reveals his mistaken idea of mine. I am not a "reformer," as he believes. I am teaching two great newly discovered scientific truths—that God is a myth and life ends at death. The teaching of scientific truth is not reform work. Neither am I trying "to collect Infidels into a society," etc., as he believes. I am not trying to collect either Infidels, Atheists, Agnostics, Freethinkers, Secularists, Materialists or people of any other title or name into a society, because very few answering to any of those titles know the truths that God is a myth and death the end of life. I am only collecting those few who have discovered these grand truths from all societies and from no societies in order to have them found a new educational organization based on those two great truths that they may be enabled thereby to have them taught to their posterity that it may be saved from idolatry. But here is the main difference in the basic principles that separated his work from that of the Church of Humanity. He has "been fighting the 'church' for over half a century," and, of course, will keep on doing that to the end of his days, while the Church of Humanity fights nobody and no society, but simply tends to its own business of teaching the discoveries it is being founded to teach. He fights the name "church" regardless of whether truth or error is taught by a society bearing that name, and that maybe the only reason why he "fights" the Church of Humanity. It may be from force of habit, acquired by "fighting the 'church' for over half a century." In fact, a careful reading of both articles discloses the principle reason for the attack is the name "church," and it furnishes the best illustration I have seen of the truth of his statement that "the world goes crazy over words." He says: "As it (my article) was written with a pale pencil, and hard on our bad sight, we took our time to wade through it and then returned it, for the reason that there was not one syllable of the entire article in reply to our objections to the misuse of the word 'church' as a proper name for Infidels to work under." As stated before, I am not asking or desiring "Infidels" to work under that name or any other. I am asking people who know that God is a myth and life ended at death to unite under the Church of Humanity to enable them to have those truths taught to the people. Not many Infidels know those truths and it would be absurd to think of organizing people to teach a thing they did not know, or, at least, think they know. I want the people of all names and titles to learn these truths and then unite with the people who know them in one society and abandon their former class names, as all Christians do after joining the Church of Humanity. Many of those who have united, both ex-church members and those who never united with any other church, had been answering to the various names above mentioned. But I want them all to drop their former titles, as none of them represents people who know these truths.

As to my reasons for applying the name I did to the society, many of them have been given several times in the church paper and it becomes monotonous to repeat so often. I guess I will have to put them in a booklet for the benefit of those who do not read the paper thoroughly, and new subscribers who may object to the name. I shall give a few, however, and ask him to have patience until I can get the booklet out as my reason for using the name would fill several copies of TRUTH ABOUT GOD. As none object to "Humanity," I shall give my reasons for using "Church":

1. It is the name under which the people receive their teaching regarding God and death.

2. As my discoveries are about those two subjects it is the proper name under which to teach them.

3. As all other church societies are organized to teach error regarding those subjects none can teach these new-found truths, hence the necessity of a new church society to teach them.

4. The people we wish to reach and rescue from idolatry by the teaching of these discoveries love and respect it.

5. Other churches, remembering their early struggles for existence, and the abuse and persecutions they endured from more powerful societies, will be slow to repeat the injustice of which they themselves complained.

6. Other church societies, being free to use their time and money in teaching what they believe true, will concede the same right to this new church society.

7. It will put us on equal footing and respectability with members of all other churches.

8. We can then do as we think other churches should do, viz.: teach the sciences, welcome every new-found truth in nature, receive the scientists with joy and make them our teachers.

9. We can then return the kind invitations of neighbors and friends by inviting them to attend our church.

10. We can demonstrate to all other churches how moral ethics can be taught without teaching people to be idolaters; that it is not necessary to take on a new vice to free ourselves from an old one.

11. We will want orderly conduct at our meetings, and the people have been trained to behave themselves in church.

12. It puts us in a position to unite with other churches in advocating a good cause or protesting against a bad one.

13. The law will defend our rights and property equally with other churches.

14. Knowing the truth about God and death, and being members of a "church," we will not be subjects for evangelists to "convert" to idolatry and the delusion about immortality.

15. It will put us in a position to make a reciprocity treaty with other churches, wherein we can swap them truths to teach for their method of teaching. We have the truths and they have developed the method of teaching to perfection, else they could not make people believe such monstrous delusions in the light of twentieth century civilization. But it will be a happy combination when each church knows the truths and the method of teaching them.

16. It is following the line of least resistance to accomplish a desired object, which makes the name justifiable. In this case, at least, the end justifies the means.

17. Our children can be raised up in a "church," learn its teachings in early childhood, attend its Sunday school, help to do the teaching later, marry those with like knowledge, have the benefits of society culture and sociability, live in a church society as their mental home, and finally, die in the full knowledge of their church teaching without fear and be buried by their comrades with appropriate farewell address from their instructor.

18. The members of this church will be a constant object lesson to members of all idolatrous churches to prove to them that it is possible for people to live, enjoy life, be happy and prosperous, be good citizens in every respect and die peacefully in the conscious knowledge all the time that there is no God and no future life. It is just what idolaters need, and it will do more to cause them to accept the truth than anything else.

19. To give the result of all the additional reasons in one, it is simply the only name under which the results I wish accomplished can be realized.

(To be Continued.

Comrades, remember that the abuse of myself in the Freethought papers is indirectly aimed at your society. They are determined to smash it if they can. Will you allow them to do it?

To curse and abuse churches because our ignorant ancestors used to "burn witches" and scientists is on a par with the justice and intelligence of Presbyterians who consign infants to an imaginary hell because a creation of fiction ate an apple of the same make thousands of years ago.

The Founding of the Church of Humanity.

Making Favorable Conditions.

The material prosperity of a people can not be judged by the very few who revel in luxuries. It must be judged by the general condition of the great common masses. The greatest material benefactors of the people are they who labor to make conditions favorable for all the people to acquire the luxuries of life.

Likewise, in judging of the wisdom of a people, that of the great common masses must be taken as the basis of judgment.

When we come to grade them on their knowledge of the two great subjects—God and life—they get a very poor grade indeed. We find from the innumerable false answers that practically our entire race is still lost in the primeval jungle of superstition regarding those vital subjects. In that vast jungle our race has formed, mentally, a few great encampments with hundreds of smaller ones surrounding them. They formed their camps around what they believed to be the truths regarding those vital subjects and there intrenched themselves in tradition and authority and custom to withstand a siege while they waged a continual mental, and sometimes physical, warfare on each other to win recruits or break up opposing camps. From time to time great leaders arose in the various camps who perceived, on close investigation, that it was error instead of truth they were camping around and made great schisms in their respective camps by leading their followers to another part of the jungle and pitching their tents and unfurling their banners around what they believed to be the real thing. They there repeated the methods of the mother camp only to fall victims to her experience as advancing intelligence produced abler investigators of those subjects. This process has been going on since history began, and doubtless for ages before. Let the nine great religions of the world represent the primary camps of superstition into which our race is divided. Christianity represents the largest of these camps and includes about one-third of our race. Since it is camped around error it is a blessing to our race that it is weakened by eight schisms, which divide it into eight camps, as hostile to each other as they are to the other primary camps. These secondary camps are again happily weakened by numerous subdivisions into hostile camps of various sizes. So long as they are all based on error it is a blessing their power is weakened by division and subdivision. Were any of them based on truth their weakness through division would be a great misfortune. While this weakness makes it possible to form other camps around other errors, such as the Mormon, Spiritualist, Dowie and Eddy camps, it also makes it possible to find the real truth and establish a camp around it, as the Church of Humanity is doing. This camp is unique in that it departs radically from all former methods of camp-founding. The features that distinguish its founding from all others are:

1. Its teaching is not based on the ideas expressed in any book, as is that of all the secondary camps.

2. It is not based on a pretended revelation from mythical beings, as are some of the primary camps.

3. It has no individual leader and founder, as all the others had.

4. It is not a schism from any particular camp.

5. Its basic truths were found in Nature by the scientific process of discovery, viz., experience, observation and investigation, and are, therefore, the voice of science on those subjects.

6. The evidence of its basic truths being material nothing has to be accepted on faith or belief, but each one can know for himself the evidence of the truths when properly pointed out to him by qualified instructors.

7. It is the first camp ever pitched on solid, scientific ground in the radiant light of knowledge outside of the jungle of superstition. At last a few have extricated themselves from that dreadful jungle. They are going into camp around the new-found truths by mutual consent in advance of any leader. They have unfurled their banner, on which is inscribed the truths they found as they emerged from the jungle of superstition, and that inscription proclaims that "All Gods, Devils and Holy Ghosts are fabulous beings, heaven and hell myths and death the end of conscious life." They intend to establish a permanent camp here and keep their banner raised in sight of all the camps in the jungle as a beacon light to guide all who wish to move out of the jungle of superstition. To this camp will be welcomed all comers. It has now two hundred enrolled members and recruits are coming in weekly. As soon as we are able we intend sending guides to all the camps in the jungle to explain to them the right road to take to get out and the desirability of getting out. We will not be so little and mean as to abandon our families and loved ones in the jungle while we enjoy a continual feast of the grand truths of Nature. We have several hundred dollars now subscribed for hiring guides to conduct the people in the jungle to our camp. When it grows large enough it will have all the proper society attractions for children and young people the other camps have. Try to get your families to come with you to this camp. But if they will not come now, come on yourself and help us to employ guides to go back for them. You need not move or discontinue your business to reach our camp. Just fill out the blank membership application in this copy and mail it to me and you will get a certificate of graduation in the knowledge of God, and life membership in our society, making you one of its founders and charter members. Since last month the following comrades have taken up their permanent residence in our camp under its banner:

193. John P. Williams, Dallas, Ga., 60, farmer, American, Methodist.

194. Mrs. Andrew Lindal, 103 Steiner street, San Francisco, Cal., 64, Norwegian, Lutheran.

195. O. B. Berglund, Gunnison, Utah, 48, merchant, Swede, English.

196. E. B. Cox, Samaria, Idaho, 36, shepherd, American, Mormon.

197. W. N. Griswold, Amarillo, Tex., 60, employment agency, American, none.

198. O. E. Saylor, 327 East First street, Salt Lake City, Utah, 25, auditor, English.

We welcome these new recruits to our camp. We shall try to make it as pleasant and as comfortable as we can for you. It is a new camp. We have very few of the conveniences and none of the luxuries of the older camps. In time we will have them. Our location is grand and compensates for the want of society luxuries in the jungle. We are on the beautiful borderland of science overlooking the grand truths of Nature ahead and the dismal jungle of superstition behind. We congratulate you on your wise choice of camps. You were ashamed of and disgusted with camp life in the jungle of superstition, where they deify dead men, worship man-made Gods and are scared out of their wits by Ghosts and Devils of their own imagination.

There is work for you to do in this camp. We want you to help us to make it ring with life and energy and industry. We want you to help to make it a genuine pioneer boom-town. We want you to help us to hold aloft our banner so it can be seen from all the camps in the jungle. We want you to help us to send back guides to bring thousands of people to this camp. We want you to help to prepare the camp to receive them, to entertain them, to locate them, to furnish them employment in society building. We want you to help to make conditions possible for all our race to move out of the jungle of superstition to where they can get a high grade on their intelligent answers to the questions of what is God and life. For this service you will receive some time the thanks of a grateful people redeemed from superstition and idolatry.

SHOWING THE GROWTH OF THE CHURCH OF HUMANITY.

The Truth About God

Published monthly by the Church of Humanity.

Teaches the Scientific Discovery that God, Satan and Holy Ghost are Fabulous Beings; that Heaven and Hell are Myths and that Death is the Permanent Cessation of Life.

Entered at Great Bend Kan. postoffice as second class mail matter.

Subscription 25 cents a year. In bundles to Sunday Schools, Church organizations and church members for free distribution, 25 cents per 100 copies.

Remit by postoffice money order, coin or currency. Address all communications and orders to W. H. Kerr, 2210 Broadway, Great Bend, Kansas.

The Church of Humanity must send competent guides to all the camps in the jungle of superstition to guide the people out of their camp.

People will not always be satisfied to remain in the camps in the jungle of superstition, where they worship dead cranks and man-made Gods and teach children the superstitions about spirits, ghosts and spooks of dead people.

The Church of Humanity is the first camp located out of the jungle of superstition. Come and bring your family and friends out of the jungle and locate with us. It is a pioneer camp now, but will be a regular boom town some day.

We do not want our children made into Paine Deists or Ingersoll Agnostics. If the Freethought press can't do better than that for them we have no use whatever for it. A Holy Roller can be rescued as easily from the jungle of superstition as a Deist or an Agnostic. Those are simply different names of teachers and supporters of idolatry and superstition under different forms and methods.

The assertions that idolaters are servile slaves and dupes of the priests and preachers are not literally true. It would be as true to say that the clergymen are the slaves of the idolaters. They are all idolaters, but the laity control the clergy as much or more than the clergy control the laity. That is proven by the fact that if a clergyman preaches a different doctrine from that he is hired to preach his congregation has him tried for heresy and turns him out and orders one that will teach what they want taught. No clergyman dare teach his congregation the truths taught by the Church of Humanity, though he should thoroughly believe them himself. If that is not servile subjection to the laity what is it?

Before we can make much headway freeing people from idolatry we must have a new set of teachers, with a new press and a new literature, or the old revised to conform to the new discoveries regarding God and life. In examining the hundreds of books, pamphlets and tracts bought of the Truth Seeker company I find that very few can be indorsed by the Church of Humanity. They were mostly written by Deists, Agnostics and believers in the immortality superstition, none of which can be accepted as teachers for us and our church and children, none of which can guide the people out of the jungle of superstition. They are worthless to us, since they endeavor to induce us to return to the jungle of superstition from which we have extricated ourselves.

"CUT IT OUT."

A belief in a supreme being is required by the organic law of nearly all societies. When the Farmers' Alliance swept this state fifteen years ago my neighbors were anxious that all farmers join it. At their urgent request I allowed my application for membership to be sent in. There were several to be initiated the same evening and we were lined up and asked the printed questions. When it came to the question of belief in a supreme being and Christ, as the savior and ruler of nations, I answered in the negative. I told them I did not know it was a religious society or that it had a religious catechism to be subscribed to, and that I could see no connection between those questions and the object of the Alliance. The chairman said I could believe in them long enough to be initiated and that was all that was required. I replied that if I could believe in them a moment it would have to be based on evidence and that would be good so long as I lived if not overcome by stronger rebuttal evidence. One of the members came to my support by saying that I was right in refusing to answer the questions in the affirmative if I did not so believe, as it would be making a bad start to begin with a lie. Seeing the perplexing situation, I told them to go ahead with the initiation of the others and to please excuse my withdrawing.

Now, there is another farmers' movement to better their condition spreading over the state. The farmers' wives are eligible to membership and they are as enthusiastic as their husbands. My married daughter, with a lot of other wives and daughters, applied for membership. The usual out-of-place question about a belief in a supreme being was asked. She promptly replied in the negative. The officers, one a Catholic and the other a Methodist, after a short consultation, allowed good sense to guide them and said it made no difference what she believed on that question and accepted her with the others.

The committee that planned the constitution of the "Farmers' Educational and Co-operative Union of America" should have had as much sense as these two local officers and recognized the fact, as they did, that the belief of a farmer or his wife about a "supreme being" could make no difference as to their usefulness in a society of that kind and should not have incorporated the question. Writers of constitutions and by-laws for fraternal and co-operative societies for mutual material benefits should be compelled to "cut it out" by all those who have learned the truth about God refusing to answer the question in the affirmative. I hope all the members of the Church of Humanity will be as brave as my daughter in such cases. Societies have no moral right to compel their members to be liars in order to get the benefit of them. The question is proper, and a true answer must be insisted upon, in all societies organized for the special purpose of teaching the true, or the false, ideas about God and life, but it is entirely out of place in all other societies. The Church of Humanity must do all it can to put it out and keep it out of the constitutions of such.

Later—I saw the national organizer of the Farmers' Union in this city and called his attention to the unnecessary question regarding a belief in a supreme being as a requirement in applicants for membership. I pointed out its uselessness and how it made ineligible conscientious people who know there is no such being, and how its omission would be no injustice to those who believed in such a being. He saw the reasonableness of my criticism and communicated with other high officials of the society regarding the question. They took the sensible view of the matter and ordered the question omitted in the future. This is a great victory for good sense and justice.

I want all my comrades to develop a strong conscience on this subject that will cause them to refuse to join any society requiring them to be liars and hypocrites to do so. Idolaters have often been accused of lying and hypocrisy regarding their beliefs. That accusation ill becomes us if we practice the same thing. The proper attitude to take is to believe idolaters are honest in their professions of belief, and to so act ourselves that we will convince them we are honest in ours.

WANTS NAME CHANGED.

In sending in his subscription for TRUTH ABOUT GOD Mr. Samuel A. Couillard, of St. John, N. B., Canada, says, among other things:

"I want to join with all who are freed from idolatry, but will have neither part nor lot in any trademark of superstition, such as the name 'church.'. Brush it off! 'Church' popularly means a place of worship, 'the Lord's house.' But I wish to join you and learn. Therefore, please call it the 'School' of Humanity, and I will send my dollar by first mail after sight of change of name."

I adopted the name because it was the most appropriate one I could think of for a society with the basis and object of this one. A society has always the power to change anything connected with it. At the formal organization convention the delegates can adopt any name they wish for the society. I must leave the change of name to the Church of Humanity to decide at the convention when it meets to enact its organic laws. I want all who believe its teaching to unite with the society and make their suggestions regarding the name to that convention. The name is immaterial to me except from the viewpoint of appropriateness and policy. It is the basis and object, and method of obtaining the object, that are the all-important essentials. Join the society and aid in its upbuilding and leave the name to be changed, if at all, by the society at its organization convention.

The same teaching we would do under the name "School of Humanity," or any other name, we can and will do under the present name. Our teaching and object would be the same under any other name. The name "church" is appropriate because the teaching of this society is based upon new discoveries about the fundamental teaching of churches and represents the evolution of the "church." You will find a few of my reasons for the name in the June issue. Should a farmer refuse to use an up-to-date plow because he disliked the kind used hundreds of years ago? Progressive farmers will use a modern plow when they would not use one of ancient make. This church is an improved one. It is modernized and brought up-to-date in its basic teaching. Would you continue to object to other churches if they would teach the truth about God and life? I would not. There would be no excuse for the existence of the Church of Humanity if its discovered truths were taught by the other churches or any other organized society. The truths of Nature are what I want taught, especially those regarding God and life that will free the people from idolatry. Those truths are just as acceptable when taught by one society as another, regardless of the name of that society. You should base your likes and dislikes of a society on its teaching and not on its name.

CALLING THEIR BLUFF.

In all Freethought publications are found editorial and letters—envious dissertations on the soft snap the clergy have. They hold them up as lazy, idle drones living off the labor of their dupes. Now I call their bluff by asking them to accept a like position in the Church of Humanity. The Church of Humanity wants the counterpart of the clergyman to teach its discoveries from the rostrum; build up its membership and organize them into local church societies, Sunday schools and young people's societies; organize and teach the choir; conduct the weddings and funerals of our people; collect their salaries; visit the sick; console the dying; take care of the orphans; find husbands for the widows and old maids; deliver orations on all public occasions on any subject required, and keep our members doing their duty in harmonious cooperation. Now here are soft snaps, like the clergy have, for a few of those people who envy them so much. From the number of those envious writers in Freethought publications I can confidently expect a few hundred applicants, including all the editors of such publications, for the positions by return mail.

FREETHOUGHT IDOLATERS.

The titles Freethinker, Agnostic, Infidel, Liberal, Atheist, Secularist, Rationalist, Scientist, etc., do not signify that people answering to them are free from idolatry or a belief in the fundamental errors of it. None of my comrades should answer to any of these titles. The rankest kind of idolaters are found bearing them. They only represent people who have, at the most, discarded a little of the non-essential foliage of superstition, such as a belief in a few of the most absurd stories in the Bible, in the inspiration of the Bible, the divinity of Jesus, or even the Bible God as the true one. But they believe in the existence of a God and the superstition of a continued conscious life, which are the tap-roots of all systems of idolatry Most of the Freethought press, if not all, is edited by such men. They are not eligible to become members of the Church of Humanity and are incompetent to make their subscribers eligible, as is being demonstrated now by the very few of their subscribers who are. Their patron saints are Thomas Paine, and like Deists, that they teach their readers to believe were right in their teaching regarding God and life. They ridicule Christians for following the mistaken leader who lived nineteen centuries ago, while they as stupidly follow one of a century ago and call that a wonderful advancement. The fact is, people who follow mistaken leaders, though living today, are just as stupid as those following the mistaken teachers of ancient times. The believers in the mistakes of Dowie and Mrs. Eddy and Thomas Paine and Ingersoll are as stupid as the Christians are for believing in the mistakes of Jesus. Therefore, "Freethought people" does not mean people who are free from idolatry through learning the truth about God and life, and "Freethought publications" does not mean publications teaching those truths that would free people from idolatry. They simply endeavor to induce people to accept the mistakes of another set of mistaken teachers. A good illustration of this fact is presented by Mr. L. M. Phelps, of Rhode Island, in The Truth Seeker of June 15. He says in part:

"I am glad to learn that Paine's 'Age of Reason' has been reduced to the low price of 15 cents a copy. This puts it in the reach of all. Before I read the 'Age of Reason' I was a Christian (that is, I thought so), but since reading this book I have never felt that I could be a Christian any more. I firmly believe there is something better and more glorifying to God for man to seek than the Christian religion. It is my firm belief that in time (though we may not live to see it) every visible church of the present day will be wiped from this earth, and the whole of the human race will be united in one religion, the godhead of which will not be the Pope of Rome, nor any other man supposed to have divine authority, but God himself. Then, and not until then, will God be glorified to the extreme, and then, and not until then, will man have eternal happiness."

This seems to be a fair sample of what the Freethought press can do for an idolater. At best it only seeks to aid him in exchanging the mistakes of the Bible for the mistakes of the "Age of Reason." That change is of no more value to one than the exchange of counterfeit dollars would be. The "Age of Reason" is based on the tap-roots of idolatry—the God and immortality superstitions. Until the Freethought press can advance enough to free the people from the mistakes of Thomas Paine it can be of no aid in the great task of overthrowing idolatry. The teaching of the scientific truth about God and life is the only possible thing that can do that. That truth is now discovered to be that all Gods, Devils and Holy Ghosts are fabulous beings, heaven and hell myths and death the end of conscious life. The Church of Humanity would like to see the Freethought press move up and base its teaching on these discoveries with the direct object of helping to free the people from idolatry and uniting them into the Church of Humanity, where they can help in the task. Then we could give them our hearty support and patronage. Until they do that they can be of no material value to us and our families. By teaching Agnosticism and Deism they are more of a detriment to our progress than are the Christians. Mr. Phelps thinks he can not be a Christian again, but he is an ignorant idolater just the same, and would be as difficult to win from his position now to that of the Church of Humanity as he would have been before. There is no advantage gained by making people Paine Deists except to weaken the forces of idolatry through division. The ultimate object should be to get them free from a belief in a God of any kind and in continuous life. No method of teaching can do that unless it can reach the children. Papers and books cannot do that. They can only be supplementary. It requires the machinery of organization. But the press is a great auxiliary to organized society and we need it greatly to help in making more people eligible to membership so they can organize. Can the Freethought press arise to its opportunity and furnish this service? That is the question for it to decide. There are only three questions involved. Do the editors know, or can they learn, the truths the Church of Humanity teaches? Will they teach it properly? And, will it pay? It is for them to answer the first two questions and the Church of Humanity to answer the third. If they would move out of the jungle of superstition to our camp and aid in its upbuilding in numbers I for one will promise to give half a dozen of them five times the subscription price for their publications, and I believe my comrades will all give them an increase as a bonus for them to locate in our camp. It is simply a matter of practical business. We want teachers able to help us save our posterity from idolatry. We must pay such teachers. They must give us the teaching we want in the way we want it to get that pay. To do that they must move into our camp and then help to keep our posterity in it and to bring millions more to it by the right kind of teaching. Will they do it? If they don't move out they will die in the jungle in a few years of starvation. As proof of it I call attention to the Agnostic Journal, Ironclad Age, Freethought Magazine, Torch of Reason, Liberal Review, Freethought Ideal, Boston Investigator and a dozen or two minor starvelings of various ages. While these papers were dying of starvation hundreds of religious papers grew stronger from year to year, until they numbered their subscribers by the hundreds of thousands. The difference between the starvation of the one class and the opulence of the other is simply organization and methods of teaching. One spells failure and the other success. One class encourages and helps to build up organizations of their subscribers. The other class fights against all attempts of their subscribers to organize. But this is a free country and they are perfectly free to commit financial suicide if it suits them best.

A FIRM STAND.

"Smithland, Iowa, June 19, 1907. —To all comrades and members of the Church of Humanity: I wish to say that never in the history of the world has anything been so ruinous to humanity as the Bible and the Christian teaching. For 1900 years people have been humbugged by the priests and preachers, who say to their dupes: 'There is a creator called God, and unless you do as we tell you you will be damned, but if you do as we tell you you will be saved and live in heaven forever.' All that is fiction. To knock out that nonsense will be a hard job, but it can be done by the Church of Humanity. We must stick together and continue the good work with Comrade Kerr. If the liberal papers continue their fight on our society we must drop them. I take ten in all, but will drop them all unless they stop abusing the Church of Humanity. Yours for good,

"Dr. L. S. Stoll, ex-Catholic."

All my comrades heard from so far express a like determination to stand by their society firmly against the unjust abuse of those editors who seek to destroy it. Of course, we want no fight with those editors. We have a standing invitation to them to move into our camp and help us win the world from idolatry. There is more than enough for us all to do in that great task without fooling away our time in fighting each other. But if they will not join us in this work at our urgent invitation they must not try to prevent us from uniting to make an effort to rescue and preserve our posterity from idolatry.

THE BRAVE TWO HUNDRED.

Hurray, brave boys and girls! I congratulate you this Fourth of July on completing the second chapter of our society building. To win our race from idolatry is the greatest and grandest work ever undertaken by man. We have begun a two thousand-years job. The building of all the railroads, digging of all the canals and the erection of all the buildings of the world has been a small task compared with that of redeeming our race from idolatry, which we have begun. It will require millions of devoted lives and hundreds of billions of capital to complete the task. It will require a special building in every school district and a special instructor maintained there perpetually to win the people from idolatry. Our buildings and instructors must equal all the buildings and all the idolatrous teachers of all the religions of earth combined before the people can be won from idolatry. Prepare to devote your energies and your wealth to the task. Is it worth it? Yes, indeed, it is. It is your imperative duty to do the best you can for your posterity in particular and the race in general. To win and preserve them from idolatry is the greatest good you can possibly do them. To do that they must be taught the truth about God and life. That will require special buildings and special teachers for all the people of earth. You are laying the foundation for this great work. You must recognize its grandeur and importance. You must arise to a full recognition of your opportunities, duties and responsibilities. On you depends the rescue of our race from idolatry. Throw all of the wealth that you can possibly spare into this work. It will draw interest for your posterity to the end of time in the essentials of civilization. You will make no mistake in devoting your time and wealth to this great task of laying the foundation of a power able to free our race from idolatry.

We begin at once to raise the third chapter of one hundred recruits for our society building. We were only a little over one-third of the time finding the second hundred members that we were the first. Let us all work with renewed hope, energy and enthusiasm to gain the next hundred members in a third of the time required for the last hundred. We must all do our full duty now. We can do nothing when we die.

ORGANIZING ABILITY THE MEASURE OF INTELLIGENCE.

The measure of the intelligence of a people must be based on their ability to organize and develop a system of teaching whereby they can transmit their knowledge to posterity, apart from the question as to the truth or falsity of that knowledge. Judged by this standard we, who have discovered the truth about God and life, do not measure up to the intelligence of the idolaters, since we have not as yet developed enough intelligence to organize to enable us to transmit that knowledge to our posterity. What we know is of no value to our posterity or to the world at large if we keep that knowledge locked up within our own minds. Our great discoveries regarding God and life are of no value to the world if we do not have the intelligence to develop an organized system of teaching them to others. We are in the peculiar position of knowing there is no God and continuous life while idolaters win our children to idolatry through their superior intelligence in organizing and teaching. I charge this condition directly to the false teaching of the Freethought press. All editors of such papers continually teach us that the Christians are fools and idiots for having teachers and supporting them. Of course, their theory is that if they can prevent us from contributing to the churches by such teaching we will have that much more to pay them on subscriptions and books. But that theory does not work out in practice at all, and the populated graveyard of starved-to-death Freethought publications, and the very hungry ones not quite dead, should convince the editors by this time that it does not, and that they should revise those theories and change their teaching to conform to the effects they desire. In practice their teaching has had disastrous results to themselves. The moment they convince us that the Christians are fools for having and supporting their teachers we are also convinced that we would be equally foolish to have and support teachers, which, as a matter of fact, we would be if the first assertion is true. Then, as we do not wish to be considered fools, we stop our Freethought papers or, worse still, we let them come, but refuse to pay for them, since the editors have convinced us we would be fools if we did. The same principle knocked out of the ring every Freethought lecturer by removing financial support from under them by this false teaching. Those who are still living do not yet know that the cause of their non-support was that teaching by themselves and the Freethought press.

To judge of the wisdom of an act we must judge from the actor's viewpoint. The idolaters, believing their ideas of God and life true, as a matter of fact manifest the highest wisdom and intelligence in organizing and employing teachers to promulgate those ideas and hand them down to their posterity. Of course, it would be very foolish and hypocritical in us, knowing the truths we do, to support those teachers of error. But in that alone we do not manifest the highest wisdom and intelligence of which we should be capable. We can do that only by organizing and producing and supporting competent teachers to promulgate the discoveries about God and life we have made. Until we do that we must concede a higher degree of wisdom and intelligence to the idolaters than we possess. Until we do that our self-laudation of superior wisdom is an idle boast, proved to be such by the ability of idolaters to win our own posterity to their superstitions.

This condition should make every Freethought editor and every member of the Church of Humanity blush with shame, and cause them to be so thoroughly dissatisfied and indignant at the position they are in that they will resolve to remedy it regardless of cost. We must either put our money and time into this work of organizing and teaching or go down to defeat in shame, ignominy and disgrace, as a set of incompetent ignoramuses. Which will it be? Fellow editors, and church comrades, it is for you to decide.

Circular Letter to the Church of Humanity

Dear Comrades: The Church of Humanity needs lecturers and organizers. They can't be had without pay. We must provide for the pay first. My plan is to pledge a yearly salary for ten years in advance for the services of a suitable national instructor. We should have one as soon as possible. Many of you are old people, and any of us are liable to die any time. We should have the services of an instructor engaged in advance for such an event. Now, let us make arrangements for the salary of one at least. The best plan I can think of now is to raise the salary by subscription in pledges from each member in the accompanying blank pledge.

The plan is to have the instructor locate in the town and state pledging the most. Thus he could fill all three offices temporarily. If there is enough pledged to hire two instructors, so much the better. The United States could be divided into two districts and each given an instructor. That would be best, as it might be too far for one to attend a funeral in a remote part. As our membership increases the pledges will likewise increase and the territory can be divided into smaller and smaller districts for each instructor until finally all our members can have the services of a local instructor. I take this method to solicit your subscriptions to save time and expense of writing to each one. Please attend to filling out the blank pledge and mailing it to me as promptly as if this was a personal letter. We are two hundred strong now and are amply able to hire at least one instructor for our society. Let each one pledge an amount according to his financial ability. Remember, none can do this great work but ourselves, and that those who pay for it are the most important factors.

I shall publish only amounts pledged and omit the name if desired. There is now over $500 pledged for this purpose annually for ten years. Please let your pledges be as large as possible, and answer this circular promptly, though you be unable to pledge any aid, so that I will know you get this copy of TRUTH ABOUT GOD.

W. H. KERR.

I hereby promise to pay to qualified instructors, provided by the Church of Humanity, annually for ten years, if I live, the following amounts:

1. To our National Instructor, ...
2. To my State Instructor, ...
3. To my Local Instructor, ...
4. To maintain the preparatory college, annually for ten years, ...
5. To build a local church, ...

It is understood that the instructors provided are to be members of the Church of Humanity, and to hold commissions as to their fitness and qualifications for such offices, provided by a national board of examiners of the Church of Humanity.

OUR CRITIC.

Now I shall examine the grounds for his objection to the name. There are two primary grounds for his fifty-year-war on the "church," which are manifest in every copy of The Examiner. The primary one is that people under that society name committed the most atrocious crimes in history and the secondary one is that societies under that name are now teaching error. I promptly admit those facts, for they are the very reasons I am engaged in the work I am, to which I cheerfully contribute my services free and to which I intend to contribute most of my property. I do not want our race to ever again repeat those horrible brutalities and I desire to remove existing errors that would cause their repetition. Hence it is clear that the bases of our work are identical, but our ideas as to the remedy and method of applying it are radically different. His remedy is hatred, contempt and abuse of the name under which the things complained of were done. My remedy is along educational lines that seek to remove the ignorance caused by mistaken teaching regarding God and death, back of the name, by the substitution of truths regarding those vital subjects. He cites as justification of his half century "fight" on the name "church," the following atrocities:

The murder of nine millions of women for witchcraft, the massacre of the Waldenses, the Albigenses and Huguenots; the wars of the Crusades and Thirty Years' War in the Netherlands; the Salem witch murders, the murdering of Catholics in Ireland, the inauguration of the Dark Ages, which lasted a thousand years, and the establishment of the Spanish Inquisition. He says: "Hell and heaven may be interchangeable. God and devil may be synonymous. But the word 'church' has a clear-cut definition all its own. It cannot be confounded. She is the devil incarnate. God may be a myth. Beelzebub, horns, tail and club feet, may be a fiction, but there is no mistaking 'the church.' She is the real thing, she is the d——ed spot that will not out. She is the essence, the quintessence, of human despotism and human degradation."

Mr. Peterson reads of the horrible slaughters perpetrated by people and sees the name under which they operated, then works himself into a frenzy and lambasts the name. I read the same things but I know the name is not in the least responsible for them. It is the mistaken belief and teaching regarding God back of the name that is responsible. That belief is still held by the people. It is that there is a supreme being of infinite power and wisdom who knows and cares for our race and delivers his desires and commands to it. Any unscrupulous or self-deceived person can declare he has had communication with God and lead people into doing anything he desires them to do by making them believe it is "God's will" or "God's command." Our late lamented president, Mr. McKinley, made millions of Americans believe it was "God's will" that America should take and keep the Philippine Islands. So long as people believe there is a real God the fires of fanaticism will be easily rekindled and the atrocities of the Dark Ages be liable to be repeated. My remedy is not to "fight" the church or anything or anybody, but to teach the people the modern discoveries that God is a creation of fiction—a myth—and death the end of conscious life. A general knowledge of these discoveries will forever be a guarantee that the atrocities of the Dark Ages and the Spanish Inquisition will never again be repeated by our race under the belief it is "God's will" and command.

Speaking of the combination name, "Church of Humanity," Mr. Peterson says: "No, no; the epithet 'Church' and the grand old word 'Humanity,' so far as the power of The Examiner may extend, shall never come into juxtaposition; shall never darken the door of the house." As a matter of fact, most all the crimes charged to the church societies were really done in the honest belief they were for the good of humanity in general, and often for the victims in particular. Those people were actuated by humanitarian reasons from the viewpoint of their belief and teaching. Hell and heaven they believed real places representing the extremes of pleasure and torture where an eternity was to be passed.

The Founding of the Church of Humanity.

Wanted—Better Teachers.

Nearly every issue of a Freethought publication demonstrates the necessity of better prepared teachers of the vital subjects of God and life, and demonstrates the necessity for our preparatory college, where people who are to do our teaching in these vital branches of knowledge can be prepared by proper study, instruction and training for their life work. Until we have such specially prepared teachers very little progress can be made in freeing the people from idolatry.

Freethought does not necessarily mean true thought or correct thought, and to be a Freethinker does not necessarily mean one who knows the truth about God and life. The Church of Humanity cannot accept Freethought editors and authors as teachers unless they know the discoveries this church has made, and so declare by membership in it, and then make all their teachings consistent with that knowledge.

To illustrate my position that we cannot accept Freethinkers, Agnostics, Nonconformists and Liberals as our teachers I call attention to some articles in the Blue Grass Blade. In the Blade, dated June 16, is a reproduction of an article from the London Freethinker in which its editor, Mr. G. W. Foote, says:

"The Liberal party has become a religious party. It has even become a party of religious propaganda. The Nonconformists have captured it."

The Nonconformists include all Protestant churches except the state church, of which the king is the head. They are outdoing the state church in forcing their superstition on the children at the expense of the tax payers by being the principal supporters of the "Education Bill" now before parliament requiring the Bible to be read and taught in the public schools as the rule of faith and conduct. Continuing his comment on the bill and its supporters, Mr. Foote says:

"All the principal champions of the bill in parliament are Nonconformists. Agnostics like Mr. John Morley and Mr. John Burns have not made speeches in the house in its favor, although they have voted for it as their party bill. Not a single Liberal voted against the second reading.

There were 384 Liberals who voted for the bill. This proves my assertion true that Liberals and Agnostics are rank idolaters and do not know the discoveries taught by the Church of Humanity. The Bible is to be set up as a fetish in English elementary schools. He says:

"This constitutes a fresh challenge to Freethought. Freethinkers are thus called upon to subject it to a new and deliberate attack. If one body of citizens have a right to cry 'Up with the Bible!' another body of citizens as citizens have the right to cry 'Down with the Bible!' If the one cry is legitimate on political platforms and in parliament, so is the other, and Freethinkers would be foolish not to shout it at the top of their voices. * * * We have to fight the authorized version of the Bible as the word of God."

All this shows how shallow the English Freethinkers are. Like their American cousins, who are tagging after them, they utterly fail to grasp the situation in a comprehensive manner by going to the root of the trouble. They fool away their time and energy in "fighting" a little of the foliage of the tree of superstition instead of attacking its roots—the God and immortality delusions—and grubbing them out of the mind of our race as realities. They do not know the great discoveries made by the Church of Humanity or they would recognize at once the futility of their course and change it. A Freethought editor of a Freethought publication in writing to me once said:

"I have always tried to believe that you were at least sincere, no matter if I did think your pretension to having made a 'great discovery' is a rank fake and an insult to every Freethinker of the past and present."

But now comes Mr. Hughes, a Freethinker and editor of a Freethought paper and vindicates my position by stating in the Blue Grass Blade of June 2 that: "Freethinkers neither assert or deny the existence of a God, but simply say that they do not know, as there is no evidence either one way or the other." Now which of these editors is speaking authoritatively for Freethinkers? One says I insult all Freethinkers of the past and present by my claim of discovering that all Gods are fabulous beings, intimating that they all knew that fact. The other says they do not know it. I think Mr. Hughes is right in affirming they do not. The preponderance of proof is in his favor. Mr. Foote would not waste time in trying to prove the Bible was not the word of a God if he knew the discovery that there is not, and never was, such a being. He would put in his time proving that fact, because when the people once learned it they would not have to be told that the Bible was not the word of a God. They would know it without being told. When a child who has been lied to about Santa Claus bringing its presents learns there is no such a being it knows without being told that he did not bring its presents.

In "Six Historic Americans" Mr. Remsburg says of Paine, Washington, Jefferson, Franklin, Lincoln and Grant: "All were unbelievers—all Infidels—all Freethinkers." But not one of them knew the discoveries taught by the Church of Humanity. On the contrary, some of them were rank idolaters and supporters of idolatry. All believed in the God and immortality superstitions, as doubtless Mr. Remsburg himself does, as he says in the above book: "The dogma of the Church is passing away; but the religion of Thomas Paine will endure." Mr. Paine's religion was a firm belief in the God and immortality superstitions of the church, but Mr. Remsburg does not seem to recognize them as only dogmas and superstitions. He evidently believes them true. In October, 1904, I made a special trip to St. Louis to place before the international congress for progressive thought the discoveries taught by the Church of Humanity and to request that they be made the basis of all anti-idolatrous societies, with the direct object in view of winning the people from idolatry by their teaching. I was turned down by the officers and not allowed a hearing. The Rome congress of that year and the recent congress of Bohemian Freethinkers at Chicago were like gatherings of people who do not know the discoveries taught by the Church of Humanity. I urged some of the officers of the latter convention by letter to call the attention of their convention to the teaching of the Church of Humanity and to see if it would indorse it. But they are evidently not far enough advanced to accept it. In the "World Almanac" for 1907, under statistics of "English-speaking religious communities of the world" Freethinkers are credited with being 5,250,000 strong. But no detailed statement of their distribution by countries is given, and I can find no statement as to their belief and organizations. They are classed here under "religious communities." They certainly do not know, much less teach, the discoveries taught by the Church of Humanity or I would have heard, or read of them, for I have made a diligent search for such people. When I turn to the dictionaries I find that neither of the above editors speaks authoritatively for the Freethinkers, as they are classed as Deists. This proves conclusively that the Church of Humanity has made great discoveries not known by "unbelievers, infidels and Freethinkers." It proves the error of those who abuse us on the ground that our claims to being the true discoverers of the truth taught by the Church of Humanity are fradulent because "Freethinkers of the past and present" knew them. It also proves that the Church of Humanity cannot accept any editor or author as its teacher who is classed as simply an unbeliever, infidel or Freethinker. It would put us in the awkward position of accepting the services of persons as our teachers who know nothing about the truths we want taught. There is only one way to know those unbelievers, Infidels, Atheists, Agnostics and Freethinkers who know the truth about God and life, from the common ignorant idolaters, and that is for them to unite with the Church of Humanity. This separates those who know the truth about God and life from those who do not. So far there has been found 205 who know the discoveries that all Gods, Devils and Holy Ghosts are fabulous beings, heaven and hell myths and death the end of conscious life. All others of whatever name and title must be classed as being ignorant of these discovered truths until they separate themselves from the idolaters by uniting with the Church of Humanity. If you, reader, know the above discovered truths you should hasten to let it be known by separating yourself from the ranks of the idolaters and getting into the ranks of those who are not. The world can be divided into only two classes—those who are idolaters and those who are not. All must be classed as idolaters until they learn the discoveries taught by the Church of Humanity and have united with it as proof of that fact. If you, reader, know those truths and are not a member of the Church of Humanity you are in the wrong class and you should hasten to get into the right one. You see by the above evidence that you cannot escape being classed as an idolater by any other means. All the people can be classed as Freethinkers which, as a matter of fact, they are, there being no way to prevent them from thinking anything they can and want to. The members of all other churches are just as free to think as are the members of the Church of Humanity. They are also as free to act, as is proven by there being members of the Church of Humanity from all the leading idolatrous churches. The idolaters of all churches are perfectly free, in this country, to learn the truths taught by the Church of Humanity and to unite with it when they learn them. But that freedom of thought and action does not give them the necessary teaching. Hence the necessity of competent teachers to furnish it. I appeal to Freethought editors to post up on the God and immortality questions, then separate from the idolaters by joining the Church of Humanity and help to provide that teaching that can win the people from idolatry.

The Truth About God

Published monthly by the Church of Humanity.

Teaches the Scientific Discovery that God, Satan and Holy Ghost are Fabulous Beings; that Heaven and Hell are Myths and that Death is the Permanent Cessation of Life.

Entered at Great Bend Kan. postoffice as second class mail matter.

Subscription 25 cents a year. In bundles to Sunday Schools, Church organizations and church members for free distribution, 25 cents per 100 copies.

Remit by postoffice money order, coin or currency. Address all communications and orders to W. H. Kerr, 2210 Broadway, Great Bend, Kansas.

We are growing, and must keep growing or perish, as a society.

One dozen back numbers of TRUTH ABOUT GOD for 25 cents. Order all you want.

Don't forget to order that bundle of papers monthly in time to get all those interesting "letters of evidence."

Don't forget to send in that membership application as requested in that circular to Freethinkers and subscribers.

Don't forget to send in your promise of aid as a financial backer of the truths you comrades have discovered, as requested in the circular.

I think we will be able to secure the services of a satisfactory field worker when we have $1,000 promised as a salary. Let us promise it and see if it will not fetch 'em.

Friend Hughes' editorial in the Blade of June 16, under "The God Idea," wherein he asserts there is no God-idea, only emphasizes the necessity of clearer and better prepared teachers of that subject.

Life, push, energy, enthusiasm, determination and stick-to-itiveness are the forces that move the world along to greater achievements. The Church of Humanity must have all these qualities to win success.

A comrade writes that the state should teach our discoveries at public expense in the common schools. But he seems to forget that the people are the state, and that they will not allow things taught that such a large majority disbelieve. Hence the necessity of the Church of Humanity bearing the expense of teaching until a majority of the people learn them.

Idolaters dig up the cash to hire people to teach errors regarding God and life. Let us dig up some to hire people to teach the truth about them. Is it not a good scheme, comrades? Every church teaches us to love the truth, defend it and teach it and to be generous, benevolent, charitable and to donate to the church freely. Now let us play a practical joke on them by following their advice and teaching in those matters, and see how well pleased they will be.

An M. D. named George H. Dunster, of Argentine Republic, South America, writes to the Truth Seeker to criticise the Church of Humanity for claiming to have made the discoveries it teaches, and intimating strongly that he does not know them. Well, what if he don't! Not a member of the Church of Humanity has to go half way to South America to find plenty of people who do not know those discoveries. Just remember, though, that people know many things now that were regarded as "absurdities" when first proclaimed by the discoverer or inventor.

I shall have some extra copies of this number printed as I believe you will want to begin your monthly bundle with this issue. But to insure your order being filled do not delay in sending it in.

NEW RECRUITS.

The following comrades united with the Church of Humanity since last report:

199. J. B. McKeever, Hebron, Ia., 46.

200. Mrs Julia C. Coon, Bartow, Fla., 40, housekeeper, American, none.

201. R. G. Earle, Pine Grove, Ark., 32, farmer, American.

202. A. F. Fortier, Circle, Alaska, 44, miner and taxidermist, Canadian, Catholic.

203. Henry F. Ebers, Cazadero, Cal., 66, farmer, American, Catholic.

204. T. F. High, Boise, Idaho, 47, laborer, American.

205. Mary Juster, 36 E. 7th street, New York, 23, milliner, Roumanian, none.

The Church of Humanity welcomes the new recruits to its ranks. This is the first effort ever made to separate by a special society the people who are not idolaters from those who are. Until comparatively recently there were no non-idolaters to be separated. Every one believed in one or both of the primary superstitions of our race that lie at the foundation of all systems of religion and idolatry. No one had made the discoveries that all Gods are fabulous beings and that conscious life ceases forever at death. Now a few are making these grand discoveries and are uniting into a special society so they can be known and so they can work in harmony and unison in a systematic way to teach these discoveries to others that they may be rescued from idolatry. This is the only practical method whereby these grand discoveries can be propagated. All who know them should unite with the Church of Humanity as soon as they learn of its existence. It is the only way one can let the people know they have learned these discoveries and by which they can aid in having them taught to others. I would like to be kept busy for an hour each day recording new recruits and filling out their certificates. Come on, subscribers, if you know the truths taught by this church, and apply for your graduation and membership certificate as these comrades have done.

A CIRCULAR LETTER TO SUBSCRIBERS WHO ARE NOT MEMBERS OF THE CHURCH OF HUMANITY

Friends: Am I doing a good work? Do you approve it? Do you want it done? Do you want a society of those people who know the discoveries herein taught? Do you want the people to know them? Do you want the people rescued from idolatry? If you do, give me some encouragement. Lend a helping hand. Societies can't be built up without members. We can only build up by receiving members who believe our teaching and who want it carried on. That is the way other churches are built up and increase so rapidly to a large membership. We must follow their method in society building if we build one. Have you children you would like to see join this church? Then join it yourself and set the example. Show them how it is done. Do not ask or expect them to do it if you are afraid to do it yourself. Children join other churches because their parents are members. Help to turn the tide of children to this church by taking the lead. They will join some church and believe in its teaching and support it. Why not take the lead and influence them to join this one? Do you not prefer this one to all others? Is it not your choice? Then prove it to your children, to your neighbors, relatives, friends and to us. You see by the evidence in this issue that all Freethinkers are classed as Deists and must be included with idolaters whether they practice it or not. Don't you want to be something more than an ignorant Deist? Don't you want to let it be known that you have learned the grandest discoveries of modern times? If you do, then send in your application for membership in the first and only society of people who know these discoveries. It is the only way you can get due credit for knowing them. You must be classed as an idolater entirely ignorant of these discoveries until you prove you are not by a public declaration through membership in this society. At least a hundred of you should join the Church of Humanity at once. In letters to me you said you believed this teaching and would unite with us some time. It is time you were doing it. Why put it off any longer? You can't get credit by anybody for knowing the truths taught until you are enrolled as a member and a certificate of graduation sent you. Please call for your certificate if you are entitled to one. I don't care anything about your 25 cents subscription to TRUTH ABOUT GOD or your dollar fee for membership, as they are nothing to me, only to fill the requirements of the postal regulations and to show good faith in the applicant. I get nothing out of either, as it all goes to the credit of the church. But I do want your application for membership in the Church of Humanity. That is the goal I am working for. That is the only reward I get. It is all I ask, or expect, or want. Will you withhold that reward? The days membership applications come in are the only ones on which I get my reward. They are days of encouragement, of hope, of enthusiasm. All other days are those of discouragement in my work. If my labor is entitled to its reward please send in your membership application.

A Circular Letter to All Freethinkers.

Gentlemen: I have been criticised severely by certain parties for claiming to have made the discoveries the Church of Humanity teaches, on the ground that all Freethinkers of the past and present knew them. As I wish to give due credit to all who have made the same discoveries I have examined the writings of dozens of people who have either claimed to be Freethinkers or were so classed by other writers, and I find from their own statements that they believed in the superstition of the existence of a God and a future life. I examined three different dictionaries and they all class Freethinkers as Deists. In no papers or documents of any society or organization of Freethinkers have I found a statement that they know these discoveries, or that they intended to teach them. In view of these facts, if you know that God is a fabulous being and life ended at death you are in the wrong class. Freethinkers can not be credited with knowing these modern discoveries. You must get out of that class to get credit for knowing them if you do. The Church of Humanity affords you an easy and cheap way to get into a class where you can be given due credit for making these grand discoveries and of having that fact proclaimed publicly to the world in permanent records. I urge you most earnestly to unite with the Church of Humanity, if you know the grand truths it teaches.

LETTER OF EVIDENCE TO A CHRISTIAN MOTHER.

NO. 1.

DEAR MOTHER: If you have been reading TRUTH ABOUT GOD regularly, which I hope you have been, you are aware of the great scientific discoveries made and taught by the Church of Humanity regarding God and life. I shall address a few letters to you giving some of the reasons for proofs of the truth of these great modern discoveries. It is one thing to hear of discoveries having been made and another thing to learn and understand the evidence that proves them true. When material objects are discovered it is not difficult now to prove it true by the application of our physical senses aided, if necessary, by mechanical inventions. But when things believed to exist are discovered to not exist the discovery is more difficult to prove since we must rely more on correct reason and logic, and on our senses negatively.

That difficulty is increased millions of times when that discovery is the non-existence of an idol whom the people have been taught to fear more than death, and in whose worship is invested billions of dollars and the services of millions of teachers. To overcome that false teaching, deadly fear, false hopes of perpetual conscious life, prejudice, habit and custom, is a gigantic task to undertake, and will require hundreds, if not thousands, of years to accomplish. But this is an age of great achievements and undertakings.

The Church of Humanity is now gathering power to begin that stupendous work that will not be completed until every member of our race learns the discoveries that all Gods, Devils and Holy Ghosts are fabulous beings, heaven and hell myths and death the end of conscious life. If I fail to convince you of the truth of these discoveries it will be due to one of two causes. First, my inability to present enough of the evidence in a convincing manner or, secondly, your inability to weigh correctly the evidence I do give.

My inability will be due to the voluminous evidence of the truth of these discoveries, all of which no one man has the ability to gather and present to a student in a convincing manner, especially when the lessons are so short and so far apart as these will necessarily be.

Your inability to give due weight to the evidence presented will be due to several reasons:

First—Your deadly fear of God and hell, which we have discovered does not exist in reality in the universe.

Secondly—Your intense hope and desire for continued conscious existence in heaven with your loved ones, which can never be realized owing to heaven being a myth and immortality a mere baseless superstition. The discoveries have now been positively made by the Church of Humanity that no such a place as heaven exists in the universe and that no being can possibly survive death with consciousness.

Thirdly — Your long-continued regular practice of idolatry, which has become such a fixed habit as to be perhaps impossible for you to break, though your better judgment should be convinced it is useless. Should you be convinced of the truth of these great discoveries you would probably still continue the practice of idolatry from force of habit, like a person continues the use of tobacco and intoxicating drinks from force of habit when his better judgment says it is useless, detrimental and wrong and should be stopped.

Fourthly—The fear of the conventional opinion of your associates in idolatry. It is next to impossible to see any harm in what one's associates all do regardless of what it is. And when the harm is recognized very few have the moral courage to risk the criticisms of those associates by ceasing a bad habit and urging the others to do so.

Our assistants—In presenting this evidence I can use that which has been accumulating for centuries in a fragmentary way by the researches of many people in many lines of investigation into the phenomena of Nature, and also the results of the critical examination by many people into the evidences relied on by idolaters to prove their teaching true. I have the moral support and backing of the Church of Humanity, which is composed of those people who have learned these great discoveries through their own experience, observation and investigation, reinforced by a knowledge of some of the evidences I shall present. You will be prevented from accepting this evidence at its true value by considerations already given and the influence that superior numbers have on most people.

Some truths to remember—In studying the evidences of these discoveries always remember the following truths and statements:

1. We do not destroy a continuity of life beyond the grave or in any way prevent you from having it. We have simply discovered the truth that Nature does not extend conscious life beyond the grave for any being. Hence it is Nature and not we that will terminate your conscious existence forever at death. We do, however, destroy the hope of immortality in those who have been taught that mistake. If you experience any sorrow at parting with that hope, which you doubtless will, charge it to those false teachers who implanted it As fast as the Church of Humanity can do it, it will teach children what death means before idolaters teach them the errors about it. That will spare them sorrow on learning the truth later in life. It would be as commendable to teach children that they could not be killed as to teach them that they will not die when they are killed. One teaching would be no more untrue than the other.

2. We do not destroy God or deprive you of the privilege and joy of seeing Him. We have simply made the discovery that no real God exists in the universe. Nature, and not we, has made it impossible for you to ever see a real God by not having produced one. All the hundreds of Gods worshiped by our race in the past, including the one you worship, were man-made creations of fiction, like Santa Claus. If you experience any sorrow on learning that you will not see God, as doubtless you will, charge it to those teachers of error who implanted that hope in your mind. When a child weeps from excess of sorrow on learning that its dear Santa Claus is not a real being, that sorrow is to be charged to those who taught it error about Santa Claus and not to those who told it the truth about him. You can comprehend the fact that there would have been no real Santa Claus though the child had never been undeceived. Your belief in the existence of a God and a future life are parallel cases. The discoveries that there is no real God and no life beyond the grave are truths that will remain truths regardless of whether you ever hear of them or believe them when you do. We teach these discoveries in the firm belief that all people should know them, and that they should be taught to every child born to our race that lives to be old enough to be taught anything about these subjects. We do not believe it right to lie about Santa Claus and we know it is not right to lie about God and life when we know what the truth is. You taught your children that it is not right to lie, and I think that teaching should be followed when the subjects of God and life are under consideration as well as other subjects. Hence in teaching the truth about God and life I am following your own high standard of moral teaching that I am confident you will not repudiate. You also taught me to worship God. But when I discovered there was no real God to worship I had to cease it or violate your teaching against lying, deceit and hypocrisy.

3. I shall devote very little attention to the other fabulous beings and places, such as the Holy Ghost, Satan, Jesus Christ, heaven and hell; because all these are secondary myths that depend for their vitality and perpetuation on the two primary superstitions regarding the existence of a God and continuous life. When those two superstitions are overthrown as realities in the minds of the people they will cease teaching these secondary superstitions through necessity. The evidence of their non-existence will be used to some extent to prove the non-existence of the primary subjects.

4. I love my children as much as you love yours. I would give as much and do as much to see my dead children alive again as you would yours. I would run no more risk of going alive to a real hell and of causing my loved ones to be sent there than you would. This is a guarantee that I am sure of my ground; that I know that I am right. There is no guess-work, belief, opinion or theory about my discovery. I absolutely know positively that there is no such a being as a real God, and no such thing as conscious life surviving death. I know these truths as plainly and as thoroughly as I can know anything. I stand personally responsible for any punishment all who believe my teaching are to have on that account after they die, to the extent of taking that punishment on myself one million times greater and longer than required of them, after I die. Then time will be no object to me, and I would as leave be in a furnace as a refrigerator. I could not know the difference. If a poor, ignorant, superstitious man who lived nineteen centuries ago named Jesus can atone to a mythical God for the ignorance of idolaters by going to hell for three days an intelligent man living in the twentieth century ought to be able to atone for the manifestation of intelligence of civilized people by being placed in hell for eternity after he dies. I wish to destroy your hope of heaven and fear of hell as much as possible before calling on you to weigh the evidence of my discoveries that no God exists and no future life is possible, because you know as well as I do that no one can judge evidence correctly whose judgment is influenced by hope of reward or fear of punishment.

5. There is another fear of yours I wish to dispel as much as possible in advance, and that is the effect of my teaching on the people's morals. I wish to assure you most positively it will have a more civilizing effect on them than the teaching of error about these subjects. All good moral ethics will remain unimpaired and will be taught and observed as generally by those who know these truths as by those who do not. As proof of this statement I refer you to the membership of the Church of Humanity, whom you will find to be as good citizens in every respect as are a like number of those who do not know or believe these discovered truths.

6. There has been much hatred and abuse indulged in by the forces on opposite sides of this controversy. I recognize that as all wrong and out of place and hope you do. There can be none of that between you and I, although we may continue on opposite sides to the last. You may never be convinced of the truth of the discoveries I have made and am teaching, but you will always remain the dear good mother to me you have always been, and I hope you will always regard me as a dutiful, loving son. Had I never made these discoveries I would have continued in the practice and support of idolatry, as you are doing, and had you in early life made the discoveries I have you would have ceased idolatry as I have done. I am not a subject for abuse because I made great discoveries. You are not a subject for abuse because you failed to make them. In the natural course of progress only the few make discoveries, and it is their imperative duty to teach them to others. Thousands of Christian mothers will read these letters to you with interest. A few of them may be able to correctly weigh the evidence presented and recognize the truth of the discoveries taught by the Church of Humanity and unite with it. Many others will have their fears dispelled for the safety of their progressive children who join this church and believe its teaching. That will be ample reward for all the pains I can take in writing them.

The next letter will present daily objective proof that God is a fabulous being.

Your loving Son.

Circular Letter to the Church of Humanity.

NO. 2.

Comrade P. C. Hansen writes:

"In answer to your circular letter I must say that I am unwilling to donate anything at the present time for instructors, or at least before there are about 100 members in my own county."

As the comrades did not respond with pledges of aid to pay for the services of field workers I suspect you do not fully understand the plans I have in contemplation. If we should all refuse aid until there are one hundred, or even two, members in our own county we could never have a national society, much less a state or county organization, of our people, or in any way have our discoveries promulgated, and they could never be made known to others. In the beginning of our society building we must consider the whole United States as our local territory and build up in it one national society first. Owing to the very few and widely-scattered people who are eligible to membership in our society through their knowledge of the discoveries it teaches we must take in a vast territory to find enough to form the first society. Then as our number increases we can organize state, county and local organizations in their order. We must begin by organizing the national society first, as it will be much easier to find 1,000 people in all the United States who can learn our discoveries than a half dozen in Comrade Hansen's county. My plan is for all of us to chip in to pay one field worker to aid in teaching our discoveries from the rostrum to win numbers faster. He would work where he would have the most success, perhaps in the largest cities first, until we get the required number for our national organization. I believe you will all prefer a national organization to none at all, as would be the case if we refuse aid until we have a hundred members in a county. It would be hard to get a hundred members in a county containing one of our largest cities and impossible to get that number in any other for many years to come. I shall change the form of the pledge to include aid for only one national field worker to canvass the largest cities for members. That will simplify the matter. Then, when we get the salary of one worker raised and a qualified comrade at work, we can increase the number of workers as success and increased membership will justify. This worker is to teach our discoveries to the people by public lectures and the distribution of our literature and receive members into the church as missionaries and evangelists do for the idolatrous churches. Perhaps we could get the services of a suitable worker for $1,000 a year and a percentage of the membership fee. Let us try that. I shall subscribe $100 on the amount. That is one tenth of it. The balance of you should easily make up by pledges the other $900. You surely will not want me to do all the work and paying too. Our discoveries will perish if you do, because their propagation is too much for any one person to undertake. Our entire race are idolaters and will remain so until taught our discoveries. But the discoveries will be lost again if they are not taught by our society. No other people know them. By the evidence given in this TRUTH ABOUT GOD you will learn that Freethinkers do not know them. The fate of these great modern discoveries is entirely in your hands. It is up to you to save them from perishing. They can be saved only by propagation by you. Will you let them be lost for want of a few hundred dollars? Truth, like error, should have financial backers. Will you back these? When we get 1,000 members and are formally organized the work can then be directed by a National Board of Propaganda. That will be more satisfactory. But until then we should push the work right along as best we can. I shall now call for financial backers of the grand truths you and I have discovered and divide them into five classes according to the amount of financial backing they will give. Those giving $10 will be class 1; $25, class 2; $50, class 3; $75, class 4; $100, class 5. There ought to be at least twenty of our comrades in each of these five classes of financial backers the first year. I shall be one of them in the fifth class. If we can get efficient field workers for $1,000 a year we can get as many as we can raise salaries for. Our field workers would be subject to recall and their salaries stopped if they were unable to make satisfactory results in increase of membership. Until the society is formally organized I shall supervise the field workers myself, receive your donations and pay them, receive their reports and publish them for you to examine. This is the right way to get our discoveries taught to the people and to increase our membership faster. I hope all of you will be financial backers of the grand discoveries you have made and try to get in the highest class you possibly can. Please fill out the accompanying pledge and return it to me that I may be able to employ a field worker as soon as possible:

If you do not wish to use the blank just write on a separate sheet the amount you will contribute on or before January 1, 1908, and sign your name and address. It will do as well. I will put you in the proper class. These classes will be permanent and when the amount is paid I shall send you a nice little class certificate. You can climb to higher classes from year to year by contributing the proper additional amount to the next class. I hope you adult comrades will get into these classes and prove your desire for the preservation of the truths you have discovered by being their Financial Backers. W. H. KERR.

OUR CRITIC.

In their ignorance they believed it to be the kindest act of humanity to kill a man to prevent him from leading his family and others to hell. They believed that any amount of torture inflicted on a man here that would save him from hell hereafter would be a blessing to him and an act of the best humanitarianism. In many of their tortures, burnings and massacres, they were doubtless actuated by purely humanitarian motives, though organized under the name "Church." Then, again, he evidently holds the church people today responsible, and even guilty and punishable, for the crimes of the church hundreds of years ago. Is not that unjust? What had they to do with them? Were not his ancestors and those of all people outside of church societies today just as guilty as those of church members? If any blame attaches to church members for the deeds of their ancestors, does not the blame equally attach to non-members? I think he will reject the theological theory and teaching that we should be sent to hell and punished for Adam's disobedience, even were the fable true. He would reject the principle as idiotic, unreasonable and unjust. Why, then, does he use that rejected theory as a basis for abuse of church members? Many church members regret, repudiate and condemn the fanatical excesses of our common ancestors. The humane activities of many idolaters have now taken up quite a different line of work from that of our ancestors. Instead of torturing heretics and burning scientists to save their souls from hell, as they then supposed, they now build and maintain hospitals, asylums, orphanages, etc. This shows the gradual change in the meaning of words and in the activities they represent. Societies gradually change to conform to advancing knowledge and changed environments. The Church of Humanity, then, represents the natural evolution of the "church" through learning the final truth about God and death. If we who have discovered those truths do our full duty in teaching them other church societies will accept them in time. But he says: "'Church' signifies gods, ghosts, devils, angels, spirits, brimstone, holy water, etc., etc., ad nauseam." Well suppose it does; is it not because it teaches error concerning those things that he really objects to it? It is the reason I object to it. Then suppose the "church" taught the people the truth about them and rescued them from idolatry, instead of making idolaters of them through its false teaching, would he object to it then? I would not if that teaching was done in the proper way. It is what I want done. As it is impossible for existing societies to teach the truth about them, why not form a new society of those people who know what the truth is to do it? Who should care what name the society takes to organize under so it delivers the goods? It is much easier and cheaper to criticize the way others do things than to do them a better way. If Messrs. Peterson, Lenau, Davis, Jamieson and other caustic critics of the Church of Humanity will show us by actual demonstration that they can rescue and preserve people from idolatry by a different plan under some other name much faster and easier than ours the Church of Humanity will give its full consent and congratulations and would likely unite with them in a body. Until they give us such objective proof their criticisms fall flat and my comrades should pay no more attention to them than they do to that of idolaters. People who "fight" a society on account of its name regardless of what it does and teaches are very shallow reasoners indeed. People who "fight" us simply because we are attempting to organize must be regarded as our enemies who do not wish us to save our posterity from idolatry, since organization is the only possible way of doing it. People who "fight" us because they have not learned the discoveries we have should have no influence with my comrades to swerve them from the path of duty.

NOTICE!

The series of letters to my mother, who will be 77 years old if she lives to the 20th of September, will run perhaps more than a year. They will be very interesting, as they will cover a wide range of evidence along several lines of proof of our discoveries, giving sound reason and good logic in such plain language as to be easily understood. They will be designed as model letters from members of our church to their Christian parents or other relatives and friends. I advise all my comrades to order a monthly bundle of the papers at once to get the full series. You can mail them to your relatives and friends. Two copies will go in an ordinary letter without additional postage, and nine copies can be mailed in a bundle for 1 cent postage.

To encourage all to subscribe for a bundle each month the price will be as follows:

33 copies monthly one year	$1.00
66 copies monthly one year	2.00
100 copies monthly one year	3.00
200 copies monthly one year	6.00
500 copies monthly one year	15.00

Perhaps one or more of your neighbors would, if asked, chip in with you and take a bundle large enough to supply all the neighborhood. Try it. Quite a number of subscriptions have expired and will expire shortly. Please renew and order a bundle monthly without waiting for statement.

VOL. 2, NO. 9. GREAT BEND, KANSAS, SEPTEMBER, 1907. WHOLE NO. 21.

The Founding of the Church of Humanity.

A Proclamation.

Releasing all people from their vows to any God, Jesus Christ, Holy Mary or dead Saints.

By virtue of my discoveries that all Gods, Devils and Holy Ghosts are fabulous beings, heaven and hell myths and death the end of conscious life, I hereby proclaim all vows made to any God, Jesus Christ, Holy Mary, dead saints or other idols null and void, and release all people who have made such vows from all obligations to fulfill them. I personally stand responsible for the repudiation of all such vows to the extent of taking upon myself, after I am dead, all supposed evil consequences that are due all people after they are dead on account of repudiating said vows.

W. H. KERR,
Great Bend, Kan.
Temporary Organizer of the Church of Humanity and editor of its organ, The Truth About God.

The necessity for this proclamation and its promulgation is suggested by an article in The National Rip-Saw for September.

The editor, in commenting on a bill in the British House of Commons to appoint a commission to inquire into the matter of inspection of monastic and conventional institutions, says, among other interesting things:

"I long to see the time that America will assert herself as France has done and as England has begun to do, and give Roman Catholicism, as well as the other church institutions, to understand that their high walls, their barred windows and cloistered doors are cancerous growths upon the body-politic of any enlightened nation, and at divers times each year let the inmates of each of these institutions be given to understand that they are responsible to no one but God, and that all vows sealed by pretended vice-gerents of Jesus Christ or their agents are cunningly arranged to 'befuddle' the mind of easily-duped men and women, and that they are free to leave these institutions, and that the strong arm of civilization will protect them from the tyrants of these church institutions if they undertake to molest them. . . . Oh! for the time when American manhood will stretch itself up to the limit of its American freedom and declare to the children of this land that monasteries, convents, high walls, barred windows and cloistered doors are only the remaining relics of the dark ages, when priests ruled with a rod of iron. . . . 'The world do move,' and the time is not far in the distance when America will be compelled to force Rome to permit Light to sift through the barred doors of their institutions."

All of which demonstrates the necessity for some one to project a ray of light on the God-idea into the editorial sanctum of the Rip-Saw. He is as ignorant of the great modern discoveries made and taught by the Church of Humanity as any child in a convent or he would include God as one of the relics of the dark ages and not confirm the superstition of imprisoned idolaters by having the proposed commission tell them they were "responsible to God." He should know it is a feeling of that very responsibility to God through their recorded vows that chain them more securely to those monasteries and convents than "high walls, barred windows and cloistered doors." Those devices are designed as much to keep undesired people out as to keep idolaters in. The inmates are chained by their vows that can hold them fast, though a commission threw wide open the doors. They could be driven out only by force, but no physical force can break their chains to a mythical God, and they would still remain slaves to man-made Gods through their vows.

The proposed commission suggested by the Rip-Saw should first make it a point to break the force of those vows and then the imprisoned idolaters would feel free to leave such institutions. The only way to do that effectually is to make known to them the modern scientific discoveries taught by the Church of Humanity and the evidences that prove them true. The above proclamation and my offer in their behalf should be made known to them and fully explained so they could understand it.

I suggest that the editor of the Rip-Saw try to learn the modern discoveries that all Gods, Devils and Holy Ghosts are fabulous beings, heaven and hell myths and death the end of conscious life, and if he succeeds in doing so, then unite with the Church of Humanity and help it to teach them to all people outside of those institutions he wants investigated. Then they will be put out of business as prison pens for idolaters in the course of time for want of willing victims. As a starter I suggest he publish my above proclamation and offer. I request that all publications I exchange with will do the same.

CLERGYMEN HEADING OUR WAY.

Our great discoveries are in the special domain of theology. Hence the clergy of every denomination should be deeply interested in them and try to learn them. A few have subscribed for our church paper for that purpose. The following letter from one explains itself and illustrates what good a wide distribution of our church paper may do.

"Dear Sir: The writer, an emancipated clergyman of the 'Old School,' happened to find a copy of your monthly, THE TRUTH ABOUT GOD. Naturally I am interested in your views and 'church,' and if you will have the kindness to furnish me with the proof that you possess and explain your method of investigation so that I may convince myself, I shall be much obliged. You will find me open to conviction and ready to accept the truth from whatever source it may come. When I am fully convinced I shall be glad to advocate your cause. My education is such that I can readily grasp the facts that you may present and follow you into any line of research that you may select. Awaiting your reply, I am, yours sincerely, P. WELLER,

"Box 147, Rochester, N. Y."

I have forwarded Mr. Weller a lot of back numbers of the church paper and other literature. He manifests the right disposition and I hope he will subscribe for TRUTH ABOUT GOD, and when he is convinced of the truths it teaches he will join the Church of Humanity and go to work teaching its discoveries from the rostrum. When such men get headed our way we want them to keep coming until they arrive at our camp. We do not want them to stop on the way at the Paine station or the Penticost station or the Ingersoll station.

KNOWLEDGE IS NO HANDICAP.

From the tone of some letters I get and from articles in all Freethought publications, I get the impression that many people believe it is a great handicap to their business and chances for success in life if they allow it to be known that they know the truth about God and life. That is a very false idea and no friend of truth should entertain it or promulgate it in any way. It is taught by evangelists to scare people into silence who know the truth about those subjects, and, strange to say, is having its effect to a great extent. But the strangest part is that people who are the victims of the false scare become its greatest promulgators instead of discouraging such a theory. If any of my comrades are helping to promulgate this false idea I request them to cease it, as it is doing much damage to the cause of truth about God and life and is in itself very erroneous. Some Freethought publications are inculcating this pernicious teaching by refusing to give the full address of their contributors. Thus teaching them to be afraid and ashamed of their own knowledge and opinions expressed publicly. No one should write anything for publication he is afraid or ashamed to put his full address to. I do not want publications coming to my house filled with the writings of such people. Learn the truth about God and life and teach it in such an honorable way that you will not be afraid or ashamed of it yourself. People are not afraid or ashamed to let it be known that they know the truth about the earth, sun, moon and stars, and are not afraid of being ostracized or boycotted on account of that knowledge. There is no sense in being afraid or ashamed of knowing the truth about God and life, or fearing ostracism and boycotting on that account. A large majority of idolaters have much more sense in this respect than they are given credit for in Freethought publications. I can testify to this from personal knowledge and experience. No one is doing more, and intends doing more, than myself to teach those discoveries about God and life that will overthrow the foundations of all religions and idolatries, yet the idolaters do not ostracise or boycott or injure myself or family in any way. They pay me as much for my farm products as they do for that of their fellow idolaters. They charge me no more than they do idolaters for goods purchased. My credit is just as good where I am known as that of idolaters, according to my financial ability. A man's credit is based on the value of his property and prompt payments and not on his knowledge or ignorance of the truth about God and life. I have a standing invitation from all the clergy I know to attend their church services, which I occasionally do in town, and am always given a hearty welcome. I believe I have no truer friends than the preachers who know and understand me. No one, so far as I know, refuses to associate with members of my family or to give them employment on account of them being members of the Church of Humanity. At this writing, August 15, my two daughters, who are stenographers, are employed by the two largest firms in this city. From my personal observations I am inclined to believe that the mistreatment by Christians complained of is due to other causes than simply a knowledge of the truth about God and life, and I think those causes are to be found generally in those who complain of unjust treatment. I request all my comrades to insist on their full address being given by all editors publishing any of their writings. We must not write anything we are afraid or ashamed to subscribe to, and we must not discredit our teaching by the appearance of repudiating it by withholding our full address.

"I hope and firmly believe that my child will be returned to me. For the prayers of the thousands of good people in this country, going up for the restoration of little Horace, cannot go unanswered.—H. N. Marvin, Dover, Del." Result—When the child was found he was dead. Conclusion—Prayers to a fabulous being cannot be heard or answered.

DON'T DO IT, COMRADES!

In commenting on my teaching that idolaters should not be abused for their ignorance concerning God and life, Comrade Heald says in July Higher Science:

"The thing to do is to show what does move matter and thus give proof that God is not needed to operate the universe, and at the same time the churches and people who believe in them deserve all the contempt, ridicule and abuse that can be heaped upon them, until they would be ashamed to appear in the daytime in a humanized community."

This theory of abuse by Comrade Heald is all wrong and should not be put in practice for several reasons:

First—Because our dearest relatives, friends and neighbors are idolaters and we must not abuse them ourselves, much less hire anyone to do it.

Second—Because no self-respecting people would accept such people for their teachers, but would be repelled in disgust. They would instantly recognize the fact, as we do when it is tried on us, that contempt, ridicule and abuse is no evidence at all of the truth of a teaching, and that it is not the business of a teacher to employ such methods.

Third—"The procession of planets" can be taught only as a theory until time gives astronomical data to prove it true or false. But in case it is proven true and is in time accepted and taught in all schools it will not have the least effect in checking idolatry, as Comrade Heald thinks it would. Idolaters would simply open their schools and colleges with prayer and Bible reading and then proceed to teach the Procession of Planets, as they now do the Copernican system of astronomy and the modern discovery of evolution, both of which flatly disprove every material teaching of the Bible. Why! Don't you know that physical geography has taught the people the direct causes of rain and how it is produced by natural forces independent of a God? But in case of a severe drouth they still pray to a myth for rain as though they had never learned the true causes of it. The fact is that no amount of teaching in scientific knowledge can check idolatry except the direct teaching of the discoveries that all Gods are fabulous beings and conscious life ends forever at death. Until the people are taught these discoveries they will go on learning all other discoveries and practicing idolatry at the same old stand in the same old way.

What is needed now is teachers who will teach these two discoveries in a quiet, dignified way, perfectly free from abuse of idolaters and their idols, and unite the people as fast as they can learn them in the Church of Humanity, where they can aid in the support of the teachers.

NEWS ITEMS AND COMMENTS.

"St. Louis, April 4.—At the annual meeting of the Lucas Avenue Presbyterian church, reports showed that during the year contributions to the funds of the church were over $100,000." Comrades, money is the motor that runs all churches. Let us put a stronger motor into the Church of Humanity.

"Mrs. Russell Sage has added $100,000 to her gift of one-fourth million dollars for the building of a home for the International Y. M. C. A. committee." Rich people donate to active societies embracing large numbers so their praises will be sung far and wide. The Church of Humanity should take the cue from this trait in human nature and work hard to increase its membership to large numbers where it will attract the gifts of those rich people who want their praises sung by a big crowd. See?

"During the volcanic activity of Mt. Etna last May the frightened people living in its vicinity flocked to the churches to pray for the intercession and protection of the Virgin and their patron saints." When people are taught the discoveries that Gods are myths and death the end of life they will act more wisely. The Church of Humanity is the only society that knows those truths, and their teaching depends on it entirely. My comrades should recognize the great responsibility that rests on them and act accordingly.

Advices from Italy say there seems to be an anti-clerical wave sweeping the Italian peninsula. What is needed most in all such cases, but never done, is to follow that wave up with a stronger one labeled "Anti-idolatry Wave." An anti-clerical wave does no permanent good where the people are left as full of idolatry and superstition as before. All Freethought publications are devoting most of their energies to working up the anti-clerical wave, when they should be devoting them to the anti-idolatry wave.

"William Pore, a retired steel manufacturer of Pittsburg, Pa., has given $25,000 to the Carthage college, of Carthage, Ill. The money is part of a fund of $200,000 the college is obliged to raise before Andrew Carnegie will erect the science hall." Another reminder that the Church of Humanity will get the "dough" when it gets the numbers large enough to attract it. Let us all work for the increased membership. The money to build and maintain our educational institutions will be forthcoming when our numbers are large enough to attract it.

"Twenty idols directly from the Congo district of Africa, where only a few months ago they were worshiped by savages, are part of a collection of curiosities that has just been presented to the American Museum of Natural History in New York by three trustees of the institution." When all Christians learn the discoveries made by the Church of Humanity there will be a lot more idols to be placed along with those from Africa in that museum to be preserved as a reminder of the idolatry of the present trustees of that museum. Such are the curious pranks "Father Time" and advancing wisdom play with the idols of men.

"Allentown, Pa., June 20.—At the commencement exercises of Muhlenberg college today, President Haas announced a donation of $40,000 from ex-Mayor Charles A. Schieren, of Brooklyn, a trustee, the income to be applied to educating young men for the Lutheran ministry, preference being given to those living within 100 miles of New York City." What is needed now is some one to donate $40,000 to the Church of Humanity, to be used in teaching young men its discoveries and training them for the position of field instructors to go in advance of those ministers and teach the people the truth about God and life. Who will make the donation?

At Mongaup Valley, near White Lake, N. Y., there is a water famine, owing to a protracted drought. Ignorant, superstitious idolaters who believe there is such a thing as a real live God are circulating a petition calling upon the local priest to offer up mass for rain. When the people learn the modern discoveries taught by the Church of Humanity that no God really exists and that life ceases at death they will know better than to do such a thing as to pray, or ask anyone else to, for rain or anything else.

The lesson in this copy proves positively that if those people were actually dying for want of water there is no God to help them in the least. It shows that many people die praying for the aid of a God. No God exists is the reason none comes to their aid. Those who know the truth about God will cease praying forever. To pray to God is sure evidence one has not learned the truth about Him. My comrades should aid in pushing our educational work to the uttermost of their ability. They see here how ignorant, superstitious and idolatrous the people all are for lack of the wisdom they possess.

Circular Letter to the Church of Humanity.

NO. 3.

Dear Comrades: I have mailed each of you, where the address is known, a printed copy of my mailing list of church members. There are 163 given. The addresses of the wives and children who are members are not given where the husband and father is a member. A few have no settled homes and when they change their address some have neglected to inform me. Therefore, I do not know positively that every address is correct.

I wish each member to subscribe for and read our church paper to keep in touch with the work even if unable to aid any. So please be sure to always give me your address promptly if you make a change. Where two or more members live in the same city or county I wish you to become acquainted with each other and consult together regarding the best methods of carrying on our propaganda to the best advantage. That is the reason I mailed you the list. I wish I had a list of a few thousand members to mail you. The larger the list the more there would be in each city and county for you to get acquainted with and consult with. Then when you were numerous enough you could organize a local society of your own. Then you would have use for a field worker and organizer. One such worker ought to be able to get more members for the society in a month than we can through the paper in a year. Members for any society are always obtained by field workers and organizers for them. We should raise the salary for at least one such worker and put him to work. The task of making known our discoveries devolves upon us entirely, and we must not be derelict in our duty. Please fill out the following blank with a promise of as large a donation for a field worker as you can give. I also wish to ask you to please try to raise the circulation of our church organ to 10,000 copies monthly. It is 3,000 now. You can do it easily by taking a bundle monthly for distribution. They are only 25 cents per 100 to you in bundles. You should aid in this way to let the people know of your wonderful discovery about God and life. The lessons I am giving should be put into the hands of many thousands of people. You are the only ones to do it. Will you help to distribute them? Let your answer be an order for a large monthly bundle. Do not be discouraged because you do not see results in membership at once. It takes a long time for seeds of truth to germinate and bear fruit.

LETTER OF EVIDENCE TO A CHRISTIAN MOTHER.

NO. 2.

Daily Objective Proof That No God Exists.

DEAR MOTHER: All we know of nature must be learned direct from nature in the first place by some people who closely observe the phenomena it presents and accurately record the result of their observations, investigations and experience. That preliminary work must be done before the truths of nature can be put into books. It often happens, though, that pioneer investigators arrive at wrong conclusions through inability and a too superficial investigation. Those erroneous conclusions, when taught and placed in books as truths, lead others astray who depend on them for true knowledge. The only way to detect errors in such conclusions is to have deeper and more thorough investigators compare them with the original source—nature. That is the true measure by which all studies in nature should be tested from time to time in order to eliminate the errors. The right of this testing process is inalienable in each generation. If previous conclusions are found to be out of line with nature then they must be abandoned and new ones formed that are in line and harmony with it. Then they become scientific truths. Most of your reasons for believing in the existence of a God are based on erroneous conclusions of very superficial observers of nature. Your attention has often been called to the balmy days, pleasant summers, beautiful flowers, budding trees, waving grass, singing birds, golden grain and many other agreeable things and conditions and you have been told by the teachers of idolatry that a God produces all those things for the special benefit of man. Not knowing any better, and there being no one to disprove it, you, of course, like all our race, accept it as true, and praise and worship that reputed benefactor, as directed to do by the mistaken teachers. It is now discovered by more accurate observers that those things that please man are not produced by any God and are therefore no proof at all of the existence of such a being. On the contrary, it is observed that the things that injure and destroy man are not checked or controlled in the least by a God, which is positive proof that no such being exists.

It would be impossible for an intelligent being to use infinite power to produce the infinite variety and abundance of things that help and please man because it loves him, and at the same time produce the equal amount of things and conditions that injures and destroys him. That is a contradiction in nature that disproves the theory that it is manipulated by an intelligence that knows of our existence. Mere conscious life is the dearest possession of man. If it can be proven that there is no God caring for that, then it is self-evident there is none caring for anything else relating to him. In the face of inevitable destruction, when all human power is impotent to save, the idolaters turn to God for help with all their power of entreaty and persuasion. The fact that He is not available for duty then proves conclusively that He was not around ready for business at any other time of man's existence, his superstitious belief to the contrary notwithstanding. The greatest crisis in life is when that life is being extinguished. The fact that no unseen being comes to its aid then is proof positive that no unseen being ever came to it or knew anything about it at any other time of its existence. I want that fact impressed deeply on your consciousness and memory, for it is right there where I made the discovery that all gods are fabulous beings and where I find the firm basis for my teaching it to others. To impress it firmly on your mind that there is no unseen intelligent being caring for any members of our race I submit the following cases of life extinguishment as proof of it:

People killed by explosions that God would have prevented had He been a real being instead of a myth.

"Charleston, W. Va., May 2.—Eleven miners killed and missing as a result of an explosion in the Whipple mine.

"O'Fallon, Mo., April 27.—Three men killed by the blowing up of a locomotive.

"New Castle, Pa., April 8.—Three lives lost by a powder explosion.

"Scranton, Pa., June 10.—Seven men killed by two explosions in the Johnson Mine No. 1, at Prezburg.

"London, May 6.—Eighteen workmen reported killed in an explosion at the Moltien gold mines, in Transvaal.

"Johannesburg, Transvaal, March 31.—Fifty-four people killed by the explosion of two cases of dynamite at the Dreifontein mine.

"Canton, China, May 3.—More than 100 people were killed as the result of a gunpowder explosion."

People killed by train wrecks that God could easily have saved had He been a real instead of a fabulous being.

"Detroit, Mich, July 20.—Fifty excursionists dead and dying as a result of a head-on collision between a passenger and a freight train near Salem.

"Wheeling, W. Va., May 7.—Four persons killed in a wreck of the New York and Chicago express at Roseby's Rock.

"Charleston, Ill., Aug. 30.—Fifteen persons killed by a head-on collision between a motor car and a traction car.

"San Francisco, May 13.—Thirty-two killed on the wrecked Shriners' train at Honda."

Lives Extinguished by Tornado, Typhoon, Cyclone and Cloudburst that God would easily have saved had He been a real being instead of a man-made creation of fiction, like Santa Claus.

"Louisville, Ky., June 8.—Twenty-one people killed by cloudburst that wiped out the village of Gradyville.

"Valparaiso, June 20.—Five people killed by a tornado from the Andes.

"Oklahoma City, Okla., April 29.—Seven persons killed by a cloudburst at Capital Hill.

"Victoria, B. C., May 29.—Two hundred and seventy persons killed by a typhoon in the Carolina islands as reported by cable from Sidney, Australia.

"Fort Worth, Tex., April 28.—Eleven lives lost in a tornado at Valley View and Hemming.

"St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 7.—Twenty people reported dead as a result of a tornado which swept the southeastern part of the state and a part of Iowa and Wisconsin adjoining.

"Bombay, India, June 7.—Thousands of people have been killed by a cyclone and tidal wave at Kirrachee, a city of 120,000 inhabitants, situated on the Arabian sea.

"Mexico City, May 3.—It is believed that more than 100 people lost their lives by a destructive hurricane which swept the gulf coast of the state of Campeche."

Destruction of Life by Famine and Plague which could have been easily averted by a real God, but which a myth God is as powerless to relieve as is Santa Claus.

"Shanghai, China, March 23.—Reports from the famine districts say the horror is indescribable. Hundreds are dying every day. In some localities parents are selling their children for small sums with which to purchase food, and in other places corpses are exhumed for cannibalism. The famine is unprecedented and millions are starving to death. The plague in India is equally as destructive of life. Returns of deaths from the plague-stricken districts show the appalling total of 1,060,667 for the six months ending June 30."

Deaths by Fire that would have been prevented had there been an intelligent being in the universe who knows and cares for man:

"Cleveland, Okla., April 4.—Two boys burned to death in a fire in a barn.

"Saugus, Mass., April 6.—Two men burned to death in a fire that destroyed the H. B. Newhall tide mill.

"New York, April 23.—Four men burned to death in a fire on the East side.

"San Francisco, April 4.—Fifteen laborers lost their lives in a fire that destroyed a lodging-house.

"Suisun, Cal., July 10.—Four children of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Campbell lost their lives by the burning of their home.

"Boston, Mass., May 25.—Three men perish in a fire along the East Boston water front.

"San Jose, Cal., May 25.—Fifteen men perish in a fire in the Union lodging house.

"Mexico City, May 12.—Ninety miners perished in a fire in the Tenares Copper mine at Velardena, State of Durango.

"Victoria, B. C., June 27.—Mail advices from Hongkong report 500 Chinese burned to death in a theatre."

Other Life-extinguishing Disasters that would not have happened had there been a real live God in existence instead of the fabulous Gods worshiped by idolaters:

"Rio Janeiro, April 29.—It is reported here that the British steamer, Brownhill, is destroyed by fire and entire crew lost.

"Victoria, B. C., June 4.—News is received of an earthquake at Hsing-Kiang, in which 4,000 persons are crushed to death.

"Buenos Ayres, May 8.—The French steamer, Poitou, has been wrecked off the coast of Uruguay and 100 passengers and members of the crew are said to have perished.

"Victoria, B. C.—News is received that over 100 Chinese were drowned by the breaking of a bridge over Soo Chow creek.

"Quebec, Aug. 29.—Eighty-four workmen killed by the falling of a part of the new bridge being constructed over the St. Lawrence channel.

"San Francisco, Cal. — The steamer Columbia sank in seven minutes after a collision with the San Pedro off the California coast, drowning 98 of the passengers, who were mostly women and children. As the boat took its last plunge, those on the vessel followed the example of an old man with white beard and knelt on the deck in prayer. About twenty-five died in this manner."

These are only samples of the daily life-destroying catastrophies that prove beyond a doubt that no member of our race is known or cared for in the least particular by unseen beings supposed to exist in space around us. I cannot give the sad details of these calamities in this small lesson. If you read the daily papers you will see them. In many cases the victims died praying, as in the last account. What possible good could that do when no God exists to hear them? Their prayers might as well have been addressed to Santa Claus. People of all religions and of all sects and of none were represented by those who perished. Did any of the idolaters have the least advantage over those who were not worshipers of any idol? What advantage, then, is it to be an idolater and refuse to learn the truth about God? This one lesson alone would overthrow all religions in the world were its disproof of them thoroughly taught to the people. It is so important to impress this lesson deeply upon your consciousness that I shall continue it in the next issue, where I shall explain it more fully. So please keep this lesson to read again with the next. Your loving Son,

THE TRUE REASONS FOR FINANCIAL SUCCESS.

One of the most potent influences to chain and hold people in idolatry is the false teaching and belief that there is a God who rewards people financially for their support and practice of idolatry. This fact has often come under my observation, but I shall mention only one case as a sample. A few weeks ago I attended the business men's Bible class. Of course I could take no part in the exercises, though cordially invited to do so. But during the discussion of the lesson the subject of donating to churches came up. Various amounts and percentages of one's income were suggested as a basis. Finally one member said that one should always give according to the necessity and his ability, since the Lord would always manage to make it back to him many fold and he would be the gainer thereby. He said he had proof of that fact from personal experience and related the following circumstance to prove it: Several years ago, when the church was being built, a solicitor for funds called on him for a donation of ten dollars. Not being a member of the church then he hesitated to give. The solicitor assured him the Lord would bless him by a return of it many fold in some way. With that understanding he gave it. A few weeks afterwards he bought two lots and resold them at an advance of $100 in a short time. He then remembered, he said, the promise and recognized God's hand in the deal which he had not thought of when he gave the ten dollars.

Such unsound reasoning and erroneous conclusions bind millions, as they have that man, to the support and practice of the idolatry of a non-existing God through a belief in it being a money-making investment. No God ever wanted a house built in which He was to be worshiped, because no real God exists. No God ever swindled a man out of $100 of the value of his property in order to get ten per cent of it from the beneficiary, because no real God exists.

The explanation of successful business generally with those who aid liberally and actively in church-building is that they apply the same energy and enterprising ambition to their other business affairs which is essential to success. I guarantee that if my comrades will donate freely of their wealth and time to aid in the upbuilding of the Church of Humanity and then apply that same kind of energy, push and enthusiasm to their other business they will be as successful financially and otherwise as are idolaters who contribute money and time to the promulgation of their idolatry. Thus you will see it is not the aid of a non-existing God that gives success to idolaters, but their own industry, economy, enterprise, push and stick-to-itiveness. That is the secret of success, which is often attributed to the aid of a God.

My own success in a small way thoroughly disproves the theory that there is a God aiding people financially or otherwise in proportion to the aid they give in promoting idolatry. For a number of years I contemplated devoting my time and money to the propagation of my discoveries that God is a fabulous being and death the end of life when I got financially able to do so. Certainly no one will accuse a God of aiding me to gain that financial means. I will, therefore, be excusable for relating a few of my little successes to disprove a false theory of idolaters and not to make an idle boast. I bought about 180 acres in Southern Texas, in what is known locally as the winter garden spot of the United States, for about $2,900. In less than two years it advanced in value to nearly three times that amount without a dollar expense to me and is still advancing rapidly. A few years ago I bought 960 acres in Gray county, Kansas, for $4,800. In less than six months after the most of the investment was made, and in less than two years from the first, I sold it for $10,500, making a cash gain of $5,700, besides some crop on part of it more than paid for the improvements I put on. About seventeen years ago I added 560 acres to my farm in this county at an average price of $9 per acre. It is now worth $40 per acre and still advancing. It brings me an income from rents of 25 to 50 per cent yearly on the original investment. This is enough to prove positively that a man who works to build up the Church of Humanity and contributes for the teaching of its discoveries can be as successful in business as the average idolater who believes he must worship a creation of fiction to insure financial success.

Having discovered there is no real God, I know that none aided me in my little successes, and that no thanks are due to any such fabulous beings. I do know, however, that the best wife and children in the world, to me at least, aided me beyond computation, and to whom these successes are due, and to whom millions of thanks are also due. Many thanks are also due to Christian neighbors, friends and relatives who contributed in many ways to my success.

We should all learn to recognize our real helpers and to give them the thanks instead of giving the credit and thanks to imaginary beings. The real parties can appreciate it if given while living, but the fabulous Gods cannot. It may be claimed by some readers that these profits were made by speculation and not by the aid of others. But I remind them that it required many years of hard labor of myself and family on the farm to accumulate the money with which I speculated. Good crops rewarded our labor as often as they did that of our superstitious neighbors who believe there is a God who makes their crops grow, and who receive their idolatrous thanks and praises, if it is proper to speak of myths receiving anything. I have always intended to use my property for the best interests of my family. The promulgation of the discoveries I made regarding God and life I believe to be to their best interests. Therefore, I expect to leave the bulk of it to the Church of Humanity to be used in the propaganda work, provided that church is organized and incorporated and has hired agents actively engaged in the work. I want my comrades to all do the same thing with the surplus property they wish invested for the benefit of their families.

NEW RECRUITS.

The following comrades united with the Church of Humanity since last report:

206. A. Walukas, 26 W. Pratt street, Baltimore, Md., 38, laborer, Lithuanian, Roman Catholic.

207. Joseph J. Herman, Blue Springs, Mo., 37, farmer, American, English and German, Catholic.

208. Karl Witkowski, 65, Kenmore avenue, Newark, N. J., 48, artist, Pole, Polish, German and English.

209. J. W. Carpenter, Whitman, Neb., 57, ranchman, American, Baptist.

210. Ben Hudson, R. 3, El Reno, Okla., 65, farmer, American, Baptist.

211. Frank H. Lovering, Newlon, Mont., 61, farmer, American, Methodist.

On behalf of the church I welcome these new comrades to membership. Our society can grow only by the addition of new members. There are two main reasons why all who know the modern discoveries that God is a fabulous being and that life is ended forever at death should join the Church of Humanity.

First—Because it is the only plan whereby people can announce to the world in permanent records that they have learned those great discoveries and receive a certificate of graduation in that knowledge.

Second—Because the only way those great new-found truths can be taught to others is by a union in one special society of those who know them. That is the only way to popularize them, to allay the fears of idolaters and get them to accept these truths. Hence it is not only a pleasant duty on the part of myself and comrades to invite all such people to unite with us, but all such people should regard it as an opportunity of great value to them and one that should be accepted with gladness as soon as they hear of it. We have a standing invitation to all people to unite with us in this society as soon as they know the discoveries it teaches to be true. If you want anybody to know these truths it is your best plan to unite with us and help us to employ teachers to make them known to all as fast as possible. The membership of idolatrous churches are kept up by their hired agents meeting the on-coming generations and inducing them to unite with those churches. To win the victory for truth we must unite to enable us to put hired agents in the field to meet those same generations and induce them to unite with the Church of Humanity. Come on, brave boys and girls, let us unite, hire our agents and get them to work! The generations are all being won to the aid and support of idolatry and forever will be until our agents meet them and turn them our way.

VOL. 2, No. 10. GREAT BEND, KANSAS, OCTOBER, 1907. WHOLE No. 22.

The Founding of the Church of Humanity.

Its Greatest Enemy and His Disposal.

By its continued misrepresentation and abuse The Examiner has forfeited the good will of the Church of Humanity and is not entitled to the patronage of its members. I suggest that my comrades who have subscribed for it return it marked "refused," with any back dues to date. We are under no obligations to receive a visitor into our homes to abuse us and we need not receive his publication to do the same thing. The Examiner for September and October came with over three of its eight pages devoted to such misrepresentation and vilification of myself and comrades as to justify the elimination of its editor, Mr. Peterson, from further consideration by us. Comrade William R. Adams, of Hooker, Okla., was fully justified in his refusal to subscribe for it. In a letter to me he says in part:

"Several weeks ago I sent for a sample copy of The Examiner, of Paris, Texas., with the intention of subscribing for that paper if I liked it. In due time I received the sample and the first thing my eyes fell on was an editorial of abuse of the TRUTH ABOUT GOD and its editor. As I am a member of the Church of Humanity I think it is needless for me to tell you I did not subscribe for The Examiner. I very promptly decided that I could get along without a mud-slinging liberal paper."

That was the proper thing to do in its case.

When I read the last consignment of misrepresentation and abuse I fully understood the nature of the man and promptly sent a request to discontinue the exchange with our church paper. I would close my remarks here owing to his age and infirmities, and to my own disposition to dismiss promptly those who seek only strife and contention, but duty to my comrades and the cause we represent indicates that I should point out some of the apparently intentional misrepresentations on which he based much of his ridicule and abuse and on which we are justified in turning him down. He represents me as saying and teaching "that it was the myth God which committed these horrors." Those who read our church paper know I teach no such stuff. He either does not read it or is not able to understand it. I discovered that God is a creation of fiction, and, of course, know that such creations can do nothing, and I do not accuse them of doing anything.

Again: "It is the mistaken belief and teaching regarding (the word) God back of the name (church) that is responsible." The words in parentheses are his, which change my meaning. I do not quibble over the derivation and etymology of the word "God," and do not teach that it is the mistaken belief and teaching regarding it that is responsible for anything. I teach that it is the mistaken teaching and belief that the supposed thing to which the name "God," and its many synonyms, are given is a real being that is responsible for all crimes, excesses and follies committed by, and in the name of, all religions. Of course, Mr. Peterson has not the mental power to distinguish any difference here, but I hope the readers now all have since he is eliminated.

A parallel case would be children quarreling and fighting over the powers and attributes of Santa Claus, and what he wanted and did not want them to do, none knowing or caring anything about the derivation and etymology of the name. When they all learn the truth about him—that he is a myth—they stop their disputations and quarrels as to his powers and abilities.

Again: "Kerr says: 'I know the name "church" is innocent and I know the name "God" is guilty.'" I never said any such thing. Mr. Peterson has not the manhood to correct any of his errors and it is useless to ask him to do so. He has such a consuming hatred for organized society, especially one with the name "church" attached, that when he can find nothing to criticize he manufactures something. He creates a fictitious Kerr, as God, Satan and Santa Claus are created, by attributing sayings and teachings to him; representing him as having ridiculous dialogues with a priest and a Methodist parson and then holds him up to scorn, contempt and ridicule for being as he created him, and then represents that Kerr as being me. I recognize very little teaching of his fictitious Kerr as being similar to mine. But that fictitious Kerr is not to be blamed for his ignorance and stupidity any more than God is for the wicked nature his creators give him. All the nonsense and idiocy attributed to that fictitious Kerr can be found only in the mind of his creator—the editor of The Examiner. Since we have learned how fictitious characters are made we know where to look for the source of all the idiocy and wickedness they have assigned to them.

He builds up a fictitious member of the Church of Humanity in the same way, then holds up all my comrades to ridicule as being like his fictitious member. By this unmanly method he has earned the utter contempt of all my comrades, and they are fully justified in eliminating him from further consideration, as Comrade Adams did.

Of his fictitious Kerr he says: "In one breath he brags to beat the band about the good all his opponents are doing him and his church by their 'abuse,' and in the next he yells 'Calf rope! Take him off!'" and then ridicules that Kerr for his inconsistency. As I never made such "brags" nor gave such "yells" the criticism does not apply to me. He can find nothing ridiculous enough in my writings to suit his vindictive desire for criticism and so must manufacture the stuff for criticism himself. The nature of the man is revealed in his advice to me. He says: "However, she (Mrs. Eddy) had, so far as we know, a big advantage over Kerr as to virtue. She had none at all, according to her latest biographers. * * * If he is real good, he will never succeed with his hoodoo. * * * The best thing that Kerr can do now is to get himself on record as a bad man from Bitter Creek." Think of such sentiment—that a person with no character has a big advantage over those who have! Would you, comrades, want such a person to be your representative, and the teacher of your children? He evidently would. He ridicules our discovered truths because he has not made them himself and does not believe we have, or that anyone else has. He is simply fighting organized society while retaining its fundamental superstitions as firmly as idolaters.

Read this, which he gives as a "literal fact": "The literal fact is, we were immortals together in the spirit world for more than forty millions of years before we made up our mind to take to incarnation on the earth plane." He tells about riding cherubims that were fifteen feet high and had six wings and says of their swiftness: "Why, we would start to the planet Mars, pass a flash of lightning, arrive at Mars, have a seance with the spirits and meet the same flash not a million of miles distant from the point where we overhauled it going." How is that for "literal facts" from the pen of our critic? Can the writer of such stuff be competent to criticise me and my comrades? I guess not.

Until recently he kept this quotation standing at the head of the first page: "This paper is the official organ of the Prophet Hosea, whom God inspired to record: 'The prophet is a fool; the spiritual man is mad.'" IX:7. I think he had better keep it there, since the assertion seems to fit.

"Edited by Persius" is the editorial signature to The Examiner. Why don't he sign his right name? Has he good reasons to be ashamed to own his writings? I should think he has, judging from his unjustified abuse of my comrades. We should promptly turn down all writings whose author is ashamed of them and we should take it for granted he is ashamed when his name is omitted.

"We thus ring the changes again against a guilty church," says our caustic critic. Well, the Church of Humanity is guilty of having made the great modern discoveries in theology that all Gods, Devils and Holy Ghosts are fabulous beings, heaven and hell myths and death the permanent cessation of life. It is guilty of being the first society to know and teach those truths. It is guilty of wanting the people taught them to rescue and preserve them from idolatry. It is guilty of devoting money and time to that laudable effort. All of which guilt brings down on our devoted comrades the wrath and venom of Mr. Peterson, who has a good store of it on hand used in "fighting the church for fifty years." He can distinguish no difference between the teaching of the Church of Humanity and any other church, and will proceed to dump all the dirt he has been dumping on other churches in that time on us. He calls that a "war of words between orthodox Freethought and the Kansas heretic." So it is not the churches after all that were the heretic hunters and persecutors. It was "orthodox Freethought." Guess our ideas on the subject will have to be revised. Of all the idolatrous churches each of my comrades are surrounded by, their combined abuse of our church has not equaled the abuse of this representative of "orthodox Freethought" in one issue of The Examiner. Is not that a surprising revelation? Who would have thought our bitterest enemy and our most active society-destroyer would not be found in the churches whose superstition we seek to overthrow by the teaching of newly discovered truths, but in the ranks of "orthodox Freethought."

Well, we know now what we are "up against"! If we can save our posterity from idolatry by giving it the proper teaching regarding God and life we must do so in spite of the bitter, vindictive and continuous opposition of "orthodox Freethought," instead of receiving aid and encouragement from it, as we had hoped for.

What in the world is "Persius" kicking about? He has not a penny invested in our church, is not a member of it—couldn't be if he wanted to. We don't want such members or their money; have no use for them under any name. What business is it of his what name my comrades unite under, or what they pay, or what it is for? Since when has he been a self-appointed guardian of myself and comrades? Must we ask this self-appointed representative of "orthodox Freethought" what society we may unite with; how much we shall pay, what it is to be for, what we shall teach and how? My comrades are competent to attend to their own business without the aid of "Persius." If he has any business I advise him to attend to it and leave that of the Church of Humanity to its members. I shall now dismiss him from all further consideration. He will doubtless continue his

THE TRUTH ABOUT GOD, only 25 cents a year.

We are absolutely free to pitch our tent, hang out our shingle and teach the grandest discoveries made by man. Then let us get busy and do it. Who will go forth to teach and who will be their financial backers?

Our children are entitled to know the truth about God and life. None can teach them that but those who know it. None will pay for that teaching but those who know it. It is up to the Church of Humanity to provide that teaching, as it is the only society that can.

A certificate of graduation in the knowledge of God, and life membership in the Church of Humanity, making you one of its founders and charter members only $1. If not a member yet, please send in your application by filling out the blank in this copy for that purpose and returning it to me.

We do not want any of the other churches overthrown. We only want them to teach the truth about God and life as it is discovered to be. But they can't do that until they are taught it by the Church of Humanity. Hence the mission of this church is to teach the other churches the real truth about their own subjects. They should not object seriously to that proposition. They will all be gainers by knowing it.

Other churches are having revivals. Let us have one. The way to do it is as follows: Let all subscribers who are not members of our church unite with it at once. Let all the old members send in promises of aid to hire orators for field work. And all parties send a dollar each for a monthly bundle of one hundred copies of TRUTH ABOUT GOD for four months. Let us all get busy together and we will have the biggest revival of all.

NOTICE—I will teach any number of students free of charge in the truth about God and life who wish to prepare to do field work for the Church of Humanity. If there are any who wish to avail themselves of this offer I ask them to write me about it at once. Young men should be preparing for this service. I confidently believe my comrades will promise a few thousand dollars for the salaries of competent field workers for their cause.

The probabilities are that not an editor of a Freethought publication can, or will, aid us in doing the only thing possible to save our children from idolatry, viz.: establishing a permanent organization, with branch societies everywhere, to teach them the truth about God and life. Their ways appear remarkably strange to me, since they abuse our children shamefully for believing in and supporting the idolatries and superstitions of other churches, especially when they grow up, and then not only refuse to aid us but actually fight us bitterly when we try to make an organized effort to save our children from those objectionable actions.

WANTED—I want competent authors to prepare suitable text books on God and life for the special trade of the Church of Humanity. No Deists, Spiritualists, Agnostics or anyone else who believes in the possible existence of a God or of continuous life need apply. I have a number of fine books on these subjects, but they were soiled in the making for our use by being tainted with the errors of such people. I have just read a splendid work by Mr. S. W. Davis, entitled "A Future Life?" which I had hoped to be able to adopt as a text book to refute the evidences of a future life, but he spoiled it for that purpose by tincturing it with his Agnosticism. Authors should no longer try to ride two horses at once by producing a "straddle" book to catch the trade of two or more factions.

EXTRACTS FROM COMRADES' LETTERS.

E. W. Wylie, Read Island, B. C.: —"Inclosed please find one dollar for membership in your organization. I am an American by birth, but am living in Canada now. Hoping you will succeed in this undertaking, I am your Brother in the Church of Humanity."

T F. High, Boise, Idaho:—"Please find inclosed money order for $1 for membership in the Church of Humanity. There is no God except in the imagination of the people. Some people can imagine any old thing. I believe in looking for tangible evidence, and try to be governed by it."

J. R. Miller, Carl Junction, Mo. —"Dear Comrade: Herewith I send pledge of a little help annually for ten years as follows: To the national instructor, $5; to maintain the preparatory college, $5. I hope we will get a good lecturer that will bring the people out of religious darkness into the light of truth.

Mrs. M. A. Lee, Blue Earth, Minn.:—"I hereby send you 50 cents to apply on my subscription to the TRUTH ABOUT GOD. I would like a small bundle of the little eye-opener, once in a while, to give to people. I thank you very much for the list of names you sent me. May you live long enough to have your heart's desire gratified, as concerning the Church of Humanity."

J. P. Hansen, Fairfield, Wash.:—"Enclosed please find $2—membership fee to the Church of Humanity for Frank Forsland and myself. Below are the names of a few who, I think, might become members if you send them sample copies of your paper. Hoping that you may succeed in getting 10,000 members for the Church of Humanity inside of five years and that it may soon be able to lift the poor, ignorant human race out of its superstitious rut, I remain your for Humanity."

J. C. Cramer, Bucyrus, O.:—"You may put me down for $10 per year for field workers' salaries. Perhaps I may see my way clear to give more, but I do not like to pledge more than I am sure I can afford, as I have no income but my wages and have my aged parents to provide for. I have tried for fifteen years to do all I can to overthrow superstition. It is a sad fact that we do not support our cause like the superstitious Christian does his. You have undertaken a job that is no easy one, for 99 out of every 100 who are educated out of Christianity drop into the indifferent class and are just as useless to us as they were before. Any time the $10 is wanted drop me a card and I will forward by return mail."

John P. Williams, Dallas, Ga.:—"W. H. Kerr, Dear Brother: I wish we had you down here in our county. We need just such men as you, who are not afraid to tell the truth about God. I belonged to the Methodist church when I was a young man for twenty years. I tried as hard to believe the Bible as any man ever did. But when I found I was deceived I then commenced to tell the truth about God. I have bought nearly fifty of Ingersoll's books and let them out among my friends. So you see I have been doing some work for our noble cause. I will send you some money this fall if I live to make anything. Send me any of your work you can and I will send it out when I read it. I am doing some good, I think, for our church. I am sixty years old, but hope to live to do more than ever."

H. M. Fisk, Pella, Iowa:—"Put me down for $10, payable on demand, for teachers of the truth about God. I have several friends that I think I can get to go with us, and will do all I can to swell our number to the 1,000 mark. I look forward with pride to the calling of the greatest convention ever known in this country. Now I believe I can get five in all, and I believe every member could do as much. Now, see how easy we could get our 1,000 members if each man would do his part. Let us try it and try now. We declare there is no God, and we have a right to so declare. I think it cowardly for us to say we don't know whether there is a God or not. Let us quit lying about God and let us stand up like men for facts. Our good old Freethought guard was all right, but we want to advance."

THE FOUNDING OF THE CHURCH OF HUMANITY.

dirt-slinging from his fullness of it, but it will not be read by me. I suggest that my comrades do what they can to protect our society from it by refusing to read it or to subscribe for The Examiner. I do not object to decent, gentlemanly criticism, for correction or information. I can have the patience of Job and the meakness of Moses in replying. But when a man of his very objectionable disposition and methods pours forth the vials of his wrath and bitterness unprovoked on my devoted comrades he is liable to be sat down on hard and then dismissed. He will call this action "gag-law," "bigotry" and "intolerance," but he can't browbeat and intimidate us by such methods into admitting such a man or his writings into our homes. Life is too dear to be embittered by contact with such people. The grand work before us is too important to be neglected by wasting time and space on such as he. The world is plenty large enough to accommodate the Church of Humanity and "Persius" without there being a collision between them. He need not "butt in" to our affairs, and we need have nothing to do with him. He can find plenty of churches to "fight" the balance of his days without molesting ours. None of the others pay any attention to him. Perhaps he attacked ours only to get noticed, but we will follow the plan of the others in the future regarding him.

We do hope none of the editors of the other Freethought publications are "orthodox." We certainly have had enough of "orthodox Freethought." There is every indication that the balance of them are intelligent enough to comprehend us and our movement. I have seen no objectionable criticisms in any of them for a long time. Of course, we would all be profoundly grateful to them if they would give us aid and encouragement in our efforts to organize to enable us to give posterity the only teaching regarding God and life that can save it from idolatry. We have children, so have they. These children are entitled to a true knowledge of God and life. It can't be given them without the services of specially prepared teachers in a regularly organized society for that special purpose. We must be willing to unite in order to have that society, and to put up our money in order to have teachers for them. We pay teachers for teaching them all other knowledge. Why not have teachers and pay them for teaching the truth about God and life, which is the most important of all knowledge? Without that knowledge they will be worshipers of a dead Jew, a myth named God and will believe in the superstition of continuous conscious life. That will leave them supporters of the Dowies and Eddies and all other religious freaks of the future. Do you want them to be left to believe in and support the delusions of such people? Why not use your power, money and influence now in providing them a society able to teach them the truth? That is our object and aim. Why not help us, all you Freethought editors who are not "orthodox"? To aid us is to aid yourselves in providing efficient, necessary educational facilities for your children in the very important knowledge of God and life. It cannot be given them through publications or books without the aid of personal teachers, as all other knowledge is given them. Help us, then, to unite to enable us to organize so we can produce the teachers and maintain them, and establish society-schools for all our children where they can be properly taught the truth about God and life. Won't you help? If you will not help us we do hope you will not become "orthodox" and jump on us rough-shod, as "Persius" did.

Letter of Evidence to a Christian Mother.

True Reason Applied and Great Discoveries Made. No. 3.

DEAR MOTHER: By the application of true reasoning to the calamities recorded in my last letter we discovered some profound truths. The greatest one is that there are no unseen intelligent beings in space, as we were taught existed, and to which such names as God, Jesus Christ, Holy Ghost, Devil and Spirit, and their various synonyms, are given, but that all such beings are purely creations of fiction.

The secondary discovered truths are the non-existence of heaven and hell and other places and things that are dependent for their existence on the reality of those beings. Since they do not exist nothing can exist that depends on them for existence. Hence all that really exists is either eternal, such as space, time and matter, or transient, such as the many forms of matter and the various powers and attributes which are inherent in matter and manifested under similar elemental combinations and environments.

In these letters I shall use the name "God" to designate the imaginary being worshiped under all names, such as Supreme Being, Lord, Creator, Ruler of the Universe, Heavenly Father, Jesus Christ, etc. Children, and adults, too, if there be such, who never heard anything about God can know nothing about him until taught. But the discovery of his non-existence must of necessity have been made by those who know the character given him by his creators. He is created as a "straw man" is by having attributes, acts, desires and commands assigned him as all fabulous characters are made. You know what they are and it is not necessary for me to do more than mention a few so you will fully understand my meaning. To him has been assigned infinite power, wisdom and expansion, and man's passions, such as hate, jealousy, revenge, love, pity and sympathy. Now, of necessity, such a being, would have to be present at each and every life-extinguishing place mentioned. Was such a being there? Let us apply pure reason to the case. A searching analysis of each incident fails to show the slightest evidence that any of them were caused by hatred, jealousy or revenge of a God. Among the victims are the so-called heathen of India and China, believers in each of the great religions, members of all Christian sects, male and female, young and old, good and bad, innocent and guilty, the greatest worshipers of God and his greatest enemies, yet no one was killed by the will or act of a God through hatred.

You were taught that God hates the wicked, the worshipers of idols and those who do not worship him and his son Jesus and who disbelieve in their existence, and that he will cut them off as cumberers of the ground and utterly destroy them with his fierce wrath. Of the perished thousands here recorded hundreds of them were such people. They died with the good and the innocent and the worshipers of God and suffered no more than they. But God did not cause their death. Other causes are given. He could not have caused the causes for that purpose. There was no design in them to kill or hurt anbody. The good and innocent suffered equally with the wicked and unbelievers in his existence. All that proves beyond doubt that God has not the wicked passions of man that are assigned him. Regardless of what man does or believes or teaches God will not punish him, because he has not the passions of hate and revenge. Of all the thousands of bad people, and idolaters and criminals who die every day, not one is killed by the power or will or aid of a God. All stories told or written that God ever did or will punish or harm man for any cause whatever are simply untrue and are only a part of a made-up straw God to frighten people with. Man is perfectly free, so far as any God cares, to learn all the truths of Nature he can and to teach them. He is also free, so far as any God cares, to commit any and all crimes he wants to. He will never be molested or punished in any way for doing so by a God. Man is also free, and ever must be, from punishment by his fellow beings, to discover and teach the truths of Nature, else progress and civilization would cease and our race retrograde again. But man is not free and never should be from restraint and punishment by his fellow beings if he willingly harms others. Having now seen that God did not cause those calamities to punish the wicked, because he has not man's passions of hate and revenge assigned him, we will now go back and show that he is also devoid of man's passions of love, pity and sympathy. Owing to your good nature you will not be sorry to learn that God has not the bad passions of men, but you will be sorry he has not the good ones. But remember, we are not looking for only things that please us, we are looking for truths. Of course, we should be pleased to find the truths of Nature whatever they be. If we are not there is something wrong with that part of our education. When we come to search these disasters for evidence of love, pity and sympathy of God for our perished fellow beings we get no better results than when we searched for evidence of hatred. There lies the drowned, the starved, the charred, the torn and mangled babes, and good citizens, and Christians of all sects, many of whom died begging and pleading to God for aid and pity. Was any extended from a God? Evidence shows there was none. Facts declare there was none. Reason, based on these, affirms that God has no love, pity or sympathy for man. Thus reason, based on positive evidence, reveals the truth that Gods do not have the good passions of love, pity and sympathy assigned them. Had there been a real God with those good attributes he would have exercised them in behalf of our perished loved ones. To have them and not be able to use them would be as worthless as not to have them. You dare not say none of these people were worthy of pity. You and I would have suffered the same fate had we been in their places. A God who had no love or pity for them can have none for you or me. Your intense love and regular worship of God and my knowledge and teaching of his fabulous nature would not make the slightest difference in our fate were we caught in a disaster. You would be as liable to receive the greater injury as myself, and we would both be as liable to meet a horrible death as the greatest criminal that lives were he caught in the disaster. Thus you see no God knows anything about our existence, our belief, teaching and acts. At none of these disasters can the slightest evidence be found of the manifestation of wisdom and power of a God or that a God was present. It would be utterly impossible for such a being with the powers and passions assigned him to be present at all these recorded disasters and not give evidence of it in some way. Thus pure reason, based on this positive objective evidence and proof, shows us that God has none of the passions of man assigned him, nor the three great attributes of omnipotence, omnipresence and omniscience that form the base of all Gods. Shorn of all powers by the force of reason applied to evidence, all Gods stand before us revealed in their true nature—pure creations of fiction, like Santa Claus.

Thus we learn the truths of the unknown through the application of true reason to the known. Then that unknown is added to the known and the horizon of knowledge becomes wider step by step as the ages roll by. When the people are taught this great discovery the overthrow of ignorance about Gods will be complete and man will stand forth as the "supreme being" on this planet. His last crowning achievement in his conquest of the earth is the overthrow of the Gods and Devils of his own creation. This same evidence that proves God to be a fabulous being proves also that Satan, Holy Ghost, Jesus Christ and spirits of dead people do not exist in reality, but are also myths—creations of fiction. True reason applied to the causes of all these disasters show they were not caused by such beings, and that no such beings aided in the rescue of the victims. As they did not exist in the localities of these recorded disasters they could not exist elsewhere. Hence they are all myths and the belief in them being real beings is only a superstition caused by the teaching of ancient errors.

When we parted at the recent family reunion you said you would pray for me. I ask you to please omit praying for me, and shall give my reasons for the request:

There are no unseen beings in existence to pray to. The evidence here given proves it. Fabulous beings, like Santa Claus, cannot hear you. You are told by the teachers of idolatry that if God does not answer your prayer it is because you are wicked and sinful and unworthy. That is an insult to your children, who know better. You should consider it such to yourself. The true reason for it is found in the other direction. It is because there is no real God to hear prayers. That is the reason the prayers of those dying people were not heard and answered. That is the reason your prayers for the recovery of my sister and father were not answered. How could your prayers in my behalf be heard and granted when they were not in theirs? You should learn the true cause of prayers not being granted as I did and then cease offering them as I did long ago. To pray to God is no evidence of good citizenship, as the worst citizens pray also. But it is evidence of being ignorant of God's true nature, as is now discovered and taught by the Church of Humanity. Your own experience in praying for a God to prevent your loved ones from dying and this additional evidence of the failure of dying people to save themselves from death by praying to a God for aid should convince you fully that your prayers could not have the least effect in saving me from harm through the aid of a God, and you should cease the practice. It would be useless to pray to a God to forgive me for making and teaching the discovery that there is no real God, for had there been one I could not have made the discovery. No amount of praying could dispossess me of the knowledge I have learned. You should not want me to pretend I do not know what I do, and teach what I know to be untrue. That would make me a hypocrite, a liar, a deceiver and a teacher of error. I would be no credit to you then. You can believe and teach the errors about God and life and be perfectly honest in it because you have not learned the truth about them. The failure or refusal to learn the truth about those vital subjects is no credit to you or anyone else. You pray for me because you love me and wish to do something of value for me. But you are mistaken in believing your prayers are of value to me or anyone else. You can know that from your past experience and that of others. The entire praying force of the world could not induce a God to save the lives of two praying presidents from the effects of the assassin's bullet. That was because there is no real God to hear prayers. Those who prayed never knew the true reason why their prayers were not granted. But my discovery that Gods are fabulous beings gives a true and satisfactory answer. Instead of praying for me I ask you to try to learn the discoveries I have made and am teaching, and if you succeed in doing so then cease praying and unite with the Church of Humanity. I shall accept that for as much evidence of your love for me as I do your praying for me.

Your loving Son, ————.

NEW RECRUITS.

The following comrades united with the Church of Humanity since last report:

212. E. W. Wylie, Read Island, B. C., Canada, 59, hotel keeper, American, none.

213. Theodore Loutesco, 92-94 2d avenue, New York, 32, printer, Romanian.

214. Carl J. E. Lindgren, Malcolm, Minn., 30, carpenter and contractor, Swede, Lutheran.

215. Jacob Bernhard, 7934 St. Lawrence street, Swissvale Station, Pittsburg, Pa., 47, machinist, Swiss.

I bid our new comrades a hearty welcome to our society and wish there were more like them. I hope they will try to get their relatives and friends to join with them in this great undertaking to overthrow idolatry and superstition by teaching the newly discovered truths about God and life. The time has surely come when we should make an organized effort to free the world from superstition and idolatry.

Circular Letter to the Church of Humanity.

NO. 4.

DEAR COMRADES: The revival season of other churches is at hand. Special pleaders are hired to present the claims of superstition and idolatry to the people from the rostrum. The members fix up their churches attractively, advertise weeks ahead, provide good vocal and instrumental music, arrange for union services with all evangelical churches, hold preparatory services, make arrangements for special services for the school children right after school, arrange for excursion rates from near-by towns and get enthusiasm worked up to a high pitch for effective work when the evangelist comes. All that takes work, money, harmony and great executive ability. The hope and faith and interest of the old members are revived and quickened. Children, seeing all this activity and no objections to the teaching, must of necessity believe it. They unite with the churches by scores at a time, as directed to do by parents and pastors and the evangelist. Thus the superstitions and idolatries of the people are perpetuated from generation to generation through the centuries. After making the discoveries you have do you want YOUR children to be numbered with the idolaters? Do you want them to worship the Gods you discovered to be myths? Do you want them to believe in immortality that you discovered is but a superstition? I hope and believe you do not. You wish them to learn the truths you discovered that they may be saved from idolatry. A wish without the will to act for its realization is worthless and can accomplish nothing. It takes action to realize a wish of that kind. That includes work and pay. Are you willing to give that to gain your wish? If not, your discovery has been in vain. Your wish can never be realized. It, too, is in vain. There is a way, and only one, to gain your wish. Shall I tell you what it is? It is this—All the people of earth must be taught your discoveries in order to save your own posterity from idolatry. If you do take the time and trouble to teach your children your discoveries they will in time be scattered; surrounded by idolaters; married to idolaters; associated in every way with idolaters and their teaching. Your grand-children would be taught idolatry, would believe it and practice it. Thus the grandest discoveries ever made would be lost again forever, or, at least, for ages. It has taken you many years of study, experience, observation and investigation to make those grand discoveries. After all they have cost you are you willing for them to meet with such an ignominious fate? Forbid it, comrades! Forbit it! Take the necessary steps right now to perpetuate them forever, and to make them known to all the world. What are those necessary steps? I will tell you. They must be exactly what idolaters take to teach and perpetuate their idolatry and superstition. These discoveries can only be promulgated in the same general manner the errors about God and life are. The necessary steps for us to take are: 1. A union of all who have made the discoveries in a special society for their teaching and nothing else. 2. Organization and incorporation of those people into a society with a constitution, by-laws, elected officers, etc. 3. A system of collecting and disbursing funds for field workers who are especially qualified and adapted for the work of teaching our discoveries and organizing the people into societies who learn them. 4. The founding and maintaining preparatory colleges for teachers. 5. Each local society to own its church building and maintain its own instructor. These are the primary steps taken by most of the successful churches, and which we, too, must take to be successful. They require continual work and paying. Comrades, are you willing to take these steps? Are you willing to do the necessary work and paying? A few must prepare to do the teaching. The balance of us must prepare to do the paying for it. We have already demonstrated that we will unite by actually doing so. Let us now demonstrate our willingness to pay for the teaching of our discoveries by actually promising to do so. When we get the required number, 1,000, we must demonstrate our willingness and ability to organize by actually doing so. Nothing but action counts for anything. Our grand discoveries are worthless to our posterity and the world if we have not the necessary ability to establish an organization able to teach them. We have all been "stuffed" by the Freethought press with the false, though flattering idea, that we have more brains and sense than the idolaters have. The idolaters demonstrate every day that they have more sense than we have. That is an unwelcome truth, but when we realize that it is a fact it will be the making of us and our church. So long as the idolaters have the brain-power to unite, organize, provide literature, teachers, buildings and societies and schools to teach their idolatries and superstitions, and to then take our children and grand-children from under our very nose and make them worshipers of their idols, the boasting of our superior intelligence becomes painfully ludicrous. It will be soon enough for editors of Freethought publications to boast of their superior mentality to that of the Christians when their children are no longer found worshiping Christian idols. Let us all cease bragging about our superior wisdom and go to work doing something so sensible that the Christians will do the bragging on us. We have now, all told, 215 enrolled members. That is probably about all we can find through the press who know the discoveries we do. We can either call the organization convention now with that small number or raise the salary of a field worker to present our discoveries to the people from the rostrum and solicit members for the society. The society should really be organized before we send out representatives. I would like very much to have the 1,000 members first, if possible. But can they be found? Have any of you relatives or friends who know these discoveries and will unite with us? We, too, should have a great revival to wake us up and get us in action. Is there an orator in our church who could fill the place of an evangelist in doing field work for our church? Let him speak up if there is. We want his services. Comrades, we will back him with our number, but that will not pay his expenses. We must also be his financial backers. Let us start the movement by seeing how much we can get promised on the salary of one good competent field worker for 1908, if one can be found.

The following comrades have pledged amounts for church work as follows:

For a competent orator to do field work for the Church of Humanity during 1908:

W. H. Kerr and family	$500.00
H. M. Fisk, Pella, Iowa	10.00
J. C. Cramer, Bucyrus, Ohio, yearly	10.00
*William R. Adams, Hooker, Okla., yearly	10.00
*J. R. Miller, Carl Junction, Mo., yearly	5.00
Total	$535.00

*Part was for maintaining the college, but it can be used on salary of a field worker until the preparatory college is established.

Now, comrades, please fall in line and demonstrate the fact that you are willing to pay to have your grand discoveries in theology perpetuated and made known by a promise of financial aid to a competent teacher of them during 1908. I shall accept your promise as being equal to your bond. If no such orator can be secured your money will not be called for. I request each of you to please report at once the amount you will give so I can know what you will do. Then if the salary is large enough to tempt a good orator and organizer to work for our church I shall advertise for one, if none can be had from our present membership. Please act at once, right now, today. Don't wait until you see if the rest will do anything. You are the rest. Your discoveries are at stake. Your children will be idolaters for want of a knowledge of them. It is your cause individually. You must act to save it. Send in a promise of not less than $10, nor more than $500. I don't want one of you to do more than myself. But you should each try to do as much as you can. You have as much at stake as I have if you have children you care to save from idolatry. Remember, we are all free thinkers, but that this is not a Freethought paper, nor is our society a Freethought church. We have specialized our work and confine it to the teaching of our discoveries and the organization into one society of all who can learn them and as fast as it can be taught them. Branch societies will be established everywhere as fast as our field worker can get members enough at a place to do so. Our field workers will be required to come up to the moral standard of our public school teachers. Their entire time will be required in the service of our church—that means in your service for this specific work. No other work or teaching will be allowed. The teaching of socialism, capitalism, anarchy, freeloveism and all other isms will be strictly prohibited in our hired teachers and authorized representatives. They must teach what we hire them to teach and nothing more. We are all perfectly free to work for any cause we want to, but we must do it through the proper channels and societies. Our church is a society for a special work. Its hired hands must devote their time and energies to duties we pay them for. You are all entitled to know what the rules will be, because none of you will pay a man for doing what you want him to do if you know he will also do what you do not want him to do. Regardless of your political affiliations or what isms you believe in, you want your children taught your discovered truths about God and life. That is what we are united for and what we want to pay hired teachers for. That is the only basis we can organize on and stick together on. It is clear-cut and to the point.

Now that you know the way is clear and satisfactory, let us all "get busy." If your discoveries are to survive there must be "something doing" on your part. Don't you see I am trying to do my part? I can't do yours, too. You must do it. Were I an orator I would undertake field work myself. But as I am not I am willing to chip in liberally to the funds to hire them. Will you be as liberal? Come, wake up! Show your hand! Don't be a fossil any longer. Join the ranks of the Financial Backers of your discoveries and make glad the countenance of all your comrades, including that of your humble servant.

The Founding of the Church of Humanity.

Propagate Truth by Organizing, Teaching, Paying, as Idolaters Propagate Superstition.

Galesburg, Ill., Nov 5.—More than 2,300 conversions are reported as the fruits of the five weeks' revival held here by Rev. William A. (Billy) Sunday, and which has just closed. Among the converts are many of the best-known people in the county. A free will offering of $5,600 was given the revivalist.

Here is success! What are the keys to it? Organization, work, pay! What works the keys? Intelligence, life, energy, enthusiasm, harmony and good sense. That they are teaching untruths and making superstitious idolaters of the people must be left out of consideration. Were their teaching true it would be the right way to teach it. To judge of their intelligence correctly we must judge them by results in getting people to believe their teaching aside from the question as to the truth or error of that teaching. Perhaps other thousands of people were made to believe the superstition taught by Mr. Sunday who did not unite with any church or make any public confession. These people are all made idolaters and supporters of it for life, though many of them may never do personal work in the church. Their money will pay others to do it. They will defend religion in the schools, advocate laws favorable to religion, teach it to their children and send them to Sunday school and other church societies for young people. They will buy religious books, tracts and leaflets and subscribe for religious papers. In all cities, towns and neighborhoods of all countries the evangelists are getting in their work with more or less success.

And so the creation of Gods and the teaching of people to worship them goes on apace perpetually all over the world.

Is there no remedy for this vice of idolatry? Must our race forever worship fabulous beings of its own creation? Can it never cease the creation of Gods nor cease their worship? Must the God-creators and teachers of the superstition of continuous conscious life rule the world forever? Must the vice of idolatry and superstition be the controlling passions of our race perpetually? Are they the only passions that can arouse people to action of brain and muscle and cause them to do things? Does the knowledge of the truth about God and life paralyze the brain and muscle of the few who know it? Must those few, for want of a little practical sense and judgment, continue to turn their children over to the evangelists to be made worshipers of their idols and supporters of their superstition? Is there no remedy for this terrible state of affairs?

Where, O! where is the Moses able to extricate our race from this dreadful idolatry and superstition? One can not do it. It will take hundreds and thousands to do it. Infidelity, Atheism, Agnosticism, Liberalism, Rationalism, Freethoughtism, Materialism nor any other ism so far tried can do it, nor all of them combined. None of them have the right keys that can unlock success to us. They are all impotent to save us and give us relief from perpetual idolatry and superstition. None of the sciences, nor all of them combined, can do it. God-creating and God-worshiping and the teaching of the superstition of continuous life flourish in all colleges and universities teaching all branches of science. Not a voice is raised against it in any of them. The declaration of Agnostics that they do not know if there be a God and a future life or not frees no one from idolatry, not even themselves. They are simply waiting to be made active idolaters by the pleading of some evangelist with more ability than any they have encountered. Children, at first, are Agnostics, and no evangelist with any sense will waste any time on an old one when he can teach the young ones by the thousands his idolatry with less effort than he could one old one. He knows time will do what he cannot. It will bring old age and with it softening of the brain and the fatal illness. Then the old Agnostic will send for a Billy Sunday to come and take him in his arms to Jesus, and turn over his property to him for doing so. Then all the Billy Sundays have a capital story to unload on their congregations for all time on the inconsistency of Agnosticism. This is doubtless the ignominious wind-up of many of the adherents of all the isms above enumerated. The Freethought press says these are the best citizens, and most accounts of results of revivals say "some of the best citizens are among the converted."

The "nine demands of Liberalism" constitute the basis of all opposition to idolatry and superstition offered by the adherents of the above isms. They are as follows:

Nine Demands of Liberalism.

1. We demand that churches and other ecclesiastical property shall be no longer exempt from taxation.

2. We demand that the employment of chaplains in Congress, in the legislatures, in the navy and militia, and in prisons, asylums, and all other institutions supported by the public money, shall be discontinued.

3. We demand that all public appropriations for educational and charitable institutions of a sectarian character shall cease.

4. We demand that all religious services now sustained by the govment shall be abolished; and especially that the use of the Bible in the public schools, whether ostensibly as a textbook or avowedly as a book of religious worship, shall be prohibited.

5. We demand that the appointment, by the president of the United States or by the governors of the various states, of all the religious festivals and fasts shall wholly cease.

6. We demand that the judicial oath in the courts and in all other departments of the government shall be abolished, and that simple affirmation under the pains and penalties of perjury shall be established in its stead.

7. We demand that all laws directly or indirectly enforcing the observance of Sunday as the Sabbath shall be repealed.

8. We demand that all laws looking to the enforcement of "Christian" morality shall be abrogated and that all laws shall be conformed to the requirements of natural morality, equal rights and impartial liberty.

9. We demand that not only in the Constitution of the United States and of the several states, but also in the practical administration of the same, no privilege or advantage shall be conceded to Christianity or any other special religion; that our entire political system shall be founded and administered on a purely secular basis; and whatever changes shall prove necessary to this end shall be consistently, unflinchingly and promptly made.

Not one of these demands leads to success in freeing our children from idolatry and superstition or to making them immune to it. Not one of them contains a key to unlock success to us. Not a demand that the truth about God and life shall be taught, which is the only possible thing that can make people immune to idolatry. They evidently did not know it. Not a demand that those who know the truth about God and life organize and employ competent teachers to teach it to the people. They did not know it and could not give us the keys to success. Were every one of these demands granted it would free no one from idolatry of myth-Gods or the superstition of continuous life, or make one child immune from the errors of evangelists. Idolatry would flourish just the same. No wonder people could not organize and work on such a basis. Not a vital demand in it that justifies people giving the services of their lives and property to secure.

I am not condemning the makers of this platform, or those who tried to organize on it. They did the best they could, and the best they knew. No one can teach or advocate a truth he does not know. A child falls many times before it learns to walk. Let us try, try again, and benefit by past failures. Let us not fail again. Let us get on a right basis with a right object in view worthy of the devotion of our lives and property to accomplish. Let us remember that demands can accomplish nothing. It takes action to accomplish things.

Suppose Billy Sunday had continued playing ball and sent a demand to the people of Galesburg, Ill., to go to church and worship God and send him a draft for $5,600. He would have been voted a fool unanimously. Each one would have said he could go to church and worship God if he wished to without paying Mr. Sunday a penny. But he was not so foolish as that. He encouraged those people to do their duty as idolaters should. He renewed the hope and faith of the old, and taught the young to believe in the existence of Gods and how to worship them. He taught them to believe in the superstition of continuous life. Then they paid him the money gladly.

Educational action is the key to success in his case. It will be in our case. People can be freed from idolatry and superstition only by teaching them the truth about God and life. That teaching must be done in the same general way the errors are taught. That truth has been discovered by the Church of Humanity. It is that all Gods, Devils and Holy Ghosts are fabulous beings, heaven and hell myths and death the permanent cessation of conscious life. The keys to the success of this church are the same as those of all others—organizing, teaching, paying. Let us all get busy in unison and apply the keys that will unlock success to us. The keys are too heavy to be handled by one or even a few of us. It will take all who want success to work in unison and harmony in handling the keys. That will require on our part as much practical good sense and executive ability and willingness to act and pay for what we want as the idolaters have. Have we got all that? So far we have demonstrated we have not. But can't we improve with past failures and the example of idolaters before us to learn from? We ought to know now that to make "demands" and to fight organized society and abuse those who are ignorant of the truth about God and life are not the right keys to success and those plans should be abandoned. They were wrong foundations. The Church of Humanity has the right one now active with the right object to accomplish progress in view. We can now build as man also. cieties instead of tearing them down gives with none to take their places. We as can now teach people the truth instead of abusing them for not knowing it when they never had an opportunity to learn it. It will cost us as much to teach them the truth about God and life as it costs idolaters to teach the people errors. Those 2,300 converts cost over $2.43 each to teach them superstition, and doubtless many times that amount had been expended on them since their childhood to make idolaters of them. To make children immune from idolatry and superstition they must be taught the truth about God and life. That will cost as much per head as to teach them the errors. But it is the best investment we can make if it cost ten times as much. That teaching will have to be established everywhere and kept up continually to keep our own posterity immune from idolatry. That is the key to success. Let us all stop criticising the clergy and the idolaters for doing things and let us do things ourselves.

The Truth About God

Published monthly by the Church of Humanity.

Teaches the Scientific Discovery that God, Satan and Holy Ghost are Fabulous Beings; that Heaven and Hell are Myths and that Death is the Permanent Cessation of Life.

Entered at Great Bend Kan. postoffice as second class mail matter.

Subscription 25 cents a year. In bundles to Sunday Schools, Church organizations and church members for free distribution, 25 cents per 100 copies.

Remit by postoffice money order, coin or currency. Address all communications and orders to W. H. Kerr, 2210 Broadway, Great Bend, Kansas.

In union there is strength. Let us unite.

Our fine college building is idle. There is plenty of room in it for a publishing plant. Mrs. Bliven suggests one for the Materialist association. Why not unite in a body with the Church of Humanity and all hands help to establish one?

Our proposed preparatory college is not for the general education of children, as Mrs. Bliven seems to think it is, but for the preparation of special teachers for our church. We have no prepared teachers, but be should have.

If you know the truths that Gods are myths and life ceases at death you are still entitled to recognition and all the benefits of organized society and the Church of Humanity will welcome you to membership. Send in your application.

Correcting Grammars.

I am no grammarian nor do I make any pretense of teaching grammar. But grammars are subject to change from time to time to include new rules in certain departments made necessary by change of usage. The discovery that God is a fabulous being necessitates new rules in capitalizing the plural and pronouns of the name to make it harmonize with like cases. Hence the plural "Gods" should be capitalized and the pronouns he, him, his should not be. The names of myths are capitalized, both singular and plural, thus, "Santa Claus," and "Santa Clauses." tr The pronouns he, him and his are disco ot. I have instructed my printer tered; follow these rules. Any criticisms ried to ido nstruc are to be charged way w ices who will say we may have in this, as it is not authorized by grammars and dictionaries. But the fact that we do it is proof that we can, and the critics who cannot be weaned from old usages can be waived aside.

NEW RECRUITS.

M. Siemes, Warrington, Fla.:—Dear Sir: Enclosed please find application for membership in the Church of Humanity, of which I shall be proud to call myself a member, and which I think is the only means of elevating this world up to a higher civilization where Justice and Humanity shall reign supreme. It is my sincere belief that as long as superstition rules our country we cannot lay claim to the acme of civilization, and it is the height of my ambition to help to release this world forever from this fabulous and incredible belief in inspired theology. In this, my dear sir, you have my sincere co-operation and best wishes.

Joel M. Berry, National Military Home, O.:—I am just in receipt of your letter and papers. I can and will distribute the papers among my comrades here. I read your little book, "The Most Marvelous Discovery of the Age," and must honestly say it teaches what I discovered years ago. I enclose my application for membership, and am willing to work in any capacity I can for the betterment of mankind.

J. P. Hansen, Fairfield, Wash.:—I will pay $10 towards expenses of a teacher to enlighten people on the God question. It is of the greatest importance that all should be set right on that question that they may realize that we have but one life to live, that we may get the most out of it. If we are to do anything for the betterment of the human race we must do so while we live. Life is short at best.

EXTRACTS FROM COMRADES' LETTERS

The following comrades united with the Church of Humanity since last report:

216. William Gerchow, Armada, Mich., 64, shoemaker, German.

217. M. Siemes, Warrington, Fla., 30, mariner, American.

218. Joel M. Berry, National Military Home, O., 76, American, ex-Baptist preacher.

219. Alexander Friedolin, Afognak, Alaska, 46, mining, Russian, none.

On behalf of the society I bid these widely scattered comrades a hearty welcome to membership, fellowship and friendship in the Church of Humanity. May they live long and happy and prosperous upon our common planet, Earth, as it is the only possible conscious existence they can ever know. This conscious life itself should be a constant joy, and, owing to its short duration in an eternity of time, should itself inspire the grandest and most sublime happiness possible to man. The sunny south of Florida, the ever changing seasons of Ohio and Michigan, the snow clad mountains of Alaska should all be continual sources of profound happiness to our comrades owing to the short time in which to behold them. Throughout immeasurable time, until a few years ago, they could not see the grandeur of nature, and in a few short years the will never see it for eternity. How happy and joyous we should all be to have conscious life to enable us to behold the wonders of a universe for even so short a time. The only eclipse that mars this beautiful view and contemplation to our race is its superstition about the existence of a mythical life that blinds it to the glories of this. The mission of the Church of Humanity is to overthrow that superstition by teaching the people the truths of nature, and its influence must eventually be extended to all our race. We extend an invitation to the people of all nations who are immune to the false teaching of idolaters to join with our comrades in this society. They can not unite with any idolatrous society to help maintain and spread its superstition, but they are entitled to, and should have, the prestige organized society gives. Hence the Church of Humanity is for the special benefit of all those people. To have that society they must unite. That is the only way.

EVIDENCE OF NO GOD.

The following newspaper clipping was sent me on a postal card and will doubtless be accepted by idolaters as evidence of the existence of a God, as it is intended, but which proves his non-existence when rightly considered:

"Ada, O., Sept. 23.—Amos Clark, 40, atheist, defied the Lord yesterday to strike him dead. He fell lifeless a minute later."

This may be, and probably is, an untrue story to frighten idolaters into a fear of learning the truth about God. But were it true it proves that there is no such a being as a God by applying the following reasons to the case:

1. People fall dead suddenly while engaged in all occupations and professions, not excepting praying and preaching. An old neighbor of mine fell dead while scooping wheat a few days ago. No one thinks of accusing a God of "dropping" them from hatred of their acts. Apoplexy and heart-failure are the causes generally assigned for sudden deaths. No one ceases praying and preaching and scooping wheat because some people suddenly fall lifeless while thus engaged. Did a God exist he would make himself and his wishes known to all individually by such unmistakable methods as would not admit of other explanations, and which would not defeat itself by killing the people taught.

2. Some Deists know that prayers and supplications cannot induce a God to act in any manner whatever. If a defy can induce action in this case it could in other cases and people would soon "catch on" and "get wise" and work their myth to a finish by that process. Instead of asking God in prayer for favors when they know he never acts when asked that way they would simply defy him to do things and, presto, they are done. They would defy God to save their crops from hail, drought, frost, bugs and weeds. They would defy him to make it rain; to make it stop raining; to make people well; to prevent train wrecks, mine explosions, ship disasters, earthquakes, volcanic eruptions, cyclones, tornadoes, blizzards, and, in short, the universe and everybody's business would be run by a God through defying him to do it instead of asking him in prayer, which wise people know is not effective. Were there an unseen power that kills people who defy it to do so it would do anything else it was defied to do, and all people would have to do to get things done would be to defy that power to do it. All Japan and Russia need do to have each other annihilated is to simply defy God to do it and both nations would be exterminated were there a God who strikes people dead because he was defied to do so.

A simple way to prove that Mr. Clark was not killed by a God because of a defy to do so is to defy God to do the next thing you want him to do instead of asking him in prayer to do it. I guarantee your defying God to do things will be no more effective than your prayers in getting them done, because I discovered no such a being exists. Mr. Clark is here called an Atheist, but if he really defied God to do anything he evidently believed in the existence of such a being else he would not have done such a foolish thing. People do not defy Santa Claus or any other thing they know to be a myth to do things. To thus defy God proves one to be a Deist, and not eligible to membership in the Church of Humanity. One reason I object to the title "Atheist" being applied to members of our church is because it is applied to such Deists as Mr. Clark, who believe in the existence of a God, but who believe he has not the power or will to act. If the story is true he might have hastened apoplexy or heart failure by excessive fear of God on account of his defying him, which proved his firm belief in the existence of such a being. People who know from evidence learned that no God exists could have no fear of him to cause bad results. This sudden death after defying God to kill him may be the result of a firm belief in his existence and not, as idolaters would have us believe, the result of non-belief in the existence of a God. Thus all evidence idolaters use to support their false teaching can be turned to disprove it when considered in its true bearing. That is why the Church of Humanity needs trained teachers in the field continually to win the people from idolatry by overthrowing their false evidence by true reasoning and logic. My comrades should see the necessity for field workers and donate freely for their services.

The freedom to teach the truth about God and life is of no real value to us unless we do it, or employ others to do it.

APPLICATION FOR MEMBERSHIP
IN THE CHURCH OF HUMANITY

W. H. KERR, GREAT BEND, KAN.

Having learned that all Gods are fabulous beings and death the end of conscious life I enclose one dollar for a certificate of graduation in the Knowledge of God, and life membership in the Church of Humanity, making me one of its founders and charter members.

Letter of Evidence to a Christian Mother.

No. 4.

Proof That the "Soul" is a Myth.

DEAR MOTHER: The two primary mistakes of our race on which all religions and idolatries are based and maintained are the beliefs in the existence of Gods and undying souls in people. These two mistakes are so intimately connected and inter-dependent that they must both be corrected to free people from idolatry. When all other Gods are proved to be myths and discarded some people will worship the supposed soul of some dead person and make a God of it as in the case of Jesus. It is of no importance whether the Bible Jesus was a real man or only a fictitious one. When the people learn that they have no such a thing as a soul that survives death with consciousness they will cease the worship of the dead, and that will apply to both real and fictitious people. In my previous letters I demonstrated to you that no such thing as a spirit existed. In this letter I shall explain to you how I discovered that the soul is a myth by another process which you may understand better. In this process, as in the other, I go direct to nature to learn its truths and not to old books written by mistaken people, as the teachers of idolatry and superstition do, for, as stated before, there is where all the truths of nature are found in the first place and with which all supposed truths placed in books must harmonize or be discarded as errrors. For our purpose we will apply true reasoning to three dead objects—an oak tree, a cow and a Chinese woman. The cause of their death is immaterial this time. We will consider the oak first. In considering its nature you are as able as I am to be guided by true reasoning, since you have no hope of reward or fear of punishment to influence your conclusions. Is that oak's life in existence now? Has it gone to an oak heaven or hell? Has it "crossed over" to a spiritual oak-forest? Is there a "great judgment day" for that tree wherein it will be resurrected and reunited with its life and then live forever? To all these questions your reason answers the same as mine—No. Is the life of the oak dead forever? Did its life die within it? Is that what constituted its death? Is the tree dead because its life died? Would the tree be living now had its life not died? To these questions your answer is the same as mine—Yes. Was its life a spirit—a soul—an independent, self-existing thing that simply used the tree for its development to abandon it at will and re-enter some other object or remain disembodied as it preferred? You answer with me—No. But I am aware that some befogged thinkers answer this question in the affirmative. You can recognize their mistake and reject their conclusion as I do. You know as well as I do that this oak was not of a dual nature, composed of body and life, in which the life can dissolve partnership and continue an independent existence at will. You know that the oak's life is not a separate thing inhabiting it temporarily, but that it is a condition of the tree, as death is when it dies. We do not speak of this as being the "remains" of the oak, indicating that part of it had left or was taken away to some other world. When father told us boys to cut down certain dead trees for rails and fuel he did not tell us to cut down their "remains." I think you will fully agree with me that the life of this oak began at the germination of the acorn that produced it and ceased forever at its death. It in turn produced acorns, some of which are growing into other trees. But their lives are not the life of the parent tree. They constitute a succession, and not a continuation, of life by which the oak forest is renewed and perpetuated.

This process of reasoning applies to all vegetation. I believe you agree with me that life is only a condition of vegetation and death means a permanent change in that condition extinguishing life forever. You are not sorry this is true or that you know it or that I know it and teach it. What benefit would it be to you, or to vegetation, to believe the errors of people who would claim the life of all vegetation is its soul and that it departs at death to inhabit some other world? Would such an assertion make it true? Would it be right to force you to pretend to believe it by persecution and prosecution?

There is no danger of that since a very large majority of our race know the truth about vegetable life ceasing as you and I do. Now we are agreed on the permanent cessation of the life of this oak, are we not?

Now let us apply the same plan of reasoning to the dead cow that we did to the oak. It surely led us to right conclusions in that case and it should in this. In this case you are also free from fear of punishment and hope of reward to influence your judgment, and you should be as able to reason correctly as anybody and arrive at right conclusions. The same line of questions can be asked about the life of this cow and the same answers will be given by both of us. Her individual life began at birth and ended at death. There is no heaven or hell or spirit land for cattle. There will be no resurrection of this cow on a great judgment day. She will remain dead forever. Life was only a condition of the body and not a separate thing to go out at death and remain conscious. The dying of the body was the dying of the life, and when completed the condition was death. Let us see if Webster's International Dictionary agrees with this knowledge of life in animals and vegetables. If it does it is right. If it does not it is wrong. "Life, 1. The state of being which begins with generation, birth or germination, and ends with death; also, the time during which this state continues; that state of an animal or plant in which all or any of its organs are capable of performing all or any of their functions—used of all animal and vegetable organisms." Why, of course! Life begins with birth "and ends with death." Why should we not all know that and teach it? What harm is there in knowing that simple truth and in making it known to others? Are you not happy and content in this knowledge? What good would it do to not be? Could you change it by believing and desiring it to be otherwise? Would it be sensible or desirable to support a society to teach that this cow's life was a separate thing and is now in cow-heaven or hell or purgatory or spirit land? Would it change the facts? Would it make it true? Would it help the cow? Would it make the people more intelligent and civilized to teach them such lies until they believed them? Is not the plain truths of nature the best for us to learn and teach? Should not all children born to our race be taught these simple truths of nature? Am I not doing right by teaching these facts? You know this teaching is true. Your experience and observation and investigation teach you that it is. Your best judgment and reasoning ability based on these proclaim them self-evident truths on which you can not be mistaken or deceived. You are in perfect accord and harmony with me in the knowledge and teaching of the truth that all animal and vegetable life ceases forever at death, so is practically our entire race. We are now two-thirds through with our investigation into the meaning, nature, beginning and end of individual life. You, and practically our entire race, are in perfect accord and harmony so far with my teaching, and believe it sound, logical, practical and true, and accept it. Now let us see how well we can keep together in the last third of our investigation. I shall follow strictly the same line of evidence and reasoning on the nature and limitations of the life this dead Chinese woman had that led us direct to the truth about what became of the lives of the oak and the cow. That method has led us so far correctly and I have full confidence that it will continue to do so. I shall stick to the evidence nature gives and accept the truth it leads to. I hope you will stay with me as you have done so far. I hope your Bible and the dictionary and all our race will stay with me as they have done. If you and they do not, I cannot desert the truths of nature to follow you and them, since it will be evident you and they are the ones who are mistaken by having failed to read nature correctly.

Now let us reason together about this dead woman. We will not say her "remains," because we did not use that word when studying the dead cow and oak. Is death the condition or state she is in now? Previous to this was she in a live state since her birth? Is "life" only the name of a condition, and not an object? Was life the same condition or state to this woman it was to the cow and the oak? Was that life limited to the time between birth and death? Is it now terminated, extinct, non-existing? To all these questions there can be but one truthful answer—Yes. Was the condition that constituted the life of this woman different from that which constituted the life of the cow and the oak? Was her life a self-existing entity to which the name "soul" is given? Did it desert her to live a separate conscious existence? The only truthful answer to these questions is—No. Is this the real woman or was it her life? This is the real woman. The material part of the woman, of the cow and of the oak are the real objects. Their lives were only conditions or states of these objects. Can this woman ever be restored to life again? No. Like the cow and the oak she will remain dead forever. All three will be decomposed into the primary elements of which they are composed and unite again in the great store house of nature to form food and drink for animal and plant life. How many agree with my plain reading of nature? Do you, mother? Remember there is no God to come to the rescue of this woman from the natural process of nature that treats people, cattle and trees impartially. In previous letters I proved the non-existence of a God. So, now, in all our studies of nature, he must be strictly eliminated and every question settled on its own merits to arrive at its truth. You have no more personal interest in this Chinese woman than you have in the cow and the oak. You should be able to see that she is in the impartial power of nature as firmly as they are, that she is equally subject to its universal processes, that no belief or prayers or hopes on her part or that of others can save her from it. You would certainly acknowledge that I am right in regard to the fate of this Chinese woman were it not for the reflection that such would also be your fate and that of your loved ones. Well, such is the case, dear mother! Our fate is the same as that of the cattle and the trees. There is no more use in us fighting against it than they. The processes of nature to which we are all subject alike know no trees or cattle or people and no distinction between them.

Let us see if Mr. Webster is still with us. Yes, he is to some extent, and to that extent he is right. Read again his definition given above of life. That applies to people also if he recognizes them as animals. He does. "Animal. 1. An organized being endowed with sensation and the power of voluntary motion, and also characterized by taking its food into an internal cavity or stomach for digestion; by giving carbonic acid to the air and taking oxygen in the process of respiration; and by increasing in motive power or active aggressive force with the progress of maturity." That means man also. So far he is right. But he also gives the mistaken definition of life as applied to man under the second definition, thus: "2. Of human beings: The union of the soul and body; also, the duration of their union; sometimes the deathless quality or existence of the soul, as, man is a creature having immortal life." All of which is not true, since the life of people is not a union of "soul and body" any more than that of cattle and trees are. The soul is a pure creation of fiction, like God and Santa Claus, and hence can do no uniting with anything. But remember it is not the duty of a lexicographer to say if a theory or belief be true or not. His duty is to define what people mean by words regardless of their truth or error. Mr. Webster doubtless believed this error himself. It is nothing but a superstition handed down to us by our ancestors, who were ignorant of the true nature of their own lives. Advancing wisdom precedes diction-

Thanksgiving.

DEAR COMRADES: Nov. 28 is our national thanksgiving day this year, and has been so ordered by our president and the governors of the several states. We have many times more to be thankful for than any other class of citizens and we should duly appreciate it and be thankful accordingly to the parties to whom thanks are due. We owe, of course, no thanks for fabulous Gods and Christs or for our ignorant ancestors who fastened idolatry and superstition upon their posterity. But all our thanks are due, first to idolaters for allowing us to peacefully teach the newly discovered truths regarding Gods and life; and, secondly, to our noble comrades who have contributed time and money to spread the knowledge of those discoveries. All honor and praise to them.

May Christians continue that noble toleration, and may our comrades continue their good work with renewed zeal, hope and enthusiasm. The thanks of idolaters will take the material form of large donations to the support of the teachers of idolatry and superstition. Let yours take the material form of large donations in material aid to the upbuilding of our common society, that it may be made more efficient thereby in the promulgation of its grand truths. There are many ways in which your thanks can be reflected in material form. I want all of you to aid in some way. If I can't think of a way suitable for you I want you to think of a way for yourself in which you can aid in the work. We must each one do something, and here are some of the ways to help:

1. Donate to the propaganda fund.
2. Buy TRUTH ABOUT GOD at wholesale rates for free distribution.
3. Ask those eligible to membership to join the Church of Humanity.
4. Send me the address of all people you know who would probably unite with our church.
5. Write short articles urging union and organization of our forces for TRUTH ABOUT GOD.

Help in the work any way you can without waiting to be urged to do so. If you can't help in ways I suggest, just think of ways yourself to help. I can do absolutely nothing without your aid. Remember that. Don't you want the people freed from idolatry and superstition? They can't be without learning the discoveries you have made. They can't learn them without teachers. You must provide the teachers if it is ever done. Let your first thanksgiving be a good-sized pledge to the Propaganda Fund for the services of a competent orator and organizer for the Church of Humanity during 1908 to guarantee his salary and expenses:

W. H. Kerr and family	$500.00
H. M. Fisk, Pella, Iowa	10.00
J. C. Cramer, Bucyrus, O., yearly	10.00
*William R. Adams, Hooker, Okla., yearly	10.00
*J. R. Miller, Carl Junction, Mo., yearly	5.00
J. P. Hansen, Fairfield, Wash.	10.00
Total to date	$545.00

Comrades: Though we are scattered all over the United States, we must consider ourselves a society as though we all lived in one small town, and we should all contribute to a fund to employ a teacher to represent us, teach our knowledge to others, build up our society with new members and organize us into local societies where possible. Hence we should all jump in at once and give a pledge for $10 or over to employ that teacher, if one can be found competent. Please send in your pledges at once and raise the amount to $2,000, if possible, so I can employ one of our comrades as soon as we get one able to fill the bill. I have pledged one-fourth of it myself and the rest of you should make up the balance in a month. Please act at once. A competent orator and organizer should be able to establish a branch church in each of the large cities within the year and make us strong enough to formally organize and incorporate our society. It is impossible to reach the people properly through our publication, and consequently the work goes on too slowly. We will all die of old age before we get this work fairly started if you don't act. Idolaters everywhere are acting and thereby building societies on errors. Let us all act as they do and build societies on truths. We can't win any other way. Come on, comrades, with your pledges. If each of you will do your duty the next thanksgiving day will find us ready to call the organization convention with 1,000 members represented. Then you will have much more to be thankful for than you have now, and those of you who aid will receive your due share accordingly. I hope to have a long list of pledges to record next month. Idolaters are not afraid or ashamed to contribute publicly for the cause of untruth. Let us not be for the cause of truth. Your comrade,

W. H. KERR.

LETTER OF EVIDENCE TO A CHRISTIAN MOTHER.

aries, and they are revised from time to time to incorporate that additional knowledge. Hence I am not disturbed by the failure of Mr. Webster or any other legicographer to agree with me. The future writers of dictionaries will do it when the people are taught how to read nature correctly. In our unbiased study of the nature of our subjects we found their lives to be only a condition that began at birth or germination and ceased at death. In no case was life "a union of soul and body." In no case was death the result of a departing live soul to live elsewhere. The principle that constituted the life of each subject was the same and had the same limitations.

Does your Bible agree with my nature-reading? You believe everything it says. Let us see. Why, yes! It does stumble onto the truth in places! Just read this: "For that which befalleth the sons of men befalleth beasts; even one thing befalleth them: as the one dieth, so dieth the other; yea, they have all one breath: so that a man hath no pre-eminence above a beast: * * * All go unto one place, all are of the dust, and all turn to dust again. For the living know that they shall die: but the dead know not anything, neither have they any more a reward; for the memory of them are forgotten, * * * for there is no work, nor devices, nor knowledge, nor wisdom, in the grave, whither thou goeth."—(Eccl. 3:19-20; 9:5-10.)

Why, mother dear! That is just what I have been teaching, and in as plain language! I believe that! A Christian once accused me of not believing the truths of the Bible. He was badly mistaken. I do believe its truths. It is the errors and mistakes and untruths in it that I disbelieve. Would you have me deny the grand truths of nature in the Bible and believe its untruths? I fear you have overlooked these truths or failed to recognize them and have given your support to the untruths. The promises of the untruths may please you better. But what possible good can that do you when you know the promises can never be realized and that you will from necessity have to submit to the true process of nature? Your Bible says plainly that we shall die like other animals and shall not know any thing or have a reward. These truths from your own Bible should dispel your fear of punishment and hope of reward and leave you as free as I am to learn and accept the truths of nature, whatever they be. In these Bible statements are jewels of truth. They are true to nature, being in perfect accord and harmony with it. Why have they been overlooked for ages and only the untruths of the Bible taught? They tell clearly and definitely what will become of us. No Gods, Devils, souls, heaven or hell are mentioned. There are no such things in nature. Let us all cease teaching that there is and teach only the truths as the Church of Humanity is doing and in which I invite you to take a life membership as soon as you learn them.

Each individual is only vitally interested in his own fate at and after death, especially when he thinks he is about to die. We need no longer have any doubts about it. The fate of all members of our race is precisely the same, like that of cattle and trees. In the fate of this Chinese woman we can each see our own as clearly as we can see our reflection in the best mirror. Our state as a living, conscious individual organism is definitely and positively limited by nature to the time between birth and death. The oak, the cow and the woman reproduced their specie and thus contributed to the continuation of their race that may endure for many thousands of years. But, like a long chain composed of short links, our race, regardless of its present age or how long it may endure, is made up of short generations that reproduce their specie and pass away forever. The beginning and ultimate end of our race are other questions in which we are not interested except through curiosity and a desire for knowledge. Barring unforeseen accidents and cataclysms to our planet, Earth, that would destroy all life, our race will probably exist for many millions of years to come. It can outlive all other species of animals, since they can only exist through its tolerance in the distant future. The nature of the beginning of our race, and of all life on this planet, though extending back millions of years, will undoubtedly be learned, if indeed it is not already known, through the researches in biology and kindred departments of science. The link that our generation forms in the chain of the human race, though likely millions of years from its beginning, is, in my opinion, much nearer the beginning than the final end of it. Hence it is well worth our while to do all we can to promote true wisdom, peace and happiness, that our race may be blessed more abundantly with them in the future than it has been in the past. The Church of Humanity is being organized to enable its members to do more efficient work in these directions and it invites all to unite with it who believe its teaching true and wish to aid in its promulgation.

Your loving son, ...

NO LEGAL RIGHTS FORFEITED.

Fear of forfeiting legal rights by joining the Church of Humanity seems to prevent some from doing so, as the following card indicates.

"Send me five or six copies and I will try to get a few subscribers. We have a few graduates, but they seem to think they would not be allowed to testify in court. What do you suggest about that, supposing that they are outspoken?—R. A. Hardy, Lampasas, Texas."

The first amendment to the Constitution of the United States prohibits congress from abridging the legal rights of any who may learn and teach the truth about God and life as the Church of Humanity is doing. It says: "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech or of the press." I think no state could pass a law contrary to this. I believe most, if not all, state constitutions contain a similar prohibition. The Constitution of Kansas provides "that absolute freedom in religion shall always be enjoyed, and no property qualification or religious test shall interfere with civil rights;" and also, "that the liberty of the press and speech shall be inviolate; all persons being responsible for the abuse of such right." I think all state constitutions have similar provisions. If they have not the United States Constitution would protect us in all legal rights others have. I have been a witness here since engaging in this teaching publicly and no one dared question my rights in court on that account. This settles the question definitely and no one in the United States should hesitate a moment to join the Church of Humanity and assist in teaching its truths through fear of legal disabilities. It would be terrible to live in a country where we would be compelled by law to worship idols and knowingly teach our children lies for truths. We should all appreciate our liberty to learn the truth about God and life and to teach it. A large part of our race relinquished that liberty once and it cost centuries of slaughter and indescribable tortures and suffering to regain it. That lesson should do for all time to teach our race to surrender it no more forever.

Let us devote our energies to building societies on truth instead of criticising those who are building on errors.

VOL. 2, NO. 12. GREAT BEND, KANSAS, DECEMBER, 1907. WHOLE NO. 24.

The Founding of the Church of Humanity.

Limitation of Membership a Necessity.

All successful society builders know that membership in any society must be limited to those who believe its fundamental teaching and desire the object it seeks to accomplish. A failure of this important recognition and limitation has wrecked all attempts at organizing Freethought societies so far, and will continue to do so in the future until these principles are recognized and adopted. This explains why I limit membership in the Church of Humanity to those who have learned the discoveries that all Gods, Devils and Holy Ghosts are fabulous beings, heaven and hell myths and death the end of conscious life forever, and who wish those discoveries taught to the people that they may be rescued and preserved from idolatry thereby. No one ignorant of these discoveries should wish to be a member of this church, and no one should be accepted unless I have good evidence he knows our teaching to be true. This course seems narrow to some who can't understand its necessity. Mr. J. T. Loper, of Hood River, Ore., says, among other things, in a letter to me:

"The rationalists should have an organization of millions, and very likely would if some one went about it right. I think there is something too narrow or limited when you cannot let me of the Paine or Ingersoll type into your church. Nearly all unbelievers are much like them."

That is to say that the unbelievers are not unbelievers at all. No people of the "Paine and Ingersoll type" would desire to unite with the Church of Humanity if invited to do so, because they do not believe its teaching true. Paine was a firm believer in the existence of a God and a continuation of conscious life. Ingersoll did not know whether or not there is a God and a continuation of life. Hence neither one would have joined the Church of Humanity. Neither one was ever eligible to membership in it, and no one who is advanced no farther than they in the knowledge of God and life is eligible to membership. I would not accept the applications for membership of such people knowingly if offered. They would have no business in this society. How could they profess a knowledge they do not have while believing the opposite? Would they not be wilful liars? They would be as much out of place as I would be as a member of some Christian church. They could no more be allowed to promulgate their errors in this church than I would the truths I know in a Christian church. I have sense enough to not attempt teaching truth in a society devoted to teaching errors. Deists and Agnostics like Paine and Ingersoll should have sense enough to not desire membership in the Church of Humanity for the purpose of teaching their errors. If they should attempt it they would have to be promptly expelled. Any other course would bring internal strife, contention, inharmony and, finally, disorruption and disorganization of the society. All such people must be kept out of the society for its own preservation until they learn the truths it teaches. To suppose they can be taken into the society and then taught its truths is a fatal mistake. They must learn them while on the outside of the society and then unite with it to enable them to aid in their promulgation and the rescue of others from idolatry and superstition. That is the first principle to learn in society-building. People in a society can compromise on details and non-essentials, but not on fundamentals. We must recognize clearly questions of detail and dissociate non-essential from the essential and fundamental questions. Mr. Loper is so confused that he mistakes the vital questions for the non-essential ones wherein people can compromise and work in harmony in the same society. He fails to recognize that people have a conscience that prevents them from aiding in teaching what they believe to be wrong.

How much does Mr. Loper think I would give to a Deist to teach the existence of a God? How much does he think a Deist would give me to teach the truths I am doing? How can he imagine a Deist and I could work harmoniously in the same society where my task is to prove the non-existence of a God and his to prove the existence of one? What kind of a society would it be where diametrically opposing views are taught? No society could possibly exist under such circumstances. It appears strange to me that people are so foolish as to believe it could. All Freethought societies have been attempted on the theory that people divided on fundamentals could unite in harmony in one society. The vital questions were forced into the background and ignored for the sake of harmony. That left them without any vitality and they died at a very tender age. They are now uniting in separate groups according to their belief in the fundamental questions. That is the proper way to do. The Spiritualists have their own press, literature, societies, teachers and authors. The Deists have gone into the idolatrous churches, died or moved away. The Agnostics are as ignorant as ever, with no prospect of learning anything. Having nothing to teach they need no society. The few who struck the lead that led them to the discovery of the truth about God and life are uniting in the Church of Humanity to enable them to propagate those great truths. Each society must be based on a vital issue with the object of teaching it. Its membership must be limited to those who believe its teaching true, else they would not aid the society in its work. That should be clear to all. No one will aid a cause he does not believe in. To illustrate the awkward position a society is in with teachers with adverse views on fundamentals. I call attention to the Materialist Association. Mrs. E. M. Bliven, of Brooklyn, Conn., is its promoter and she claims to believe and teach the same truths the Church of Humanity teaches. Mr. S. W. Davis, editor of The Humanitarian Review, Los Angeles, Cal., is one of its members. In a book entitled "A Future Life?" he affirms his agnosticism and flatly contradicts the teaching of the founder of his society by declaring she does not know that her teaching is true. He does not use her name, but he says no one can know that there is no God and no future life. To use his own words, after defining his meaning of agnosticism, he says:

"Hence the agnostic rejects the dogma that a man can, does, or ever did, obtain any knowledge by inspiration, intuition or supernatural revelation; and, accordingly, he confesses that he does not, and denies that anybody else does, know that there exist or do not exist invisible beings ("gods") superior to man, and confesses that he does not, and denies that anybody else does, know that men do or do not continue to live after bodily death as invisible, intangible conscious persons."

Here we have the spectacle of contradictory teaching on fundamentals by members of the same society. How can such a society hope to live and prosper with this internal contradiction of teachers? How could anyone know who to believe? Mr. Davis is not eligible to membership in the Church of Humanity and I am not eligible to membership in a society where agnostics are eligible. If Mr. Davis was the best friend I had in the world it would not make the slightest difference as to both being eligible to the same society based on these questions. Suppose Mrs. Bliven had just gotten through teaching a class of children that all Gods are myths and death the end of life and Mr. Davis would then take the class and explain to them that Mrs. B. did not know what she was talking about; that no one really knew anything about it; that there may be lots of Gods, and that possibly people continued conscious life after death. I imagine the next lesson for the children would be a hair-pulling bout between their teachers. This illustrates the futility of trying to unite people of opposing views into the same society. It demonstrates the necessity of strictly limiting the membership of a society to those who believe its teaching. The reason the Church of Humanity grows so slowly is because only a few dozen people in the United States know that the teaching of the idolatrous churches is not true, notwithstanding the huge bluff put up by Freethought publications to the effect that practically none believe it. Those very editors do not themselves know that the fundamental teaching of idolatrous churches is untrue. That is the reason they are unable to aid me in any way or to prepare their subscribers for membership in this society. Being agnostics they take the position of Mr. Davis. His position is, when reduced to a plain statement, that since no God or spirit has communicated with man he can not know there is no God and no future life, as such knowledge cannot come within the field of our experience and observation without such communication. Such a position is preposterous in the extreme. It assumes that not one of our race, if it should exist for a billion years more, could learn the truth about God and life if Gods and spirits do not reveal themselves to man. Since Gods and spirits are creations of fiction and cannot reveal themselves we must be doomed to perpetual ignorance concerning them, according to the agnostic reasoning.

The fact is that knowledge of Gods and death does come within our experience and observation and we can know the truth about them. The creation of Gods is going on perpetually all around us and we of the Church of Humanity know just how they are made. We know that death is as universal as life. We know how individual life begins as the fruit of parents. The cessation of individual life is as well known to us as that it begins. Hence our society must be limited to those who know the discoveries it is based on. We are glad to welcome everybody to membership after they have learned the truths we know. When they do that they are no longer agnostics on those subjects. Any other course would be suicidal for the society.

Ways in Which Comrades Can Aid.

Comrades.

The following are a few of the many ways you can aid the promulgation of truth and the upbuilding of your society:

1. Send pledge of aid to Propaganda Fund.
2. Subscribe for monthly bundles of TRUTH ABOUT GOD for free distribution.
3. Pay up your subscription promptly.
4. Mail me the addresses of all persons you think are interested in our work.
5. I have the address of over one thousand school teachers. Donate TRUTH ABOUT GOD to them three months at 5 cents each.

A sample copy is an invitation to subscribe for TRUTH ABOUT GOD.

The Truth About God

Published monthly by the Church of Humanity.

Teaches the Scientific Discovery that God, Satan and Holy Ghost are Fabulous Beings; that Heaven and Hell are Myths and that Death is the Permanent Cessation of Life.

Entered at Great Bend Kan. postoffice as second class mail matter.

Subscription 25 cents a year. In bundles to Sunday Schools, Church organizations and church members for free distribution, 25 cents per 100 copies.

Remit by postoffice money order, coin or currency. Address all communications and orders to W. H. Kerr, 2210 Broadway, Great Bend, Kansas.

Hope you have all had a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

The great loss of life caused by recent mine explosions should convince all who read of them that God and Jesus Christ are creations of fiction.

Comrades, I do all I can to encourage you and I want you to do all you can to encourage me. I certainly need your aid and encouragement as much as you do mine.

Cheer up, comrades. Begin the new year with new hopes and ambitions. Make a resolution that you will do more during 1908 for the cause of truth than you have in all your previous life.

NOTICE—Subscribers who are in arrears on subscription to TRUTH ABOUT GOD will get a subscription blank folded in their copy of this issue. I request all such to please forward 25 cents to me by return mail.

The Searchlight of Waco, Texas, has been turned on again. May it be constantly played on God and life with such brightness as to reveal to an idolatrous and superstitious world the truth that God is a fabulous being and life extinguished forever at death.

Mrs. Bliven wants to break up the Church of Humanity in the interest of the Materialist Association. Our comrades should not aid her in that undertaking. Do all your work and give all your aid for the cause in the name of the society of which you are founders and charter members.

The new limit of 250 members before calling the delegate convention for formal organization and incorporation of the Church of Humanity should be filled out within a month. We have 220 enrolled members now. There must be at least 100 subscribers who should desire to be numbered among its founders and charter members. These should apply at once for membership.

FREE DIRECTORY.

Send stamps for sample copies of the following publications and subscribe for those you like best. You may find something in each of them that tends to overthrow the idolatry of a myth named God and a dead man named Jesus, and aid you in preparing for graduation in the knowledge of God and membership in the Church of Humanity:

The Humanitarian Review, Los Angeles, Cal.
The Truth Seeker, 62 Vesey St., New York City.
Blue Grass Blade, Lexington, Ky.
Higher Science, Los Angeles, Cal.
Ingersoll Beacon, Chicago, Ill.
To-Morrow Magazine, Chicago, Ill.
The People's Press, Chicago, Ill.

NOTICE—The new limit I have set for charter members to be received in is 250. All subscribers to TRUTH ABOUT GOD who wish to be numbered among the founders and charter members of the Church of Humanity should send in their applications for membership at once to be certain of getting in as such.

A Mistaken Brother.

Comrade F. H. Heald, editor of Higher Science, Los Angeles, Cal., writes regarding the name of our society:

"Bro. Kerr: Yours at hand. Yes, I could help to get members, but really I dislike the name, and you must remember that 'church' is very distasteful to many people. If it could be called the School of Humanity or anything else but 'church' I would like to help. I think all the Freethought papers would help if the name were different. * * * Would you be willing to call for the opinion of each member on the subject of a name?"

I wrote Comrade Heald explaining that our society, like all others, consisted of its members, and as a matter of fact they are to have full control of it even to its name when the organizing convention is held. It will not be possible for all the members to attend that convention and so it will have to be a delegate convention of the society. As in all societies each member cannot expect to have his ideas of all nonessential details adopted. We will place the interests of our church in the hands of our chosen delegates and let them settle the details of the work of the society by such majorities as they deem advisable and we will all accept the result of their deliberations. We will use the present name until the society in delegate convention adopts it or some other one. That ought to be satisfactory to all. The name is one of the non-essentials. Only the base and object of the society are essential. My explanation satisfied him and he writes in reply:

"Bro. Kerr: Yours at hand. Glad you are willing to leave the name to a vote. If they have the privilege of voting on a name they will be satisfied even if they call it the same as now. Count me in for all I can do to help it. As soon as I get more room will help more."

Our only hope to set any power in motion able to ever free our race from the idolatry of creations of fiction and the superstition of continuous life must be placed in society building founded on the truth about those subjects with the direct object of giving the people such information as will free them and keep them immune to the false teaching. I hope Comrade Heald will devote all his energies to the upbuilding of our society. He is mistaken in believing any of the Freethought publications would aid us under any other name. Their editors are Agnostics and of course do not believe our teaching true. Our teaching and object would be the same under any other name. Hence it is clear none of them could aid us. We must give up the idea that they know the truths we do. When it comes to a showdown they will all be found with the idolatrous churches lined up against us and perhaps in the van guard of the fight against the truths we teach.

Circular Letter to the Church of Humanity.

NO. 6.

DEAR COMRADES: We are not winning numbers as fast as we should be doing considering the strength of our church now. Whose fault is it? If it is mine I want to know it and know what I can do to remedy it at once. If it is yours you should try to find out a way to do better. There is only one primary reason for uniting in a society and that is to enable us to win people from idolatry by teaching them the truth about God and life. Our uniting in an educational society is to enable us to work in concert and harmony in a systematic way. It is to give all of us an opportunity to help in the propaganda work either by doing personal work or by paying others to do it. But if we will do nothing then our uniting is useless and our society will be a failure. Do you want it to be a failure? It can't be anything else unless you are willing to do something or pay something for the propaganda work. I believe there are not 1,000 people in the United States that know that God is a myth and death the end of life. I believe we will have to cut our limit down to 250 members, instead of 1,000, to organize with. Let us all try to get new members to make our force 250 strong and then organize and incorporate. Then you can elect the editor for our church paper and there may be a comrade who can do this work much more satisfactory than I can. If so I will be anxious for him to do it. If not I would rather be elected to do my part in the work. It might be I could aid in some other capacity to better advantage than in this. At any rate I believe our officers and teachers should be elected to their duties by the members of the society. Then you would have more confidence in them and would aid them more willingly in performing their duties. At the convention your delegates can select any name they wish for the society if they dislike the present one. I do not care if it is named the "Rescue Army" or any other appropriate name. The object is to get the people who know the truth about God and life into a society and get them to helping in the propaganda work. I see you dislike to do personal work in helping to make our discoveries known to others. That makes it necessary to hire special teachers to do the teaching you want done. Perhaps you would all prefer to hire the teaching done than to do it. Then you should all contribute to the Propaganda Fund at once so I can secure the services of a field worker as soon as possible. Pledges for this fund previously acknowledge are $545. Comrade J. W. Gilbert, of Friend, Neb., sends a pledge of $10 for the fund. As soon as field workers get well started in their work they would doubtless be self-sustaining, as the evangelists are, by collections from people in cities where they work. Our fund is for a bonus to induce some one to begin the field work. We must all learn to pay for the teaching we want done, as the Christians do. Three churches in this town employed the services of two evangelists with their wives and three professional singers and musicians for three weeks last month. As a result they claim, I believe, an increase of 150 in membership. They raised $1,000 for the evangelists, singers and incidental expenses. There were two contributions of $25 each and most of the others at $5 and $10 each. Besides much personal work was done by the local preachers and some of the members. That is the way Christians everywhere are working and paying to have their idolatry and superstition taught their children and others. There can be no possible start made to correct their false teaching until you, who know the truth, conclude to work as hard and pay as much for its teaching as idolaters do for the teaching of errors. They think their teaching is true and will never know any better until you put out and maintain competent field workers to make the truth known to them. They can't be reached nor convinced through books and publications. They must actually see and hear representatives of an organized society proclaim our discoveries and be taught them orally from a public rostrum. They must see people join the society and be urged and persuaded to do so, as the evangelists do in getting church members. The books and papers can only be supplementary aids in holding the members gained. Christians have in their homes Bibles and many religious books and publications, but these do not make church members. It takes the system of oral teaching they maintain to do that. We must follow their

Letter of Evidence to a Christian Mother.

No. 5.

Overthrowing the Bible as a Fetich.

DEAR MOTHER: The Bible is a great stumbling block in your pathway to truth owing to the false teaching you have had regarding it. You regard it with superstitious awe, devotion and admiration as being a veritable message from a God to the people. I have proven in previous letters by evidence direct from nature and events that no God and no soul exists in reality. But you have the Bible, which you believe to be a message from a God, and consequently direct proof of the existence of one. This erroneous belief of yours must be dispelled before you can discard the Bible as a God-written book. A wider range of knowledge on your part concerning other Bibles, the history of your own and a knowledge of its mistakes will dispel your delusion that it is a God-book. That knowledge will prove to you that every word and thought in the Bible are only those of men. This letter will be devoted to giving you an idea of the knowledge you should have regarding the Bible to overthrow your mistaken opinion of it. You should desire all the knowledge concerning the Bible you can get, so that you cannot be imposed on by ignorant or dishonest people regarding it. You should be anxious to know the real truth about it, since you have nothing to gain by being deluded or deceived by mistaken teachers. In all cases of this nature you should value truth above error and seek diligently to find it. In this short letter I can only give you pointers for your investigation, with a few brief samples of what you will find by extended study in the various directions indicated. I wish you to know of the many sacred books of the world regarded by people as God-given, the history of the many translations and revisions of your own Bible, its incredibility and immoralities.

MANY OTHER BIBLES.

When you learn that there are a great many other Bibles in the world—each contradicting all the others—some believed by their devotees to be the very words, commands and requirements of a God, you will know they are all, including your own, the work of mistaken men. Here is a partial list of the different Bibles and sacred books of the world, many of them believed by their devotees to be messages from a God, as you do of your Bible. You can understand that they are mistaken in their belief regarding the origin of their sacred books and thus comprehend how easily you have been deceived regarding the origin of your own Bible.

BIBLES IN INDIA.

The oldest Bibles in the world are the Vedas of India. There are four complete books named the Rigveda, the Yajurveda, the Samaveda and the Atharvaveda. They have 190,000,000 believers. The Puranas is another set of eighteen sacred books that teach the religion of the Hindoos. The Tripitaka is the Buddhist Bible and was compiled three hundred years before the Christian era. It has 147,900,000 believers. The Upanishads are sacred books teaching the idolatry of the God Bramah. The Tantras teaches the idolatry of the God Sivah. The Ramayana is a poem giving the history of Rama, one of the incarnations of the God Vishnu.

BIBLES OF CHINA.

The sacred books called the Five Kings teach the religion of Confucianism believed in by the educated classes of China. One of the books contains documents over 4,000 years old. One book was written 1,143 B. C. They were mostly compiled 500 B. C. There are 256,000,000 Confucians.

BIBLES OF PERSIA.

The Zend Avesta contains twenty-one books, was compiled by Zoroaster and his disciples 3,000 years ago and is one of the most important Bibles of the world. It is very large, covering 12,000 parchments, it is said. Much of your Bible was borrowed from this one. The Sadder is the Bible of the Parsees.

BIBLES OF ISLAM.

The Koran and the Sunna are the sacred books of the Mohammedans. Their believers number 176,834,000. Where the followers of this religion and those of Christianity come in contact, as in Armenia, there is a chronic state of the most cruel warfare between them. That condition can never be remedied except by teaching both parties the truth that there is no God back of their religions and Bibles.

BIBLES OF THE JEWS.

The Pentateuch, Nebum, Hagiographa and the Talmud constitute the sacred writings, laws, history and mythology of the Jews. They number 7,186,000. The Old Testament is mostly borrowed from these Jewish mythologies and histories and you worship their primary idol and believe it to be the father of your Jesus. You believe a Jewish maiden was his mother. With all the obligations the Christians are under to the Jews for their Bible and idols they treat them most shamefully in most Christian countries. It seems to me those Jews who taught their idolatries to the Gentiles made a fatal mistake.

The seven great religions of the world, Braminism, Buddhism, Confucianism, Zoroastrianism, Mohammedanism, Judaism and Christianity, all originated in Asia. The Bibles used to propagate these religions were nearly all written by Asiatic priests and prophets. The number of followers of these religions, excepting Christianity, is nearly 1,000,000,000. Christianity claims half as many adherents. You are a great believer in numbers being evidence of right. You think I am mistaken because so few have learned what I have. But you see here that numbers are against Christianity two to one. You think a large majority of the Christians are mistaken and are doomed to hell as certainly as the worshipers of other Gods. You disbelieve the teachings of the Holy Rollers, High Flyers, Dowieites, Eddyites, Universalists, Roman Catholics, Greek Catholics and in short, the whole outfit except the little sect of Methodists you are a member of, and doubtless you think some of them will have tight squeezing to get in to your imaginary heaven. You ought to be able to see by this array of Bibles and Gods and religions that a very large majority of our race have been fooled by Bible writers and God-makers and that you have been fooled by the same methods. Had you been born and reared by parents in any country where any of the other religions predominate you would have been as blind a follower of any other religion as you are now of Christianity. So, after all, your religion was not determined by its truthfulness but by the geographical location of your parents. The country one is born in determines his religion and the God he is to worship. You should know by this fact that there is no real God or he would make himself universally known and not leave the people to worship and fight over different idols supposed to be real Gods by their respective worshipers.

HISTORY OF THE BIBLE.

If you knew the history of the Bible you would know no God had anything to do with its composition and compilation. I can not here give you much of an idea of its history. It represents to some extent the growth or evolution of the religious ideas of a part of our race extending back through three or four thousand years. It has had a very checkered career. Many books have been added to it and many taken from it from time to time by ecclesistical councils. It has been translated several times, revised many times and its form of composition changed. All this has caused many changes in its wording and meaning. The Jews, Greek Catholics, Roman Catholics, Protestants and some nations have each different versions and compilations of the Bible, no two being alike. Translators and revisors have often changed its wording in places to suit their own ideas. To a great extent it is a symposium of the religious ideas of the writers mixed with some history and many traditional fables. You remember your Bible was revised by twenty-seven English scholars and that their work was reviewed by an American committee between 1870 and 1882. No God was a member of either committee. More than 100,000 alterations in the Bible were made. Many changes were made in the "Lord's Prayer." In six copies of the same English version of the Bible were found 2,400 variations in their contents. The Pope is thinking of appointing a commission to revise the Catholic Bible. No God will be a member of that commission. You should understand from this knowledge of how Bibles are made and changed that no God ever had anything to do with Bible-making.

INTERNAL EVIDENCE OF NO GOD.

When you examine the text of the Bible in the light of modern criticism you will find still greater evidence that no God had anything to do with its production.

A critical examination will reveal to you hundreds of interpolations, forgeries, contraditions, errors, misstatements, conflictions with known facts in nature, absurdities, fables, lies, obscenities and the sanction and teaching of crimes and vices. All of which should convince you that it is the exclusive production of man, and a very poor production at that compared with most of his other literary products. You are doubtless surprised to hear that your Bible contains such things, and you may not believe it does. I can only take space here to refer you to sample Bible quotations of the many that could be given to prove each of the foregoing charges.

Interpolations—"There are thousands of interpolations in the Bible. A considerable portion of the words printed in Italics in our version are acknowledged interpolations."

Forgeries—"The last twelve verses of Mark, the first eleven verses of John 8 and in 1 John 5:8 three important passages, are all admitted to be forgeries."—Remsburg.

Contradictions—In two chapters (Ez. 2) and (Nep. 7) there are twenty-four contraditions in numbers purporting to be identical records. In the Jewish Kings thirty contraditions are noted. In the four Gospels twenty contraditions of vital interest to Christianity, mostly relating to Jesus, are noted. Sixteen different dates are given to Jehoshaphat's death as related to the death of Ahaziah's. The Truth-Seeker company publishes a pamphlet giving 144 self-contradictions of the Bible. Mr. Remsburg says: "The briefest expose of all the errors of the Bible would require a larger volume than the Bible itself."

THE BIBLE PROVED TO BE FALSE BY TEN SCIENCES.

"In the Bible a thousand scientific errors may be found."—(Remsburg). Its teachings are proved untrue by ten of the principal sciences—Astronomy, Geology, Geography, Botany, Zoology, Ethnology, Physiology, Chemistry, Physics and Mathematics.

Astronomy proves the Bible stories of creation, of the sun and moon standing still, of the shadow on a sun-dial turning backward ten degrees, and some other Bible yarns, to be only fables.

Geology proves the creation story false.

Geography proves the story of the Devil tempting Jesus, of the Garden of Eden, of the flood, of the earth being flat and stationary and many others to be only fables.

Botany proves the creation story, the God-cursing story, the flood story, the Jesus-cursing story, the plagues of Egypt story and many others to be only fables.

ZOOLOGY proves the creation story, the Garden of Eden story, the flood story, the Holy Ghost story, the Jonah story, the Balaam story and many others to be only fables.

Ethnology proves the creation story, the story of giants, the stories of longevity of the ancients, the story of the origin of languages and many others to be false.

Physiology proves the creation story, the Garden of Eden story, the flood story, the Holy Ghost story, the casting out of Devils stories, the coming to life stories, the going to heaven and hell stories, the Mrs. Lott story, the faith-cure stories, the witch stories and many others just plain lies.

Chemistry proves the magician stories, the turning water to wine story, the turning of Mrs. Lott to salt story and many others to be just common lies.

Physics proves the creation story, the Garden of Eden story, the flood story, the rainbow story, the water-walking story, the storm-obeying story, the Red Sea story, the tower of Babel story and many others to be only ordinary lies of the ancients.

Mathematics—I have in this letter pointed out many contradictions in recording numbers. Mr. Remsburg says there are three hundred mathematical errors to be found in the Bible. I did not take the trouble to hunt them all up. If there is one error of any kind in the Bible or one statement that is disproved by modern investigations into the truths of nature called sciences that is enough to prove that no God had anything to do with the production of the Bible. If you knew the truths of nature taught by the ten leading sciences I have mentioned you would know they prove the Bible untrue in thousands of its statements, and you would never again believe it possible for a God to have had anything to do with its production in any way.

Immoralities of the Bible—You may claim that the mission of the Bible is not to teach the sciences but to teach good morals. If you knew the facts about its immoral teachings you would know it as much out of line with good moral ethics as it is with the truths of modern sciences. Critics have noted many Bible quotations that teach, santions or upholds the following twenty wrongs, crimes and vices: (1) Lying and deception, (2) cheating, (3) theft and robbery, (4) murder, (5) wars of conquest, (6) human sacrifice, (7) cannibalism, (8) witchcraft, (9) slavery (10) polygamy, (11) adultery and prostitution, (12) obscenity, (13) intemperance, (14) vagrancy, (15) ignorance, (16) injustice to women, (17) unkindness to children, (18) cruelty to animals, (19) tyranny, (20) intolerance and persecution.

Mr. Wakeman says the word "moral" does not occur in the Bible, nor even the idea. Mr. Remsburg says he refuses to accept the Bible as a moral guide because it sanctions nearly every vice and crime.

I shall only take space here to point out where you will find a few Bible statements teaching and practicing each of the crimes and vices and immoralities numerated above:

Lying and Deception—1 Kings 22: 20-23; Ezek. 14:9; Jer. 20:7, 15:18, 38:24-27; 2 Thess. 2:11; Gen. 2:17, 12:13-19, 20:2, 18:13-15, 26:7, 27:6-17, 18-24, 29:25, 31: 34-35, 37, 42:7; Num. 14:30-34; Ex. 3:18, 1:15-20; 1 Sam. 26:2, 27:8-11; 2 Kings 8:7-15; Mark 4: 11-12; 2 Cor. 12:16; 1 Cor. 9:20; Rom. 3:7.

Cheating—Gen. 25:29-34, 30:41-43, 31:8-9; Ex. 3:21-22, 11:1-2, 12: 35-36; Deut. 14:21.

Stealing—Num. 31; Josh. 6:19-24, 8:27; 1 Sam. 27:8-12; Deut. 23:24-25; Prov. 6:30; Luke 6:30.

Murder—Ex. 32:27, 2:12; Num. 25:6-13; 1 Sam. 15:32-33; 2 Kings 9:23-24 27-35, 10:1, 7, 11, 30, Jud. 3:15-23, 5:24-28.

War—Ps. 144:1; Num. 33:52-53, 31:7-10; Deut. 20:16-17, 7:16, 2: 24-25, 34, 3:3-6; Josh. 6:2-21, 8: 18, 25, 28, 10:31-32, 34-35.

Human Sacrifices—Lev. 27:28-29; Gen. 22:2; Jud. 11:26-40.

Cannibalism—Ezek. 5:10; Lev. 26:29; Jer. 19:9; Deut. 28:53-57; Lam. 4:10; 2 Kings 6:28-29; John 6:53.

Witchcraft—2 Chron. 33:6; Isa. 8:19; 1 Sam. 15:23; Micah. 5:12; Nahum 3:4; Gal. 5:20; Ex. 22:18; Lev. 20:27.

Slavery—Lev. 25:44-46; Ex. 21: 2-6, 20, 21; Gen. 9:25-27; 1 Tim. 6:1; Titus 2:9; Eph. 6:5; 1 Pet. 2: 18.

Polygamy—Deut. 21:15-17, 25:5; Gen. 26:5, 35:11; Jud. 6:12; 2 Sam. 12:7-8.

Adultery—Read the misconduct of those who are represented as the special pets of your imaginary God—Abraham, Lott, Jacob, Judah, Sampson, David and other Bible saints; Gen. 19; Jud. 19; Hosea 1: 2-3, 3:1-2, and the disposition of maidens captured in war.

Obscenity—Isaiah 36:12, 3:17; Ezek. 4:12-15; Gen. 19:30-36, 30: 1-16, 38; 2 Kings 18:27; Lev. 15: 16-33; Job 40:16-17; 1 Kings 14: 10.

Intemperance—Deut. 14:26, 7: 13; Prov. 31:6-7, 3:9-10; 1 Tim. 5:23; Eccles. 9:7; Zech. 9:17; Amos 9:14; Jud. 9:13; Num. 28:7, 6:20; Joel 1:5, 9, 13; Jer. 35:2; Luke 7: 33-34.

Vagrancy—Luke 6:20, 24; Matt. 19:23, 6:19, 25-34; Mark 10:25.

Ignorance—Gen. 2:17, 3:6, 7, 23; Mark 16:16; Col. 2:8; 1 Cor. 2:8; 8:1, 14:38, 3:19, 4:10; Eccles. 1: 17-18; Isa. 47:10.

Injustice to Women—Gen. 3:16; Col. 3:18; Eph. 5:24; 1 Cor. 14:34-35; 1 Pet. 3:1-6; 1 Tim. 2:11-14; Ex. 21:7; Jud. 21:20-23; Lev. 12; Deut. 24:1, 21:10-14; 2 Sam. 12: 11; Isa. 13:16; Zech. 14:2; Jer. 18:21.

Unkindness to Children—Prov. 23:14, 22:15, 29:15; Deut. 21:18-19, 21; Isa. 13:16; Hosea 13:16; Ex. 20:5; Isa. 13:17-18; Lev. 26: 22; 2 Sam. 12:15-18.

Cruelty to Animals—Read of the slaughter of animals and fowls for sacrifices the God-makers said God required as an offering for the sins of the people. The flood story and the plagues of Egypt stories and many others represent the destruction of animals on account of the sins of the people.

Tyranny—1 Pet. 2:13; Rom. 13: 1-2.

Intolerance—Deut. 13:6-9; Ps. 109:8-12; Mark 16:16, 9:45; Matt. 25:41-46; 2 John 1:10; Gal. 1:9, 5: 12.

When you read all the Bible quotations I have called your attention to you will have some idea of the horribly wicked nature of the book and its principal characters, including the character it calls God. The Bible itself is positive proof that the God it creates is a myth, and that no real God exists or he would not allow such a caricature to be palmed off on the people as being himself. Did any real God exist he would be so ashamed of the man-made gods that he would make himself known. When you know the real nature of the Bible you will not hug it to your bosom as a precious God-given document, containing nothing but truth and good teaching that all children should be made to read and study. You will then know it is only an uncertain record of the immoralities, wickedness, wars, superstitions, idolatry and traditional fables of ancient, ignorant Arabs. To believe their fables true and to worship their idols puts the people of our time on the very low intellectual level with them and is humilating in the extreme to those who know the facts. The few who do know them should give the services of their time and property to make them known to all since the responsibility for the continuation of the idolatry and superstition of the ancient Arabs falls on those alone who know the truth about the matter.

I shall have the publishers mail you a copy of Remsburg's Bible, so you can study more fully the true nature of your Bible as it is revealed by a competent modern critic.

Your loving son.

example in that method of teaching to win success. Seeing they pay so much for the teaching they believe true, why can't you pay as much for the teaching you know to be true? The ignorance, idolatry and superstition of the people can't be changed to a knowledge of the truth by any other method. Only those who know the truth can have it taught. As you are the only ones who know it, its teaching must depend on you alone. Then, for pity's sake, don't be "dead in the shell" when you see a world of idolaters to be rescued from ignorance and superstition and so few to begin the task. Get busy like the idolaters are and put up your money to pay some one to begin the work. When $1,000 is pledged I will advertise for some one able to teach your discoveries to the people from the rostrum. The evangelists who were here got paid at the rate of about $2,500 a year. You should desire to pay teachers of your discoveries at least as much as the teachers of untruths get. You should be ashamed to ask or expect them to teach for less. I hope you will all see your duty as clearly as I see mine and work and pay accordingly. We must work and pay in concert for the object we desire to accomplish or we can do nothing at all. Each one should pledge some financial aid for a public teacher of your discoveries so our society can be increased in numbers faster. I ask all my comrades, who have not done so, to please send in their pledges of aid by return mail. Your comrade,

W. H. Kerr.

A Request to the President, Senators and Representatives in Congress

I have forwarded a request to the president, the two Kansas senators and the representative of my congressional district, that they use their influence to have the motto, "in God we trust" omitted from all coins in the future. I suggest that all my comrades make a similar request of the president and their respective congressmen. It may be the first knowledge any of them will have that they have constituents who have learned that God is a myth and who place no more trust in him than they do in Jove or Jupiter or any other ancient idol.

My request to the president is as follows:

"President Roosevelt, Washington, D. C.:

"Sir: On behalf of the Church of Humanity, numbering 220 enrolled members, scattered through thirty-seven states, I congratulate you on your recent order to omit the inscription, 'in God we trust,' from the new $10 gold coins. We hope your order will stand and be applied to all coins minted hereafter. Our reasons are quite different from yours. We have discovered that God is a fabulous being and think no more of trusting him for favors than we do other myths. We are supposed to hold the sentiments expressed on coins and are therefore compelled to hand out a deliberate falsehood with each coin containing the objectionable inscription. We are in the minority now, but we deny the right of the majority to compel us to be liars. The omission of the inscription in no sense proclaims the disbelief of Christians in the existence of a God and no injustice is done them thereby. Hence it is quite clear that the only way to avoid doing injustice to any of the people is to have the inscription omitted from all coins in the future.

"W. H. Kerr,

"Temporary International Organizer of The Church of Humanity."

To the congressmen I sent the following request:

"To the Representative of Kansas in Congress, Hon. — — ———, Washington, D. C.:

Dear Sir: On behalf of The Church of Humanity, numbering 220 enrolled members in thirty-seven states, I respectfully request that you support the president in his stand to omit in the future from all coins, the inscription, 'in God we trust.'

"Twenty-eight of our church members are citizens of Kansas. The members of this church have discovered that God is a fabulous being like Santa Claus and therefore, think no more of trusting him for favors than any other myth. When we hand a man a coin we are supposed to hold the sentiments expressed thereon. We are thus compelled to hand out a deliberate falsehood with each coin containing the objectionable inscription. We are in the minority now, but we deny the right of the majority to compel us to be liars. The omission of the inscription in no sense indicates the unbelief of Christians in the existence of a God and no injustice is done them thereby. It is quite clear that the only way to avoid doing injustice to any of the people is to omit the inscription in the future from all coins."

One of the senators sent me the following answer:

"Yours of the 5th instant is received. Please accept thanks for the information. Your letter will have consideration."

Christians will pour in petitions to influence the president and congress to retain the inscription. If we do not let our wishes be known they will not know that there is any objection to it. Very often congress is influenced by a very small minority where it is shown an injustice is done them by legislation. Hence the necessity of leting our representatives know that the retention of the inscription is an injustice to us. Each member of The Church of Humanity should at once mail a protest against it to the president and congressmen from his respective state.

Twelve Fatal Fallacies of Freethinkers.

Having been a member of a national Freethought society for years, and a reader of the leading Freethought books and publications for a quarter of a century, I believe I am as competent to know and understand the errors of Freethinkers as I am those of Christians. To point out these errors may cause some of those hardest hit to call me a traitor to their cause. Most people prefer to have the errors of the other fellow pointed out. But people, and societies generally, improve in wisdom and good qualities more by finding out and correcting their own mistakes before trying to correct those of others. On account of Freethinkers holding and propagating these false ideas I withdrew from the A. S. U. & F. F. and reject all names and titles of people holding them.

Here are twelve of their most prominent fallacies, which equal twelve of the most absurd teachings of Christians, not excluding the fables of creation, Noah's ark, the fall and redemption of man and a future life:

1. That people should do their own thinking and not hire others to do it for them.

2. That it is a shortage of brains that causes people to believe the errors of the Christian religion.

3. That natural evolution will of itself teach our race the true knowledge of God and life.

4. That questions about Gods, Devils, heaven, hell and continuous life belong to another world and should be ignored here, as nothing definite can be known about them until after we die.

5. That the people are not yet prepared to accept the truth about God and life.

6. That church members are not free to think and act, but are abject slaves of the clergy.

7. That all existing idolatrous societies must be destroyed before any society teaching truth can be started.

8. That to teach there is no God and no future life is too radical for the people. They must be taught it by easy stages.

9. That Christians know their religion is untrue, but are all liars and hypocrites regarding it.

10. That the power of idolaters to force their religion on others and to prevent the truth being taught is gone forever.

11. That nobody goes to church and Sunday school, or believes the fables taught there, but silly women and children and weak-minded men.

12. That scientists know the truth about God and life and are free from idolatry and superstition, and that all people will be when they learn the teaching of modern scientists.

Under the title "Freethinkers" I include Agnostics, Infidels, Atheists, Rationalists and those of any other title who are "fighting" the churches and the clergy. I do not claim that all such people believe all the above monstrous absurdities, but I do believe that they all believe one or more of them to be true. Freethought does not mean any particular belief or knowledge. Freethinkers are as widely apart in their beliefs and conclusions regarding God and life as Christians are. But in their common fight against Christians the editors of, and contributors to, Freethought publications generally use some or all of the above errors. The opposition to idolatrous churches is now divided into two distinct classes fundamentally different—those who are fighting them from personal hatred and motives and those who, having learned the truth about God and life wish it taught to all people, that progress and civilization may be promoted. The latter class are uniting in the Church of Humanity to enable them to have their discoveries taught. To be successful in this society building and teaching it is absolutely necessary for those who believe any of the above twelve errors to learn that not one of them is true. I shall aid you in this by evidence disproving each assertion under numbers corresponding to them.

Read each fallacy, then its disproof:

1. This fatal error is a common one of Freethinkers. To be consistent they must refuse to teach, join a society, or in any way aid others to teach, any truth they may have discovered regardless of its importance. They must refuse to subscribe for and pay for Freethought papers and books. This error is responsible to a great extent for the non-payment of subscriptions to Freethought publications and the support of their societies. It closes the pocket-book and should close the mouth and stay the pen of those who believe it. It makes dead-beats and fossils, who are of no more good to society or the world than if they were dead. If one has discovered the most important truth in nature or made the greatest invention of the century he must not make it known to others, as it would be contrary to his Freethought belief that people should do their own thinking. To be strictly consistent he should not teach this preposterous error. He should leave people to do their own thinking or hire it done, as they please. To advise them what to do is doing their thinking for them and that is a violation of this theory. No wonder Freethought is dead. It committed suicide with its own false philosophies. People would know precious little were it not for the services of hired thinkers in all branches of knowledge. Every hired teacher is a hired thinker. A part of the price of most books goes to the author as pay for his thought. The largest part of the bills for professional services is pay for thinking for us—for knowing how. A part of the price we pay for all patented articles goes to the inventor for thinking them out for us. What could the mass of the people know about any of the sciences if each one knew nothing but what he discovered himself? How many of the modern conveniences could they have if they had none but what each one invented for himself? It is perfectly right and proper to pay for the knowledge others have. The truth about God and life is of vital interest to all. It is right for people to desire that knowledge. It is as right and sensible for them to hire those who claim to know to give them that knowledge and teach it to their children as it is to hire teachers of any other branch of knowledge. When it is discovered that any teachers are mistaken it is then proper to hire others to teach who do know the truth about the subject. A few have discovered the real truth about God and life and it is quite different from that taught by any teachers so far. I now want these few to organize into a society to employ one or more of their number to begin teaching these new found truths in place of the false teachers. But those who know the discovery will not aid me so long as they believe these false theories of Freethinkers. Hence the necessity of proving them false and discarding them.

2. This mistake will prevent any active effort to free people from idolatry by those who believe it true. They cannot give people more brains. This error is easily disproved, though. What people believe regarding God and life is determined neither by quantity nor quality of brains, but by what is taught them. The members of one Christian sect have no more brain per capita than those of any other sect. The followers of one of the great religions have no more brain per capita than those of any other religion. The followers of any religion have as much brain per capita as my comrades, who have learned the truth about God and life. Then, again, people with large brains and those with small brains are found in the same sect and religion and in the Church of Humanity. This proves that the size of the head and brain has no more to do with what people believe and know than the size of their bodies have. Half of my comrades were once members of some Christian sect and practiced their idolatry and believed their superstition. Their brains neither increased nor decreased by learning the truths they now know. Some adults learn new facts every day, and some study to fill the various professions, but it does not increase the size of the brain. A person with a small head and brain can learn a trade or a profession as quickly as one with a large head and brain. Of a given number of people selected at random each one may excel all the others in some special line of study. That test would not depend on the size of the brain or prove that the others could not learn the other studies if given more time and better teachers. Millions of people who are now worshiping idols could be taught the discoveries that Gods are fabulous beings and life ends at death if they had competent teachers. The theory of Freethinkers that they have not brains enough to learn them is preposterous in the extreme. Let us employ a competent teacher for them, if one can be found, and give the matter a practical test.

3. No one will aid a cause if he thinks Nature will do it for him. But it will not in this case. Nature teaches nothing. It is not an intelligent thing. Hence it cannot care if our race exists or not, or if it knows anything or not, or how much it is mistaken about things. Nature cannot make its truths known to man. He has to seek them out, and when found proclaim them and teach them to all if the world is to know them.

4. The Freethinker here assumes the superstition of continuous life to be true or else the other equally absurd theory that a dead man can know that he is dead and will remain so. They use the slogan, "One world at a time," and declare all questions concerning another world should be left to be settled when we get there. These questions concern us vitally here and now. They belong to this world and must be settled here. When a question is raised in this world its solution belongs to this world if it is ever to be solved. It is the only world we will ever live in and all things we wish done must be done here if done at all. Every child born to our race is entitled to an answer to these questions and will have it. If we who know the true answer will not give it to them those who believe the false answer will. Then we can have only ourselves to blame for the result.

5. People can only be prepared to accept the truth about God and life by competent teachers giving them the necessary proof to convince them. They are as ready in this country to listen to that proof as they ever can be in advance. But so far there has been no competent teachers provided for them. The theory that the masses can prepare themselves to accept these truths by learning the evidence of them without the services of teachers is erroneous. But no one holding this false theory will aid in providing the teachers.

6. This false idea is held by all Freethinkers. People who are members of any church in this country

Send in your votes, comrades.

Get in the band wagon for organization.

We are nearing the goal of organization. It can be reached this summer.

Only 26 members more will put us to the 250 mark. Who wants them?

If your state is not represented in the membership of our society see that it is by taking a number yourself, if you know there is no God and no future life for the dead.

I would like to be able to announce the promised attendance at the convention of two hundred comrades in next issue. Make it a great time, comrades, that will create a world-wide interest.

We need thousands of trained defenders of the truth about God and life to go forth to meet the thousands of trained defenders of the errors about those subjects. We can't get them without organizing.

Join the Church of Humanity, attend its organizing convention, take part in its councils, help to make its organic laws, honor your state by increasing its representation, power and influence in this convention, and your reward will be great.

A comrade writes that a friend of his refuses to unite with our society because it is too much a one-man-power society. If he believes it is, he should help to remedy it by joining it himself and helping to get more members, so we can call the organizing convention sooner and stop the objectionable conditions. My temporary office and duties cease when the convention meets. I will be then only as any other comrade, with nothing to do unless the society puts work on me. The delegates then take charge of everything. They can select whom they please to edit the church paper and fill the offices that they create. I only want to be a paying member. Guess my critic will not object to that.

Circular Letter to the Church of Humanity.

NO. 7.

DEAR COMRADES: When and where do you want the convention of your society for formal organization and incorporation? These questions can now be considered and settled. The date should be set at least five or six months ahead so we can advertise it and give all a chance to come in as founders and charter members of this society who know its discovered truths. By that time we will certainly have our number —250—made up. We have 223 enrolled members now. Some vacancies will have to be filled, but I believe we will get enough over the 250 to fill them. Owing to reducing the number to 250 to organize with, instead of 1,000, I shall call as delegates to the convention all the comrades.

I want each member of the church, over twenty-one years of age, to fill out the voting blank attached and send me by return mail.

I suggest that these rules govern us: 1. That women and men have equal rights in the society. 2. That we be governed by a majority of the votes cast.

As for me, I can attend the convention anywhere in the United States and will not vote unless there is a tie vote cast.

But I offer the following suggestions with reasons for them:

1. Place. That the convention be held in this town because the geographical center of the United States is in Kansas and Great Bend is near the center of Kansas. The main line of the Santa Fe railroad and a short spur to the main line of the Missouri Pacific railroad give us good access by rail. We have ample hotel facilities and I believe the delegates would be treated right. Our proposed college building would be a fine place for the work of the convention. There is a good assembly room and plenty of suitable committee rooms. These rooms would cost us nothing. Kansas has nearly double the number of members in our society of any other state, but so far there is only one member in this town besides my family. Local comrades could not therefore dominate the convention in any way. The center of our church population seems to be near the eastern boundary of Kansas. Kansas, with the four states adjoining her, and the three states of Texas, Arkansas and Iowa near, has 93 members, while Missouri and all the states adjoining her have 97 members. West of the Mississippi river there are 135 members to 88 east of it. Moving west to Kansas City we seem to pass the center of our population, as there are 96 members west of that line to 127 east of it. If all our comrades east of St. Louis voted to hold the convention there, and all west of Kansas City voted to hold it here or at Kansas City the comrades in the four states of Arkansas, Missouri, Iowa and Minnesota, numbering 39, hold the balance of power as between the two places.

To give all members an equal opportunity to be delegates we should hold the convention as near the center of territory or the center of our population as possible. Therefore I suggest that only the three towns of Great Bend, Kansas, Kansas City, Missouri, and St. Louis, Missouri, be voted on. Take your choice of these three places. We have no comrades now in either Kansas City or St. Louis, and the expenses would be greater at either place than here. As an inducement to hold the convention in Kansas I shall ask the Kansas comrades to pay the hotel bill of our comrades from other states while here holding the convention. Kansas has nearly double the membership of any other state and they will want their state to have the honor of the convention. The delegates will pay their own car fare, and the church will pay by donation the other necessary expenses of incorporation. Owing to the low rate of two cents a mile on roads in most states it will be impossible to get special rates to the convention.

2. Time. It will be impossible to set a date most convenient to each delegate. But one can be selected that will be most suitable to the majority. Owing to many of the comrades being old people the summer season should be selected so as many of them could attend as possible. The first Sunday in June, July or August would do. I would prefer the first date for the meeting, and then begin the work on the Monday following. Two or three days ought to be enough, but come to stay a week if necessary. Then cast your vote for one of these three dates. If any of the comrades have good reasons for having the convention at any other place or date they can send them in and I will give them due consideration. I urge each comrade to make special effort to attend the convention regardless of cost and time. Remember that you could not possibly use your time and money for a better purpose. The work of the convention will be to formulate and adopt a constitution and by-laws and articles of incorporation for the society. These will be the organic laws by which the society, officers and members are to be governed, and each comrade of age is entitled to a voice and vote in their making. Hence the vital importance of all being present and taking part in making your own laws, rules and regulations. If Kansas is honored with the convention the delegations from other states will be the guests of the Kansas delegation and I hope every comrade in the state will turn out. I especially urge the attendance of all comrades who have had experience in the organization of societies and understand parliamentary rules and the legal requirements of incorporation papers. The bulk of the committee work will necessarily devolve upon such comrades.

Withdrawing. It is extremely important that all comrades attending this convention or remaining as members of the Church of Humanity know the discoveries it is being organized to teach, viz.: That there is no supreme being corresponding to the meaning expressed by the name "God," or any of its synonyms, and that death is the permanent cessation of conscious life. I ask all comrades who could not take an oath of affirmation with an approving conscience to a knowledge of these discovered truths to please withdraw from membership. To do so answer the fourth question with "Yes," and return your certificate, if you have it, to me, and your name will be checked off the church Roll Book. In such cases you need not answer any of the other questions in the voting blank. The comrades should make great efforts to have their respective states well represented in this convention, and, if possible, the full membership in each state should turn out as its delegation. In each issue following, until the convention, I shall publish the number of delegates who say they will attend from each state. The states are represented by enrolled membership as follows:

Kansas, 28; New York, 15; Iowa, 14; Texas, 12; Illinois and Ohio, 11 each; Arkansas, 10; Missouri, Oklahoma and California, 9 each; Nebraska and Kentucky, 8 each; Washington, 7; Indiana, Minnesota, Montana, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, 6 each; Utah, 5; Alabama, Colorado, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Maryland and Michigan, 3 each; Alaska, North Dakota, Wisconsin and South Carolina, 2 each; Hawaii, British Columbia, Connecticut, Arizona, District of Columbia, Massachusetts, North Carolina, South Dakota and West Virginia, 1 each.

Our society paper has more subscribers in all these states and in some not yet represented by membership. I urge those who know the truths we are organizing to teach to join the society at once and get a voice and vote in its organization.

New members who fill out the membership application blank can also fill out the voting blank and return both to me at once.

APPLICATION FOR MEMBERSHIP
IN THE CHURCH OF HUMANITY

W. H. KERR, GREAT BEND, KAN.

Having learned that all Gods are fabulous beings and death the end of conscious life I enclose one dollar for a certificate of graduation in the Knowledge of God, and life membership in the Church of Humanity, making me one of its founders and charter members.

The Founding of the Church.

are just as free to think and act as members of any other society, or those having no society. There is no law to compel them to remain members of any church or society. No law of any kind and no authority can prohibit a person from thinking what he can and wants to. Some members of all churches resign or drop out. They can join another church or none, as they choose. About half of the members of the Church of Humanity were onee members of the various idolatrous churches. They had perfect freedom to learn the truths taught by this church and unite with it. There is no law of church or state to punish them for doing so. Are not all members of idolatrous churches as free as these few are? People stay with the various churches because they believe their teaching true and want it propagated. If a clergyman dies the congregation sends for another. They keep raising the salary offered until it fetches one. If he preaches theories they do not want they "fire" him and try another. Is that the way abject slaves treat their master? The clergy are the hirelings of an idolatrous and superstitious people ignorant of the truth about God and life. I want my comrades to join me in hiring a competent lecturer and organizer to teach the truths we have discovered, and organize branch societies of those who learn them. Would myself and comrades be the mental and physical slaves of this man? Well, I guess not! He would be simply our hired teacher, and if he failed to make good we would promptly dismiss him. That is the same sort of relation a clergyman holds to his congregation. It is not customary for individuals or societies to be abject slaves to their employes. My comrades are all perfectly free to withdraw from membership in the Church of Humanity any time they wish and join any other church, or none, as they choose. Members of other churches have the same freedom. This thoroughly proves the Freethinkers mistaken in the sixth assertion.

7. Those who believe this untruth do not seem to know that the only effective way to overthrow a society teaching errors, or compel it to teach truth, is to build up a rival society of those who know the truth and will teach it. There is room at the top for a church of this kind. Men do not tear down their old house and camp out while they build the new one unless they must have the same building site or need the material in the old one. There is plenty of room for our church edifices without destroying any of the others. There are millions of people who are not members of any church. Let us put out teachers and organizers to win them. All churches are recruited by the ever-growing millions of children. Let us capture a share of these for our society building. We have as much right to them as any other church. Let us put out and maintain recruiting officers to win the children. We can weaken idolatrous churches and compel them to sit up and take notice by turning a large proportion of the children in our direction. The only way they can be destroyed or compelled to learn and teach the truth about God and life is to turn the stream of human beings to a rival church, and the winning of the children will be the most effective way to sap their vitality. Societies are like living organisms. They feed and flourish on the stream of human beings they attract. Shut off that stream and they soon wither and perish. The Japs did not wait until they destroyed the Russian navy to build up one of their own. A Japanese who would have advocated destroying all the battle ships of the world before building some of their own would have been thought foolish, yet the Freethinkers advocate a parallel case regarding societies and think it wise.

8. Freethinkers who make this plea do not themselves know there is no God and no future life else they would not consider such teaching radical. Truth is neither radical nor conservative. There is no such thing as gradation in truth. Every stage between untruth and truth is an untruth. No one can teach an untruth knowingly in order to get people nearer the truth. If he knows the truth and cares to aid in its teaching he will want nothing but the truth taught. Freethinkers would instantly recognize the absurdity of leading the people to truth by easy stages if the plan was suggested for anything else. The rotation of the earth at the equator is over 1,000 miles an hour. Let us suppose that when the rotation of the earth was first discovered and taught that the people could not believe it could move so fast. Then suppose some one suggested that such a speed was too radical for the people and that they be brought up to believe it gradually, by first teaching them the speed was ten miles and hour, and when they all learned that, then teach them it was twenty miles, and so on until they got them up to believe it could rotate at its true velocity. This illustration could be applied to the distance to the sun, moon and stars, and to their size, and many other things that people could not believe when first discovered and proclaimed. But the absurdity of bringing people to believe truths by easy stages as suggested is apparent. This fallacy contemplates at best only the rescue of adult idolaters. It does not contemplate teaching children the truth about God and life in the first place and thereby keeping them free from idolatry and superstition. Any system of education to free the people from idolatry that does not contemplate being extended to the children is fundamentally wrong and will prove a failure.

9. This is a very unjust as well as an untrue assertion of most Freethinkers. No one is so competent to know what one believes as himself. If one wishes others to believe him honest in his profession of belief or knowledge he should give others credit for honesty. It is not possible for Christians to know there is no God and no future life. They have had no opportunity to learn those truths. They have always been taught the errors about those subjects. They are surrounded by teachers of errors and by those who believe them. Their parents believed the errors and taught them to believe them. It is not possible that people would worship a myth or teach their children to do so knowingly. Some Freethinkers who are so sure Christians know they are teaching errors are equally sure I do not know there is no God and no future life. When two parties take opposite sides of a question wherein it is self-evident one of them is right and a third party affirms neither one is right it is self-evident the third party is wrong.

10. Those who believe Christians have not the power to force their idolatry and superstition on one against his wishes in this country are simply living in a "fool's paradise." They not only have the power to do it, but they are doing it all the time and making us pay for it, too. My comrades are forced to support the public schools through taxation. They are then compelled by heavy penalties in some states to send their children to school. Many of the schools are opened daily with Bible reading, prayers and idolatrous hymns. Then all readers from the lowest grade to the highest have lessons teaching the existence of a God. If that is not forcing their idolatry on our children what is it? They have the power to stop us teaching our discoveries about God and life any time they see fit to do so by passing prohibitory laws and then prosecuting us if we violate them. If any provisions in the national or state constitutions are in the way they have the numerical power to change them. This is a Christian country regardless of what any laws or persons may say to the contrary. Where the people of a country are practically all Christians it constitutes a Christian country. But Christians will not be the only people to desire our suppression. We teach the discoveries that will overthrow all idolatries and the superstition of continuous life. Practically all the people believe in the existence of a God and a future life. They would doubtless all join forces to pass a law of suppression. Our only hope to prevent such a calamity is in making our discoveries known to more people.

11. Those who make this false statement often add that they have not been to church for many years. Unless one attends churches of all denominations and their auxiliary societies, and in different localities, and keeps posted in church literature and statistics, he can know but little about them. The criticisms by people who know nothing or very little about church societies are worthless. The indiscriminate abuse of this kind in Freethought publications has merited and received the just contempt of not only Christians, but the better class of Freethinkers, who refuse longer to be identified with a cause and name using such methods. People believing this untrue crticism forget their own relatives are included; that practically all believe in the existence of a God and a future life, including themselves generally; that those two beliefs are the basic fables on which all idolatrous societies are based; that a large majority of children attend the Sunday schools and the various idolatrous societies of young people; that in a few years these children become the legislative, judicial and executive officers of the nation, and that they still believe what they learned in the societies teaching errors. They teach the same errors to their children, provide them with the same kind of societies and teachers, and thus the mistakes will be perpetuated until those who know the truth build up rival societies teaching truth about God and life. In public schools are found only children, a few women and fewer men. Do the children disbelieve and cease practicing all they learn there when they stop going? Are not school houses built, teachers provided, offices filled and children sent to school by the men? Millions of men do not attend school one day in a decade. Is that any evidence they disbelieve what is taught there? Men's relation to churches are almost the same. They learned when young all the clergy could teach them about God and life and they graduated in idolatry and superstition. They still believe it. What is the need of going to church any more? Their duty now is only to provide churches and clergymen for their children and fill the important offices in the societies. That they do, and it is a mistake to think that because men do not attend churches they disbelieve in their teaching.

12. No greater delusion than this is believed, even by Christians. But who or what is a scientist? Webster says he is "one learned in science; a scientific investigator; one devoted to scientific study; a savant." A savant is "a man of learning; one versed in literature or science; a person eminent for acquirements." The definitions of science are too many to give here. One is: "Any branch or department of systematized knowledge considered as a distinct field of investigation or object or study; as, the science of astronomy, of chemistry, or of the mind." "The ancients reckoned seven sciences—grammar, rhetoric, logic, arithmetic, music, geometry and astronomy." Another definition is: "Especially, such knowledge when it relates to the physical world and its phenomena, the nature, constitution, and forces of matter, the qualities and functions of living tissues, etc. —called also natural science and physical science." None of these sciences, subjects or studies relate to the question of the existence of a God and continuous life. These subjects are separate questions from any of the sciences except that of theology. It is not possible for people to know much about a subject by studying one or more unrelated branches of knowledge. By studying arithmetic alone one can learn very little about grammar, geography, physiology or any other branch of knowledge. Those who study one profession alone can know very little about unrelated professions. Those scientists who study one or more branches of knowledge can know nothing about theology, since it is an unrelated branch of knowledge from those they study. Hence it is as absurd to claim or believe a scientist has learned anything more about God and the non-existence of a future life than a farmer, ditch digger or any professional man. The scientist simply accepts the idolatry and superstition taught him as other people do. He practices the same idolatry and believes the same superstition he was taught in childhood, as others do. He is devoting all his time and interests to different subjects. If his discoveries conflict with his superstition he either does not observe it or he is the first to point out how to reconcile the two to the advantage of his superstition. His newly discovered truth is simply God's way of doing things, in his belief, and that settles it. He wants the people to accept his theories or discovered truths and wants them harmonized with, instead of antagonizing, the errors concerning God and life. Neither himself nor any school teaching his discoveries will point out the disproof they give of the popular mythology. Hence the teaching of all the sciences in a school frees no one from idolatry, not even the teachers of them. The discoveries that all Gods are fabulous beings and life ends forever at death have not been learned by the scientists. They can't learn them any easier than other people. A few people, however, have made these discoveries, and it is their duty to unite and hire some some of their number to teach them to all people. There is no way of doing this except through an organized national society first, and then the establishment of branch societies as fast as possible through their hired lecturers and organizers. But these few people will do nothing in this great work if they believe even one of the above twelve errors. I hope they will all discard them and get together in the Church of Humanity to devise ways and means of freeing the people from idolatry and superstition.

NOT SO!

In the Truth Seeker of Jan. 4, Mr. Wakeman says: "The only hope of the Republic is in meeting and if possible enlightening these sects and divisions of this traditional delusion before they can unite so as to do it fatal injury. And this must be done by a general, liberal and historical literature, of which the books referred to are samples. There is no other way—for all other means of enlightenment are practically closed."

He overlooked the only practical way of enlightenment, viz.: Organization based on the truth about God and life with the direct object of enlightening the people on these vital subjects and freeing them from idolatry and superstition through the services of hired lecturers and organizers. This method is still open to us, but there is no assurance of it remaining long. Mr. Wakeman should join with my comrades in seizing this opportunity at once before it is everlastingly too late. The people cannot be reached through books alone and their production by the ton will do no good without the machinery of organization to use them. Nothing but the teaching of the discoveries that there are no Gods and no future life by an active organization can increase our numbers. Unless our numbers are increased greatly in a short time the idolaters will prohibit our teaching by law. The federation of idolatrous societies now going on points unerringly in that direction. Read the Danger Signal.

DANGER SIGNAL! LOOK OUT!

The security we have in this country from prosecution for teaching the truth about God and life through the division of idolaters into hostile sects is in imminent danger of failing through a reconciliation and union of those sects for concerted action to gain a common advantage in economic and political power. Everywhere and in all activities union, consolidation, federation and cooperation for common purposes, advantages and power are recognized as the sane and sensible thing to do by all who desire to accomplish a common object. This sentiment is affecting all idolatrous societies to a marked degree. Minor differences of detail in teaching are melting away in the interest of a federation of united idolatrous societies. The idolaters everywhere are being educated to this very rapidly through the economic necessity of a union of all churches in a town to enable them to employ a high-priced evangelist, to fight the liquor traffic, to dispense charities and secure desirable city ordinances. This will shortly develop into state and then national and then international federations of all idolatrous societies based on two or three of their common fundamental errors. The "Dark Ages" will once more settle down over the entire world. Our grand discoveries that Gods are fabulous beings and life ends at death will then be outlawed and their teachers fined and imprisoned until they are stamped out. This state of affairs is awaiting us in the near future. As state federations are formed, state laws will be enacted to stamp out these discoveries. Then to facilitate the work a national federation will be accomplished to stamp it out by national laws, for they would then have the power to make such laws as they desire. They are organizing their federations now on a state scale. Listen to this beginning that foretells the result I have here warned you is coming as surely as the gathering clouds portend the coming storm:

THE CURSE OF RELIGION.

That religion is the greatest curse our race ever inflicted on itself is vividly shown by the results of the religion of the people of India.

In Current Events, Nov. 22, John Morley, the historian and statesman, is quoted as saying: "This year the plague mortality will be the worst that has ever been known, I think, in India's annals. Pestilence during the last nine months has stalked through the land wasting her cities and villages, slaying its millions, uncontrolled and uncontrollable, so far as we can tell, by human forethought or care."

The article goes on to explain how the plague is spread in two ways that can not be remedied owing to the religion of the people. One way is by rats and other vermin that the people will not kill owing to their religious belief in the transmigration of souls. The other way is through pilgrimages to the "Holy Ganges" to bathe in and drink its germ-laden water. Before the disease develops the pilgrims have returned to their distant homes, thus spreading disease all over the country. The British government is powerless to establish sanitary conditions, as it would necessarily have to do things contrary to the religion of the people, and that would arouse them to a rebellion through religious fanaticism. However, England does not know enough about Gods and life to teach the Hindoos the truth about their religion and thus free them from their ignorance and superstition. The only remedy she knows is to get the Hindoos to accept her heathenish religion in place of Brahmanism. That would be no remedy at all. Christianity has its "Holy Water" shrines, relics, rites and ceremonies that would prove as good pestilent distributers as they now have. Christians have been able to check contagious diseases only in proportion as they have had sense enough to make their religious rites and ceremonies give way to sanitary requirements.

When you read of the Hindoos dying by the tens of thousands from the ravages of the Bubonic Plague or any other contagious disease, charge it to the curse of religion and then join the Church of Humanity and help it to make known to the world its discoveries that all Gods are myths and death the end of life. That will free all people from that great curse.

BLANK PETITION.

A comrade suggested that I publish a blank form of petition for the convenience of our comrades in petitioning their representatives in congress to omit the legend, "in God we trust," from coins. So here is one that will do. Write out three copies of it, fill in the blank spaces properly and mail one to each of the senators from your state and the representative from your congressional district:

A Petition.

(Date) .....1908.

Hon. ....., Washington, D. C.

Dear Sir: Being one of your constituents, I respectfully request that you use your vote and influence against placing the inscription, "In God we trust," on any coin or government building or property. I am a member of the Church of Humanity and know its teaching is true that God is a myth and life ends at death. Therefore, I do not trust in God any more than I do in Jove or Jupiter or Santa Claus for favors of any kind. I do not wish the government to act as an official liar for me nor do I wish it to compel me to be one whenever I hand out a coin. Yours respectfully,

RELIGIOUS CAMPAIGN IN KANSAS!

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 30.—"Kansas for Christ" is the slogan for the coming religious campaign, which is to be carried on in every county in the Sunflower state simultaneously and which is to last during all of the coming year. Each of fifteen denominations are to contribute two ministers and two laymen for an advisory board which, with Rev. Biederwolf, will direct the meetings. This board has been organized and Edward S. Taylor, of Philadelphia, has been elected secretary. The plan is to have a large number of the country's best evangelists, aided by the local pastors, to carry on the work.

Comrades in all states! What is your answer to this slogan of idolaters, "Kansas for Christ"? It is a challenge of defiance to you. It means that if our discoveries go down in defeat before the federated idolatrous societies in Kansas they will go down in state after state until entirely suppressed in all. I do not anticipate the burning of our Kansas comrades at the stake, but this federation means that laws will be enacted by our legislature prohibiting our teaching. Nothing can save us from it but reinforcements to our numbers by teaching these discoveries to others. We can't do this except through the instrumentality of an organization. Let your answer then to this challenge be a gathering of yourselves in Kansas this summer, two hundred strong, to lay the foundation of a society to provide ways and means of recruiting our numbers as fast as possible. Your state for Christ will be the slogan of idolaters ringing in your ears soon if Kansas has to surrender unconditionally to them. Every reader of this article who does not want such a result in this state, nor in his own, should join the Church of Humanity right now. I would invite the editors of all non-Christian publications to manifest as much good sense as the idolaters are doing, from their viewpoint, and publish this "danger signal" and join with us in building up a defensive society, but I might as well appeal to the "man in the moon." They are so unreasonably dominated by envy and jealousy of each other that they would rather be sent to prison together by idolaters than to voluntarily unite for a common defense, as sensible men would do. The whole outfit of them would rather see all my comrades and their children forced by law to practice idolatry than to aid them the least bit in forming a defensive society. We must recognize the fact now that Freethought and Agnostic editors are totally incompetent to cope with the danger we are in, and we must now unite to save ourselves and children from enforced idolatry or imprisonment.

Two new rules of the postoffice authorities at Washington limit sample copy privileges to one-tenth of paid-up subscriptions and the time second-class postal rates can be allowed publishers to delinquent subscribers. These rules cut down our circulation greatly, as publishers had been allowed to send out sample copies equal to the number of copies paid for, and I generally sent out all the sample copies allowed. On monthly publications second-class postage is not allowed on copies to subscribers whose subscription is not paid up within four months. Subscribers who want this paper continued to them will please pay up promptly if in arrears.

The Founding of the Church of Humanity.

The Short Cut from Ignorance to Knowledge.

Life is too short and time too valuable to justify people in taking the idolatrous route to a true knowledge of God and life. Not one person in a million, even in this enlightened age, ever gets there by that route. The Church of Humanity is to establish a direct route to that knowledge by which children can be taken to it as soon as they can be taught anything about these subjects. That will give them at the age of five years a knowledge of God and life not known now by people, were they ten thousand years old, who went by the idolatrous route. That route is to be abandoned entirely. Children are to be taught by this church the truth, the first thing they are taught, about God and life. That will give them a true knowledge at an early age not acquired by the oldest scholars and scientists now. By the idolatrous route there are three stages between the total ignorance of a child concerning God and life to a full knowledge of the truth about them. The Church of Humanity abridges the route by the elimination of those three stages, making a short cut to the truth about God and life for all children. All children are born totally ignorant of God and life. Those who live to be a few years old are all taught the superstition that there are such beings as Gods and that conscious life survives death.

Nearly all Christians teach their children that there will be a resurrection of the dead. This is the first stage on the idolatrous route. Nearly all people live and die in the idolatry, superstition and ignorance of this first stage. The next stage is the doubting or skeptical stage. Thousands of people at some time in their lives are doubtful of the existence of a God or a future life or both. That is the true Agnostic stage. They nearly all drop back into the first stage before they die. But a few die in this stage and a few advance to the third stage. That is where they have learned the truth about God or life, but believe in the other superstition. They, too, nearly all drop back into the first stage. A few die in the third stage and a very few have struggled on to the fourth stage, which is a full and complete knowledge that all Gods are creations of fiction and death the end of life.

These few are now uniting in an educational society under the name Church of Humanity. They are building a permanent anchorage here and intend to remain the balance of their days. A few weaklings who were not well fortified against the sophistries of idolaters will desert us to return to the second stage. That will be expected until we get our organization and educational machinery in good working order. Even then we will have desertions to the ranks of idolatry for a long time, owing to the powerful influences ever pulling them back. But new recruits will greatly outnumber desertions by an ever increasing ratio as we get our educational work perfected and extended. We are now numerous enough to hire and maintain teachers from our own ranks. This we must do, and cease going to the three discarded stages on the idolatrous route for them. They are totally incompetent to teach the truths we want taught, as they are ignorant of them. They do more harm than good by helping to win our comrades back to idolatry. Teachers offering us their services must be promptly rejected unless they are members of our society and are competent to teach the truths it is based on. After we are formally organized we must select and employ such teachers from our membership. Their duty will be, among other things, to make our discovered truths known to children and get them into our society direct before they are started on the idolatrous route. There is no more need for them ever becoming idolaters, then Agnostics and Spiritualists, in order to reach us. Not one in a million can reach our knowledge by that route. They must be brought up to our knowledge by the abridged route. It has taken thousands of years to enable a few dozen of our race to discover the truth about God and life. Those few must now make it possible for children at an early age to know these truths. That will require an organized society with a salaried teacher in every neighborhood perpetually. People never can be rescued from idolatry and superstition in any other way. These societies, with their regular teacher, must be established as fast as possible. Some of our number must be employed to do the teaching, and the balance of us must pay them well for that service to justify them in spending years in preparing themselves for teaching and devoting their lives to the work. We must establish a preparatory college for those who wish to be our teachers. We will need a publishing plant where our literature can be produced cheaply for free distribution, and our text books at cost for the use of teachers and students, and free circulating libraries for every local society. Our educational literature and text books must be produced by members of our own class. We must cease going to such authors as Thomas Paine, who never got beyond the first stage on the idolatrous route, for knowledge of God and life. They never had any true knowledge to impart. We can not take sides in a contention between superstitious idolaters. We must also discard such authors as R. G. Ingersoll, who can be classed only in the second stage with a strong leaning to the first one on the idolatrous route. I gladly admit that Mr. Ingersoll occasionally made brilliant charges on superstition and idolatry, and reached the fourth stage, apparently, and defended it with evidence and logic unanswerable. But he often wavered, weakened and fell back in confusion to the second stage. That was doubtless owing to a want of a strong supporting society. There was no society of any kind to sustain him and he was not a society builder. Without a strong organized society to back and support them, teachers can not devote their lives to teaching the truth about God and life. We must not ask or expect them to do it. We must do our part in organizing so we can co-operate harmoniously in sustaining and maintaining competent teachers.

We can not establish the abridged route to a true knowledge of God and life for our children without it. We can not increase our numbers or hold what we have without it. Therefore, organization and the employment of permanent teachers by it is an imperative necessity.

We can not give too much of our time and money to this work. The preservation of our posterity from superstition and idolatry will be ample reward for all we can do and give for the upbuilding of the Church of Humanity. This church is the only society representing the short cut to the truth about God and life. People can only reach it by this route. All who fail to take this route will take the idolatrous route, and that means that they will never reach the goal at all. This shows how extremely important it is for all my comrades to work and pay to their full capacity to get this route opened up and accessible and convenient for all to take.

THE FAMILY GOD FOUNDED?

The Truth Seeker says: "Children in a family such as God founded were under the most complete subjection. The father felt no obligation to his daughters except to kill them if they were unchaste. The girls were merchandise to be disposed of as wives, concubines or slaves. Neither son nor daughter was entitled to an education, schools being mentioned nowhere in the Old Testament. If boys grew up shiftless or dissipated the father was instructed by God to kill them. Such was the family God founded." This was copied by The People's Press as being good Agnostic and Freethought teaching. No wonder so few people know God is a myth when our most advanced publications are yet in the ranks of the God-makers. Any person who affirms that a God ever did anything, said anything or desired anything is a God-maker. The people never can be freed from idolatry and superstition by such teachers. To affirm that "God founded a family" and that a "father was instructed by God to kill" anybody, helps to confirm idolaters in their belief that there is such a being as a God. Why should the Truth Seeker be a God-maker? Is there not enough of them without its aid? Does it not know that God is a myth—a creation of fiction? Does it not know that a myth can't found anything or instruct anybody? By turning God-makers the Truth Seeker and The People's Press must be classed only in the first stage on the idolatrous route.

A GREAT OPPORTUNITY.

No church ever organized and began teaching errors about God and life under as favorable opportunities as the Church of Humanity has right now to organize and begin teaching the truth about those great questions. Right here at Great Bend it has a magnificent opportunity to locate headquarters for all its educational enterprises in the largest and finest building in the city, which will be donated to it as soon as it is organized and is ready to make use of it. The building is of brick and stone, four stories, including basement, 84 feet 4 inches by 92 feet. A hundred students could be prepared at one time for service as instructors in our church. They could all room, recite, board and have their washing done in this building and then have room left for a fully-equipped publishing plant. It was built for a first-class hotel with all modern conveniences by parties who owned it. It is admirably adapted for a college and publishing house for an educational society such as the Church of Humanity. At its coming congress it should make provisions in its constitution and by-laws for a Supreme Executive Council and then elect three of its ablest members to that council. All three should move to this city to take charge of this property and establish the educational and publishing enterprises of the society.

Teaches the Scientific Discovery that God, Satan and Holy Ghost are Fabulous Beings; that Heaven and Hell are Myths and that Death is the Permanent Cessation of Life.

Organization is the key to success.

Don't miss this opportunity, comrades, to organize.

Consider the time and money spent in your organizing work the best investment of both you ever made.

Think, talk, write and dream about organization until you have the problem solved and accomplished.

Organize a society that will teach your posterity the discoveries you made thousands of years after you are dead.

Let us all work in unison to solve and accomplish one object at a time and we will accomplish things. Organization is the object up for solution and accomplishment now.

Your national convention should be held annually after you are organized. But, then, the delegates will be sent to it by the branch societies chartered by the national you organize now.

No comrade should fail to do his or her duty in the organization work because someone else is unable to do his. That is a good reason why some who can should do more than their share of it.

Fill out your voting blank and rush it in the same day you get this copy, so I can know the place and time you will hold the convention. I wish to announce it in a number of publications as soon as possible.

NO RELIABLE TEACHERS.

The necessity for the Church of Humanity to organize and establish a preparatory college to produce competent teachers for the people on the subjects of God and life is demonstrated by every copy of a Free-thought publication. Those we have accepted as our ablest teachers on those important subjects are found, on close inspection, to have only greatly confused ideas about them. There is no stability, reliability, uniformity or consistency in their teaching. Their ideas on these subjects at different times are as contradictory as the Bible, and that is a very bad case of contradictions. I mean that each one has these confused ideas. The contradictions of the Bible are mostly between different authors. But for each one to furnish such contradictions in his own teaching is enough to cause his rejection as a teacher of anything for anybody. They take every position on the idolatrous route alternately, from that of idolaters to a true knowledge of God and life and then back again. That may be Free-thought, but it is not good thought or true thought or reliable thought. No such thinkers can be accepted as our teachers. There is my good friend Macdonald, editor of The Truth Seeker, who teaches at times that there is no God, but who wobbles dreadfully from that position at other times. In an editorial recently he speaks of "the family God founded," and that God instructed fathers to kill their sons. Will he explain how a non-existing being can do those things? My friend Lenau, editor of The People's Press, copied it as being true teaching. He is a member of the Materialist Association, which professes to know there is no God. Perhaps he can help Mr. Macdonald to explain how a myth can do things. He, too, is only a God-maker by affirming something done by a God. That constitutes a God-maker.

Dr. J. B. Wilson, of Cincinnati, Ohio, is recognized as a great Free-thought propagandist. At times he writes and speaks as though he knew the truth that there is no God and no future life for the dead. But he, too, is very unsteady and unreliable in his teaching. In a poem in The Blue Grass Blade of Feb. 9th occur these lines of his:

"Maybe in the life that is next to come
Conditions will be reversed;
The sinful here take the place of the good,
The good the place of the cursed.

"And those who've borne the brunt of the sin
Which Nature here has decreed,
Best deserve a chance in the other life
And of their frailties be freed."

What is this about another life but the rank superstition of idolaters?

And so it is all along the line. They nearly all declare one thing true one day and the opposite true the next, or their contradictions may appear in the same article or speech. We must not have turn-coats for our teachers. We don't want teachers with an acrobatic intellect, able to write a catechism for the Church of Humanity one day and one for the Holy Rollers the next, or lecture for our church on the discoveries that there is no God and no future life and then go across the street and preach for the Salvation Army on "Christ and Him crucified, and the glories of the heavenly kingdom." That may be good Free-thought doctrine, but to my mind it is not what we want at all. I want teachers with the ability to learn the truth about God and life and the honesty to stand by it. I believe my comrades want the same kind. We can't get them until we create the demand for them by offering permanent salaries that will justify them in preparing themselves by years of study in a college for that purpose.

A GOOD SUGGESTION.

Comrade H. M. Fisk, of Pella, Iowa, writes that he will be a delegate to the organizing convention and says: "I think your plan of making each member a delegate to the convention a good one. Now, I would like to suggest that the members in each state correspond with each other and get as many as they can to pledge themselves to attend the convention, so that we will be sure of at least one delegate from each state. Get as many pledges as we can and still leave a cordial invitation to all members to attend as delegates. Unless this matter is well worked up each one may think there will be plenty there without him, and we may have a very meager attendance. If we can have a rousing, enthusiastic convention it will give a wonderful impetus to our infant society.

"I will take it on myself to write each member in Iowa and report results."

That is a good plan for each comrade to follow. You have the addresses now of all the comrades. Work up this convention attendance among yourselves. Write to each comrade in your state and as many more as you can. Let each one urge all the others to attend and promise to do so himself. I especially urge all the sisters to attend. Women are taking an active part in all society movements. They should do so in this. I have a number of interesting letters from other comrades, but have not room to insert them. But send in your suggestions anyway.

Circular Letter to the Church of Humanity.

NO. 8.

Dear Comrades: Ten of you have sent in your votes on the place and time of holding your organizing convention. The majority so far favor Great Bend as the place and June 7 as the time. Seven states are represented. Great Bend has 8 votes; Chicago, 1; St. Louis, 1. June 7 has 7 votes, August, 2, and one is left to me to decide. Six say they will attend, three are doubtful and one can not.

These comrades have promised to be delegates from their respective states:

H. M. Fisk, Pella, Iowa.

William E. Gates, Shirley, Illinois.

P. C. Hansen, Greenleaf, Kansas.

William R. Adams, Hooker, Oklahoma.

Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Kerr, Ingalls, Kansas.

This gives four states representation. These comrades have done well by doing their duty promptly. But I feel like scolding the procrastinators. You can't build a society that way, comrades. All of you should have had your votes in by this time —Feb. 17. Then I could have informed you who would attend in this issue. Those who could not attend could then have named proxies. If the same ratio will come as indicated by those heard from so far the success of the convention will be assured. It is now up to you, comrades, to organize and incorporate your society. This is your opportunity to prove your claim that you have as much sense as the Christions, or as you yourselves had when you were idolaters. The relative amount of practical sense between us and idolaters must be judged by our ability and willingness to organize propaganda societies. Ask yourselves continually if you are aiding in organizing your church as much as Christians in theirs. If not, then you do not measure up with their intelligence. People who believe errors and have the ability to organize and maintain societies to teach them to posterity have more sense than those who know the truth but lack sense enough to organize and maintain societies to teach it to posterity. In that case the errors live, because of the good, practical sense their supporters use in their behalf, while the truths die out for want of sense to propagate them by those who know them. It should be plain to all that the world will remain in idolatry and superstition until those who know the truth about Gods and life work as hard and pay as much to make it known as is done for error. We should do much more per capita in working and paying to build up propaganda societies than the idolaters do because of the importance of making our truths known and the few of us to do it. All this should be plain to you and you should all see your duty clearly. It is your society and its success depends entirely on you. I can do nothing more now except urge you to do your duty. No society can be organized and maintained by one man. Each of you must be interested as much as I am in getting your society established and in working harness. The promulgation of the grand truths you have discovered depends entirely on your ability to organize societies to teach them. They will die with you unless you do. You should be ashamed of yourselves all your lives if you must admit that idolaters are more intelligent than you are, as proven by their superior skill in organizing if you fail now when there is not an idolater in your ranks to bother you.

I am not asking you to have any more intelligence than idolaters have. I am only urging you to show as much. Is that an unreasonable duty to ask or expect of you? I want to impress a sense of your duty deeply on your consciousness to get you to act in your own interest. It is now or never. Many of you are old people and this will be your last opportunity to help to get a society established to teach the truths you have learned. Your learning them will have been in vain so far as doing the world any good if you fail to do your duty in this critical stage. If you fail now to organize a propaganda society you will never have the credit or honor of making the discoveries you have. Your comrades who do their duty in this organizing work may cut off all who do not take enough interest in it to vote when it costs only two cents. It does seem that none should share in the honor of these great discoveries who take no interest in them and do nothing for their preservation in a propaganda society. The comrades who do the work and paying and attend the convention to help in the organization work will have power to inquire what each member has done to aid in founding the society. My books will show every cent each comrade has given, and my letter files will show all his letters to me. If they decide from this showing that some are not entitled to the honor of being founders of this society and discoverers of its truths they can rule them out. Comrades who will not aid the society any have not yet discovered any value in the truths it teaches, hence are not entitled to credit as discoverers of them, as it is a recognition of their value that constituted the discovery. But I sincerely hope all comrades delinquent in their duty will yet jump into the work and do their best to make amends for past neglect. I would grieve to see any ruled out who are honestly trying to be worthy of the credit and honor due the founders of this society in the future. With the goal now so near our grasp it would be a shame and a disgrace, as well as a great misfortune, not to reach it. With one supreme effort by all the comrades in unison now you will win. But with indifference and neglect at this critical time all is lost. Which will it be, comrades, win or lose? You have the determining power to make the answer as you wish it to be. All is won or lost forever on your answer now. The fate of your society is now quivering in the balance. Permanent success or lost opportunity forever now confronts you. Indifference, neglect, stinginess, lazyness, procrastination is your failing. They will be your undoing if you allow yourself to be ruled by them. Why will you allow this great opportunity to be lost through such unworthy excuses on your part? Arouse yourselves to action, life, energy, enthusiasm, hope, duty.

You can only live your life once. An eternity of unconsciousness awaits you at death. In a very few years the transit of life will be completed for us all. Do you want yours to terminate without lending a helping hand to set a force in motion that can free a world from idolatry and superstition? Do you want the fact that you ever lived in this beautiful world to be unknown except by a few dozen neighbors for a week or so after you die and then pass into oblivion forever? Or do you want your name to go ringing down the corridors of time for ages as one of the world's great benefactors? The opportunity is yours to make of it what you desire—total oblivion at death or an immortal name that will grow brighter as the centuries march by and the world learns to recognize your services in its behalf. What is your little property worth to your children compared to what you can do with it for them by investing it all in this great work? They can get more property easily and will not miss yours, but they can't do this work and no one else can do it for them but you. Why not invest it for them in a work that all your posterity and the entire world will draw daily dividends on in civilization to the end of the existence of our race? You should be exceedingly glad of this opportunity to invest your time and property in so great a cause. Never before had people so great a chance as you have now to benefit the entire world. Can you recognize it and grasp it? Those of you who can may reject those who can not as being unworthy comrades to share in the honor due in the future to the original discoverers of the greatest truths in nature and the founding of a society to make them known to the world. Indolent, indifferent, miserly comrades will certainly not be worthy of equal honor with those who invest their lives and property in this work. Your names on the Roll Book will build no society. It requires active work and paying to organize and build up a society. Comrades, one and all, do your duty. Invest your time and property in a cause that will draw dividends in civilization, wisdom, knowledge for the entire world to the end of our race on earth! Awake to a full realization of your opportunities! Grasp the good fortune that is in your reach! Do not let any sordid motive or reasons prevent you. Help with all your time, wealth and ability. Give them all to the service of society-building on a bed-rock foundation of truth to win a world from idolatry and superstition. The object is worthy of all your services in time and money. A world redeemed from ignorance, idolatry and superstition will be ample reward for all services you can possibly give. Organization is the all-important subject before you now. Promise to attend the convention. Prepare in advance to do efficient work in organizing when you meet. This will not be a Freethought convention where Agnostics wrangle and jangle over fundamentals. We have that all settled in advance. No Agnostics or Spiritualists or Deists will be there to raise a disturbance about questions they have not learned the truth about. I would favor the first meeting on Sunday being open to the public and having a few speeches made on our objects and then limiting them to the delegates until their work is done. The convention will be more in the nature of a congress, as we are to enact the laws that are to govern our society. The articles of incorporation and the constitution adopted will be our fundamental laws, on which the by-laws will be based. All our members and officers and teachers will be governed by these. That is the reason all should attend and take part in the work. You will all want these laws, rules and regulations to suit you. If you help to make them you will abide by them willingly. If you do not you may criticise and find fault with them. We will not want any members to do that. Whatever you want to be your organic laws you should make known at the convention personally. If it is impossible to attend it you should name some one who will, in whose judgment you have full confidence, as your proxy. I do not know if the convention will allow a comrade to have more than one vote or not. But he could represent you in that one vote as well as himself. You should all study day and night on the laws you would want your society to have. Those of you who will attend the convention should get and study the laws of other organized societies to guide you in your coming work. Get a copy of the articles of incorporation, constitution and by-laws of some educational society and study them. Then write out what you think would be suitable for our society. Study each article and section well. Create such offices as you think the society needs, put such duties on those who fill them as you wish them to perform. Give the members such duties as you wish them to perform in the support of their officers, teachers and societies. These rough drafts in advance will aid you greatly in committee work and will facilitate and expedite business when you meet. The committees can then make up suitable laws by combining the good points in all these individual drafts. In committee of the whole they will again be worked over, section by section, until all delegates are satisfied with them. That is the reason I want all of you to be present and take part in the work. I want you to make the laws and regulations by which the society will be governed. You will also have to provide for repealing and amending and enacting laws from time to time, as necessity requires. An annual congress of delegates from all branch societies should be provided for for that purpose. There are many things you should provide for in your laws. Among them are these: A publishing plant to produce large quantities of your literature—text-books, catechisms, song books and tracts for free distribution; a preparatory college where young people can prepare for the duties of instructors in your society; provisions for national lecturers and organizers; arrangements for chartering branch societies; methods of raising funds for these various enterprises; the employment, examining and commissioning of instructors by a competent commission; a supreme executive board to carry out all the provisions required by your laws, collect and disburse its funds, etc. The members of this supreme executive board should be located in one town, where they could have daily meetings for consultation and action. This board, the publishing plant and the college should all be in one town, if possible, so that quick action could be taken on any subject. The members of this board should be free from all other occupations so they can give their entire time to the service of the society. It should be composed of the three highest officers, including the treasurer, under your laws. It should be the financial agency to receive bequests and donations and administer them for the society. Your church paper should be enlarged and published weekly. I expect to apply to the national society for the first charter for a branch society here as soon as you are organized if we have the required number of members. In anticipation of you holding the convention here, from votes already sent in, I shall try my best to have a little society built up to entertain you when here. The following clippings from The Daily Item of this city will show you what I am trying to do in local work. The first was printed February 14th and 15th, and the other on the 17th:

"The Church of Humanity will hold a preliminary meeting in the southeast room of the Morrison house next Sunday evening at 7:30 for the purpose of discussing the subjects of holding regular weekly meetings and establishing a free circulating library of scientific and educational books. All who are interested in the matter are cordially invited to attend.

"W. H. Kerr."

"At the meeting of the Church of Humanity last evening it was decided to hold regular weekly meetings on Sunday evenings. W. H. Kerr was selected as the lecturer for the present. The title of the discourses will be announced in the usual church services on Saturdays. A committee on library was selected. Vocal and instrumental music and other features for entertaining will be added as soon as possible."

As expected, only a few attended the meeting, but a majority of those who did are willing to help to make the meetings a success by attending and doing their part. The title of my first lecture will be "Heaven Proved a Myth by Astronomy," an illustrated lecture showing the movements of the Earth, the Moon and Mercury by the Laing planetarium.

As soon as the national society is chartered and organized we will apply to it for a charter for a local society and for a competent instructor who has lecturing abilities, as I have none. All who wish to take employment as hired instructors for our societies will apply to your national employment agency for a position. After passing the required examination they can be assigned positions with the local societies applying for instructors. The examining board that you will create will be above all commissioned instructors to keep them in the straight path of truth and moral conduct. It will have power to revoke the commission of any instructor on just grounds. The board will itself be under the authority of the laws you enact to govern it. By this method all teachers will work, under the authority of a commission, as qualified instructors, and then societies employing them will be assured of competent teachers.

You should make all these provisions in your laws at the convention. The examining board can arrange a grading method similar to that for grading school teachers and give certificates of competency accordingly. Your preparatory college will be designed to fit students for this examination. But as you comrades are to do this legislative work at your congress I warn you in time to put your study caps on and get to work planning your constitution and by-laws at once, so that you will be able to talk intelligently and push the work right along when you meet. There will be several days of hard work for you then and you should prepare for it as much as possible in advance. Get your work planned out as well as you can before you meet. Then you will compromise on what the majority believe are the best plans suggested. You can decide what majority you wish to govern—a bare majority or two-thirds or three-fourths of the votes cast. All your laws should be made to pass by a unanimous vote if possible. Much depends on having all satisfied. But come prepared to give way to the wisdom of the majority if you can't convince them your plan is the best. Remember that the laws can be repealed or amended and new ones made if required at your next congress, which should be held next year.

Now, comrades, do the best and hardest thinking you ever did in your lives on these organization problems. It took good sound thinking to learn the discoveries you did, but it will take still more of the same kind to organize a propaganda society to teach them to others. It will take courage and action and money besides. I still have confidence that you are equal to the task. You should invest a dollar in stationery at once and write to each comrade in your state, and as many more as possible, to get acquainted with each other and urge all to attend the convention. Find out who is going and select your proxies if you can't possibly attend. Some time ago I mailed a copy of our membership mailing list to each member. Some have joined since. I will mail a copy to any comrade who asks for one. The following are members not on that list:

A. Walukas, 26 West Pratt street, Baltimore, Md.

J. J. Herman, Blue Springs, Mo.

Karl Witkowski, 65 Kenmore avenue, Newark, N. J.

J. W. Carpenter, Whitman, Neb.

Ben Hudson, rural route No. 3, El Reno, Okla.

Frank H. Lovering, Newlon, Mont.

E. H. Wylie, Read Island, B. C., Canada.

Theodore Leontesco, 92-94 Second avenue, New York.

Carl J. E. Lindgren, Malcolm, Minn.

Jacob Bernhard, 7934 St. Lawrence street, Swissville Station, Pittsburg, Pa.

William Gerchow, Armada, Mich.

M. Siemes, United States Navy Yard, Pensacola, Fla.

Joel M. Berry, National Military Home, Ohio.

Alexander Friedolin, Afognak, Alaska.

Charles Strandell, Cazadero, Cal.

Charles M. Burgess, 213 Harrison street, Council Bluffs, Iowa.

M. X. Mockus, Box 54, Detroit, Mich.

Frank Hendrickson, Malcolm, Minn.

John M. Case, 154 W. Thirteenth street, New York.

David B. Banks, Stockton, Cal.

Otto Wettstein, La Grange, Ill.

R. Vogel, Sioux Falls, S. D.

Now, comrades, write to each other and get acquainted. Think about plans for organizing, talk about them, write about them. Send in your votes on time and place for the convention. Be sure to attend it. Don't let the thought of lost time or money enter your heads, because they would not be lost. You could not possibly use them to so good a purpose in any other way. A hundred dollars invested in this work now is worth many times a hundred million dollars invested in any other way. A month of your time used in this work is worth more than your whole life used in any other work. You should all be extremely anxious to invest your time and property in this work.

Through this convention you are to give authority for all coming time to the teachers of the great discoveries you have made. No higher authority can be given to the teachers of truth than that from their discoverers. The teachers who go forth to free the world from idolatry and superstition by teaching the discoveries that all Gods are myths and death the end of life are to get that authority from you who made those discoveries. There can be no higher power to give that authority. In your constitution and by-laws, adopted by you at your convention, you will delegate authority to teach your discoveries for all coming time. That authority will be good all over the world to the end of man's existence. It will be good and authoritative a million years after you are dead. But long before that time the society you will organize will have them taught to all mankind. Do not fail to attend the convention and delegate authority to teach these great discoveries from their discoverers. Hire your necessary work done, borrow your car fare, if need be, and attend your convention. Never again can you be collected and enrolled in a society of yourselves preparatory to formal organization. It has taken me five long years of hard work to find so many who know the truth about God and life. You are about all the people in the United States who know it. You are enough to establish a society to teach it. It is your imperative duty to establish it. No people in the world can do it but you. The world will remain in the idolatry of myth Gods and the superstition of continuous life until taught by a society the truths you know. Organize that society now. Provide for sending out teachers of these truths by the authority of those who discovered them. Don't fail to act now at the only time you can. There are no more with your knowledge to be found. You are as strong a company to organize as can ever be enrolled in one book. If you fail now to do your duty all is lost. There is no society or school or teacher in the world teaching the truths you have discovered; none others know them. Your number will grow less year by year until you are all dead. Then these discoveries will be lost again for centuries unless you provide an organization to teach them to others who will take your places. They can not be perpetuated in any other way. Four of our comrades have died that I know of. Maybe death has claimed several others, as I have not heard from them for a long time. Many are quite old people. Owing to the long time necessary to find enough persons with your knowledge to organize some have got discouraged and gave it up in despair. Five have dropped out of the ranks that I know of. Some more may have done so without notifying me. The Church of Humanity is not founded until you organize. It will go to pieces in a short time if you fail to do that. You can save it only by your action at once. Your numbers can only be increased by field lectures and organizers sent out under your organized authority. It should not be a great task for you to organize. You see the Christians are organized everywhere. Just follow their example in that matter. It will be a disgrace to you and discredit your judgment and reasoning ability if you can't organize while all Christians can. I gave up my occupation, where I could have made from five to ten thousand dollars a year, to give my services free to find and enroll you people in a society so you could found an educational organization of yourselves through which you could make your discoveries known to the entire world, in time, and thereby free it from idolatry and superstition. If you do your duty now and organize such a society I will never regret devoting my services to finding you and making it possible for you to do so. Otherwise, I will consider my services in your behalf entirely useless and unappreciated by you. No one else would ever again try to find you to make it possible for you to organize if this attempt is a failure. No one could work harder and with more patience in this cause than I have done. You should all want our race freed from idolatry. You should all want your own posterity freed and kept free from it. That can't be done without competent teachers to teach them perpetually the discoveries you have made. It will require the machinery of an organized educational society for that special purpose. Let us organize, and then put into the treasury of the society all the property we can possibly spare to carry on its propaganda work under the direction of its legal authorities and properly elected and qualified officers. As soon as such organization is completed and can make use of it for the business of the society I shall turn over to the proper officers our fine college building. I also expect to place in its treasury from time to time, as it is needed and can be used to good advantage, a total of $30,000 or $40,000. By all of us pooling our property in this way, as an investment for the good of our children, we can accomplish grand results with it through this educational society that will do them infinitely more good all through life than if invested in any other way. But we must have officers legally constituted by an organization to receive and administer donations and legacies as the donors desire it should be done. You are the only ones who can give that legality and authority through organization and I hope you will not fail to do it.

LATER—Just before sending this to the printer I received votes from these comrades:

C. M. Dyer, Cloverdale, Indiana.

J. J. Herman, Blue Springs, Mo.

L. P. Tebbe, Loveland, Colo.

Emil Fredrich, Mt. Sterling, Ky.

Comrade Dyer can not attend, but the other three comrades will be delegates from their respective states. Great Bend gets three more votes and Kansas City one. June 7 gets one vote, August 2, two votes and October, one. This will give three more states—Kentucky, Missouri and Colorado—representation at the convention.

All the comrades are invited as delegates to this organizing convention and first congress of their society. I would like to see the full membership in each state turn out as its delegation. Three cities are being voted on as the place of holding the convention—Great Bend, Kansas City and St. Louis. Three dates are being voted on as the time of holding it—June 7, July 5, and August 2.

I refer you to my last letter for suggestions as to voting. Read them again and then fill out this blank with your votes and return it to me by return mail. Those wishing to join the society can fill out both blanks and return them to me together.

VOL. 2, NO. 3. GREAT BEND, KANSAS, MARCH, 1908. WHOLE NO. 27.

The Founding of the Church of Humanity.

A NEW DIVISION OF FREETHINKERS NECESSARY.

Some Deists, Spiritualists and Agnostics call themselves Freethinkers and their papers and books Freethought literature. Those few who have discovered that all Gods are myths and all life ended at death also call themselves Freethinkers. It was thought by some that all who would accept the title of Freethinker could be organized into one society. All attempts to do so proved failures because a fundamental law of society building was violated. That law is that only those who know or believe the same about a subject can unite to propagate it. Hence all Freethinkers can no more be united in one society than can all idolaters of the world be so united. The law of self-preservation applies to societies as forcibly as to individuals. A society rejects and ejects a foreign element that seeks to destroy it by trying to prove its teaching false. Whether that teaching be false or true has no bearing on the case, since the society believes it to be true. The Freethinkers who have learned that all Gods are myths and life ended at death are misrepresented by the meaning given that title by the majority claiming it. It is impossible for these few to win the majority over to them and make the title mean none but those who know the truth about God and life. It is much easier to repudiate that title and adopt a society name for themselves exclusively. This the Church of Humanity does. Its members have no hatred for those who do not know the truths they do, but it is necessary for the propagation of those truths. A man who takes pride in being an Agnostic will not try very hard to learn these truths because he would be an Agnostic no longer if he did. But why should a man take pride in his ignorance? A man who prefers being a truth-seeker to a truth-finder will not acknowledge these truths when found because he takes more pleasure in the pursuit than in the possession of knowledge. If he does acknowledge having learned these truths he will take no interest in making them known to others, but will seek for other truths of little or no value in comparison.

I shall point out how we are misrepresented by those who define the position of Freethinkers and the necessity for discontinuing its application to those who know the truth. Ingersoll is known as having been an Agnostic and a Freethinker. He did not know the truths taught by the Church of Humanity. In his poem, "The Declaration of the Free," occur these two verses:

We walk according to our light,
  Pursue the path
That leads to honor's stainless height,
  Careless of wrath
Or curse of God or priestly spite,
Longing to know and do the right.

Is there beyond the silent night
  An endless day?
Is death a door that leads to light?
  We cannot say.
The tongueless secret locked in fate
We do not know. We hope and wait!

To digress a moment, and with due respect to the memory of Mr. Ingersoll, I would call this poem the declaration of the Agnostic instead of the free. I can not comprehend how a person ignorant of God and life can be any freer than those who know the truth about them. I believe all the editors of Freethought publications are followers of Ingersoll. They do not know that Gods are created by man and that immortality is only a superstition. Mr. Hughes defined their position as Freethinkers when he said: "Freethinkers neither assert nor deny the existence of a God, but simply say that they do not know, as there is no evidence one way or the other." That is their position on the immortality idea also. It is simply Agnosticism. The members of the Church of Humanity are not Freethinkers according to that definition. They know that Gods are myths and life ended at death. We must then discard a title that misrepresents our position, and band together in a separate society under a different name. We simply refuse to have applied to us a title meaning ignorance of God and life. We have no quarrel whatever with those who are still represented by a name denoting ignorance of those two subjects. We accept their own declaration that they do not know the truth about them. We promptly take their word for it without censure or disputation. We urge them to not be satisfied with ignorance, but to try to learn the truth and get out of that class. But some of those who do not know treat those who do quite differently. They will not accept our declaration that we have learned what we claim, and criticise us for teaching what we have learned. In reply to my article in the Blue Grass Blade of February 9 Mr. Hughes claims we are narrow minded and hidebound and are imprisoning thought in an iron cage. That criticism equally applies to the Materialist Association of which he is a member, and illustrates the necessity of limiting membership in a society to those who believe the things the society is founded to teach and who are in sympathy with its object.

Every truth of science is simply a dogmatism in the estimation of those who disbelieve it. The Flaming Sword teaches the Koreshan Cosmogony, which represents the earth as a hollow globe with the universe inside of it, and we on its inside surface, which is convex like the inside of an egg shell. To people believing this error the real truth is simply a dogmatism.

It would be as absurd for our school teachers to change their teaching to please those people who admit they know nothing about the shape of the earth as to do so for those who are teaching error. Likewise it would be as foolish in the Church of Humanity to take advice from people who admit they know nothing about God and life as to take instructions from those teaching error about them.

I have just received a letter from Comrade H. M. Fisk, of Pella, Iowa, in which he says:

"Brother Kerr: What would you think of the proposition to correspond with the secretary of the Materialist Association asking them to hold a joint convention with us with a view to consolidating the two societies? They have very near as many members as we. I think that would help the cause very much. I joined the Materialist Association with a view to consolidation. We of the same knowledge should work together as one society."

In the People's Press of February 15 Mrs. Bliven claims 142 members in the Materialist Association. Quite a number of them are, like yourself, members of the Church of Humanity and will be in its convention or represented there. Our society has 231 enrolled members. It is the oldest and strongest, and is firmly based on the solid rock of truth about God and life, with the direct object of propagating those truths to free the people from idolatry and superstition. Our members have received certificates of graduation in the knowledge of God and are to be known as the original discoverers that all Gods are myths and life ended at death, and the founders of a society to make those truths known to the world. We must not bestow these great honors on uneligible people who do not know these truths nor want them taught, as I have pointed out in Mr. Hughes' case. He is discouraging others in joining the societies, and active work by those who have in behalf of these great truths because he disbelieves them. Mr. John Maddock is also a member of the Materialist Association. He is working against the truths it teaches. He is a very industrious God-maker, but names his invention "The Great Dynamic," and assigns to it all the attributes idolaters give their idols. Do you, Comrade Fisk, want us to consolidate with God-makers? Mrs. Bliven has incorporated the seeds of dissolution in her society by admitting as members people not agreed on fundamentals, thus violating the first law of society building. That violation is even now showing results in dissatisfaction in its ranks.

In the People's Press of February 22 Dr. A. W. Schuck says: "I have only one objection to our association, and that is, they are not all Materialists. Some are Spiritualists." He might have added also that some are Agnostics and Deists. He says: "A man who says there was intelligence in the cosmos before there was animal organization in the universe, and yet calls himself a Materialist, is talking through his hat to hear how it sounds. Educated Spiritualists have been talking that way for more than fifty years."

Here is internal strife, contention, dissatisfaction and inharmony even now in the Materialist Association because of non-agreement on fundamentals to begin with. Should the Church of Humanity invite wreck and dissolution by consolidating with an element not in harmony with its teaching and object? Perhaps nearly all the members of the Materialist Association who are eligible to membership in the Church of Humanity are members of it now, and need no consolidating, and we must not consolidate with the others who are teaching error. I have mailed copies of our publication, and sent invitations, to about all the members of the Materialist Association to unite with us if they know the truths we teach. I would be glad to welcome any of them to membership who are eligible. All such have a standing invitation to join with us as original discoverers that all Gods are myths and life ended at death, and founders and charter members of a society to make those great discoveries known to the people. I am as anxious as Comrade Fisk, or anyone else, to get all the people into one society who are eligible to membership. With that object in view I sent Mrs. Bliven the following suggestions as a basis of uniting the two societies if there are any more in the Materialist Association who are eligible to membership in our society:

1. That she issue a request for all members of the Materialist Association eligible to membership in the Church of Humanity, who are not yet members of it, to join it under the same terms others have done, and do so herself.

2. That she and I issue the call jointly for the organizing convention when enough votes are in to indicate where and when voters want it.

3. That she and I urge all members to attend it and do so ourselves.

4. That at the first session of the convention we both resign our assumed titles and duties and withdraw the names given the two so-

The Truth About God

Published monthly by the Church of Humanity.

Teaches the Scientific Discovery that God, Satan and Holy Ghost are Fabulous Beings; that Heaven and Hell are Myths and that Death is the Permanent Cessation of Life.

Entered at Great Bend Kan. postoffice as second class mail matter.

Subscription 25 cents a year. In bundles to Sunday Schools, Church organizations and church members for free distribution, 25 cents per 100 copies.

Remit by postoffice money order, coin or currency. Address all communications and orders to W. H. Kerr, 2210 Broadway, Great Bend, Kansas.

We are nearing the goal of organization.

Vote to attend the convention or for a proxy who will attend.

Attend that convention, comrades, and make your own laws and elect your own officers.

Never on this planet was a society organized to teach the truth about God and life. The Church of Humanity will be the first.

NOTICE—The new postal law allows the publisher of a monthly paper to give only four months' credit at second-class postage rates. After that the third-class rate will be charged. That will oblige me to discontinue mailing this paper to subscribers who are four months behind in their payment. I shall inclose a renewal blank in all such and if they want this paper they must renew at once. I hope not one comrade will fail to renew promptly. It is very important that they continue on the list to keep in touch with the work of their society.

Enshrine Your Children There.

(Dedicated by W. H. Kerr to parents bereft by the Colinwood, O., school fire.)

They told you of a God of love
Who reigns supreme in air;
And you were taught to look above
And view his goodness there.

Then in your kind and loving heart
That God you did enshrine
As one who takes the parents' part
With love for you divine.

But now look at those fatal schools,
Where perished hope and pride,
And you will know that they were fools
Or about that God had lied.

Rise from your knees and face about
And make your hearts more fair
By turning that fabulous being out
And enshrining your children there.

REPLY TO THE BLADE'S EDITORIAL.

GREAT BEND, KAN., March 6, 1908—Dear Editor Hughes: Judging from your editorial in the Blade of Feb. 9, on my article in same issue, I believe I misunderstood your position on the God and future life question and, if so, my accusation of your being a traitor to truth was a mistake. I made it under the impression that the Blade was to be a teacher of the truth about God and life henceforth owing to you joining the Materialist Association. You had been an Agnostic, but I thought you had at last learned the truths that all Gods are myths and life ended at death.

In the Blade of June 2, last, under "The God Idea," you said: "Freethinkers neither assert nor deny the existence of a God, but simply say that they do not know, as there is no evidence one way or the other." But I thought you had advanced out of that class when you united with the Materialist Association, as its founder teaches the truth about those subjects and requires an acknowledgment of them in members.

I was surprised later when I read criticisms of Mrs. Bliven and her teaching in the Blade from those who are still ignorant of the truth about God and life. One in the Blade of Jan. 12 under the caption, "Goes After Mrs. Bliven," by Mr. B. G. Morrison, says: "What I find fault with is Mrs. Bliven's dogmatism. In order to become a member of her Materialist Association you must affirm there is no God nor future life. There is nothing modest about that, . . . but she disposes of the whole matter by a dogmatic assertion not founded on wisdom or a common sense view of the operations of the human mind." Then he goes on to present the Agnostic position taken by Mr. Ingersoll and recommends it as a better plan. You did not say a word in defense of Mrs. Bliven or the truths she teaches, which I supposed you had subscribed to. You did not explain to that critic that Mrs. Bliven is not an Agnostic; that she has learned the truths about God and life; that it is perfectly modest to teach those truths when one knows them; that to such people it is no more of a dogmatism than the teaching that Santa Claus is a myth; that it is the acme of wisdom for those who know those truths to teach there is no God and no future life in a positive, affirmative way.

To allow anyone to come into your publication to ridicule the teachers of truths I thought you believed without a correction by you constituted treason to those truths in my opinion. But after reading your editorial I came to the conclusion that you did not really know them and hence could not be a traitor to them.

A few of your statements are enough to convince anyone that you are still a Freethinker and Agnostic, like you were last June. You say: "The Blade can sympathize with Mr. Kerr in his struggle to build up a society of free men and women, but that building can never be won, nor can the society flourish, where narrow-mindedness prevails. Thought must not be imprisoned in an iron cage. . . . If orthodoxy is hidebound Freethought cannot be, else we belie the name." That convinces me you do not know the truths about God and life, and, therefore, you could not be a traitor to them. I withdraw the charge and offer apologies for my mistake. Yours truly,

W. H. KERR.

The above letter I mailed to The Blade because it spoke of the value of criticism, but took exception to my charge of being a traitor to truth as being "manifestly unjust." Now that he gives evidence that he did not know the truths I thought he did, which were the ones I thought him a traitor to, I am perfectly willing to withdraw the charge if the reasons for doing so are given with the withdrawal. I doubt its being published in The Blade and have placed it here.

I am not, as he says, trying "to build up a society of free men and women." That is not my object at all. He simply can't understand me. I am trying to find and organize into a society those few people who have discovered that all Gods are myths and life ended at death, to enable them to teach those discoveries, by a systematic method, to others that they may be rescued from idolatry. Not knowing those truths himself he cannot comprehend that others do. Teaching them seems dogmatism to him, as teaching the true shape of the earth seems only a dogmatism to those who disbelieve it. He speaks of the "truths of Freethought." But what truths has it of any value when it disbelieves the truth about God and life?

One of our comrades thinks we ought to accept Agnostics as members of our society. But he can see here the predicament in which such members as Mr. Hughes would place our society. We are not wanting people who are working against the promulgation of the truths our society is based on, but those who are working for them.

THE FOUNDING OF THE CHURCH.

cieties and be on equality with each other and all the delegates.

If she or any member of either society can think of a plan of union that is feasible I will be glad to consider it and adopt it if in my judgment it is better. My plan would insure a perfect union and leave the comrades all free to adopt any name they wish, make their own laws, create their own offices and elect whom they please to fill them. I can't think of a more perfect plan for a harmonious union into one society. This will throw all the responsibility of dividing the small number who know the truth about God and life into two factions and risking defeat of organization on Mrs. Bliven if she refuses these sensible terms of union. That would be such a very serious responsibility that no one should care to assume it. The basis of union must be agreed on and effected before the convention meets to insure harmony at the convention. As the societies are now constituted there could be no joint convention. No one should attend that convention who is not conscious of the facts that all Gods are myths and life ended at death, and who does not want those truths taught. No such person could be allowed to take part in the convention, as it is to be a convention of graduates in the knowledge of God and life to organize and incorporate and make a constitution and by-laws for themselves to guide them in the ways, means and methods of making their discoveries known. It would be preposterous, as well as suicidal to the society, to admit people who disbelieve its discovered truths. Only those who know them can unite to promulgate them. They alone must shoulder the task of making them known. No others can do it.

Let us all work in unison to solve and accomplish one object at a time and we will accomplish things. Organization is the object up for solution and accomplishment now.

No comrade should fail to do his or her duty in the organization work because someone else is unable to do his. That is a good reason why some who can should do more than their share of it.

FOLLOWERS OF ST. PAUL.

Paul was such a moral degenerate, when building an idol in the minds of the people to worship, that he could not comprehend anything wrong in deliberate lying when he thought it added to the glory of his idol. In Rom. 3:7 he is quoted thus: "For if the truth of God has more abounded through my lie unto his glory; why yet am I also judged as a sinner?" Undoubtedly theft and murder and all other crimes would have been approved by this moral pervert had he believed they were in the interest of his idol. To such a degree of intensity can love for a myth be cultivated that some people could murder with joy their dearest friend or relative if it would in their opinion be an acceptable service to their idol and add to its glory. There are undoubtedly millions of conscientious Christians who do not believe it either necessary or commendable to tell deliberate lies to propagate their religions. They even are moral enough to admit that if the belief in the existence of a God and a future life can not be maintained without perpetual lying and deception, then they should be abandoned. But deliberate lying by degenerate Christians for the glory of their idol is often indulged in, and decent Christians should repudiate such moral perverts instead of giving them aid by publicity and credence. In the minds of many who will not discriminate such tactics bring all Christians into utter contempt. That Christian lie referred to last month from Ada, Ohio, is still going the rounds of the Christian press as a choice morsel of Christian evidence of the existence of a God. Here is another form of lie mailed me by a subscriber:

Ada, O., Sept. 22.—Because Amos Clarke, aged 40, a farmer living on the Lewiston Reservoir, twenty miles south of here, openly defied the Lord, he was struck dead in his front yard tonight in the presence of his family and several neighbors. He said there was no God and defied the Supreme Being to punish him. No sooner had the words left his lips than he was stricken and died a few minutes later.

His family is composed of Christian boys and girls who have been secretly trained and instructed by the mother.

Here is a letter from the postmaster at Ada, Ohio, in answer to an inquiry of the subscriber regarding the case:

"Dear Sir: Your letter containing newspaper clipping has been mislaid or taken from my desk, so am unable to return clipping to you. The report is a false one, however. Same was made up by a reporter that does not have a very high regard for the truth. Any other such dispatches sent out from here of a similar nature you can put down as false."

These followers of St. Paul who believe the existence of a God can be maintained through their deliberate lies should be severely reprimanded by all decent Christians, since they lead many to believe them all willful liars for the glory of their Gods. A lie of this kind may cause silly ignoramuses to have more fear of the fabulous Gods, but it will tend to bring them into utter contempt by the thoughtful who still believe them realities. From their view point they will think that a little foolish defy of this kind is viewed by their God as the greatest crime man can commit and the only one worthy of recognition by him that can cause him to act. They read almost daily accounts of assault and murder of women; of men murdering their families; of assassination and foul deeds of all kinds; they know of the assassination of three of our presidents, yet they never heard or read of such a thing as God striking down one of these wicked wretches before the crime was committed or afterwards.

I recently read an account of the great mine explosion at Monongah, W. Va., wherein over 300 miners perished. The scenes about the mines enacted by grief-stricken wives and children were heart-rending. A God could have prevented this disaster, and all others, as easily as to strike a man dead who defied him to do so. Hence to teach people there is a God who can be moved to action by a trifle and not by great disasters is to bring such a God into contempt and ridicule. But since all know of great crimes and disasters and never knew of a God being moved to action on account of them no one should believe such little pious lies as this one from Ada, O. Such lies should frighten none but fools. To illustrate the lack of power in Gods to harm any one let this pious lying reporter tie a spider's web to the smallest hair on his head and then invite all the Gods in the universe to unite in a grand tug-of-war with his Jesus Christ and his Atheist-striking-God as captains of the team, to yank out the hair. I guarantee their united strength can't break the web.

When people learn the discovery taught by the Church of Humanity that all Gods are fabulous beings they will know that Gods have no power to harm or help any one. The Church of Humanity has 223 enrolled members. They have learned and proclaimed publicly the great discoveries that all Gods, Devils and Holy Ghosts are fabulous beings, heaven and hell myths and death the end of conscious life forever. No God is around striking these people down for such teaching. Had there been any God they could not have made the discovery that there is none. People should learn the discoveries taught by this church, then unite with it and be forever free from the fear and worship of Gods.

THE VALUE OF ORGANIZATION.

Dear Comrades: In the legislature of every state and at every session of congress there are liable to be bills introduced that would be against our best interests and dearest liberties were they to become laws. Only by organizing and protesting against them through our elected officers can we have any influence on our lawmakers to get them to act in our interests. When we organize we should provide an office for a legal adviser who could go to any legislature or to congress on a moment's notice to talk and work against any bill detrimental to our interests. To illustrate my meaning I call your attention to the "Penrose Bill" in congress. It is an amendment to the postal laws as follows:

"That section 3893 of the Revised Statutes be, and the same is hereby, amended by adding: 'And when any issue of any periodical has been declared non-mailable by the postoffice department, the periodical may be excluded from second-class mail privileges at the discretion of the postmaster general.'"

That would give that officer power to suppress any political or educational publication not believed in by him, and make him the official press censor of the United States. Organized idolaters could easily influence him to suppress our church paper were he given power to do so by the passage of this amendment. As the representative of the Church of Humanity I sent a request to both senators from Kansas and our congressman to use their influence and vote against the bill. Both senators replied, and one announced the defeat of the bill.

We can only maintain our liberties to teach the truth about God and life by constant vigilance in the legislative bodies of the states and nation. It is extremely important that we organize and maintain a competent comrade to represent us before legislative committees having the consideration of bills detrimental to our educational work.

Let us have more enthusiasm in our work of organizing.

LOVE LEADS TO TRUTH.

To the parents of the 170 children who lost their lives in the Lake View school horror, at Collinwood, Ohio, March 4, I address this circular letter, and shall mail each one whose address I can get a copy:

No one can understand your feelings better than those who have lost their little loved ones. But I realize how little words can do, especially from strangers, to alleviate the intense sorrow of recently bereft parents. However, we can all learn valuable lessons in useful knowledge from such calamities, and the greater the price we pay for it the more valuable the truths we learn and the deeper the impression they make on us. It is to this phase of the sad incident I call your especial attention. If the living can gain valuable knowledge and learn great truths through the sacrifice of those little children then they have not lived and died in vain, though it is the highest possible price to pay for wisdom. The first lesson that impresses itself on us all so vividly is the liability to sudden death of children without giving the parents a chance to express their love for them in care and pity and sympathy. Then these questions might arise in the parents' minds in such cases: "Did my child really know I loved it and would come and care for it if I knew, and could? Did it wonder if I would be sad or glad to see it no more alive? Were its last thoughts of me of love or fear or hatred? Did I make its short transit of life in this beautiful world as pleasant and happy as I could at all times? Its little life is now ended for eternity. Had I known that only these few short years of life between two eternities was all my child could have, could I not have filled them fuller with joy and happiness for it?"

Alas! It is too late to make amends to that child for any default of its parents. But there are other children and other parents. Let the lesson take a firm hold on every parent to be a constant guide at all times and your little children will not have died in vain.

The second lesson is the reasonable control of grief that is sure to come to us all many times. While that grief should impress deep and lasting lessons on us all through life, yet it should not eclipse perpetually the beauty and grandeur of life, nor cheat us of its joy and happiness entirely. We should remember that conscious life has ceased forever in the dead; that only the living can know that the dead are dead; that our tears and sorrow cannot be known by them, and that we, too, will soon join them in oblivion. A good rule to be guided by is to ask ourselves what we would have our perished loved ones do were it possible for us to exchange conditions with them. We would ask only a pleasant place in their memories, and would not want them to miss the pleasures of life grieving for us. We would want them to go on with

Circular Letter to the Church of Humanity.

NO. 9.

Dear Comrades: The votes are coming in faster now on the place and time of holding the first congress of our society. I urge those who have not done so to fill out the voting blank and mail to me at once. Three places are being voted on—Great Bend, Kansas City and St. Louis, and three dates are being voted on—June 7, July 5 and August 2 of this year.

A summary of the 32 votes cast so far gives Great Bend 25 votes, Kansas City 2 and St. Louis 2. As to time: June 7 has 17 votes, July 5, 4 votes, and August 2, 6 votes.

As to attendance, fourteen say they will be delegates, seven are doubtful and ten can not attend. Some of those who cannot come have named proxies to represent them at the convention. The following comrades will attend as delegates:

H. M. Fisk, Pella, Iowa.
William E. Gates, Shirley, Ill.
P. C. Hanson, Greenleaf, Kan.
Dr. C. H. Mordoff, Genoa, Ill.
William R. Adams, Hooker, Okla.
Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Kerr, Ingalls, Kan.
J. J. Herman, Blue Springs, Mo.
Emil Fredrich, Mt. Sterling, Ky.
L. P. Tebbe, Loveland, Colo.
T. H. Heald, 473 Ulysses street, Los Angeles, Cal.
H. J. Stevenson, El Reno, Okla.
J. Frantz, Bakersfield, Cal.
Theodore Lontesco, 94 Lee street, New York.

Those who cannot positively attend should name a comrade to act as proxy.

There have been a very few scattering votes on other places and dates not given. The indications are now that our organizing convention will be held at Great Bend on June 7. I hope each comrade who has not voted will do so at once, and that all who possibly can will vote to attend the convention. We want to know at once all who will attend as delegates so that those who cannot do so will know who to appoint as their proxies. I want each comrade who is of age to either attend in person or by proxy. It is extremely important that they do so. At this, our first, congress are to be made and adopted the constitution and laws for the government of our society. No comrade should miss having a voice and vote in these laws. In filling out your voting blank be sure to name your proxy if you can't possibly attend. New members who fill out the membership application blank can also fill out the voting blank and mail both to me at the same time.

the duties of life and citizenship as best they could without us.

The third lesson is the prevention of a like calamity by guarding against the cause of yours in all schools. Several different ways of exit of ample proportions should be provided regardless of cost or architectural effect. The fire drills should consist of many variations—that would halt the children at any point on their line of march and return them to any other exit or back to their seats—so they would instantly obey the commands of their teachers. Doors should open to the outside, and during school hours they should have only such fastenings as any child in school could open. All school houses should be built on plans suitable for taking care of the children when in a panic instead of on the supposition that none but orderly, calm children need be provided for. Children should not be forced into death-traps to perish by the hundred for even the sake of an education, valuable as it is. If this lesson is impressed so deeply on school boards and taxpayers that it will prevent a like occurrence again by proper precautions your children will not have died in vain. There may be thousands of school-houses not any better provided for taking care of children in a panic than was the Collinwood structure. Their patrons should take warning and remedy any defects at once.

The fourth lesson that your sad bereavement teaches is the plainest of all. But I see by the papers that you have utterly failed to even suspect it, much less profit by it. It is that the God and Jesus Christ you were taught to believe loves you and your children are pure creations of fiction that have no more reality in fact than has Santa Claus or any other fabulous being. The love you bear your dead children should teach you that truth without any other teacher or lesson. I read that two of your teachers lost their lives in trying to save your children, and that some parents had to be held to keep them from rushing into the fire to get their children. You have been taught the superstition that there is a God and a Christ who loves children more than parents can, and who has all power and wisdom to know and do anything for them at any time. Such teaching is a libel on parental love. While parents were dying in a vain effort to save their children because they loved them no God, nor a Jesus, did a thing to save any one. That proves conclusively that no such beings exist in the universe. To know that fact it is not at all necessary to search the planets and suns in space to see if there are such beings as Gods in existence. Neither is it necessary to look in the Bible for proof of their reality. All one needs to do is to read an account of the horrible death of your children in that fire, and if he can weigh correctly the evidence it gives that Gods are myths he need not look any farther for more proof of that fact. No more proof is necessary. It could not make it any plainer. In order to love your children it is not at all necessary to be superstitious idolaters and worship man-made Gods. You can arrive at the truth about God by this process of reasoning applied to your perishing children:

1. It is self-evident no unseen being aided the children in the least particular because: (a) No children were saved by any such means. (b) All could have been saved had any been saved that way. (c) The fire could have been prevented in the first place by the same power had it existed. (d) Had any unseen being influenced the mind of any teacher or child to save anybody all minds could have been so influenced and some one's mind could have been influenced to extinguish the fire before any damage was done.

Hence no God knew anything about your children at any time. Therefore, there is no unseen being who knows of the existence of our race, as no one is loved or cared for or known by a God or a Christ. They are nothing but man-created idols and their worship is only an idolatry like that of any other heathens.

2. Since it is demonstrated by the terrible lesson furnished by your perished children that there was no God to care for them when the services of such a being were needed in the greatest crisis of their existence it is self-evident that there is no God who knows or cares anything about the living.

For any parents to set up the claim that there is a God who loves and cares for them and their children is an insult to you and a slander on your poor lost children that you should resent with just indignation as an unjust reflection on yourselves and children. You should know that all such parents are mistaken when it has been so well proven that no God cares for you and yours. Their claim could only be based on the assumption that they and their children are more worthy of a God's care than you and yours. You should have the manhood and womanhood to resent such insults to yourselves and perished children. You and your children are just as worthy of the protection of a God as any people. Since it has been so plainly demonstrated that there is no God caring for your loved ones I resent the insult to you from those who claim a God is protecting theirs. I affirm positively that they are mistaken and that no such a God exists in reality. I know there is no God to love and care for me and my children when I see there is none to love and care for you and yours. The blackest insult I could offer you would be to believe that I am so much better than you are that I monopolize all the time of a God in my own interest, and then get down on my knees and thank and praise Him for taking care of my hogs and chickens and poodle dog to the neglect of your perishing children. While your children were roasting to death millions of idolaters believed a God was caring for their every wish and whim. I can't believe it. Can you? Life is the dearest possession of us all. It was as dear to your perished children as to us. It is demonstrated fully that there is no God to care for that life in any of us by not having cared for the lives of your children. How, then, could there be a God to care for anything of infinitely less value in comparison? It is utterly impossible that a God could care for my children and not for yours. Since none cared for yours I know none cares for mine. I can not believe it possible for a God to care for me who does not care for my children. Can you? I can not possibly thank a God for caring for me who refused to care for my children. Can You? Do you think it is paying due respect to the memory of your loved ones to praise and worship an idol that did nothing to aid them? I do not.

The vice of using intoxicating liquor has been greatly diminished in recent years. That has been brought about largely by pledges to abstain from it. Idolatry is a much greater vice and is indulged in by many times more people. Is it not about time we began signing pledges to cease it? Are not some of our people about civilized enough now to give up that heathen vice? Will you sign such a pledge with me? Here it is:

"Having full and complete knowledge, through the sad fate of our perished loved ones, that all Gods are only fabulous beings, I hereby pledge my word and honor that I shall never worship, by praise or prayer or in any other way, any such creation of man under any name whatsoever, and I shall do all I reasonably can in an honorable way to teach and persuade others to refrain from doing so."

(Signed) W. H. Kerr.

DANGER SIGNAL! LOOK OUT!

The security we have in this country from prosecution for teaching the truth about God and life through the division of idolaters into hostile sects is in imminent danger of failing through a reconciliation and union of those sects for concerted action to gain a common advantage in economic and political power. Everywhere and in all activities union, consolidation, federation and co-operation for common purposes, advantages and power are recognized as the sane and sensible thing to do by all who desire to accomplish a common object. This sentiment is affecting all idolatrous societies to a marked degree. Minor differences of detail in teaching are melting away in the interest of a federation of united idolatrous societies. The idolaters everywhere are being educated to this very rapidly through the economic necessity of a union of all churches in a town to enable them to employ a high-priced evangelist, to fight the liquor traffic, to dispense charities and secure desirable city ordinances. This will shortly develop into state and then national and then international federations of all idolatrous societies based on two or three of their common fundamental errors. The "Dark Ages" will once more settle down over the entire world. Our grand discoveries that Gods are fabulous beings and life ends at death will then be outlawed and their teachers fined and imprisoned until they are stamped out. This state of affairs is awaiting us in the near future. As state federations are formed, state laws will be enacted to stamp out these discoveries. Then to facilitate the work a national federation will be accomplished to stamp it out by national laws, for they would then have the power to make such laws as they desire. They are organizing their federations now on a state scale, and this beginning foretells the result I have here warned you is coming as surely as the gathering clouds portend the coming storm.

Organization is the key to success.

Don't miss this opportunity, comrades, to organize.

Consider the time and money spent in your organizing work the best investment of both you ever made.

If your state is not represented in the membership of our society see that it is by taking a number yourself, if you know there is no God and no future life for the dead.

We need thousands of trained defenders of the truth about God and life to go forth to meet the thousands of trained defenders of the errors about those subjects. We can't get them without organizing.

Join the Church of Humanity, attend its organizing convention, take part in its councils, help to make its organic laws, honor your state by increasing its representation, power and influence in this convention, and your reward will be great.

Two new rules of the postoffice authorities at Washington limit sample copy privileges to one-tenth of paid-up subscriptions and the time second-class postal rates can be allowed publishers to delinquent subscribers. These rules cut down our circulation greatly, as publishers had been allowed to send out sample copies equal to the number of copies paid for, and I generally sent out all the sample copies allowed. On monthly publications second-class postage is not allowed on copies to subscribers whose subscription is not paid up within four months. Subscribers who want this paper continued to them will please pay up promptly if in arrears.

A comrade writes that a friend of his refuses to unite with our society because it is too much a one-man-power society. If he believes it is, he should help to remedy it by joining it himself, helping to get more members, attending the convention and assisting in stepping the objectional conditions. My temporary office and duties cease when the convention meets. I will be then only as any other comrade, with nothing to do unless the society puts work on me. The delegates then take charge of everything. They can select whom they please to edit the church paper and fill the offices that they create. I only want to be a paying member. Guess my critic will not object to that.

VOL. 2, NO. 4. GREAT BEND, KANSAS, APRIL, 1908. WHOLE NO. 28.

The Founding of the Church of Humanity.

PROCLAMATION FOR PLACE AND TIME OF ORGANIZATION.

Having received enough votes to indicate that a large majority of the members of the Church of Humanity wish their formal organizing and incorporating convention held at Great Bend, Kansas, on June 7, 1908, I hereby proclaim that to be the place and time of said convention, and declare each member over 21 years old to be eligible as a delegate to said convention to represent said church equally with all other delegates present. This convention is to formally organize and incorporate the Church of Humanity by adopting articles of incorporation, a constitution and by-laws for its guidance and government and elect such officers, committees and boards as may be deemed necessary. The society will be bound by the acts of its delegates in this convention, and I invite and urge all members to be present as delegates who possibly can be. W. H. KERR,
Temporary Instructor and Organizer of the Church of Humanity.

ORGANIZATION THE ONLY MEANS OF PERPETUATING TRUTHS.

No one person can found or build a society alone. A society is a voluntary association of people to accomplish some special purpose they are mutually interested in that they can not do alone. It is demonstrated every day in thousands of ways that people can accomplish things by uniting in a society for that purpose that they never could do as separate individuals. Every educational, industrial and political society proves the superiority of organization over individual efforts. Note the great educational advantages children have whose parents organize themselves into a school district, build a house and hire a competent teacher for them, to children who must depend on their parents teaching them. Note the ability of a few organized police to rout an unorganized mob of a hundred to one. Note the ease with which a few captains of industry can hold up eighty millions of consumers when they organize themselves into a trust. Note the ability of organized idolaters to make generation after generation for thousands of years worship their idols and believe in their superstitions. Who can fail to see the great power in organization to do things when that power is demonstrated all around them daily? That some societies are doing more harm than good does not argue against their power to accomplish what they desire. Such societies can be checked only through organized opposition. People as unorganized individuals can have no power to check the idolatrous societies in teaching their superstition or to influence them to teach truths. Were there only half a dozen people in the entire world who know the discoveries that all Gods are myths and death the end of life it would be their imperative duty to organize themselves into a propaganda society to make those discoveries known to more people. Organization would multiply their power and ability a thousandfold and enable them to perpetuate their discoveries in an organized society which would in time make them known and accepted by the entire world. Otherwise their discoveries would be lost again at their death and would have to be rediscovered to be known by any one, which might not be for many centuries. Truths, like errors, can only be made known and perpetuated by promulgation through an organized society for that purpose. Like errors, they must be taught to each succeeding generation or they will be forgotten when the generations who know them die. Organized society for their propaganda is the only possible way to perpetuate these discovered truths about God and life. The entire world is practicing idolatry for want of a knowledge of those two truths.

We have found and enrolled 235 people in the United States who know them. Many of these are quite old and are dying off without being able to make their discoveries known for want of an organization of themselves for that purpose. Were any of them qualified to do so, they are not financially able to devote their time free to the task of teaching these discoveries. Organization will enable them to employ one or more of their number to begin the work of teaching Those having the ability to qualify to become competent teachers will prepare themselves for their life's work in that service. The remainder of us will assess ourselves through our organization whatever amount we are willing to give to its propaganda work. Like all educational societies, a few will prepare to do the teaching and the society will provide for their compensation and proper facilities in text-books and buildings. We can not teach our discoveries even to our own children satisfactorily and thoroughly without adopting and following this plan. That requires organization. Without an efficient method of teaching these discoveries to children they will be lost again when the few people die who know them. That would be a calamity that we who know them must provide against. We can do that only by establishing and maintaining a successful propaganda society. All truths as well as errors are perpetuated by that process. The truths will finally displace the untruths if given equal strength and advantages through propagating societies. The necessity for organization to perpetuate knowledge and wisdom is everywhere recognized. In new settlements the people organize themselves into school districts as soon as there are enough children of school age in reach of a common center. In the settlement of Kansas such districts could be organized where fifteen children between the ages of 5 and 21 years could be counted. The people then taxed themselves a certain per cent on their property valuation to build and equip a school house and employ a competent teacher. These educational societies were recognized as a necessity to perpetuate even the art or reading and writing, as well as a knowledge of the other branches of a common school education. Some parents did not have the ability and none had the time, patience and facilities to educate their own children at home. They were still more anxious to have their idolatry and superstition perpetuated in their children. They had in their homes what they believed to be a message from their God containing all they needed to know. Yet they found they could not teach it to their children satisfactorily. As soon as a few who believed in the same brand of idolatry and superstition located in a neighborhood they at once organized themselves into a church and Sunday school, built a house and hired a teacher of their brand of mythology. With these experiences before them none should deny the great advantages of organization to perpetuate both the truths and the errors that people want perpetuated. Accumulated knowledge, both true and false, can only be successfully transmitted to each succeeding generation through educational organizations. The Church of Humanity must then follow this course to transmit its discoveries about God and life to coming generations, else it can not be done. It must not be discouraged nor led astray nor driven from its duty by ignorant critics in Agnostic and anti-clerical publications who seek to hold it back to a level with their own ignorance and incompetency.

WHAT THE COMRADES ARE SAYING.

Henry Krogman, Crookston, Minn.: "Please find 25 cents enclosed for subscription. I wish you good success. As to voting, I would not know what is best, as I can not attend. But I wish you success in completing the organization. Yours for the stirring brain movement."

W. W. Hensley, Howard, Kan.: "I send you 25 cents on subscription. Will try and meet with you if the meeting is at Great Bend. I am 74 years old and don't like to make long trips."

Mart Rowe, Redmond, Ill.: "Enclosed find $1. There is nothing that I add my mite to more freely than the Truth About God. I know of nothing that would be of so much benefit to mankind as to know that Gods, Ghosts and Devils are only imaginations of the human brain. We shall never accomplish much until more of us get at the root of theology. I admire your courage and judgment. It's in the right direction, but, alas, too few people know it."

William E. Gates, Shirley, Ill.: "I agree with you that we must 'stand pat' on the first principles of the Church of Humanity—that God is a myth and life ends with death. It is only too true that your danger signal 'Look Out!' is necessary. Organization is the only way by which we can hope to win—and win we must and will. Wishing and believing that we will succeed, I am ever your comrade in the battle for truth."

Mrs. L. W. Terhune, Danville, Ky.: "Enclosed find 50 cents, 25 cents for renewal and 25 cents for copies of June and December issues. It will be impossible for me to attend the convention, as it will be too great a distance for one of my age to travel alone. Please ask your wife to act as my proxy and vote in my place on all questions I have a voice in. I will be pleased with her decision. Best wishes for success."

Charles A. Lee, Jacksboro, Tex.: "I enclose 50 cents for subscription, and will try to attend the convention. Allow me to congratulate you on your perseverance. Many would have been discouraged. With such grit as you have I think you will eventually succeed."

Dr. H. Whisler, New Antioch, O.: "Find inclosed 35 cents and vote. I do not think I can be with you at the meeting. Have been a Freethought worker in a small way for about sixty years, so you can have some idea of my age. I have held many fire-side debates with the clergy. And now it is one of my greatest pleasures to see the light of reason shedding its rays down over the hills of superstition. Yours for the light."

C. L. Westmoreland, Royston, Ga.: "Please find inclosed 50 cents to pay arrearages and for 1908. Good will and all Nature's blessings rest on you. I am glad there are 231 people in the United States who are well enough informed to know there is no God nor Devil, heaven nor hell. Such nonsense will some day be a thing of the past. Well, keep those truths in circulation as much as possible."

John Martin, Cayucos, Cal.: "I am twelve miles from town in the mountains. Shall send you 50 cents for paper in two weeks. I do not know any of the comrades, so you may assign my proxy to whom you choose if they will vote no compromise with any party or clan. I have seen too much of that in the

Attend Your Convention, Comrades.

A convention of those who have made the greatest discoveries of all the ages will be held in Great Bend, Kansas, beginning June 7, 1908.

Attend Your Convention, Comrades.

These discoverers will then be incorporated and organized into a propaganda society to make those discoveries known.

Attend Your Convention, Comrades.

All who learn and believe the false answers to them will be superstitious idolaters. Those who learn and believe the true answers will not be.

Attend Your Convention, Comrades.

There are only two classes of answers to all questions—the true and the false. The Church of Humanity discovered the true answers to the questions: What is God? and What is death?

Attend Your Convention, Comrades.

Until this church organizes and employs teachers to make known their discoveries all people, including their own relatives, will be taught by the teachers of errors and thus be made idolaters. Idolaters are made such by false teaching regarding God and life. They are not born that way.

Attend Your Convention, Comrades.

The Church of Humanity means its entire enrolled membership as one body of people. Those who attend the convention will, as a body of delegates, represent the whole church membership. They will incorporate and organize that entire membership into one legally constituted society under articles of incorporation and a constitution and by-laws. All members will then be subject to those laws and regulations, as are members of other societies to their laws and regulations. That is why all members who possibly can should attend and take part in the convention.

past. Let us go it straight with a steady gain. It is best."

T. F. High, Kuna, Idaho: "Enclosed please find 50 cents for subscription. I think the work of educating the people in the truths we have learned regarding God and life is a big job. I can not do much to help, but hope you will succeed in organizing. I will fill out the voting blank, but am unable to attend the convention. You may do my voting for me."

Ella P. Hunt, Moline, Kan.: "I herewith send you 35 cents for my paper, as I can't well do without it. I am poor, but will try and keep up in the future. Will try to attend the convention if possible, but I do not know another person here who belongs to our church. So you see I have to fight it out alone and I have some pretty hard battles."

Mrs. M. A. Lee, Blue Earth, Minn.: "Please find enclosed 35 cents on subscription. I send my vote in this, but I can not possibly attend and don't know of any one for a proxy. There are no members anywhere near. I am getting old, but hope for the success of the cause."

William R. Adams, Hooker, Okla.: "Your article in the March issue under the heading 'Love Leads to Truth,' is very pathetic and convincing. I wrote to two congressmen relative to the Penrose bill and the motto 'In God we trust,' and received encouraging letters from each."

R. D. Fausett, Waco, Tex.: "I inclose 25 cents for renewal. It will be impossible to attend the convention. I request that Comrade F. H. Heald, of Los Angeles, represent me in the convention. I would love to attend, but I am a wage-earner making only enough to meet the daily demands of my family. I am writing to Comrade Heald by this mail."

J. M. Herman, Scotia, Neb.: "We received the certificates of membership in the Church of Humanity; also the booklets. I greatly admire those little red books, as they give it all in a nutshell. I can not keep any of them, as they are curiosities for everyone to read, so they are passed from one to another. I inclose 25 cents for more of them."

Mrs. Frank M. Foster, Chelsea, Mass.: "Your admonition took effect at once. Enclosed find $1. Please put me ahead as far as it will go. I am getting old and this may be my last, but so long as I live I will not be a backslider. I firmly believe in our church; nothing can shake me. But am no good at making converts or in helping our side a little bit, though I am delighted when I see another converted to our cause."

I. M. Macomber, Lennox, S. D.: "I herewith enclose postoffice money order for 25 cents on sub. Also my vote on place and time of holding the organizing convention of the Church of Humanity. Will empower you to act as my proxy at the convention."

N. Berne, Newark, N. J.: "Find enclosed 50 cents on subscription. Would advise you to put the date of expiration on the label so I would know when subscription expires. Wishing you success in your noble work, I remain your life-long comrade."

William C. Dunbar, Fulton, Kan.: "Find enclosed 35 cents to extend my subscription a year. I wish you to act as my proxy, as I will not be able to attend the convention. Wishing the greatest success of our association, I am fraternally yours."

Otis White, Salida, Colo.: "I send you one dollar to apply on my subscription, and may the good work go on."

John Hirt, 720 Clinton street, Cincinnati, Ohio: "I inclose money order ($1) to pay for Truth About God one year. The rest you may keep for the good of the cause. If you can not be my proxy let anyone from Ohio vote in my stead, since I can not come."

G. M. Collier, Fort Moultrie, S. C.: "I enclose 50 cents on subscription to Truth About God. I could not afford to be without the little paper, although it comes only once a month. I am always anxious to get it before it is really time for it to come. Please make it a dollar a year and let us have it weekly. I always believed, since I was twelve years old, that all this great talk about God and Christ was false, and now I know it to be nothing but superstition and lies. Hoping that your determination to establish the Church of Humanity will be crowned with success, I remain, as ever, a true comrade for truth and love."

J. C. Cramer, Bucyrus, Ohio: "I herewith hand you $1 for renewal. I am very sorry that it will be impossible to attend the convention. I do not like the name 'church,' although it really has nothing to do with the principles the organization stands for. I am prepared to stand by the organization under any name and to advocate anything I know to be true, and I trust to the good sense of those who will attend the convention to do things right. With best wishes, I am yours very truly."

J. M. Case, 154 West Thirteenth street, New York: "Enclosed please find $1.30, my membership fee and subscription to the paper. I doubt if there is any person in the world more interested in what The Truth About God is advocating in the interest of the Church of Humanity and the world at large than myself. I think the Church of Humanity offers to all the best medium through which to interest intelligent men and women in the truth about myths that have for so long a time been forced upon them as realities because of previous ignorance. Yes, it is time that every noble-minded man and woman joined their intellectual forces for the betterment of our race. Nothing but a good organization can accomplish much, or command respect and consideration in the reconstruction of the thinking of society. I wish I could attend the convention, but do not think it probable that I shall. I would like to see the Church of Humanity a great success."

W. H. Kerr, Great Bend, Kan.: "Now, a large majority of you comrades are not taking the right course at all to make your congress a success. You express best wishes and hopes for its success and then say you will not attend it. That is not the way at all to make it a success. Hopes and wishes can not possibly help the least bit unless you transmute them into action and material support. You never could plant the seeds of vegetation and reap the golden harvest by hopes and wishes. They must be materialized into action to do it. You know that as well as I do. Likewise the seeds of truth can never be planted in the minds of people and the golden harvest of civilization secured by hopes and wishes unless they are transformed into material, visible, substantial, efficient action. Your hopes and wishes can never make a convention unless they are strong enough to take you there. They are not yet strong enough in you to cause you to act physically. Conventions are not composed of hopes and wishes, but of physical, material men and women. Your hopes and wishes are of first importance, of course, and are good so far as they are developed in you. But the trouble is they are not developed strong enough yet to do any good. They must be cultivated and developed and be made strong enough to compel you to get ready and come to the convention, else nothing will come of them and they will soon wither and die out entirely. Hopes and wishes can only amount to anything when they are strong enough to compel action in you. Observe the idolaters all around you, see how they do things, then follow their example in every way excepting their idolatry and you, too, will accomplish things. When they wish and hope for a church building they call a meeting, pray for a myth-God to aid them, rise from their knees and pass the hat, chip in ten to one hundred dollars each and, lo, and behold! a church building materializes in a few weeks. It was the dollars that did the trick and not a God at all. The dollars will do the same trick for us without the prayer if the hope and desire is strong enough in our minds to force the dollars out of our pockets. When idolatrous societies want a rip-roaring convention that will astonish the natives they get down on their knees and pray fervently for their idol to make it such. Then they arise, get ready to go, buy a ticket for a trip perhaps clear across a continent, do anything and everything to help in the work of the convention and, behold, what a great success it is from their viewpoint and that of the world. What did it? Was it a God? You are the discoverers that there are no such beings. What then was the cause of success? Why, that is very easily answered. It was simply a wish and hope cultivated until strong enough to force physical action and the required expense. It is a common saying that God helps those who help themselves. But you know that is a lie. You know people are helped only to the extent that they help themselves, and that there is no God to help anyone. Then, are we not as able to help ourselves as idolaters are to help themselves? If we are not we should write with our own hands the word 'Fool' across our foreheads instead of the word 'Intelligence,' which we thought we were entitled to.

"Across the title page of every Freethought publication that discourages you, or allows contributors to use its pages to discourage you, in any way in doing your plain duty in organizing and supporting a propaganda society of your discoveries should be written the word 'Foolthought.' It is time for you to recognize the fact that you are being discouraged in this great work from that very source. Agnostics do not know your discovered truths and consequently do not want a society organized to teach them. When it comes to a question with you whether to throw your discoveries overboard and abandon them or those Agnostic publications you should not hesitate a moment in making a choice. You can easily tell the friendly ones from the non-friendly ones by criticism or praise of your movement in them. Don't be fooled a little bit by their excuse of free discussion and non-responsibility for articles. None of them publishes an article they do not want published, regardless of the desire of the writer. You can soon determine which of them are friendly to your movement and which are not. We should all patronize the friendly ones and promptly throw the unfriendly ones overboard. We will all certainly meet with enough opposition and discouragements from idolaters without paying for it in Agnostic publications.

"Comrades, attend your organizing convention regardless of opposition from any quarter."

Don't Forget the Convention.

Circular Letter to the Church of Humanity.

NO. 10.

Dear Comrades: Enough votes have been received now to indicate by a large majority that you want your organizing convention held at Great Bend on June 7 next. A summary of the 53 votes received so far gives Great Bend 44, Kansas City 4, and St. Louis 2, for place, and June 7 32, July 5 8 and August 2 7 for time. There are a few scattering votes not given and a few left it to me to say where and when, but I am not voting on either question. I made my suggestions and then left it to you to decide. In accordance with your decision, as indicated by your votes, you will find on the first page of this copy a proclamation convening the degelates here June 7. I shall place notices of it in a number of publications most likely to reach people interested in the convention. We will not invite any to attend the convention except members of the Church of Humanity, as perhaps after the first meeting the doors will be closed to non-members. Not that we have any secret work to do, but because we will not want to be bothered with outsiders in our deliberations. But I will accept all who apply for membership up to the date of the convention and all members received will be eligible to attend the convention. So I wish to give it as wide publicity as possible with the hope of giving all who know the discoveries taught by the Church of Humanity a chance to come in as original discoverers of them and founders of a society to make them known to others.

Of the comrades who have voted, 19 say they will come, 7 are doubtful and 26 can't come. Some who can't come have named proxies to represent them. All who desire some special one to act as their proxy should inform him by letter of their choice. But the delegates will only have one vote each on any question, so as to have equality with each other. All who attend will equally represent the entire church, which will include those who can not come as well as those who do. Those who make the laws for our church will not put duties on its members that they are not willing to assume themselves. If only twenty delegates come it will give a representation of one delegate to twelve members, which will be a very good representation. But I hope for a still larger representation. I urge each and every one of you who possibly can to come. It is very important that you do. Our organic laws will be made then for the society. All members will be bound alike to observe and abide by them. You will place a financial obligation on yourselves to support the propaganda work of your society, like all educational societies. It is for you to say in making your laws how much of an obligation you wish placed on you—how much you want to be assessed monthly. I want some of the poorest and some of the wealthiest to attend so they can speak for themselves and fix the dues and assessments to suit the financial ability of all. Of course, the taxation will have to be graduated according to the financial ability of each in order to throw the bulk of the aid on those most able to bear it. There should be one uniform membership dues for all. That should be, of course, placed within reach of the poorest members without being an oppressive burden to them. But that would not give the church a good working fund, and a system of assessments on the valuation of each one's property, or income, or both, should be provided for. That system should be graduated in order to give those most able the largest share of the support. In these ways you should provide for a suitable, reliable and steady income for the propaganda work of your church. You should all study the methods by which fraternal and educational societies raise funds for their support and propaganda work, and also how it is disbursed for the good of the society. Then you will have a variety of methods to select from and you can choose the best and most suitable of them for our society at your convention. I urgently advise all delegates to the convention to prepare at once for their task by getting a copy of the constitution and by-laws of all the societies they can and study up on them and bring them to the convention as guides in their work, so far as suitable. Study up on parliamentary rules so that you will be able to do the work required in systematic order. I warn you in advance to not depend on me doing anything more than one of the least able delegates in the convention. You delegates must shoulder the task of organizing your society and of making its constitution, by-laws and articles of incorporation. I have no ability in such work and never had any experience in that line. My task is done when I have found you, enrolled you, given you certificates of membership and graduation and convened you in an assembled congress to make your own laws. I will then resign my assumed title and duties and the editorship of your publication and will be simply one of the delegates to the convention like the others. I shall willingly aid what little I can in the work, but I have no wish nor desire to have any undue influence over its course. We will all agree in advance to abide by the constitution and by-laws made, and fulfill all duties and obligations placed on us to the best of our ability.

A just method of financial support and an economic method of propaganda work will have to be planned and enacted into law by your convention. We should all gladly furnish the financial support required of us, as members of other societies do. We should all realize the fact that no society can progress, no matter how competent its officers, without financial means at their command. Having settled the provisions for financing our propaganda work it is of next importance to get competent officers to conduct the work. Some of those officers will have to devote their entire time to it. Others can, perhaps, do the work required of them at stated times without interfering much with their occupation or profession. Your elected editor for your publication would have to devote most of his time to that task. But he might be able to act as a member of some of the committees or boards you may provide for.

Our officers should not be paid much, if anything, until our society is stronger, but our teachers, lecturers and organizers should be well compensated. They, of course, should devote their entire time to their work, and would have to make their living and expenses out of it. The necessary expenses of all our officers in the performance of their duties for the church must, of course, be paid out of the church treasury. Its treasury will be replenished by the system of dues, assessments, donations, bequests and profits on literature provided for.

Now, Comrades, I want you to realize the great responsibility resting on you and arise in your manhood and womanhood to the full measure of your grand opportunities. You have made the greatest scientific discoveries in all the ages. Compared with the discoveries that Gods are all fabulous beings and life ended at death all other discoveries combined are insignificant. The promulgation of all other discoveries combined have not shaken the world's idolatries in the least, nor ever can they. But the promulgation of your grand scientific discoveries will completely overthrow forever all systems of idolatry on this planet. I want you to realize the magnitude of your discoveries, and their power to civilize a race of superstitious idolaters when thoroughly promulgated. I want you to realize the fact that you can't possibly devote your time and wealth to a grander cause than the establishment and support of a propaganda society for these discoveries. Nothing but their teaching can ever eradicate heathen idolatries from our race. Now is the time, Comrades, to incorporate your discoveries as the base of a special society for their preservation and promulgation. No people in all the world ever had such an opportunity to benefit the entire race for all coming ages as you have. Your time and money should be thrown freely into this work as the best possible disposition you can make of them. To put them to any other use they will be forgotten in a few years and nobody will be benefited thereby. To establish this work with them they will be a lasting benefit to all mankind throughout the life of our race. If you have children how can you do more for them and their posterity in any other way? I wish each one of you who is of age could come and help in the organization work here June 7, and put your signature to the documents when completed. There will be no prouder people on earth a few centuries hence than those who can prove their ancestors were numbered with the discoverers of these truths and the founders of this society to teach them.

These are the comrades who say they will attend the convention as delegates:

H. M. Fish, Pella, Iowa.
William E. Gates, Shirley, Ill.
P. C. Hanson, Greenleaf, Kan.
Dr. C. H. Mordoff, Genoa, Ill.
William R. Adams, Hooker, Okla.
Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Kerr, Ingalls, Kan.
J. J. Herman, Blue Springs, Mo.
Emil Fredrich, Mt. Sterling, Ky.
L. P. Tebbe, Loveland, Colo.
T. H. Heald, 473 Ulysses street, Los Angeles, Cal.
H. J. Stevenson, El Reno, Okla.
J. Frantz, Bakersfield, Cal.
Theodore Lontesco, 94 Lee street, New York.
Mr. and Mrs. John M. Herman, Scotia, Neb.
W. W. Hensley, Howard, Kan.
C. M. Burgess, Council Bluffs, Ia.
Charles A. Lee, Jacksboro, Tex.

I would like to have double this number of delegates to report in May. Two more issues will be all until after the convention. I shall try to get them both to you before then. I want all of you to get as enthusiastic over your discoveries as you would be had you discovered a diamond mine. They are worth millions of times more than a mountain of diamonds to our race. At your convention you will incorporate yourselves into an organization to put your discoveries on the market. You will make arrangements to have them polished up and presented to the people in attractive form. Then you will provide for competent vendors of them to go forth and offer them to the people in place of the untruths sold them by vendors of mythologies. All priests, preachers and missionaries of all religions are simply vendors of untruths. They never have had to compete with vendors of truths regarding Gods and life. The competition has always been between vendors of different brands of untruths. The people never had the opportunity to choose between truths and untruths, but always had to choose from the variety of untruths offered. You are to change all that by putting in the field vendors of truths in competition with vendors of all brands of mythologies. Who would be so silly and totally depraved as to buy untruths about subjects when they have an opportunity to buy truths about them at the same price? You will need to employ vendors with smooth tongue, ready wit and sharp intellect who know the purity and value of your wares thoroughly in order to compete successfully with the trained cunning of the vendors of idolatry and superstition. Besides helping to lift your race out of heathenism to civilization, which is the greatest duty you can perform, you ought to get a world of fun out of it, which alone will be worth all it costs you. To watch the intellectual battle between the vendors of your modern scientific discoveries and the vendors of ancient mythologies for supremacy will be grandly magnificent and inspiring. It will be worth living a thousand years to behold it. It will be the greatest intellectual battle of all the ages. That battle has not begun yet. But you are to break the ground and lay the foundation for beginning it at your congress June 7. You should all try to be in at this beginning and help to lay the foundation. It is the one great opportunity of your lives. You should not miss it for such a trifling thing as a few dollars for car-fare or a few days' absence from your business. This is the greatest business you can engage in. Your congress will be purely a meeting for business. It will not be in the least like a Freethought convention, where they amuse themselves with speeches celebrating the victory over the clergy when the contest had not yet begun, nor even the true base found for a contest. It is not the clergy our church seeks to overthrow. They are simply the effect of a cause. It is the cause of idolatry and superstition we must look for and remove to make a permanent cure, and not confine our efforts to combatting mere effects of it. That cause is found in the superstition of all people that Gods are real beings and that life does not cease forever at death. The clergy, like all hired teachers of mythologies, are only the people's servants to teach those superstitions. Were it possible for a band of fanatics to kill all those teachers tonight the people would meet tomorrow and employ substitutes in their places. The only remedy is to supplant in the minds of all people their false ideas of Gods and life with a knowledge of your discoveries. That can only be done by a propaganda society able, in time, to spread over the entire world and establish local societies in every neighborhood with permanent teachers of those discoveries. You are to plan the foundation and beginning of that mighty task at your first congress of discoverers June 7.

In conclusion, I warn you to not be deceived into neglecting or refusing to do your duty by the advice to save your money and time for other purposes by the idolaters surrounding you and in Freethought publications. They will do all in their power to influence you to not come to the convention or spend a dollar in this work. They do not want it done. You must not be led astray from the path of duty by such advice from such sources. No movement would ever be made to benefit mankind if its enemies were consulted or listened to. Those same enemies who are so solicitous about the proper use to make of your money and time use theirs in the upbuilding of their idolatrous societies and then ridicule you for never having established anything to benefit the world. Show them that you can and will make a beginning in that direction. They will tell you to save your money for the benefit and comfort of yourself and family, and then give theirs for the support of their idolatrous churches. They only have designs on your money for their own idolatrous institutions and would gladly accept it for that purpose regardless of the comfort of yourself or your family. They only wish to deceive you into the neglect of your duty by appealing to your pocket-book. If you will not give it to their idolatrous societies they will do all in their power to prevent you from promulgating your discoveries. They never did nor never will listen to your advice to not build churches and hire priests and preachers to teach their children idolatry and superstition. Then why should you be so foolish as to listen to their advice to not found a church and employ teachers to teach your children your great discoveries? You never can save your children from idolatry and superstition by heeding the advice of idolaters. Don't be so foolish as to do it. Your idolatrous neighbors and relatives will ridicule you and call you bad names for doing your duty now. But their great-grandchildren will read with delight and inspiration of your heroic struggle and will revere your memory as one of the immortals who made the grandest discoveries of all the ages and laid the foundation for the rescue of a world from idolatry and superstition. Then buckle on the armor of truth and let us stand together as a heroic band of invincibles marching to certain victory.

Be a Delegate to the Convention.

Your comrade, W. H. KERR.

THE BLADE'S "CORRESPONDENCE SCHOOL".

I read with hope and joy the first few paragraphs announcing the proposition by the Blue Grass Blade of March 15 to establish a correspondence school. I thought here, for once, at least, there would be something practical done to aid the Church of Humanity in preparing to begin promulgating its great discoveries by preparing teachers for it and helping it to build up an organization so it could give employment to those teachers. But, alas! as I continued to read the course of studies appeared and the kind of teachers they were to turn out indicated. Then joy vanished and hope turned to despair. The vital subjects of God and life were entirely ignored. Not once have they been mentioned in connection with the school in any issue. Not once has a proposition been made to teach a student the truth about those subjects. Not a word is said about taking up a single study that proves the non-existence of Gods and of a future life. In fact, that is not the object of the school and no teaching is to be given with that object in view. The manager says: "No student should begin with a definite object of finding a given result, but the studies should be prosecuted independent of what the result may be." That means that students are not to take up the work with the object in view of preparing themselves to be teachers for the Church of Humanity in promulgating its discoveries and building up the society, although he says in the March 29 issue: "Besides, both of these organizations (the Church of Humanity and Materialist Association), can pursue the even tenor of their appointed way, build up their local or branch societies, and the school will prepare teachers to sustain and encourage these societies after they are once organized." And how is he to prepare our teachers for us? Why, by ignoring entirely the base and object of our society; by not teaching anything about them; by teaching only those branches of knowledge taught in all colleges and theological schools and known by all educated priests and preachers; by turning the students, if he gets too many, over to the scientific teachers in Lexington schools, everyone of whom are doubtless rank idolaters, and, of course, would teach idolatry to those students. And how does he propose to "sustain and encourage" the upbuilding of the Church of Humanity to enable it to give those teachers he prepares for it employment? Why, by filling the Blade with the writings of God-makers, and misrepresenters and ridiculers of this church and its founders. See "Truth is God," by Susan J. Peck, in April 5 Blade, wherein she supports the God and immortality and soul superstitions as vehemently as any heathen idolater could do in any publication devoted to the support of idolatry and superstition. See "We Need No Church," by Mrs. George Vale, in March 22 Blade, wherein she misrepresents my teaching, then ridicules me on account of it, and then warns the readers that "in organization lies the danger to the masses," and that "in two or three generations the descendants of those now joining the new (or old) church would be as strongly orthodox and as hopelessly enslaved as are those whom you pity now and as surely the worshipers of one or another of the Jewish gods (the gods of the Sadducees). You can deny the existence of any or all gods and believe, or disbelieve, in the future life and remain outside all the churches and save your dollars for the comfort of your own families and let all churches die for want of support." Well! well! And that's the way the Blade proposes to "sustain and encourage these societies"—by publishing everything against them sent in and not one article in their favor. That helps to "sustain and encourage" them about as fast as a lobster gets to its goal when headed that way, but walking backwards all the time. Sure! The Church of Humanity would be, in less than "two or three generations," only another idolatrous society if it accepted the services, without supervision, of teachers turned out by that proposed "correspondence school." But, Mrs. Vale, you need not worry about the failure of a church whose truths you have not learned and whose object you do not want accomplished. My comrades will have a trick up their sleeves worth two of yours. They will provide for an examining board that will require all salaried teachers in their church to pass a thorough examination in the truths to be taught and then they will teach under a certificate of competency and a commission of authority from that board. The moment they turn traitors, or Jesuits, they will have their certificate and commission withdrawn and be dismissed.

People who know the earth is round and want their children taught the truth about it are not foolish enough to send them to a teacher who does not know its shape or who believes and teaches that it is some other shape. Likewise, the Church of Humanity, composed of people who know all Gods are myths and death the end of life, are not likely to be so foolish as to hire teachers for its propaganda work who have been prepared for it by a school managed by parties who disbelieve the truths it wants taught, and who are not in sympathy with its object.

We all have friends we like, but would not for an instant think of employing them for teachers in our church unless they could pass the required examination by our examining board. Hughes and Charlesworth propose to prepare teachers for our church. Nothing could please me much more than to know competent teachers were being prepared for our church, for we are greatly in need of them now, and I would gladly contribute financial aid for that purpose. But these parties are not qualified for that task. They would themselves fail before our examining board on the first two questions asked them, and they would be promptly dismissed without further consideration of their abilities. After the preliminary questions as to address, age, occupation and other matters, our examining board would probably ask as the first two questions in the examination proper: (1) What are Gods? (2) What is death? Neither of them could answer either of these questions satisfactorily because both are Agnostics. How, then, could it be possible for them to prepare students to answer these questions correctly and satisfactorily to our examining board when they are unable to do it themselves? That would certainly be a preposterous supposition. Yes, we need a school to secure students and prepare them for service in the Church of Humanity. But those instructors must themselves thoroughly know the truths we want teachers of, and be able to prepare them for answering correctly all questions asked by our examining board.

Attend the Convention!

VOL. 2, NO. 5. GREAT BEND, KANSAS, MAY, 1908. WHOLE NO. 29.

The Founding of the Church of Humanity.

PROCLAMATION FOR PLACE AND TIME OF ORGANIZATION.

Having received enough votes to indicate that a large majority of the members of the Church of Humanity wish their formal organizing and incorporating convention held at Great Bend, Kansas, on June 7, 1908, I hereby proclaim that to be the place and time of said convention, and declare each member over 21 years old to be eligible as a delegate to said convention to represent said church equally with all other delegates present. This convention is to formally organize and incorporate the Church of Humanity by adopting articles of incorporation, a constitution and by-laws for its guidance and government and elect such officers, committees and boards as may be deemed necessary. The society will be bound by the acts of its delegates in this convention, and I invite and urge all members to be present as delegates who possibly can be.

W. H. KERR,
Temporary Instructor and Organizer of the Church of Humanity.

NEARING THE GOAL OF ORGANIZATION.

If the comrades do their duty at this critical moment and come forward June 7th and incorporate and organize themselves into a propaganda society for the teaching of their scientific discoveries regarding Gods and life the foundation will be laid for a power that will in time overthrow all religious mythologies on this planet. Practically our entire race has ever been superstitious idolaters from time immemorial. Our race is now and has ever been the makers and worshipers of idols.

The powers and attributes assigned every real or imaginary object that makes it an object of fear, love and worship is now and has ever been fictitious, arbitrary, imaginary. Bitter conflicts, wars and hatreds have always existed between the makers and worshipers of different idols, and the conflicting ideas on the proper make-up and worship of the same idol. Hence religious mythologies have undoubtedly been the source of the greatest evils of our race. Those mythologies, including Christianity, are based on the erroneous ideas that intelligent beings superior to man exist and control nature and man's destiny, and that man has a soul or spirit that survives death. These errors are today practically universal. They have survived modern advancements in scientific wisdom. The wonderful scientific discoveries in all branches of knowledge have not shaken these world-wide errors in the least. They flourish as vigorously as ever, side by side, and even in the same brain, with all scientific knowledge so far. Modern criticisms of Bibles and Bible Gods and saviors have not shaken those two fundamental errors. Idolaters at once reconcile and readjust them to harmonize with every scientific discovery and criticism. The scientists and critics themselves hold tenaciously to those two fundamental errors. The great fighters of the churches and the clergy of the past and present were and are firm believers in them. They simply fight the by-products of those errors while holding to them and producing other by-products that in turn are discarded for still others no better. To date no scientific discovery has been made that is not in some way harmonized with those errors except the two made by the Church of Humanity that Gods are all myths and that conscious life is ended forever at death. They are the only discoveries ever made that those errors can not be harmonized with and readjusted to. They are the only discoveries made that constitute a firm foundation for a propaganda society to overthrow them. These discoveries strike the fatal blow at the very foundation on which all idolatries are based. When thoroughly promulgated they will kill forever the germ, embryo, heart and core of those basic errors. Then all religions will wither and perish and no more can be produced to curse our race. Then the primary cause of race divisions that cause wars and hatreds and strife will be forever removed and a wonderful advancement in civilization and true wisdom be accomplished. Through an active propaganda of its discoveries the Church of Humanity will in time accomplish those grand results. Through its elected officers it will collect and compile into text books and catechisms the evidences from all sources that prove its discoveries true; supervise the collection and disbursement of funds to employ competent teachers, lecturers and organizers; provide a college to prepare its teachers; organize the people into local propaganda societies as fast as it can be done; provide a publishing plant for the production of its literature at cost and direct the propaganda work of its great discoveries.

All who wish our race civilized should join the Church of Humanity and aid in its propaganda work with pen and pocketbook. The overthrow of religious mythologies can never be accomplished except by teaching the people these discoveries. That never can be done except by a society organized especially to direct and supervise that teaching.

My comrades will organize themselves into a society June 7 to perform that service. Let every friend of truth and progress and civilization rally 'round the Church of Humanity and aid it.

THE DIFFERENCE.

Some writers in Freethought publications are simply anti-clericals who have grievances of a personal or a general nature against the clergy. Some have personal grievances against particular Christians or societies. Some criticise all church societies under the false idea that they are mental and physical slaves of the clergy. Some disbelieve a little of their non-essential teaching and superfluous ceremonies. Some are opposed to them from the miser's viewpoint—that of cost. But all such critics may be, and generally are, as firm believers in the existence of Gods and of a future life as those they criticise. When they think they are about to die, and sometimes long before, they join some idolatrous society and are as rank idolaters as anybody. They, at least, allow their relatives to call in a clergyman to give "religious consolation," and to make arrangements for an idolatrous funeral. Such conduct is reprehensible and disgusting in the extreme to all right-minded people.

Voltaire was one of the greatest anti-clericals who ever lived; but he was such a firm believer in the existence of a God and a future life, and of the necessity for the services of those same clericals to save him from a future hell, that he made arrangements before death to secure the services of a priest by false pretenses. In the Blue Grass Blade of February 16 is an account of the trick, which should bring the blush of shame and humiliation to every reader instead of the apparent approval given it by the Blade.

After a brief biography of Voltaire, reciting in part his long and bitter fight against the clergy, it says: "For several years he lived and worked in Geneva, Switzerland, because the authorities had made it too hot for him in his native land. Here he bid defiance to both king and pope, and today the visitors at both Ferney and Geneva hunt for relics of Voltaire. The seeming triumph of the clergy was at hand. In common with all humanity Voltaire could not live forever. He had to die. During his declining years the priesthood waited with vehement impatience. Letters were written by august bishops and orders issued by priests in authority to the effect that, at his death, Voltaire should be denied interment in the regular burial grounds. Only by trickery did he succeed in circumventing them, and because of this trick, which was played upon the Abbe St. Sulfice, the sacrament was administered by Voltaire feigning death, and the Abbe Mignot gave the body burial at Romilli-on-the-Seine, located about one hundred miles form Paris.

"Voltaire died on May 30, 1778. The next day the body was placed in a carriage and sat upright therein to resemble an invalid, with a servant by its side. Six horses were attached to the carriage in order to convey the impression that it contained some nobleman on a journey and to prevent its molestation en route. Then came a night of travel and the next morning the carriage containing the body of France's most illustrious son arrived at the abbey. The proper papers were shown, mass was performed and the body of Voltaire found burial. A few moments thereafter the prior of the abbey had received a threatening letter from his bishop forbidding Voltaire's burial, but it was too late."

Is not that humiliating? It is like an infant fighting its mother one minute and the next crying to be nursed by her. How many of those church-haters and clergy-fighters in Freethought publications are simply playing Voltaire in miniature? How many of them will ditch their followers and admirers, as Pentecost is reported to have done, and either join some idolatrous church or call for the services of the clergy before they die? Why, of course, all of them will, including the editors who fail to learn thoroughly the discoveries taught by the Church of Humanity.

The article says: "He (Voltaire) aimed at the very foundation of the church." Nonsense! He was up the tree of superstition so far himself he could not see to its base. His contest with the clergy, like that of Paine's, was not a contest between truth and error, but a contest between different brands of idolatry. The foundation of idolatrous churches is the erroneous belief that there are such beings as Gods and that life survives death. Voltaire believed firmly in both errors. So did Paine. So do editors of Freethought publications and most of their contributors. That is the true reason they will not aid the Church of Humanity, even to giving a notice of its coming convention. No possible hope can be entertained that the people can be freed from idolatry and superstition by parties who believe the two errors they are all based on. The Church of Humanity is composed of people who have discovered the truth about the subjects all religions are based on, and find that they are all based on errors regarding them. They find they are based on the mistaken ideas that there are intelligent beings in control of the universe and the destinies of man, and that man can survive death with consciousness. Having made these discoveries they are the only people qualified to begin the task of freeing the people from idolatry. At their coming national congress, June 7, they will incorporate and organize themselves into a national propaganda society to make None but members of the Church of Humanity will be invited to attend the convention. It is strictly an executive business convention of the church, wherein it will incorporate and organize itself into an active propaganda society for the methodical teaching of its discoveries.

Twenty-five comrades have promised so far to attend the convention. That will be enough to organize us into a national society if none of them fail to come. Many more comrades should come and have their say in the work. I want all to come and give their opinions and ideas on the plans and methods to be followed in the propaganda work of the society and incorporate them into its laws. No one who fails to come should find fault with the convention work of their comrades.

Comrades, attend your convention.

The Church of Humanity will take over to itself the teaching of its children the truth about Gods and life and leave it no longer to be done by those who do not know what the truth is. They have too much interest in their children's welfare and education to neglect this important duty longer. They will tax themselves to have the work done, employ competent teachers from their own members to do it and elect officers from their own numbers to supervise the work. Those officers and teachers will act under the laws made by its delegates at the convention.

That convention will put duties and obligations on all the members through its constitution and by-laws to support its propaganda work and society building. Some who do not attend it may be dissatisfied with some of the work of the delegates. Now is the time to make yourselves satisfied with its work by attending and taking part in that work. Those who attend will do the best they can. It will be perhaps impossible to please all members in all particulars. But all will be expected to fulfill all obligations placed on them to the best of their abilities, and if they have any complaint to make it to their own proper officials, who will take the matter up with the executive board and it will do all that can be done then in the matter.

THE DIFFERENCE.

their discoveries known and accepted. They will elect officers of their own comrades to direct and supervise the work in all its departments. They will take to themselves the duty of providing competent teachers to teach their children the truth about God and life and no longer leave them to be taught by those who teach them errors. All who wish their children taught the truth about those vital subjects instead of the errors about them, that make them superstitious idolaters, should rally to the support of my comrades in their great undertaking, and give them all possible aid in getting ready to begin that service. These great discoveries should be taught in all public schools. But they never can be until they are made known and accepted by a large majority of the people. That can only be done through the services of a propaganda society for that special purpose. My comrades will organize themselves into that special society June 7. I want all who wish them success to write letters, cards and send telegrams of encouragement to be read to the delegates while in session here. Do all you can to aid and encourage them to prepare to give your families the necessary teaching to save them from idolatry that no other society or teachers can give for lack of true knowledge.

WITNESSES FOR THE CHURCH OF HUMANITY.

When superstitious idolaters have testified to the kind, loving, watchful care they have received from a heavenly father and his son Jesus all along the journey of life, and then I read in the following news items what happened to them I know positively that they were mistaken "all along the journey of life" regarding the existence of such beings:

Kansas City, Mo., April 29.—A death list estimated at 450, a hundred or more persons fatally injured and many times this number painfully hurt, together with a property loss running up in the millions, is the record so far of a tornado that originated in the West last Thursday.

Tokio, April 30.—An explosion on the protected cruiser, Matsushima, causing her to sink in a few minutes, caused the death of 240 of the officers and men on board.

St. Petersburg, May 5.—A ferryboat on the River Dneiper capsized yesterday near Bykhov, in the government of Mohilev, and 120 persons were drowned as a result. The boat was filled with peasants and their wives and children returning from church.

The evidence that any one of these dead idolaters furnish that they had been mistaken regarding the existence of unseen caretakers is of more scientific value in learning the truths of Nature than the living testimony of 500,000,000 superstitious idolaters. We must accept the evidence of objective physical facts that all can see in place of theories and beliefs handed down to us by ancient religious mythologies. The evidence these dead idolaters furnish the Church of Humanity proves conclusively that the loving Gods they worshiped are all creations of fiction. There can be no mistake about it. No matter how firmly any number of people may believe they are loved and cared for by unseen beings this evidence proves them to be mistaken and that no such beings exist in reality. Other churches are based on the mistaken ideas of our ignorant, superstitious ancestors. The Church of Humanity is based on objective physical facts like all scientific knowledge is based on. Those who wish their children taught truths about Gods and life that will advance them in wisdom and civilization in place of the errors of the ancients that make idolaters of them should join and help the Church of Humanity along.

Circular Letter to the Church of Humanity.

NO. 11.

DEAR COMRADES: You are now on the last quarter and coming down the home stretch very near the goal of organization and incorporation. Swing your hats with youthful joys, like a merry band of girls and boys. Shout VICTORY till it re-echoes from pole to pole, then make one supreme dash to reach the goal. And I shall be happy indeed to welcome you when you get here, and will request the Mayor to keep the joints closed and give you the freedom of the city. Come any way and every way necessary to get here—by train, or wagon, or afoot, or horse-back, or auto, or flying machine. Don't miss it on account of having no way to come. There are quite a variety of ways to select from. You can surely find one that will suit your case. Remember, where there is a desire strong enough to force action, there will be found a way. So it is the desire that is of first importance to be put in right rapport. See to it that you have the desire to come. Make it strong and anxious and determined to get you here on June 7, and I guarantee a large number of you will get here. Remember, it is cultivated desire that constitutes the will-power in man that forces him to act, and through that action he rules and governs the animal and vegetable life on this planet, and to a great extent the inanimate elements. It makes him the supreme being on this globe. That will-power is not caused by Gods nor Devils outside nor inside of man as superstitious idolaters imagine. You and I know there are no such beings. That will-power originates in man from the force of cultivated and accumulated desires of his mind until it, like confined steam, forces action. That inforced physical action has made man master, to a great extent, of his environments. It has caused him to make and use every invention and discovery; to overrun the earth and search every land and sea; to subdue the animal and vegetable kingdoms and make them serve him; to gird the earth with bands of steel and wire; to harness the vital forces of Nature and make them do his bidding. That will-power from cultivated desire forced the actions in man that founded every false church and religion and built their temples and cathedrals and provides and supports their mistaken teachers. The fault in all this is the errors at the beginning or base regarding the nature of the universe and life. Not knowing that space, duration and matter are eternal and that all changes in matter are caused by its own inherent attributes and properties some powerful beings were imagined to be in control of matter and able to reanimate the dead. Those basic errors on which all religions are based are now detected by you comrades. You have discovered that Gods do not exist in reality and that life does not survive death. You are a society of the original discoverers of these two great fundamental truths. The mighty task before you is to switch idolatrous societies onto the right track, to get them based on truth instead of errors. That task will require hundreds if not thousands of years to accomplish completely over the entire world. You can not accomplish it in your day. But you can lay the foundation to begin it and get a good start in the work during the lifetime of some of you. It all depends on you having such a strong desire for societies to teach truth in place of error that it will force you to action in establishing such societies. It will not be your object to fight societies teaching errors or their teachers or members, but to establish new societies everywhere to teach the truths you have learned. Members of other societies will then learn the truth from your societies and teachers and will then compel their own societies to teach these new-found truths or they will join and help to support yours. It is perfectly right and proper for people to desire their knowledge perpetuated. They will continue to employ teachers of what they believe true until convinced by your teachers what the truth is. Then they will employ them. Your children and mine must learn from the teachers of errors who make superstitious idolaters of them until you organize and provide teachers of truth for them All that is necessary now is desire in yourselves for truth-teachers instead of error-teachers for your children that it will force you to the necessary action to provide them. I have no desire to force you to the necessary action and expense of organizing and providing those teachers, but I do want you to cultivate the desire for truth-teachers to such an intense degree within your own minds that it will give you the will-power strong enough to force you to act. That is the all-important thing for you to do now, and at once. You cannot force others to cease teaching errors except by forcing yourselves to provide and maintain teachers of truth for them. When your desire for truth-teachers is strong enough to cause you to act you will organize to provide them. Some of you have that desire strong enough now to cause you to act and come to the convention to organize a society to provide truth-teachers. I want all of you to get the desire strong enough to cause you to aid in organizing yourselves into a propaganda society and then to support that society loyally when organized. What more can I say or do to strengthen your desire for a society to teach the great scientific truths you have discovered? Your own observation of conditions should convince you that our race can not be won from idolatry and superstition without the services of teachers of your discoveries. That should make your desire for such teachers strong enough to compel you to organize to provide them.

Neither you nor I can possibly do the required teaching, because it will require hundreds of thousands of teachers of your discoveries for hundreds of years to make them known and accepted by our entire race and win it from idolatry. Neither you nor I as individuals can possibly hire and maintain those teachers, but by organizing ourselves into a propaganda society for the promulgation of those vital discoveries we can begin the work. It will enable us to employ at least one lecturer and organizer to do field work. As our numbers increase we can add more such teachers to the field force. Thus the teachers and organizers will build up our society in membership and it will in turn add more teachers. That will make it an ever-growing society until its influence is felt throughout the world and it finally wins a world from idolatry. Comrades, have you a desire for that grand accomplishment? Do you desire your posterity permanently freed from idolatry? Do you desire our race to progress in wisdom and civilization? Do you desire the discoveries you have made taught in churches, schools and universities in place of the errors now taught there that make superstitious idolaters of our children? If you desire all these results, as I hope you do, then transmute your desire into action and you will surely accomplish them in time. Remember the desires of men can accomplish nothing until they are strong enough to force action in them. Your desire for the above enumerated results should surely be strong enough in you to force you to act for their realization. To give your action the most effective power you should all act together in systematic order as a company of thoroughly drilled policemen or soldiers. You should act together to do things in logical order by a systematic method. Take one thing at a time in its logical order and all act on it in unison. Then you will accomplish results with ease. Incorporation and organization of your national society is now in order. It is the task right now to be done. All of you work on it together. All who possibly can should come to the convention as delegates. Come prepared to do hard work until it is accomplished. Bring an outline of a preamble, articles of incorporation, a constitution and by-laws you think would be suitable. Bring copies of such documents used by other societies. Come prepared to advocate your suggestions in a firm but gentlemanly way, and to listen with due respect and consideration to the plans of other delegates. Then submit gracefully and cheerfully to the rulings of such majority as you decide on to be final. Then stand by and support your elected officers and adopted laws loyally, and fulfill every obligation you place on yourselves to support and maintain them. Those who can't possiby come can write out suggestions to be read to the committee having the work in charge. Put your suggestions on different subjects on separate papers so they can be given to the various committees. The base and object of your society are, of course, already settled. It is based on your discovered truths about God and life, and its object is the rescue and preservation of the people from idolatry by teaching them these discovered truths. You all understand them and there should be no disagreement regarding them. They only need to be stated plainly in the documents. But the details of the propaganda work will have to be threshed out in your convention and formulated into laws and adopted. There will probably be a great diversity of views among the delegates regarding them and the result will necessarily be a compromise. That is the course taken by the legislative bodies of all societies. Come prepared to present your ideas plainly, and to abide by the decision of the majority whether they accept your suggestions or not.

In the construction of your society for a successful propaganda machine to make your discoveries known and accepted there will be two primary departments of activity to provide for. First—A systematic method for the collection of funds to operate the machine with and, second—A systematic method of using those funds to gain the greatest results in the most economical way.

There are several ways through which funds can be secured and it is for you to say how many of them you will use and the amount to be collected each way. Among those ways could be a membership fee, monthly dues, property assessment and income assessment as fixed incomes to the society. Then bulk donations, bequests and endowments would be solicited. One or two solicitors, ladies preferred, should be sent out to solicit financial aid for the society. In your laws you will provide for officers to receive and administer all funds collected. Then you will plan the best ways to use those funds to the best possible advantage in gaining results. Several ways of propaganda work could be carried on simultaneously. The production and distribution of suitable literature, including a society publication, text books and catechisms, should be provided for and distributed, some free, and the balance at the lowest price possible. The society should have a publishing plant for that purpose as soon as it is able to maintain one. Lecturers and organizers should be provided for and put in the field as soon as possible. A college for the preparation of our teachers should be provided for and put in operation as soon as convenient. Provision should be made for establishing and chartering branch societies everywhere. Your articles of incorporation should cover all the contemplated activities of the society in its propaganda work. In your constitution and by-laws you will provide for all officers, commissions and boards necessary to carry on all departments of the work, and define their terms and duties. You will then elect your most suitable members to fill those offices. Those most able and willing to work for the upbuilding of the society should be elected. In all your work and election of officers keep in view the object of your society and be guided by its best interests. Elect those comrades who can and will do the most work for the society. For the sake of economy and the ability to do the greatest amount of executive work for the society while it is yet weak I would suggest that a supreme executive board of three comrades be provided for to conduct the business of the society. Three of your officers might constitute that board. They could be your international organizer, if you have such an officer, the editor of your publication and your secretary-treasurer. All three should reside in the same town and devote their entire time to the service of the society. For the present you could put all of the executive work on them. You could name them as your commission on text-books and catechisms, and also as your examining board to examine applicants for the position of teachers in your society and to issue them certificates of competency and commissions of authority to teach when found competent. Your international organizer should be a good platform orator and organizer who thoroughly knows the truths to be taught. He should begin the field work shortly after your convention. Your editor and secretary-treasurer could begin the preparation of text-books and catechisms. The propaganda work should begin immediately after your formal organization and be carried on vigorously through your publication and field lecturer and organizer. Then you will soon become a "world power" for truth and civilization. Don't fail to do your duty now at this crisis in your movement. Have courage, hope and perseverence, and, above all, the intense desire to save your children from idolatry, by providing them with truth-teachers, that will force you to the necessary action to do it. I warn you to not be side-tracked or led astray by one class of writers in Freethought publications who say idolatry is now overthrown, nor by another class who say it can't be done. Both classes are utterly mistaken. To change the name of a worshiped myth is not making a beginning to overthrow idolatry. You, Comrades, are the only people on earth who have discovered the true base for a society to begin the task of overthrowing idolatry. Pay no attention to those who underestimate the value of your discoveries and claim they were made by other parties long ago. They do not themselves believe they are made yet or they would join your society and help to make them known to others. There has always been opposition to the churches. But that opposition was never based on the truths you have discovered. It was based on the worship of some other myth or on some other method of worshiping the same one. It was always a fight between idolaters on both sides. So, beware of those who seek to deceive you into the neglect or refusal to do your plain duty in organizing. Let no one turn you from the path of duty to yourself, your posterity and the race in general. I may not be able to get another message to you before time for you to start to the convention. But start in time to get here on June 6, and come prepared to stay several days if necessary to complete organization. I ask all who will come to write me at once so I can engage hotel accommodations for you. Don't neglect this. When you get to Great Bend have the hack bring you right to my residence. I want to see you and bid you welcome and assign you to comfortable quarters.

Now, Comrades, I have done my best to point out your duty and to create a desire in you to do it. I must now leave it to you to say if you will do it. You should have as great a desire to act as I have that you should. You have as much at stake as I have. You are as helpless to do anything single-handed in this work as I am. An active organization would benefit you as much as it would me. Unorganized, as we are, we are powerless to give even our own children the necessary teaching to save them from idolatry. We can neither give it ourselves nor hire it done. But through the machinery of organization we can hire the teaching we want done as the idolaters do. Our elected officers and boards and commissions will compile the text-books and catechisms and the necessary course of study and direct the propaganda work by a systematic method. By a systematic method of collecting and disbursing our educational funds we can all help in this great work and all receive educational benefits for our families. We must realize the fact that to save our own children from idolatry we must give all people the necessary teaching to save them, too. Otherwise our children would have to marry idolaters and be surrounded by them and their influence and false teaching and would be won over to idolatry and superstition. The scope of your propaganda work must necessarily include the education of all the people in your great discoveries. As your field workers build up your society in membership the dues from them will increase the church fund and more teachers can be put to work. And thus will increased membership necessitate increased numbers of teachers, and so on until our church becomes a world-wide power for the redemption of our race from idolatry and superstition. Your greatest desire and ambition should be to help to get this machinery of organization started. Then it will work automatically and perpetually with ever-increasing power and influence until it accomplishes its grand mission. This is the only plan by which it can ever be accomplished. Don't think for a moment books and papers can ever do this work. They can only be aids to the organization and its teachers. No other educational movement depends on them. I cite you to all church and political and educational societies that find it absolutely necessary to employ personal teachers to talk to the people, although they all have an abundant supply of printed literature in papers, text-books and catechisms. So great is the influence of oral teaching compared to printed teaching that candidates for office in cities have won out against the combined opposition of the entire press of the city. In those cities where Billy Sunday wins his thousands of idolaters to open confession and action enough to join a church they have always had an abundant supply of Bibles and idolatrous literature and even oral teachers, and all were superstitious idolaters to begin with. But a man with unusual power and different methods can create a desire strong enough in many people to cause them to act where other methods had failed. Action caused by desire rules the world. Men and women of action rule the race for good or evil and always will. Will you be men and women of action and take a hand in that ruling? Our race must from necessity have leaders in all lines of activities. It always had, has now and ever will have. It is right for us to have and follow leaders. Our duty is to see that those leaders are going in the right direction and to follow only those who are. So far our race has had none but idolatrous leaders to follow. You should be glad of the chance to come forward June 7 and select leaders from among your own numbers for the people to follow. Don't you want them to follow truth-teachers instead of error-teachers? Now is the only time you have ever had a chance to do that. I want to, and want my family to, follow the leaders you select at your convention instead of the leaders selected for us by idolatrous societies. Will you act and do your duty in selecting those leaders for us? Select the best you have and I shall stand loyally by them and do the duty they require of me to the best of my ability. All I ask is that they have adequate results in church membership and church property to show for the support they get. Is there anything wrong about such a proposition? When one hires workmen he wants something to show for his money. Well, that is the proposition in a nutshell. You will organize and tax yourselves for the support of teachers and then require those teachers to make good by results in increased membership and church property for the use of the society. The idolaters hire teachers of their superstition. Those hired teachers have built up their societies to number millions of members and have millions of dollars in property to show for their work. To win the victory for your discovered truths you must follow the same tactics they do. There is no alternative. But that requires action, and adequate desire must precede action or there is no action. Have you the necessary desire yet to force you to act? I know you have, if you understand this whole subject as you should. I may not get to talk to you again before convention date and I hate to close for fear you do not yet comprehend the vital necessity of attending it. In lieu of more letters I ask you to re-read the last few letters to you until you understand fully all the arguments on the necessity for action. Then come here June 7 and formally incorporate and organize yourselves into a propaganda society to make your great scientific discoveries known and accepted by all people. Had you voted to hold your convention at New York or San Francisco I would certainly have attended it. I am not asking you to do more than I would have done. The first session of the convention will be held here at 10 a. m. Sunday morning, June 7. You should all get here on Saturday in order to be present at the first session. You will get a night's rest and be refreshed for the hard, continuous work before you. I will have a register provided at my home where each delegate will register his name and address as he arrives. Remember, this convention is to organize and incorporate all members of the Church of Humanity into one national society to begin active propaganda work in teaching their discoveries that all Gods are fabulous beings and death the end of conscious life forever. We can't have local societies until this national society puts out lecturers and organizers and literature to make your discoveries known and accepted by more people. This national organization will give all its isolated members an opportunity to aid in promulgating their discovered truths until enough people of their neighborhood learn them to form a local society. Never before had we an opportunity to aid in this great work. You should all be happy to know that you will have that opportunity through a national society of your own after your delegates complete formal organization. Each delegate should get and study "Roberts' Rules of Order" thoroughly before convention date to be able to take an intelligent active part in its work. I have selected that as the most suitable and best work on parliamentary usage to guide the convention in its deliberations. All who intend coming should at once get a copy of it and study it thoroughly. I can mail the book to any comrade for 80 cents who can't get it elsewhere. I especially request the comrades in Kansas and nearby states to attend the convention, as it will be impossible for many to come from the distant states. You will confer a great favor on those comrades by taking on yourselves the bulk of this organizing work. I know they will appreciate it greatly if you do so. I want all to come. But I know the greater the distance the greater will be the time and expense required and the fewer the number that can possibly come. A delegate from Kansas or an adjoining state would represent the members in Maine, Florida, California, Washington, Canada or Alaska as well as a delegate from their own state. The truths taught are universal, like any other scientific truth, and are the same to all alike, no matter in what part of the world they live. So are the evidences that prove them true. Each delegate will represent the entire membership of the church. But the church as a whole will be governed by the laws the majority of its delegates make for it, as other societies are governed. Then we will all abide by them faithfully, as members of other societies do. You, Comrades, must demonstrate by actually doing it that you have the mental, physical and financial power to organize and maintain a propaganda society of yourselves for the teaching of your great discoveries by a systematic method that will win the people from idolatry. It is now "up to you" to do that. I shall try to do my share the best I can. Will each of you try to do yours? If you do, and all try in concert and unity, you will accomplish your object. The situation is this: You, Comrades, have actually made the two greatest scientific discoveries ever made by man, viz., that all Gods are only fictitious creations of man, myths, fabulous beings, and that conscious individual life ceases forever at death. For want of a knowledge of your discovered truths our entire race are superstitious idolaters and will of necessity ever remain such until they get it. You are the only ones in all the world who can impart that knowledge, and you can not do it except by organizing yourselves into a propaganda society for that purpose. Have you a desire to impart that knowledge and thereby rescue your race from idolatry? Is that desire strong enough to cause you to make a start in that great task. If it is, get into action at once. Don't wait one moment to see if anyone else is going to act. Let others see you make a start. Resolve this minute that you will attend the organizing convention. Write me a card that you will be here on time. Get and study "Roberts' Rules of Order." Get and study the preamble, articles of incorporation, constitution and by-laws of other educational and propaganda societies. Read and re-read my letters to you. Get a thorough understanding of the work to be done. Then come! Come! COME! and Do It! I shall be glad to aid you all I can. But I can't aid you unless you come. Demonstrate to the organized idolaters all around you that you have as much intelligence as they have by organizing, too, and that you are as competent and able to provide teachers of truth for your children as they are to provide teachers of error for theirs. If you can't do that then you are hopelessly outclassed mentally by them, and any claim to mental superiority on your part would only be the pitiable hallucination of the imbecile. But my confidence in your abilities to organize a propaganda society of yourselves when the time came for action has sustained me through the five years of continuous work to find and enroll you, and I believe you will not betray that confidence now at the last moment. I shall look for and expect all delegates here who have promised to come, and will expect quite a number to write to me yet that they are coming. Our society is still growing, and I hope we will have the full 250 members to organize with. We have 242 now (May 8).

Since last report the following comrades were received into the society and given a welcome by me in its behalf:

220. Charles Strandell, Cazadero, Cal.
221. Charles M. Burgess, Council Bluffs, Iowa.
222. M. X. Mockus, Detroit, Mich.
223. Frank Hendrickson, Malcolm, Minn.
224. John M. Case, New York City.
225. David B. Banks, Stockton, Cal.
226. Otto Wettstein, La Grange, Illinois.
227. John F. Bredow, Davenport, Iowa.
228. R. Vogel, Sioux Falls, S. D.
229. Byron C. Parsons, Humboldt, Iowa.
230. I. W. Herman, Cotesfield, Nebraska.
231. John Carrara, Danbury, Conn.
232. E. A. Byrne, Eureka, Tex.
233. W. I. Kirk, Buffalo, N. Y.
234. J. M. Herman, Scotia, Neb.
235. Mrs. J. M. Herman, Scotia, Nebraska.
236. I. Olinger, Great Bend, Kan.
237. John Wolf, Mt. Morris, Ill.
238. W. J. Cassady, Waco, Tex.
239. W. J. Graybell, Sebastopol, Cal.
240. Herman Burger, New York City.
241. W. M. Cline, Gervais, Ore.
242. Thomas V. White, R. 2, Great Bend, Kan.

Comrade Mrs. Frank M. Foster, of Chelsea, Mass., said in last issue she was delighted when she saw another convert to our cause. This long list of new members will greatly please her, as doubtless it will every comrade. When we get organized and put out good field workers they ought to get that many new members every day. When we get such a worker for truth in the field as Billy Sunday is for error we will get more new members in one day than I have been able to get in five years through our publication. And we will get such workers when we laymen make up our minds to pay as much for them as idolaters do. And we will do that when we value the teaching of truths as highly as they do errors. And why should we not? Every subscriber who is not yet a member and who believes our teaching true should join this society at once. This may be the last invitation they will get before the convention. If you comrades have any relatives or friends who know these discoveries you should urge them to unite with the society before convention date so they will get credit as the original discoverers of them. It will be too late for any one not a member then to set up the claim of being the original discoverer of these great scientific truths when there is an incorporated organization of original discoverers actively engaged in teaching them. See? No one can have that credit except the founders of this society to teach them who are enrolled before formal organization. After that they will come in as members having learned these discoveries from our hired teachers and not as the original discoverers of them.

Now, Comrades, I have explained everything connected with the convention, including your duties, as near as I can in advance and shall depend on you coming to do them, rain or shine. W. H. KERR.

VOL. 2, NO. 6. GREAT BEND, KANSAS, JUNE, 1908. WHOLE NO. 30.

Comrades! Come to Great Bend, Kansas, June 7, 1908, and organize yourselves into an educational society to make the world know and accept your two great scientific discoveries that immaterial intelligent beings do not exist, and that conscious life ceases forever at death.

The Founding of the Church of Humanity.

PROCLAMATION FOR PLACE AND TIME OF ORGANIZATION.

Having received enough votes to indicate that a large majority of the members of the Church of Humanity wish their formal organizing and incorporating convention held at Great Bend, Kansas, on June 7, 1908, I hereby proclaim that to be the place and time of said convention, and declare each member over 21 years old to be eligible as a delegate to said convention to represent said church equally with all other delegates present. This convention is to formally organize and incorporate the Church of Humanity by adopting articles of incorporation, a constitution and by-laws for its guidance and government and elect such officers, committees and boards as may be deemed necessary. The society will be bound by the acts of its delegates in this convention, and I invite and urge all members to be present as delegates who possibly can be. W. H. KERR,
Temporary Instructor and Organizer of the Church of Humanity.

THE GREAT CONVENTION.

May 11 I mailed the following circular letter to each member of the Church of Humanity, filling in the proper name and address of each:

"Great Bend, Kansas, May 11, 1908.—Dear Comrade: I am depending on your being a delegate to the convention here June 7 to organize the C. of H. into a national propaganda society for its discovered truths. Are you coming? Shall I engage hotel room for you? Are you preparing for the work? Are you studying on a suitable preamble, incorporating articles, constitution and by-laws? Roberts' 'Rules of Order' will be the guide in the convention work. I can mail it to you for eighty cents if you can't get it elsewhere. Study up on it thoroughly. It is extremely important that you come, and come to help until the work is finished. Do not fail to come on any account. The first session will be held at 10 o'clock a. m. Sunday, June 7. Start in time to get here on Saturday before. Come on No. 5 from the east over the Santa Fe. It leaves Chicago at 6 p. m., Kansas City at 9:45 a. m., and gets here at 7:08 p. m. Come on No. 8 from the west. It leaves Denver at 11:30 p. m., gets here at 8:50 p. m. next evening. Do not take a train that goes over the Hutchinson cut-off. Great work is expected of you in the proper organization of this national propaganda society of yourselves. Come prepared to do it right. Come prepared to organize yourselves into a society to take over the teaching concerning God and life from idolaters to yourselves, once for all and forever. Please let me know by return mail that you will be here sure. Yours sincerely, W. H. KERR.

The following notice of the convention was carried by the Associated Press, representing 778 daily papers, and this was clipped from the Topeka Daily Capital of May 10:

"Great Bend, Kans., May 9.—A meeting has been called here next month of the members of the Church of Humanity, an organization which teaches that 'God is a myth, like Santa Claus.' Organization will be effected and plans made for the extension of the propaganda throughout the United States."

No member of the church should fail to attend this historic convention. It will mark the beginning of teaching the scientific truths about Gods and life. Millions of societies have been organized to teach errors about those two vital subjects which have made of us a race of superstitious idolaters. The worship of no idol has ever been overthrown except by the worshipers of some other man-made idol. No form or method of idolatry has ever been overthrown except by those using some other form and method. Hence all religious wars and strife have ever been between worshipers of different idols or over the make-up and worship of the same idol. No person, nor society, has ever come forward to propose the overthrow of idolatry in the interest of truth about Gods and life, because no one ever knew the truth about them. But now a few people, widely scattered, have, through experience, observation and investigation, made the scientific discoveries that immaterial intelligent beings do not exist, and that death is the permanent cessation of individual conscious life. A delegate convention of these discoverers will assemble at Great Bend, Kan., June 7, incorporate and organize themselves into a national educational society to formally take over to themselves the teaching to their children and others of the truths they have discovered. No longer will they leave it to superstitious idolaters and agnostics who are teaching error. The convention will mark the beginning of the rescue of the people from idolatry through the organized systematic teaching of the truth about God and life. It will select officers and commissions to gather and compile into convenient text-books and catechisms the evidences that prove its discoveries true; provide for the selection and employment of competent teachers of them; provide for the collection of dues and assessments of its members to compensate these teachers; provide for the establishment of local churches and Sunday schools, where a few members are enrolled; provide for state organizations when they have a certain number of locals; provide for field lecturers and organizers; provide for competent representatives to appear before all state text-book commissions to protest against the adoption of school-books teaching idolatry, and before all school boards to protest against religious services in public schools, and before legislatures and congresses to protest against the enactment of laws in the interest of idolatry and the employment of chaplains in the public service. Through this system of propaganda work all members of the society, though isolated from its locals, will derive such benefit as will justify their loyal financial support. Through its system of chartering and organizing local societies its work will spread until all its members can have the benefit of local churches and Sunday schools for their children and themselves. In order to save the children of its members from idolatry and superstition it will be necessary to save all children from it by giving them the necessary teaching in these two discoveries. That will be a work for the Church of Humanity for hundreds if not thousands of years. It will justify every penny and every hour its members can give to the upbuilding and support of their society. No grander movement was ever inaugurated by man. No movement was ever more worthy of the loyal support of its members than this. No movement can benefit its members in particular and our race in general so much as this. I shall expect every member to stand loyally by their delegates and fulfill every obligation placed on them by those delegates; sustain the officers and commissions they select, and abide cheerfully and faithfully by the constitution and by-laws they formulate and adopt. I urge every member to attend the convention as a delegate to represent the church. I ask those who cannot possibly attend to write brief letters of encouragement to be read to the convention. It may take several days to complete the work of organization. None but members of the Church of Humanity need come, as they could have no voice in the convention, and perhaps the doors will be closed to outsiders, so as not to embarrass or disturb the delegates in their work.

One by one every branch of learning has been taken out of the hands of the clergy and placed in those of the public school teachers except the two regarding God and life. The Church of Humanity will now relieve the clergy of that service and responsibility by formally taking the task over to itself and assuming the duty and responsibility. That duty will in time be transferred to the public schools when this society has popularized its discovered truths by making them known and accepted by the people generally. Every child born to our race that lives to be a few years old has a perfect right to know what God is and what death means. Some organized society must of necessity teach the children regarding these subjects because it is not practical to do it thoroughly by parents while there is such a diversity of views owing to the truth being known by so few. When all parents learn and accept these discoveries it will not be difficult to teach them to children. But so long as idolatry and superstition are taught by organized societies it will be necessary to counteract their influence by teaching these discoveries through organized societies for that purpose. The Church of Humanity should assume that duty and service gladly without the slightest hatred or ill will for the clergy or idolatrous societies or their members, and it should assume the duty solely on the ground of incompetency, through ignorance of the subjects, on the part of the present teachers.

The world cannot be made to know and accept these great discoveries unless those who know them do it.

The Truth About God

Published monthly by the Church of Humanity.

Teaches the Scientific Discovery that God, Satan and Holy Ghost are Fabulous Beings; that Heaven and Hell are Myths and that Death is the Permanent Cessation of Life.

Entered at Great Bend Kan. postoffice as second class mail matter.

Subscription 25 cents a year. In bundles to Sunday Schools, Church organizations and church members for free distribution, 25 cents per 100 copies.

Remit by postoffice money order, coin or currency. Address all communications and orders to W. H. Kerr, 2210 Broadway, Great Bend, Kansas.

Next issue will announce result of the convention.

Members will then know what duties their delegates place upon them.

All should cheerfully and faithfully perform those duties, whatever they may be.

The world can never give up idolatry and superstition until the people are taught these discoveries; until they believe and accept them.

Never before had we an opportunity to aid in this great civilizing work. We should all rejoice that our organizing will give us that opportunity, and we should accept it and do our duty with cheerfulness.

The Church of Humanity is not a religious society. No religion, worship or piety can be practiced by people who know the truth about God and life. It is an educational society to make known and endeavor to have accepted the two scientific discoveries it is based on. To do that it must also organize the people into branch propaganda societies as soon as they are taught them.

A strong "moral wave" has been sweeping over the country for several months. That is a good indication of the growth of right moral ethics. It should hit the Church of Humanity so hard that not a parent in it will allow his children to attend a church or Sunday school teaching idolatry and superstition; and not a member will accept or allow any religious services held over their dead, and provide that none shall be held over themselves when they die; and do their duty in helping to build up their own church societies for their children to attend where they will learn truth instead of error.

WHAT THE COMRADES ARE SAYING.

J. V. Stafford, Canyon Ferry, Mont.—"Dear Comrade: Inclosed you will find one dollar. Set my sub. one year ahead and use the balance for the good of the cause. Sickness has caused the delay. Would like to attend our convention, but will not be able to do so."

William R. Adams, Hooker, Okla.—"Yes, if after that I have written about studying, you think I could do some good in the convention you will find me on deck if nothing very serious intervenes, and I will be pleased to have you engage hotel room for me. I am more than anxious to meet you and all the delegates."

William H. Hammack, Hagerstown, Md.—"Dear Comrade: I enclose check for membership fee. I am sorry I cannot be with you, as I think I could be of service to the convention. Not so much that I am of any special importance, but that I no doubt would talk on a subject that I am satisfied would be of benefit to all comrades. But since I cannot be with you, I will extend to you my best wishes, and I hope that you will all gather together and have a great big convention. Please mention me to the comrades and tell them that I am very sorry I could not be with them."

R. D. Fausett, Waco, Texas.—"Dear Comrade: Your letter received and duly considered. Wish it was possble for me to attend the organiaztion of the Humanitarians. I can think of nothing that would give me more pleasure than to meet with so many rationalists in a body. I am sure that the convention will be unlike any church-founding that ever took place. Brother Kerr, I am going to write an address and send it to you before June 7, and ask you to have it read to the assembly. Not that I have any desire to be advertised in any way, but when I think of the comrades who, like myself, must face a frowning world all our lives, I have so strong a desire to meet them all that I want to do the only possible thing under the circumstances—write an address and ask you to have it read in the assembly; and when I write it I will stop thinking of anything but the meeting and what I write will be exactly what I would say if I were there. I hope that all the comrades who cannot attend will write and I can one day have the pleasure of reading their letters. The very fact that we are stepping out in the open field to encounter the strongest resistance that man has ever yet met should inspire us with a stronger feeling of brotherhood than has ever existed with the servants of King God. With best wishes and strongest hopes for the ultimate success of the organization, I am fraternally."

W. J. Graybell, Sebastopol, Calif.—"Dear Friend and Comrade: Enclosed please find $2; fifty cents for back numbers sent me and $1.50 to be credited on subscription. Will you please give date when you founded this organization of the Church of Humanity?"

(The founding of the Church of Humanity will properly be dated Great Bend, Kansas, June 7, 1908. At that place and date a delegate convention of the original discoverers that immaterial intelligent beings do not exist and that conscious individual life ceases forever at death will formally incorporate and organize themselves into a propaganda society to make those scientific discoveries known and accepted by the entire world. All who are then enrolled members will constitute the founders of the society. I began this teaching by publishing a 32-page pamphlet in the spring of 1903, and enrolled the first member of the society March 23, 1903. In December, 1903, I began the publication of our monthly, under another title, so I could find and hold all who had made the same discoveries until we had enough members to justify formal organiaztion and incorporation to enable us to begin the propaganda work by a systematic method. I had set the number to organize with at 1,000, but finally concluded there are not so many people in the world who know them, and cut the limit down to one-fourth the number. I made the discoveries many years before I got financially able to begin teaching them and I could get no one else to do it. All the members who can possibly come should be here then at the formal founding of the Church of Humanity.—Editor.)

C. W. Clark, Allerton, Iowa.—"Beloved Brother Kerr: Nothing could please me more than to meet with you and the others next June. But that is an utter impossibility. Brother Fiske, of Pella, Iowa, has had some correspondence with me, and as we seem to agree quite completely in our views I delegate to him all my rights in the coming convention. It is my misfortune, not fault, that I do not attend in person. I enclose eighty-five cents in payment of dues as member of the church, and hope that in the future I may be able to help out to a greater extent than heretofore."

Mark Rowe, Redmond, Ill.—"W. H. Kerr: Inclosed please find five dollars—four dollars to help spread the truth and one towards getting Ella P. Hunt to the convention—that is, if in your judgment it is the thing to do. I do not remember having heard of the lady mentioned, or W. R. Adams. I like the interest they take in the convention and our cause. I would go to the convention myself if I had money in plenty. I wish that all workers for freedom from shams, superstition and idolatry could unite and strike at the foundation and thereby release the people from that mighty mill-stone that hangs around their necks. Almost every one can and will reason correctly if they have the truth to begin with. The curse of the ages has been sound reasoning from false premises. With the truth about God to begin with I predict a progress that will astonish its founders."

(Donations to aid delegates to get to the convention are perfectly proper. I like the disposition of Comrades Adams and Rowe in this matter. Ella P. Hunt seems to be a worthy comrade who is poor, but wants to attend the convention. I believe it is generally customary for delegates to conventions to have their expenses paid by the members, or local society, they are to represent there. In future conventions of our church the local societies or states will probably pay the expenses of delegates. I am very sorry, indeed, that Comrade Rowe can't come himself. He seems to thoroughly understand the situation, and I would like very much to have his aid in organizing. I hope he may find it possible to come. One sentence in his letter shows his remarkably clear grasp of the subject—"The curse of the ages has been sound reasoning from false premises." That is true, although it contradicts every Free-thought publication and most of their contributors. Comrade Rowe knows where the fault lies and he put it all in one little, clear-cut sentence. He also knows what the remedy is and places it in another sentence: "With the truth about God to begin with I predict a progress that will astonish its founders." I would improve that sentence by adding, "and life" after "God," and substituting "their discoverers" for "its founders." He is not worried about the reasoning ability of the people and expresses it just right in another sentence: "Almost every one can and will reason correctly if they have the truth to begin with." Those three sentences express the entire trinity of fault, remedy and result. I hope all the comrades can see that trinity as clearly as Comrade Rowe does. Then they would all work with that perfect confidence in sure results that would insure them to be astonishing.—Editor.)

H. M. Fiske, Pella, Iowa.—"Dear Comrade: I have your letter of the 10th ult. Carefully noted contents. In reply will say I will be there at the convention on time, and will be prepared with constitution, etc., to be compared with others and presented for the consideration of the convention. But you must understand that I am utterly incompetent to officiate in any capacity in the organization of that body, but will be there to help all I can."

(That is the right disposition. Come on, comrades, and help all you can.—Editor.)

W. W. Hensley, Howard, Kansas.—"Dear Sir and Brother: Yours of the 11th received in due time and I have been calculating what to write you. I feel very much interested in the noble work you are pushing with so much vigor. But I cannot say now that I will be with you at that great meeting. Nothing would give me more pleasure and I hope that things will turn so that I can be there; but if I am not there you will have my best wishes, and I hope you will have a good meeting and start a ball to rolling that will sweep superstition off the earth. Yours with best wishes."

O. Ellsworth, Denison, Texas.—"Dear Sir: I regret very much that I cannot attend the convention in your city June 7. I have been sick very near a year. I would like to hear of your having a good attendance at the convention. Instead of hundreds you ought to have thousands. I know there are one thousand that know what we do, but fear of the curse of mankind keeps them from proclaiming their knowledge. Anything you all do will be satisfactory to me."

J. J. Herman, Blue Springs, Mo.—"Dear Comrade: I cannot positively answer whether I am coming or not. June 7 may find my farm work in such shape that I cannot well leave. However, if I can hire anyone to stay and look after the work I shall sure be with you, and I shall make every reasonable effort to do so."

Dr. and Mrs. L. L. Stoll, Smithland, Iowa.—"Dear Comrade: Your kind letter of the 11th duly received, but sorry to say that it is impossible for either me or my good wife to come, as I have been sick all winter and am now slowly recovering. I wish I could be present, but cannot come. My wife joins with me in wishing the convention a good meeting, harmony and good work, so as to keep the good work going that it may gain the victory in time over churches of idolatry. You may say to the delegates to ever be firm and faithful to our new Church of Humanity. If they are all as firm as I am in the knowledge that there is no God then nothing in the world will change them. I honestly believe if all the Liberals in the world would return back to Christianity I would be the last one and would surely die alone in the Church of Humanity. The older I get and the nearer I get to death the stronger becomes my knowledge that life ends there."

Mrs. Louise Lambert, 1145 Gratiot avenue, Detroit, Mich.—"Dear Sir: Enclosed please find one dollar for four years' subscription. Am sorry that I cannot attend the convention, but it is on account of the 'finances.' Have been wanting to write to you for the longest time, but you know a woman's life is a busy one. There are quite a number of 'Liberals' here, but they are all so lewd about such things, and think that what we are striving for will all come of itself. I am confident it will take hard work and fighting to conquer. If I can be a delegate to the convention please ask Mrs. Kerr to act for me. With kindest regards."

F. F. Frans, Lucas, Kans.—"My Dear Sir: I enclose draft for fifty cents for subscription. Will endeavor to be present at the convention."

William E. Gates, Shirley, Ill.—"Dear Comrade: Your letter of the 11th received and in answer will say, I am coming and would be pleased to have you engage hotel room for me. I have studied, and will study, that I may be a help in the organization of the Church of Humanity, for I believe it is the one thing the world needs most today. Enclosed find eighty cents, for which send 'Roberts' Rules of Order,' and oblige."

E. E. Cursen, Simpson, Kans.—"Mr. Kerr: I enclose $1 to pay up and renew. It will be impossible for me to attend the convention. In fact, I am not physically able at present. Seventy years tell on one. I hope the convention will have a good attendance."

(Many of our comrades are too old to come to the convention. Some are too poor. They spent the best part of their lives in the service of idolatry, only to find out it was untrue at last. The convention is to remedy that in the future by providing for the teaching of their discoveries to children so they can give all their lives to the service of a society teaching truth.—Editor.)

Circular Letter to the Church of Humanity.

NO. 12.

Dear Comrades: This is my last message to you before you organize and incorporate yourselves into a society to teach your grand scientific discoveries to the people. I have tried to work for you as well and faithfully as if you had elected me and paid me a large salary. At your convention I shall resign all my assumed duties, including the editorship of your publication. Then, if you desire my services for your society in any capacity in which you think me capable of advancing its interests you can elect me to that office. I place myself at your service. But if you can find other comrades more able and willing to fill all the offices and do more for the upbuilding of the Church of Humanity I want you to elect them. You would do me a great disfavor to elect me to an office that another comrade would fill to greater advantage to the society. I want you to fully understand that my desire is the promulgation of your discoveries and not an office for myself or anyone else, unless he is the comrade who can and will do the greatest amount of efficient work in the promulgation and the increase in our membership. Personally I do not feel competent to fill any office as it should be done, and would prefer to have only financial duties placed upon me by the church. I can help to pay for others doing this teaching and organization work much easier than to do it myself. I only ask that you give the offices to comrades who are able to build up the church in numbers and property for its use commensurate with the financial support you levy on its members. I only desire to be a paying member, and shall gladly pay any dues and assessments you wish to levy for the promulgation of your discoveries and the upbuilding of your society. I want your church to provide competent teachers for the people who will not teach them to hate idolaters and their idols, teachers or societies, but who will teach them the evidence that proves that immaterial intelligent beings do not exist and that life ceases at death, and who will organize them into branch churches and Sunday schools and other auxiliary propaganda societies.. The idolatry and superstition of the people can never be uprooted until such teachers are provided by your organization. I also know you cannot provide such teachers without great financial aid. Therefore I ask your organization to place on me, as a member, as heavy dues and assessments as you think the members should pay for the support of their educational work. We do not ask or expect teachers to teach our children any other branch of knowledge free. The truth about God and life being the most important of all branches of knowledge, its teachers should be paid greater salaries than any other. I ask that all the comrades who can act as officers or teachers in the society be present at its organization so the delegates can select the ablest ones for the duties required of them. In previous letters to you I have said everything I can to impress on you the great necessity and importance of doing your duty by coming to the convention and helping in the formal organization and incorporation of your society, and I need not repeat it again. If you do not remember it please re-read those letters. Then just put on your wraps and come. Don't leave this important work to be done by other comrades. They may be leaving it to you and thus you would fail to organize yourselves into a propaganda society for your great discoveries through default. I have done faithfully and conscientiously all I can do and I now turn the entire work over to you and into your charge and care. You must now assume all responsibility for its success or failure. Through advertising, literature and personal letters I think I have found and enrolled all who have made the discoveries that immaterial intelligent beings do not exist and that conscious individual life ceases forever at death. It is now up to you to organize yourselves into a propaganda society to make these discoveries known and accepted by our entire race. Every child born to our race that lives to be taught anything is taught one or both of the superstitions that such beings exist and that life survives death. That false teaching makes of us a race of heathen idolaters. No people can possibly be rescued from that idolatry unless taught the evidences that will convince them that your discoveries are true beyond a doubt. You are the only people in the world who can do it. And remember that the paying for that teaching is of first importance, since teachers must have, and should have, pay for their services. Therefore those who contribute for the support of the teachers are the first and greatest factors in the propaganda work. You are the only people who can pay for that teaching, since people will not pay for a teaching until they believe it true. You must furnish the teachers from your own society and also their salaries. But you must realize the fact that the rescue and preservation of our entire race, including your own posterity, from idolatry and superstition rests on your own shoulders. You alone must assume the responsibility for the perpetual continuance of that idolatry and superstition. It is now in your power to organize and lay the foundation of a power to overthrow idolatry eventually. It is also in your power to refuse to do it. What will you do? What is your answer? You must act at once if you wish the world to know your discoveries. The only opportunity you ever had, or ever will have, to provide for their perpetuation and promulgation is on June 7, 1908. All is lost if you fail to act then. All is saved if you act then. It is up to you and you alone. I can do no more. The entire work and responsibility is now on you. Success will be to your credit. Failure will be to your fault. I have done all I can do to persuade you to act and do your duty. I now await with intense interest your movement, and hope you will not disappoint those who are expecting you to arise to the full measure of your grand opportunities. Only a small number may be able financially and physically to attend the convention as delegates to organize the society and plan the propaganda work. These few will wish to be guided by the desire of those who cannot attend as well as by those who do. I ask all who can't come to please send a statement to the convention of the amount of dues and assessments they wish to pay monthly in quarterly installments for use in the propaganda work of the church. The convention can then better decide what amount to levy and how best to plan the propaganda. The extent of the propaganda work must be limited to the amount of financial aid the members will contribute. I hope all members will realize the necessity for the work to be carried on vigorously and be willing to be assessed the greatest amount they can stand. Note the great amount idolaters give in various ways to support the teaching of superstition. Then know that you must give as much to the support of the teaching of truth about those subjects, or truth never can prevail. Then tax yourselves to the limit in favor of truth, as idolaters do in favor of error. Having at last discovered what the truth is about God and life it is now only a question of financing its teaching adequately to make it supplant error in the minds of all people. The main question before the convention is: How much will the members give to finance the teaching of their scientific discoveries? All the plans for the propaganda work will have to be based on the answer to that question. If you have not sent in your answer on this question yet please do so today if it is not later than June 7th.

If some other comrade is elected editor of the church publication, I bid you farewell as its editor, but shall remain your comrade until death do us part.

THE MISSION OF THE CHURCH OF HUMANITY.

The mission of the Church of Humanity is to take over to itself the duty and responsibility of teaching the people the truths they should know regarding Gods and life. The few who have discovered what the truth is about those vital subjects are no longer satisfied to leave it to be taught by idolaters and agnostics who do not know what the truth is. No hatred nor ill-will should be thought of on either side. Idolaters have always assumed the burden of teaching the rising generation what to believe about God and life. They should consider it a great favor to be relieved of that burden by the Church of Humanity. The children of agnostics have to depend on idolaters teaching them what to believe about God and life since their parents do not know what to teach them. But if those agnostics are dissatisfied with that teaching they should welcome the advent of this new church to do it. There can only be two sides to the teaching—the right side and the wrong side. The Church of Humanity is on the right side and all other societies that teach anything at all about the subjects are on the wrong side. All children from necessity will be taught by one side or the other. It is now squarely up to the agnostics to say which side they will have teach their children. They cannot do it themselves and should decide what church should do it. They should be wise enough to study the teaching on each side and try to determine which is right so they can advise their children which to accept and support, and which to support themselves. They cannot say now that no church is right. People either survive death with conscious existence or they do not. There can be no other alternative. We now have churches teaching on both sides. It is self-evident that those on one side are right and that those on the other side are wrong. For any agnostic to now say dogmatically that neither side is right only shows his desire to be foolish. It would be equivalent to saying that conscious life neither ceases nor continues at death. That would be an impossibility so plain that an agnostic, though ever so contrary, should be able to recognize it. Likewise we now have churches teaching on both sides of the God question. It is evident one side is right and the other wrong. There are no immaterial intelligent beings existing or else there are. For agnostics to say that neither side is right would be as thoughtless as to affirm that twice two is not four nor any other number. But, like a person who has not learned the correct answer to twice two, the agnostic can truthfully say he does not know which side is right on the God and life questions. But he must not go so far as to say that no one does know, or that no church is now teaching the truth. For him to do so would be like the person who has not learned the true answer to twice two affirming that no one knows or is teaching the correct answer. That would be an unwarranted assumption in such a person. No one would be justified in employing persons who admit they do not know the answer to twice two for teachers of arithmetic for themselves and their children. They would be equally foolish to employ persons who admit they do not know if Gods exist or not, or if life ceases at death or not, for teachers of those subjects. Editors of agnostic publications and authors of agnostic books have assumed to a certain extent that they are teachers of those subjects. That is not true. They are simply teaching that they, as individuals, do not know what the truth is. That assertion alone is enough to cause their prompt rejection by those seeking teachers of those subjects. Hence it is logically necessary for readers of agnostic publications, when nearing death, to turn to the clergy, who claim to know its meaning, for advice and instruction concerning it. That course is taken by nearly all readers of such publications. It may be deplored by those editors, but it is the only sensible and logical course to take. There are no other persons or society to turn to who claim to know. The mission of the Church of Humanity is to prepare people to die right, as well as to live right, by teaching them the true meaning of death. Then in that trying time they will turn to this church to learn its true scientific meaning instead of to the idolatrous churches that teach the ancient mythologies about it. This church should receive the loyal personal and financial aid necessary for its upbuilding from every person who wishes truth-teachers for themselves and families, instead of error-teachers, in the sad hour when life is ceasing in loved ones or themselves.

NOT "PREPARED FOR DEATH."

People are not prepared for death until they know its scientific meaning. The assertion of agnostics that ignorance of its meaning is a preparation for death is erroneous.

An editorial in the Blue Grass Blade, of May 10, is headed "Prepared for Death." It has reference to a man who had carved on his tombstone the epitaph: "Going, but I know not where." In comment the editors say: "But how true, how beautifully true, is the first line of that epitaph 'Going but I know not where.' Not even the most devout Christian can tell why he came here, where he is going to and what he will do when he gets there. He may proclaim his birth a mystery, his life a struggle and a battle, but his death is certainly a leap in the dark." And these are the editors who propose to conduct a "Scientific and Philosophical Correspondence School" to prepare teachers for the Church of Humanity!!! Great Scott! It is as preposterous as a man who can neither read nor write proposing to prepare teachers for our public schools. Is it possible that these editors are competent to teach the sciences and have not learned the simple nature-truth that people stop leaping and going places when they die? If all their science and philosophy have not taught them that plain simple truth they had better take a "day off" from "science and philosophy" and take a look at Nature in its purity and learn from it direct. Go into the fields and woods and see if you can find any dead things leaping and going places of their own volition. Take a look at the thousands of cattle, hogs and sheep in the fields. Notice their intelligence and reasoning ability that causes desire to leap and go from place to place. Follow them when forced to the great slaughter houses and see if they do not stop leaping and going of their own will when killed. See if you can comprehend the truth that their intelligence, reason and consciousness cease at death; that their lives cease and are extinguished forever; that they have not taken a "leap in the dark" and gone back to their pastures with their intelligence and memory unimpaired. Could you comprehend the plain nature-truth about them, brother editors? What good is all your "science and philosophy" if it does not aid you in learning the simple facts of Nature? Then, by analogy, can you not comprehend the simple truth that death to man means the same thing as it does to those animals? Where did you, brother editors, get the impression that when people die they must take a leap and go somewhere? I know where you got it. You got it from the idolatrous teachers of a heathen mythology. And that is the kind of "rot" you are going to stuff into your students in preparing them for teachers in the Materialist Association and Church of Humanity, is it? Well, they may be just the kind of teachers the Materialist Association wants. I can't speak for it. But so long as I have any influence in the Church of Humanity it will be used against the employment of such teachers. I would not want them at any price—not even as a donation.

If the idea that when people die they must take a leap and go somewhere is the "scientific and philosophical" text-books you furnish your students, then their authors got their superstition mixed up with their science and philosophy. In that case I advise you to "cut it out," fellow teachers, "Cut it out!" And in its place put the modern scientific discoveries that immaterial intelligent beings do not exist, and that death is simply the cessation of individual conscious life forever. Then I am ready to make arrangements with you for the employment of your students when they are prepared for the work needed. I am beginning to get "calls" to teach these discoveries from the rostrum. But as I have no platform experience nor ability I must decline all offers. Were I offered $10,000 for a lecture I could not accept it. Nor do I know anyone with a combination of knowledge and oratorical ability to recommend to parties wanting such services. I intend to help to open upon this vast field for the employment of thousands of competent orators to teach these great discoveries to the people from the rostrum. There is nothing to hinder those orators from getting steady employment at good salaries if they learn these discoveries sufficiently well to present them in that way. The best of them could doubtless get as good pay as Billy Sunday is getting on the other side if they would work as hard. Come, brother editors, get in line with truth-teachers.

THE FIRST "CALL."

A recent letter from a gentleman in Garden City, Kansas, asks:

"Have you ever done any platform work yourself? We are having a union revival here, and it may be that you could get a good audience here on some Saturday night, at which time the union meetings are held. The revival, you know, arouses interest and draws attention to religious questions. If you are a platform man, under what conditions would you come? Do you know of any Freethinker who is open to speaking dates?"

I could not accept the invitation myself because I am not a platform man, and I could not refer him to any one who is that knows the truth about the subjects sufficiently well to be recommended by me. Had the call been accompanied with a $10,000 check it would have been returned with the statement: "No one competent to fill the bill." A combination of knowing the truth about God and life and the oratorical ability to present it on the platform has so far not been found in one person, neither among the dead nor the living. Were Voltaire, Paine, Bradlaugh, Watts, Putnam, Ingersoll or any dead man, whose writings I have read, alive now I could not recommend them to this party, who seems to want the services of some one who knows the truth about God and life. None of the heroic dead knew it, although the greatest of orators are numbered with them. There is no one among the living I can recommend, not excepting the great Haeckel, of Germany, who, the Truth Seeker of May 16 says, is leading the attacking forces against Christianity in Germany. I could not recommend Friend Remsburg, for in one of his books he uses the expression, "God only knows," indicating his belief in the existence of Gods who know things. I could not recommend Friend Charlesworth, for in a recent Blade editorial he says death is "a leap in the dark" and that people do not know where they are going, indicating his superstition that dead people can take leaps and go places. It is not church-fighters, Christ-fighters nor clergy-fighters that are wanted at all by me. I could recommend only good orators who know the true answers to the questions: Does no immaterial intelligent being exist? and, Does life cease at death? and then be able to prove by abundant evidence the affirmative of both questions. Some of my comrades I believe thoroughly know these truths, but, like myself, have not the paltform ability to present them to the public. Here is a fine opening for some one who knows the truths to learn oratory and prepare to fill calls to present them to the public, and also for some one who is an orator to learn these truths so he can fill this demand. Let some "get busy" at once and try to combine oratorical ability with a knowledge of these great discoveries in each person. There is a demand for their services right now, and it will increase.

THE CHURCH OF HUMANITY

FORMAL ORGANIZATION AND INCORPORATION.

The national delegate convention of the Church of Humanity to formally organize and incorporate it into a national propaganda society was successful.

The following delegates to represent the Church of Humanity were present:

J. W. Stapleton, Chula, Mo.; Emil Fredrich, Mt. Sterling, Ky.; G. M. Kerr, Ingalls, Kan.; William E. Gates, Shirley, Ill.; J. V. White, R. 2, Great Bend, Kan.; J. J. Herman, Blue Springs, Mo.; Ella P. Hunt, Moline, Kan.; Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Herman, Scotia, Neb.; William R. Adams, Hooker, Okla.; Mary Belle Markel, Claflin, Kan.; H. M. Fisk, Pella, Iowa; Mr. and Mrs. J. O. C. Rathburn and Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Kerr, Great Bend, Kan.

The convention was held in our proposed college building in which the church has an interest. Two sessions a day were held for three days. The first session was called to order by W. H. Kerr shortly after 10 a. m., Sunday, June 7. W. H. Kerr was elected temporary chairman and William E. Gates, secretary. The chairman read the following address, which was adopted as the object of the convention:

ADDRESS TO THE CONVENTION.

"Comrades and Fellow Delegates of the Church of Humanity in national convention assembled: We have gathered here for the specific object of incorporating and organizing this society into a national propaganda society for the promulgation of its discoveries in Nature, that immaterial, intelligent beings do not exist, and that death is the permanent cessation of conscious life.

"We have assembled here to do this duty for the Church of Humanity under the call of the following proclamation:

PROCLAMATION FOR PLACE AND TIME OF ORGANIZATION.

"'Having received enough votes to indicate that a large majority of the members of the Church of Humanity wish their formal organizing and incorporating convention held at Great Bend, Kansas, on June 7, 1908, I hereby proclaim that to be the place and time of said convention, and declare each member over 21 years old to be eligible as a delegate to said convention to represent said church equally with all other delegates present. This convention is to formally organize and incorporate the Church of Humanity by adopting articles of incorporation, a constitution and by-laws for its guidance and government and elect such officers, committees and boards as may be deemed necessary. The society will be bound by the acts of its delegates in this convention, and I invite and urge all members to be present as delegates who possibly can be.

W. H. KERR,
Temporary Instructor and Organizer of the Church of Humanity.'

"Having convened you for specific purposes it seems proper to give a brief historical sketch of our society, and outline the work to be done by you. Through experience, observation and investigation I made the discoveries in Nature many years ago, that immaterial, intelligent beings do not exist, and that conscious individual life ceases forever at death. Failure to find anyone who knew these facts, or to persuade anyone to teach them, I finally rented my farm and moved to town to begin the task myself. In the spring of 1903 I published a booklet, which I presume you have all read, announcing the discovery. In December of the same year I began the publication of a monthly paper through which to teach my discoveries, and organized the people who learned them into a special society to teach them to the people until they are known and accepted by all our race. Then some people wrote to me saying that they had made the same discoveries, and some of the older ones claimed to have done so before I was born. Nothing pleased me better than to find such people except to find more of them. In justice to all claimants for the honor of making these great discoveries I then planed to find and enroll one thousand of them as original discoverers and organize them into a propaganda society to make them known and accepted by others so they would be perpetuated and save people the trouble of discovering them in order to know them. But after five years of diligent search by publication, and advertising in publications most likely to be read by such people, I concluded there were not so many people knowing the English language who had made these discoveries. I then reduced the limit to organize with to 250, and called for votes of the comrades on the place and time of holding their national organizing convention, and invited all over 21 years of age to attend the convention as delegates to formally incorporate and organize themselves into a propaganda society to make their discoveries known and accepted by all people. Owing to the great distance, old age of many, sickness of some and poverty of others only a few delegates could come to organize the society. And while I regret that more could not attend to participate in the work, yet the few who are here can fully represent the entire church membership and organize and incorporate them into a national propaganda society. Many have written to me expressing their deep regret at not being able to attend and take part in this convention. They expressed their hopes and wishes for harmony and success, and their confidence in the ability of the fortunate few who could attend to do the best thing for all. And so I caution you to remember while engaged in this organizing work that you represent all our absent comrades as well as yourselves in your votes on all questions. You will be expected to abide faithfully by the laws and rules you adopt, and fulfill every obligation you place on yourselves, and that you will not place any burdens on your absent comrades that you would not fulfill were you in their places. The duties you place on members should be uniform, but so graduated as to throw a proportional duty on all according to the financial ability of each. The duty placed upon you delegates by the society is now to be done. You are each entitled to express your views and vote on all questions that come before the convention. Observe the rules of order and decorum, talk to the subject, vote your best judgment and submit gracefully to majority rule if it goes against you."

Communications to the convention were then read. Committee on credentials was appointed and adjournment taken until 3 p. m.

At the second session Comrade Emil Fredrich was elected permanent chairman of the convention and William E. Gates permanent secretary.

Without going into the detail work of each session the following work was accomplished:

1. Articles of incorporation adopted and application for a charter, under the laws of Kansas, made to the state charter board, which is composed of the attorney-general, the secretary of state, and the state bank commissioner.

2. A constitution adopted and a board of directors elected to hold title in trust to the property of the Church of Humanity and have general supervision of its propaganda work.

The charter was received in due time and provides:

First—That the name of this corporation shall be The Church of Humanity.

Second—That the purposes for which this corporation is formed are to teach the two discoveries in Natural Science that no immaterial, intelligent beings exist in the universe and that individual, conscious life ceases forever at death; organize and charter local propaganda societies of people who learn them; publish a periodical and other literature teaching these discoveries; maintain a college for the preparation of teachers and instructors; provide and maintain lecturers and organizers; receive fees, dues, assessments, donations, endowments and bequests and administer the same for The Church of Humanity.

Third—That the place where its business is to be transacted is at Great Bend, Kansas.

Fourth—That the term for which this corporation is to exist is fifty years.

Fifth—That the number of directors of this corporation shall be seven and the names and residence of those appointed for the first year are: W. H. Kerr, Great Bend, Kan.; Mrs. Ella P. Hunt, Moline, Kan.; Mrs. Mary Belle Markel, Claflin, Kan.; J. O. C. Rathbun, Great Bend, Kan.; Emil Fredrich, Mt. Sterling, Ky.; John M. Herman, Scotia, Neb.

Sixth—That The Church of Humanity is not a stock company.

The preamble to the constitution reads:

"We, the undersigned citizens of the United States and, in a broader sense, of the world, representing the Church of Humanity in national delegate convention assembled, in order to teach systematically and efficiently the two discoveries in natural science, that no immaterial intelligent beings exist in the universe and that individual conscious life ceases forever at death, that our posterity in particular and the world in general may be rescued and preserved from the idolatry of fabulous Gods and the superstition of continuous conscious life, do ordain and establish this constitution for its guidance and government."

The constitution is very brief and reads as follows:

Constitution of The Church of Humanity.

ARTICLE I.

Name—The name of this educational society shall be The Church of Humanity.

ARTICLE II.

Object—The object of The Church of Humanity is to rescue and preserve the people from the idolatry of fabulous Gods and belief in conscious life surviving death by a systematic and efficient method of teaching them the two discoveries in natural science that immaterial intelligent beings do not exist in the universe, and that death is the permanent cessation of organic life.

ARTICLE III.

Membership—All people who learn the two discoveries that all Gods are myths and death the end of conscious life forever are eligible to membership in The Church of Humanity.

ARTICLE IV.

METHODS OF PROPAGANDA.

Section 1. To publish a periodical and other literature teaching the discoveries that all Gods are myths, and life ends at death.

Sec. 2. To provide and maintain

The Truth About God

Published monthly by the Church of Humanity.

Teaches the Scientific Discovery that God, Satan and Holy Ghost are Fabulous Beings; that Heaven and Hell are Myths and that Death is the Permanent Cessation of Life.

Entered at Great Bend Kan. postoffice as second class mail matter.

Subscription 25 cents a year. In bundles to Sunday Schools, Church organizations and church members for free distribution, 25 cents per 100 copies.

Remit by postoffice money order, coin or currency. Address all communications and orders to W. H. Kerr, 2210 Broadway, Great Bend, Kansas.

Success crowns the efforts of our comrades at organization.

Our church needs a printing press. Has any comrade a suitable one he would donate to it? And is there a comrade who is a printer and could come and operate it?

We have a charter for a 50-year educational campaign to begin with that will outlast most of us, but let us see how well we can push the work along while we do last.

The photographer had bad luck with the negatives taken for a group photograph of the delegates at the convention, and therefore will have none for the members who ordered them.

Our vice-president has written me several enthusiastic letters since he returned home. He is preparing to do field service as a lecturer and organizer for the church. That is what we need, and we will give him all the aid and encouragement we can.

We need a band of truth-sowers to buy and scatter our little publication by wholesale. Members of the band can get the papers at 25 cents per 100 copies. Three dollars will pay for 100 copies monthly for a year. How many of our comrades will join the band of truth-sowers? I would like to have a band of twenty-five members to begin with this issue.

There is so much interesting church history and reports in this issue that all members should desire to have this issue scattered far and wide. I shall have an extra lot printed in anticipation of a large demand for it from the comrades, and to fill the orders of a band of twenty-five truth-sowers that I hope will report for duty at once. They will not get a more interesting issue than this to begin with.

THE CHURCH OF HUMANITY.

lecturers and organizers to teach these discoveries and organize the people who learn them into local propaganda societies, and to provide, hold and maintain all buildings and real estate necessary for the business of this organization.

ARTICLE V.

METHODS OF FINANCING THE EDUCATIONAL WORK.

Section 1. A membership fee of one dollar shall be requested of all members.

Sec. 2. All members over sixteen years of age shall be requested to pay one dollar a year in advance into the national treasury of the church.

Sec. 3. Donations, endowments and bequests shall be solicited to carry on and expand the educational work of the church.

ARTICLE VI.

OFFICERS.

Section 1. The officers of The Church of Humanity shall be a president, vice-president and secretary-treasurer.

Sec. 2. It shall be the duty of the president to preside at all national conventions and perform all duties usually pertaining to such office.

Sec. 3. It shall be the duty of the vice-president to preside in the absence of the president.

Sec. 4. It shall be the duty of the secretary-treasurer to keep a record of all proceedings of the church, enroll the names of new members, issue certificates, attend to the official correspondence of the society, receive the funds of the church and disburse them on order of the proper authority and at the annual convention give a full report of all receipts and disbursements and turn over the books and funds on hand to his successor.

ARTICLE VII.

Board of Directors—A board of seven directors shall be elected at each annual convention in which the title to all the property of the national organization shall be held and which shall have general supervision of the propaganda work.

ARTICLE VIII.

Expenditures — The expenditures of the national organization shall be limited to the money in the treasury.

ARTICLE IX.

Annual Meeting—The Church of Humanity shall meet in national delegate convention annually at such time and place as previously determined by the board of directors.

ARTICLE X.

Amendments — This constitution may be amended at any national delegate convention of The Church of Humanity by two-thirds of the votes of the delegates present.

W. H. Kerr was elected president, Emil Fredrich vice-president and Mary Belle Markel secretary-treasurer. W. H. Kerr was elected chairman of the board of directors, and the convention adjourned, subject to call by the board of directors. The board then held an executive session and elected W. H. Kerr editor of the official paper, and W. H. Kerr, William E. Gates and Mrs. J. M. Herman a committee on literature. Owing to the distance to the central office (28 miles) and to her home duties as a farmer's wife, which made it impossible to do the duties required, Mrs. Markel resigned as secretary-treasurer. That will throw all the work on myself until some arrangements can be made to get a helper.

Financial Report.

The following report of receipts and expenditures covers the time from the beginning of the work of organizing the Church of Humanity in the spring of 1903 until the date of the convention, June 7, 1908:

RECEIPTS.

Realized on bequest of Comrade Charles Long, of Payson, Utah	$2,503.95
Subscription to publication	280.72
Donations to distribute papers	251.05
Membership fees	203.00
Interest	20.64
Total receipts	$3,259.36

DISBURSEMENTS.

Paid on college building	$2,000.00
Printing publication	1,021.98

So far as I am informed six members have died.

NEW MEMBERS.

Since last report the following comrades have united with the Church of Humanity:

243. J. O. C. Rathbun, Great Bend, Kan.

244. Mrs. Rathbun, Great Bend, Kan.

245. B. A. Plummer, Forest City, Iowa.

246. John W. Stapleton, Chula, Mo.

247. Robert Fuller, 2810 E. Roy street, Seattle, Wash.

248. Joseph A. Kimble, Vestal, N. Y.

249. F. R. Hallock, Nucla, Colo.

250. C. W. Mosher, Wichita, Kan.

251. H. C. Elliot, Liberty, La.

252. T. F. Chambard, Fayette, Ohio.

253. Henry Friehrer, 130 S. Hill street, Griffin, Ga.

254. Albert Gluck, 118 N. Park street, Saginaw, Mich.

255. J. A. Morrissey, Elmira, Ida.

256. Marion W. Marley, Bucklin, Kan.

This long list of new members is very encouraging indeed. They are not afraid or ashamed to let it be known that they have learned the great truths of Nature taught by this church. Why should any body be? Is it not a credit to be intelligent enough to learn the facts of Nature? Everybody admits it is. But where are the wives and children? The world never can be redeemed from idolatry and superstition until they, too, learn and accept the truths these men have.

Now, men, get busy and get those books I recommended in my circular letter, for your wives and older children to study so they can prepare themselves for membership. Then get your younger children into the two juvenile classes as I advised in same letter. I want at least 100 children enrolled in the junior and senior classes of the Church of Humanity as fast as I can enroll them and issue their certificates and send their presents.

Circular Letter to the Church of Humanity.

NO. 13.

Dear Comrades: I have the great pleasure of informing you that your national organizing convention was successful.

Three cheers for your delegates and the charter board of Kansas!

The Church of Humanity is now a national incorporated church, chartered by the State of Kansas, to teach the two greatest discoveries ever made in natural science, viz: That no immaterial, intelligent beings exist in the universe and that life ceases forever at death. This is a gigantic bound forward in science, civilization and progress. It advances the church 2,000 years and brings it up to date. Church teaching, as represented by the Church of Humanity, is now in line and in harmony with all the sciences. It has at last caught up with the world's material progress in discoveries and inventions. We have now a church the people can unite with without being superstitious idolaters. We have now a church people can help to build up in membership and power without dragging people back to the ignorance and superstition of the dark ages. At last we have a church founded on the truths of Nature as they actually exist and forever will exist. In this church all religion, worship and piety is eliminated, but truth, morality and all good qualities remain.

You deserve congratulations on your great achievement in founding this church. We are yet in the early morning of the twentieth century. Let us be up and doing our full duty as best we can in pushing forward the upbuilding of this church. What can we do to celebrate the victory of its founding in the best way in which all can take part? I suggest we celebrate by contributing a free-will offering of $2,000 to our church treasury to enable our board of directors to begin the propaganda work in all its departments. The board is to establish a publishing plant, employ field lecturers and organizers and get our preparatory college established as soon as it has the funds in the treasury to do so. The dollar a year dues of members will not be enough to do this, hence, I suggest the free-will offering of $2,000.00, as a celebration donation, to help finance the church work the first year and get it well started. I will donate half of it if the balance of you will give the other half. What is your answer to the proposition comrades? Ten of you could give $100 each without missing it. As a uniform basis for this free-will offering, I suggest each one donates a sum equal to his last year's taxes as the minimum of his contribution. That will let each celebrate the victory according to his financial ability. If that does not raise the $1,000, another chance can be given. Just send in your celebration amount with your first year's dues by return mail or a pledge to pay it on or before November 1, 1908, if you have not the cash now.

Now for the second move.

Let us establish two juvenile classes of our children at once and have all your young children enrolled in them. The junior class to include all children from one to ten years old. The senior class to include those between ten and fifteen. Suitable lessons and a catechism will be prepared for each class. The juniors will graduate in their class and enter the senior class at the age of ten. The seniors will graduate in their course of study and then enter into full church membership at fifteen. A column of our paper can be devoted to suitable reading lessons for each class. One of the ladies can be secured, perhaps, to teach these classes in our discoveries and prepare them for graduation and full membership in the church. Se application blank for enrollment in each class.

I ask you to apply for the enrollment of all your children under fifteen in these classes. Fill out the application for your children who are unable to do so, and induce the others to do so for themselves. If you have more than one child to be enrolled write out the application like the blank for the others. Enclose one dollar for each for enrollment and class certificate. I want to send each scholar enrolled a little present. Its money value will come out of my own pocket, and the dollar fee will go into our church treasury. Let us see how many we can have enrolled in each class by October 1st. I shall try to have the catechisms for each class out by that time. I ask any of you who wish to try your hand at writing out suitable catechisms for these classes to do so and submit them to me to place before the committee on literature and board of directors for inspection before August 15th. In my church report on the ages of members you will notice there are only 11 members under 20 years of age.

Now our church cannot possibly survive unless we manage to get the children of our own members into it. They are the ones we should all be most interested in teaching our discoveries to. These two classes will remedy this defect and you should by all means get your children enrolled in them and have them taught these discoveries while quite young. The first thing they are taught about God and life should be the truth. Then they may not depart therefrom.

Another fatal defect in that report is the preponderance of men. In order to survive, as a church teaching truth, we must bring the number of women up to that of the men. The mother is the parent who generally teaches the child the errors about God and life and lays the foundation of the idolatrous and superstitious life of the people. Hence we must win the mothers of our race to know and accept the discovered truths our church teaches so they can teach them to the children in place of the errors. The problem is how to win the wives of our members and get them into the church. We know the process must be to teach them the evidence that proves our discoveries true. As the Bible is believed by most women to be the production of a God, and, therefore, proof of the existence of such a being, and of life surviving death, the truth about it should be learned by them. The best work I know of now to overthrow the Bible as a God-book is "The Bible," by Remsburg. It is a cloth-bound book of 490 pages and contains eleven chapters on the authenticity of the Bible; thirteen on the credibility of the Bible; ten on the morality of the Bible, with an appendix of unanswerable arguments proving it the work of man. Price $1,25 a copy. Each family should have a copy of this book, and each member of the family able to read should read and study it thoroughly. Our church may adopt it as the best work so far published to dispel the belief in the Bible being a God-book. Comrades whose wives and children are not members should by all means get this work for them to read and study. The origin and development of vegetable and animal life and the meaning of death are the greatest puzzles to the people, and for want of a true, scientific explanation of them they accept the erroneous God-idea that make them superstitious idolaters. The best scientific works on these subjects I know of to give your wives and children information on these important subjects are Ernest Haeckel's two books: "The Wonders of Life" and "The Riddle of the Universe." They are cloth-bound books of 484 and 390 pages respectively. Price $1.50 each. "The Wonders of Life" is divided into four parts—Knowledge of Life, Nature of Life, Functions of Life and History of Life. The twenty chapters in these four divisions are entitled: Truth, Life, Miracles, The Science of Life, Death, Plasm, Unities of Life, Forms of Life, Monera, Nutrition, Reproduction, Movement, Sensation, Mental Life, The Origin of Life, The Evolution of Life, The Value of Life, Morality, Dualism and Monism. The titles of the twenty chapters in "The Riddle of the Universe" are: The Nature of the Problem, Our Bodily Frame, Our Life, Our Embryonic Development, The History of Our Species, The Nature of the Soul, Psychic Gradations, the Embryology of the Soul, The Phylogeny of the Soul, Consciousness, The Immortality of the Soul, The Law of Substance, The Evolution of the World, The Unity of Nature, God and the World, Knowledge and Belief, Science and Christianity, Our Monistic Religion, Our Monistic Ethics and Solution of the World Problems.

There are a few statements in each of these books I do not indorse, but in the main they are in harmony with our discoveries and go a long ways in proving them true. I believe if the wives of our members would study these three books they would be prepared to believe the teaching of our church and would unite with it and help to get the children enrolled in its two classes. I strongly recommend getting these three books for your wives and children to study. If ordered at one time I can furnish them for $4. We want the wives and children of our men to unite with them in the Church of Humanity. But they cannot do that until they learn that its teaching is true. It is the duty of you men to provide the books that help to prove these truths for your families to study, and I hope you will take a pleasure in doing so. We all want increased membership in our church, and those of our own household are the ones we are most anxious to have join it. We want no broken families if we can help it.

The above three movements will be enough for you to undertake in one month. But we should have some general rules to guide us in other matters, relating especially to our church propaganda work. Here are five general rules we should be guided by all the time:

1. We should not abuse idolaters, by word or writing, on account of their ignorance of the truth about God and life.

2. We should not join, aid nor allow our children to attend any society that teaches there is a God and that life survives death, or that makes a belief in such errors a requirement of membership.

3. We should not have the services of the clergy or any religious ceremonies at a wedding or a funeral in our families.

4. We should try to be good, intelligent citizens and teach our children to be such.

5. We should aid financially and personally in the upbuilding and maintenance of the Church of Humanity.

Let us all be guided by the above five rules and I think we will get along nicely among ourselves and our Christian neighbors. Those are general rules to guide us all by, but here are some special rules of detail that are very important to be followed in our church work:

1. Each lone church member and one in each family of members should, by all means, subscribe for the official church paper to keep in active, interested membership, and subscription should be kept paid in advance.

2. Notify me promptly of any change in address.

3. If any wish to resign their membership in the church, return the certificates of graduation and membership and state reasons for resigning.

4. If any have complaints to make against the church in general, or any of its officers, make them to me by personal letter.

5. Make arrangements with a friend to notify me in case of your death, and give particulars.

If you can all remember to put in force these five special rules it will save lots of expense and labor at this office.

Now, comrades, let us all get to work togther and do our church duties to the best of our ability and see what we can accomplish in a year.

Remember all I have asked you to do in this circular letter and try to do it and our church will have a great revival, resulting in a large increase of members.

THOUSANDS OF WITNESSES FOR THE CHURCH OF HUMANITY.

No line of evidence to prove that God is only a myth is so easily taught and understood as the daily evidence that nobody is cared for in the least by such a being. Nothing can weaken the fanatical worship of idolaters quicker than to know they are not at all known by the idol they worship.

People can only love, fear and worship an idol when they believe that idol knows, loves and cares for them. When they once find out that their idol does not know them and is impotent to harm or help them, they lose both fear and love for it and cease its worship. The worship of hundreds of idols have been abandoned on that account. The worship of God will be also, as people learn that he is only a creation of fiction unable to know, love, harm or care for those who worship him and believe him a reality.

Here are thousands of witnesses that prove clearer than words can tell that the God they believed existed and worshiped is nothing in reality but a man-made character. Had he been a real being the following list of his supposed children would be alive to tell of his loving, watchful care over them. But it remains for the living to tell of the misplaced belief, love and confidence in the idols of their dead brethren. So long as they lived they could tell and believe that a God was loving and protecting their lives from extinguishment, and offer themselves as evidence of the truth of their statement.

The Church of Humanity is teaching the discovery that the Gods of these people are not realities and therefore cannot know, love, or protect them. It now offers themselves, with contradiction by them, as evidence of the truths it teaches.

FATAL EXPLOSIONS.

St. Louis, June 25.—Six people are believed to have lost their lives in the explosion of the Midget.

Chicago, June 25.—Six persons were burned to death and six fatally injured by an explosion in a building occupied by a chemical company.

Yuzovka, Russia, July 3.—An explosion of gas in the Rikovsky mine killed 100 miners who were at work.

Imlay City, Mich., June 23.—A boiler explosion kills 3.

FATAL WRECKS.

Knobnoster, Mo., July 2.—Five persons were killed near here in a train wreck.

Utica, N. Y., July 4.—Four of the trainmen were killed in a collision of trains near Boonville.

Oakland, Cal., July 4.—At least six people were killed in a train collision in this city.

Corunna, Spain, June 26.—The Spanish steamer La Roche went on the rocks in a fog near Muros yesterday and 133 of its crew and passengers, including 17 women, were drowned.

MASSACRES.

Seoul, Korea, July 8.—Nearly 1,000 Koreans have been murdered by insurgents within the last few months.

Berlin, June 23.—A dispatch from Teheran, Persia, says eight hundred Persians, men, women and children, publicans and soldiery, were killed there in the bloodiest massacre of the century.

VICTIMS OF HEAT, FLOODS AND LIGHTNING.

Chicago, June 23. — Twelve deaths, due to heat prostrations, were recorded in Chicago today.

New York, July 3.—Eight deaths from excessive heat were reported before 11 o'clock today.

Wellington, Kan., June 29.—Four people were drowned here owing to a sudden rise in Cargis creek, caused by a cloud burst.

Clinton, Minn., June 28.—Seven people were killed here yesterday by a tornado—two churches were destroyed.

El Paso, Tex., July 2.—A train ran into a washout at Boracho, Tex., and several people are reported killed.

Mankato, Minn., June 28.—Three young people were drowned in a flood caused by the overflow of the river here.

Topeka, Kan., June 28.—Five persons are reported drowned in different parts of the state.

Lincoln, Neb., July 8.—Five lives were lost in the flood here, caused by heavy rains.

Victoria, B. C., July 2.—Six hundred persons have been drowned in a storm off Java, according to advices received here today by the steamer, Empress, of China. The disaster occurred in the harbor of Batavia, when a terrific storm struck suddenly. A large number of loaded vessels were in the harbor at the time and many were capsized, throwing their passengers into the water where many were eaten by sharks.

Guthrie, Okla., June 22.—About 100 persons have lost their lives in Oklahoma by drowning and other causes due to the recent flood season.

La Plata, Mo., July 2.—Three men were killed here by a bolt of lightning, while working on a building.

China, Tex., July 4.—While shaking hands with a convert, the Rev. T. H. Feagin, who was conducting a revival service here, was struck and killed by a bolt of lightning last night. "God bless you, brother, and preserve"—were his last words. Mr. Feagin was one of the most prominent Baptist ministers in Texas, and for the last week has been conducting a revival service in the Baptist church. He had just finished his sermon and had called on the sinners to come forward and repent, when a rain and electrical storm of great violence broke forth. The preacher was shaking hands with the persons who had answered his appeal and came forward to the mourners' bench. As he grasped the hand of one of the converts and uttered his blessing, the youth moved away to make room for those behind him. Before the minister could finish the sentence or release his hold on the outstretched hand the bolt came. It penetrated the roof of the edifice, tearing away part of the covering and wrecking the pulpit. The pastor dropped to the floor without a word and the convert was stunned. Others were thrown to the floor, but none were seriously hurt. The lightning tore the paper from one wall of the church in irregular strips, but did not set the building on fire.

I abreviated all these accounts, to save space, except the last one, which I give in full detail. I want all to know that no amount of idolatry of a myth-God can possibly lessen the liability to fatal accidents. Millions of people are made idolaters of a myth-God through the false teaching that they will receive protection from harm from that God. Here is direct objective proof that no one is known by any such a being, and that such a being as a God does not exist in reality.

If we could all go to some newfound island, and the natives would tell us there was a being on that island, named Jumbo, who fed clothed and protected from harm all who loved and worshiped him, we would want to make his acquaintance the first thing. We would ask for an introduction to Jumbo at once, that we might make a personal contract with him for his services. The natives would then direct us to their hired teachers, called clergymen, whose special duty it was to introduce newcomers to Jumbo. We would then all go to the clergyman as directed, wondering how Jumbo looked, talked and acted. When we arrived at the parsonage and made our desires known the clergyman would explain that Jumbo was a "gaseous vertebrate" whose presence we could not detect with any of our senses, we could neither see, hear, taste, smell nor feel him, but that he was right there all the same ready for business, and had recently appointed him as his spokesman, as he himself was unable to talk. That explanation would, of course, be quite disappointing and we would naturally wonder how Jumbo could have the ability to feed, clothe and protect us from harm and be unable to talk to us or show himself. But with hunger urging us to business, a dangerous looking storm approaching, the cries of wild animals in the distance, venemous reptiles lurking around and night coming on we would stop theorizing and ask for Jumbo's terms. The hired agent would then announce the kind of a contract Jumbo demanded and that we were to fulfill our part first, which was that we should fall on our knees, bow our heads, shut our eyes and praise Jumbo for his greatness and goodness, ask him for what we wanted and thank him in advance for granting it. We would all get busy at once on our part of the deal. The hungrier we got and the nearer danger approached the louder would be our praise and thanks and the more humble and earnest would be our requests for Jumbo to do his part. In the course of time some one, through sheer desperation at intolerable conditions, would timidly open his eyes, raise his head and get up to look around. He would see a sad sight. Many of his comrades would be dead from starvation and exposure to the elements and wild animals and poisonous reptiles. Then when he saw the clergyman lying dead from a stroke of lightning his suspicions that Jumbo was a myth would be confirmed. He would call to his comrades who were yet alive to get up and provide for themselves food, shelter and protection, as he had discovered that Jumbo was a myth. A few who had begun to have doubts and suspicions themselves would begin timidly to arise and join the first one. They would finally agree in the discovery that Jumbo was a pure creation of fiction and would band together to employ some of their number to make their discovery known to the natives and especially to the newcomers that they need not be fooled as they had been.

Now this earth is the supposed island, God the Jumbo, children the newcomers and the Church of Humanity the discoverer. The above fatalities convinces us that God is a creation of fiction and we have organized to employ teachers to make that discovery known and accepted. We wish the newcomers especially to learn this discovery as soon as they are able to learn anything so they will not be fooled by the idolaters of Jumbo as we were. The Church of Humanity should get its own children into its two juvinile classes as soon as they are a year old. All under 15 should be enrolled at once in these classes. We are not able yet to arouse many from the idolatry of Jumbo, but we should make a desperate effort to save our own children from it. Nothing can do that but the teaching of our discoveries to them, and they must be organized into classes and suitable lessons given each class my competent teachers to do it. A knowledge of these discoveries will save the world from much misery. Nations and races and tribes would no longer quarrel and fight over what they believed a God wished them to do. People would no longer expose themselves to famine and dangers of all kinds, expecting a God to aid them when needed. No parent would then consign his child to the care of a God, but would help to make political and industrial conditions favorable for the welfare of all and teach him to rely on himself and the co-operation with others for the necessaries and luxuries of life.

These recorded fatalities tell the story of God's mythical nature as plainly as any language can to those who can understand their true significance and application to the God-idea. Through the study of this evidence we can absolutely know that we and our race are not known by any God. A being who does not know of the existence of our race would not have the attributes necessary to make it a God. Hence the three primary attributes necessary to the make-up of a God are themselves mythical. These fatalities prove them to be. There was no all-powerful, all-wise and ever-present being in the vicinity of any of these fatalities. Hence, no being exists with those attributes. Since no God exists to care for man, we know that death means the same for him as it does for other animals. A very large portion of the people agree with the Church of Humanity as to its meaning in their case.

VOL. 2, No. 8. GREAT BEND, KANSAS, AUGUST, 1908. WHOLE No. 32.

THOUSANDS OF WITNESSES FOR THE CHURCH OF HUMANITY.

No. 2.

People have populated the ether about them with imaginary immaterial intelligent beings named Gods, Devils, Ghosts, Angels, Saints and Spirits. They have assigned those gaseous vertebrates different duties, attributes and powers. Some imagine their very thoughts, ideas and actions to be forced on them by such beings. They imagine some of those myths are good and others wicked, that some plot their ruin and destruction while others seek to save and protect them from harm. They imagine a continual warfare carried on by those myths for the possession of an imaginary thing they think they have, namely "souls."

It is the mission of the Church of Humanity to show the people that the blue sky is perfectly clear and free from such beings, that they are only imaginary and do not exist at all in reality. We can convince a child there is no such a being as Santa Claus at the north pole who presents it with Xmas toys without taking the child to the north pole to do it. We simply demonstrate to it that other parties present the toys and that if they do not it gets none. Likewise it is not at all necessary to visit all the suns and planets in the universe to know that Gods do not exist. Nor is it necessary to die to find out if there are unseen beings in existence or that conscious life ceases at death. We simply demonstrate by several methods that the blue sky is not inhabited by unseen intelligent beings. One good method is the application of our five senses. We can neither hear, see, smell, taste or feel any such beings even when sight and hearing are reinforced by the most powerful mechanical aids. Second test. By chemical and mechanical processes the air can be materialized and all its ingredients found by chemical analysis and no such beings are found in it. Third test. When a flying machine gets wrecked, though a mile high, the passengers will come tumbling down like so much old junk. There is no unseen friend or enemy to help or harm any of them regardless of their beliefs or professions. Fourth test. When people are perishing in a desert no unseen beings come to aid or harm them regardless of their prayers or curses. Fifth test. When people get shipwrecked at sea no unseen beings come to aid or harm them regardless of their piety or wickedness, prayers or curses. Sixth test. Where people die unknown they are left there to be devoured by animals and insects or decomposed by the action of the elements regardless of their life-long love or hatred of those imaginary beings. Seventh test. Hundreds of people die every year unknown to their relatives and friends, but no unseen beings inform their parents of their fate in answer to their fervent prayers to do so. Eighth test. No unseen beings have the power to make their existence known to man or they would make themselves known to the members of the Church of Humanity and thereby stop the teaching of their non-existence. Ninth test. When people are fighting and warring over what they imagine unseen beings wish done no unseen beings ever inform them which is right or make their wishes known so the war can be called off. Tenth test. Any crazy religious fanatic can declare he has been authorized by unseen beings to commit any crime, and to compel all others to do the same on penalty of death and carry out his plans if he can get enough to aid him, and no unseen being will deny it or contradict the madman. Eleventh test. The perpetual conflict between scientific facts and religious errors prove that no unseen intelligent beings exist or they would have had religions all in harmony with each other and with the truths of Nature. Twelfth test. The fate of the creators and worshipers of these gaseous vertebrates prove them to be just what they really are —creations of fiction. That explains why they cannot and do not aid their creators in time of need. God and Jesus Christ are the names of two of these man-created myths. No one need take my word or that of any member of the Church of Humanity for evidence that these myths do not aid their creators and worshipers in any way whatever. I ask that you take their own evidence when they will not contradict it. You, reader, may disbelieve this evidence and deny it. But there will come a time when you, too, will furnish our church with positive evidence that the myths you now love and worship never knew of your existence because they do not exist themselves in reality. Then you will not contradict us any more than the witnesses do whom we now introduce to prove they were not known nor loved nor cared for by the idols they loved and worshiped.

Winnipeg, Aug. 9.—Six passengers and two of the crew of the steamer Premier lost their lives when that vessel burned to the waters edge at Warrens Landing.

Berne, Switzerland, July 25.—Twenty-five men were killed today in an accident in the Leetschberg tunnel, in the Bernese Alps.

Christiania, Norway, July 24.—Twenty passengers are believed to have drowned as a result of a collision between two ships wherein one was cut through amidships and sank in a few moments.

Boston, July 20.—Eight persons lost their lives yesterday by drowning in this vicinity.

Hamburg, Aug. 7.—The bodies of twenty sailors, the crew of the British steamer Kirkwell, were found today in the wreckage of the steamer which sank yesterday.

Chadron, Neb., June 28.—Five persons were killed in a train wreck forty miles from here as a result of washout caused by a cloudburst.

Rochester, N. Y., August 13.—Twenty persons are reported drowned as the result of a collision between two steamers at the entrance to Charlotte harbor on lake Ontario.

Great Falls, Mont., Aug. 16.—Five men were killed today in a premature explosion at the Bright quarries, 40 miles south of here.

Evansville, Ind., Aug. 11.—Three deaths are reported here as a result of the terrific rain and hailstorm which swept southern Indiana late yesterday.

Pottsville, Pa., July 15.—Seven miners were killed by an explosion of gas in the Williamstown colliery today.

Valencia, Aug. 6.—In a boiler explosion in an iron factory today five workmen were killed.

Paris, Aug. 6.—It is now believed that 1,000 people perished in the earthquake at Constantine, Algeria, and neighboring towns in the effected region.

Boston, Mass., July 3.—Sixty-two persons were killed in automobile accidents during the past year.

Tolon, Aug. 12.—Six persons were killed by a gun exploding.

About 10,000 people were killed on American railways in the year ending June 30, 1907.

In 1900 the United States census reported that 57,513 were killed in industrial accidents that year.

For 117 years ending 1906 there were killed in the coal mines of this country 22,840 people.

The Chicago health department has issued a map on the death of children under two years of age showing that 408 died of intestinal diseases in Chicago during the month of July.

Each one of the above recorded fatalities is a guarantee that God and Jesus Christ and all the guardian angels and all other imaginary aerial inhabitants are just what our church has discovered them to be—non-existant, unreal, imaginary, creatures of fancy, fabulous. Since such creatures do not exist in reality we are profoundly glad to have discovered that truth. We are glad to know the great blue sky is clear and pure and free from such horrid monsters, that there are no vile sleuths there, no vile, immaterial Pinkertons there to lead people into crimes to gloat over their punishment.

The "recording angel" is not there. He is a pure creation of fiction. Any being having the ability to record an act would have the power to warn these victims of danger in time to save them. Any such creature who cared for the existence and welfare of people in the imagined future world would care for them in this real world.

The "guardian angel" is not in the sky. He, too, is a pure creation of fiction. Most of these victims had been taught, and believed the teaching, that such an angel guarded them from harm since infancy. So long as they were alive they could believe their lives were so guarded. But now we who are living can see that the guardian angel was not on duty when he was most needed and that proves clearly he never was; the victims only thought he was. But those false thoughts did not save them. Why, then, should we have such false ideas at all. Are we not better off without them? Then we will not depend on an imaginary defender to save us from the fate of these victims, but will know we must keep out of danger as much as possible, and must, when in danger, depend entirely on ourselves and our fellow beings for a rescue.

The Jesus Christ who is believed to be a lover of children is not an inhabitant of the sky or anything else. He is a pure creation of fiction, like Santa Claus. Each one of the 408 dead babes recorded here is a reliable witness to prove this truth. I accept the evidence they now furnish as sufficient rebuttal evidence to overthrow that of their ignorant mothers who declare that Jesus loves their children. Their fate is not that of a pet of some being able to prevent it. It proves clearly they were not known at all by any such a being. Hence it is self-evident the being supposed to know them named Christ is a myth. People believe the fable of the resurrection and assension of a mentally unbalanced Jew, who is reported to have said: "Suffer little children, and forbid them not, to come unto me; for of such is the kingdom of heaven." That Jew could not save himself when in the prime of manhood from an ignominious death at the hands of a mob of religious hoodlums. How then could he save anyone else from anything when he is dead? Whether that particular Jesus is a real historical character or not is of no importance whatever. The important things to know are that he did not survive death with consciousness, and that he does not exist now as a living entity, and that the Jesus Christ worshiped by idolaters is a pure creation of fiction, like his reputed God-father.

Each death recorded here proves him to be only a fabulous character, like Santa Claus. That imagined gaseous vertebrate named God, who is represented as the great aerial Pinkerton sleuth, is a pure creation of fiction. Every decent person

UNION LABEL

A Message to the General Public.

To all people of earth, a friendly greeting: Representing the Church of Humanity as its president I wish all who hear of it to understand clearly its teaching and object and to that end make the following statements to the public:

1. The Church of Humanity is a national society duly incorporated under the laws of Kansas and composed of people who have made the discovery that immaterial, intelligent beings do not exist in the universe, and that conscious, individual life ceases forever at death.

2. These are the greatest discoveries ever made in natural science and prove conclusively that all Gods, Devils and Holy Ghosts are fictitious, heaven and hell myths, and death the end of life forever.

3. The teaching and acceptance of these discoveries are necessary to win the people from the idolatry of imaginary Gods and the superstition of continuous individual life and a resurrection of the dead.

4. The Church of Humanity is an educational society for the teaching of these discoveries to the people and organizing them into local churches. It invites all people to unite with it and aid in the propaganda work as soon as they learn these discoveries.

5. We guarantee that a knowledge and acceptance of these discoveries will raise the general level of good citizenship in all countries; increase the value of human life; promote peace, happiness and tranquility among all people of earth and increase their perception of the beauty and grandeur of Nature.

6. It is not our desire to destroy any church, educational, charitable or fraternal society, but to induce them all to accept and teach these discoveries in place of the errors that make the people superstitious idolaters.

7. It is our intention to teach the evidence that proves these discoveries true in a gentlemanly way, free from abuse of societies and their members and teachers engaged in teaching errors, and we ask only a like considerate treatment for our society, members and teachers.

8. We guarantee that there will not be the slightest change in Nature and its processes or any of the elements on account of the people learning and accepting these discoveries. The origin and destiny of human beings will continue to be just as they have been all the time. We in no manner change them.

9. We do not destroy, nor dethrone nor take away from the people a real God, but we simply discovered that no real God exists, or ever did exist, and we give the people this scientific truth in place of the untruth handed down by our ignorant, superstitious ancestors. Neither do we rob any one of life beyond the grave, but we simply discovered that life ceases there forever, and we give the people this scientific truth in place of the untruth they had been taught. Death will continue to be what it always has been, but we will know its true meaning.

10. Good citizenship and moral ethics will be taught by our authorized teachers, as this church is as anxious for all people to be good citizens as any other church or society.

11. We invite all people to investigate our claims, hear our authorized teachers and study the evidence we submit to prove our discoveries true, and when they are convinced, then ask their church to teach them in place of errors, and if it refuses to do so then unite with the Church of Humanity where they will be given a glad welcome.

W. H. Kerr.

An Improper Legal Phrase.

In a contract between this city and its water company regarding a new franchise occurs this clause in section eleven: "In the event that the grantee shall suffer a suspension of the supply of water for a period of thirty days, then in any such case, the city council of said city may by resolution declare all rights of the grantee under this ordinance forfeited, unless such suspension be caused by the act of God."

Now, if instead of "the act of God" it had said "the act of Santa Claus" everybody would have laughed and then insisted on it being "cut out" to save the city's reputation for intelligence. To the very few people in the world who have learned the discovery that God is nothing but a creation of fiction, like Santa Claus, it is as disgraceful as it would have been had the name of any other myth been used. But the intelligence of Great Bend will not be challenged by many on that account, owing to the ignorance of the people in believing God to be a real entity. Should a cyclone destroy the water works it would be no more "the act of God" than the act of Santa Claus. With all the intelligence of our age people believe the ancient heathen ideas that the elements are operated by an intelligent being, as a machine is operated by a man, and that through their idolatry they can influence the operator to control the elements to their advantage. People will continue to incorporate their ignorance, idolatry and superstition in their legal documents until the Church of Humanity teaches them its discoveries that no Gods exist in reality and that life ceases forever at death.

Comrades, get your children enrolled in the junior and senior classes of the Church of Humanity, and have them taught its discoveries so they will not incorporate obsolete ideas in their legal domucents, when it comes their time to write them, that proclaim their ignorance, idolatry and superstition. You should consider it worth money to you to give your children the necessary teaching to enable them to write up a city ordinance free from superstition. The citizens of Great Bend may think that the proviso, "unless prevented by the act of God," should be inserted or understood, in all their deals, owing to the national office of the Church of Humanity being located here that might mark it for the special vengeance of that myth. I wish to assure them that they need have no fears whatever on that ground. I guarantee no God will interfere with their business in any manner whatever. Of course, babies will be born in Great Bend the same as in other cities, but none of them will be due to "the act of God." People will also die, but no death will be due to "the act of God." We will have seasons of heat and cold, drouth and surplus moisture, short crops and good crops, business depression and prosperity, but we will have nothing due to "the act of God." Great Bend is no more liable to be damaged by the elements than any other town similarly situated. It is no more liable to be damanged by an earthquake than any other town in this part of the country. If it should be it would not be caused by any God. People who desired to know the true cause would ask the geologists and scientists instead of the clergy. I doubt if all the clergy would attribute it to a God. I have a better estimate of the intelligence of some of them than to believe they would. Perhaps even the "colored brethren" would hardly risk their reputation for intelligence so far as to affirm that it was due to a God who wished to punish the town on account of it allowing the national office of the Church of Humanity to be located in it. Traveling evangelists and the lower intellectual grades of the clergy and people would doubtless use such an incident to scare the people of other places into their churches and to prejudice them against the Church of Humanity by attributing it to "the act of God" on account of the town tolerating this church. But the most intelligent portion of an adult audience of idolaters might question the goodness and wisdom of a God who would destroy a dozen churches they believed his friends to punish one they believed his enemy, especially when they believed their God had the power to make his existence known to the enemy church in a way it would understand without punishing any one. They would know that natural phenomena with natural causes back of it would convince no intelligent person of the existence of a God. They would be liable to suspect that Great Band tolerated the Church of Humanity on account of the general intelligence of its citizens instead of its wickedness the clergy would have them believe was the cause. Hundreds of people have learned, and thousands more are learning, the discoveries from the Church of Humanity that God is a myth and life ends at death. These thousands of people are scattered over the United States. No place where any of them live has had anything happen that is not liable to happen elsewhere. So no one need have the least fear of a God harming them in any way on account of having these people as neighbors, or on any other account. In all cases use the phrase "the action of the elements" instead of "the act of God" if you do not wish to be considered a "back number" by up-to-date people. The elements are not a God, neither are they "created," directed or controlled by an intelligence in or back of them. Get your children enrolled in the junior and senior classes of the Church of Humanity where they can be taught the truth about these subjects and be saved the disgrace of making such mistakes when they grow up as attributing anything to "the act of God."

COMMENTS.

"Chicago, Ill., Aug. 9.—A ten-million-year-old 'bull-dog' fish is the latest discovery of scientists at the University of Chicago: Prof. Samuel W. Williston, head of the university paleontology department, who found the specimen in the bed of the Smoky Hill river in Kansas, placed it on exhibition yesterday at the Walker museum." This fish story will be read on Sunday right after the Bible story of creation and adults will solemnly believe both true without cracking a smile at the little discrepancy of at least 9,994,000 years in the age of the earth, as shown by the two stories.

While Singleton W. Davis is waiting for a God to tell him there is no such a being as a God, and a dead man to rise up in his grave and tell him he is dead and intends to remain so, without which evidence he cannot learn those truths nor believe anyone else can, the Church of Humanity discovered them without such evidence and is teaching them right along.

And, although the Church of Humanity is a national organization with over 250 members, and is formally incorporated and chartered to teach the scientific discoveries in Nature that no Gods exist and that conscious life ends forever at death, yet he declares such discoveries an impossibility without the evidence of the aforesaid witnesses. That is, he knows just as John Smith did when he figured out some years ago that no steamer could be built large enough to carry coal enough to last it while crossing the ocean, when practical men were then doing that very thing.

Well! well! What a difference is noted in the treatment of a modern mother of a "Messiah" and one who lived nearly 2,000 years ago. The ancient one is called "Holy Mary Mother of God" and worshiped by millions as a saint of the first magnitude. The modern one is Mrs. Grace Goodsall, of New York. She branded her six-year-old son George on the forehead and throat with a hot iron. When questioned by the hospital authorities as to her motive she said her son was "the long-looked-for Messiah of the Jews," and that she wanted to brand him so he would be known, marked, and distinct from others for life. But the wise men of the east did not bow down and worship the child. No, indeed! They were too smart to be humbugged this time. The news item says they put her in the psychopathic ward for observation because they believed her intense religious mania has driven her temporarily insane. How discouraging that is for mothers to have Messiahs in this age, and what a pity it is that the authorities didn't get wise to the game two thousands years ago.

Circular Letter to the Church of Humanity.

NO. 14.

DEAR COMRADES: By special arrangements with the publishers I can now furnish you the three books, Remsburg's Bible, Heackel's "Wonders of Life" and "The Riddle of the Universe," if ordered at one time, for $3. I described these books in last issue and urged you who do not have them to get them. The one knocks out the Bible completely as a God-book. The other two will give yourself and family such scientific information on the origin, development and evolution of vegetable and animal life that is needed to show their natural origin without the services of a God. John E. Remsburg is a thorough Bible critic, and Ernest Heackel is a professor at the University of Jena, Germany, and is one of the greatest, if not the greatest, living scientist. They both have gained and compiled very important knowledge in their respective lines of investigation that should be known by all people. Their teaching helps to prove the discoveries taught by our church and is why I urge the purchase and study of their books. I have concluded to enroll your children free in our juvenile classes and withdraw the offer of a present to each. When answering the recent circular sent you send $3 for the books. Send in your children's applications for membership in the two juvenile classes without the dollar fee. I shall pay for their class certificates out of our church treasury.

Now, comrades, remember we are organized into a society so we can all help in unison and system in the propaganda of the two great discoveries in Nature we made. We can all help in this great work now as easily as if we were all living in one village. I hope each one of you will answer promptly the recent circular I mailed you. Pay your subscription to the church paper according to statement of account. Pay your church dues promptly. Enroll your children under 15 years of age in our juvenile classes so that suitable lessons in our discoveries can be prepared for each class. If you need more blank class membership applications let me know. I will furnish them on application. Send in your celebration donation at once so the board of directors can use it in the propaganda work. They can do nothing until you put the money in your treasury for them to work with. Remember as soon as you put in $1,000 I will put in another thousand. You should not want me to do all the work free and pay more than all of you combined into our church treasury. You see that would be unfair. Besides, I cannot do any good without your co-operation in active help and pay. No teaching, however important, can be carried on without the use of money, and the money must come from those wanting the teaching done. The teaching of our discovered truths cannot be done without field lecturers and organizers. We have to put up the money for their services if we wish it. You can see that all parties and denominations use that plan in propaganda work. We must use it, too, if we wish the people to know the discoveries we have made.

How about that band of truth-sowers I called for last month? Don't you want other people to learn the discoveries we have made? Well, they can't do it unless we who know teach them. Not one of you offered to join this band yet. Why can't twenty-five of you order 100 copies each monthly for your neighbors? It would cost you only $3 a year. You would never miss the money. What greater good could you do with it? Do not expect results too soon. It will take years of constant teaching to get these truths to germinate in most minds, and then more years before they will begin to bear fruit in active aid in their promulgation. Keep dealing out these truths perpetually to the people and they will lodge and take root in most minds in time. Let us have a bundle brigade of twenty-five members to start with next month. Let me hear from each comrade who got my circular letter of August 1. I will get very much discouraged if you do not give me active aid and support in the work, because I know I can do nothing without it, and that our organization will fail if its members do not keep it up and progressing by active work. We have made such a good start it would be a pity to give up the work when it is so badly needed. No one can be saved from being a superstitious idolater without a knowledge of our discoveries, not even our own children. Let your aid be in proportion as you value the rescue and preservation of your children and others from superstition and idolatry.

Getting Nearer to Truth.

Nothing more illustrates the progress of our race than the gradual abandonment of the superstitions for the scientific reasons for natural events. This was clearly brought out by the number of people who accepted the scientific reasons in place of the superstitious reason for the earthquake at San Francisco. The superstitious reason for it was that a God had destroyed the city by that method as a punishment for its wickedness. Not many idolaters even accepted that explanation as the true one. They knew that San Francisco was not more wicked than hundreds of other cities; that there were good people and children there who suffered as much as the wicked; that churches were destroyed as impartially as other buildings, and that such an explanation was an insult to the citizens who escaped and a libel on those who perished. The action of idolaters themselves gave the lie to that theory. Had they actually believed it they would have worked in harmony with the desire of their supposed God, and instead of sending train loads of provision, money and clothing to save those who escaped the vengence of their God they would have sent an army to complete the slaughter desired and begun by him. They would have helped him to carry out his will instead of trying to thwart it. But had the few who accepted that explanation attempted it they would have been shot down by the great majority who accepted the scientific reasons. Those reasons have been expressed as follows: "The cause of earthquakes and volcanic eruptions is not entirely clear, but the consensus of opinion among the geologists and scientists of the day is to the effect that they are due to two causes, the contraction of the earth's crust and the action of water. As the earth, formerly in a gaseous, then in a liquid state, cooled down more and more, the thin, solid crust on its surface contracted, causing cracks and crevices of enormous length, through which the liquid rock was squeezed up, forming the ridges of many mountain chains, and such rocks as the Palisades along the Hudson. Such crevices are even now in constant formation. Wherever water trickles through and comes in contact with the fiery, liquid rock, steam generates in enormous quantities. As long as this steam is surrounded by rock of a solidity great enough to withstand its pressure nothing happens; but when the pressure becomes too great an explosion occurs, such as is witnessed in volcanic eruptions. Earthquakes may be caused by a caving in of a great hollow below the earth's surface, or by a partial expansion of a large body of steam underground."

Millions of idolaters accept these scientific reasons in place of the superstitious one given by their ancestors. This is not an evidence that the people are drifting back to heathenism and idolatry, but that they are gradually being educated out of it. Not many idolaters claim that those who accept the scientific reasons for earthquakes are more wicked and ignorant than those who accept the superstitious reason for them.

One after another of the natural events are attributed to natural causes instead of the arbitrary whim of a God. I believe there are now sound scientific reasons for nearly all things and events in the universe, and that when those reasons are taught to the people they will abandon the superstitious reasons entirely. Then they will abandon the false God and immortality ideas which form the base of those false reasons. Things not yet fully understood must be solved with all Gods eliminated. That elimination does not, of course, solve the problems, but it simplifies them by eliminating a false premise. All solutions based on a false premise are necessarily false and have to be worked over again from a true premise. The discoveries of the Church of Humanity that all Gods are myths and death the end of life forever eliminates two false premises from which the people have been trying to solve questions of origin and destiny of themselves. These greatest of all scientific discoveries simplifies those two great questions and their solution is made easy to understand by all who learn these discoveries.

The Church of Humanity should push the teaching of its discoveries as vigorously as possible and get its own children enrolled in its two juvenile classes.

Funeral Services for Our Dead.

It is very important that the Church of Humanity make arrangements with competent members to conduct funeral services for its dead. But there are duties for the members to attend to before they die of more importance. They must have their families prepared in advance to accept such services by having them taught our discoveries or they would refuse to allow suitable services held. That is one reason why our male members should have their wives and children learn our discoveries and join our church. Where the family of our members are members of other churches they will have religious services held over them when they die because they, not having learned the truth beforehand, would feel deeply disgraced and outraged to have it proclaimed then. Our members are certainly doomed to the disgrace of a superstitious, idolatrous funeral and an idolater's grave if they neglect to have their families and those who are to bury them taught the discoveries they know. Do you, comrades, want your memory thus disgraced? If you do not you must get your wives and children out of the churches and Sunday schools that teach them errors and into the Church of Humanity and its juvenile classes, where they will be taught the truth about God and life. Where our members are unable to get their families to learn these discovered truths so they can have a suitable funeral they should be sure to make such provisions as would insure no religious services over them. It would be no disgrace whatever to have no services of any kind, but it would be to have religious services.

After preparing their families by proper education in our discoveries the next in importance is to secure the services of a competent person to deliver the funeral address. No one but a member of our church who understands its teaching thoroughly should be employed. It would be as disgraceful to have an Agnostic for such services as it would be to have any other person who had not learned our discoveries. We do not want any apologies for our discoveries and their teaching on that occasion. What is wanted then is some one to proclaim our discoveries true to nature and defend our course in teaching them when we are no longer able to do it. An Agnostic, Deist or Spiritualist could not do that. Hence we should be careful not to employ such for that service.

The next essential provision to make is the compensation for the services. The expenses of travel and $25 should be paid for the service as the minimum compensation, and where our members are able to pay more they should do so. None of them should desire to be buried like a pauper.

As soon as possible a suitable essay should be prepared to be read where it is impossible to get a competent person to deliver an address at our funerals.

If any of our comrades feels competent to fill the bill on such occasions I should be glad to have them report for duty when called on so I can let our members know where they can secure such service.

Teaching "Chestnuts" a Necessity.

None speak or write with such sarcastic contempt of the truths discovered by the Church of Humanity as those Agnostics who failed to learn them in youth and are now too old to do so. A case in point is the editor of the Humanitarian Review, of Los Angeles, Cal. In the May number he says:

"The so-called 'Church of Humanity' of Great Bend, Kan., is to hold a convention in that town on June 7, 1908, for the purpose of effecting organization and incorporation. In a letter from W. H. Kerr, asking me to publish a notice of this meeting, he impertinently says: 'I wish you knew the discoveries this church is being organized to teach and would join it,' etc. I wonder if the 'International Instructor' does not know that I know that he made no 'discoveries' at all, and that what he calls 'my discoveries' were 'chestnuts' 3,000 years before he was born." But the point is that nobody teaches these old "chestnuts," and for lack of that teaching nobody learns them. Our entire race continues in idolatry and superstition for want of an organization to teach them. Until they are taught all who know them must, of course, discover them. There are only two ways of gaining knowledge—by being taught it, and discovering it through personal observation, investigation and experience. Only a few dozen people now living had the good fortune to discover those old "chestnuts." Mr. Singleton Waters Davis is not one of them. He did not have the necessary ability to do it, and refuses to learn from those who have. It was no "impertinence" on my part to wish him to learn these discoveries, since he plainly says he does not know them nor believes that anybody else does. In his book, "A Future Life?" he warns its readers several times that it is not written "to prove or disprove that man is destined to a life after the event called death." On page 94 he says: "But the reader is urgently requested to keep clearly in mind that the object of this treatment of the question of a Future Life is not to directly prove or to disprove the truth of the doctrine, but to critically examine the grounds upon which it is based; hence the interrogation mark, ?, in my heading, 'A Future Life?' —indicating an 'open question'—a question science may some time or never adequately and satisfactorily answer." He evidently had not then discovered that the answer he is here doubtful of ever being made was a "chestnut 3,000 years before" I was born. When he wrote the book he was about 65 years old, yet he had not heard of the discovery nor had learned that conscious life ends forever at death, although now he has found out that the discovery was a "chestnut" more than 3,053 years ago. His case demonstrates the great necessity of an educational society to make these old "chestnuts" known to the people before they are 65 years old, so they will not be writing books at that age in total ignorance of them. Most people die before reaching that age and would, therefore, never hear of them at all unless they were more fortunate than Mr. Davis has been. On page 162 stating the Agnostic's position, which is plainly his own, he says: "Hence the Agnostic rejects the dogma that man can, does or ever did, obtain any knowledge by inspiration, intuition or supernatural revelation; and accordingly he confesses that he does not, and denies that anybody else does, know that there exists or does not exist invisible beings, 'Gods' superior to man, and confesses that he does not, and denies that anybody else does, know that men do or do not continue to live after bodily death as invisible, intangible conscious persons." Here again he denies that anybody knows the discovered truths taught by the Church of Humanity which he now says were known so long ago. I shall turn Mr. Davis, the author, over to Mr. Davis, the editor, to be convinced that he is mistaken when he "denies" that anybody knows that Gods are myths and life ended at death. We will be glad to read the conclusion they agree upon when they have threshed out the subject thoroughly between themselves and are ready to report. And while he is trying to convince Mr. Davis, the author, that the discoveries made and taught by the Church of Humanity were made thousands of years ago in order to cheat it of the credit of making them, I suggest he gather up all Agnostic editors and authors and put them in his class that they may be convinced also of his remarkable find. I would advise the editors of the Blue Grass Blade to join his class, as they evidently have never heard of those ancient discoveries. In an editorial comment on an epitaph reading: "Going, but I do not know where," they exclaim: "But how true, how beautifully true, is the first line of that epitaph?" "He may proclaim his birth a mystery, his life a struggle and a battle, but his death is certainly a leap in the dark." Had they known of the discovery that death ends conscious life, and been taught the evidence that proves it true, they would know and teach that death is not "a leap in the dark," for those who learn the truth about it. The main point I wish to bring out with great emphasis is that these great discoveries can be of no value to mankind unless the people are taught the evidence that prove them true until all know them to be true. When, where and by whom they were discovered is of no importance. It is their teaching and acceptance that constitutes their value to our race. That can only be accomplished by an organized propaganda society for that special purpose that will establish branches in reach of all people and maintain permanent qualified teachers. The art of reading and writing were old "chestnuts" thousands of years ago. But it is necessary to maintain millions of teachers to teach them to each succeeding generation or the race would soon lapse into illiteracy. Likewise, it is absolutely necessary to teach the scientific discoveries that immaterial intelligently beings do not exist, and that life ends at death to all people to overthrow idolatry. Then that teaching must be given to each succeeding generation or the race will lapse into idolatry and superstition again. What is the Review and the Blade and other Agnostic publications doing to teach the people those discovered truths, which is necessary to free them from idolatry? Nothing! Absolutely nothing! And worse than nothing is the false teaching that none know the truth about the subjects, and that death is a leap in the dark, and that they are going somewhere when they die, but do not know where. Why can't they learn and teach the simple truth that people stop "leaping" and "going" places the moment they die? No wonder subscribers to those publications, when near death and have a greater desire than ever before to know its meaning, must turn to the clergy to find guides who claim to know as did a recent "enthusiastic subscriber" to the Blade, as commented on in the Blade of May 3. Agnostic editors think they are preparing their subscribers for death by telling them they do not know its meaning. But when people are right up against a proposition they want information on and are in real earnest as they are in the presence of life cessation they don't care a continental for the services of people who admit they "don't know." They want the services of some one who claims to know. Subscribers to such publications will, from necessity, have to turn to the clergy for information on the vital subject of death until those publications learn and teach those "chestnuts" Mr. Davis says were discovered 3,000 years before I was born, but which he evidently has not learned yet.

The inventors are perfecting the air ships so rapidly that in a few years the pictures of the imaginary heaven with its imaginary angels who have to flap their own wings will look like a back number when compared with this world where aerial navigators make gasoline motors flap their wings for them. Then that myth heaven will look so much out of date and style that people will be glad our discoveries are true so they will not have to go to that place when life ceases in a much better world.

THOUSANDS OF WITNESSES FOR THE CHURCH OF HUMANITY.

should be glad to know the truth that the air is free from the presence of immaterial Pinkertons. If an unseen being existed with intelligence and power enough to record our thoughts and acts it would have power to warn us of danger and protect our lives. Since we have ample evidence here that lives are not protected by such beings we know there are no such beings to care for the thoughts and acts of the people. It would be absurd for any such being to care for the trifling things of life and not for life itself, which is of infinitely greater importance to the individual than the sum total of all his thoughts and acts. It is absurd to suppose a being could care for the welfare of a "soul" in some imagined world who will not care for that imagined soul and a real body combined in this real world. The evidence here given is conclusive that "souls" and bodies are not cared for in the least by the idols worshiped by the superstitious people who say they are. We have here thousands of witnesses to prove they were not cared for by such idols. They were as worthy of care in this world as they could be in any other world. Hence those supposed care-taking idols are what our church has discovered them to be, viz., pure creations of fiction.

The absence of life in the dead is evidence of its permanent cessation and not of its withdrawal as a continuous living entity. It is also evidence that there can be no resurrection of the dead, as the superstitious believe. It is best to know these plain truths of Nature. They are true regardless of the disbelief of a world of ignorant, superstitious idolaters. But the world will take a long step forward in civilization when it learns and accepts these discoveries. Our church should have agents out proclaiming these great scientific discoveries in Nature to the people. Who will be the first to go forth to proclaim them to the people from the rostrum?

Reader, if you believe these witnesses prove there are no immaterial intelligent beings and that life ends at death, please fill out the following membership blank and mail it to me so I can enroll you as one who knows these truths. Your name, number and influence are needed to win others to accept the truth. The subscribers who are not members yet should hesitate no longer to become members:

The Truth About God and Life

PUBLISHED MONTHLY BY THE CHURCH OF HUMANITY

VOL. 2, No. 9. GREAT BEND, KANSAS, SEPTEMBER, 1908. WHOLE No. 33.

Announcing the Two Great Discoveries in Nature that no God exists and that Death ends Life forever. In the light of these discovered Truths, all people are superstitious Idolaters, and will remain so until they learn them. Tell all the people everywhere of these discoveries, and of the Church of Humanity, which is organized and incorporated to teach them. It has 262 enrolled members in 38 states. Everybody is invited to join this Church as soon as they learn the two new Discoveries it teaches. No one is committing suicide nor crimes on account of learning these discoveries, neither will you. Don't have such a poor opinion of yourself as to believe so.

THOUSANDS OF WITNESSES FOR THE CHURCH OF HUMANITY.

No. 3.

The existence of a God has been proven to the satisfaction of millions of people by evidence that is fallacious. One of the most efficient lines of evidence used in proving the existence of a God is the citation of people who escape death in disasters where many are killed. These fortunate people are held to be certain proof of the existence of a God who protected them. Many of them become teachers of idolatry of that imaginary God for its supposed love and protection as a partial reward and expression of their thankfulness. All such evidence is easily disproved by close inspection and rebuttal evidence, had we competent instructors to place it before the people from the rostrum. I shall indicate how this false evidence can be overthrown and the truth established that there is no God to care for any one.

First—It is self-evident those who perished were as good in every respect and as worthy of care and protection as those who escaped. Any other belief would be unpardonable conceit.

Second—Those who escape and are held up as evidence of a God's care are later on the victims when it is self-evident they are as worthy of protection as they had been before.

Third—A like fate happens to all animal and vegetable life. Some perish while others escape unharmed until later on and no one lays it to the love or hate of a God.

Fourth—In inanimate objects the same thing happens. In a train wreck some of the cars may be smashed and burned up while others escape unharmed. Some of the freight may be damaged and some in the same car not. No one claims a God is responsible for the difference. It is plain to be seen that it is only egotism, ignorance, superstition and idolatry that prompts our race to teach each succeeding generation that there is such a being as a God. My Sunday school superintendent had been a union soldier and he told me he made a "vow to God" on going into the first battle that if he would protect him through the war he would devote his life to his service. I heard an evangelist once give the same reason for his "serving the Lord." It would be interesting to know how many soldiers on each side in the rebellion made similar vows to the same myth and what proportion of them are slain, also, how many are still teaching superstition and idolatry in fulfillment of those vows. Perhaps few of them will ever be able to comprehend the fact that their slain comrades is ample proof that no God protected those who escaped, or that no God established slavery by the authority of the Bible and then protected any one while shooting it out of business. An ex-union soldier, who is a "hard-shell" Baptist, told me that "God directed every bullet fired in the war." I explained to him that God was only a man-made myth like Santa Claus handed down to us by our ignorant, superstitious ancestors, that no God divided the people into hostile armies and then aimed the guns on both sides. He said that some men were shot all to pieces while others escaped with slight wounds and some with none and that he could account for it in no other way. I explained to him that the same thing would happen were a regiment to shoot into a herd of animals or a grove of trees and that it was unreasonable to imagine a God who cared for one more than another in that case or that those objects did any praying to a God for protection, that the best protection against war missiles was not in praying to a myth-God, but in arranging for arbitration of all disputes. President Kruger and his Boer soldiers went to war with England in 1899 carrying Bibles and praying to a myth-God for victory. He was so sure a God existed and that he aided the just against the unjust that he was greatly surprised when England won, and he exclaimed in his old age, when near death, that he had almost lost confidence in the goodness and justice of both man and God. But he died unsuspecting the truth that God is only a myth like Santa Claus.

Duels between individuals and wars between nations are still fought under the heathen superstition that a God exists and will help the right side to win. The Protestants thought a God had aided the United States in wresting the Philippines from Spain so that Protestantism could be substituted for Catholicism there. But an exposure of an alleged deal between the administration and the Roman Hierarchy, in the Appeal to Reason, Girard, Kan., September 12, shows that Romanism has gained wonderfully in both financial and political power by the change.

People will not teach nor believe there is a God who cares what they believe, say or do when our church sends out instructors to prove to them that there is no God who knows anything about their existence. That can best be done by presenting evidence that the lives of none are in any way cared for by those imagined Gods, regardless of the beliefs or acts of the people. People will cease idolatry when they know positively they will receive no benefit from it, and not before. The following victims prove clearer than words can do that all their idolatry was in vain for the idols they worshipped and were willing to fight for were not around when in greatest need:

Winnipeg, Aug. 10—Eight people lost their lives through the burning of the steamer, Premier, to the water's edge at Warren's Landing.

Gettysburg, Pa., July 24—Three men of the Pennsylvania National Guard were killed by lightning at Camp Hayes.

Fort Smith, Ark., July 24—Mrs. Elizabeth Baxter was killed by lightning in her home here.

Windsor, Mo., Sept. 15—Twelve lives were lost here by an explosion of powder.

York, Pa., Aug. 10—Eight men were killed by a boiler explosion at the York Rolling Mills today.

Clarksdale, Miss., Sept. 15—Four persons were killed in a train wreck two miles from here.

Bergen, Norway, Aug. 24—Forty persons were drowned by the sinking of the steamer, Folge Fonden, near Skonviks, on the coast of Norway.

Boston, Aug. 25—Eighteen men were killed in the collapse of a brick building in Chelsea Square today.

Kankakee, Ill., Sept. 16—Six section men were killed by a train at Martindon.

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 7—Three children, aged one, two and four years old, were burned to death in their home today.

Nevada, Mo., July 12—Two small children were burned to death in their home three miles northwest of here.

Eugene, Ore., Aug. 24—Five persons were killed in a train wreck near here last night.

Trinidad, Colo., Aug. 31—Twenty-seven lives were lost in a flood which wiped out Folsom, N. M., Thursday night.

Augusta, Ga., Aug. 31—Sixty people have lost their lives in the great floods here.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 21—The cholera epidemic is spreading rapidly in Russia's capital. Yesterday's cases up to midnight were 471 with 126 deaths, bringing the total up to 1,677 cases and 484 deaths since the outbreak. Prayers are being offered up in the churches in front of icons begging to be spared.

Manila, Sept. 15—Within the last 48 hours 210 cases of cholera in 29 towns resulted fatally. The total number of cases in the islands this year is 16,788, of which 10,681 died.

It is plain to be seen no God exists who cared for the lives of these victims. Then it is plain none exists to care for their religious belief or what church or government rules them. Life itself is of supreme value. What does all else amount to in comparison with it? No God could possibly exist that cared for the thoughts, words and acts of the people without caring for their lives which is of supreme importance. These thousands of victims are so many thousands of witnesses that no God exists in the universe who knew of their existence, and that means that Gods are creations of fiction like Santa Claus. Our attitude and relations to God should be the same as they are to Santa Claus, or any other fictitious character. You do not intend your children to grow to manhood and womanhood without learning that Santa Claus is only a creation of fiction. You would not want your children praying to that myth for rain and everything they want. You would feel humiliated and disgraced. But it is as much of a disgrace to have children praying to God for things. He is the same kind of a myth. If you have taught your children otherwise or allowed them to be taught otherwise you should correct it at once by teaching them the truth or employing some one else to do it.

The Church of Humanity is an association of those people who have learned the discoveries that no Gods exist in the universe and that death ends life forever. If you are not a member of this society you should apply at once for membership if you believe the two discoveries it teaches to be true. We want to create a demand for teachers of the truth about God and life to counteract the world-wide demand for teachers of error about those two subjects. The only way to do that is to find the people who know what the truth is and who want it taught in place of the error, and get them united to enable them to employ such teachers. The only possible way to overthrow idolatry and superstition is to create a demand for the teaching of the new discoveries about God and life. Truth must be taught the people before they can abandon the errors. Untruth cannot be driven out of the minds of the people except by driving truth in. We want to create a demand for hired truth drivers to counteract the demand for hired untruth drivers. All who know the truth should unite with the Church of Humanity at once to help to create a demand for truth teachers and the ability to employ them.

The Truth About God

Published monthly by the Church of Humanity.

Teaches the Scientific Discovery that God, Satan and Holy Ghost are Fabulous Beings; that Heaven and Hell are Myths and that Death is the Permanent Cessation of Life.

Entered at Great Bend Kan. postoffice as second class mail matter.

Subscription 25 cents a year. In bundles to Sunday Schools, Church organizations and church members for free distribution, 25 cents per 100 copies.

Remit by postoffice money order, coin or currency. Address all communications and orders to W. H. Kerr, 2210 Broadway, Great Bend, Kansas.

THE PUSH COLUMN.

Push! Push! Everlastingly push! That is the only way to get things done.

I want to be able to report all your dues paid up next month. Then Hurry! Hurry and send them.

You see, comrades, the superstitious idolaters push continually and they are very successful in society building.

Yes, that's so; I had better hurry up some myself and get the paper out sooner and not miss the month entirely. Well, by gum, I'll do it next time.

I want to report your $1,000 donation to the propaganda fund completed, and it and mine placed in your national treasury next month. Hurry! Hurry up and send it in.

Hurry! Hurry! Hurry and send in your dues, donations and $100 offers for the services of a competent orator and organizer a week to try to establish a local church in your town.

We, too, will be successful when we learn to push and pay as they do. Why not do it when we have truth on our side? Is it not worth working and paying for as much as idolaters are doing for untruths?

I am offering $100 a week for a competent orator and organizer to come here and try to teach our discoveries to the people of this town and organize a local church. I hope to get one at that price. Hurry! Hurry and send in an offer of the same amount for his services when he is through here.

The reading season with its long evenings is here again. Hurry up and order a bundle of 100 copies monthly to scatter all over your town and county. You can have them for 25 cents a hundred. That makes them so cheap you can afford a big bundle monthly to scatter everywhere. No difference if people only read the heading of the paper and see that our two discoveries are made, it will make them anxious to come out to hear your organizer when you have him come to organize a church for you.

Good Suggestions—Act On Them.

C. W. Mosher, general delivery, Wichita, Kan.—"I enclose 25 cents for a new subscriber. I think I shall soon send you $3 for the three books by Remsburg and Haeckel. Now, Brother Kerr, in regard to making our church useful I agree with you that we must use money; so to start the movement I propose and make this offer: I will be one of 100 to donate $10 each to make up the sum of $1,000 to match the $1,000 you so nobly offer. I am a poor man, but would be more than glad to give $10,000 if I were able to do so. I feel that such a work as is proposed by the Church of Humanity is the greatest ever proposed in any age. It is fraught with greater possibilities of good and more stupendous results to our race than any and all the other organizations and societies combined. After awhile we will have endowments and they will run into millions of dollars, but we must first prove our ability to stand alone. The world is full of wealthy, noble men and women only too glad to do good, but they must know that their gifts will not be wasted nor the enterprise wrecked because of lack of zeal in its membership."

[All good points. Now who will be the other 99 comrades to join this comrade in donating $10 each to make up that $1,000 and win my $1,000 for your treasury? Just send in your $10 bills as fast as you can and I will match each one with another $10, and place them in your national treasury for the propaganda work. Hurry up, comrades. My tens are waiting on yours. Let us get them yoked up and put to work. Two thousand dollars in our treasury ought to induce some orator to prepare to work for our church as lecturer and organizer.—Ed.]

G. A. Moosei, 1710 West Hays street, Little Rock, Ark.—"I received the booklets and church papers and distributed them. Some have told me they think it possible to organize a branch church here with 100 members. One thing is certain, if we had a competent lecturer and organizer to come here and help us we could organize a local church with about 30 or 40 members to start with. I wish we could get a man for this purpose. I will try to have a meeting with some comrades and then we will see what we can do, and then give you an account of it."

[Excellent plan. Call your meeting and talk over the proposition to raise $100 by subscription to employ a competent organizer to come there as a representative of our church and help you a week in getting a local church organized. I hope other comrades will do the same thing, or, in place of the meeting, just pass a subscription paper around and raise $100 for a week's services of a lecturer and organizer to establish a church for them. I want nine of you to join me in creating a demand for such services for ten weeks at a salary of $100 a week. I have made such an offer for a week's work in this town. Our comrades ought to be getting branch churches established in their towns, and this is a good plan to get them. If ten of us can join together and offer $1,000 for ten weeks work in establishing churches for us I believe some competent member will undertake this service. I request those wishing local churches to send me their offer at once so I can engage a competent person for the task.—Ed.]

$100 a Week.

Wanted—A competent orator and organizer who is a member of the Church of Humanity to teach its discoveries to the people and organize those who learn them into branch churches. A salary of $100 a week will be given the right party, man or woman. For particulars address W. H. Kerr, president.

"Nothing Doing."

My spiritualistic friend, Allie Lindsay Lynch, of Chicago, writes to me and some of my comrades to change our society name and teaching to suit her and some friends, so they can unite with us. Her letter, without the emphasis and extra capitalization, follows:

"Freethought Comrade: No longer 'In God we trust'! The 'Devil' we no longer fear! But let us not stand for an error worse! Know, and then declare, and then instruct the children. Therefore, O friends of truth! vote to wipe out the clause which is false—for life does not end with transition. 'Tis there begins a better opportunity for research. Then for intellect the pathway clears, but not for the fear-bound is this grandeur, 'till fear is cast away. This is why the masses of spirits return to teach religion. I am not a member of the Church of Humanity—no 'church' for me! Knock it out, and knock out the clause that is error, that I and others may affiliate with your efforts for the real uplift of Humanity. And know 'tis with kindly interest I have said this unto you, for in my appeal for truth in Freethought movements it is but as your 'Aunt Allie' that I intrude. Other comrades along with me would throw in their best of help to promote a Freethought move for truth. If you want us, vote down the error and choose a name to honor Humanity. Long ago I discovered that no God exists. —Allie Lindsay Lynch, S. O."

Thanks for your very kind offer. But there is "nothing doing" just now by the Church of Humanity in the direction you suggest. And there will not be so long as I have any influence to direct its course.

You see, Aunt Allie, if we discarded one of our discovered truths and taught a falsehood in its place to please you and others who have not learned that discovery our society would have only one good leg to stand on. But it might, as you say, gain more members thereby. Then, if it is good moral ethics to abandon truths to teach untruths in order to win numbers faster, we would accept the kind invitation of Christian friends and relatives to abandon the other discovered truth and teach the falsehood of the existence of Gods. Then our society would have only false legs to stand on, as other societies have, and instead of them joining our society we would join theirs and save all this trouble of building up another one. We will all do that when we get totally depraved, but not before. Of course, we all want to have the crowd on one side, and expect to have it some time. But the crowd must abandon error and come to us. We will not abandon truth to go to it. We are going to organize so we can support teachers to win the crowd over to us. You have made a very good start in our direction by discovering there are no Gods and I congratulate you. Now put your thinking apparatus to work again and discover that life ends forever at death, and we will then be glad to welcome you to our society. A number of people are trying to make the home run and we propose to stay right here to welcome them when they arrive. See?

Those "masses of spirits" that "return yet to teach religion" are simply creations of your imagination. Those that taught you that Gods existed "pulled their freight" when you discovered there are no such beings as Gods. They did not trouble you any more. The balance of them will "hike" when you discover that death ends conscious life forever. You see, Aunt Allie, that if those "masses of spirits" were realities they could do something besides "teach religion." They could have notified the janitor of the Collinwood, O., school of the fire in time to extinguish it and thereby saved the lives of the 170 children that perished. I don't take any stock in "masses of spirits" that would rather "teach religion" than do a little duty like that when there was so many little lives at stake. Then the spirits of the victims of Mrs. Guinness, at LaPorte, Ind., recently, could have notified their relatives of their fate and warned other prospective victims of danger had they been able to teach religion. Did such beings exist in reality they could have prevented most, if not all, disasters that cause loss of life, and, if they know coming events, they could warn people of them in advance. They could do all that as easily as "teach religion." You should know that spirits are simply creations of your mind, or of the minds of those who taught you about them. Gods and Christs are creatures of the minds of idolaters, created and perpetuated by organized societies for that purpose. When material people all learn and teach the discoveries that Gods are myths and life ended at death I guarantee "the masses of spirits" will cease "teaching religion."

From an Eighty-Four Year Old Comrade.

Joseph Haigh, of Kankakee, Ill., is a member of the Church of Humanity and has his certificate of membership framed and hanging up in his room, and has written the following verse on it:

I now have joined a useful church
And it is doing well;
It is much better than the rest,
And needs no God, nor heaven, nor hell.

On his 84th birthday, March 25, 1908, he wrote the following poem:

I'm eighty-four years old today,
How quick the time has passed away!
Life comes to us and it is just,
But when we die we turn to dust;
Life may bring joy and happiness,
Or with it comes pain and distress,
My father's family numbered ten,
Some of them women, some were men,
All these have died but Ed and I
And we shall follow by and by;
And after all this plan's the best
For it will give us perfect rest.
The rich oppress the humble poor,
And strive to do so more and more;
The poor turn out upon a strike
And try to run things as they like;
There is no god, no heaven, no hell
That preachers talk about so well;
That is the way that life began
And it will end on that same plan.

Comrade Haigh has published a book of his poems of considerable merit, entitled "A B C of Religion." It contains his portrait, has 106 poems and 106 pages. Price 25 cents. Address the author.

Circular Letter to the Church of Humanity.

NO. 15.

Dear Comrades: I am happy to report to you that you are beginning to create a demand for the services of a public teacher for the two great scientific discoveries in nature you have made—that there is no God in the universe and that death ends life forever. This is the beginning of the first demand ever made for the services of a teacher of those discoveries.

The following members have paid their annual membership dues of $1.00 for 1908: Emil Fredrich and wife, J. M. Herman and wife, J. J. Herman, Chas. A. Lee, Mrs. M. A. Lee, C. W. Robbins, H. O. Gaston, John Hirt, C. L. Westmoreland, E. A. Byrne, Dr. C. H. Mordoff, Franz Riedl, Belle Markel, T. V. White, Ella P. Hunt, T. C. Brassell, E. M. Thompson and Wm. Gerchow, making $20 in dues.

The following members have made donations to the propaganda funds: John Hirt $10, J. J. Herman $9, Dr. C. H. Mordoff $6, C. W. Robbins $4, H. O. Gaston $3.60, J. M. Herman $3, William Gerchow $2, Franz Riedl 50 cents, T. V. White 25 cents, making $39.35 in donations. I promised in my last letter to you that as soon as you donated $1,000 to the propaganda fund I would donate a like amount. But I will donate as much as all of you combined each month until January 1, 1909, until yours amounts to $1,000. Therefore, up to date, September 21, my donation to the propaganda fund is the same as yours, $39.35. The balance of my $1,000 is ready to be turned into the fund as soon as all of you can turn in an equal amount. That means two dollars for our propaganda fund for every dollar you donate to it, for I will match it with another dollar if you put it in before January 1, 1909. You should make a concerted effort to get a full $1,000 in your treasury at once so as to win my thousand. That will give your board of directors a propaganda fund to begin work with. They can then employ a field lecturer and organizer to begin our propaganda work. Of course you want your discoveries taught to the people, because you want the people freed from superstition and idolatry. And, of course, you cannot ask or expect the services of teachers without reasonable compensation. You should all learn to act together promptly so as to get the united power of all at once. That would make you a great power. In paying your dues all should pay them for the year on a certain date. Then they would be available at once for the propaganda work. I suggest that all of you who have not paid your membership dues do so within a week from your receipt of this letter. I also suggest that you send in your donation to the propaganda fund with it and make that as large as possible so as to win all of my $1,000, for your national treasury. Then your board of directors can proceed to engage field workers. Perhaps you understand the method of propaganda used by the Socialists. I think it is a good method and we should follow it. They have now 50,000 dues paying members and twenty-two national lecturers employed out of that fund. Besides that they are creating a demand for dozens of publications and local speakers where there was no demand a few years ago. They are raising, by donation, funds to send the "Red Special" with their presidential candidate and literature from ocean to ocean to propagate Socialism. How soon will you be able to send a "special" all over the country with good speakers and literature to proclaim your great discoveries to the people and free them from superstition and idolatry? I hope it will not be many years until you can do that. Wouldn't that be a grand scheme. Let us all try to push our church work with that plan in view as soon as we are able to adopt it. Let us try to get some lecturers in training for the "Grand Special" truth proclaimer to be sent out by our church in a few years.

Will nine of you join me in offering $100 each for the services of a competent teacher of our discoveries for ten weeks, one week for each of us? I will give that amount to a competent man or woman who will come to this town and hold a series of meetings for a week in the interest of our church. Will nine of you offer a like amount for the lecturer to hold a series of meetings in your towns and try to establish a local church for you? If you will I believe some one would try to fill this thousand-dollar demand for us. One thousand dollars for ten weeks' work teaching your two discoveries ought to be a big temptation for some one to prepare at once to do it. As soon as nine of you join me in this offer for a competent propagandist the dates can be arranged successively so that he or she can fill them one after another without the loss of any time. At this town I will furnish hall and board and the missionary can have all the public collections, which ought to be a good addition to my offer if he is "on to his job" like most evangelists are. Now I want nine of you to join me at once in creating this demand. Send me a notice by return mail that you will pay $100 for a week's services of a competent teacher and organizer to build up a local Church of Humanity in your town. Then I can employ some one to do the work wanted as soon as I can find a competent person, and advertise the dates. Then, if locals can be established, we will try to find competent instructors to keep them up and establish more locals. All idolatrous churches are making arrangements for greatly increased efforts in the near future to boom their superstition and idolatry with great vigor. In Kansas an inter-denominational movement is organized with nearly 100 pastors with evangelistic abilities, twelve professional evangelists and eight professional singers to win "Kansas for Christ" this year. They are organized into bands and will cover all parts of the state. They have begun and will keep at it until June 30 next, when they expect to have their work completed according to their plans as given to the press. All over the world the Protestants are uniting to make a concerted effort to force their brand of heathen superstition and idolatry on all people. The Catholics are no less active and determined to do the same thing for their brand. I quote the following from Paris: "The Rev. A. P. Doyle, rector of the Apostolic Mission House in Washington, D. C., arrived here a few days ago from Rome, where he went to confer with the pope regarding the mission's progress in America. He said: 'I had the privilege of conversing at considerable length with the Holy Father. Within a few years we hope to send out 1,000 specially trained missionaries to present the exact teaching of the Catholic church to the American public. We already have 100 missionaries at work, and they are obtaining glorious results. Last year, according to official reports, there were no fewer than 25,000 converts to Catholicism in America.'"

Are you, comrades, going to stand with idle, folded hands while a Dark Age is settling down on America as it did on Europe for a thousand years, when you alone have the only remedy to prevent it? Are you going to be indifferent to such a calamity to America and to all the world? On the first page I called attention to our betrayal by the administration to the Roman Hierarchy for votes as alleged and exposed by the Appeal to Reason. It seems from that exposure that the leading ministers of other denominations had sanctioned the betrayal. I ask each of you to send for No. 667 of the Appeal to Reason, Girard, Kan., and see how you are being sold out to the representatives of ancient heathenism by your supposed servants; then you will see the necessity for immediate action in making known your discoveries before the Protestants and Catholics unite to prohibit it by law. Now may be your only chance. Don't let it go by unimproved. Don't let history repeat itself by our race drifting again into Dark Ages on account of wilful neglect of duty on your part. Of all the people of earth you are the only ones who have a remedy in your discoveries to prevent it. But you can't do it with those discoveries unless you have them taught to the people. I urge you most earnestly to do that duty as I am informing you what it is and how to do it. The only object in organizing is to enable us all to work in unison and harmony and systematic order in making known our great discoveries and increasing our number thereby until we can all have branch churches for our families and neighbors to attend where they can be taught truth in place of error. We should all work and pay to secure those conditions. They cannot be secured without it. Those of you who have paid your dues and sent in your donation to the propaganda fund have done well and deserve the thanks of the church for your promptness. But how much nicer and how much more encouraging for us all were I able to report the paid up dues of every member and the full contribution of the $1,000 to the propaganda fund? Would not you all feel better and more hopeful? I am sure I would. All I can do is to ask you to do your duty and advise you how and when to do it. Then it is all a matter of choice with you as to doing it. Your board of directors can do nothing until you put the money in your treasury for them to do with. They cannot use it in the propaganda work until they get it to use. They cannot serve you until you place the means of serving you in your treasury. A thousand dollars would only be a trifle for you to place there if each of you will donate according to your ability. Would you have the Dark Ages come on the world again rather than do your duty while you can? Here are some of the duties you should do before 48 hours pass after you get this copy:

1. Pay membership dues unpaid.
2. Send in your donation for propaganda.
3. Nine of you send me an offer of $100 for services for a week of a competent teacher of your discoveries to build up a local church in your town if possible.
4. Apply for the enrollment of your children under 15 in our juvenile classes. I have 500 blank class certificates ready to be filled out for them.
5. Order a bundle of copies monthly to scatter over your neighborhood. They are only 25 cents a 100 in bundles. If nothing is read in them by your neighbors more than the announcement of our two discoveries they will be worth distributing because the seeds of truth will be sown and will bear fruit in time. And when your missionaries come the people will want to hear them. Now, comrades, take right

A True Citizen?

"A True Citizen" in the Chicago Daily Socialist remarks: "I am too religious to commit suicide and Chicago is not able to support me or give me any employment. What will I do?"

He may be a "true citizen," but he is mistaken when he believes he would commit suicide were he unreligious. People need not believe that mistake any more. Our church furnishes them with daily proof that people will not commit suicide and crimes on account of learning the discoveries that Gods are myths and death the end of life. We have 262 enrolled members in 38 states and I have never heard of any of them committing suicide or any crimes on account of learning the truth about God and life. But some people do commit suicide on account of not having learned these truths. I have read of people committing suicide so they can go to see Jesus, or their loved ones who have died. Here is a case in point which happened recently in the same city where "a true citizen" thought his religion was the only thing that saved him from being a suicide. In a letter to her husband, before attempting suicide, Mrs. Roy Hendrix, 29 years old, said among other things: "You have been good to me. Life I cannot understand. I used to wonder what was in life. I leave this note to free you from all blame. I want to go to mamma." It was her heathen religion that made her believe she could go to her mother if she was dead. A knowledge of our discoveries would have prevented all thought of suicide in this case. People who have the good fortune to learn one or two more truths of nature need not be so elated as to even chop their fingers off, much less commit suicide over it.

The Prayers of the Superstitious Idolaters Availeth Nothing.

"Chicago, July 25—Peter Ross, 3, is dead today, and Mrs. Marie Ross is in the hospital seriously burned as the result of her carelessness in leaving lighted candles on a small alter in her badroom after she had finished praying. A gust of wind blew the lace curtain across the flames of the candle. The child was asleep."

Moral—Learn the new discoveries made and taught by the Church of Humanity that there is no God in the universe and that death ends life forever then cease the heathen practice of praying.

"New York—After five weeks of suffering which, doctors say, must have been intense, Mrs. William N. Belknap died at her home, in the Bronx, Sunday morning. During all those weeks, up to the very night before her death, Mrs. Belknap, who was only thirty-two years old, had no medical attendance, no medicine.

"Two women, Christian Science healers, prayed for her according to the ritual prescribed by Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy; implored that Mrs. Belknap might recognize she was not afflicted with a bodily ailment but with a mental evil. The fact is, Coroner's Physician Riegelman asserts, after a post-mortem examination, Mrs. Balknap was suffering from empyema of the gall bladder. In plainer English, suppuration had taken place, pus had formed in the gall bladder.

"Dr. Riegelman asserts, too, that a surgical operation would almost certainly have saved Mrs. Belknap's life, that certainly would have been doubly sure if the operation had been done early in the five weeks before continued suppuration had enfeebled the patient. In a word, Dr. Riegelman insists that a surgeon's knife, not prayer, not Christian Science healing, was needed to let out the pus from Mrs. Belknap's gall bladder.

"William N. Belknap is manager of the John Hancock Life Insurance company in Bronx Borough. His home is No. 1013 Fox street. He was not Christian Scientist before his marriage. His wife, who believed sincerely in Mrs. Eddy's tenets, converted him to them. So when she fell ill her husband was complacent to her desire that two Christian Science healers be called."

It was the practitioners who were "afflicted" with a "mental evil" in believing God to be a real being instead of the myth he is discovered to be.

Moral No. 1—Do not employ a doctor afflicted with that "mental evil" if you can possibly get one who is a member of the Church of Humanity.

Moral No. 2—Do not let your better half "convert" you to superstition and idolatry, but have her taught the discovered truth that God is a creation of fiction like Santa Claus, and death the end of life forever, that her life may be prolonged in the land that has given you these marvelous discoveries.

"East Las Vegas, N. M., June 25.—Fully 500 men and women knelt before an altar on Zion Hill near the court house here and prayed for rain. Supplications offered by natives in relays lasted all night. Processions are marching through the fields carrying banners and shouting to heaven."

When children are taught the scientific causes of rain in the public schools and then sent to churches that teach them the heathen superstition that a God makes it rain they will believe the latter teaching.

Moral—Establish branch churches and Sunday schools where the children can be taught the new discoveries that God is a myth and life ends at death, and the same scientific causes for things that they are taught in schools. Then they will never engage in the heathen practice of praying for things.

"Constantine, Algeria, Aug. 10—The people of Constantine are still in a state of terror from the earthquake shocks of a few days ago, fearing a repetition, and there is in consequence a steady exodus to the country. The Mohammedans, who regard the continuation of the shocks as a divine warning to the wicked not to sleep in damaged dwellings, have assembled in the cemeteries, where they prostrate themselves and pray for hours at a time, until, overcome by weakness, they fall asleep."

The Christians call the Mohammedans heathens and idolaters. But since it has been definitely discovered that Jesus Christ is only a character of fiction the same titles will apply to them that apply to any other idol worshipers.

Moral—If they do not wish to be classed as such they must learn the two discoveries made and taught by the Church of Humanity and cease those practices.

"St. Louis, Sept. 14.—Southern Illinois is suffering from the worst drouth in years. In many East St. Louis churches the ministers prayed for rain. At St. Patrick's church Rev. Father Collins based his prayer on the danger of disease arising from unflushed sewers. Religious assemblies throughout Illinois are praying for rain."

How can there possibly be a God who knows anything about the needs of people when there is none who know of the existence of people? By the dying of people every moment from hundreds of causes it is demonstrated no God knows anything about their existence. There can be no God to care if people perish from drouth or floods when there is none to care if they perish from other causes. Were there a God to save people's lives by making it rain He would protect their lives from other dangers. Since people can now know the daily news from all parts of the world they ought to be able to see that the rains are not controlled by an intelligence. While people are perishing and property is being destroyed for want of rain in some parts of the world in other parts people are perishing and property is being destroyed from excessive rains. While people are praying for rain in parts of the United States in other parts there are excessive rains, and it is raining on the oceans where none is needed. A report from Hongkong, China, recently, stated that the floods in south China had destroyed 80 per cent of the crops and that 28,400 were homeless and 250,000 without food, and a property loss of $5,000,000. With this evidence given the people daily through the newspapers that there is no intelligent being controlling the rains why should anyone be so foolish as to pray for rain or anything else? It is a deep disgrace on the public schools of the country that people educated in them know no better than to pray for rain. But my own children are being taught in the schools of this city right now that there is a God, and are taught to pray to Him for what they want. I am compelled to send them to school. The patrons and teachers and school board believe this Christian mythology true. What recourse have I? If I appeal to any court for relief I will find only a superstitious idolater on the bench who will side with them and approve of the teaching. There is absolutely no remedy unless enough of the patrons of the schools can be taught the discoveries that no Gods exist and death ends life to influence the officers and teachers to cease idolatry in the schools. With that object in view I offer $100 a week with free hall and board for the services of an orator competent to teach these discoveries to the people.

Moral—If you do not want your children taught a heathen mythology for truth you must pay to have the truth taught to those who force the untruths on them.

Doctors Joining the Church of Humanity.

Doctors and surgeons have a greater representation in the Church of Humanity according to numbers than any other profession, I think. I received on one day recently the applications for membership of two doctors—Dr. J. W. Clark, of Carterville, Mo., and Dr. H. N. Waite, of Johnson, Vt. This is as it should be. Doctors ought to know that people are dead forever when they die. They ought to be required by law to learn these discoveries taught by our church before they are entitled to practice for the protection of the public. When a physician believes the religious superstition that people have souls and that a God wants them, I think he is more than half prepared to have no regrets at the release of a supposed soul. He has an erroneous idea of the meaning of death which I believe is fraught with grave danger to the public. He is liable to look upon death as the good old superstitious grandmother did when, on hearing of the death of a grandchild, smilingly exclaimed, "O, well, our loss is God's gain!" There is such a thing as falling in love with a creation of fiction like God and Jesus Christ, and that love may be so violent as to supercede the love for any and all real beings. I am sure I do not want the services of a doctor for myself or family who has not learned that God is a myth and life ends forever with death if I can get one who has learned those truths. No physician should hesitate to let it be known when he has learned these discoveries, and the public should feel safer under his care than under the care of those who have not.

Dr. Waite says: "I wish you abundant success in your new enterprise, the Church of Humanity, and am confident that you not only merit success, but will have success. I hereby enclose one dollar for my certificate of membership."

Dr. Clark says, among other things: "Success to your undertaking. Allow me to congratulate you on organizing a society. This movement, if pushed as it should be, will be a great stride toward the intellectual advancement of humanity and eventually secure the mental release of all civilized humanity from the superstitions, or religions, that very naturally arose out of ancient ignorance about the time the imagination began to play and before reason began to crawl. I heartily endorse this movement for the benefit of superstitious humanity who, in this age of enlightenment, still profess a belief in the supernatural. I believe evolution and education will eventually wipe out all religion, as it should. Organization will doubtless hasten the change, however, and is, therefore, a good thing. I send you $1 for certificate and life membership."

Dr. C. H. Mordoff, of Genoa, Ill., another comrade, writes: "Find enclosed $10. You may send me the three text books and a few extra copies of the papers monthly, credit me with one year's dues and place balance in treasury for the propaganda work. You may think by my inability to dispose of more papers that I am weak and afraid to work for the truth. I assure you that is not the case. In public life, at the bedside in Catholic families and Protestant homes, for the last two years I fearlessly taught the doctrine promulgated by the Church of Humanity, and the people who would have been horrified a few years ago now respect my ideas and believe in my honesty in stating them, for they know I have been an honest investigator along these lines for over twenty years."

That is perfectly right, doctors. Let the public know that you know the true meaning and result of death, that it is the permanent cessation of conscious life forever, and that on account of that knowledge you will do all in your power to prolong the lives of your patients. Then the public will soon put their trust in you in preference to those superstitious doctors who imagine they can do both their patient and a myth God a favor by releasing his imaginary soul.

hold of this work and push it to success. You are the world's greatest discoverers. I want you to recognize that fact. Some of you prepare at once to devote your entire time to teaching your discoveries and the balance of you prepare to pay for the work. I shall pay my share and then some. I want the services right now of a competent teacher of your discoveries for this town and I have $100 ready to pay for the first week's work and if satisfactory will give steady employment here, but at less wages. The money I pay for local church work is not taken from our national treasury nor from my donations to it. That is to be used for general propaganda work. When we see idolaters all around us working so hard and paying so much to propagate untruth we should be inspired to do something for the promulgation of truth. Who will be the noble nine to join me in creating the first thousand-dollar demand for the services of a teacher of your discoveries? I hope to be able to announce in my next letter that you have all done your duty, and I know you would all feel proud and rejoice to see it.

PUBLISHED MONTHLY BY THE CHURCH OF HUMANITY

Devoted to teaching the scientific discoveries in the domain of Theology that all Gods, Devils and Holy Ghosts are Fabulous Beings, Heaven and Hell myths, and Death the end of life forever, and to organize all who learn them into societies for their perpetuation and promulgation.

VOL. 2, No. 10. GREAT BEND, KANSAS, OCTOBER, 1908. WHOLE No. 34.

THOUSANDS OF WITNESSES FOR THE CHURCH OF HUMANITY.

No. 4.

"The constant dripping of water wears away stone" is a proverb that illustrates the power to accomplish effects by a seemingly inadequate cause if persisted in long enough. Likewise these lessons, as simple as they are, would overthrow all religious mythologies of earth could they be given all people often and long enough. No truths of nature are so difficult for the people to learn and comprehend as those truths that conflict with their religious errors. That is because those errors are persistently and continually taught the people from the cradle to the grave, while the truths they conflict with are very poorly supported, defended and persisted in. Religious errors have been established and are perpetuated by the force of continuous teaching and they are never overthrown until a greater force is generated in opposition. Many religious errors have been overthrown and suppressed, but generally by a power generated in the interest of some other religious error equally as bad. People have always rallied to the aid, support and defense of a religious error advanced to supercede another religious error with much more enthusiasm than they do in aiding a truth to supplant a religious error. We must realize now that nothing is gained by substituting one object of worship for another, such as the worship of God and Christ for the aligator or sun. The false God idea prevails as strongly in one as the other. That idea remains yet to be substituted for the discoveries that no real Gods exist and that life ends at death forever. It will be very difficult to get the people to learn and accept these truths as they conflict with their religious errors. They can never supercede those errors until backed by a stronger power than the errors have. That power can only be generated by the constant, persistent, determined teaching of those discoveries, and as fast as people learn them they must be separated from the superstitious idolaters and organized into special societies to make their power and teaching more effective. That is why I continually urge our subscribers to join the Church of Humanity as soon as they are convinced our discoveries are true. Every one that does so weakens the forces of error and strengthens the forces of truth. Truths, like errors, can only be taught successfully by societies organized for that purpose. It is the paramount duty of all who learn these discoveries to at once join this organization to aid in their promulgation. Only by the machinery of organization can the steady, perpetual teaching of these truths be given that is necessary to wear away the superstition and idolatry of the people. The vitality of superstition and idolatry lies in the erroneous belief of the people that they are known, loved and cared for by an unseen being named God. When that delusion is dispelled the backbone of all religious mythologies will be broken forever. Hence all who wish to aid in overthrowing idolatry should strike continually at that vital spot with the fatal evidence that no one is known by a God. That evidence is most easily recognized in the destruction of the people themselves. And here are the records of the destruction of thousands who now furnish us with positive evidence that they were utterly mistaken when they believed and taught that they were known, loved and cared for by a being named God. They cannot themselves know they were mistaken, hence cannot warn the living to give up such a worthless delusion. But the Church of Humanity will do this labor of love for them.

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 24.—The little daughter of David Chrisholm of Eagle's Nest, Alaska, was carried away by a huge American eagle the middle of last July and three weeks later its torn and mangled body was found in the eagle's nest.

Livingston, Mont., Sept. 25.—Twenty-five people were killed in a collision of trains at Young's Point owing to a heavy snow storm.

Tasmania.—Twenty of the crew of the ship Loch Finlas were drowned owing to a gale and high sea causing the vessel to strike a reef.

Paris.—Thirteen men were killed by the bursting of a gun on the French armored cruiser Latouche Treville.

Berlin, Sept. 28.—Fourteen persons were killed by a train collision on the Berlin elevated railroad this afternoon.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 23.—The epidemic of cholera is still raging. For the preceding twenty-four hours 176 deaths are reported in the city, and four provinces report 281 deaths from the dread disease in the same time.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 28.—Cholera still raging. Mortuary trains which run to the cemetary twice daily conveying an average of 150 bodies for burial. In the cemetary chapel were the coffins of 130 victims and 70 more stacked on the outside, while in a shed awaiting burial were 150 more.

Wrangle, Alaska, Sept. 23.—The bark, Star of Bengal, was driven by a gale on Sunday on the rocks of Coronation Island and completely wrecked; 110 of those on board lost their lives.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 29.—Accidents in coal mines of the United States during the last calendar year resulted in the death of 3,125 men. These figures do not represent the full extent of the disasters, as reports were not received from certain states having no mine inspectors.

Bombay, Sept. 29.—Thousands have been drowned, towns wiped out, an area many miles in extent turned into an inland sea and the bodies of flood victims found lodged in the branches of trees and lining the banks of the terribly swollen streams as the result of a flood that is now ravaging the Deccan region. Advices from Hairdarabad say the situation is the most serious known for many years. The inundated region is one of the most densely populated in all India and the deluge came with such suddenness that it was impossible for thousands to reach points of safety. The Musi and other rivers rose 75 feet in a short time and carried unprecedented destruction throughout the entire region. The frail houses, common in this region, were swept away like chips and whole towns were practically obliterated in the mad rush of the waters.

And this while idolaters in some parts of the world are praying to a myth God to make it rain for them. All this destruction of our fellow beings is positive evidence that the Gods of all people of earth are pure creations of fiction. The believers in each of the great religious mythologies will lay the calamities of the others to their wickedness in not worshiping their God by their methods while they rack their brains in finding excuses and apologies for their own calamities. Every idolater can think of many reasons why his God brings on or allows this slaughter of the people. But of all the hundreds of reasons proclaimed in all past ages why God allowed these calamities not one was correct. It remained for the Church of Humanity to find and proclaim the true reason, and that is that Gods are creations of fiction like Santa Claus, and know no more about our existence than he does. The truth having at last been found it remains only to be taught to all the people persistently until they learn it to overthrow all religious mythologies of earth. The object of the people uniting in the Church of Humanity as fast as they learn these discovered truths is to enable them to aid effectively in their teaching. It may be claimed by some that the people can all read these calamities and understand their meaning without the aid of teachers. They can read them, but owing to their false religious reasoning they cannot understand their true relation to the God idea without the aid of teachers who do. Nearly our entire race looked at the shadow of the earth on the moon from its beginning, but failed to recognize it. But in the course of time they evolved erroneous religious reasons for it. When at last a few discovered the true reason it was ages before the masses of the people could be taught it owing to their conflicting religious ideas and to the lack of adequate methods on the part of those who knew. The same can be said of the eclipse of the sun and many natural phenomena visible to all people. No, the masses of the people will never recognize the fact that this destruction of themselves is proof that their worshiped Gods are creations of fiction until that truth is forced on them by continuous teaching by competent teachers provided by our church in every neighborhood. Take the case of that little girl carried off by the eagle. That is as good proof that God and Christ and guardian angels are myths as that the shadow of the earth on the moon proves it to be spherical. But like in that case, people can see this proof continually and not recognize it until they are taught its meaning in relation to their idolatry. That case and God could not exist in the same universe. One or the other is fabulous. Which is it? Do you believe this account about the eagle taking that little girl? If you do then don't believe the story about there being a real God, for both cannot be true. I want 1,000 good people to join our church and go out as instructors to tell the children everywhere the story of this little girl and the eagle, and how it proves that there is no God nor Christ nor guardian angels in the universe, and that they are only myths like Santa Claus, and should not be worshipped nor believed in as realities. What would you think of a father who would stand idly by watching an eagle carry off his child and pick its eyes out and tear it to pieces while it was pleading to him for protection which he could instantly give if he wished to? Wouldn't he be a wicked criminal? Well, I guess yes, so do you. Now, if God and Jesus Christ were real beings it would require one million recording angels who were expert stenographers working day and night to record their crimes in this little world alone. In the light of this evidence, that proves clearly that God is a creation of fiction, I beg of you, Prof. Shirk, to cease teaching my children the superstition that he is a real being. Cease teaching them the idolatry of worshiping him in prayer and of asking favors of him. Can't you see that no God could exist who knew of the existence of my children and not know of the existence of that little child? Can't you see that no God knew of its existence? To know of its existence and peril with power to aid it and not do it would make a God infinitely wicked and criminal. How could a God care more for my children than for that child? Can't you see none cared for it? That is not evidence that God is cruel and wicked, but that he is non-existent, fabulous, mythical. Teach my children these truths about God in the public schools if you know them, if not, please refrain from teaching them untruths.

The Truth About God

Published monthly by the Church of Humanity

Teaches the Scientific Discovery that God, Satan and Holy Ghost are Fabulous Beings; that Heaven and Hell are Myths and that Death is the Permanent Cessation of Life.

Entered at Great Bend Kan. postoffice as second class mail matter.

Subscriptions 25 cents a year. In bundles to Sunday Schools, Church organizations and church members for free distribution, 25 cents per 100 copies.

Remit by postoffice money order, coin or currency. Address all communications and orders to W. H. Kerr, 2210 Broadway, Great Bend, Kansas.

THE PUSH COLUMN.

Begin work for the Church of Humanity after election and keep going no matter who is elected.

Send for 100 copies of this issue for your neighbors to read. I can talk to them an hour by this method for 25 cents and break the news to them in their homes of our great discoveries in nature.

Suscribers who have not joined the Church of Humanity should do so at once if they believe its teaching true, and how can you read the evidence of thousands of witnesses for it monthly and not believe it?

Comrades, have your children enrolled in our juvenile classes so I can give them special lessons suitable for their age in our church paper.

A LETTER OF PROTEST.

Great Bend, Kan., Sept. 30, 1908. —Prof. Shirk, Superintendent City Schools—Dear Sir: My children attending school in the west ward report that their teachers have religious exercises in school consisting of Bible reading and repeating the "Lord's prayer," and that it is at your request. I write to ask you to please have such exercises discontinued, as I have discovered that God is a creation of fiction and death the end of conscious life forever. In the light of these discoveries such exercises promulgate errors and inculcate superstition and idolatry. Such teaching is extremely objectionable to me. I help to build and maintain schools and send my children to them to be taught truths, not untruths. As you have not learned the truth about God and life and are therefore unable to teach it in the schools I respectfully request that you do not have untruths about those subjects taught. I try to teach my discoveries to my children at home, but the continued, persistent teaching of errors at school tend to greatly counteract it. Our public schools should teach the truths of nature as they are discovered to be from time to time, and thus help to civilize and enlighten the people instead of being used as a means of perpetuating the errors, superstition and idolatry of our ancestors. The school laws and regulations do not require this religious teaching in the schools, and it is an arbitrary requirement of yours that does me an irreparable harm and injustice through teaching my children superstition and idolatry which I do not want them to believe or practice, and which I am devoting my time and money to prevent. I realize that you do not comprehend the enormity of the outrage you are perpetrating on me through lack of knowledge of the truth about God and life as I have discovered it to be. I shall therefore take pleasure in assisting you to learn it, if you will accept of my services, and the free use of my library is placed at your service for that purpose. But as it requires a great many years for people to learn these truths, and some never could, I cannot suspend my request for the cessation of religious teaching in the schools until you learn the truths I have. Were I the only person in the world who knew these truths my request of you should be respected and complied with, but I am happy to inform you that many intelligent, honorable men and women of the leading occupations and professions have now learned these facts and many more are learning them. Those who have learned them are uniting in a national organized, incorporated society, named "The Church of Humanity," for the promulgation of these two discoveries regarding God and life. I enclose some of its literature. Hoping for an early, favorable reply, I am yours respectfully, W.H. Kerr,

President of the Church of Humanity and editor of its official organ.

REPLY.

City Schools, D. F. Shirk, Superintendent, Great Bend, Kan., 10-2-1908. W. H. Kerr, City—My Dear Sir: Your kind favor of the 30th ult. at hand. In reply permit me to say that I respect every man's convictions and honor the man who thinks for himself. At the same time, I realize that thinking men like yourself honor other men who think and follow their convictions. As superintendent of schools it behooves me to have a definite policy, and to follow that impartially and unwaveringly. I teach history and gems of thought and find none better than those in the Bible. Psychologically, worship is wholesome, so I can not object to that. To me personally it is more than that. However, I am glad to recognize truth wherever I find it, so I enclose you 25 cents for a year's subscription to your paper and promise to read it. Hoping that you will understand my position and with kind regards, I am very respectfully.

D. F. Shirk, Supt.

REJOINDER.

Great Bend, Kan., Oct. 4, 1908. Prof. D. F. Shirk, Superintendent City Schools—Dear Sir: Yours of the 2d received. Accept thanks for the subscription for our church paper, and for your promise to read it, and that you are willing to accept truth wherever found. That is a more commendable disposition than many believers in errors have. There is hope for people with that disposition learning the truth in time if they have the evidence presented to them in such a way they can understand it. The only reason you have not learned the truth we have regarding God and life is that the evidence has been presented properly for your consideration. Our little church paper is devoted mostly to organization, and hence can give but very little space to presenting the proof of our discoveries. But as I am very anxious for you to learn them sooner than you could by reading our paper alone, that you may have religious exercises discontinued in the schools, I have ordered for you of the publishers "The Bible" by Remsburg and Ernst Haeckel's "Wonders of Life" and "The Riddle of the Universe" as supplement studies tending to prove our discoveries, although the authors themselves have not definitely made them. You are mistaken in your statement that "phychologically worship is wholesome," and I think you will admit it where objects and myths you do not believe to be real Gods are worshiped. You doubtless would prohibit any one teaching your children to worship Santa Claus. We who have discovered that God and Jesus Christ are nothing but creations of fiction like Santa Claus object to our children being taught to worship them as seriously as you would to yours being taught to worship anything you know to be a myth. You did not pass an examination in the knowledge of God nor the meaning of death and are not required to have anything taught about those subjects in the schools. I am certainly as much entitled to have my wishes respected as any other patron of the schools. To be strictly unpartial to your patrons you should not teach anything about subjects not required on which they are not agreed. Feeling is more intense on religious subjects than on political subjects, yet you will not require the teachers to impress your political opinions on the schools because the patrons are not all of the same opinion. Then why should you impose your religious views on them when not required, and there is the most serious objection on the part of patrons? Had you learned the discoveries I have, and required the teachers to teach them, every patron who did not believe them would have called on you with an imperative demand to cease it or resign. And yet they could all better afford to allow you to teach their children the truths of nature than I can afford to allow you to teach mine untruths of nature. Why should I not object as firmly to teaching my children errors as they do to teaching theirs truths? Why should I not defend truth with as much vigor as they defend error? Can truth ever win in the contest with error unless it is defended as manfully by its votaries as error? I mail you a bundle of back numbers of our paper to peruse at your leisure, and hope you will study the books when they come and try to learn the two new discoveries in nature that no immaterial intelligent beings exist in the universe and that conscious life ceases forever at death. Hoping you will soon recognize your duty to treat all your patrons impartially by having no religious exercises in the schools, I remain, yours respectfully, W. H. Kerr.

P. S.—I shall be more than glad to loan you the use of any or all of my books that will aid you in learning the discoveries I have. I offered our public library committee $100 worth of books on modern Biblical criticism and natural science for our city library, but they were so afraid people would learn the truth about God and life that they turned it down.

BRYAN'S PROOF OF IMMORTALITY.

Idolaters point with pride to great men who indorse their superstition as evidences of its truth. But men who are great in one line of thought and action may be very unreliable in others to which they have given little or no thought. I heard Mr. Bryan say he joined the church when fourteen years old, but that he did not understand theology nor had he time to study it. But in his famous lecture, "The Prince of Peace," he uses the same erroneous evidence to prove immortality the theologians do. The part he devotes to the proof of immortality is so full of mistakes that I reproduce it in full in order to point them out. Some are mistakes of facts while others are mistakes of his reason. I shall number his mistakes and my corrections to correspond and then point out his pernicious moralizing. His so-called proof of immortality is as follows:

And immortality! Who will estimate the peace which a belief in a future life has brought to the sorrowing? You may talk to the young about death ending all, for life is full, and hope is strong, but preach not this doctrine to the mother who stands by the death-bed of her babe or to one who is within the shadow of a great affliction.

(1) Christ gave us proof of immortality, and yet it would hardly seem necessary that one should rise from the dead to convince us that the grave is not the end. (2) To every created thing God has given a tongue that proclaims a resurrection.

(3) If the Father deigns to touch with divine power the cold and pulseless heart of the buried acorn and to make it burst forth from its prison walls, will he leave neglected in the earth the soul of man, made in the image of his Creator? (4) If he stoops to give to the rosebush whose withered blossoms float upon the autumn breeze the sweet assurance of another springtime, will he refuse the words of hope to the sons of men when the frosts of winter come? (5) If matter mute and inanimate, though changed by the forces of nature into a multitude of forms, can never die, will (6) the spirit of man suffer annihilation when it has paid a brief visit like a royal guest to this tenement of clay? (7) No; I am as sure that there is another life as I am that I live today.

In Cairo I secured a few grains of wheat that had slumbered for more than three thousand years in an Egyptian tomb. As I looked at them this thought came into my mind: If one of those grains had been planted on the banks of the Nile the year after it grew and all its lineal descendants planted and replanted from that time until now, its progeny would today be sufficiently numerous to feed the teeming millions of the world. (8) If this invisible germ of life in the grain of wheat can thus pass unimpaired through three thousand resurrections, I shall not doubt that my soul has power to clothe itself with a body suited to its new existence when this earthly frame has crumbled into dust.

A belief in immortality not only consoles the individual, but it exerts a powerful influence in bringing peace between individuals. If one really thinks that man dies as the brute dies, he may yield to the temptation to do injustice to his neighbor when the circumstances are such as to promise security from detection. But if one really expects to meet again and live eternally with those whom he knows today he is restrained from evil deeds by the fear of endless remorse.

1. This is a mistake of fact. He here accepts a fable for truth with the innocent simplicity that a child accepts its mother's story about the stork bringing its little brother. For a man of Mr. Bryan's general intelligence and attainments to believe a dead man came to life again and fell into the sky as if the force of gravity had been reversed shows that the backbone of superstition and idolatry has not been cracked yet. He here tries to prove an impossibility by citing a fable about another impossibility as proof, just as the child would prove that its second brother would be brought by a stork by citing the case of the first.

2. Another mistake of fact. No God exists to create things. But the science of evolution explains how things originate and develop. He evidently does not believe that well established science to be true. I have never seen nor heard the tongue of any vegetable or animal except
